Out Cleanup Program.

The regular meeting of the Knox County Boy Scouts Tuesday evening, vote carried for this week's clean up week for Knox City. Master Casey Jones states that this time will be extended through Monday of next week as that time will be needed for the truck is being furnished by the and the boys are collecting the from the residential section as as assisting in the down town cleaning.

The boys were pleased Tuesday to that most of the business houses on the west section of town have a wonderful showing in clean-up at the rear of the buildings.

Second Monday "Haul Off" Day. The scouts have designated the second Monday of each month as the day on which all cans and trash will be removed from the city. Residents of the town are asked to have their trash gathered and in containers and placed by the roadside each second Monday of the month from now on and the Boy Scouts will haul it off. This plan will be used now also. If you have not ready set your trash out for the boys to pick up, do so by Monday and it will be taken off.

Other Scout Plans

At the meeting Tuesday evening the scouts discussed plans for attending the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth this year. Much enthusiasm was manifest and without misfortune occurs, the boys will make the trip together.

It is also interesting to know that the scout suits this year. They are looking forward with much pleasure to this possibility.

Casey Jones is Scout Master; Jack Wetzel Assistant and Delmus Hamner Assistant Junior Scout Master.

Thursday of last week Mr. J. W. Smith and Mrs. J. A. Wilson attended the funeral service of Mr. Jim Horne in Truscott. Mr. Horne was one of the real pioneers of Knox county, he being one of the second commissioners of the county.

Mr. W. B. Houston, county chairman of the C.W.A. employment states that the local workers on the C.W.A. have not been cut but that next week the number employed will be cut 10 percent or more. However there will be no staggering in the pay roll.

Miss Elizabeth Deaver, graduate of the Knox City school in 1923, was married to Mr. Fred Courtney on December 15 in Kiltore Texas. Miss Deaver is a sister to Mrs. L. W. Coats of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Hairston and daughter Thelma Jo and Glenn Fox of Rochester spent Sunday with relatives in Crowell.

The Washington Memorial program sponsored Tuesday evening by the Masonic Lodge of Knox City was splendid. T. W. Templeton of Benjamin made the main talk of the evening, another speaker being Mrs. E. F. Branton of this city. Musical numbers and reading completed the program, following which refreshments of sandwiches, cakes, coffee and tea were served.

Church Rally A Success.

The county rally of leaders of the First Christian churches of Knox county held in Knox City Monday evening was successful in its purpose.

Minister Patrick Henry, who is state secretary of Texas Missions of the First Christian church, of Austin, delivered the main address of the evening. His subject "how to secure a full time, resident pastor for Knox county", was well developed, the key note being thought of making your church your hobby. Brother Henry illustrated the fact that man makes his hobby a success, and if he chooses as his hobby his church, the church, without doubt, will be successful in all endeavors.

Minister Bedford Smith of Olney was present and made a short but interesting talk. Other out of town people included Minister J. E. Montgomery, pastor of the Highland Heights church of Wichita Falls, and three of his membership Judge Sartan, Mr. Curde and Mr. Brown. Minister Goodpaster of Archer City was present and from Truscott were Mr. and Mrs. Jolly Myers and two children and Mr. and Mrs. Browning from Benjamin were Mr. A. B. Sams, Orval Propps and J. H. Atterberry. Also Mr. and Mrs. Hughes of Suiset.

The rally was a success spiritually in that it promoted better fellowship between the churches of the county; in that it provided an incentive for securing a full time resident pastor for the county and third that it pointed out a means by which this full time pastor can be taken care of.

At the business session a committee composed of members from all the four active churches of the county, Knox City being represented by B. C. Anderson, Pete Moody and B. L. Favor, was appointed to secure a full time, resident pastor of the county.

Services at the First Christian Church Sunday were well attended despite the fact the day was the most unpleasant we have had in some time.

A poem comes to me,
I live for those who love me
For those who know me true
For the heaven that smiles above me
And awaits my spirit too!

YOUR HEALTH

John W. Brown, State Health Officer

Public Enemy Number One is Heart Disease, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. This disease kills over 7200 people each year in Texas and the worst part of this is the number is increasing each year.

While it must be admitted that the deaths attributed to heart ailments are increasing, the fact remains that when a person complains of his heart organically infrequently exists. Organic heart disease causes shortness of breath, swelling of hands and feet, and a cough. Usually these signs do not convey to the patient's mind even the suggestion that he has heart disease.

