Survey of California Creek Watershed Shows Variety of Soil Types In Area

A recent survey of the California Creek Watershed area shows that there are more than twenty different soil types in this area according to L. F. Lawton, Soils Technologist for the Water Facilities Project.

An individual farm may have as many as five or six different types of soil. These differences are very apparent to the farmer who works the land. He knows that one place is sandy and another tight. He knows that water stands in certain flat places and runs off rapidly, often washing gullies, in steeper land. Most important of all, the farmer knows that one soil type makes better crops than another.

In order to carry on successfully farm operations, it is necessary to make use of this knowledge. A plan must be developed whereby each soil type can be used to the best advantage and still be economically maintained for future use. The most simple basis for such a plan is a map of the farm, showing the different soil types, the slope of the land, and the condi-

Cagers Have Losing Week

The Indian cagers lost their second conference game out of three starts when the Point Creek Pirates played the Indians for a 34 to 22 victory last Friday night. The Indians were led by two of last year's best players, Jack Landis and Willie Lee Medford who played great games in the forward position. The Indians are showing some fine improvement and have hopes of playing the Pirates to a squeaking when they meet again.

The Pirates stand tied with Weimert for top position, while Mattson and Haskell stand tied and trailing the leaders by a game, as the Edge half of the county enters into the second round of their round-robin schedule for the East half championship. The Indians have a fine chance if they can win the remaining three games to tie for the title. Here's luck Indians, when they meet the Weimert Bulldogs Friday.

In a game at Rule last week, the Rule Bobcats, playing with great deception and excellent team work, pulled down a 34 to 8 victory over the helpless Indians. Almost as certain as the Bobcats crossed the center stripe they scored a goal. They shot goals from all angles and have what it takes to make champions.

Mid-Term Exams To Be Held

What A time Everybody cramming and no time or pleasure! This is the most hectic time for the pupils this year.

Everybody is hoping that he will be exempt on everything, or at least one subject and everybody looks up enviously as the most fortunate ones enter the study hall. They always have a broad smile on their face and twinkle in their eyes so it must be worth all the time and energy they put forth in studying for eighteen weeks to have the privilege of knowing that they will not have to take mid-term exams.

The Spotlight

What's this? Fay and Geneva going together again.
 Joannah is having admirers everywhere, even some she doesn't know about. (For instance from Monday.)

What's that about Elsie going with her old flame from Goree again??
 Seems like Huland just couldn't get rid of Wanna Jean Saturday night.

Is it true that Carl and Vernon like raw cabbage?
 How about Cis going with Pauline McGeth. (Huh?)

Who was the boy that asked Wanda for a date Saturday night? (I heard she turned him down).

To enjoy work, a woman must feel well. Cardui aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more energy from their food—and so increases resistance to the strain of functional periodic pain. Try it!

Haskell County Farmers Progress Toward More Diversified Program During 1938

Annual Report of County Agent Indicated Noticeable Progress In Diversification

The annual report of County Agent G. R. Schumann for the past year indicated a favorable approach toward a balanced program of diversification and soil and water conservation on Haskell county farms, with appreciable progress noted on a well-planned program which has been directed through the efforts of Mr. Schumann and his assistants in recent months.

Cotton improvement has also been stressed, with a number of producers joining in the movement which will ultimately solve the problem of a lessened world market for Texas cotton through the production of an improved staple. A narrative sketch of the work carried out in Haskell county during the past year is contained in the following excerpts from Mr. Schumann's annual report:

Condition of Agriculture

Haskell county has been for a number of years one of the major cotton producing counties in Texas; having normally devoted from 150,000 to 170,000 acres to cotton before the enactment of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933. During the past five years, Haskell County has also developed into a major wheat producing county, there being some 55,000 to 60,000 acres planted to wheat in the years 1937 and 1938. Other crops such as grain sorghums, oats, barley, cane and sudan also are of major importance in the county's cropping system.

Haskell county has certain well defined farming areas and several different soil types. One area of the county grows cotton chiefly; another part of the county grows cotton and wheat and another area is best adapted to wheat production.

Haskell county is well adapted to a diversified system of farming; however this type of farming is not followed in all parts of the county. This is especially true in the part of the county growing cotton only. In this area, more livestock of all kinds are needed to supplement the farm income and to utilize feed crops which produce abundantly.

In the other areas of the county, more livestock are generally found on farms and the living conditions in these areas are somewhat better. However, even in these areas more livestock is needed on the farms to take care of the food produced on the land retired from cotton farmers planted 4800 acres of improved cotton in this project. During the year, two other community projects were organized, one at Rule and one at Rochester. These were organized too late for the 1938 crop, but will be in operation in 1939. Over 10,000 acres of cotton will be planted to improved seed in these communities.

