Dates Set For Jr. Livestock Show

The board of directors for the Haskell County Junior Livestock Association met Thursday night, Sept. 25, and made plans for the forthcoming Junior Livestock Show. Present for the meeting were Preston Ballard, Ted Elliot, Lowell Freeman, Duane Gilly, Randy Mosley, George Mullino, Max Stapleton, R. A. Shaver III, R. B. Townsend, Mike Wilcox, Andy Wilfong and Bill Comedy.

Dates for the show was set for Jan. 15-17. Committees appointed included Sales Committee Chairman, C. A. Thomas; Local Chairmen, Ted Elliott-Haskell; George Mullino-Rochester; Tiffen Mayfield-Weinert; and Tom Kutch Rule; Contributions Chairman, Max Stapleton; General Supt., Lowell Freeman; Beef Supt., Cookie Shaver; Swine Supt., Truman Therwanger; Sheep Supt., Cecil Lewis; Rabbit and Poultry Supt., David Howell.

Directors discussed rules of the show and set times of showings as follows: Rabbit and Poultry, 9 a.m. Friday; Sheep, 10 a.m. Friday; Swine, 1 p.m. Friday; Steers and Heifers, 9 a.m. Saturday. Sale 2 p.m. Saturday.

This year the sale will be set up on Premium only. Instead of bidding on so much per pound for the animal, a person will bid a premium only. He does not have to pay the difference between the floor price and what he bids. For an example, you want to bid $100 premium on a steer, that $100 is all it will cost you. You will know the amount it will be when you finish bidding. James Powell will be the auctioneer again this year and the sale will be held at the Show Barn.

AUSTIN, Tex.—State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie Tuesday said 35,000 Texas drivers could forfeit automobile insurance discounts this fall.

Christie said drivers who completed the National Safety Council's Defensive Driving Course in the Fall of 1972 will lose their eligibility to a 10 percent discount on insurance premiums unless they re-take the course.

He said the discount program, established by the State Board of Insurance, is valid for a three-year period, but former DDC graduates can renew their eligibility for another 36 months by completing the 8-hour program.

"Over 400,000 Texas motorists have completed the course in the past three years and statistics show that DDC graduates have 32 percent fewer accidents. Fewer accidents mean lower rates," Christie said.

The Texas Safety Association, which administers the DDC program in Texas, reports that the DDC program has been revised. Christie said.

The new program contains many new films and visual aids, as well as new information on traffic laws, driving habits, road design and engineering innovations.

The Defensive Driving Course has also been translated into Spanish and is being offered to Spanish-speaking Texas motorists by a number of training agencies in the state. Christie said the State Board of Insurance has also extended the 10 percent premium discount to motorcycle operators who complete the DDC Motorcycle Supplement.

Under the Board's rules, cyclist who finish the regular 8-hour course and the 2-hour motorcycle supplement are eligible for a discount on both automobile and motorcycle insurance premiums.

How often is it really necessary to review my insurance coverage?

Periodically, depending upon how static your economic and family situation is. When an individual takes on any new responsibility, receives a reasonable increase in pay or suffers a financial loss, this indicates a review should be made. As a family develops, the cash requirements for certain items which need to be bought on installments and the major commodities considered to be necessities eventually ease off. Thus more money is available to be saved and this would call for a possible review of your insurance coverage. These are the times to come in with your plans, present financial circumstances, and discuss your personal situation.

Have A Soup-er Supper

Nothing warms body and soul better on cold or murky days than a big steaming bowl of homemade soup. Somehow the world takes on a rosier glow as the warm liquid—filled with products of a successful summer garden—does for the inside what fuzzy slippers and an overstuffed easy chair do for the outside.

Extremely nourishing and economical, soup has been a basic food in every country and with every civilization throughout the ages. France has its pot-au-feu, Italy its minestrone, Russia its borscht and China its bird's nest soup. Since time immemorial people have kept the stock pot simmering all day on the back of the kitchen stove.

In France, soup is still the basis of national diet. The word "supper" is derived from the French term "La Soupe," which has been the name of the evening meal in parts of rural France for hundreds of years.

One of the most popular of French soups is bouillabaisse. A variation of this French delight is served at the Holiday Inn in Buena Park, Calif., in which seafoods and seasonings are simmered slowly in a white burgundy wine. Another hearty meal-in-a-bowl served at the Buena Park inn is a fascinating mixture of meat, vegetables and grain called beef barley soup.

