

Branton Elected President of Knox County Teachers Association

The Knox County Teachers Association held its first meeting of the year in the Benjamin school on Monday, October 28 at 9:45 o'clock.

Officers elected for the coming term were: President, Mrs. E. F. Branton of Knox City; 1st Vice President, Mrs. J. H. Bardwell of Munday; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Clyde Bullion of Benjamin. Merick McLaughley, Knox County School Superintendent, was elected secretary of the association.

Delegates were elected for the District Teachers Conference of District 7, which is usually held in Abilene. Mrs. Branton of Knox City, W. C. Cox, superintendent of the Munday schools, and H. D. Arnold, superintendent of the Goree schools, were chosen.

The teachers unanimously went on record with a resolution favoring a $2,000 base salary for teachers and favoring an amendment to the Teachers Retirement Fund law, making 25 years sufficient service for retirement. They also favored a tenure law for Texas school teachers.

The next meeting of the association will be held at the Knox City school on November 15.

Greyhounds Take District Title, 40-6

The Knox City Greyhounds walked into the District football championship last Thursday night at Haskell by defeating the Paint Creek Pirates by a score of 40-6.

The scoring started early in the game, when Bobby Hackfield made a touchdown exactly one minute after the starting whistle blew.

Paint Creek then made their only score of the game, and shortly afterwards Jack Teaff chalked up two more touchdowns for Knox City. Richard Buckley made the extra point on Teaff's last touchdown.

Touchdowns in the last half were made by Bobby Hackfield and Jack Teaff.

With the district title under their belts, the Greyhounds are ready for their non-conference game with O'Brien tomorrow night on the local field. This is expected to be one of the best games of the season, since the Greyhounds took the previous game with the Bulldogs by only a small margin.

Chest Collections Are Lagging

C. H. Moss, chairman of the Community Chest campaign for Knox City, stated today that collections are coming in slow, and urged people to deposit their donations to the Community Chest Fund in the Citizens State Bank, rather than wait for a member of the collection committee to call on them.

The quota for Knox City this year is small, and will be divided between the U. S. O., Boy Scouts and Campfire Girls, with the Scouts and Campfire Girls receiving the major part.

Knox City has always oversubscribed its quota before, and the money is needed just as badly this year as during the war period.

"This is the busy season for the collection committee," Mr. Moss stated, "so don't wait for them. Deposit your money at the bank and let's put this drive over again!"

Rule Lays Plans For Armistice Celebration

RULE (Sp)—The largest celebration ever to be held in Rule will be the Armistice Celebration on November 11th when more than ten thousand visitors are expected. The attractions this year will exceed anything ever attempted by the Armistice Celebration committee.

This celebration will be a home-coming for all World War I and II veterans from over the state and Oklahoma and New Mexico. Many have been contacted and have promised to be present for this occasion.

Monday, November 11 at 9:00 o'clock, the Old Fiddlers Contest will open the celebration. This will be followed by the Pet Parade at 10 o'clock. Those who attended this celebration before the war say this was one of the best features of the affair, and it promises to be even better this year. The Saddle Horses will be judged at 10:30, and the Big Parade will be a colorful event that you cannot afford to miss. The Barbecue Lunch will be held from 12:00 to 1:30. There will be plenty for all. The football game at 2:00 o'clock will be the highlight of the day. Rule and Rochester will be playing, no doubt for the 3-B district championship. This will be one of the toughest games in history, as both teams have made outstanding records.

Immediately after the football game will be the horse races, with many entries expected. Closing the activities will be the two big dances—the Hillbilly Dance, which will be played by a popular string band at the American Legion Hall from 8:30 to 12:00 p. m., and the dance at the School gymnasium, where music will be furnished by a popular dance band, from 9:00 p. m. to 1:00 a. m.

Increased yield of nitrogen is not the only result of inoculation, however. Inoculation usually results in an increased yield of hay up to 300 per cent. All legumes including alfalfa, Austrian winter peas, Hubam Clover, vetch, black-eye peas and beans respond to inoculants which are available at local feed and drug stores.