Insect and disease control played an important part in the year's work. Over 672,000 pounds of poison bait was mixed and distributed to Haskell County farmers resulting in a saving of over $300,000.00 in crops and pastures. Assistance was also given in the control of other cotton insects such as leaf worms, boll worms and boll weevils.

The AAA Programs required considerable attention during the year. All farmers participated in these programs. Over 2500 work sheets were filed in the year 1938 covering 325,000 acres of cropland; 275 farmers filed applications for wheat insurance, and 70 ranchmen filed applications for wheat insurance, and 79 ranchmen participated in the Range Conservation program. The County Agent assisted in the administration of these programs, and held a number of meetings to inform farmers and committee members concerning various phases of the program.

Upon arrival in Haskell County during the month of April, 1938, to take over the duties of County Agricultural Agent, the present County Agricultural Agent found no organized 4-H Clubs in existence. During the next few months of the year, the major portion of the County Agent's time was given over to the administration of the various AAA programs. However, in the fall of 1938, an active 4-H Club campaign was conducted in the county.

This campaign was started by having a county wide meeting which was attended by leaders from various communities in the county. J. A. Scofield, District Extension Agent, and J. W. Potts, Assistant State 4-H Club Leader, assisted by the County Agricultural Agent, in holding this meeting. At this meeting the value of 4-H Club work was discussed. Following this meeting, these community leaders called community meetings at which eligible 4-H Club members, their parents, and the County Agent attended. Here 4-H Club work was again discussed. This work was enthusiastically received by those in attendance. These meetings resulted in the organization of seven 4-H Clubs located in the following communities: Plainview, Irby, Matson, O'Brien, New Cook, Rochester Grammar School, and Rochester High School. Over 125 Haskell County boys have become members of the above 4-H Clubs. Added emphasis will be placed on this work in 1939.

Soil and Water Conservation
Soil and water conservation is the main need of Haskell County, and for this reason a large portion of the County Agricultural Agent's time was devoted to conducting demonstrations in soil and water conservation during the year of 1938.

Several different soil types exist in Haskell County. A large portion of the county has what is locally called a "tight" soil. During years of excessive rains, this soil will produce excellent crops. However, in dry years, crops on this land fail. In this area water conservation is very important. In another area of the county, the land is sandy; water conservation is important in this area, but not as important as in the "tight" land area. Here soil conservation is important because this land has a tendency to blow.

In carrying on soil and water conservation work in Haskell county during the year, records show that terrace lines were run on 60 farms through the County Agricultural Agent's office with 7455 acres of land being terraced. In addition to this, contour lines were run on 50 farms with 4003 acres being placed on the contour. And 300 acres of pasture land was contour furrowed in 1938. The value of this work has been estimated at over $50,000. This record does not take in consideration the work that was done in Haskell County by individuals, Vocational Agriculture teachers, and others. Strip cropping is also becoming very popular with Haskell County farmers, and AAA records show that approximately 50 per cent of all farmers in the county have adopted this practice.

The Haskell County Commissioners' Court is conscious of the importance of this work, and they are giving their County Agent their fullest cooperation in this work. Terracing rigs have been provided and are available to farmers at nominal costs for use in terracing land. The Haskell County Commissioners' Court has also provided a man to assist the County Agent in running terrace and contour lines. In this way farmers have been able to get their land terraced and contoured when otherwise it would have been impossible.

The National Youth Administration has also assisted in this movement by providing boys who have also assisted the County Agent in this work. A tour of Haskell County shows that farmers are conscious of the importance of this work because over 50 per cent of the farmers in the county have adopted some soil and water conservation practices.

Trench Silo Demonstration
E. R. Eudaly, Extension Dairy Specialist, gave the County Agricultural Agent valuable assistance in bringing to the farmers and organization of the community has been completed with over 60 farmers as members. One carload of pedigreed seed has been shipped in this area and has been distributed to farmers in the community. It is estimated that over 10,000 acres of cotton will be planted to the approved variety in this community in 1939.

At Rochester, two meetings have been held at which "one variety" cotton communities have been discussed. Farmers in this area have approved the project and have appointed a committee to select the variety of cotton for the community. Formal organization of the community is now in progress.

Valuable assistance in the organization of these communities has been given to the County Agricultural Agent by B. A. Miller, Extension Agronomist and F. B. Lichte, Extension Club Specialist.

With the organization of three "one variety" cotton communities, Haskell County should go a long way toward the improvement of the quality of cotton grown in this area in 1939.