Although promoting the producer is customary fare for this column, seeing farmers get "good press" from one of the country's financial magazines is refreshing. In the July issue of FORTUNE, a major article compliments today's farmer as being a talented businessman. In part the article says, . . . "a farmer must be a tolerably good chemist, mechanic, market analyst and cost accountant . . . must be able to judge when to sell his crops, when to hold back, and when to hedge with futures contracts, requiring not only a deep understanding of the commodities markets, but also a grasp of U. S. economic policies at home and abroad." When talking about management ability . . . "When it comes to managerial skill, a first-rate farmer can hold his own with businessmen in industry." In short the article states what a lot of us have realized for a long time . . . a successful farmer or rancher means being a true professional!

Haskell Bicentennial Happenings

By Rosie Parker

Indian Battleground (fought U. S. Cavalry). Rice Springs (early Indian camp and also used by Texas Rangers). Indian Graveyard, Moar Brothers' Buffalo Headquarters on Lake Creek, First House in Haskell, Site of Battle with Indians at Scotts Crossing, Cowboy Reunion of 1898 on Pippin Farm southwest of town; Stage and mail stop at Jones Ranch, First Jail, Battle at the Rock Pens, Mule Creek, First Courthouse, Scott Ranch, Rike Ranch, SMS Ranch, and Shook Ranch.

Mrs. Adkins said the committee would welcome suggestions if there are others that might be added to the list.

We already have two of the markers on buildings in Haskell: the J. U. Fields home and the Railroad Museum. The Fields home is one of the oldest homes in Haskell and received the historical marker in 1964. The house was built by Mr. Fields' father, Captain W. W. Fields, Haskell pioneer.

The museum marker was unveiled Sunday, June 30, 1968 after combined efforts of a great many people to make the museum a reality, among them Haskell Garden Club, County officials, Business and Professional Women, a county-wide Historical Survey Committee, and many individuals. It is now sponsored by the B&PW and maintained by County funding and sale of memberships.

I recently spent several hours at the museum and plan to go back because I couldn't cover all the ground. To an adopted Haskellite it appears we are letting a good thing sort of gather moss by not promoting the museum more.

There is so much to see—the railroad memorabilia, the farm tools, the dental instruments, and so many things used by pioneer families—enough to interest anyone who wants our heritage preserved.

The register from the Wright House, dated November, 1909, the postcard album belonging to Mrs. Jack Merchant, the prescription record book from Oates Drug, dated 1915—these all fascinated me. I was reminded again that history is more than recorded events—history is people!

A slightly different interpretation of history is given by Secretary of the Interior Morton: "We must continue to represent historic preservation as a form of resource conservation. It is our cultural ecology. Our society can no more survive without its history than waterfowl can survive without nesting places. We must represent historic preservation as a good business proposition and as sound economics. When you preserve historic resources you are preserving economic wealth as well as cultural values."

Speaking of old things, I admired the wooden form cabinet in the office of Carolyn Reynolds, District Clerk. When I began to exclaim at its age and beauty and said I would love to have it, she laughed. "Yes, that's what everybody says!" It's in such places as our public buildings that treasures like this old cabinet are to be found, still giving good use after many years of service.

While I was there to check the courthouse remodeling job Carolyn pointed out the witness chair in the courtroom; it had recently been re-upholstered and she noted that it could tell some interesting, perhaps many chilling tales if it could talk!

It's so good that the remodeling could be accomplished without structural change to the courthouse; I think our courthouse with the flags flying and its lawn and flowers is a beautiful sight and something in which we can all take pride.

There are lots of things going on this week. Excerpts from their Bicentennial Recital will be presented to Progressive Study Club by Pam Gibson's piano students. This was designated an official Haskell City-County Bicentennial Commission project.

The Yankee Doodle Girls recently presented their music to residents of Rice Springs Home and Leisure Lodge, and it was greatly appreciated.

During halftime activities at the ball game Friday night Haskell High School band will present a fireworks display with a Bicentennial theme. Wendell Gideon, director, is to be commended for this and I'm sure it will be something we will all enjoy. One of the disappointments on that rainy designation day was that our band did not get to perform as scheduled.

Remember our goals for Haskell in this Bicentennial year and participate! It's fun, a lot of work, but it hopefully will make our city and county a better place to live; and if nothing else, it is helping to remind us all of our heritage.

B&PW Club Holds Meeting

The Business & Professional Women's Club met Tuesday, Sept. 23 for a work night at the Haskell County Museum. One of the club's projects for several years has been the upkeep of the Museum, but some articles on display are in need of relabeling and some need to be better preserved.

Members brought sack lunches and the Finance and Benevolence Committee served pie and coffee.

