

RAINFALL THIS WEEK BRIGHTENS AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK IN COUNTY

ADDITIONAL SUM IS ALLOTTED FOR HIGHWAY PROJECT

Sum of $30,000 Set Aside for Grade, Drainage Units on Highway 120

An additional allotment in the amount of $30,000 to complete grade and drainage structures on the unfinished gap of Highway 120 west from Rule to the Brazos bridge, was authorized this week by the State Highway department, according to information received by County Judge J. C. Davis, Jr., on Wednesday.

This sum will supplement an allotment of $25,000 authorized for the highway project early in June, and engineers estimate that the total sum of $55,000 will be sufficient to complete grading and drainage structures on the four-mile stretch from Rule to the Brazos river. This will leave two miles of the highway—a gap between the river and the east line of Stonewall county—as the only unfinished portion of Highway 120 in Haskell county.

Stonewall county officials have given assurance that the highway project would be pushed as rapidly as possible in that county, to provide a connection of Highway 120 with Highway 380 south of Aspermont.

Postcard Mailed In 1928 Arrives 11 Years Later

LUBBOCK—After traveling 11 years the postcard of Joyce Craven, pretty 19 year old Texas Tech coed, reached her mother recently. Miss Craven found the childishly scribbled card in her mail box as she returned home from a ten o'clock class. It said:

"Dear Mother: The sole is coming off my shoe. I have been playing in the haystack all day long. Love, Joyce."

The card had been written in June, 1928, to her mother in Lubbock while Miss Craven, then 8 years old, visited her aunt, Mrs. John Taylor at Haslet, Texas.

Must Increase Farm Income, Says Ford

WITH Edsel Ford in the driver's seat to turn the first furrow, the new and vastly-discussed Ford-Ferguson tractor made its world's first public appearance at the New York World's Fair in late July. Shown above are Henry Ford and Harry Ferguson, Irish inventor who developed the principles embodied in the new tractor and its unit implements, with a small model of the tractor between them.

Said Henry Ford: "I look for this tractor to accomplish two things—turn the farm deficit into a profit and reduce the expense of going on the land!" Enthusiastically seconding his father, Edsel Ford added: "The farm is one of the most vital problems now before the country. No political solution yet offered has been able to solve it. To increase farm income by increasing the cost of food in the cities is a policy no one, not even the farmer, approves. And yet every one agrees the farmer's income must be increased."

Mrs. V. E. Newton and daughters of Sagerton visited at the Boedeker home Sunday afternoon.

There is said to be 163,700,000,000 million cigarettes consumed in this country annually.

Harry Ferguson said that among outstanding new features of the Ford tractor are light weight, simplicity of operation, maneuverability, fuel and oil economy, absolute safety on hillsides or difficult ground, and ability to strike any sort of obstruction without damage to implements. The new machine will do the work of eight horses and four men, he said.

The Ford-Ferguson tractor is now in production, and will be available to the public through Ford and other dealers about September 1. It is being demonstrated daily at the Ford Exposition, New York World's Fair.

TEXAS OUT-O-DOORS

By allotting the 4-H Club of Catarina High School and the Texas Game Fish and Oyster Commission the use for a period of two years of several hundred acres of land the Catarina Farms Co. of Dimmit County Texas has provided students the "working tools" with which to help restore the game of the state and to also learn the practical side of game management. The procedure is a new departure in Texas and is being watched with considerable interest by game officials throughout the state.

The large tract of land is to be utilized by the 4-H Club members as a school demonstration area for a bobwhite quail demonstration project and has been designated a wildlife sanctuary for birds and animals. Students will assist in providing suitable habitat for several species of wildlife and will also plant crops suitable for providing feed. The practical knowledge derived by the 4-H Club members is expected to result in increased conservation and game throughout Dimmit County.

Arrangements for the working agreement, believed to be the first of its kind in the Southwest were made by H. A. Dillon, manager of the Catarina Farms; C. D. Landolt, superintendent of Catarina High and Herbert Ward, state game warden.