4-H Club Work

Upon arrival in Haskell County during the month of April, 1938, to take over the duties of County Agricultural Agent, the present County Agricultural Agent found no organized 4-H Clubs in existence. During the next few months of the year, the major portion of the County Agent's time was given over to the administration of the various AAA programs. Trench Silo Demonstration
E. R. Eudaly, Extension Dairy Specialist, gave the County Agricultural Agent valuable assistance in bringing to the farmers and ranchmen of Haskell County the importance of storing feed in trench silos. Newspapers and circular letters were also utilized in bringing information on this subject to farmers.

The publicity campaign was climaxed with the filling of a trench silo on the Fair grounds at Haskell. This demonstration was attended by 90 farmers and farm boys. Here a two and one-half ton silo was filled with red top cane. Later in the year during the progress of the District Fair, this silo was opened for the public inspection.

As a result of this campaign and the various other demonstrations 25 Haskell County farmers and ranchmen constructed a trench silo and have stored over 3,000 tons of feed in trench silos. The need for more trench silos in the county is very urgent—each farm and ranch in Haskell County should have a trench silo, and continued effort will be made until this goal is reached.

Insect Control Demonstrations

The year 1938 saw one of the most serious infestations of grasshoppers known to Haskell County. In previous years, the grasshopper infestation was limited to certain areas of the county; and hoppers were present in larger numbers than ever before.

Surveys made by R. R. Reppert and his assistants, and by the County Agricultural Agent, during the previous fall and winter revealed the seriousness of the coming grasshopper threat. As a result of this survey, everything was in shape to put on a strong campaign when the hoppers made their appearance. A County Grasshopper Committee assisted by community leaders was ready to function. A poison mixing station was ready with a supply of poison on hand when the hoppers first made their appearance.

Farmers immediately started their poisoning operations, and in this way the infestation was controlled. Over 336 tons of wet bait was mixed at the mixing station in Haskell, and this poison was distributed to over 1,000 farmers and ranchmen. This bait was spread over 12,500 acres of cropland and 30,000 acres of pasture land. A total of 5,000 acres of wheat, 40,000 acres of cotton and 8,000 acres of other field crops were protected; in addition to 30,000 acres of pasture land.

The damage to crops and pastures in Haskell County from grasshoppers amounted to $126,190 and the saving from the poison operations amounted to $310,800.00. In carrying on this grasshopper control campaign, the Federal Government supplied 112 1-2 tons of bran and 2450 gallons of sodium arsenite. Haskell county farmers supplied 112 1-2 tons of cotton seed hulls, and other items such as syrup, anyl acetate, and so forth. The County Commissioners' Court furnished the mixing station and the cost of mixing. The program being supervised in the county by the County Agricultural Agent.

Two hundred and seventy five farmers in the county were assisted in controlling other insects affecting cotton. Cotton leafworms, bollworms, and boll weevils made their appearance in the county during the year. Demonstrations were conducted showing how to control these insects, and information was given to farmers on methods to follow in poisoning. In many instances, crops that appeared to be doomed were saved by applying control measures at a proper time.

County Council Report
In conducting Extension Work in Haskell County, County Agricultural Agents employed during the year being B. W. Chessler from January 1 to March 31, and G. R. Schumann from April 1 to December 31, 1938.

Some phase of Extension work was conducted in every community and on everyone of the 2500 farms in Haskell County. In conducting Extension work, 17,992 office calls and 3259 telephone calls were received by the County Agent's office concerning various phases of regular or emergency Extension work. 446 farm visits were made by the County Agent and over 12,000 miles were traveled in conducting this work. 11,536 bulletins were distributed. 2200 individual and 46 different circular letters were sent out. 90 news stories were published and 4 radio talks given.

23 training meetings for committeemen or farmers were held 1 training meeting for 4-H Club work, 90 method demonstrations

Assistance was given to the Farm Security Administration and to the Soil Conservation Service in carrying on the work of these agencies in the county. Assistance was given to the West Texas Central Fair in planning the fair and in conducting the 1938 fair. Individual exhibitors were assisted in planning their exhibits for the fair.

A county exhibit was planned and exhibit at the State Fair of Texas by the County Agent and County Home Demonstration Agent. This exhibit received widespread publicity in various newspapers.

Assistance was given to farmers and business men of Haskell County in the organization of the Brazos Valley Cooperative Cheese Plant.

2600 farmers were given assistance with various AAA problems: terrace lines were run on 7455 acres of land; contour lines were run on 4003 acres of land; 300 acres of pasture land was contour furrowed. In three communities of the county, "one variety" cotton communities were set up. Seven 4-H clubs were organized. A grasshopper control campaign was conducted in which 336 tons of wet bait were mixed and distributed to over 1000 farmers. Three farm families were enrolled to carry on Whole Farm Demonstrations.

Other farmers were assisted with livestock and crop production problems. Control of diseases and insects affecting both crops and livestock received a large portion of the Agent's time.

