"Putting Up" Spiced Up

Imagine breakfast toast without jam or peach pie without peaches. Thanks to the Spanish and French, Americans can enjoy both. The Spanish introduced the tree to the New World, and the French and English planted the peach stone in the Louisiana and Jamestown areas. Around 1810 a Frenchman, Nicholas Appert, sterilized peaches in hermetically sealed bottles, and today fruits can be enjoyed year round because of his efforts. Spiced Peach Jam is made with powdered jam and jelly pectin and is a delicious way to "put up" peaches. Check the label inside the pectin box for a peach freezer jam recipe which is yet another way to enjoy this cosmopolitan fruit.

Spiced Peach Jam

(Using 2 oz. size jam and jelly pectin)

- 3 pounds (about) fully ripe peaches
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 package (2 oz.) MCP jam and jelly pectin
- 2 sticks (2 inches each) cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon whole cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon whole allspice
- 4 cups sugar
- 2 cups Karo light corn syrup

Rinse, peel and remove pits from peaches. Crush peaches, one layer at a time to let juices flow. Measure 4 cups peaches; turn into large kettle. Add lemon juice and pectin; stir well. Tie cinnamon, cloves and allspice together in small piece of cheese cloth; add to mixture. Bring to boil over medium high heat, stirring constantly. Add sugar and corn syrup. Continue stirring and bring to full rolling boil. Boil hard 4 minutes. Remove from heat. Remove spice bag. Stir and skim 5 minutes. Leaving 1/4 to 1/2 inch head-space, ladle into clean hot glasses or jars. Wipe top edge with damp towel. Seal according to manufacturer's directions. Process in boiling water bath 5 minutes. Cool on wire rack or folded towel. Date, label and store in cool place. Makes 9 (oz.) containers.

extraordinary degree of technology and sophistication for use in the United States and elsewhere throughout the world and we believe that these countries can monitor and record thousands of telephone conversations. Americans have a right to be uneasy, if not seriously disturbed, at the real possibility that their personal and business activities which they discuss freely over the telephone could be recorded and analyzed by agents of a foreign power."

"THIS RAISES THE REAL SPECTER," the report points out "That selected American users of telephones are potentially subject to blackmail that can seriously affect their actions or lead in some cases to recruitment as espionage agents."

IN THESE FINDINGS OF THE ROCKEFELLER COMMISSION, the report seems fairly well balanced and not simply an indictment of the C.I.A. Those who would abolish our intelligence system, including the F.B.I., like nothing better than to point out the criticism of these agencies in the report but to ignore the warnings contained in Chapter 2 of the Commission's document.

RIGHT NOW THERE RAGES IN THE U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES the matter of who is to conduct hearings on the C.I.A., comparable to the one now going on in the Senate headed by Senator Church of Idaho. The radicals want a forum to attack our security agencies and, from all indications, would abolish them if they could. These are mostly the same people, both in and out of Congress, who oppose adequate military preparedness and who would relegate our nation to a second-rate power in this world.

Two can ride cheaper than one.

Bicentennial Double Header

The hand flips a coin. Heads I win. Tails you win. The eyes light on the head of a colonial drummer. Did you win or lose the toss? You won!

That head is really a tail. You can take the word of Mary Brooks, Director of the U.S. Mint. She's our nation's coinmaker and says the colonial drummer was chosen in a national design competition to appear on the back of the new Bicentennial quarter. George Washington, she insists, still heads the coin over a new date—1776-1976—and it was all done to celebrate our country's 200th birthday.

"I know big decisions, like whether or not to walk the dog in the rain, rest on the flip of a coin," Mrs. Brooks says, "and I want to warn the nation's big decision makers about the coming big change in their small change."

In all, the Mint is changing the designs on the backs of three coins in honor of the Bicentennial. Along with Washington on the quarter, those famous faces of Kennedy and Eisenhower, with the new twin date, still head the half dollar and dollar. Again, it's the backs that carry the new Bicentennial designs.

Independence Hall won its place on the back of the half dollar. And the moon and Liberty Bell was chosen for the dollar reverse.

By July 7, 1975, your friendly neighborhood bank should begin receiving the first of the circulating Bicentennial coins to be released—the Kennedy-Independence Hall half dollar. Before the end of the year, the Federal Reserve System will have had the time to supply the nation's commercial banks with the newly redesigned quarter and dollar.