A crippled doe on the Gibbons Ranch in San Saba County recently gave birth to her sixth set of twin fawns, John Wood, state game warden of Brownwood, reports. According to Mr. John Gibbons, owner of the ranch, the doe was shot when very young and her right hind leg has been useless ever since. She ranges the same locality each year.

Cob Carpenter, state game warden of Eagle Pass, has started a contest in wildlife study for boys in that section which is attracting considerable attention. Winners of three prizes in the contest will be the boys who can identify the largest number of birds and animals.

Mrs. Morris Neal and children are visiting in Graham.

Mrs. T. W. K. Head celebrated her 89th birthday Friday. Those visiting her were John Head and son of Dallas, Duncan Head and family of Haskell, Clarence Head and family of Seymour, Mrs. Olen McCristal and children Jimmy and Bobby of Brady, a sister Mrs. Mattie Mitchell and family of Albany and a host of friends.

MINISTER APPLIES PSYCHIATRY TO WOE

DR. JOHN SUTHERLAND BONNELL, pastor of a Fifth Avenue church in New York City, is one of the first ministers to apply the principles of modern psychiatry to human problems brought to him for solution. In his small "consultation room" in the Church House adjoining his church at the corner of 55th St. and Fifth Ave., Dr. Bonnell interviews and advises hundreds of troubled individuals who come to him for help.

Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell (standing) interviews a spiritual patient

"One of the most destructive forces in the life of the individual is a repressed sense of guilt," Dr. Bonnell states in an article in the September issue of Cosmopolitan. "It produces all manner of symptoms of both mental and physical disorder. Consequently, the relief afforded through confession and the acceptance of God's forgiveness is excellent spiritual therapy. The great difference between the work of a minister and a professional psychiatrist is that the minister utilizes the power of religion in the solution of human problems and the healing effect of spiritual thinking on mental and bodily ills."

Dr. Bonnell received early experience in psychiatric theory and practice as well as practical nursing due to the fact that his pre-college years were spent assisting his father who was supervisor of a mental hospital. He found that psychiatry, combined with the resources of religion, exerted a powerful influence for mental and spiritual recovery among the abnormal and insane, and he realized that this would be even more potent as a force for recovery in cases of normal persons bowed down by despair.

In the early days of his ministry, Dr. Bonnell says, his greatest obstacle was the reluctance of Protestants to discuss their troubles and misdeeds with a minister. By sympathetic interest and practice he overcame this difficulty and in the seventeen years of his ministry, he has interviewed more than 5,000 persons from every walk of life.

"Scores of these people were on the verge of suicide," Dr. Bonnell says. "I have followed up such cases and I do not know of one where the intention was carried out after the interview."

It is often necessary to bring to light long-buried memories, Dr. Bonnell says, in order to get at the root of despair. Events in childhood, shocks, psychoses developed by forgotten incidents, can wreak havoc in later years. Mental and physical symptoms which arise are often the result of self-punishment. Dr. Bonnell asserts that the most effective therapeutic agent known in such cases is the received forgiveness of God.

zards, totaled 6 per cent. Vegetable matter composed 2 per cent and birds made up 6.4, they including cactus wren, sparrow and meadowlark.

That the roadrunner deserves protection for its aid in destroying insects has been ascertained. The greatest good these birds do lies in the number of grasshoppers they eat. 62 per cent of the entire stomach contents consisted of grasshoppers. Other insects included caterpillars, centipedes, scorpions, tarantulas, beetles, cicadas and several other noxious and poisonous insects.

Wheat Farmers In Meeting At Amarillo Today

What promises to be one of the largest gatherings of wheat farmers ever staged in Texas is scheduled today (Friday) in Amarillo, where R. M. (Spike) Evans, national AAA administrator, will talk on the national wheat situation and tell what the farm program is trying to do about it.

General session is to start at 1:30 p. m. in the city auditorium with Evans' talk to be broadcast over KGNC at 2 o'clock.

In the forenoon, county ACA committeemen, AAA administrative assistants, agricultural agents and home demonstration agents will meet and discuss ways to help farmers get all they can out of the 1940 wheat program.

