Crimes Hit Haskell

A series of crimes occurred early Sunday morning in Haskell including vandalism, thefts, property damage, and a horse was killed. A 1974 Ford pickup belonging to Dolan VanStory, 1001 N. Ave. E. was stolen. All tools, paint, and tool boxes had been torn up and thrown from the pickup which was recovered Sunday. A horse which belonged to C. A. Thomas was shot and killed just west of the Thomas home northwest of Haskell. A vehicle had gone through a five strand barbed wire fence in two places near where the horse was killed. Other incidents which occurred Sunday morning included: a car owned by Bob Beauchamp was painted; a shotgun was stolen from George Fouts' pickup; a speaker and flashlight were taken from Larry Suttle's car; a rain coat, flashlight and pair of handcuffs were taken from Sgt. Frank Jirick's car. Haskell County Sheriff Garth Garrett, who is investigating the incidents, refused to comment to the Free Press except that he is "working on it."

THIS HORSE which belonged to C. A. Thomas Jr. was found dead early Sunday morning. The horse had been shot twice by what appeared to be a shotgun. This incident was one of several reported Sunday morning. (Staff Photo By Don Comedy)

WASHINGTON

"As It Looks From Here"
OMAR RUBLEBON
Congressman—17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—WISHPFUL THINKING SELDOM PAYS off but there are indications that political and economic conservatism is manifesting itself across the Country to a greater degree than has been the case in recent years.

AT THE MOMENT IT IS WIDENING THE BREACHES IN both political parties. In the months ahead this division may become more evident and highly visible.

NATIONALLY, MOST LIBERALS CONTINUE to talk in favor of big government, bigger spending, with no turning back. But some liberal Governors and Mayors are seemingly beginning to respond to public sentiment against massive bureaucracy, uncontrolled deficit spending, and government intervention.

ONE EXAMPLE RECENTLY SURFACED WAS A STATEMENT of the Governor of Wisconsin, a liberal in an historically liberal area. He said, "We are beginning to recognize that there are limits to what government can and should do. The day is past when a Wisconsin governor can present a budget which is nothing more than a catalog of goodies offering a little something for everybody. The Governors of California, New York and Massachusetts are saying things similar. The Governor of Colorado has been quoted recently as seeing the U. S. heading for an "economic Dunkirk" if it doesn't return to economic prudence.

IT WILL BE INTERESTING TO SEE IF AND when this grass roots stirring takes hold in Washington. There is some discernment that the liberal element in the Congress may be showing a concern for the fiscal condition of the Government. A few days ago a U. S. Senator addressed the Liberal Party of New York. He is quoted as wanting to know from that group why liberals aren't doing something "about a government so big, so complex, so expensive and unresponsive that it is dragging down every good program we've worked for?"

"Yet," Senator Muskie who has pretty good liberal credentials, warned, "we stay away from that question like it was the plague—we know that government can do much to improve the lives of every American. But that conviction has also led us to become the defenders of government, no matter its mistakes."

A TOP ADVISOR TO BOTH SENATORS HUMPHREY

"THAT SPOTTED SOW" IS BACK

If you should be traveling through the panoramic hill country of Texas you might drop in at the Corner Drugstore in Llano. You'd be surprised to find the folk among the local citizenry in this hill country area centers around a "best seller"—not a popular romance, or the latest movie magazine, but a volume of verses prepared by a former state legislator and the acclaimed yarn spinner of Llano, Carlos Ashley.

If you arrive at the Corner Drugstore at just the right hour, you might catch the "Sage of Sals," reciting his poems and spinning a yarn or two with the poetry-loving crowd around to hear him give a rousing reading of his poems, "That Spotted Sow," that might well earn for Ashley the title "the poor laureate of piglets."

Ashley's ballads and home-spun collection of hill country poems, "THAT SPOTTED SOW AND OTHER TEXAS HILL COUNTRY BALLADS" has been reprinted in a colorful new edition by Austin's Shoal Creek Publishers, Inc. With the addition of new ballads, a foreword by Dallas Morning News columnist Frank Tolson, and the distinctive pen-and-ink illustrations of wood worker, artist, the late Harold D. Hughes, Ashley's poems are enjoying a popular resurgence throughout Texas and the world.

The former state senator learned his appreciation for the oral tradition of poetry literally at the "manger's knee." "Mother was always reciting in ballads and poems," Ashley recalls, "and she taught me the inviolate rule: all poems must be read aloud."

Whenever he's sitting around the kitchen table with the "good old boy" or reliving memories with old-time legislators at Austin's Headliners Club, Ashley is bound to come out with a few lines of poetry—more often than not some of his own. "I still read poetry aloud," he says, "You know if you read poetry aloud that it's going to ring true."

"I wrote for myself," Ashley recalls, "I never really had selling my poems in mind. You know, if you have yourself you're bound to have someone else. And Ashley's poems capture the flavor of the Texas hill country and are currently pleasing a great number of readers."

Whether it's Ashley's tribute to "Buck Beard, Clint East" or his poem in praise of the town's former mayor, "Jim Wainwright Barber," you can be sure that the hill country poet catches the homely flavor of the people and places in real-to-down-home Texas as the cattle breaks and the creek bottoms.

