A LONG TALK WITH CLARKS

The president had a long talk Mr. Clarkson on this subject, expressed to him his teeling of friend ship for those who opposed him in his dependence upon them. He ais told Mr. Crarkson that they must expect every recognition from him that lay in his power, either the way of deterence to their advice about the party organization or on the subject of appointments. Substantially what was said to Mr. Clarkson by Mr. Hr. Harrison was communicated to Mr. Platt through Mr. Reid, the candidate for vicea conference concerning the organiz ition of the state committee of New Absolutely to York. Mr. Platt was told that it was the president's desire that the organization of the committee should be according to his (Mr. Plati's) wishes, and that he should feel free any request of him. Mr. Red re-Platt was ready to go to work carnestly for the ticket. Efforts are being made to placate Mr. Quay in the same manner, and it is the determination of Mr. Harrison that there shall be no lack of harmony in the party if it lies in his power to

The thing which Mr. Harrison particularly desires is that the warmest and most devoted firends of Mr. Blaine shall feel that they above all others are held in high favor by the that he is going to take things into administration; and there is no ill entirely according to his own ideas anything that the president can do for him or his friends in the way of recogeition or appointment will be