So-called functional heart disease is usually traced to these sources, namely, nervousness, infections from another part of the body such as teeth or tonsils, to a disturbed function of the thyroid gland, to influenza and so on; and to the effects of the effects of the excessive use of tobacco, coffee, or tea.

In cases where there is a disturbed heart action, due to focal infection the source of which is located, the infective cause when possible is removed, as in the case of diseased tonsils and teeth. The heart, possessing remarkable recuperative ability, once the poisoning agent is definitely eliminated, in time becomes normal once again.

Good professional advice and a strict heeding of it are the only things to worry about either in functional or organic heart disease. It is a well established fact that the great number of those who know they have a heart condition usually die from some other cause.

Mrs. J. R. Berry teacher in the Knox City school, spent the past weekend at her home in Benjamin, Smith-Kay Wedding.

Monday February 19, 1934 one of the outstanding events in the city life of both Rochester and Knox City took place in the marriage of Miss Francis Kay to Mr. Reeder Smith.

The Kay home was arranged for the occasion. An improvised altar was arranged beneath an arch of green footed with baskets of snap dragons and carnations. The bride wearing a gown of pink satin, princess style with a slight train and a bonnet shagged veiled circled with orange blossoms, was accompanied by her brother, Charles Kay, and met the groom, accompanied by his brother Hobb Smith, at the altar where Reverend L. Dennis impressively performed the ring ceremony.

The ring barrier, Master Lloyd Leslie Davis, wore a black velveteen suit with a white satin blouse, a becoming cupid presenting the ring from a rose heart imbedded on a white satin pillow.

Miss Kay was attended by Miss Maxine Bragg, Maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Canard of Wichita Falls, Brides maid and Mrs. James Yancey Matron of honor. Miss Bragg wore pastel blue and carried pink rose buds; Miss Canard wore a delicate green and carried salmon colored sweet peas and Mrs. Yancey wore yellow and carried saffron rose buds.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Majorie Sue Kay played a violin solo and Mrs. Hobb Smith sang "Oh Promise Me". The wedding march was played by Mrs. E. Q. Warren. Ushers were Dr. Vaughter, Mr. Truitt Alvis and Jimmy Yancy. Only relatives and very immediate friends attended the wedding, the number totaling 40 or more.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride chanked into a brown wool-crepe dress with hat, shoes and accessories to match and the couple left for San Antonio. They will return home the latter part of the week and be at home to their friends in the Allen cottage of this city.

Miss Kay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kay. She attended college at both Simmons in Abilene and Sentinay in Louisiana. She is a very attractive girl and hap is to be congratulated.

Reeder is the son (next to the baby) of Mammy and Pappy Smith. He is a graduate of the Knox City high school, attended McMurray in Abilene and a Pharmacial school in Fort Worth. He is, all around, a very fine young man and Miss Kay should find life happy now and for ever more.

SMITH-KAY BRIDAL PARTY BREAKFAST

The Smith-Kay bridal party was entertained at breakfast Sunday in the home of the groom's sister Mrs. J. A. Wilson, she being assisted by another sister Mrs. L. L. Davis.

The party was headed by the bride and groom, she being attired in black and white, an attractive contrast to the pink and silver setting of the Wilson home.

Place cards of hand tinted brides hearts revealed the table arrangements, the family table being laid in lace, underlaid in pink, and centered with a silver holder and six pink tapers. A three course breakfast was served to the party composed of Mr. Charles Kay, Truitt Alvis, Dr. Vaughter, Miss Maxine Bragg, Mr. and Mrs. Hobb Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Yancy all of Rochester; Miss Lillian Kalgar of Haskell, Miss Elizabeth Knard of Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. E. Q. Warren of Knox City, Mr. Reeder Smith the Groom, of Knox City and Miss Francis Kay the bride, of Rochester. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Speck were absent.

FIRE DAMAGES OFFICE OF BENJAMIN POST

The office of the Post in Benjamin caught fire Wednesday and did considerable damage to the machinery sufficiently so that the Blue boys will not be able to use the machinery until it is repaired.

The fire started in the rear of the office, supposedly from the trash pile. There will doubtless be no Benjamin Post this week.

MAN'S CURIOUSITY

Throughout the ages women have been branded with the statement that she, the fairer of the sexes, was the most curious thing on earth. Well when preacher Stovall goes to the country now he searches the hen houses to see if the hens there lay speckled eggs, and when he goes to town he looks at men's feet to see if their socks are like his. You see, he is doing his best to learn who his Sun Shine Sister is.

