Dust Cotton at Noonday, Too

Fixed ideas about dusting cotton pass away like other prejudices. Cameron Siddall, entomologist of the A. & M. College Extension service, says that about as good results are obtained from dusting at midday as from dusting in the early morning, or late afternoon, or at night when the plants are damp. There isn't enough difference in result he declares, to justify letting your dusting equipment lie around idle when your own cotton, or your neighbor's cotton needs to be dusted to save it from boll weevil damage.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Tractors and motors will never wholly replace the Army Mule as a factor in the mobile units of our army. The Army Mule is a tradition and the "mule skinner" is a breed unto himself. Army Mules are used by the Field Artillery and the Cavalry in areas where the terrain is rough and tractors cannot operate.

Pack trains in mountainous sections are often necessary and here the mule, slow but sure-footed, plays an important role. Our Army buys thousands of mules paying from $175 to $190 for each. The mule eats less, carries more, and some declare is smarter than the horse. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps helps pay for these Army Mules. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day. U. S. Treasury Department know what that iron and steel and those other materials will be used or in the future—and for the duration.

Neither does it take an expert to understand why the WPB has launched the all-out scrap campaign in every community. Everyone knows that scrap is a necessary component for new steel, and that helping to salvage it is a privilege and a duty on the Home Front. The tremendous production pace cannot be maintained unless we keep the scrap flowing back to the mills. From the nation, it is going to require more than 750,000 freight car loads of scrap to keep the steel furnaces going at capacity this year, and "capacity" isn't enough to supply all of the demands of war.

Getting the scrap to the mills is a problem also because the nation's transportation system—trains and trucks—already are being pressed heavily.

Especially dark is the outlook for truck transportation, because of the rubber shortage. This was emphasized last week when the Office of Price Administration announced that there would be no more tires or retreads for privately operated trucks which primarily carry such luxuries as alcoholic beverages, soft drinks and tobacco. Also during the week, the Office of Defense Transportation cut bus and truck speeds to 40 miles an hour or lower and asked city bus lines to make fewer stops and burn up less rubber.

Still another policy of restriction and curtailment was announced during the week. It was the major pronouncement by WPB Chief Donald Nelson that the war program has now reached the stage that warrants selective limitation of civilian industry, with civilian production to be concentrated in certain plants and regions.

This policy may be adopted, he said, where some or all firms of an industry are needed for war production or in areas where there are bottlenecks in labor, transport power or warehouse facilities. It may mean, he said, that small plants will be kept in civilian production and large plants switched to war work; or, civilian production suspended in bottleneck areas and concentrated in areas with available labor, transportation, power or warehousing.

This policy will foster post-war competition, will be accompanied by standardization and simplification, but will be flexible enough so that changes can be made as circumstances warrant.

Such a selective system is drastic and may mean restrictions unequalled thus far. But when one doesn't take an expert to probably aren't many in the lowest who still think this to be a war easily won—without great sacrifice on the Home Front, as well as on the battle. Southwestern folk sort of war we are really thousands of those 44,143 dead, wounded announced last week in homes in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

homes and their neighbors know what sacrifice is. And knowledge emphasizes the of those who complain of restrictions being placed on civilians and non-businesses.

at home, the one concern—it has been since Pearl Harbor to see that every bit of needed goes to make and that there are trains and trucks enough and enough to take these where they are needed.

It would be interesting to in the homes whence come of those 44,143 soldiers, sailors and coast guardsmen, without getting along the restrictions? Sacrifice is a privilege and a duty to the unnecessary so that will be more weapons to hold down the number of small homes that will know real sacrifice means.