People throughout Texas can recognize themselves, their homes, and their neighbors in Ashley's poems—many of which are the simple ways of living in days gone by. Born of proud settlers in San Saba County, Ashley grew up on the ranch he still lives and works on. "My life was on the ranch, and I never knew much about town life. Droughts and hard times were the story of a Texas rancher's life in those days. The cattle business was a hard business."

The title poem in his book, "That Spotted Sow," is based on a real life adventure on his own ranch. "The most dangerous animal in the woods is the wild hog," Ashley recalls, "and my dad was the best hog worker I ever saw. You know, there were no hog proof fences in those days, and hogs just kinda listed as they would. We had to use dogs to run the hogs into the pens."

Ashley began writing poetry as early as his high school years and then went on to win the Bryson Poetry Prize at TCU. But poetry was not his only interest. He lettered in baseball and returned to his hometown to coach sports. He passed the bar exam and served for eighteen years as district attorney before running for the state senate.

His ten years in the state legislature provided the inspiration for some of Ashley's most widely quoted poems. There's "For Politicians" with its warning to politicians, both state and national, that "the urge to be smart-alec is a hazardous pursuit—And out windy interjections Bear as flutulent a fruit." Or an ode to

Carlos Ashley

"Cactus Jack" Garner, Texas's salty vice-president. "They say he went to Washington to hold some office there. Don't know what all he learned there, boys. Cept three's will beat two pair."

When Ashley began writing his poems down, a mototype operator at the Llano News set them in type. An enterprising book salesman brought them to the attention of Austin's Stock Company publishers, and in 1949 Stock brought out the first edition for widespread publication while Ashley was serving in the Texas legislature. The printing of some 3000 copies sold out before the season was over, but copies continued to circulate among rare book collectors.

Now THAT SPOTTED SOW is back in a bright new edition, with the addition of some of Ashley's latest ballads, and once again poetry lovers and Texana collectors are quoting the Sage of San Saba's immortal lines in praise of "Old Blue," "The Widder," and "Blacksnake Bill," dedicated to former governor Coke Stevenson.

Poet Carlos Ashley is back on the circuit again—up to Abilene to recite his poems among other Western writers at the International Cowboy Campfire Cookoff or down to Austin to swap yarns on radio with "Cactus" Pryor. But wherever he is, his heart, like his poetry, remains in the Texas hill country—down beside the Llano River, where the hill country residents might well quote Carlos Ashley's own lines to describe the former poet laureate of Texas:

It's a whole lot more important Than vain glory or renown Just to be the kind of feller Who does something for his town

New Laws For Boats And Motors

AUSTIN, Jan. 1, 1976, is the effective date of an amendment to the Texas Water Safety Act passed by the recent Texas Legislature which requires that any new or unregistered motorboat in excess of 14 feet have a certificate of title from the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Also on that date any new outboard engine of 12 or more horsepower must be titled separately by the P&WD.

The boat and motor titling promises to give Texas boaters added protection in recovering stolen property and may serve as collateral for financing and insurance purposes.

License officials at the P&WD say they have worked out the details of such certificates and are ready to put the legislation into effect on the first of the year.

Each certificate of title, whether for motorboats in excess of 14 feet or outboard engines of 12 or more horsepower, will cost $2. On Sept. 1, 1977, the fees will drop to $1.50.

"Let's take the hypothetical situation," said P&WD official John Ebell, "of a Texan who after Jan. 1, 1976, purchases a new 16-foot boat with a 75-horsepower outboard engine.

"At the time of purchase he will simultaneously have to complete three pieces of paperwork: (1) register the boat for 'TX' numbers, in the case of 16-footer the fee is $9; (2) apply for a certificate of title on the boat, which has a $2 fee; and, (3) apply for a certificate of title to the engine, also for $2."

Outboard engines less than 12 horsepower and boats 14 feet or less in length require no titling whatsoever; however, any motorboat or motor may be titled if the owner wishes to obtain a certificate of title.

Ebell said the Parks and Wildlife Department has furnished samples to Texas boat manufacturers of the prescribed "Manufacturers Statement of Origin for a Motorboat and/or Outboard Motor," which is to be completed by the marine dealer and furpendence—freedom—the right to choose—or a paternalistic government heading to a socialistic system.

IF THIS FORMER PROPOSITION DEVELOPS across the Country there may well be a clear issue in the elections next year—the competition could be over which candidate and which party can best be trusted to carry out such a policy.

nished to the purchaser at the time of purchase. "This 'Manufacturer's Statement of Origin' is a very important document," said Ebell. "It must accompany an application for certificate and is proof to the department that a legal transaction took place."

"Without the Manufacturer's Statement of Origin, the purchaser must furnish the P&WD with a notarized affidavit of ownership. We anticipate the use of such affidavits in the case of homemade boats, boats and motors previously registered in other states, the resale of boats purchased before Jan. 1, 1976, and in cases of current owners who are unable to locate the boat's previous owner."

After the first of the year, the P&WD cannot accept an application for the transfer of ownership of a motorboat in excess of 14 feet unless the boat is currently registered with the department. Those boats transferred after Jan. 1 which are currently registered but untitled must be titled upon transfer.