Mrs. L. F. Taylor Hostess To Helen Bagby Circle Monday

Monday afternoon at three o'clock the Helen Bagby Circle of the Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Taylor in one of the most interesting Bible lessons we have ever had.

Our opening song was "Jesus Paid It All" with Mrs. Reynolds at the piano and Mrs. J. B. Bailey gave the first prayer followed with the devotional by Mrs. Taylor reading a morning prayer for protection from the fifth psalm. We then had a short business session after which we had a special song, "It Is Well With My Soul" by Mesdames Gilstrap and Yancy.

Mrs. Gilstrap taught our Bible lesson from Nehemiah eighth chapter with emphasis on 6th and 18th verses. "Ezra, the priest blessed the Lord, the great God. And all the people answer amen, and they bowed their heads and worshipped the Lord with their faces to the ground. Also from the first day until the last day he read in the Book of the law of God, and they kept the feast seven days".

This lesson was a most interesting one by our efficient teacher and each one received a spiritual blessing by attending. Our crowd was so large we know these noble Christian ladies are really interested in Bible study and some walk one mile to attend. We know God is working in a great way in this circle and we hope to accomplish much during this coming year as we are united in prayer and Bible study. We were glad to welcome a new member, Mrs. Yantis. Nine teen ladies were dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Paxton.

Army Reserves Again A Part of Defense Forces

After a lapse of exactly 18 years the national defense forces of the United States again include a Regular Army Reserve. Not since June 30, 1920, has the War Department carried on its records a Regular Army reservist. The new Regular Army Reserve came into being on July 1, 1938 in accordance with an act of Congress passed on April 25, 1938.

The Regular Army Reserve of today is a revival of the "Minute Men" of the Revolutionary War. These "Minute Men" of today will provide the Regular Army with immediate reinforcements in the event of an emergency just as the "Minute Men" of 1776 furnished the Continental Army with trained reinforcements in the Revolutionary War.

Within four years it is expected that the Regular Army Reserve will count 75,000 men — all trained — as its ranks are open only to former soldiers of the Regular Army who are under 38 years of age at time of enlistment in the Reserve and whose services in the Regular Army have been honest and faithful and terminated by honorable discharge after at least one year's continuous service.

The newly formed Regular Army Reserve is expected to prove popular with men who leave the active ranks of the Regular Army to return to civil life but who desire to continue their connection with the Army. Obviously, such a Reserve force of trained men constitutes a notable bulwark for the defense of the Nation.

Unlike the 1920 reservist, who received no pay, the Regular Army reservist of today is paid a monthly enlistment allowance of two dollars a month payable at four-month intervals. In return for this allowance the reservist had only to keep the War Department informed of his address.

The civil pursuits of the reservist are in no way interfered with as he is required to undergo no further training and only in the event of an emergency declared by the President of the United States is he subject to call to active duty. But in the event of such call the reservist stands to gain.

The Congressional Act creating the Regular Army Reserve provides that each reservist called to active duty who is found physically qualified and is accepted for such duty will receive, in addition to his two dollar monthly enlistment allowance, an additional lump sum at the rate of three dollars a month for each month he has served in the Regular Army Reserve, the total not to exceed $150.00. If accepted, the reservist immediately enters upon the full pay and allowance status of a soldier of the Regular Army.

Among reservists who reside in the Dallas Recruiting District, who have been enlisted by the local recruiting office, Major Sidney J. Cutler, are Porter L. Fanning, Rt. 6, Dallas; Fred H. Denton, RFD 3, Valley Mills; Johnny Carr, RFD 4, Fort Worth; Johnnie B. Hale, RFD 1, Mabank; Eugene B. Harred, Dike, Texas; Burl E. Rankin, Mt. Selman; Cecil S. Martin, Paris; Hubert J. Muncus, Henderson; Geo. L. Colson, RFD 1, Irving and Home Breedlove, RFD 1, Terrell.

After supper they shot fireworks and climbed banks. The ride back to the school building was very exciting, especially when passing the grave yard. ### The Designation of Your Name

When school first started your name was just a name among many others. As school continued and you settled down to a regular routine of classes, sports activities, and social activities, your name became known. When someone speaks your name it no longer has no special meaning but has become a distinctive title. Your title is closely connected with the activities you have been associated with in the past few months of school.

If you have made for yourself a good name, one regarded as representing good character, and respected by people, keep it clean and forever respectful.

A New Railroad Plan

After some two months spent in studying the railroad situation, a special committee appointed by the President has made a report suggesting legislation for the benefit of the rail carriers, most of which are in serious financial difficulties.

The committee was composed of three high railroad executives and three prominent railroad labor leaders, who agreed that government favoritism to other forms of transportation, such as airplanes, bus and truck lines, and inland waterways, had worked great injustice and injury to the railroads.