National Business Women's Week will be October 19th through October 25th. The Club will start the week with a breakfast on Sunday, October 19th at the Haskell Steak House. The week will end with a dinner Saturday night, October 25th at the City Cafe. Mrs. Dora Gray, San Angelo, District director will be guest speaker. Members of the Stamford and Hamlin Clubs will be invited.

Sen. Farabee Named As Coordinator

State Senator Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls and Mrs. Raymond Sims, an officer of the Wichita Falls chapter of the League of Women Voters, have been named as regional coordinators of the campaign for the new Constitution. The appointments were made by former Texas Supreme Court Justice Robert W. Calvert, Chairman of Citizens for the Texas Constitution.

Senator Farabee and Mrs. Sims will coordinate the dissemination of information about the new Constitution and encourage voters to cast their ballots in favor of the document on November 4th. Their region includes the counties of Archer, Baylor, Briscoe, Callahan, Childress, Clay, Cottle, Dickens, Fisher, Floyd, Foard, Hale, Hall, Hardeman, Haskell, Howard, Jones, Kent, King, Knox, Mitchell, Motley, Nolan, Shackelford, Stonewall, Throckmorton, Wichita and Wilbarger which constitute the 30th Senatorial District.

Farabee, a first term member of the Texas Senate, is a former University of Texas student body president. Mrs. Sims is public information officer for the Wichita Falls Chapter of the Texas League of Women Voters.

In making the appointments, Judge Calvert said, "I am pleased that so many concerned citizens, like our coordinators in Senatorial District 30, have volunteered to help acquaint the people at the local level with the new Constitution and the urgent need for its adoption. The supporters of the new Constitution will, over the next several weeks, be taking the campaign to the people."

"With this support, I am confident that the people of Texas will vote on November 4th for a better Texas today and tomorrow. I am confident that they will vote yes for Texas and adopt the new Constitution."

Jr. Hi. Football

The Haskell Warriors and Jr. Varsity played Stamford at Stamford last Thursday night. The Haskell 7th grade Warriors won their first game of the season, defeating Stamford 14 to 0. The 7th graders now have a 1 win, 1 loss record for the season. The 8th graders were tied by Stamford, 0-0. That leaves the 8th grade season record at 3 wins and 1 tie. The 8th grade Warriors have not had their goal line crossed this season!

Jr. Varsity continued its winning ways by defeating Stamford 42-6. This sound victory leaves the Jr. Varsity with a 3 win, 1 tie season record.

These three Haskell teams will be open this week. They will travel to Paducah for 3 games on October the 9th.

Vega

Built to take it. Vega for 1976: An extensive anti-corrosion program. New hydraulic valve lifters, for quieter engine performance. A new torque-arm rear suspension. And Vega offers a tough Dura-Built 140-cu.-in. 4-cyl. engine guarantee.

Impala

One of America's most popular full-size cars. That's the result of giving America good value for the dollar. This year, the Impala series includes the new value of the thrifty Impala S—Chevrolet's lowest priced full-size car.

Nova/Concours

America's favorite compact car. Our basic compact, '76 Nova, makes even more sense than the 3 million Novas that preceded it. And Concours, the brand-new model featured here, is our highly practical approach to compact luxury.

Chevette

Enough car for practically anything. It offers room for six at a sensible price. This year, more than ever, its deft blending of mid-size economies, plus room for the average family, makes Chevette a size whose time has come.

There's much more to see at your Chevy dealer's. Caprice, Monza, Monte Carlo, Camaro, Corvette, Chevrolet wagons—something for everyone in 1976.

PSAT/NMSQT Test Set For Oct. 21

Mrs. Betty Davis, guidance director at Haskell and Rochester schools has announced that sophomores, juniors, and some seniors will be able to join over one million other students around the world in taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) this fall. The test, sponsored by the College Board and National Merit Scholarship Corporation, is an important step in making college plans.

Scheduled for October 21, the PSAT/NMSQT measures verbal and mathematical aptitude—two abilities important in doing college work.

The test can also lead to other opportunities for high school students:

They can enter the competition for scholarships administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation;

They can participate in the College Board's Student Search Service which is used by hundreds of colleges interested in students like them.

They can get a good idea of what the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) is like.

Along with their score reports, students will receive a copy of "About Your PSAT/NMSQT Scores", a booklet that contains valuable information about: Estimating SAT scores; Finding out where to get and how to use more detailed information about colleges and financial aid; Planning for financing a college education.

Also, by using the 1975 edition of the College Board's "College Handbook," students can compare themselves with enrolled students at the 2,863 colleges and universities listed.