This week the preacher has added a third source to which to express his curiosity. He is going about looking in back yards to see who grows Cherry trees.

Today, Thursday, February 22 Preacher Stovall received a handsome cake, decorated with cherries still clinging to the branches, and centered with a red hatchet bearing the initials NRA. This of course came from his Sun Shine Sister, and he is so working with curiosity he can't be still.

Even if the preacher is curious, he is rather a good scout, a splendid man, a good preacher and greatly deserving the perfectly beautiful cake that he exhibited about 10:00 a. m. at the Herald office.

Why the Sudden Change to Liquid Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be thus regulated to suit individual need.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on penna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is at all druggists. Member N. R. A.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn
The Twelve Sent Forth
Lesson for February 25th. Matt. Chapter 10.
Golden Text: Matt. 9:37, 38.

As we think of the twelve disciples we are reminded of that impressive word of the apostle Paul, "Not many wise men, not many of good birth, have been called!" Not one of these twelve was a college graduate. Not one belonged to the professional or upper classes. They were humble, obscure souls, common folk of Galilee assembled from the rank and file. At least four of them were fishermen. One was a despised tax collector, one was a militant, zealous antagonist of the Roman Empire, and one was a traitor.

Yet these apostles of lowly origin heralded the gospel with such signal success that the Christian movement, although it lost its footing in Jerusalem, spread rapidly as a conquering force through the Gentile world. To quote again from the noble-hearted Paul, "God has chosen what is weak in the world to shame what is strong."

Here we have an illustration of one of the striking lessons of the Bible. The Good Book is eager to point out the power of a resolute minority. "The race is not to the swift nor the battle to the strong." Abraham was told that Solomon would be spared if ten righteous men could be found therein. Jeremiah sought for one conscientious man in Jerusalem, confident that his presence would save the city. And Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego successfully defied the burning fiery furnace of Nebuchadnezzar. So the discipline, though very few in number, boldly and triumphantly challenged the pagan world of their day.

Of course the field of their operation was limited, for Jesus bade them go only "to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Their ministry was wisely centered by the Master on the local neighborhood and its immediate need. The time was not ripe for a foreign missionary tour. But it was not long before their message had been carried to the ends of the earth.

VIRTUOUS LOVE

Another group of sayings is given under the heading, "These also are sayings of the wise"; and the last chapter of Proverbs is the work of an anonymous writer, presumably a woman, and possibly Bathsheba that remarkable lady who deserted Uriah and Hittite to become the favorite wife of Israel's greatest king, David, and mother of the wisest, Solomon.

There are two other Old Testament books which come to mind in connection with Solomon. The first is the "Song of Songs" which, as the first verse says, "is Solomon's" but whether this means by Solomon or concerning Solomon is a question. It is a poem about a young girl who lived in the northern hills. Solomon saw her on his travels and wanted her for his harem, but her heart was true to her shepherd lover. When the ladies of the court praised Solomon to her and demanded, "What is thy lover more than any other?" she answered stoutly, "My beloved is mine, and I am his."

She was carried off to Jerusalem but she slept fitfully. "I slept but my soul was awake," she said. In her dreams she found herself wandering all about the streets of a strange city, looking for her lover. Finally her loyalty was rewarded. Solomon would not hold her against the hunger of her heart and returned her to her Galilean swain.

This is the story, somewhat involved in the telling but clear enough to any one who will take time to puzzle it out. When you read the Italian type at the head of each chapter, however, what do you discover? That this old-fashioned love song is "an allegory of Christ and the church." Nothing could be more absurd. The "Song" is not a religious book in any sense; the name of God does not occur in it. Its theme is the triumph of virtuous love over all the riches that a king can offer. Simply that and nothing more. When you see how diligently certain annotators have worked to squeeze all the life and humanity out of the Bible you wonder how the Book has lasted so long. Its vitality, in spite of the bad offers of its friends, is the most powerful argument for its inspiration.

Ecclesiastes is the book commonly attributed to Solomon because the first verse reads:

The words of the Preacher, the son of David, king of Jerusalem: Modern scholars seem to think that some obscure writer of a much later date wrote the book and that the pious Solomon gets the credit a quite plausible conjecture. It is too bad we cannot be sure about the authorship, for the writer, whoever he was, left us one of the great masterpieces. Frederick the Great called it the "book for kings," and insisted that every monarch ought to read it regularly.