"To me, these coins—like all our coins—are symbols of our nation's 200 years of freedom," Mrs. Brooks says. "They are small links with our historical and cultural heritage that will touch the hands of every man, woman and child in America."

Rule Teacher Is Honored

A. T. Kutch, Rule Vocational Agriculture teacher, Rule, Texas, will be honored by the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas in Houston, Texas, on Tuesday, July 29, 1975, according to Albert Timmerman, Jr., Rockdale, President of the organization.

Kutch is being recognized for his 20 years of service to the Vocational Agriculture program in Texas. He graduated from Wellington High School; received his B.S. degree in Agri. Ed. from Texas A&M University; and his M.E. degree from Abilene Christian College. He also attended West Texas State.

He is the proud recipient of the honorary State Farmer Degree in the Future Farmers of America.

The award will be presented at the annual awards program of the association. The awards program is held during the statewide In-Service Education Workshop of Vocational Agriculture Teachers.

This year's conference will emphasize the implementation of new approaches in vocational agriculture education. Leaders in agriculture and education from throughout the state and nation will take part in the four-day in-service meeting. Education features of the meeting will be under the direction of Mr. J. A. Marshall, Director of Agricultural Education, Texas Education Agency, Austin, Texas.

Mr. Kutch served two years in the U.S. Army. The Kutch family are members of the First United Methodist Church of Rule. Mr. Kutch was selected "Outstanding Man of the Year" by the Rule Chamber of Commerce in 1966; member of Rule Lodge #954 AF & AM, past Master 62-63, Masonic Lodge; Member Rule City Council 66-72; member Rule Lions Club, serving as President in 1964-65.

The Rule FFA Chapter members have participated in many leadership and judging contests and livestock shows taking their share of the honors and awards presented. These banners and trophies are on display in the Vocational Agriculture Building at the high school.

M. C. Wilfong Receives Award

M. C. Wilfong who owns and operates M. C. Wilfong Texaco Station received a special "Mystery Car" Award from a representative of the Gates Rubber Company, Denver, Colorado. The Award, a plaque bearing three Eisenhower Silver Dollars and two Kennedy Half-Dollars, was presented to M. C. Wilfong for exceptional customer service when he caught the Gates "Mystery Car."

The Gates Rubber Company sponsors this award program, now in its 43rd year, to reward service station personnel to properly check for certain worn or defective parts. A fleet of Gates "Mystery Cars" travel across the country stopping at service stations. Each car is equipped with a worn fan belt, faulty radiator hose, and defective windshield wiper blades. Award plaques are presented to those station personnel who recognize one of the defective parts and offer to replace it with the correct Gates part.

File Your Taxes Before July 31

AUSTIN--Comptroller Bob Bullock reminded 225,000 retail businesses Monday that July 31 is the deadline for sending in quarterly sales tax reports.

"Late reports are nothing but headaches for the taxpayer and for the Comptroller's Office," Bullock said. "I'd like to see every quarterly report filed on the deadline."

Reports due July 31 cover the April-May-June quarter. Forms for the reports were sent to all sales tax permit holders by Bullock's office in June.

"Most of the delinquent or tardy reports are just oversights and simple mistakes but the consequences under the law are just the same," Bullock said.

Marion Holds Reunion

The children and families of Mrs. C. W. Marion held their fourth annual reunion July 12 and 13. Saturday night everyone enjoyed a picnic at the park. Sunday the reunion was held at the Haskell Country Club where activities included visiting, swimming, and golfing. The program planned by Mrs. Ann Long consisted of showing films made during previous reunions. Mrs. Marion was honored on her birthday with a corsage, cake, gifts and everyone joining in singing "Happy Birthday".

The 1976 reunion will be the first Sunday in August at the Haskell Country Club. Officers for the 1976 reunion are: President—Charles Gibson, Haskell; Vice-President—Alvin Rex Marion, Bedford; Secretary—Miss Ginger Howard, Abilene; Treasurer—Bobby Howard, Haskell; Program Chairman—Mrs. Jesse Pearl Hill, Ft. Stockton; Food Committee—Mrs. Essie Long, Childress, Mrs. Susie Kreger and Mrs. Julia Gibson, Haskell.