Ebell said that in most cases the titling procedure for livery boats or boats for hire is much the same as with private craft. An exception is that only a title application for the boat is required since most livery boats are rented or leased without an outboard engine.

The new certificates of title should aid state enforcement agencies in tracing stolen private and commercial vessels.

The P&WD's two communication centers at Austin and Pasadena are in constant teletype contact with the Texas Crime Information Center at Department of Public Safety headquarters in Austin and the National Crime Information Center in Washington, D. C.

Both centers are open 24 hours and may be reached at (512) 475-6142 in Austin and (713) 941-8926 in Pasadena. Neither call, however, is toll-free.

Reports of stolen boats and motors can be made to either of the two centers.

AND McGOVERN gives this unorthodox liberal advice: "The first 1,000 days of a new democratic presidency should include a ruthless re-examination of every federally funded administrative agency and program."

STRAWS IN THE WIND? YES ONLY THAT they are where they haven't been in a long time. There is plenty on the other side too. For instance Republican Senator McC Mathias of Maryland said last week that he may become a Presidential Candidate to give liberals in the Party a choice they will not have otherwise.

AS MENTIONED IN THIS SPACE LAST WEEK, THE PRESIDENT has thrown out a challenge which this Congress cannot ignore. The proclivities for reaching the goal of reducing taxes and cutting Federal spending by an equal amount, are admittedly a problem but a lot of people want it done. Maybe the Congress is getting the message. Reduction in expenditures should come first and then a tax cut but this is not the specific point here. The point here is have we reached the time when people are ready to choose between more government spending and high taxes of less spending and lower taxes? The issue might even be more dramatized by the question as to whether we want inde-

Tea Honors Bride Elect

Miss Kathi Thompson was guest of honor at a tea hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Bragg Sunday afternoon in the Community Room of Haskell National Bank.

Miss Thompson and Robert Loyd Bragg will be married January 10, 1976 in Sharon Baptist Church, Wichita, Kansas.

They are students at Wichita State University: Miss Thompson is a sophomore Medical Technology major and Mr. Bragg is a senior, majoring in Elementary Education.

Receiving guests with the hosts and the honored couple were the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Thompson of Wichita.

Guests were registered by Miss Pat Harris and Mrs. Billy Holmes.

The refreshment table, covered with a cloth of white linen cutwork, was centered with an arrangement of red carnations and white gladioli. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Serving at the punch bowl were sisters of the engaged couple, Miss Lynn Bragg and Miss Diane Thompson.

Miss Joan Barnett and Misses Vicki and Dana Terry served from the coffee table, which was covered with a white lace-trimmed cloth.

Mrs. Bragg's sister, Mrs. Dan Terry of Wichita Falls, and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Wall of Quanah, were also introduced to guests.

Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Dan Griffith, Mrs. Bill Reeves, Mrs. Melvin Norman, and Mrs. Buford Cox.

Understanding Your Child

How much your child enjoys a new toy depends less on the amount of money you spend and more on how the toy interacts with the child. All too often, adults buy toys that appeal to their own tastes, rather than what is appealing and fun for the child.

To determine what toys will be enjoyed, child psychologists suggest that parents should watch their children at play and note the individual youngster's skills and interests.

It's also important to select toys based on a child's stage of development. Although age guides suggested by toy manufacturers are helpful, parents should remember that every child progresses at his own pace.

For example, many girls in the pre-teen stage are interested in clothes, hair styles and grown-up glamour. Girls in this age group generally find dressing dolls very appealing and the availability of a wide variety of modern doll clothes is to be applauded.

One such beautiful teenage model doll is Tiffany Taylor. Tiffany has a large and glamorous wardrobe, ranging from trendy clothes to her own coat and "mink" evening gown. In the doll's hair can rollers for numerous styles, brushed or streaked look or from brunette to with just a flip crown. Tiffany Taylor wardrobe are by Marvin Glass & Co. and manufactured in the U.S.A.

Once parents see their child's basic and desires, they have a better chance of buying that the child will long after Christmas.

DO IT YOURSELF PIZZA PARTY

It's that time of year for after-the-game parties. Since everybody's watching pennies, why not have a homemade pizza party? The kids can put on their own toppings. Just make up several pizzas on cookie sheets the day or night before, cover them with aluminum foil or clear plastic and store in the refrigerator. When the party gang arrives, let them pour on the sauce, cheese and other toppings and pop them in the oven. Half the fun is smelling the pizza cooking. Serve celery, carrots, tomatoes and radishes on a skewer for easy eating, along with milk, fruit punch or soda. Isn't it time the kids made their own fun at home?

DO IT YOURSELF PIZZA

- 1 (28-7/8 oz.) 2 Complete Cheese Pizza Mix
- 1 cup sliced onions
- 1 cup sliced green peppers
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- Sliced olives
- Sliced pepperoni
- Mozzarella Cheese, sliced thin

Prepare pizza dough as directed on package. Spread out on two cookie sheets. Wrap in aluminum foil or clear plastic. Store in refrigerator for future use. Sauté onions and peppers separately in margarine. Put these other toppings, sauce from the package and cheese from the package, in bowls for use as toppings when pizza making time comes. Preheat oven to 425°F. Leave the rest up to the guests.