MYSELF
 By Edgar A. Guest

I have to live with myself, and so
 I don't want to be fit for myself to know.
 I want to be able as days go by Always to look myself straight in the eye.
 I don't want to stand with teh setting sun
 And hate myself for the things I've done.
 I don't want to keep on a closet shelf
 A lot of secrets about myself,
 And fool myself, as I come and go,
 Into thinking that nobody else will know
 The kind of man I really am
 I don't want to dress up myself in sham.
 I want to go out with my head erect,
 I want to deserve all men's respect.
 But here in the struggle for fame
 and pelf
 I want to be able to like myself.
 I don't want to look at myself and know
 That I'm blutser and bluff and empy show.
 I never can hide myself from me;
 I see what others may never see.
 I know what others may never know,
 I never can fool myself, and so,
 Whatever happens, I want to be Self-respecting and conscience-free.

THE MYSTERY OF THE CARTER RANCH
 By Opal Dee Bohannon

Jane Burmont had been working very hard for the last three or four months, she decided that she would take a vacation. She found a house that seemed the very place to spend a vacation. It was a large ranch house and furnished with ideal ranch furniture, the yards were covered with flowers and grass, and a large grove of trees lay just behind the house.

The nearest town to this ranch was about twelve miles away. The ranch house belonged to the Carters. Three generations of Carters had lived and died in this house, and were buried in a family cemetery. Just back of the large grove of trees. The last of the Carters was a young girl who had married Owen Holt. Mary Carter and her husband had lived in the house about two years when a son was born to them, and about four or five months later Mary Carter had died suddenly, leaving the ranch to her son. After her death Owen Holt had taken his son and left the country and no one knew what became of him or his son either.

Jane was nineteen and very beautiful. She had dark brown hair and brown eyes. She was tall and slender and looked very neat in the brown linen dress she wore.

She took with her to the ranch a maid whom she called Marie, a stable boy, Jim, and her horse, Beauty. When the party arrived at the ranch house, a young man in a large limousine drove up at the gate and stopped.

The man was tall with light curly hair and blue eyes. He wore light tan riding breeches and brown boots. He was hatless, and in his shirt sleeves with them rolled up. He looked very handsome in his attire.

"Good evening, is this Miss Burmont?" said the stranger.

"Yes," replied Jane "and what can I do for you?"

"I came to warn you not stay here any longer. Everyone that has spent a night here since Mary Carter died has met a very violent death," answered the stranger.

"Thank you for telling me, but I am not easily scared, and I have my maid and stable boy here with me, and I don't think there will be danger of any of us getting hurt," replied Jane.

"I am sorry you feel that way about it, Miss Burmont, but I am sure you won't go wrong in taking my advice and leaving here," with that he turned on his heel and left Jane standing on the porch staring at him.

When Jane retired that night she thought much of what the stranger had said, and which kept her awake all night.

The next morning when she awoke the sun was streaming in at her window and the birds were singing gaily outside.

"What a beautiful day this will be for riding," she said to herself as she lay there thinking.

She dressed in her riding togs and went down-stairs for breakfast. When she had finished eating the breakfast Marie told her that she was her Jane told Marie that she was riding to Eastman City to purchase a few things. But in her mind she was going to find out who the stranger was who had called on her the day before.

The information she was able to obtain about the stranger was very little. She learned that he was a stranger in that part of the county. He had a room rented in one of the hotels of Eastman City, and she one knew his name.

Jane rode back home wondering about the stranger, what he had come to warn her to leave the Carter Ranch.

Jane retired early that night and as soon as she crawled into bed she fell asleep. Suddenly she was awakened by a startling noise. It was her black horse Beauty. It sounded to her as if he were tearing down the barn. Jane slipped on her night robe and grabbed her small automatic pistol and flashlight that lay on a table near her bed and left the room. As she passed Jim's room she called to him to come with her receiving no answer she went on to the barn, thinking Jim was already out there. When Jim reached the barn Beauty was already quite but very restless. As she opened the stable door she stumbled over the body of a man. She turned the body over and shined the light in his face, it was Jim, the stable boy, with a dagger through his heart, and a note pinned to his sleeve saying,

"If you are gone tomorrow, you'll be next."

Horror stricken she sat down on a box near by to keep from fainting. She sat there it seemed to her hours before she went back to the house. Finally she made herself to the house to phone for some help. She phoned to the police headquarters at Eastman City. Just as Jane had finished phoning she heard a loud purring sound. She looked out the window and it was the stranger's car that had called on her the day before.