Attendance numbered 61, with relatives coming from Walsh, Colorado; Goodwell, Oklahoma; and Ft. Stockton, Dumas, Ennis, Childress, Lubbock, Wellington, Bedford, Victoria, Portland, Abilene, Ft. Worth, Plainview, and Haskell, Texas.

The Bicentennial emphasis is creating an interest in the history of our nation, and also that of our own town and county.

Haskell County natives are probably familiar with many of the incidents and events recorded in the book "Haskell County History". But newcomers to the community and those who have not had the benefit of "handed down" family stories, would find it most informative and interesting reading.

Written by R. E. Sherrill in 1935, it was published in book form by the Haskell Free Press in 1965.

The book covers in years from 1849 until the time of Mr. Sherrill's writing in 1935.

Prospectors heading for California in search of gold travelled a well-worn trail that led through what we now know as Haskell County. A Captain March camped at Paint Creek as he returned to Fort Smith, Arkansas from Santa Fe, New Mexico and described the land as "beautiful and fertile, and a favorite resort of the Comanches."

The author recounts the hardships of the pioneers as they moved in and Haskell became a permanent settlement, with hostile Indians, tornadoes, drought and blizzards all contributing to their uncertainties. His description of a dust storm is so vivid that the reader can almost feel the stinging sand and see and hear barrels and tubs blowing about!

The slaughter of the buffalo herds and the bounty paid for prairie dog scalps call attention to conditions that were unique to the winning of the West.

Not only origins and dates, but anecdotes and human interest accounts hold the reader's attention. Quirks of fate and coincidence, plus character traits of many who contributed to the community's development, are recorded. One such was a newspaperman of whom Mr. Sherrill said, "It was a serious loss to the county when he died of a tobacco heart, for he was an inveterate smoker!"

As in all sagas of the West the coming of the railroad was an important factor. Haskell's struggle to get a railroad took 25 years, beginning with a survey by Colonel Jordan Therwanger in 1881. At high noon August 2, 1906 the tracks finally reached the town and by November there was regular through service to Stamford.

Histories and interesting data on county towns other than Haskell are given. Also the schools, churches, lodges and other organizations and their leaders receive extensive coverage by the author. Family names mentioned include Reynolds, Matthews, Wilfong, Crandle, Couch, Foster, Rike and many, many others.

There are four copies of this excellent history book in the Haskell County Library and Mrs. McGee says they are in great demand. She is also attempting to get a copy of "Interwoven" by Sallie Reynolds Matthews, which is the story of the Reynolds and Matthews families and gives glimpses of frontier life in West Texas.

R. E. Sherrill records that the first permanent settlement in Haskell County was made by George T. Reynolds and J. A. Matthews and their wives on California Creek in the southeast corner of Haskell County in 1876. The first white child born in Haskell County was Ashbel Watkins Reynolds, born March 19, 1878 to Mr. and Mrs. Glen Reynolds.

Soon to be added to the chronicles of Haskell County history will be Rex Felker's compilation of the history of pioneer county families. This is one of the projects promoted by the Bicentennial Commission's Heritage Division, whose chairman is Mrs. Opal Adkins.

AUSTIN—Energy shortage or no, out-of-state motorists are still obeying Texans' friendly injunction, "Y'all come back."

They came back last spring, and 72 per cent of the auto visitors were repeat customers. They thronged Texas Tourist Bureaus in record numbers, drove more miles in the state, stayed longer, and spent more money in Texas than ever before.

meeting proved to be a mini-reunion for them.

The family researcher, Samuel Bruce Vick of nearby Pope, Miss. (a second cousin of the Rule Vicks) announced in the general meeting that there were descendants present from all the four lines (of Joseph's sons), and that more than 15 states were represented, with probably 250 or 300 in attendance.

At one time or another, it was through the efforts of "Cousin Sam" and his family that the meeting was planned and invitations sent out.

Considering the ten or eleven generations since Joseph Vick from Bavaria, those present were distant in relationship, generally, but they elected officers, incorporated, and voted to meet again in 1977. They chose to meet again at Sardis, which is near the birthplace of the late R. L. Vick, Sr., of Rule, a grandson of the first Vick of the "John line" to settle in Mississippi.

Maybe folks were a little skeptical about taking stock in America 200 years ago.