Attending the meeting from Haskell county are County Agent G. R. Schumann, J. E. Thomson, secretary of the county ACA, and county committeemen V. F. Bunkley, M. A. Bumpass and Jesse Bell. A large delegation from Texas A. and M. College is expected to attend, as well as Leroy K. Smith, manager of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation; I. W. Duggan, director of the AAA's Southern Region; and Fred Merrifield and Grover Hill, also of the regional office.

An Iowa farmer who rose to the topmost post of the AAA from his state committee, Evans drew a record crowd when he gave a cotton talk in Dallas last December under auspices of the Texas Agricultural Association. A staunch exponent of farmer-control of the vast agricultural program, he first saw Texas as an operator in search of high-grade livestock to put on feed in the Middle West.

On August 11, 1807, Robert Fulton's steamboat made its first trial trip on the Hudson River, heralding the advent of steam-propelled vessels that revolutionized transportation and crowded sailing ships off the seas. The steamship was a distinct boon in helping to build commerce between the nations of the world and in the development of new countries.

Insurance has also played a vital role in the business world in affording protection against loss or damage to property by fire, storm, and every other conceivable hazard.

Your Car May Be Next

According to dependable estimates, chances are about 1 to 20 that your family car will be involved in a crash during the next twelve months. The chances are 1 to 5 that you will witness a crash or reach the scene soon enough to see the blood and help. Driving hazards during this tourist season are greater than ever in history. Indications point to the biggest summer travel ever known in this country's history. With two world's fairs in progress, one on the Atlantic and the other on the Pacific, the country is already witnessing more fast, long distance traffic than usual. Strange drivers hurrying through cities and towns, unfamiliar with local drivers' rules and customs spell more accidents, and close to a quarter of a million casualties before 1940 comes in and make safety suggestions of serious moment. Let church, school, service clubs, business men and private citizen join the campaign against Sudden Death.

How Long Will The South Play The Part of the Fool?

It is hard for we of the South, sons of those who fought and those who died for the cause of the Southern Confederacy to have reached that stage in our lives when we feel compelled, driven and by conscience led, to turn our support to the Republican party for relief from the foolishness of men who are neither Democrats nor Republicans. The Democratic Party at one time stood for principles—principles that were near and dear to the hearts of the Southern people, but these principles have been thrown to the wind and we find that we, economically speaking, are at the crossroads and the signs are all taken down and carried beyond our view.

We might as well face the situation—the South is being forced lower and lower in the economic scale of nations and because the president has let a few idle dreamers and thought leaders run the government according to new and untried theories. Notice might as well be given Mr. Roosevelt and his followers like Mr. Ickes, that with him or anyone of his type, the Democratic Party must face certain defeat at the hands of the voters in 1940. We had as well quit kidding ourselves—small checks to our farmers with continued lowering of prices for farm products has held the farmer in line, but they are awakening to the facts that we have been sold down the river for the benefit of the foreign growers. Also watch the Federal Administration stand idly by and see the Nazi element of Europe step in and make it still harder for the American farmer to dispose of his products. Just how long these conditions will be tolerated, we cannot say, only this, if we want continued lowering of prices, let the present set up continue.

Museum Movement Momentous

The following statement is made by way of timely observations and is in no sense to be regarded as an indictment of neglect or carelessness. States, like individuals, generally speaking, have to begin to grow old before proper attention is given to the preservation of materials which most vividly portray man's life and which are the basis of important and interesting museum displays.

The Texas Memorial Museum, sponsored by the American Legion of Texas, is the first state museum south of the Mason and Dixon line. It is located on the campus of the University of Texas, within easy walking distance of other memorials, such as the Memorial Stadium, the Hogg Memorial and the Gregory Gymnasium. Until the central unit of this museum was made available through Federal and State of Texas Centennial Legislation, it has been said that there were in the south and southwest, no general museums of serious importance.

Evolution of Rubber

Recent barter negotiations for the exchange of American cotton for British rubber emphasize the indispensability of both commodities in the modern world. But while cotton has been used for 3,000 years or more, the rubber industry is of comparatively recent development.