Revenue-producing ton-miles of freight carried by the railroads dropped from 447 to 290 billion between 1926 and 1938, and passenger-miles had fallen from 35 to about 22 billion during the same period. In the meantime the freight and passenger business of other forms of transportation had correspondingly increased. It is estimated that class 1 railroads will show a net deficit of $125,000,000 for 1938.

Among the numerous recommendations made by the special committee were these: Give the Interstate Commerce Commission rate-making and other powers over all forms of transportation, such as it now exercises over the railroads; create a new Transportation Board to study the relative economy of competing modes of transportation and share in their centralized control; place the supervision of financial reorganizations of railroads under a special Federal Court; revise rail taxes downward; empower the RFC to lend more money for rehabilitation of the railroads.

Legislation for railroad relief is among the most important and urgent matters before the new Congress, and it appears that the committee's report furnishes a sound basis for such legislation.

The Dies Report

The House committee investigating un-American activities, headed by Representative Martin Dies of Texas, in a unanimous report has placed upon the Department of Labor a large part of the responsibility for the subversive activities, espionage and foreign propaganda which have been going on in the United States in recent years.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and her department assistants are charged with failure to enforce the deportation laws, and the committee declared that "the laxity with which the Department of Labor deals with alien agitators would be unbelievable if we did not have before us the most convincing proof."

The report also expressed the belief that the National Labor Relations Board should be thoroughly investigated to determine "to what extent the board members and employees approve the Communistic views expressed by David J. Saposs, the board's economist."

Without mentioning him by name, the report also criticized the failure to enforce the law and orders of the courts by former Governor Murphy of Michigan during the sit-down strikes in that state. Murphy was defeated for re-election, but has just been appointed Attorney General of the United States.

While the Dies committee has been criticized in various quarters for its findings, it should be remembered that it is composed of five Democrats and two Republicans, and that all seven members signed the report. It is unreasonable to suppose that the five Democrats would thus unanimously condemn officials of their own party unless there were good grounds for such action.

Our Defense Program

One of the first bills introduced in the new Congress was one by Congressman McCormack, Democrat of Massachusetts, providing ultimately for an air force totalling 10,000 airplanes and 100,000 reserve pilots. This is a large order, but if war should really come it may not be too large. Furthermore, with such a force at our command, war would be unlikely to come.

There will be much Congressional debate and public discussion of President Roosevelt's defense program and properly so. But it can not be doubted that a very large increase in all arms of the service will be provided, especially in the Navy and air force. A large standing army may not be authorized but facilities for equipping such an army may well be considered.

A good many citizens feel that the danger of war is being exaggerated, and some even hint that the President is promoting a war scare to divert the people's attention from the continuing unemployment situation. Others think the danger is real, and that we should rush our armament program with all possible speed. Congress will probably develop a program somewhere in between the two extremes.

There is no doubt that the people of the United States want adequate protection and are willing to make sacrifices to obtain it. But they do not want an ill-advised orgy of extravagance and waste, even under the guise of national defense.

When girls of a Nebraska high school complained of chilly classrooms, the principal made the ridiculous suggestion that they wear more clothes.

The Gansanti baseball team of Hartford, Conn., which plays leading semi-pro teams in that state, consists exclusively of the nine Gansanti brothers.

In a recent street collection in Glasgow, Scotland, several I. O. U.'s were found among the coins.

Dogeyes would have appreciated this little story. The manager of a movie house in a Philadelphia suburb tried the experiment of advertising that admission to a certain show could be paid by customers on their way out if they were satisfied. Less than half a dozen failed to pay, the manager declared.

The oldest Civil War veteran in Reading, Pa., recently received congratulations on his 100th birthday, and was asked to what he attributed his long life. He replied: "I ran like blazes at the Second Battle of Bull Run; that's why I'm here today."

Conservation Practices Change Texas Farm Pattern

West and Central Texas farmers who have adopted complete and coordinated conservation farming systems on their lands have cooperated with nature by farming on the contour, substituting the gently curving lines of "streamlined" farming for the angular exactness of square fields and straight up and down bill rows. This picture made on the farm of E. B. Sikes, near Brownwood, shows how the farming landscape has been changed since the adoption of such conservation practices as contour row, strip crops and terraces. Farmers find that such practices do more than hold soil and water on the land to maintain or increase crop yields—they make operation of tillage implements easier. The farmers in this photo are harvesting a grain crop from a 100 foot strip—a strip installed to slow down rainfall runoff and hold any silt washed from the clean tilled sections devoted to open row crops.

The Oil Mill has started up and is now making cottonseed oil. This is one of the most substantial and up-to-date plants of its kind in the entire state, and a major addition to industry in this section.