We were young. At war. With no experience. And who knew if we'd ever pay back the money? Well, 200 years have passed. And the U.S. government has always paid in full. To the penny. Now that's not a bad record.

In fact, you might say we're now a pretty well-established outfit to do business with.

So join the Payroll Savings Plan and save with today's Bicentennial issue of Series E Savings Bonds. It's easy. It's automatic.

And it's safe. After 200 years, you know we're here to stay.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years. If you cash them before maturity, interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America. 200 years at the same location.

More Questions . . . Keep Those Samples Coming . . .
Deadline Nearing . . . Good Eating.

It's crop questionnaire time again from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

A total of 24,700 farmers in Texas have received a questionnaire relating primarily to small grain acres. If you are one of those who have received it, you are requested to fill it out as accurately as possible and return it promptly.

Interest continues to increase in all areas of agricultural production in the state and throughout the nation. During the era of the so-called "burdensome surpluses" there was very little interest evoked when a crop survey was made. But now the questionnaire becomes important.

Another form Texas agricultural producers need to note is the census. Although the majority of the census forms have been returned, the Census Bureau says it still needs those not yet returned.

You need to fill out only those questions applicable to your operation. And the Census Bureau says you can be assured no one will see your answers except the census enumerator.

Figures will be compiled into county, state and national totals.

SCREWORM CASES continue to be reported in parts of Texas, and screwworm eradication officials urge livestock producers to adhere to its four-point program for eradication.

Check your livestock regularly, treat wounds on livestock with approved screwworm-control remedies, delay surgery on livestock as long as possible and submit suspected screwworm samples to the fly lab at Mission. Your county agent has vials which you can use to send the samples.

AUG. 15 may seem to be a long way off since this is still mid-July. But it will be here shortly, and the main thing to remember about Aug. 15 is that it is the deadline date for submitting your entry to the Family Land Heritage Program.

That Program honors those farm families and their descendants in Texas who have owned and continuously farmed the same piece of land for 100 years or more. If you believe you can qualify for this award, you can get an application from your county judge or by writing to the Texas Department of Agriculture, Austin, Texas 78711.

Last year, more than 560 farm families in the state were so honored. The Program, recognized to be of great historical significance, is sponsored by the Texas Department of Agriculture to honor agriculture and agricultural producers.

IF YOU LIKE ICE CREAM (and who doesn't) you'll be happy to know that ice cream production increased in 1974. Perhaps the same trend is continuing this year.

CONSERVATION VIEWPOINTS USDA Soil Conservation Service

Assisting
California Creek and Wichita-Brazos
Soil and Water Conservation Districts

Growing grass is everybody's business. To man, grass is the most useful plant that grows on the land. It provides the principal source of food for man and all other living creatures. History shows that when the grass dies out, so does civilization.

Growing grass and controlling erosion were once jobs believed to be the responsibility of the farmer and rancher and therefore left to these individuals. This is not so today, because only five percent of our population are farmers and ranchers, and they tend the rural areas. The other ninety-five percent own and operate small tracts of land in or near the city, which are also subject to erosion. It is just as important that these people use sound conservation measures to care for their soil and water and prevent erosion because they have neighbors that will be affected faster. Grass is the most effective plant used in controlling erosion and cleaning the water and air.

There are many varieties of grasses and new ones are being developed each year. These grasses have been developed for specific purposes and to be used on certain soils. Some grasses grow tall while others grow close to the ground. Some of them grow in the winter and others grow in the summer. Many are adapted to the clay soils while others are better suited to the deep sandy soils. Some grasses have the ability to gather moisture from deeper below the ground surface and use much heavier rates of fertilizer than others.

The urban grass grower wants his property to look good, stay green and produce to fit his needs, just as does the farmer or rancher. For the parks and golf courses, the grass must be tough enough to take heavy traffic. For all the grass users, the plants must be able to come back year after year.

Grass is a living thing and makes growth according to the treatment it receives and the plant food it gets. Regular applications of fertilizer are needed on all grasses. They require a certain amount of green leaf surface before they are able to use the fertilizer applied. When grasses are overgrazed or mowed too short, the new growth comes from the food stored in the roots, just like it does in the spring after the winter is over. Thus, plant growth and production are slowed until the plant replaces its needed parts enough to use the fertilizer.

