As usual, applicants are ap-proved only after being certified by a committee of three local farmers in their county, and veterans get preference. The present Haskell County commit-temen are Herman D. Of the 3 million or so farmers with gross incomes under $1500 in recent years, very few could bor-row from local banks or other institutions, Most didn't have security enugh. To help meet this kind of situation, the FHA was established a little more than 5 years ago. Since the chief aim of the Farmers Home Administration is to help family farm operators make the most efficient use of their land and labor supply, the larger loans Congerss authorized will be a great help in this direction. "In the past we've had to turn down many veterans and other young farmers who came to us for assistance-just because we couldn't finance them adequately in working out a balanced farming system. And we knew it would hurt them if we started out to help them, and could go only half way," the FHA County Supervisor said. Mr. Beeson

"Our main emphasis is on helping farmers reorganize into profitable farming systems into profitable ones. Farmers right here in Haskell County can now get additional assistance in revamping their farm set that each applicant will get the full amount of the higher loan limit. As usual, we'll lend only what the applican' really needs and can pay back. We'll not make loans that private credit can handle, and our c'efinition of a family farm will remain the same. We'll use our increased authority to help farmers make major adjustments in their operations and develop them into more efficient managers. "Correcting these and other circumstances, and reorganizing the farm business to change from wrong to right farming, usually require long time operat-ing credit, careful planning and follow-up guidannce — all of which are provided in the FHA loan program. "Each applicant who receives "Each applicant who receives an adjustment loan is assisted by the county supervisor in draw-ing up a long time farm and home management plan. This plan may call for a number of improvements such as a better helence between groups and livebalance between crops and live-stock and involves the selection stock and involves the selection of those enterprises best adapted to the land and family labor, the addition of power and equip-ment for efficient operation and enough operating capital to make for maximum net cash inenough operating or cash in-come. Greater production per acre and per animal is accom-plished through better varieties of seed, proper fertilization of crops, pest control measures, imely breeding of livestock di-seases and parasites. "A plan of this sort, when earried out, brings many bene-fits. It helps the farmer be-come established in a well bal-anced system of farming, get settled on a good family type farm with secure tenuro, main-tain a satisfactory standard of living, reach a point where cred-it may be obtained from other sources, and set necessary tech-nical guidance and aid from oth-er agricultural gencies." Although FHA loans are made of for credit from banks or other institutions, by the time the borrower has repaid his loan he usually has acquired chattals and other resources to become a good customer of a bank. The county supervisor of FHA commented that families cooper-ating with the Farmers Home Administration in this county are making good progress through these supervised credit services. "Through our expand-ed supervised credit services we are now able to help farmers step up preduction of needed come. Greater production per

Texas cotton crop production for 1951 was estimated Monday at 4,100,000 bales in the final report of the year by the depart-ment of agriculture at Washington

That represents a drop of 200,000 bales of 500 pound gross weight from the forecast of a month ago-but it was more than 40% higher than last year's 2,900,000 bale harvest.

The agricultural department placed the nation's crop at 15,-290,000 bales That also was much larger than the 1950 crop, and considerably larger than the 10year (1940-49) average of 12,-030,000 bales.

Like Texas, most of the other cotton producing states fell off from the 15,771,000 bale crop predicted in early November. The department has called for another big crop next year-at least 16,000,000 bales-to meet heavy demands under the preparedness program and to sup-ply customers abroad. This year's production goal also was set at 16,000,000 bales. According to the report, Texas harvested 11,800,000 acres and yielded an average of 165 pounds per acre. The census bureau, in an accompanying report, said 12,802,-634 running bales of cotton were ginned before Dec. 1, compared to 8,785,265 bales last year and 13,975,840 two years ago. No es-timate of cottonseed production was given.

tonseed is the same as the average for he past five years, the department said.

"Returns" and exchanges may seem like a simple little service to ask of your favorite store. But to the store and to the people who serve you, "returns" mean a heavy burden of added duties . . . extra bookkeeping, extra inspection of returned garments, and extra work for the salesperson who wanted to please you. "Returns" mean inconvenience for other shoppers who might want that same article while it is out of the store. As in social life, consideration of others is the measure of good manners in shopping. We have been buying hatching eggs from a number of poultry raisers during the entire year. In recent months they have realized an average of 75c per dozen for their eggs under this contract.

Picture of a man making a smart decision

T TERE is a man who's been doing a lot of thinking.

Someday, he's told himself, I'm going to turn in my old car and get a new one.

And he said, still talking to himself, when I do that I'm going to size up the fieldgive 'em all a real going over.

You see him here at the wheel of a Buick. He hasn't bought it-yet. It's a demonstrator, and he's trying it out.

But the more he tries it, the more he knows he's been wasting a lot of time.

From the moment he looked inside, he said: Here's the room-and the comfortand the style I've been looking for.

Then he nudged its Fireball Engine into action. It's a high-compression valve-inhead, as you probably know.

He eased out into traffic. Stopped and started for a couple of traffic lights, and said something to the effect that this Dynaflow Drive* is a honey. Why don't they all build 'em this way?

He saw a bump ahead. Place where the pavement had been torn up. Other cars were braking down to a creep to cross it. He held back-rolled right across at regular speed with barely a bobble.

It's hard to believe, he said, but what they say about Buick's ride is right.

Ten minutes later he was out on an open stretch of road. Tried an experimental push on the gas treadle.

Boy-what a take-off! You couldn't want more power than that.

Ten minutes more-and he knew something else. You don't really steer a Buick. It just about steers itself. Stays right on the beam on the straightaway. Even straightens itself out after a curve. To make a long story short-he's found out that nothing else he's tried out can hold a candle-not even a little Christmas candle -to this bonnie beauty.

Back at the Buick showroom, he's going to get one more surprise. The price of a Buick is a lot less than he'd guessed it would be.

Moral: Smart Buy's Buick-right now.