Week-end guests in the home of Mrs. L. J. Tidwell were Mrs. Jessie Marshall, of Puyallup, Wash.; Rev. and Mrs. D. B. Weaver, Jr. and children of Ft. Worth; Mrs. H. R. R. L. McCarty was born Aug. 6, 1873 at Kyle, Texas. He came to Knox City in 1903 and for many years was a dry goods merchant here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hull were called to Lubbock Sunday to attend the funeral of little James Carter Gamill, 8 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldron Gammill, who was accidentally killed in Denver, Colo., Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Hull returned home Monday night.

Haymes Store To Have Grand Opening Saturday

Mac Haymes, manager of the Haymes Tire and Appliance Store, is announcing the Grand Opening of the store elsewhere in this issue of the Herald.

Although he has been open for business since the first of August, he has been operating with temporary fixtures until he could get delivery on the most up-to-date equipment and fixtures being made. They arrived recently and are completely installed and ready for your inspection. The business is located across the street from Mills Service Station, and is in one of the most modern buildings in Knox City.

Mr. Haymes is not a stranger to this part of the country, having lived in Munday all his life. He spent four years in the U. S. Coast Guard and received his discharge in March. "I came to Knox City two weeks later with my discharge papers in one pocket and blueprints for the building in the other," he stated yesterday.

With a new building, modern displays and fixtures and many hard-to-get items, Mr. Haymes invites the people of Knox City and the surrounding trade territory to come in Saturday, look over the store and get acquainted.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hut Corley over the week-end were Mrs. G. C. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Don Warner of Levelland and Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Anderson of Lamasa.

With baked chicken, dressing and all the trimmings already placed on the menu for tomorrow night, the food committee for the P. T. A. Hallowe'en Carnival promise that the doors will be wide open, the chicken hot, and "enuff for everybody" at 6:00 p. m. November 1 in the lunch room at the school house.

Included in the menu are green beans, snowflake potatoes, vegetable salad, hot rolls, apple pie and coffee. Mrs. Harper Knight, Home Economics teacher, is in charge of the dinner.

Following the dinner, the Greyhound gridiron will be the scene of the biggest event of the school year—the crowning of the Football Queen and the Carnival Queen. The second game of the season between the Knox City Greyhounds and the O'Brien Bulldogs, which will be played immediately following the coronation, is predicted to be the toughest battle of the season. Both squads are expected to play their hardest from the starting signal to the last minute of the game.

The local Parent-Teacher Association sponsors the Hallowe'en Carnival once each year to raise money which is distributed to the various school funds. It is their only effort during the year to raise money.

A large crowd is expected tonight for the musical program in the auditorium, under the direction of the musical faculty of the school. Admission for this program will be 15 cents for children and 25 cents for adults. Besides the program there will be fortune tellers, bingo tables, fishing ponds, and a dozen other concessions. Black and orange will be the popular colors, with witches, black cats and jack-o-lanterns along the halls.

Make your plans to attend the Carnival both nights.

Santa Fe

that's the System!

One shipper tells another: the way to get better on-time delivery of freight shipments to and from the West and Southwest is to ship Santa Fe.

Here are some of the reasons Santa Fe keeps freight service "on the advertised" (which is railroad language for "on-time performance"):

- ... world's largest fleet of freight diesel locomotives.
- ... more miles of double track than any other western road.
- ... more miles of Centralized Traffic Control, which enables freight trains to meet and pass non-stop.
- ... world's largest private telephone system, to keep shipments moving more swiftly.
- ... increased yard capacity, and improvements along the line, such as curve straightening, new bridges, longer sidings.

It all adds up to getting what you want where and when you want it, when you ship Santa Fe.

Vocational School Meets In Benjamin

The Knox County Vocational School Board met Friday, October 18, in a regular meeting at Benjamin, according to J. A. Jolly, coordinator. Ted Kelley of Alliance, Nebraska, was approved as an instructor of agriculture, making three instructors in that field. Other instructors are Mr. Penick and Mr. St. Clair.