Weapons are being made production that is breaking all is now will increase even Simultaneously there will more thousands of manufac who must cease using vital for non-essential pro a simplification of hand and no more alloy steel in after August; sole leather military quality hereafter to be military use only; more drastic in the use of rubber long list of civilian products rubber footwear and a of farming and industrial ment; no more sale of used hosiery for rugs and non-al purposes, but hereafter to make powder bags and military items.

protein group 6.8 pounds. Now for a few words about the cost of the gains on each of these feeds. With the high protein ration, it required 3.2 pounds of feed to produce a pound of gain, while with the medium protein ration, it required 3.8 pounds, and with the low protein ration it required 5.0 pounds of feeds to produce a pound of gain. Despite the fact that the low protein feed was cheapest per pounds and the high protein food was highest in price the actual cost of feed to produce a pound of gain was highest with the low protein feed and lowest with the high protein feeds.

But what is more important is that the medium and the high protein fed hens were in prime market condition at from 24 to 26 weeks of age and the toms at from 26 to 27 weeks of age, but that none of the low protein birds were marketable even at 28 weeks of age. None would grade as No. 1 or better. At 24 weeks of age the hens average 12.3 and 12.1 pounds on the high and medium protein rations respectively, and at 27 weeks of age the toms on the two rations averaged 20.9 and 20.8 pounds respectively. At 28 weeks of age the hens on the low protein group averaged 9.3 pounds, the toms 10.4 pounds. These weights are given at these different ages because the birds finished at different ages, but the experiment actually closed when the birds were 20 weeks of age, and the weights are comparable only to that time.

When they were placed on the experiment, the average weight of the turkeys in the high protein group was 2.9 pounds, in the medium protein group 3.0 pounds, and in the low protein group 2.9 pounds. This shows how uniformly the poult were divided into three groups. At 12 weeks of age—or 4 weeks later—the average weight of the poult in the high protein group was 5.7 pounds each in the medium protein group 5.6 pounds, and in the low protein group 4.4 pounds each.

After another 4 weeks—when the poult were 16 weeks old—the average weight of the high protein group was 8.5 pounds of the medium protein group also 8.5 pounds, and of the low protein group 5.6 pounds.

When the poult were 20 weeks old, the experiment was discontinued. The average weight of the high protein group was 11.6 pounds, of the medium protein group 11.0 pounds and the low

VOTE FOR MRS. HETTIE WILLIAMS

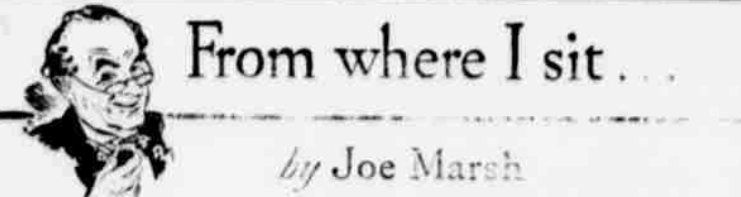

For COUNTY CLERK

I am deeply grateful for the splendid vote I received in Saturday's election. I take it as an evidence of faith in my ability and integrity as a public official. For this and all kindness rendered throughout the campaign, I thank you and solicit your continued support.

There are many of you to make new decisions in the second primary. I earnestly solicit your vote and influence with the assurance that I will not give you cause to regret it. Thanking you again,

Sincerely,

MRS. HETTIE WILLIAMS.

From where I sit

You ought to meet my friend, Will Dudley. I suppose Will must be seventy-eight or nine... but you'd never know it. He's tall and lean and hard as a hickory. And although the only formal education he ever had was a few winters in the old red schoolhouse, I think that he's the wisest man I know in many ways.

For one thing, Will taught me the value of what he calls "Just a-settin'".

Come upon Will in the evening, when his hard day's work is done, and you'll find him "just a-settin'" in a rocker on his porch. In one hand he'll have his old briar pipe and in the other, a tall cool glass of beer.

"Wholesome, appetizin' beer," says Will, "is standard equipment for proper settin'. Puts a feller in an easy-goin' peaceful mood."

You see, Will holds the theory that in our present mixed-up world, a man needs a quiet hour every day. An hour in which to sit down quietly and restore his strength and courage.

Will thinks, and I agree with him, that a man ought to forget all his own and the world's worries during that hour-of-peace. And Will feels that a glass of fragrant melow beer helps most to bring you quiet relaxation.