The Kitchen Almanac

The rule for cottage cheese is just the opposite of that for all other cheeses, namely, "the fresher, the better!" Cottage cheese is not ripened and should be stored as fresh milk.

If possible, use it within a day or two after bringing it home from the store.

Seasoned garlic butter: combine one tablespoon garlic salad dressing mix and 1/2 cup softened butter, mixing thoroughly. Makes 1/2 cup.

Considering a food waste disposer? Perhaps you should. Here, say researchers for KitchenAid appliances, are the categories and just some of the typical foods composing the good disposers' "diet":

(1) stringy foods — artichokes, corn husks, celery and pea pods; (2) hard foods — bones and fruit pits; (3) medium foods — corn cobs and melon rind, and (4) soft foods — ie. lettuce and cabbage.

To "clean the air", here's a tip from the KitchenAid experts. Disposers, through the use of adequate cold water during and following use, are meant to be self-cleaning. However, if odors are noticed, try running an orange or lemon rind or some ice cubes through the unit.

Try sliced meat loaf, chopped green olives and mayonnaise on your favorite bread. Substitute enriched all purpose flour for cake flour. It costs less, and one cup — minus two tablespoons — equals one cup of cake flour.

Nearly all fats from plant sources are unsaturated — except coconut oil.

Keep Holiday Foods Safe

COLLEGE STATION—Holiday foods can carry food poisoning bacteria—but simple precautions can prevent food poisoning and ruined holidays. Frances Reasonover, a foods and nutrition specialist, says:

"Bacteria need the right combination of time, temperature and moisture to grow. When foods remain between 40 and 120 degrees F. for three or four hours, bacteria grow and make the food unsafe to eat.

"And the only way to kill the bacteria is to heat food to 170 degrees F. Freezing doesn't kill bacteria, it simply slows growth," the specialist said.

She's with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Turning to specific food safety guidelines, she said to thaw the holiday turkey in the refrigerator. Fresh or freshly-thawed turkey should be refrigerated and used within 24 hours.

"When preparing the turkey, cook it until done throughout—with an internal temperature of 180 degrees F. And if it is to be stuffed, wait until just before placing the bird in the oven to stuff the cavity.

"Good sanitation during food preparation is important to prevent contamination. Make sure hands, utensils and cutting boards are clean when handling turkey and other holiday foods. Also, keep hands away from mouth, nose, hair or skin infections such as boils, open cuts and sores while working with food," Miss Reasonover reminded.

After the meal is over, don't leave the turkey at room temperature long. Staph germs multiply rapidly between 45 and 115 degrees F.

"If turkey is part of the holiday buffet, use several serving trays instead of only one to keep the meat from remaining at room temperature too long.

"Bring out a fresh tray frequently to replace that partly used. The turkey stays at the right temperature — and bacteria don't have a chance to grow."

Food-borne illness can cause diarrhea, vomiting, stomach cramps and other unpleasant symptoms which can last for several hours or days. Young children and elderly people are most susceptible, the specialist said.

John V. James New Savings Bond Chairman

John V. James, President and Chief Executive Officer, Dresser Industries, Inc., Dallas, is appointed Volunteer State Chairman for the Savings Bonds Program in Texas by Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon, effective December 1.

He will head a committee of business, banking, labor, government and media leaders who—in cooperation with the U.S. Savings Bonds Division—assist in promoting Bond sales throughout the state. James succeeds Reginald Brack, Senior Vice President, Braniff International, Dallas, who has received the "Award of Merit," Treasury's highest for volunteer service.

James is a graduate of the Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania. He joined Dresser Industries in 1957 as Assistant Controller of its largest division, Dresser Clark, Olean, N.Y., and was named Vice President-Finance the following year. In 1960, he moved to the Dallas corporate headquarters as Controller, became Vice President-Controller in 1962, a member of the Board of Directors in 1964, and Vice President, Operations-Administration in 1967. The following year, James was elected Executive Vice President, and in June 1970, he assumed his present position.

He is active in numerous business, civic and professional organizations, including—Chairman, Central Regional Export Council and member, President's Export Council; Chairman, Executive Board, Annual International Trade Council of the Southwest; member, Executive Committee, Machinery and Allied Products Institute; Director, American Petroleum Institute, First National Bank in Dallas, Southern Methodist University Foundation for Science and Engineering; Trustee, Southwestern Legal Foundation. James had previously served the Bond Program as Dallas Geographic Chairman of the U.S. Industrial Payroll Savings Committee in 1973 and 1974. James and his wife, Helen, make their home in Dallas.

FOR CHRISTMAS

The Old West of cattle barons, horse thieves, marauding Indians and buffalo hunters, comes to life in "HASKELL COUNTY AND ITS PIONEERS, a new history of Haskell County, Texas.

Authored by Rex A. Felker, himself a son of the Old West, the new history book chronicles the history of one of the most colorful and eventful periods in Texas history, the county and the people who pioneered its rolling plains.