Others that would contribute may forward checks to the "Michael Gray Johnson Memorial Fund" at the Haskell National Bank. For further information, please contact Gene Long or Mrs. Eugene Cochran.

VA News
 The 1975 Fall semester has begun on college campuses across the State, and thousands of veterans have returned to school under the GI Bill. According to C. H. Herren, Veterans Service Officer for Haskell County, many veterans need to carefully review their remaining GI Bill entitlement to be certain that it is being used to their best advantage.
 Eligible veterans are those with 181 days or more honorable service in the Armed Forces of the United States since January 31, 1955. A veteran is entitled to one and one-half months of training time for each month spent on Active Duty, with a maximum of 36 months eligibility for those who served 18 months or more. Persons whose only Active Duty was the six month training period as a member of the Reserves or National Guard are not eligible for any GI Bill training. If such a person had a later period of regular Active Duty which extended for twelve (12) months or more, the six months Reserve or Guard time may then be used to provide additional GI Bill entitlement.
 Under the GI Bill, if a veteran has enough entitlement to begin a semester, the Veterans Administration may continue his educational payments through the end of the semester, providing the ten-year delimiting date is not reached. Each veteran has a period of at least ten years to use his GI Bill. If his service terminated prior to June 1, 1966, he has ten years from that date, or until May 31, 1976, to use his entitlement. If service ended after June 1, 1966, the eligibility period runs for ten years after the date of discharge or release from Active Duty.
 If a veteran's entitlement is due to be used up during the month of December, he can request termination of benefits effective November 30, 1975. This means that he would not receive any payment for the month of December 1975, and for a portion of January 1976, until the Spring semester begins. He would then have enough remaining entitlement to enable the VA to pay him through the Spring semester.

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, D. C. BY A VOTE OF 308 TO 60, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES has voted to spend $160 million's worth of research towards the development of an electric automobile.

IT BRINGS TO MIND THE CLASSIC CARTOON OF LITTLE OLD VICTORIAN ladies driving in a battery-powered horseless carriage. Some of this Federal investment actually would go into the production of about 8,000 demonstration cars to be distributed widely among the public.

THE ENERGY RESEARCH DEVELOPMENT ADMINISTRATION OPPOSES THE legislation preferring to go slower and continue its own research into the improvement of batteries for electric cars. This, it seems, is the problem of an electric vehicle. The office of Management and Budget also voiced opposition, indicating that if this issue clears the Senate, it would probably be vetoed.

ON THE OTHER HAND THOUGH THE FOCUS IS NARROW IT SEEMS TO BE the sort of thing the President has been talking about—a move by which the Federal Government may give private industry the propulsion needed to achieve energy savings. All this, of course, is worthy intent.

THROUGH GOVERNMENT-INDUSTRY CO-OPERATION, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES wants to perfect and demonstrate in considerable volume the electric car-which people will want to buy for short-range driving. This means, of course, it would be almost altogether adapted to cities. It is true that some 55% of all energy used by automobiles is consumed in the cities and that is where the exhaust pollution is concentrated. The wisdom of mass producing such a vehicle to be peculiarly a "city car," has been advocated for quite a while by some visionaries in the transportation field. They see enormous fuel savings along with relief for congested environments which many of them say have had about all they can take from the gasoline combustion engine. Some also foresee fabulous rental-service possibilities in urban centers for these mini-cars of the future and their emergence as a major in-city supplement to mass transportation.

IT IS A NICE VISION. PEOPLE PURRRING AROUND THE CITY IN LITTLE electric automobiles, emitting no air pollution and no noise. Now, if everyone was darting around the city in tiny vehicles, one might be as safe as another. But darting around big vehicles, including busses and trucks, is something else.

EFFORTS HAVE BEEN UNDER WAY FOR SOME PERIOD to develop a practical battery as a source of power and in which the Government already has a hand. It would seem, however, that if there is this great potential in building such a vehicle, the automobile makers could do the job. After all, business is in business for a profit. The Government has no auto plants to build vehicles; and the automobile manufacturers would have to build these 8,000 cars, or else the Federal Government would have to construct its own plants.

BIG BUSINESS IS NOT

MRS. ELBERT JOHNSON, left had the Best of Show in the Odd Shoppe at the 1975 Haskell County Fair. Mrs. Andy Wilfong and Mrs. Paul Fischer served as Division Chairmen.

GOING TO OVERLOOK ANY BETS IN A PROPOSITION such as this if there is a potential for profit—that's what business is all about. But this legislation would put the Government in a private operation whether it is a sound investment or not. The Government is already in more business and projects of one sort or another than it can take care of without trying to build automobiles or subsidize someone to do it. But all this is small potatoes compared to President Ford's suggestion that the Government finance up to 100 billion dollars over the next ten years to develop new sources of fuels.