Show me the man who sits down quietly on an evening with his glass of beer and I'll show you a man who is wise in the ways of living. Such men, like Will Dudley, live to a ripe old age, unembittered by the troubles of the world. They seem to remain, all their lives, sweet-natured and kindly.

Time has a way of rendering accurate judgments on the value of the things men use and enjoy in the world. And Time... thousands of years of it... has handed down the verdict that beer is a pleasant and worthy companion for all men of good will.

NOTICE OF THANKS

I am indeed grateful to my friends who supported me in my recent campaign for Commissioner of Precinct 3 which ended Saturday in our unexpected defeat. (I think we were cutting wood in the wrong wood pile). No words seem available that would express my appreciation for your most loyal support.

To those who did not support me at the ballot, I am sure that you are my friends too, and am sure that we will all agree that we are glad to live in a country where we can choose for office, friend from friend, and still be friends.

I also am grateful for the respect shown me while campaigning and for the many new friends made while canvassing the community. I am grateful to you all.

Your friend,

NOAH S. LANE

To the Voters of Haskell County

I sincerely appreciate the support given my candidacy as Collector in Saturday's Primary, and although I win the nomination, I am grateful for the encourage- ment me during the limited time I had to campaign, as for the friends who worked in my behalf.

Those who voted for me I am deeply grateful, and I will fight against those who saw fit to vote otherwise.

Yours sincerely,

The Soldier With the Broken Sword

(In tribute to Lyndell Ander- son, reported "Missing in Ac- tion" after the fall of Bataan)

Serving as time-keeper in the declamation contests of the Inter- scholastic Meet one year, I was attracted by the little red-headed lad who announced as his decla- mation "The Soldier with the Broken Sword". With grave and level tones he began the oration, and then his eloquence soared. There was nothing flowery about it, but the sincerity of the speaker and the inspiring quality of his declamation carried me quite be- yond my surroundings. "Who is he?" I wondered. This was the rural division for junior boys, and I had never seen him before. Though I could not quote from it, I will remember the theme of his declamation: in the battle of life one must be a good soldier; he must never falter; he must continue to wield his weapon though it may already be broken in the conflict; he must never let his spirit be broken. "And he senses the truth of what he is saying," I said to myself; "He will surely make a strong, purposeful man." Then it became my sudden realization that he was exceeding his allotted three minutes, and with poignant regret I rose to call time on him. His grave sincerity, I judged, had given him greater deliberation to his delivery than he had intended. So he did not win that contest, but I purposed to tell him if I could find him later, that his declamation was surely the best.

Later, when Lyndell Anderson was a senior in Haskell High School, and I was his class spon- sor, I asked him to give the de- clamation again. This was on an occasion when I thought it might inspire some whose hopes of going to college seemed futile because of "the depression". Whether it did inspire any of them I do not know, but again I was thrilled by the singing tones of it. And again I thought, "Lyndell speaks for himself. He will put his best into whatever he does, and he will surely make a success of his life. Though he may be left with a 'broken sword' some day, he will surely wield it." But I wasn't thinking of him as a real soldier, or in actual warfare. That was in 1935.

When I learned last February that Lyndell was on Bataan, I thought with a pang, "Now he is himself the soldier with the broken sword." And as the term ap- plied so fitly to him, I knew too that the theme of his boyhood de- clamation was also his own theme. He was wielding his broken sword, and he was fighting a good fight.

Last week the paper stated that he had been reported "Missing in Action." That does not give any definite information, of course, and only time will tell whether he is a prisoner of Japan, or whether he fell as the foe encompassed him. If he yet lives, he still has the spirit of the soldier with the broken sword. I know, though his weapon is now wrested completely from his grasp. But if he met a soldier's death in those last fate- ful days on Bataan, he went down with his spirit still unbroken, I know—still wielding his broken sword. —Jessie Vick it, but the sincerity of the speaker and the inspiring quality of his declamation carried me quite be- yond my surroundings. "Who is he?" I wondered. This was the rural division for junior boys, and I had never seen him before. Though I could not quote from it, I will remember the theme of his declamation: in the battle of life one must be a good soldier; he must never falter; he must continue to wield his weapon though it may already be broken in the conflict; he must never let his spirit be broken. "And he senses the truth of what he is saying," I said to myself; "He will surely make a strong, purposeful man." Then it became my sudden realization that he was exceeding his allotted three minutes, and with poignant regret I rose to call time on him. His grave sincerity, I judged, had given him greater deliberation to his delivery than he had intended. So he did not win that contest, but I purposed to tell him if I could find him later, that his declamation was surely the best.