F. A. Klose called on us Thursday and while here made the following statement of the result of his farming operations last year: Yield from 12 acres of maize, 600 bushels; 5 acres of corn made 200 bushels; and 53 acres of cotton made 28 bales averaging 593 pounds each. Five acres of cane and kafir corn made all the forage he needed on the farm. He has farmed in Haskell county four years and in the four years cultivated a total of 163 acres in cotton and the lint produced equalled 102 five hundred pound bales. In six years farming in Falls county, on a total of 165 acres in cotton he made lint equivalent to 68 five hundred pound bales.

Remember Pedestrians

Nearly half of the 36,800 people killed by automobile accidents in the United States last year were pedestrians, according to figures released by The Travelers Insurance Company.

In most cases, the pedestrians asked for it.

It is seldom that automobiles come up on the sidewalk and chase pedestrians. Sometimes they do, but not often.

As a rule, a pedestrian wants it and walks out where he can get it.

He'll pit his frail, watery flesh and fragile bones against a ton or two of thundering steel and glass and flaming fire.

He'll put his life in the hands of drivers of cars coming at him at 25 to 75 miles an hour—drivers, many of whom, if he knew them personally, he wouldn't trust with ten cents worth of dog meat.

He'll walk along a country road with his back to traffic (instead of facing it as he should) and leave it to the assorted morons, nit-wits, kids, drunks and a certain percentage of careful, intelligent drivers to see that they don't bump him into kingdom come.

He won't be a sissy, so instead of waiting for traffic lights in city streets he'll dart out into a mess of swift traffic and jump around among speeding cars like a fox in the middle of a pack of hounds.

He'll cross in the middle of the block. (4,640 killed this way last year.) He'll step out from behind parked cars without peeking (1,320). He'll cross busy intersections catty-cornered.

Of course, some pedestrians are children whose parents haven't taught them the danger of playing in streets, but most pedestrians who get killed or maimed by motor cars ask for it and—GET IT!

I'd say that it ought to be easy to eliminate 10,000 pedestrian deaths a year—if the pedestrians were interested.

MATTSON vs. WEINERT

Volley Ball

Well here's more news of our volleyball team. As I said before they are slowly but surely improving. My greatest regret is that they are suffering defeat at the hands of our greatest rivals before gathering enough experience to surmount them. A hot game was played here last Friday night between Matton and Weinert. Weinert was the victor in the three games played. Our girls are improving nicely.

Matton vs. Weinert
I thought after witnessing the Point Creek game that I would never see quite as an exciting spectacle again. This was an oversight for last Friday night this scene was reenacted here, with gill edges this time. The game as you know was much sought after by both sides. The first half offered many exciting minutes and came to an end with Weinert leading 10-7. We later and Edwards making the goals for Matton. The first quarter of the second half was played sort of matter-of-fact. In the last quarter things started happening so fast that an eagle would have been challenged to see all. Matton gradually pulled ahead with excellent offensive and defensive playing. Holcombe, Massie, Watson and Edwards were a running machine of precision dropping the ball into the basket for a final score of 16 to 13 in favor of Matton. This game was so tight that your truly was a nervous wreck at the finish.

Matton and Weinert Juniors
Mama here's those juniors again running against their greatest friendly enemies. A fast interesting game throughout it proved an exciting feature. During the first half Matton scored two points made by Ash. Weinert came out with 12 points. This didn't look so good for our boys. The last quarter was played with gusto, but our boys were finally defeated by a score of 16-5 in favor of Weinert.

EAVESDROPPING SUE

Hello folks. I haven't been with you for quite a while. On account of bad weather mostly. But here I am again telling you about the latest. While a few of us are wondering why Louise didn't go to Paint Creek when we played ball. Elmer C. who is the girl at Weinert? Burl is getting pretty popular around here—Raymond S. is the basketball hero among some of the girls.—Ruth, since when did you start writing letters.—Leon where were you Saturday night? Frieda's attention is coming back within the community I hear. Dolly is getting pretty popular with an ex-senior.

SENIORS AND EXES ENTERTAINED

Saturday night, January 14, Mrs. Taylor and Miss Grindstaff entertained a group of Seniors, ex-Seniors and others at their home in Haskell.

Indoor games were enjoyed by everyone and then delicious refreshments were served. Everyone reported an enjoyable time.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

Rain! Rain! Rain! We missed two days of school last week due to the heavy rain. You know when it comes a heavy rain out our way our buses just can't travel on those muddy roads.

Of course this "upset our apple cart" as far as the exam schedule was concerned. We had to continue taking mid-term exams as late as Tuesday of this week. And such exams! We sincerely hope some more credits can be added to our lists, but we doubt if we even made a half.