It was decided at this meeting to have only full time Trades and Industry classes. This being an agriculture area makes it almost impossible to operate on a cooperative basis. Many of the boys have opportunities for good jobs in the fall, at which time their income prohibits them from drawing subsistence. Then when the work is over they cannot go to school because they cannot qualify. In many cases the business is unable to absorb the $90 subsistence in the two-year training period. If they fail to do so, they will be disqualified as a training station. For instance, if a veteran draws $90 at the beginning of his training, the government gives him $80, but as the veteran becomes better qualified the business raises his salary periodically. If the business fails to raise the veteran, it is admitting that the veteran is not learning anything, and there is no point in training the veteran further in that business.

With this in mind the board decided more boys would benefit from full-time training.

There will be no changes in Distributive Education at present for there is no provision for full time in that field.

Friendship—Three Thousand Miles Apart

Ever play chess? It's a great game! One of the strongest friendships I know of started with a game of chess—between Dad Hoskins, in our town, and a man named Dalton Barnes, in England.

They've never seen each other, never met. But for the past eight years they've been playing chess by mail together—Dad puzzling over Dalton's latest letter, while he sends a chart of his next move to England.

Dad always thinks best with a mellow glass of beer beside his chessboard. And the Englishman writes him that he does the same. "You know, it's almost as if we shared a glass of beer together, too!" says Dad contentedly.

From where I sit, you can talk about diplomacy and foreign policy, but it's often those little things—like a game of chess or a glass of beer—that can make for tolerance and understanding... between people of all nations... between neighbors here at home!

Senior News

We all know her! She has been very loyal to our class even though she has never been our class sponsor. She was with us in the eighth grade and now she is with us in our senior year. When it comes down to brass tacks we all like her. Who is this? None other than our friend Mrs. Carpenter.

The Seniors are selling fireworks. We want to take a very good trip at the end of the year so help us by buying our fire crackers, Roman candles, baby giants and many new kinds of fireworks. Our stand is in front of J. M. Edwards Grocery. We are open from three to five on week days and from ten to five on Saturdays. Get your fireworks here!

Why not upset O'Brien Friday night by throwing a baby giant under them.

Fish News

Well, Hallow'en is in full swing and we hope to have a very good program this year. Quite a few Freshmen are in it so it should be a success.

There is a rumor that the Greyhounds are to play O'Brien this Friday. So be sure to come see the Greyhounds defeat the Bulldogs for the second time.

Pep Squad Report

Friday evening at 6 o'clock the pep squad girls left for Haskell where the Greyhounds were playing the Paint Creek Pirates. Everyone was happy and full of pep for the game. When we arrived we had one great sorrow—we had forgotten the drum, but at the half we marched anyway. It was rather hard keeping in step, but we formed a P for Paint Creek and a K. C. for Knox City. We all enjoyed the trip over there and the game.

This Friday we are looking forward to a good game with O'Brien and we intend to do some good yelling.

Doghouse

We wonder why Donnie Griffith got mad at Clara Dean Friday night on the hayride.

Margaret and Bobby were getting along wonderfully Friday night. These hay rides do wonders for boys and girls.

Lorene, who was that guy you were with on the hay ride? By the way, whose motorcycle was that you were riding Monday afternoon? The fellow looked new to us.

Bobby Joe, Mary Lou, Becky, R. P. Rudy and Laquita got lost in Wichita Falls Saturday night on the band trip.

Bill Lain, Hardy, Ken, Rudy, Jack and Quincy had a swell time dancing with six Bowie girls at Wichita Falls. They sure got mad when they went back to their rooms to find that they were locked out for the night by Dick and Bob Bradberry.

Waldo walked home with Ann the other night. This really surprised everyone.

W. N. U. SERVICE

Mark Darrell, young American lumberman, is boss of a lumber camp near St. Victor, Canada.

CHAPTER IV

If Broussac had paid them each fifty dollars, they would have thrown up five dollars a day, let alone two. His decision had been the one they wanted.

He had already received one package of bills from his bank in Quebec. Another was waiting for him at Alphonse Vitard's post office.

Mark paid off his men late that afternoon. Some were still sullen, especially Larousse, some, strangely, even a little respectful.

"I'd like to get the hang of this thing," he told Nat. "Of course, we can float that lumber later in the year, but it means importing fresh labor, and the hire of two schooners twice over. We can stand it. I wonder if Broussac thought the loss would bankrupt us."