Dennis P. Ratliff Thanks Supporters For Their Loyalty

It appearing from the returns of the recent election that I failed in my effort to be nominated for a second full term as District Judge, my wife and children join me in thanking our many friends over the district, who so loyally stayed with us through thick and thin and even defeat. I also thank the people for the privilege of serving as Judge the past few years.

The District Judge's office is re- cognized by Judges and lawyers as being probably the hardest to fill under our system of juris- prudence. During the time I have been on the bench, I have tried to conduct myself and pass on the matters before me, so that I might live with my own conscience, and uphold the dignity of the high office I occupy.

I am not politically minded and therefore shall welcome the oppor- tunity to retire from politics on January 1st. After that time, I have no particular plans now. Our beloved country is engaged in a total war for its existence. I am of military age and have a family, but if my country can use me in some capacity, I am ready. I had the honor of wearing it's uniform for a while, as a private soldier in 1918, and I am not afraid to wear it again, if necessary. Sincerely,
DENNIS P. RATLIFF

Opening A Second Front

Both here and in England, millions of people seem to consider themselves completely qualified experts on military tactics and strategy. They know precisely what is wrong with the United Nations' High Commands and they are convinced that they could remedy matters in short order if they were put in charge.

In theory, the second front would be of immense benefit to the Allied cause. It would divert men and machines and supplies from Hitler's Russian and African offensives. It would give the conquered people of France their opportunity to rise up against their conqueror and help destroy him.

So much for theory. In actual fact, opening the second front now would be one of the most hazardous operations in all military history. According to all reports, the Germans have done wonders in fortifying their continental positions. In France alone, they have about 300,000 seasoned troops which have been rigorously trained in preparation for an Allied invasion.

As military history proves again and again, an over-water invasion of enemy-held territory is the most difficult of all military operations—even after their complete victory at Dunkirk, when British military power was all but destroyed, the Nazi generals didn't feel confident enough of success to make the attempt.

The losses in men which would follow when the stage of landing operations was reached, is also staggering. Without artillery support, the landing troops would have to advance against completely shielded defenders with a vast superiority in firepower. Writing in Collier's, Quentin Reynolds, one of the best informed war correspondents draws a vivid and probably accurate picture when he says: "Let those who shout loudest for the immediate establishment of a second front in France... visualize for a moment the cost, in equipment and life. Let them visualize the waters of the Channel running blood red under a white moon, and let them visualize the bodies of thousands of British and American soldiers floating in those waters. If the persuasive eloquence of the second front brigade is followed, no mean result is possible."

This does not mean that a second front is impossible. To the contrary, every really informed military man is convinced that one will be opened in time. But it cannot be opened until everything is ready. That means that, first there must be many more bombings of Germany and the Continent on the Cologne scale. It means that Allied troops must be given more and better equipment than they now possess. And it means that ways must be found of causing distracting trouble for Germany at home.

Some experts believe that air power alone may create a second front. They look forward to a time when three, four, five thousand major bombers will be used nightly in raids against the Axis. Major de Seversky is the most eloquent exponent of this doctrine and his recent best seller, "Victory Through Air Power" is a convincing work. The problems involved here are those of production, supply and coordination—and the last two are even more important than the first. We are producing planes on an ever-increasing scale. We have not yet solved the difficulties that lie in taking them, their fuel, their crews and their parts to the battlefield and keeping them flying.