"The Corral" one of our local stores, has been moved from its position on the northwest corner of the campus to a position on the corner of Mr. Guess' land just north of the school building. We were worried about little Sammy Turner, our janitor baby who was very ill last week, but he is better now.

Lone Star

The rains were greatly appreciated by all in this community and farmers are busy preparing their land for the new year. A large number from this community attended the ball games at Matton Friday night.

Those on the sick list are Mrs. C. A. Taylor and Mr. M. O. Satterwhite. We hope they will soon be well and around again. Mr. C. M. Forehand is visiting his son Mr. Chas. Forehand in Graham this week.

Mrs. Claud Reid visited in Seymour Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Cypert and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cypert visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hawes Saturday night. Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Hawkins Saturday night were Mr. and Mrs. Fate Senn, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Winchester.

Mr. John Earp was in Haskell on business Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Waymon Lane and son Billie and Miss Geneva King have returned home after a few weeks visit in California. We welcome Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and family who have moved into our community.

Mr. M. M. Cobb of Rockdale were in Weinert one day last week and stopped by to visit Mr. Hawkins at the school.

This community has been saddened by the death of Mr. C. A. Taylor and extend the greatest sympathy to the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Grissom of Abilene visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Grissom Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Post of Baird visited friends and relatives in Haskell and Rule this week end.

Ancient Dwelling of Indians Rebuilt at Canyon College

The average Panhandle family in 1300 A. D. may have had smoke in its eyes, but it probably was quite proud of the architecture typical of that period—a kind of low, flat communal structure built of adobe and stone.

A restoration of the Panhandle culture ruins on Antelope creek in southwest Hutchinson county, 12 feet 6 inches long and built to scale, has been completed in the laboratory of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society museum on the West Texas State College campus at Canyon. It is the work of G. F. Sundstrom of San Antonio, who has given most of his life to such restorations. He is now with the museum here.

The model shows 27 ruins, all restored with the exception of cross sections which reveal the interior arrangements. It is based on excavations made by WPA crews, who found well preserved rooms about 20 feet square, facing east on a flat hill overlooking Antelope creek. There was scattering houses down the hill, but the model shows only the grouping at the top, where about one hundred persons lived.

The skillfully made miniature shows thatched roofs with the roof poles projecting from the covering of brush and adobe. A smoke hole, well smoked, is in the center of each roof. Entrances in that day were low—only 2 1-2 to 3 feet high, and usually placed between low storage rooms built in front of the living rooms. The entrances were closed, in cold weather by rock slabs or hide curtains.

The room floors show fire pits. In the actual ruins, seven burials were noted beneath the floors. Burials under the living rooms were common before the coming of Coronado. The construction was early arrow and fire proof, and the location doubtless furnished an advantage for the defenders.

Outside but nearby are shown refuse heaps and storage cists, the latter lined with rock.

The Indians who occupied the buildings were not unlike those living today, it is shown by the skeletons which were unearthed. They hunted the buffalo and other animals and also raised some corn and perhaps squash or other vegetables.

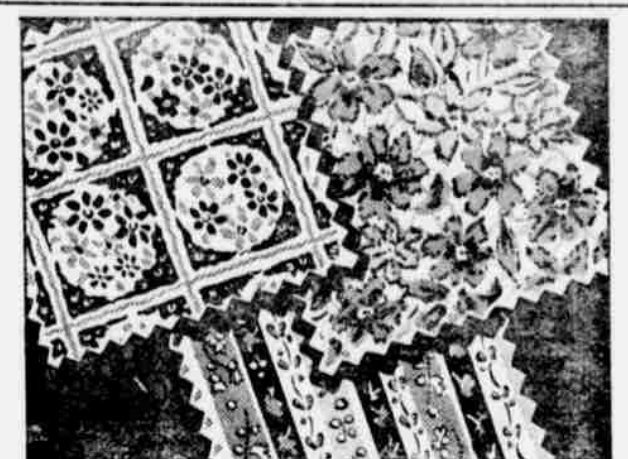

The restoration was made under the direction of C. Stuart Johnston, professor of geology and anthropology. A smaller model of the ruins was constructed for the State Fair at Dallas. Valuable assistance in the projects has been given by Floyd V. Studer, Amarillo insurance man, who for many years has been locating and studying evidences of prehistoric life on the plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Carney and Mrs. T. G. Carney of O'Brien were Haskell visitors Saturday.

Olen Dotson, Jim Isbell and Ollie Kitley made a business trip to Lubbock Sunday.

Mickey (Himself) Rooney Is A Veteran Trouper at Age of 17

Most movie fans believe Mickey Rooney had a quick rise to fame and fortune in the films. Behind his elevation to stardom in "Boys Town," "Stabmates" and the Judge Hardy family series of productions is practically 17 years of hard work! He began his career at the age of 5 months, appearing on the vaudeville stage with his parents, Joe and Nell Yule.