VA Increases Interest Rate

The Veterans Administration increased its home loan mortgage interest rate ceiling from 8-1/2 percent to 9 percent, effective September 2.

The increase was made in accordance with a joint Veterans Administration and Department of Housing and Urban Development policy of keeping the maximum rate in line with actual mortgage market conditions and to keep discount points to a minimum.

The increase was necessary to permit the VA to maintain its mortgage interest rate ceiling at a level consistent with the demands of the loan market. Jack Coker, VA Regional Director, said. If the interest rate is allowed to fall behind the market, the availability of money for VA loans becomes seriously impaired, he added.

The increase to 9 percent will narrow the gap in relation to the loan market. In addition to improving the yield of such loans the increase in the interest rate also will reduce the discounts for VA loans.

Sizable discounts arise when the VA interest rate ceiling does not reflect market conditions. Increased mortgage costs, therefore, can take the form either through a higher VA ceiling or larger discounts.

The discounts, which are in effect a lump-sum interest payment made on the loan, can be even a more burdensome form of added cost than an equivalent increase in the VA interest rate ceiling to 9

Sagerton News

The farmers in our area have begun harvesting that late milo and the yield is just as good as the early crop, due to the rains we received this summer.

Get well wishes go to Mr. D. W. Counts, who had surgery at the Haskell Memorial Hospital last week. His daughter, Sherry, from Arizona is here to be with him and her mother and Margie. We hope he will soon be able to come home again.

We also wish a speedy recovery to Mrs. G. W. LeFevre, who is to have surgery this week at Stamford Memorial Hospital.

Kathy Cornelison of Breckenridge visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. August Balzer, last week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Letz and children of Abilene visited with the Buster Tredemeyers Sunday.

Coming events for our community have been announced as follows: The Annual Sagerton "Hee-Haw" will be held during the month of October in the Sagerton Community Center. Mrs. Joe Clark is the director again for the fourth time, and it should be bigger and better. Watch your paper for the exact date.

Sunday, October 12, will be Layman's Day at the Sagerton Methodist Church, at which time there will be a guest speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Kieke and children of Breckenridge percent. Since VA regulations prohibit payment of discounts by veterans, the discounts must be paid by the seller of the house. When discounts are high, many sellers refuse to sell to veterans and thereby prevent many veteran buyers from acquiring homes to meet their needs.

The present increase is expected to improve the availability of funds for VA loans as well as improve the housing outlook.

The VA Loan Guaranty program assisted almost 300,000 veterans to become homeowners in the last year. In the 31-year history of the GI loan program, there have been 8.8 million loans guaranteed, amounting to an aggregate initial principal amount of $11.3 billion. About 54 percent already have been paid in full.

Mail Fraud Laws Offered By Post Office

We all know that you don't get something for nothing. Every now and then, though, we come across a chain letter or work-at-home opportunity that seems good enough to be true. But, according to the Postal Service, it may well be part of the recent increase in bogus schemes for work-at-home opportunities, correspondence schools, and even chain letters.

Apparently, mail order swindlers are using current economic conditions to gyp people through a variety of schemes. To help consumers avoid being cheated, the Postal Service has published a booklet called "Mail Fraud Laws". A free copy may be obtained by writing Consumer Information, Dept. 54, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

The booklet talks about types of fraud to watch out for. They include the following:

The promise of an "exciting, high-paying job" is the usual lure of the fake correspondence school. Generally the victims are people with little schooling, desperately trying to improve their economic opportunities.

An endless chain referral plan is a means of selling products for the home at generally exorbitant prices on the grounds that the item will cost the home-owner nothing, because by referring other people to the seller, he can earn through referral commissions to pay the full cost of his purchase.

The booklet advises that Postal Service inspectors need your cooperation in gathering evidence that the promoters knowingly made false claims. When you believe mail fraud exists, keep all letters, including envelopes and other evidence related to the questionable scheme. See if your neighbors or business associates have also received similar material. Bring this information to the attention of a Postal Inspector in your area.

"Mail Fraud Laws" is one of over 250 selected Federal consumer publications listed in the current edition of the "Consumer Information Index". Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the "Index" is available free from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colorado 81009, or at Federal Information Centers located throughout the country.

Have Records Ready When Filing For S.S.

Many people are not aware of when they should file for social security benefits and what they should bring with them, according to Glyn Hammons, Social Security District Manager in Abilene.

