RECIPE FOR GROWTH

Someone said, "In this life man writes a line with the pen of action; God writes another with the pen of retribution, and the two exactly and awfully correspond." When God's creatures do evil they must remember there is a spiritual law of gravity. It is called retributive providence. As a man who jumps from a building must surely hit the ground, so must retribution be brought to bear on one who deliberately breaks God's other laws.

Wild oats sown in the field of one's life will not come up as wheat. "The wicked is sown in the works of his own hands" (Psalm 9:16). But one must always remember that God foresaw man's need and made plentiful provision for it in His love. For God is love!

WASHINGTON
"As he looks from here"
OMAR BURLESON
Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—During the French Revolution when bread was hard to get, Marie Antoinette said to let the people eat cake.

Back several months ago when the price of meat at the counter was high, an attempt was made at controlling prices. The result was more shortages and higher prices when controls were lifted.

Now prices of meat cattle on the hoof has plummeted and just lately has some reduced costs shown up at the retail level. In the meantime, such staples as potatoes and pinto beans have skyrocketed.

As recently pointed out by Mr. Orville Sweet, president of the Polled Hereford Assn., if the rancher is seeking predictions from experts, perhaps it might be well to use his own—one is about as good as the other.

For instance, in March of 1973, the chief economist in the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture advised cattlemen that the Nation's cow numbers were dangerously high but then the very next day price ceilings were slapped on beef because the supply was not meeting the demand. Just a few months prior, the President had lifted all meat import quotas and eliminated safeguards for our domestic markets.

"I didn't know that," is a slogan used today in advertising a certain automobile. It certainly could be applied to the cattle market. The U. S. Dept. of Agriculture underestimated the national cattle inventory by ten million head. When the numbers were corrected about the only answer was "I didn't know that."

We can know that we can not plan with very much accuracy if every nation around the world makes our Country the dumping ground for their excess beef they could not get rid of any place else.

At this time, with all our free trade policy, Japan, France, Italy and Canada have closed the door to our exports but ours is open to them. When the world beef-producing countries are allowed to get rid of their surpluses by exports to the U. S., the domestic industry could hardly be expected to remain stable. It is natural for all nations to adjust their import quotas to supplement domestic production. The beef industry, insofar as our own Nation is concerned, seems to be the only business forced to adjust domestic production to supplement foreign imports.

To apply import restrictions is a simple process, only requiring a bit of diplomacy. At this time, U. S. beef imports covered by the Meat Import Act are running ahead of the record quantities of 1973 by more than 221 million pounds. At the same time cattle feeders have lost approximately $1.25 billion because of higher production costs. This situation can be expected to lead to a larger than normal slaughter of beef cows and other cattle whose beef is of a type in direct competition with shipped in beef.

U. S. beef tonnage to date in 1974 is 5% ahead of 1973. Cow slaughter alone is up 9%. This is significant in terms of future beef supplies because the cow represents the basic "beef factory" of the Nation. Because the economic plight of the beef industry, due to higher production cost and foreign import competition, we are urging the President to reimpose import quotas to give some protection to our home market which has dropped 30% or more. Otherwise, in the longer run another beef shortage is in prospect, resulting in higher prices to the consumer.

VA Assistance Programs To Change In Fall

A number of changes are to be made in the educational assistance programs administered by the Veterans Administration for eligible veterans and their dependents and survivors. Following are some of the changes which will be put into effect prior to the beginning of the 1974 fall semester, according to Clinton H. Herren, Veterans Service Officer for Haskell County.

Educational assistance programs are currently administered by the VA for veterans who served honorably during the Vietnam Era and the Cold War period, which dates back to Feb. 1, 1955. Monetary benefits are also available to the wives and children of living veterans who are shown to be 100 per cent disabled because of service-incurred diseases or injuries, and to the widows and children of veterans or servicemen whose deaths were the result of military service. Eligible veterans who attend university this fall will receive an advance payment of the necessary paper-advance payment, the amount due the month plus that portion, can be prepared to the school. The son may receive the time of receiving having the funds to pay tuition and fees at the school. Beginning with the semester, the VA Veterans Representative will assist veterans and their representatives to assist veterans with their problems concerning payments, and pertaining to the educational assistance programs by the Veterans Administration. Those enrolled in a fall semester, VA representative is required during term.

SS Program Explained

By: R. R. TULEY, JR., District Manager Social Security Administration Abilene, Texas

I'd like to go into a bit more detail as to what information we require as to the income and resources of those asking for Supplemental Security Income (SSI).

First, we need to know about wages, in cash or in kind, currently being paid, for present or past services. Next, we will inquire into gross and net income from self-employment.

Then, third, we look into any unearned income: Social Security, Railroad Retirement, Federal Civil Service, state or local pensions, unemployment compensation, private pension, insurance annuity or proceeds, cash support or expenses paid by another.

Fourth, to measure assets or resources, we'll inquire into ownership of real estate and/or other property of value. Some examples of the latter would be motor vehicles, insurance policies with a cash surrender value, cash on hand, checking account, savings and loan accounts, U. S. Savings Bonds, and other items readily convertible to cash. Fifth, we'll go into property and valuables not readily convertible to cash such as jewelry, hobby collections, antiques, etc.

Where the income is "unearned" (social security, railroad retirement, state, local or private pension, etc.), we can forget about only the first $20 of one monthly amount. Then we must use the total remainder in deciding the amount of any possible SSI.

Thus, assuming not other "charge" or "credit" against the standard payment amount ($150, individual $195, couple), unearned income of $150 (individual) or $215 (couple) will wipe out any SSI possibilities. Example, such income of $120 per month means $100 must be charged against the SSI potential, leaving $30 (individual) or $65 (couple) as an SSI amount.

Write SSI, Box 3258, Abilene, Texas 79604, or telephone (915) 677-5382, or meet with a staff member when he or she is in your community.

Like Father, Like Son

This well known quotation might prove true in the case of Dr. Ben Brock, vice president of Western Texas College, and his son, 19-year-old Mark, a recent graduate of WTC. Like his father, Mark has begun his college career as an honor student and he also aspires to a doctorate.

Dr. and Mrs. Brock were justifiably proud when Mark was named to Who's Who Among American Junior College Students in the spring. That honor is given "in recognition of outstanding merit and accomplishment as a student. Dr. Brock had been notified earlier that he would be listed in the 1974 edition of Who's Who in Texas "for recognition as a distinguished citizen of the State of Texas." By coincidence, plaques for both Dr. Brock and Mark were delivered by mail on the same day.

Mark, a pre-medicine major, was graduated with honors and a 3.65 grade point average from WTC in May, receiving the Associate in Arts degree. Dr. Brock received his first college degree with honors from Hardin-Simmons University, then went to the University of Texas in Austin for a master's degree. Mark plans to follow his father to the Austin campus this fall to complete his junior and senior years and then to enter medical school.

Although Dr. Brock has been a school administrator for 20 years, he and Mark were never in the same school until Mark enrolled at WTC after graduation from Snyder High School. Dr. Brock was principal of Snyder High School for five years, but he took a leave of absence to earn his doctorate from Texas Tech University just before Mark entered high school.

"Having Mark on campus was a pleasant experience even though we rarely saw one another," Dr. Brock said. In addition to carrying a full academic load, Mark was employed as a nursing assistant at Cogdell Memorial Hospital and had a very full schedule.

Mark was in the second class to graduate from WTC, and he says he is glad that he chose to attend WTC. "My instructors were highly qualified and genuinely interested in helping students to be successful," he commented.

At WTC, Mark was a member of Phi Theta Kappa, national honor society for junior college