Early explorers found natives of Central and South America using the substance now called rubber in various crude ways, but little attention was paid to it, and it was not until about 1770 that scientists began trying to make practical use of the peculiar material.

In 1839 Charles Goodyear, an American inventor discovered a method of vulcanizing rubber, which he later improved and patented, and thus a new industry was born. By 1875 the world was using about 9,000 tons of crude rubber annually.

The advent of the automobile greatly increased the demand for rubber, which by 1910 reached about 60,000 tons. In 1935 world consumption of crude rubber totalled over a million tons, of which the United States used more than all other countries combined.

Prior to 1900, wild rubber trees, mostly in Brazil supplied all the world's crude rubber. Now more than 98 per cent of all rubber is produced in plantations, principally in British possessions in the Far East.

"TURN LEFT AT THE WATERING TROUGH"
By B. H. MARKHAM, Director American Petroleum Industries Committee

"Follow trolley tracks along Main St., bearing right at war monument. About one-quarter mile beyond end of trucks, turn left at the watering trough."

Many a motorist can remember the "good old" touring days when more time was spent ascertaining road directions from the "Blue Book" than in going places. Most motorists waste little time hunting for watering troughs and other landmarks listed in official guides. They follow route numbers and direction signs. But they are becoming more and more interested in finding roads which will help them avoid congested traffic and to take them speedily, comfortably and safely to their destinations.

Travel habits of modern motorists are studied by highway engineers, who are suiting the highways to the travelers and to traffic. Already they have worked out some highway plans, and highway planning, which can make the job of building tomorrow's roads much more efficient, far less costly, and infinitely more satisfactory than proposed doubly-expensive toll speedways theoretically stretching from coast to coast.

Travel Near Home—
These theoretical roads look well on paper, but motorists just won't travel according to blueprint. Long trips always have been the exception rather than the rule. True, more motorists are taking more and longer trips, yet they comprise a small percentage of those who own and operate motor vehicles. Motor travel still is, and probably always will be, largely local. Recent highway surveys have revealed that on an average only about 300 automobiles on all main east-west highways are making transcontinental trips.

Most of the long trips which start from either coast end long before the motorists reach the Mississippi River. Trips of 100 miles or more still are the exception; account only for one to two per cent of all highway traffic. The average motor trip is something like 30 miles, which indicates that John Q. Public definitely and deliberately utilizes his automobile chiefly for getting out of town and back again. Every motorist has noticed the thinning out of highway traffic less than 20 miles from city limits. Experienced motorists can tell when they are approaching a community by the increasing density of traffic.

Motorists' Purses Limited—
Surveys have revealed also that the modest limits of the average motorist's income seldom stretch beyond $1,500 per year. To these people the cost of five gallons of gasoline and a quart of oil, cheap as they may be, are items of expense which cannot be overlooked. The service station man likes to ask the question: "Fill'er up?" but the bulk of his sales is far less than tank-full.

The novelty of motoring merely for the sake of riding is wearing off. Motorists today usually are going somewhere. In view of this fact, and especially in view of their limited budgets, it may be doubted that motorists could be induced to use toll-roads which might stretch endlessly on. These people, watching every penny, might be even more disinclined to pay toll to use roads the construction of which already they had paid registration fees and the even more expensive gasoline taxes. This idea definitely isn't in their financial picture.

Toll Idea Unpopular—
Researchers have asked people about this situation. Most of them just do not like toll roads. A few of them said that if they had the money, and were in a hurry, and the toll roads took them where they wanted to go they might pay toll. The researchers concluded that about one-third of the motorists might use the toll roads—occasionally.

It is a strange commentary that within a few years after the celebration of the end of toll roads, paying toll again is contemplated. This is true especially because the projected pay highways would be toll-free roads. One toll in the form of registration fee; a second toll in the form of gasoline taxes, and a third toll for the use of the roads.