Persons who wish to file for retirement benefits should file their claim three months before the month they want their first check to start. They should also bring with them the following things:

- (1) their social security card,
- (2) a record of last year's earnings, and
- (3) a record of their age or date of birth.

For those who do not have a birth certificate, some records to consider are the old family Bible, a census record, school records, voter's record, marriage record, or a birth certificate. Hammons further states that "A record of earnings is needed in order to get credit to a person's self-employed earnings should bring a copy of a year's tax return. Form W-2. In addition, person filing has married children under 18, between 18 and attending school, or he should furnish children's birth certificates. Hammons stresses early filing can assure the individual better chance of getting first check on time. The Abilene office is at 142 S. Pioneer, open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Friday. If you live in Abilene, check local post office for representative of the social security office.

Thomas of Haskell was chef cook with Bobby assisting and feeding than 300 hungry people. Howard, president of Haskell CowBelles stated his years Bar-B-Q was probably the finest of any Bar-B-Q that the CowBelles have had in the past and was brought about by the full cooperation of its members.

The CowBelles are composed mostly of wives of ranchers, farmers, and individuals that are interested in the promotion of the sale of beef. While Haskell only receives less than 20% of their income from the sale of beef, these people are dedicated and want the beef market to reach its rightful level.

"Star-Spangled Musical Revue" To Be Presented

FORT WORTH--A new brand of entertainment, a "Star-Spangled Musical Revue" featuring "The Kids from Charlie's Place," will be presented during the 20 performances of the World's Original Indoor Rodeo, Jan. 30 through Feb. 8, reports W. R. Watt, Jr., general manager of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show.

Highlights of the musical performances will include the theme of the American Bicentennial year and the 80th anniversary of the Fort Worth Stock Show.

"Since our founding in 1896, the Stock Show has been noted for a number of innovations among various livestock and rodeo events," Watt said. "To our knowledge, the appearance of 'The Kids' will be the first time for a major rodeo to present a show of this nature to a rodeo audience. We are convinced 'The Kids from Charlie's Place' will be an outstanding attraction for the entire family."

Rodeo ticket orders are being taken by mail now, Watt added. All 8 p.m. and weekend 2 p.m. rodeo seats are priced at $4. Tickets are $3 for the 10 a.m. matinee Jan. 31 and all 2 p.m. week-day rodeos. Mail order tickets can be obtained from the Stock Show office, P.O. Box 150, Fort Worth, Texas 76101, by

Whorton Appointed New Associate Dean

Elbert B. Whorton Jr., Ph.D., has been appointed to the newly created position of associate dean for curriculum in the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences at Galveston. The announcement was made recently by Dr. J. Palmer Saunders, Dean of the Graduate School.

"Dr. Whorton's outstanding record of scholarly accomplishments, plus his experiences with a graduate program at the University of Vermont College of Medicine made him a logical choice for the position," said Dr. Saunders.

Dr. Saunders added that the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences, an essential component of The University of Texas Medical Branch, is known for its excellence in graduate education and research. "Dr. Whorton will be responsible for taking a continuing look at our scheduled courses of graduate study," Dr. Saunders explained. "He will be assessing their value in research working to improve their quality, and exploring new and better ways of evaluation."

Dr. Whorton is from Rule, and has been employed by the Medical Branch since 1972. He has served UTMB as associate professor and director of the Division of Biometry in the Department of Preventive Medicine and Community Health, positions which he will continue to hold on a part-time basis.

Looking ahead to his new role as associate dean, Dr. Whorton speaks of the Graduate School as a group of highly competent individuals which shares the common goal of excellence in research and including 50 cents for return postage and handling of each order.

"The Kids from Charlie's Place" have been praised by critics and audiences from throughout the United States for their fast-paced, non-stop brand of entertainment. The 17-member group has a special brand of bright, bold and brassy musical presentation.

Charlie's Place, located on the lower level of the Sheraton-Fort Worth Hotel opened in 1973 as the city's first supper club revue... featuring the largest group of young professional entertainers outside of Las Vegas.

"Original musical arrangements and lyrics are being especially created for presentation during the 1976 Fort Worth Stock Show Rodeo," said Charles R. Meeker, Jr., producer and namesake of Charlie's Place. "New costumes are being designed for the group and will be premiered at the Rodeo."

Meeker originated the college talent programs for live shows in amusement parks at Six Flags Over Texas in Arlington. Now virtually every park in the country has such a program using youth talent.

During his 16 years as producer of the State Fair Musicals in Dallas, Meeker literally turned the summer theatre business upside down. Revolutionary staging and casting ideas fast became "norm" for the nation's summer theatres.