At ten months he was taking his first toddling steps on the stage and one month later he made his appearance at the famous Palace Theatre in New York with Don Castle, master of ceremonies. He wore his first tuxedo at the tender age of 4 years and at five years later he was featured with Colleen Moore in "Orchids and Ermine" and in the well-known cartoon strip Mickey (Himself) McGuire, making 95 short comedies in all. One of his scenes here is an impersonation of Mae West. When he was only 10 years old he was one of Hollywood's busiest actors, playing in forty films in eighteen months.

Mickey has reached stardom the hard way. His was no overnight success. During his entire 17 years he has struggled hard while most boys were having a good time. His latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture is the newest in the Judge Hardy series, "Out West With the Hardys," also starring Lewis Stone, Cecilia Parker, Fay Holden.

It's coming to the Texas Theatre for Saturday preview, Sunday and Monday, January 22-23. And once more Mickey gives a swell performance!

"CITRUS FRUITS" PROVIDE NEEDED VITAMINS IN DIET

It's Citrus Time in Texas! Kumquats, and tangerines, oranges and grapefruit are moving in baskets, and bags and boxes, in bushels and tons and truckloads, and car lot shipments. A 22,000,000 bushel Texas crop of "nuggets of gold." Their delicious odor bring happy memories to "grown-ups" of the period when the per capita allotment of citrus fruit—if crops are good and boys and girls were good—consisted of one orange deposited by Santa Claus deep in the toe of the Christmas stocking.

One orange a year! How far we've come! The goal is now one serving of citrus (or tomatoes) per day for every day of the year.

This goal is set largely because citrus is a dependable source of vitamin C. Vitamin C helps build and maintain strong bones, teeth, gums and blood vessels. It protects against scurvy, increases resistance to infectious diseases, promotes general good health, and helps defer old age. Vitamin C must be taken into the body daily because the human mechanism makes no provision for storing a reserve supply.

In addition to vitamin C citrus fruits provide acids and flavors that stimulate the appetite and aid in digestion. The bulk they contain helps prevent constipation. Their alkaline salts balance the acid effects of meat, eggs and cereals. Their calcium, phosphorus, and iron aid in cell building and maintenance. Citrus fruit sugars provide quick energy.

On one hand is a great need for citrus fruits. On the other hand are liberal supplies. With all this wholesome goodness, with a bountiful crop bringing low prices to growers of citrus fruit, many thousands of Texas families still have no oranges or grapefruit. Few have enough.

Which class do you belong to? What are you going to do about it?

tion, crop rotations of adapted crops, additions of crop residues, and adapted tillage operations.

When all or part of the practices the farm requires are applied to the land in a plan by which all practices are coordinated to supplement and increase the value of each other, the basis is laid for the best land use practices for that farm. It is the foundation from which the farming enterprise can be fully developed and efficiently operated for the long time benefit of the farmer and the land, and the well-being of future generations, Lawhon said.

Planning Now For Spring Activities Is Gardener's Job

Winter jobs for gardeners include construction of a hotbed in sections where they are needed to start plants, building plats for growing plants, checking over tools for possible repairs or replacements, and building a fence around the garden if one is necessary.

These are some of the winter jobs listed by J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, as he looked forward to 1939.

"Now is the time for getting the hotbed ready if seeds are to be planted in January," he said. He pointed out that manure heated hotbeds should be allowed to heat three or four days before planting. If the old hotbed is to be used, it should be disinfected. All of the old soil should be removed and fresh manure and soil added. Rosborough said that the electrically heated hotbed was practical and economical where current was available.

"Southern exposures are best for the location of the hotbed," the horticulturist stated. "A fence or a building on the north side makes an excellent windbreak. Above all, the hotbed should be located on a well drained spot, for water logged manure will not generate much heat."

Detailed information on hotbed construction can be obtained from county agricultural and home demonstration agents, and these also have free bulletins on the subject available for distribution.

Business Decline In State Is Under National Average

Texas business continues to fare better, economically speaking, than that of the remainder of the country, Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the Bureau of Business Research at The University of Texas, pointed out as he surveyed the outlook for Texas industry and trade at the end of 1938.

"Compared with the Nation as a whole, the business decline during the past year in this state has been mild and indications are that Texas will soon follow the upward trend of National business thus escaping most of the rigors of the depression experienced during the past year in the North and East," he said. "During 1938 manufacturing employment in Texas has been approximately 8 per cent under last year, as compared with a drop in manufacturing employment in the country as a whole of approximately 20 per cent. Texas factories show decreased pay rolls under last year of approximately 5 per cent, while factory pay rolls in the Nation have decreased approximately 27 per cent."