In any event, many of those who demand a second front at once are terribly uninformed. The High Command has not opened a second front simply because it knows that the time is not yet ripe—and because it also knows that the United Nations must not be subjected to another defeat of the Dunkirk, Singapore, Philippines and East Indies variety. A great amount of ground work lies ahead before we can really start a sustained offensive drive of any kind against either Germany or Japan.

A Scrap of Paper

Will the unions be permitted to exploit war needs to force concessions from management without arbitration by proper governmental bodies? That is not an academic question. It is an extremely practical one, and it was made so by the heads of the United Mine Workers.

Some time ago, the southern coal operators, under the terms of their contract with the union, fined workers for taking part in what they believed to be an illegal strike last November. The operators planned to give the money to charity. Then it appeared that union workers could not take their scheduled ten-day July vacation without imperiling production of coal which was vitally needed by war industry.

The operators agreed. As the Hentington, W. Va., Herald Advertiser said, they made this concession of principle "to insure the nation's war production machine against any serious stoppage of the flow of fuel. For that, the operators are to be commended."

And now the nation is entitled to know whether unions in the future will be permitted to blackmail industry into similar concessions. If they are, we will have rule by force, instead of by law, contract and arbitration—with the union bosses the dictators.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

proposing an amendment to Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas by adding a new section thereto to be known as Section 49a, requiring all bills passed by the Legislature on and after January 1, 1945, appropriating money for any purpose, to be sent to the Comptroller of Public Accounts for his approval, and fixing the duties of the Comptroller with reference thereto; authorizing the Legislature to provide for the issuance, sale and retirement of serial bonds, equal in principal to the total outstanding, valid and approved obligations owing by said fund on September 1, 1943, provided such bonds shall not draw interest in excess of two per cent per annum and shall mature within twenty (20) years from date."

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto, immediately after Section 49, a section to be known as Section 49a, to read as follows:

"Section 49a. It shall be the duty of the Comptroller of Public Accounts in advance of each Regular Session of the Legislature to prepare and submit to the Governor and to the Legislature upon oath showing fully the financial condition of the State Treasury at the close of the last fiscal period and an estimate of the probable receipts and disbursements for the then current fiscal year. There shall also be contained in said statement an itemized estimate of the anticipated revenue based on the laws then in effect that will be received by and for the State from all sources showing the fund accounts to be credited during the succeeding biennium and said statement shall contain such other information as may be required by law. Supplemental statements shall be submitted at any Special Session of the Legislature and at such other times as may be necessary to show probable changes."

"From and after January 1, 1945 save in the case of emergency and imperative public necessity and with a four-fifths vote of the total membership of each House, no appropriation in excess of the cash and anticipated revenue of the funds from which such appropriation is to be made shall be valid. From and after January 1, 1945, no bill containing an appropriation shall be considered as passed or be sent to the Governor for consideration until and unless the Comptroller of Public Accounts endorses his certificate thereon showing that the amount appropriated is within the amount estimated to be available in the affected funds. When the Comptroller finds an appropriation bill exceeds the estimated revenue he shall endorse such finding thereon and return to the House in which same originated. Such information shall be immediately made known to both the House of Representatives and the Senate and the necessary steps shall be taken to bring such appropriation to within the revenue, either by providing additional revenue or reducing the appropriation."

"For the purpose of financing the outstanding obligations of the General Revenue Fund of the State and placing its current accounts on a cash basis the Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby authorized to provide for the issuance, sale and retirement of serial bonds, equal in principal to the total outstanding, valid and approved obligations owing by said fund on September 1, 1943, provided such bonds shall not draw interest in excess of two per cent per annum and shall mature within twenty (20) years from date."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the State of Texas, at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1942, being November 3, 1942, at which election all voters favoring said proposed amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots, the words:

"For the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, requiring appropriation bills passed by the Legislature to be presented to and certified by the Comptroller of Public Accounts as to available funds for payment thereof, limiting appropriations to the total of such available funds, providing for issuance of bonds to pay off State obligations outstanding September 1, 1943, and fixing the duties of the Legislature and Comptroller of Public Accounts with reference thereto."