There is no guide that will fit the entire country and give you satisfactory results in selecting a grass that will fit your place. Your local Soil Conservation Service office has a detailed soil map of your farm or town lot. This scientific information about your soil is the best there is for helping you select the plants best adapted to it, and suit your desires for its use. This information can be had at no cost by stopping by the SCS office at 112 N. Ave. E.

Grow Your Own Groceries

CANNING HOME GARDEN SURPLUS

Home canned fruits and vegetables make nutritious meal plans easy, according to Barbara Elliott, county Extension agent.

Canning also offers a safe way to preserve food.

Mrs. Elliott recommends two methods for canning fruits and vegetables at home.

The steam pressure method involves processing foods under pressure at a temperature of 240 degrees F. It is recommended for low-acid foods such as corn and beans.

A steam pressure canner or pressure saucepan supplies enough heat to destroy the spores of bacteria which cause botulism, flat, sour and other types of spoilage.

All parts of the pressure canner should be clean and in good working condition. Check canners with dial pressure gauges at least once a year. The waterbath method concerns processing food at a temperature of 212 degrees F. by boiling containers of acid in water. This method is recommended for processing fruits, tomatoes and other high-acid foods, because it does supply enough heat to destroy bacteria, yeasts, molds and enzymes that cause spoilage in acid foods.

There are two ways of packing food for this waterbath method: hot-pack, and cold or "raw"-pack, explains the agent.

The hot-pack involves heating food before packing it into containers.

For the cold or "raw"-pack variation, pack raw or uncooked food into containers and add boiling liquid.

Try canning tomatoes using a "raw"-pack with the waterbath method, suggests Mrs.

Elliott. Raw-pack tomatoes are washed and packed in jars. Properly filled jars are gently boiled in water to the "boiling" space. If desired, teaspoon salt per lids and process 35 minutes for minutes for quarts. For additional information about preparing and processing vegetables and fruits, contact the county Extension agent, Mrs. Elliott.

The Consumer Alert
 by John L. Hill
 Attorney General

AUSTIN—Ever see a child's face light up when he or she is given that first puppy or kitten? It's enough to make the training period that follows almost bearable.

But our Attorney General's Consumer Protection lawyers say that some persons who purchase pets occasionally get far more than they expect—or want.

They may get animals that appear healthy but quickly get sick; they may discover that an animal is not as represented to them; or they may find for some reason, perhaps size or temperament, that the animal simply doesn't fit into the family.

In cases where misrepresentation of merchandise or other false, misleading, or deceptive sales practices have occurred, consumers who purchase pets have recourse under the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act.

But otherwise, if a consumer just has second thoughts about the purchase, there could be some disappointment. That's because no store is required to give refunds or exchanges, although many do so to maintain customer good will.

Our Consumer Protection Division has had complaints from several pet purchasers. In one case, a man ordered and paid in advance for a lion cub. Later, after talking it over with his wife, he changed his mind and requested a refund. The pet store owner refused, saying he had already ordered the cub from a supplier and couldn't cancel the order.

Another complaint involved an out-of-state consumer who ordered a woolly monkey from a Texas seller. After arrangements and payment had been made, the seller backed out of the deal.

Dollars & Good Sense
 by William J. Martin
 Special Consultant to SAVCO FINANCIAL SERVICES

In recent columns, I've discussed the fact that even in times of economic belt-tightening, it's important to get away for a vacation. Remember that, properly budgeted, a vacation need not cost you a fortune.

The key is planning, so you'll know in advance how much your trip is going to cost. Once you've decided upon what you want to do, make a list of all your expenses. Be complete and specific.

If you are going to drive, be sure to include pre-trip maintenance on the family car. Getting the car in top traveling shape can be expensive, but it is not to be overlooked. Also budget for gasoline and tolls. Depending upon where you travel, they can be considerable. Accommodations must be planned ahead, as well. Make reservations, and if possible, get the rate confirmed in writing.

Food will also be costly. Plan to make sandwiches for picnicking along the way. Otherwise, you'll end up spending a fortune at roadside stands. And when you do have to eat out, shop around. Read the menu before you go in to be sure the prices are in keeping with your budget.

And last, be sure to budget money for admission to historical sites, museums and parks. If you plan ahead and stick to your budget, you'll be able to relax and enjoy your hard earned rest.