Haskell County was the hunting grounds for the Tonkawas, the roving Comanches and fierce Apaches. The Springs in the city park of Haskell town was the site of a Tonk village at the time of the arrival of the white man. It was later used by the Texas Rangers who called it Willow Pond Springs, and used it as a campsite when they were rounding up outlaws or marauding Indians.

Haskell County was also the headquarters for one of the largest buffalo hunts in history when the Moar Brothers set up camp on Lake Creek in northeast Haskell County.

Much of Wild Horse Prairie, noted for the thousands of wild horses who roamed its grassland, was located in Haskell County which was also the site of many Indian fights with settlers and Troopers from nearby Fort Griffin. The immigrant trains of Marcy and McKenzie also passed south of Haskell town on their overland trek to California.

HASKELL COUNTY AND ITS PIONEERS is a hardback edition with dust jacket 8 by 10 1/2 and with more than 350 pages. Included are genealogies of more than 25 pioneer families, a general history of Haskell County featuring pioneer events and personalities and scores of photographs of pioneer scenes, many of which never have been published. The book also includes a pioneer map of the county, giving the location of pioneer communities, and school Indian battles and other points of historic interest.

How important is life insurance for my wife?

Today more and more wives are working and contributing a substantial amount to the total earnings of the family. If this income were stopped, the family would suffer economically. And, even if the wife does not have a salaried job, she works in the home where a housekeeper or baby-sitter would be required. For these reasons a wife should have life insurance protection. For the salaried wife it should be in proportion to the share of her earnings and estimated future earnings that would be contributed to the family's income. For the housewife insurance coverage should be based on the cost of the variety of services a husband would have to begin paying.

If baked products are made without any wheat flour, they may be heavier and more crumbly than those made from wheat flour. This, according to home economists at USDA... Most fresh raw, unsweetened fruits contain less than 100 calories per serving.

Purple Cow pour frozen concentrated grape juice into cold milk (always add juice to milk), stir quickly and serve with a scoop of vanilla ice cream. If you wash lettuce, celery and other leafy vegetables before storing, be sure to drain them thoroughly. Too much moisture can hasten decay.

VA News

All veterans who have not already done so should take advantage of the free service which enables them to have their military discharge papers put on record at the County Clerk's office. According to C. H. Herren, Veterans Service Officer for Haskell County, many veterans have already recorded their discharges, and thus are able to quickly obtain a certified copy in the event it is needed.

There are many occasions when a veteran is called upon to provide proof of his military service. Many employers require proof of service in personnel files, and the veteran must produce an honorable discharge in order to obtain admission to a Veterans Administration hospital. When faced with a medical emergency, it is most important that hospital admission be accomplished without any unnecessary delays. Proof of honorable military service could, in such instances, be the difference between life and death.

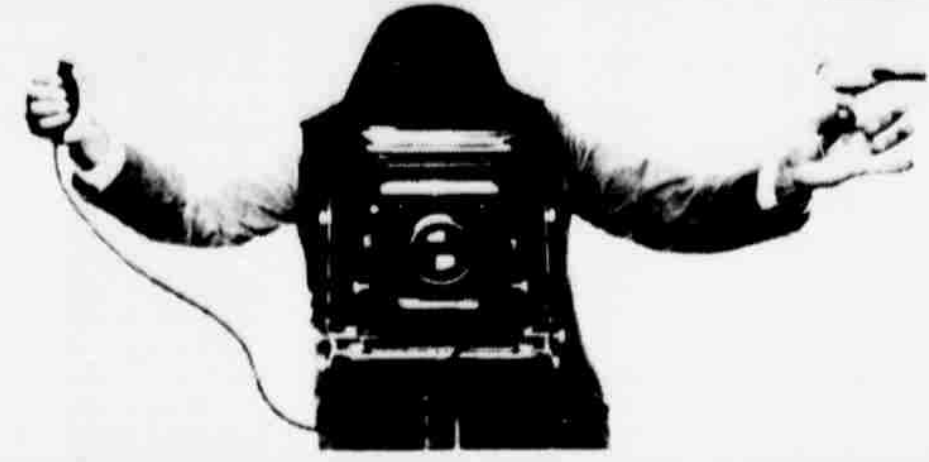

On July 12, 1973, there was a disastrous fire in the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis, Missouri, and the service records of more than five million Army veterans were completely destroyed. Many veterans are now experiencing great difficulties in proving they were ever in military service because their records were destroyed and they have lost their discharges. Many World War II veterans took advantage of the free recording service, as did those who served during the Korean Conflict. It appears, however, that the Vietnam veterans have not followed this practice, as relatively few have recorded their discharges or DD Forms 214. Every veteran is advised to immediately take his discharge to the County Clerk's office for free recording, as such action now may save him untold hours or days of anguish later when he is badly in need of proof of his military service.

FOOTBALL BANQUET

"Spirit of '76" was the theme for the Rule High School annual Football Banquet for 1975 held in the Rule School cafeteria on Tuesday night, November 25.