When the two policemen arrived the first thing they wanted to do was to see the body of the dead stable boy. Jane showed them to the barn where the body was. When she opened the stable door, she stepped back and gasped the body had disappeared. The policemen could see traces of where the body had lain, a large pool of blood stared them in the face and the dagger lay close by. Some one had removed the body since Jane had left it.

About what time was it when you heard the noise, Miss Burmont?" asked one of the policemen.

"It was about twelve o'clock, answered Jane.

"Did you see anyone leave the barn after you came to the house?"

"Yes I saw a car leave just after I phoned you."

"What kind was it?"

"I don't know," said Jane. She knew she was lying, but somehow she did not want to tell them it was the stranger's car.

"Then that is all you know of the murdered Miss Burmont," said the policemen.

"Yes that is all I know about it."

One of the policemen stayed as a guard for Jane, and the other one went back to town to do some investigating.

The policeman that stayed as guard for Jane, stayed in the sitting room so that he might hear anything that went on. Jane went to her room but did not retire. She had not been in her room long until some one opened the door and came in. Jane turned around and saw an old man. He was dressed in black with tight fitting trousers and coat. He looked more like a ghost or spirit than a human being. He started at Jane and caught her. She started to scream but it was of no use. He had already stuffed her mouth with wax. A door seemed to open in the wall and they disappeared through it, leaving no trace of where they had gone. It seemed to Jane that they were going through a coal mine. It was so dark she could hardly see the man that was carrying her away. Finally they came to a halt, the man opened a door to a dimly lighted room. He put Jane in a chair and bound her to it, so that she had no possible chance of escaping.

It seemed to Jane that she had set there for hours, when the door slowly opened and a man

WHOM WHO IN THE SENIOR CLASS

Odell Thompson was born on September the eighteenth 1917 in Knoxville, and she has lived here practically all her life with the exception of a very few months. She is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs about 192 pounds; in addition to that she has red hair and blue eyes. Odell has been a member of the present senior class from the first grade through to the proud seniors of '34.

Odell has filled various class offices during her school career and at the present time is Secretary and reporter of the senior class, Vice-president of the Home Economic Club, Business manager of the Chorus Club. She has been a member of the local campfire girls, the pep squad for all four years she has been in high school, and in the Chorus Club for four years. Odell is interested in all sorts of sports especially football (Football boys) and she has played basketball for five years and during that time filled the capacity of captain of the team one year on the basketball team.

Odell's best friend seems to be Corrine Shaw and it is hardly possible to see one without seeing the other; favorite song, St. Louis Blues; pastime, reading and drawing; favorite course of study, plane geometry; likes dramatics, tap dancing, and music; she says she has no personality and I really don't know whether or not that goes with red hair so she may or may not be correct in that; her weakness is blonds (ahem)—and cowboys (No!)

GIRLS TOURNAMENT

The basketball girls displayed their ability at Gore Friday and Saturday of the county basketball tournament.

The first game was with Truett. Friday night at 10 the score being 29 to 3 in Knox City's favor.

Saturday morning they defeated Vera by the sum of 53 points the score was 51-3.

Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock they defeated Sunset 38-22.

The girls took first place no awards were given, but they still have the honor of being practically an undefeated team. In the three games the Greyhounds ran up a score of 145 points to their opponents 28.

SOPHOMORE PARTY

The Sophomores were given a very enjoyable party at the home of our sponsor, Mr. Doan, last Friday night. The valentine scheme was carried out in the decorations, games, and refreshments. There were about twenty sophomores present and we had a very nice time.

WE WONDER WHY

Hill Evans is so quiet lately. Gentry Day does not talk to the women folks. Loyd Huntsman does not join Wallace Eltry. Rheba (Roughhouse) Whorton does not become a prize fighter. Edward Shaver is so bashful. Vernon Davis likes the girls so much, (especially large ones) Kenneth Edwards prefers blondes. LeRay Sibley knows so much about algebra.

TEACHERS TRIP TO FORT WORTH

On Sunday afternoon February 11, the four primary teachers and Miss Benton accompanied Mrs. O. B. King and daughter went to Fort Worth. The purpose of the trip was to visit and observe in the Fort Worth schools, thus getting new and different ideas for our school.

The Primary Supervisor of the Fort Worth schools was very kind to the teachers and showed them every consideration possible, besides giving them stacks of material.

The schools visited were Arlington Heights, North Hi-Mount, South Hi-Mount, Lilly B. Clayton, Alice Carlsson and Deaver. The outstanding thing of all these schools were the attractive, clean rooms.