"I'd have paid them five dollars each for the lumber through, and then fired the lot," said Nat. "They'd have raised the ante to seven," said Mark grimly.

He went to bed in no very contented frame of mind. He had been counting on that lumber. Now it was likely to be touch and go unless he could raise a little more capital from his backers.

He was half-dressed next morning when Nat came into his room. "Madame Kinross and Larousse are waiting to see you," he informed him, "and the cabins have been vacated."

Her eyes were glowing, her breast rose and fell quickly under the influence of her emotion. Mark turned to Larousse.

There was just the one chance. If Mark could find the key logs of the jam and pull them away, then, instead of the sudden, irresistible charge of two thousand cords of lumber, the mass might go over the dam lightly enough for the boom to withstand the impact.

In which case, the whole mass would come to rest in the basin underneath the dam. Peavy in hand, Mark leaped out upon the mass of churning logs, riding them as they slipped beneath his impact, forcing his way toward the place which he had already discerned as the key to the jam.

Here, some hundred logs were piled up in a fantastic structure. One of these was the key log. Remove this and the whole architectural scheme would crumble and dissolve.

Another man was straddling the logs beside him. Mark recognized Louis Larousse. And suddenly the imminent danger made them comrades—suddenly Mark knew that he could trust Larousse.

Straddling the sliding, bobbing logs, until they reached the heart of the wedge, the two moved side by side.

"She is there!" Louis shouted. There was the same whispering, the same sudden cessation of conversation when he entered the post-office, but there was a new deference, even though his men were on strike for that ridiculous five dollars a day.

Perhaps Broussac did. Mark never saw the lawyer, who remained secluded in the long, yellow house. People wondered how Broussac could afford to stay away from Quebec, where he had a flourishing law firm, but Broussac's interests were innumerable.

Not the least of them was Madeleine Kinross. Mark saw them riding together, and wondered if the lawyer was anything to the girl. At such times a spasm of fierce jealousy would shake him. Mark felt in a dim way that it was more than the signorial trees that he had come for.

His two schooners lay off the flume, waiting for their load of lumber. It was five days since the attempt to break the boom had failed, but the lumber still lay in the lake, in default of labor to put it through the mill.

"We're losing a neat little sum of money, keeping those two schooners waiting on the job," said Nat Page. It wasn't so much, but the schooner captains were getting their five dollars a day, and each vessel had two hands; then there was the cost of the hiring.

"I'm going to wire a labor exchange to send me thirty men from upriver tomorrow," answered Mark. But that wasn't exactly what he wired. He wired asking whether thirty men were available, at a daily wage of two-fifty knowing that the news would be all over St. Victor within a few minutes after Alphonse Vitard, the mayor, storekeeper, and postmaster, had sent off the dispatch.

As soon as Mark had sent his message, Monsieur Vitard hurried across the street to confer with Hector Mackintosh, the storekeeper. Mark had some business with the captain of one of his lumber schooners. When he got back, the street was lined with men, furtively and imploringly watching him.

Back to Work At $2 a Day Two-fifty a day for outside labor! Perhaps, if they hadn't been such fools, Mark might have raised their wages to that sum. They cursed Broussac, in the long, yellow house, who had persuaded them to strike, giving them a small sum of money, and telling them that God would provide a way. There were plenty of starving mouths in St. Victor.

on his. "I'm glad," she cried. "I'm glad!" Suddenly Mark remembered what Father Lacombe had told him about her marriage to the seigneur, half-an-hour before the sealing-fleet sailed for the Newfoundland shores. He stared into her white face and turned his eyes aside.

Broussac had come back and was occupying the long, yellow house overlooking the harbor, where, being unmarried, he resided in the summer with an old housekeeper. He had returned as he always did, on the eve of the departure of the sealing-fleet, to adjust partnership contracts and last minute difficulties.

Mark's retrieving of his lumber had suddenly made him a person of consequence in St. Victor. Nobody dreamed that he would straddle the logs in the rush of the torrent and break up a jam. The habitant loves and admires courage more than any other quality.

There was the same whispering, the same sudden cessation of conversation when he entered the post-office, but there was a new deference, even though his men were on strike for that ridiculous five dollars a day. He had conquered—but St. Victor didn't know it yet.