The cafeteria was decorated in bunting and streamers of red, white and blue. Blue stars with the players names in silver glitter were on the walls with the colorful decorations. A raised platform with a red, white and blue background held a large Bicentennial picture with the dates, 1776-1976, and the American emblem of the eagle. The floor of the platform was covered with green grass and the cheerleaders megaphones and football helmets with pom poms decorated it. Tables were covered with white cloths and stand up figures of a Bobcat dressed in a drummer costume of 1776 was centered on the table with white candles on each side. A small American flag was at each place with the place setting names.

The program, going along the "Spirit of 1776" theme, was as follows: generals speaking (toastmasters) Jami Barbee and Robert Tribbey, Chaplin (invocation) Leonard Rhoads. Leading the charge (welcome) was Norva Lehmann and giving the retreat (response) was Johnny Menchaca. The get together was when dinner was served consisting of drumsticks (fried chicken), pot luck (potato salad), powdered wigs (coleslaw), horse power (red beans), cannon balls (hot rolls), lard (butter), independence (assorted pies and Boston tea party (coffee or tea).

Announcement of new cheerleaders and twirlers for 1976-1977 were announced following the meal. Selected as cheerleaders were: Colleen Townsend, Wynette Williams, Jill LeFevre, Joanne Cloud and head cheerleader, Linda Rhoads. Mascot will be Lisa Buhrkuhl. Selected as major-ettes were Cindy Thompson and Debbie Flores with Lynn Fouts as drum major. Drummers will be announced at a later date following try outs.

Receiving the coveted honor as Most Spirited Boy and Girl was Jami Barbee and Leonard Rhoads.

Haskell Bicentennial Happenings

By Roxie Parker

After the roar of the crowd subsided from the holiday weekend, and I knew there was enough food cooked for one more day, I finally got around to reading in "Haskell County and Its Pioneers".

up in Dallas called it kettle tea. I remember that its distinctive taste was improved by dumping in the sugar when Mama wasn't looking!

One thing about the book that is good is its size—the pictures can be displayed so much better on the larger pages and are easier to identify.

Several copies of the new book have been placed by individuals in the county library and in church libraries here in Haskell.

Many of the pictures are excellent and add to the historical value of the book—such as the one of George Fields freighting barbed wire to fence the country.

Ever wish you had an old-fashioned fireplace for hanging Christmas stockings? It isn't difficult or expensive to build one, thanks to new easy-to-follow plans now available.

The family pictures are certainly priceless, adding that special something because all of us like to look, to identify and connect faces to families and events.

The decorative brick is completely fireproof, so candles and Christmas tree lights can be safely used on the fireplace.

Extras in the form of stories such as the one Rex Felker wrote about Bob Waldon make this book one that anyone should find enjoyable.

Plans for the fireplace, as well as folders giving ideas for 15 other types of fireplaces, are available at no charge from building supply dealers carrying Z-Brick Plans.

But the family histories I love the best—the joys and sorrows chronicled as they are remembered; the anecdotes that have been retold over and over through the years.

PLASTIC SHEET PROTECTORS, 11x8 1/2, punched 3 holes, wide reinforcing flap. Comes with black mounting sheet. Haskell Free Press.

Some of the tales of hard times awakened my own memories and sometimes that's painful, sometimes funny. One story mentioned cambric tea, a brew made of milk and hot water.

Enrollments for training under the current GI Bill passed the six million mark in September, three months into the 10th year of its existence.

He noted that during the 12-year life of the World War II GI Bill, 7.8 million, slightly more than half of those eligible, received training.

Coker asserted that more than 55 percent of the 10.8 million eligible veterans and servicemen have trained under the current bill.

At the end of September there were 1.6 million persons in training under the GI Bill. This is 365,000 more than were in training at the same time last year.

Of the six million who have trained since June 1, 1966, 3.3 million were in colleges.

Coker said the VA is continuing a special outreach effort among 80,000 women participants of the current bill who may be eligible for a special retroactive payment.

Women veterans who were married and attended school under the GI Bill between June 1, 1966, and October 24, 1972, may be eligible for about $30 for each month they were in training while married.

The special payment equalizes benefits with those received by married male veterans who trained under the bill during this period.

Men In Service

U. S. Forces, Germany (AHTNC) Nov. 17, Army Sergeant Jesse M. Polance, whose wife, Omega, lives in Haskell, Tex., recently participated in Exercise REFORGER in Germany.

Sgt. Polance is regularly assigned as a team leader in Company A, 1st Battalion, 16 Infantry of the 1st Infantry Division in Germany.

The purpose of the annual exercise was to sharpen techniques for receiving, equipping, assembling, and deploying dual-based units.

objective of the series was to improve the capability of NATO forces.

The U. S. Air Force Military Airlift Command flew approximately 10,000 U. S. based soldiers and their equipment to Germany to participate in the exercise.

The sergeant entered the Army in April 1967, served in Vietnam and holds the Purple Heart and Combat Infantryman Badge.

Buying Tips To Help Parents

COLLEGE STATION—Christmas toy selections can be frustrating for parents and even dangerous for children—unless some toy buying guides are followed.

"Many appealing toys that seem to be good buys may be unsafe and inappropriate for the children," she said.

Mrs. Miller is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She suggested three guides for selecting toys.

—Is it appropriate? —Is it safe? —Is it worth the cost?

"To be an appealing and an appropriate gift, the toy must be suitable for the child's age, size and developmental level.

