Who's Who In The Senior Class

Seniors being very dignified and important deserve special individual recognition therefore, it is the intention of the Warwhoop staff to present this to them. Our method will be a descriptive sketch of each one, giving a short story of his years in Haskell High School. From his time the articles have been very brief and in one month but we wish to present this last time two stories per week, so as to give them all the credit that they are due. Show the editors of the class should appear first. May you present a story...

PAUL ARNOLD KUENSTLER
Perhaps the most popular boy in our class is Paul Kuensler the president. Before his election the Seniors participated in a very unusual contest—a committee with "Pie" Paul for a President. President is a slogan and a cheerful picture of him, his campaign managers were proud and honored when he won the election by a great majority. Paul is now besides the office we have already mentioned, on the first team in football, his position being end. He is an Eagle Scout, an honorific. Corby Barber, and a talented person in making small trinkets, such as football pens.

Wanda Eloise Dulaney

One of our best-loved and most popular seniors is Wanda Dulaney. She has an ever-ready wit and a sparkling sense of humor which makes everyone like to know her. In this first opportunity she will be able to add to just a few lines in her own personal file. She is a devotee of poetry, joy in music and can play either piano and both are very good. Besides being just an all-around good fellow, Wanda has had many curves in her school life.

Future Home Makers Club Has Meeting

The Future Home Makers Club met October 16, 1939 in the science room. The meeting was called to order by the president. A program committee was appointed as follows: Chairman, Margaret McClintock, Eloise Johnson, Bernice Ratliff and Betty Jo Heister.

Envy

Envy is one of the worst enemies one can have. It causes hard feelings and soon leads to hate. When one's friend has better fortune than he does, he is envious of him. Why should he be jealous? He should be glad that his friend is succeeding even though he is not.

Patches

Well—I went to the carnival, instead of taking it in, I'm afraid I was slightly disappointed. I took the Winnie-the-pooh kingdon for a place to sit down that isn't turning round and round. Wednesday October 19, I was in my class when I was to give a speech. I couldn't imagine what we were to do. I was a little nervous. I was a little nervous. I was a little nervous.

Seniors

The Seniors think we have the prettiest class queen and are ready to back her at the carnival. We should like to have everyone who will vote for Rena Tankersley, our senior queen, next Tuesday night. Each vote costs a penny, so sign with your pocket full.

Invitation To Happiness

The "Judges" are seriously debating the fact as to whether Fred and Eulis dropped Annette out of that drum last Friday night accidentally on purpose. The case has strong points both ways.

Brainless Babblin's

Sad But True—Margaret McClintock: "You know if I were to stop coming to school, I don't know what the teachers would do. Everybody knows all of this work but me."

Stranger

Well, hello Jane. How are you? Jane Holt: (studying); It seems to me that I haven't seen you somewhere before.

Who's Who In The Senior Class

HERMAN JOSSELET
Herman went to school at Pleasant Valley until his fourth year. Then he started to Weinert and has been going here ever since. His favorite subject is history in which he excels. His favorite novelist is Hugo and his favorite poet, Whittier. He went to district twice in speech.

Mattson Home Demonstration Club Meets On Thursday

"The kitchen and kitchen fixtures are the most important things in the home," stated Miss Mildred Vaughan at the Mattson H. D. Club on Thursday, Oct. 12, 1939.

"Each fixture should be placed in the most convenient place" continued Miss Vaughan. There are six important fixtures that a woman needs in her kitchen: the sink, ice box, kitchen table, chair, service table or a tea cart and the most important of all, the cabinet. Miss Vaughan also explained the position best suited to each fixture.

The members present discussed the booth for the fair and what each member should enter.

A fifteen minute recreation was enjoyed by: Mmes. Otis Matthews, Bud Derr, Thea Free, Jim Stafford, Glendon Newton, Stan Bledsoe, T. M. McCarty, John Mayfield, Floyd McGuire, Curtis Thornton, Speck Sorenson, L. A. Stratton, Edward Newton, Miss Vaughan and one visitor, Mrs. Henry Turner.

Mrs. R. P. Barnard Is Hostess For O'Brien H. D. Club Meeting

"What Big Piece of Equipment I Plan To Add Next Year to My Kitchen" was the topic of discussion when the O'Brien Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday October 11, 1939 in the home of Mrs. R. P. Barnard.

As each of the ten members present told of her plans for improving her kitchen this coming year, enthusiasm spread contagiously. One member expressed the sentiment of each present when she said, "We spend most of our time in the kitchen so why not make it as cheerful as possible."

During the business session conducted by the president, Mrs. W. B. West, further plans were made for the fair booth, a financial report was given and a suggestion was made to set a time for meeting and dismissing, which is to be decided at the next meeting to be held October 25th in the home of Mrs. Fred Waldrip.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames W. B. West, Leland LaDuke, Charlie Reid, C. B. Banner, Charlie Banner, C. M. Walsworth, Terry Roberson, Jim Hawkins, Dick Johnston, E. C. Westerman, R. P. Barnard and Miss Ellen Richards of Santa Anna.