"We are enthusiastic about the assignment for 'The Kids' to perform at the Rodeo."

graduate education. "The University of Texas, as an educational institution, has an excellent image," he says, "an image that demands the very best in graduate study. We are working to provide kind of programs which will turn out qualified graduates."

Dr. Whorton says that there is a continuing need for well trained graduates to do research in many important areas. "One constant challenge," he says, "is to understand and evaluate the relative importance of these areas in order to provide appropriate direction and instruction to our students. This is not easy to do in a rapidly changing society. Certainly our graduate students must be well versed in their chosen discipline; however, they should move toward a better understanding of other related disciplines as well. It is necessary if there is to be inter-professional communication and research leading to the solving of future problems. I want all of our graduates to make a significant contribution to society. Our Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences is working to provide the necessary background."

Dr. Whorton's case for versatility is supported by his own list of successes. His consultation and participation has been sought by a wide range of groups, organizations and agencies including state and federal government, education, medicine, religion, and civic projects. While in Vermont, he was appointed by the governor as a statistical consultant and collaborator on numerous applied research projects conducted by: The Department of Human Resources; the Department of Taxes; the Department of Employment Security; the Office of the Governor. Comprehensive Health Planning; and, the Vermont Health Systems, Incorporated.

In addition to his numerous contributions to Medical Branch projects, Dr. Whorton has assisted the federal government in recent years with such programs as the National Center for Health Services Research and Development, HSMHA, DHEW; and the Division of Manpower Intelligence, Bureau of Health Manpower Education, NIH, DHEW.

The list continues, for Dr. Whorton is noticeably an active professional. His advice to graduate students to "discover how your skills relate to society" is demonstrated in positive form by his own life style. He mentions, however, it is his wife, Evangeline Loessin Whorton, who is the energetic person in their home. A mother of two daughters, Lalise and Anna, Mrs. Whorton is a vice president in the Galveston Historical Foundation, a Galveston mayor's appointee to the Pier 19 Committee, and a member of the Junior League of Galveston and the Housing Task Force (Goals of Galveston). If activity at the Whorton household is an accurate indicator, Dr. Whorton's appointment as associate dean is a plus for the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Whorton of Rule.

Soil and Water Conservation Districts

The conservation plan, for today's farmers, means the wise use of natural resources. This means using these resources in such a way that they will produce profitably today and tomorrow. To the non-farmer, a conservation plan stands for a stable and constant supply of quality food—meat, milk, grain, and non-food items such as wood and fiber.

Most of our natural resources—soil, grass, trees, and watersheds—are privately owned, and in the hands of private, rural ownership. Therefore the individual farmer or rancher who maintains a conservation plan on his land in cooperation with the local soil and water conservation district, is the "backbone of America's conservation programs."

If farmers and ranchers are the backbone of our conservation programs, why does the Department of Agriculture emphasize urban conservation? Don't look at it like this—as a federal agency, they must serve all the people thru the locally governed conservation districts. This is true but, remember that although urban areas are small, percentage wise, they contain most of the people, and do so in relatively congested conditions. The wrong land treatment in an urban area can cause property and money losses to many people. In other words, sound conservation planning in urban areas can mean benefits to a large number of people all at once.

The conservation practices and principles that have been tested and used by the SCS for 40 years on rural areas will fit town problems too. Our most important conservation "tool" is the soil survey. These surveys aid community planners in much the same manner as they aid farmers and ranchers. Information concerning the soil such as, overflow areas, shallow soils, reinforcement of foundations to withstand soil pressure, and other soil and water-related problems are obtained thru the use of the soil survey. Farmers, ranchers, and urban people all can benefit from conservation planning and the use of the soil survey.

If you need help developing a conservation plan on your farm, ranch, development site, or lawn, contact your local soil and water conservation district directors or the Soil Conservation Service.

Sir:
Each semester for the past two years I have had the pleasure of working with men and women from Haskell, Stamford, and the surrounding area in classes at the Western Texas College Extension Center. I am not teaching a class this semester, so I thought this might be the appropriate time to make some comment concerning those persons who have participated in classes I have conducted during the past two years.

First, I want to express my admiration of these people for their willingness to commit their time and energy to continuing their education. Most of the men and women in the classes have families, full-time jobs, and other demands on their time. Their willingness to study, prepare assignments, and attend classes in addition to meeting these other responsibilities is to be admired.
Secondly, I want to compliment these people on the way in which they conducted themselves in the classes. They were prepared for class, they eagerly took part in class activities, and they made the task of teaching not only easy but pleasant.