Those opposing said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots, the words:

"Against the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, requiring appropriation bills passed by the Legislature to be presented to and certified by the Comptroller of Public Accounts as to available funds for payment thereof, limiting appropriations to the total of such available funds, providing for issuance of bonds to pay off State obligations outstanding September 1, 1943, and fixing the duties of the Legislature and Comptroller of Public Accounts with reference thereto."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have same published as required by the Constitution for amendments thereto.

Sec. 4. The sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State of Texas, not otherwise appropriated, to pay the expenses of such publication and election. 4c

Hitler found out that his high powered mechanized and motorized army bogged down in the snow and mud of the Russian Winter. Although our Army is largely mechanized the cavalry horse is still a highly essential factor in this mounted division and in the Field Artillery. The Army also maintains remount farms where many cavalry horses are bred and raised.

These select horses cost from $100 to $165 and our crack cavalrymen are expert riders and carry on the traditions which have followed the cavalry from the earliest days of the Army. Purchase of War Savings Bonds will insure good mounts for the Cavalry. You and your neighbors regularly every pay day can help buy these horses for the U. S. Cavalry. Haskell County History

20 Years Ago—Aug. 4, 1922 Jesse B. Smith and family returned Thursday from Eastland where they have been visiting relatives and friends.

Local filling stations and garages have been faced with the necessity of trucking in their supplies of gasoline and oils during the past few days, but luckily they have been able to secure sufficient facilities to prevent a shortage as a result of the railroad strike.

Judge H. G. McConnell, former resident here and widely known in Texas, died at his summer home in San Diego, Calif. July 28. He was senior member of the law firm of McConnell, Kistuff & Ratliff of this city.

Booth English and family and David and Georgia Smith spent Tuesday and Wednesday picnicking and fishing on Paint Creek. C. B. Long, formerly County Judge of Haskell county who is now making his home in Dallas, spent several days in the city this week visiting relatives and attending to business matters.

Towns on the Wichita Valley railroad have been practically without freight service during the past week as a result of the railroad strike. Only two freight trains each week are being run, and only through freight or merchandise in carload lots is being handled.

Miss Eva Cahill returned Tuesday night from Wichita Falls where she has been spending her vacation with friends. Elsie Killingsworth and Helen Sheok spent Monday and Tuesday in Munday. Alex Kouri and Reynolds Wilson left Tuesday morning for Wichita Falls and other points for a short visit. G. T. Scales and family left Tuesday for Colorado where they will spend a six-weeks vacation. In total war there are no trifles. Interesting proof of this is the fact that by eliminating manufacture of blackhead squeezers we shall save 110,000 pounds of steel.

The WPB steel conservation order reached into the world of sport to save about 12,500 tons of steel which had been going every year into ice skates and roller skates.

The 10,000 tons of steel which yearly went into the furniture of barber shops and beauty shops is enough to build more than 600 light tanks.

Probably the smallest item in which the WPB conservation order bans use of iron and steel is the phonograph needle.

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

Austin—Regulations governing hunting of white-winged doves, mourning doves, waterfowl, geese and coot in Texas were clarified today by the Executive Secretary of the Game Department upon receipt of official copies of the Federal regulations, which often conflict with State laws pertaining to hunting some of the species.

The Legislature as long ago as 1933 gave the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission authority to make State laws concerning ducks, geese and coot conform to Federal regulations. The Commission at its regular quarterly meeting July 17 assented to the recently issued Federal waterfowl regulations and so there will be no conflicts in laws regarding these species this year, it was pointed out.

But conflicts exist in the dove laws, the Executive Secretary said, principally because the Game Commission has no Legislative authority to reconcile them.

The white-winged dove open season this year, according to Federal regulations, will be September 16 to 25 inclusive, thus on the surface giving hunters 10 days of white-winged shooting. It is a fact, however, the Executive Secretary said, that virtually all white-winged doves in Texas concentrate each season in Webb, Starr, Zapata, Hidalgo, Cameron and Willacy Counties and a special State law applicable to those Counties forbids shooting of white-winged and mourning doves except on Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays during the open season, and then only from 12 noon until sunset.