It looks as if the nation's highway engineers must confine their attention to the improvement, at reasonable expense, of highways adjoining communities, and especially to surfacing the many miles of back country roads which give the farmers easy access to market. Highways should be planned, not by dream, but to meet modern requirements for traffic movement, safety and economy. Since motorists already are paying taxes for roads—and the money would be adequate were all the revenue really used for roads—the roads should be free, not toll roads.

SCIENCE DEVELOPS NEW INGREDIENT RICH IN VITAMIN G

St. Louis, Mo.—The problem of assuring an adequate amount of Vitamin G in feeds has received the attention of Purina scientists for several years, according to H. J. Smith, Director of Research for the Ralston Purina Company.

"For a while," says Dr. Smith, "the best commercial sources of Vitamin G known were alfalfa leaf meal, dried skim milk, and dried buttermilk. But even with the most careful selecting and laboratory testing, we found it difficult to control the amount of Vitamin G in the ration because the Vitamin G content of these ingredients would vary, depending on the time of year and the conditions under which they were produced.

Birds raised on a ration low in Vitamin (G) Flavin.

Same aged birds that received more Flavin in their feed.

These birds had extra Vitamin G (flavin) in their feed supplied by Puri-flave.

"Three years ago, we set for ourselves the task of finding a dependable, concentrated Vitamin G source that would give us control over this important factor in our rations. The result of this search is Puri-Flave, the new, rich Vitamin G ingredient. We have tested it carefully under all conditions for an entire year in the Purina Research Laboratories, and are convinced that it is among the great feeding developments of the past twenty years.

"Each gram of Puri-Flave contains around 70 micrograms of Flavin, as compared with around 23 micrograms for dried buttermilk and around 10 micrograms for alfalfa. We are now including Puri-Flave in all of our feeds that have to do with the development of the embryo and growth," says Dr. Smith.

"While our Purina scientists are sure of the Vitamin G (flavin) content of Puri-Flave as compared with dried buttermilk and alfalfa, they are not ready to say that it will replace these two ingredients. For that reason, all of our feeds will continue to carry the same amounts of dried buttermilk and alfalfa meal as they have in the past."

On July 5 there was reported to be money in circulation in this country to the amount of $7,000,000,000.

The amount of $53,926,000 was collected in cigarette taxes in 1932 in 22 states which levy such taxes.

Keep the Mower Busy

By T. C. Richardson, Asso. Editor Farm and Ranch Breeder-Feeder Association

Late summer weeds—gum weed, sunflower, ragweed, broomweed, croton weed, and various other tribes of worthless plants which shade the grass and rob it of needed moisture—are now in the prime of blooming and seed-bearing over a large part of the Southwest. Look down under this rank growth and you find grass struggling to survive, when if it had the ground to itself it would furnish several times as much grazing for the rest of the summer, and would be thickening up for next year's growth.

Just as weeds come into full flower is the best time to mow the pasture, but since there may be several species which do not all mature at the same time, the practical thing to do is to mow whenever time can be spared for it rather than not mow at all, even if some weeds are not far enough advanced and others have already made seed. There is still time for the grass to derive a great deal of benefit this fall from the destruction of its weed competitors at this season of the year.

I wish every farm operator in the Southwest could see the results of pasture mowing, as it is practiced by their fellow-farmers under all conditions. It is not as easy to count the returns from a good pasture as from a cotton patch, but thousands who have had a few years experience know by their general economic improvement that good pastures pay, without keeping "books" on it.

The weed crop is not tolerated in the cotton field, and we spend hours and day of sweaty labor plowing and hoeing to give the cotton all the soil fertility and available moisture. A farmer who permits the weeds to "take" his cotton is looked upon as shiftless, and gets little sympathy from his neighbors for his low cotton yields. But grass is also a "crop", and a paying crop with the help of livestock. What kind of cross-eyed reasoning, or lack of reasoning is it, that allows the weeds to rob the pastures while fighting them to the last ditch in the fields.

As a matter of fact the same amount of labor and time devoted to improving the pastures and the care of the livestock to graze them is paying many farmers more than time in the fields. A mower will kill a million weeds while a hoe is killing hundreds, and a man and team can cover several acres with a mower in the time necessary to hoe an acre of row crops. If we Southerners were as lazy as some of our northern critics think us, we would be using more mowers and fewer hoes!