Blessings Under Democracy

It is well for our people to remember that under the benefits of our Democracy the cause of labor is represented by various organizations, in laws for the protection of labor,—organized and unorganized, enacted by the Congress of the United States and by the Legislatures of the States, and by a department whose leader is a member of the President's Cabinet and by labor departments in the various states of the Union. But back of the organizations, behind the laws and secretaries and commissioners of labor, stand the man and woman of Labor's increasing ranks.

Since men first undertook to break the bonds of slavery, under every country on the globe and in every state in the Union, it has been fully demonstrated that when the toilers by hand and by brain stand united, unselfishly and courageously strive together—and do not sit down—they conquer, they triumph, they succeed. Labor, wisely led by stern men and patriots, is invincible. No more can labor be divided against itself survive then can a house divided against itself stand the driving storm.

In 1932 an overwhelming majority of our population demonstrated by their votes that they were discontented with conditions under the administration of the Republican Party. Labor expressed itself at the polls then and again expressed the same sentiment four years later. The people wanted security of livelihood—a chance to work. The unemployed wanted jobs or unemployment insurance. Those employed wanted adequate wages and security in their jobs. The Farmers wanted protection from exploitation. They wanted security of land, of homes and means of livelihood. They wanted at least cost of production for their crops and a decent standard of living for themselves and families. The small industry and merchant asked safeguards against destructive competition of billion dollar corporations and the oppressed minority asked for a chance in this democracy.

American producers, industrialists, clerical and professional, farmers and farm workers and labor the nation around are keenly interested in the politics and actions of the U. S. Congress, of the Legislature and of Labor departments. As President Roosevelt recently declared: "Special unrest and a deepening sense of unfairness are dangers to our national life."

Worth An Anniversary

This year, in various parts of the country and in various manners, the 300th anniversary of the printing industry is being celebrated. Like other events of the sort, it will give rise among a certain group to the usual criticism that anniversaries and special celebrations are a waste of time and a weariness of the flesh.

There is one important point that these nay-sayers miss in occasions like the present anniversary of printing. It is the fact that these occasions offer an excellent opportunity to remind ourselves of humanity's record of constructive accomplishment. Here, in this country at this particular time, we ought to pay particular attention to these matters, in which the United States stands pre-eminent.

Let's look at the printing industry in America for a moment. Its record, typical of so many American industries large and small which have opened up new jobs, new payrolls and lower cost products through increased use of machinery, is worthy of celebration.

Back in 1880, before the extensive use of modern machinery in the industry there were 58,506 employees in printing, according to the census. In 1886 the linotype machine was invented. It was followed by a number of other improvements which cut the costs of printing and permitted its wider use, and as a result it is estimated that today there are more than 450,000 employees in the industry, with a payroll of more than three-quarters of a billion dollars.

That record of jobs, payrolls and more enjoyable living for Americans strikes us as being worth an anniversary celebration any time!

Peace, Not War

When the stern tests of logic are applied to it, war is quickly stripped of even the few virtues it is sometimes supposed to possess. It has occasionally been thought, for instance, that war stimulates invention and research. But a rapid glance at the records shows that this is far from being the case.

In 1916, the United States Patent Office received 71,033 applications for patents. In 1917, the first year of the war, applications dropped to 70,373, and in 1918, to 59,615. Immediately after the war there was a spurt in science and invention and the Patent Office received 80,400 applications.

A period of rapid expansion in research and invention was interrupted by the Spanish-American War, and patent applications fell from about 48 thousand in 1897 to less than 36 thousand in 1898. There was a similar decline in the emergence of new ideas during the Civil War. Applications for patents on the brainchildren of inventors and research workers dropped from 7,653 in 1860 to 4,643 in 1861, and it was not until peace was declared that patent applications rose to pre-war heights.

The same story is told by the records of the British patent office. In 1913, the year Great Britain declared war, that office received 30,077 applications for patents. By 1917, the number had declined to 19,285.

And so the arguments why industry wants peace continue to pile up. Industry wants peace so that it can continue its constructive research and progress towards a higher standard of living. That is increasingly evident the more logic is applied to the case.

DON'T GIVE A COLD AN EVEN BREAK!

DURING the common cold months, or winter season, it is especially important to take every precaution to protect your health. Quick changes of temperature should be avoided. Sudden changes of temperature, such as occur when going from a warm room into a cold one, make it easy for you to "catch cold." Don't give a common cold an even break.

Prevention is the best remedy. However, if you should catch cold, consult your family doctor before it has an opportunity to undermine your health.

For your health's sake, and to obtain the greatest value from the fuel you use, heat your entire house and provide adequate ventilation during the short winter season.