Choose toys which fit the child's interests and abilities, such as brightly colored, lightweight toys of different textures for infants and toddlers.

"Make sure the toys are washable, too big to swallow and have no sharp edges or corners.

The toddler will enjoy push-and-pull toys, balls or blocks. Simple picture books about animals or children are also good gift choices for the one-to-two year old.

"If shopping for a preschooler, choose toys the child can use in imaginative play.

"To help children use large muscles and improve body coordination, select slides, swings, tricycles, wagons or a backyard gym set.

Also consider toys for constructive and creative play.

Blunt scissors, clay, paints or a wooden puzzle can bring lots of enjoyment during the cold, rainy winter days.

If the children are school age, there is a wide variety of toys from which to select.

Salt water ponds made of plastic may be the answer to solar energy supplies for farm buildings. Such a pond would be designed as a solar heat trap. Research on such a contraption is now underway at Ohio State University where they are using a 150-thousand gallon model with a depth of nine feet.

Mental Retardation

Editor—This is the ninth in a series of articles about Mental Retardation prepared by Mrs. Eugene Cochran and the Public Education Committee of the Texas Association for Retarded Citizens.

A new national organization of teenagers has emerged that promises a generation of enlightened hope for the more than 6 million mentally retarded persons in the United States. The movement began in Texas in 1966 with the organization of Texas TEENS AID THE RETARDED, called TARS. TARS has grown to more than 65 chapters throughout the state with over 6,000 members.

TARS is a statewide youth group of volunteer teenagers who work to help the mentally retarded. Sponsored by the Associations for Retarded Citizens (ARC) in Texas, the TARS youth movement gained national attention resulting in an H.E.W. Grant for the first National Youth Conference on Mental Retardation. The movement is now National in scope involving more than 37 state youth groups with over 35,000 teenagers in active membership.

TARS' creed, "Founded On Love and Concern", represents the simplicity and program of these teenagers who work in volunteer programs of camping, swimming, bowling, parties, recreational activities and many more serious activities with the retarded persons.

Many TARS have gained such an intense interest in the volunteer work with the handicapped that they plan careers in the field.

Any young person between the ages of 13 and 25 may become a TAR by joining a local TARS chapter and undergoing 10 hours of orientation and training.

Further information on TARS may be obtained by writing or calling Texas TARS, 833 Houston St., Austin, Tx. 78756. Ph: Area 512-454-6694 or Mrs. Eugene Cochran, Rt. 2 Box 441, Haskell, 79521. Ph: 864-2796.

The Veterans Administration is a leader among federal agencies in the employment of the handicapped.

WHEN CHRISTMAS EVE rolls around, everyone knows Santa Claus is hard at work delivering presents. During the summer, however, the jolly old elf does just what everyone else is doing—he goes on vacation. When the Texas Tourist Council reporter located him at his North Pole workshop, Santa confirmed that he's definitely planning to visit Texas next year. "My work takes me all over the world," Santa noted, "so I guess you could call me an authority on travel. I've seen a lot of fine places, but when I go on vacation, I always head for Texas. Your State has just about everything!"

CANCER ANSWER LINE American Cancer Society
 M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

Lung Cancer Statistics Reveal Dramatic Rise

Fifty years ago lung cancer was a rare disease. While 3,000 lung cancer deaths were recorded in 1930, today there are 25 times that number says the American Cancer Society.

It is estimated that during this year alone, approximately 91,000 Americans will be stricken with this form of cancer.

According to Dr. Clifton F. Mountain, chief of Thoracic Surgery at The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, "The incidence of lung cancer today is epidemic. Plotted on a graph, lung cancer represents a sharp rising curve with no end in sight."

Despite the grim statistics, Dr. Mountain, a specialist in lung cancer during the last 16 years, remains optimistic. While surgery techniques seem to have reached their technical limits, the ability to diagnose and identify lung cancer has improved significantly in recent years.

"If lung cancer is discovered in an early stage, which we define as a lesion confined totally within one lung, the patient will have a 45-50 percent chance of survival five years after surgery," he explains.

If detection is delayed until the cancer has spread to adjoining lymph nodes, the patient's chances of survival fall dramatically to 18 percent. If initial detection is still further delayed, such that the disease spreads to more distant nodes or to organs outside the chest, the chances of survival are even less.

Two of the most promising detection tools at this time are sputum cytology and the flexible fiberobronchoscope. The sputum test, similar to the Pap smear for cervical cancer, allows the doctor to detect malignant cells, even before the cancer can be detected by x-ray.

Once malignant cells are detected in the sputum, the fiberobronchoscope, an optical branch of Japanese technology, can be used to search the farthest lobes of the lung in search of the pinhead sized cancer. As an optical probe, the instrument can be inserted into the patient's bronchial tract with the capability to actually turn corners as it moves along the air passages of the lung, thus permitting the doctor to see and photograph those regions where the majority of lung cancers arise.

Although the two used together are primarily experimental at this time, Dr. Mountain notes that testing done to date has revealed that early cancers detected in this manner and successfully treated by surgery may extend the patient's chances for survival to as much as 80 percent.