I hope that these people are proud of their accomplishment. I know that Haskell, Stamford, and the other cities represented should take pride in the things that these men and women have accomplished.
Sincerely yours,
Harry L. Krenk

Address Change Asked By VA

The Veterans Administration is one of the U.S. Postal Service's best customers, emphasizing the importance for beneficiaries of VA benefits to keep the agency informed of their correct addresses.
Each month the VA mails out 7.3 million checks to veterans and their dependents for compensation, pension, and education benefits. Another 4.7 million veterans who hold GI life insurance policies receive 12 million pieces of VA correspondence periodically throughout the year.
For many of the pensioners and GI Bill students, the monthly VA stipend represents a major source of income. While VA records indicate the vast majority of beneficiaries receive checks routinely, this near-perfect record requires the continuing help of the veteran and dependent.

The largest number of non-deliverable checks is among GI Bill students, principally because of their mobility. Weekly changes of residence during periods of a school term are not unusual, a VA spokesman said.
Veterans are urged to contact their nearest VA office promptly with changes of address. VA "vet reps" on campus can assist in expediting address changes for GI Bill students.

THE SCIENTISTS TELL ME ...

By Robert L. Haney, Science Writer
The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

Texas Vegetable Production Shows Great Potential

Wouldn't you like to grow a tomato that could go ahead and produce when other varieties quit in the hot summer? Or a cucumber that would yield twice as much as the previous most popular commercial variety?

These aren't a gardener's daydream, but recent developments from your Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES). Scientists there are busy in different sections of the state improving production practices to increase the yield per acre. Or they're breeding better varieties to improve resistance to extreme temperatures (too hot or too cold), disease, or insects.

A shortage of labor willing to help produce and harvest vegetables like tomatoes, onions and cucumbers all but put some growers out of the vegetable business. Or where labor was available, it was so expensive that the resultant cost of the product drove buyers away.

In recent years, Experiment Station engineers and plant breeders have designed machines to harvest such crops and bred plants that are machine harvestable. This helps deliver to consumers an increased quantity of vegetables, of better quality, and helps hold down the retail cost.

Vegetables, whether fresh, frozen or canned, are in great demand in Texas. They're now grown on 250,000 acres and bring growers more than $200 million a year.

An industry this size generates substantial additional agri-business such as fertilizer, weed and insect-control chemicals, machinery, fuel, etc., as well as in processing and handling of the crop. All this is an additional boost to the Texas economy.

Nationally, Texas is number one in production of cabbage, spinach, and watermelons; number two in production of cantaloupes, carrots, and onions; and, third in overall production of fresh market vegetables.

Over 30 different vegetable crops are produced in the state. Experiment Station researchers say they expect to see increased acreages in Texas since improved technology and intensified production practices favor us. Our long growing seasons, fertile and well-drained soils, and availability of irrigation are additional advantages.

Onions and pickling cucumbers seem to have the greatest potential for increased acreage, according to Dr. Leonard Pike, coordinator of vegetable research for TAES.

"New varieties, adapted to machine harvest, will give Texas an advantage over northern regions".

Pike says, "because of a longer season that makes feasible two or even three crops a year.

"Major vegetable expansion is expected in the Lower Valley, Winter Garden, High Plains, and river flood plains.

"Present coordinated research efforts, on onions, tomatoes and pickling cucumbers and between various groups in industry and Experiment Station researchers, demonstrate that increased production of machine harvestable vegetables can be achieved," Pike says.

For example, TAES cucumber research by Pike produced the TAMU Triple Cross hybrid which is high yielding and disease resistant. Compared with the previous widely-grown commercial variety, the Triple Cross delivers twice the yield per acre (7,700 pounds vs. 4,000 pounds). And, in some areas, it can be triple cropped (three crops grown in a single growing season.) The Saladette tomato is a hardy, disease-resistant variety developed by TAES Horticulturist Paul Leeper. This tomato is not only machine harvestable but also is capable of bearing in hot weather. That's vital to production in Texas.

Other researchers are developing better onions, black-eyed peas, cantaloupes, Irish potatoes, carrots, lettuce and other vegetables. And they're working on better ways to grow, harvest and market them. The results of their research are made available as rapidly as possible. New varieties are usually made available to commercial nurseries to multiply for general use.

Improved methods developed by TAES in producing, harvesting, or marketing vegetables are made available to your Texas Agricultural Extension Service. This agency has the responsibility and facilities to rapidly and efficiently convey such information to producers and the general public.

So if you have any doubt about whether you're planting adapted varieties, contact your county agricultural agent or Extension horticulturist. They'll know about best varieties and latest methods. And they can probably tell you which nurseries can sell you the latest Experiment Station developed varieties.