It takes a good mower in good condition to cut hay, especially of the finer grasses. A good mower is desirable of course, for any kind of a mowing job, but that old machine with broken guards and a dull sickle will do to cut weeds with, if a better one is not available. A good many farmers are buying second-hand mowers to use in pasture work, and I have not yet seen one who kept his mower busy from one to three times a year on his pastures who doesn't think it a good investment.

There is hardly a community in which one or more farmers are not demonstrating the value of mowing as a means of increasing pasture profits. If it isn't being done on the farms, the same sort of demonstration may be seen on the rights of way, where the highway departments mow the roadsides once or twice in the season. There are miles of highways in the Southwest which have better grass than the pastures across the fence for no other reason than the occasional mowing which gives the grass a chance to do its best. What the highway authorities can do as a means of encouraging grass in order to check erosion, land owners can also do, for that purpose and for the increased forage.

Birth Certificate For Every Student Urged By Official

Parents of children starting school for the first time this fall are urged by the State Department of Health to make sure that they have a birth registration certification regarding their child and if not, to take proper legal steps as soon as possible to obtain this record.

Parents who do not have registration notification of the birth of their child are advised to contact their local registrar of vital statistics with whom the certificate was originally filed.

In many Texas school districts, a notification of birth certificate is required to prove the child is old enough to enter school. As the Vital Statistics Department will be called upon to answer numerous requests for school certificates securing this record early will speed up the process of securing the needed forms before school opens.

Acquiring a record of birth is not only an important part of the task of getting the child ready for school but is an essential item in the larger job of preparing the child for the future. The time will come when he will need a record of his birth. Proper registration now will prevent difficulty later on in his life.

In addition to its importance at the time of admission to school, birth registration may be necessary for obtaining a work permit, an automobile driver's permit, the right to vote and the right to marry; for proof of parentage, inheritance of property, settlement of insurance and in establishing identity.

The average life of a motor car used to be seven years, but since the depression it has been considerably increased.

Reflectors to illuminate highways at night have proved satisfactory in an experiment on Grand Island in the Niagara River. The reflectors light up the road as soon as approaching headlights strike them. Each reflector costs about $1.70 exclusive of installation.

Spark plugs should be replaced about every 8,000 miles, and the car owner should be careful that he gets the right type of plug. The shorter plugs are for the hotter-running engines.

Lubricating the front wheels is not a part of the regular lubricating service. It should be done once a year or oftener. If this is overlooked bearing trouble is likely to result and you may have an accident.

Worn engine cylinder blocks may have been caused by the use of too heavy rather than too light lubricating oil.

Poor contacts, due to a defective socket, will cause bulbs to burn out.

Advertisement for Tony's apples. Features a man in a cowboy hat holding a sign that says 'Try Some of These Fine APPLES 3 For 10c'. Text includes 'Advertise? I no need to advertise! I sell da apple without your "advertise". I tink datsa foolish!', 'TALK ABOUT ADVERTISING to Tony and he'll say, "I no advertise!" But, of course, you know that he's doing just that, perhaps in another way. He does it when he puts up that sign... when he paints his cart a bright red and blue so that it can be easily identified, so that it looks gay... when he stops at a busy corner, because Tony knows that he can sell more apples when more people see his apples... when he shouts "Apples!" as he pushes his cart along.', 'TONY HAS LEARNED the first principle of successful selling: bring your wares before the eyes of great numbers of people and you can sell profitably! But not everyone in Haskell is a Tony, and few businessmen specialize in apples. Moreover, Tony is satisfied with the number of apples he sells. A progressive merchant would never stop these. Tony is advertising—yes, but in a feeble, limited sort of way. If you are not like Tony—if you are not satisfied with the number of "apples" you are selling, and you want to sell more—you'll advertise in a Newspaper that has a loyal local following, one that is read by thousands of people who are able to buy your "apples." In Haskell that paper is the Free Press.