Concerning drugs, Dr. Mountain says, "As of now, no single drug has shown itself to be highly active in respect to lung cancer. However, there are newer investigational drug agents which may have a higher activity rate with respect to lung cancer than some of the older agents."

He adds that the search is continuing for new agents that may prove active in treating lung cancer. Of special interest at this time is the developing collection of information relating to the use of multiple drugs in combination which may be more effective than single drugs.

Yet another approach under investigation is the concept of using multiple types of treatment, known as adjuvant therapy.

In this way the surgeon, chemotherapist, radiotherapist and immunologist design a teamwork approach to the total disease. For example, instead of depending entirely on surgery for a cure, successful surgery is backed up by drugs to better insure that the disease will not recur.

Presently all of these approaches are being investigated on a global scale in an effort to answer some of the critical questions about lung cancer in hopes that the rising curve of incidence and mortality can be altered.

NEXT MONTH: Six warning signals for lung cancer.

THE CHART SHOWS HOW IRA GROWS AT $1500 A YEAR... COMPARED WITH THE TAXABLE ACCOUNT OF A SAVER IN THE 33 1/2% TAX BRACKET.

With IRA, both contributions and interest are exempt from current federal income taxes, so the entire $1500 a year is deposited and interest compounds, tax free, to retirement.
Without IRA, both the $1500 a year and the interest income are substantially reduced by income taxes.

*Individual Retirement Account

The Congress of the United States recently passed the Pension Reform Act, which allows millions of Americans, who have not had the benefits of a pension plan, to put aside tax-free dollars for their retirement. The Individual Retirement Account (IRA), an important part of the new Pension Reform Act, is described in this folder.

We have an approved, tax-qualified master plan for investment of IRA funds, and invite your inquiries.

We'll Help You Build Your Own Retirement Fund... and Save Tax Dollars

The big tax savings in the IRA plan are available to you if you are not actively participating in a tax-qualified pension plan. And working for a company that has a pension plan does not disqualify you until you are actually included in the company's plan.

The IRA plan is open to both full-time and part-time employees, including a spouse working full or part time, students with part time jobs, and self-employed individuals not covered by the Keogh plan.

How the Individual Retirement Account Works for You

Each year you can set aside in a qualified IRA plan up to 15% of your earned income (but not exceeding $1500 yearly), free of current federal income taxes. You can deposit a lump sum once a year - or deposit smaller amounts periodically if you prefer. What's more, the income earned by the Individual Retirement Account is also exempt from federal income taxes until you actually begin to make withdrawals from the account. And you can still take advantage of the standard income tax deduction when you are in the IRA plan.

Keep in mind that the sooner you start, the earlier your savings begin to earn and grow.

Excess Contributions Should Be Avoided

Excess contributions - more than $1500 a year or more than 15% of earned income - are subject to penalties, and so should be avoided.

What About Working Couples?

Where husband and wife both work, they can (if both are eligible) open separate IRA accounts for a maximum tax-free set-aside of $3000 a year.

How IRA Funds Are Invested

If you take advantage of our qualified plan, your money will be placed in an insured savings account, always worth 100 cents on the dollar. Safety of savings is insured to the full legal limit by an agency of the United States government, and a very worthwhile return is paid, plus compounding of earnings that adds to the growth of the account.

What About Withdrawals?

You can't withdraw from an IRA fund without penalty before age 59 1/2, except in case of disability or death. You must start to withdraw when you reach age 70 1/2. You can withdraw in one lump sum or can schedule withdrawals so the entire amount in the account will be distributed during your life expectancy. Withdrawals are taxable as ordinary income, but with the expectation that you will be in a much lower tax bracket after retirement.

Remember, too, that at age 65 you qualify for a double income tax exemption that lowers your tax bracket.

Can You Transfer From Your Present

You may - by withdrawing your funds and transferring them within 60 days to an IRA here. But you can make this kind of transfer only once in any three year period.

What If You Should Set Up An IRA

You just "freeze" your IRA here and have future contributions made, instead, to your Company's Plan.

What If You Should Decide To Discontinue Your IRA - Or Not Make a Deposit To Your Plan During A Particular Year?

This can be arranged without tax penalties as long as no funds are withdrawn before age 59 1/2.

If You're Already In A Company-Sponsored Plan, Can You Transfer To Ours When You Leave The Company?

You certainly can, without tax penalty, if you do it within 60 days from the date you first become eligible to receive these funds from your employer.

Can IRA Deposits Be Made By Payroll Deduction?

Yes, if your employer will install our Employee Savings Plan.

Must You Have Your IRA Approved By Internal Revenue Service?

No - Our basic IRA plan has already been approved.

Your Next Step?

Come in, write or phone. If you have questions, we'll be glad to answer them and will help you get your plan going. You'll get informed advice in putting this plan to work to your greatest advantage. And you'll leave with the confidence and the peace of mind that go hand-in-hand with sound financial guidance.

And with a tax-sheltered retirement savings program that can be a great thing for your future security and that of your family.

If You're An Employer

Ask about our Employee Savings Plan for IRA accounts. The employee enjoys the convenience of payroll deduction and the employer sends a single check monthly to cover all employees.