White-winged hunters in this concentration area thus will be allowed their favorite sport this year only on September 17th, 20th, 22nd and 24th, between the hours of 12 noon and sunset, according to Federal regulations and State law.

Another white-wing country State law makes it unlawful to shoot white-wings and chachalacas between the Rio Grande River and U. S. Highway 83 from the Zapata-Starr County line to the west boundary of the City Limits of Brownsville.

Culberson and Hudspeth Counties, in far West Texas, will have no dove season under the provisions of another special law.

Where no special shooting hours are prescribed, white-winged and mourning doves may be taken from 7 a. m. to sunset only, the Executive Secretary said.

To the People of Haskell County

I sincerely appreciate the substantial vote given me in Saturday's Primary, and shall endeavor to conduct the affairs of my office in such a manner as to merit your continued confidence.

WILLIE LANE County Treasurer

S. regulations, hunters may take white-winged doves only on September 17th, 20th, 22nd and 24th, between the hours of 12 noon and sunset.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Winter flying jackets for both the Army and Navy Air Corps are regular equipment for our aviators. They cost from $12 to $18 and are made of horsehide leather lined with sheep shearing.

Purchase of one $18.75 War Bond, for which you receive $25 in 10 years, will pay for one of these jackets so necessary for our airmen flying at high altitudes and in northern climes. So you and your neighbors can do your bit by investing at least 10 percent of your salary every pay day in War Bonds to help pay the cost of this equipment for intrepid American flyers. Join the parade, and help to the War Bond Quota in your county. U. S. Treasury Department

"I Learned about LIGHT in a BLACKOUT!"

That's what a man wrote in a very human letter.

- "We had our first practice blackout here recently," he added. "For twenty minutes, my family and I sat in total darkness. The seriousness of war hit us all harder than ever before."
- "Then, when the all-clear sounded and we turned the lights back on, warmth and reassurance came into the room. That made me realize that whatever I spend for electricity, it's still about the cheapest thing I buy."

Here in West Texas, where blackouts have been few and far between and the war seems far away, a lot of folks take electricity for granted until something reminds them how dependable and cheap it really is. If yours is an average family, you're getting about twice or three times as much electricity for your money as ten to fifteen years ago.

The reasons why this service is so cheap and so dependable go back to the way America works—a way we're all fighting for now. A way of life in which free men have an opportunity to create and produce and succeed in proportion to their individual contribution.

Your Electric Servant grew up that way—steadily making more jobs, serving more homes and people and lowering rates—under efficient business management. Because it has done its part of the job well, West Texas has the electric power to attract military training camps, flying schools and war plants. West Texas today is helping produce the men and material that promises a permanent blackout for the Axis dictators!

American Legion Will Assist In Navy Recruiting

The Navy Recruiting Service has requested all American Legion Posts to become semi-recruiting offices for the Navy. At this time the Navy is in need of all men it can possibly secure. This need of men has been brought about by the building and commissioning of so many new ships. Through the regular recruiting channels the navy is unable to supply the necessary men to man the ships. Due to that the Legion has been requested to assist in securing the needed enlistments.

Revival—

 service and all the services between.

"There was never a better time and a more needy time to have a great revival than now. Our burdens are many and will multiply as the months come and go. Religion is the only thing that will help us bear these burdens. This war should not weaken our spirituality, because on our side it is a religious war. We are fighting for religion and everything we hold dear. This is one time when we ought to be true to the principles for which our boys are fighting. These principles are emphasized more in a revival meeting than any other place in all the world. May the revival strengthen us and lead us to rededicate our lives to Him who died to save us from our sins.

"Every person in all this country is invited to attend every service and to feel at home. Bring the babies. There will be plenty of room on the lawn for pallets. Bring and quilt and spread it down for the youngster. Act as if you were attending an old time camp meeting. If there is entertainment in religion then we want you to be entertained. But the thing this whole world needs is not to laugh but to get on our knees before God and weep over our sins. May we help win the war by getting right with God."