Not the least of them was Madeleine Kinross. Mark saw them riding together, and wondered if the lawyer was anything to the girl. At such times a spasm of fierce jealousy would shake him. Mark felt in a dim way that it was more than the signorial trees that he had come for.

There were plenty of starving mouths in St. Victor.

Big Louis came to Mark that evening. "I think the men are ready to come back to work for you, Monsieur," he said. "I'll see them when they think they're ready," answered Mark. Walking into town next day, he picked up a telegraphic dispatch that Monsieur Vitard had received. "Can send you all the men you need." He guessed then that the battle was won.

PAUL CHAMPIONS FREEDOM AND BROTHERHOOD

LESSON TEXT—Acts 15:23b-29; Galatians 3:13-18. MEMORY SELECTION—But we believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved, even as they.—Acts 15:11.

Fundamental doctrine must be sound and true or the church will go astray. A question had arisen at Antioch which had to be answered authoritatively, and once for all.

The early converts of the church were naturally from among the Jews, and they carried with them into their new-found faith the traditions of their religion. Some of them did not recognize that the salvation they had in Christ was entirely by grace, apart from any works of the law. They not only felt that they must observe the law, but insisted that the Gentile believers must also fulfill the Jewish rite of circumcision. This promptly raised the question whether Christ alone could save, or if men were saved by grace plus works.

To settle this matter, Paul and Barnabas went up to the church at Jerusalem, and there a great council discussed it freely, and came to a decision which was then transmitted by letter and a committee. That decision established an eternal principle—Believers Are Free from the Law (Acts 15:23b-29).

The believers at Antioch were to abstain from those things which would hinder their spiritual progress and harm their testimony. That was imperative and right, but it must not be allowed to confuse them regarding the basis of their salvation. They were not saved by works, not even though they were most commendable.

Salvation is by grace, through faith, "not of works, lest any man should boast" (Eph. 2:8, 9). That principle, which is absolutely foundational in all Christian thinking, was established then, and is valid and blessedly true for all time.

Is it not strange, then, that all through the church's history there has been a determined effort on the part of some in the church to add something to God's redeeming grace as a ground for salvation? Observe the plain rebuke given to teachers of error in verse 24. It is no light matter to trouble and mislead the souls of men by injecting our worldly wisdom or our opinions, when we should be teaching the truth of God's Word.

Salvation by grace and freedom from the law does not bring the believer into a place of license, but of liberty—and a liberty controlled by a new factor in his life. We note that in

II. Practice—Believers Are Bound by Love (Gal. 5:13-15).

The one who turns to Christ by faith is indwelt by the Holy Spirit and finds that, far from failing to keep the high moral principles of God's law, he is given grace to keep them more perfectly. This he does, not in order to be saved, but because he is saved.

He comes out of a bondage to legalism, which he could not bear, into a new bondage to the law of love, which his new nature in Christ delights to bear and in which it finds the fulfillment of its highest and holiest desires. Note that this shows itself in the church and in the world in loving service to others in the absence of strife; in a word, in the practice of the admonition: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" (v. 14; Lev. 19:18).

No one faces that life responsibility without realizing that he is evidently not able for it. God has provided for that need, for we note next that there is

III. Power—Believers Are Led by the Spirit (Gal. 5:16-18).

Being saved does not set us free from the conflict with sin, for the old nature declares itself at enmity with the Spirit. We find it often to be in our hearts to do right, and in the decisive moment we find the flesh taking control and we cannot do the things we would (v. 17). What is the solution of that problem? An all-out attack on sin and sinful desires? That is commendable, but it somehow doesn't work. We need a superior power to work in and through us.

That's it! There is a power in us and ready to work through us—the matchless, victorious power of the Holy Spirit. He dwells in the heart of every believer (I Cor. 6:19) and only awaits our yielding to him that he may take control of our lives. Walking in the Spirit (v. 16) is simply giving him the liberty to direct our lives after the will of God, day by day and moment by moment. This puts us in the way of victory, for as we walk in the Lord's way we may call on him for not only his grace, but also his strength. Saved by grace to a life of liberty.
