Pastor Carries Good Report to Conference

Rev. J. W. Hawkins, pastor of the Methodist church, accompanied by his wife and little daughter, departed for Amarillo Tuesday where he will attend the annual Conference which convened in that city Wednesday at noon and will continue to Sunday night.

Rev. Hawkins carried a mighty report from the Church. During his year's work there have been 124 professions and 52 added to the certificates, which netting withdrawals of 115 members a salary was with a little conference have a full new dollars added after Smith Brothers Become Proprietors of Confectionery.

Messrs. J. T. and G. T. Smith have purchased the popular confectionery stand known as the Corner Confectionery and it will hereafter be known as the Smith Brothers Confectionery. These gentlemen are assembling a complete stock in their line and are anticipating a fine fall and winter business. They are each affable gentlemen and besides their complaisant manner they are learning to mix drinks at an alarming rate so their customers will soon not have to stand in line and wait their turn. They are in earnest about their business and ambitious to please their customers. We predict for the new management a success and large patronage.

"King of Life," 146 Years Old, Takes New Wife

PARIS—Zaro of Constantinople, aged 146, and the oldest man on earth, has married for the fourth time. His latest wife is a beautiful Turkish girl, aged 25 years.

Other peculiarities of Zaro, nicknamed "King of Life," are: Worked ninety years as street porter, quitting for another job at 110.

Became porter in a munition factory at 111 and still holds the job.

Lost all his teeth at 109 and then grew an entirely new set of both.

Developed third kidney at 105 Gets angry with his 96-year-old son because he will not work but "sticks around the house."

Zaro has been offered a fabulous sum to tour America. He says he may—after his honeymoon.

Army Cartoonist Saw Funny Side of War

Frank B. Logan, the doughboy who saw the funny side of the war, was a newspaperman and cartoonist before going to France as an officer in Uncle Sam's army.

Through force of habit, he spent his idle moments in France sketching the peasants, the doughboy, the English "Tommy" and the little acemen about him which attracted his attention. His buddies seized upon these sketches, and one day one of them reached the office of the LeMans Bulletin, the newspaper published at this embarkation point. Logan immediately was given a cartoonist post with the bulletin, and his drawings attracted much attention in this paper.

Mr. Logan is to give his famous chalk-talk and cartoon lecture here on the evening of Oct. 10th, at 8:30.

His talk is a little bit different from that of any other cartoonist. His pictures are artistically correct and they sparkle with keen humor and irony. He works with lightning rapidity, and talks almost as fast as he works. He is a master of splendid color effects.

The Estevan, Sask., Progress said of Mr. Logan, following appearance there: "His lec-

Knox City, Texas.

Friend Hammock; I don't know how near to expiration my subscription is but fearing that it may not be far away I am enclosing herewith my check for $1.00 in renewal. I see you make a raise in the rates the 1st and since it seems that we just must have "the old home paper" I thought I had better get in before the raise became effective.

Congratulations for the new little sheet you publish. Through it we keep up pretty closely with the "doings" of the folks about Knox City and also keep a fairly good line on the editor. We note that he has bought a new Ford for his wife but has reserved for himself the running board only and this to be used at widely separated intervals. From this we judge we are still to have a good paper, hence this dollar. We are truly glad that conditions are so good about Knox City, for many places are so highly favored.

With kindest personal regards and best wishes I am,

Very truly,

E. C. Couch.

The written and printed word keep in touch with friends though apart.

What cheer a kindly letter brings and what a gift to be a splendid letter writer like Mr. Couch. It is one of the editor's regrets that in the modern rush of commerce fine art of letter writing is being transformed into a curt business code. Courtesy is in friendship, mortar between the brick, the lath on which is laid the tiles of comradeship. Let friendly letter writing survive, and by it build here on earth a great fellowship that shall broaden as we come into that great heritage where men become the sons of God and joint heirs with Jesus Christ.

Agricultural Club Organized at School

The members of the class of Vocational Agriculture at the high school held a meeting and organized The Ag. Club with Ulric Lea as President and C. J. Reese as Secretary. There are nineteen members with the sponsor, Mr. West, who is the instructor of Vocational Agriculture.

The primary purpose of the Ag. Club is the study of better Agricultural methods. It has a complete library and laboratory and each member has an animal project which enables him to put into almost instant use every worthwhile bit of information that he obtains during the periods of study in the club room. A second purpose is found in the plans of the club for better farming methods in the district. The club will encourage the use of Better Sires, both hogs and cattle, and the establishment of pure poultry flocks, the cooperative marketing work, and other developments that will mean a better agriculture.

A get-acquainted banquet will be held the night after the first football game, Oct. 14. Plans will be made there for making the club of practical value to the parents, each member of the club being always ready to find and give any information that farming folks may need.

In all the fields of endeavor it is but natural that there must be some misdirected energy but our idea of an utter waste of time and efforts is the men's beauty contest now being conducted in New York. A beauty contest pays very small returns at best, but when they transfer the competition from the ladies to the Apollos it is a "pretty little of fish". The world has very little need of pretty men. Ladies have always been objects of adoration, especially the pretty ones, and it might, therefore, be of some advantage to them to have a reputation for beauty. But to a man, handsomeness can only bring all kinds of troublesome entanglements and eventually make of him a worthless character. What this world demands and needs of men is strength and ability and a sense of duty to his fellowmen. Usefulness should be a man's career and ambition; leaving the finer and more delicate gesture to the fairer sex with whom a wise providence has been lavish in her endowment for the fine art of entertainment, kindly sympathy and encouragement.

And now the experts assure us that a forty per cent saving could be made in the men's ready-made clothing industry. I guess we might as well get ready for knee trousers or perhaps a decollete shirt where could the saving be? The short skirt has saved millions of yards of fine cloth from the fate of street and floor sweeping, why not the men be allowed a shorter garment and thus avoid the feather-edge so commonly seen on the rim of the ankle trousers. If we are going to reform feminine wearing apparel lets reform the men's also.

Saturday Morning Oct. 8th, the great State fair swings open to the hundreds of thousands of eager visitors, some of who go merely sight-seeing, while many go for beneficial and scientific reasons. There is a great variety of amusement at the Fair. Everything from the morbid and sensual to the greatest exhibits of art and agricultural specimens ever gathered under one management. One can get a general idea of the products of Texas in a few days otherwise it would take months of travel at a large expense to see the different sections of our vast state and its resources.

He who has lived well, laughed often and loved much has achieved success; it is he who has gained the respect of intelligent men, the trust of good women and the love of children. He has filled his niche, accomplished his task, and improved his opportunities. He who leaves the world better than he found it, improves the condition of a fellow, writes an inspiring article, pens a few words of good cheer, smiles as he mixes with others, passes on an uplifting thought, appreciates what is best in his fellow beings, he it is whose life is an inspiration and whose memory is a benediction.—Ex.

Proclamation by the Mayor

It is the custom throughout the nation to observe October 9th anniversary of the Chicago conflagration of 1871, as Fire Prevention Day, in which connection the Governors of the several states and Mayors of cities and towns issue their proclamations to emphasize the need for eliminating fire hazards.

Each year in this country several thousands persons are burned to death or maimed for life by fire and heavy toll is taken of our natural and created resources because many of us do not pause to count the cost of tolerating conditions that cause fire. Never in our history have we suffered so severely as within the last 12 months when approximately 20,000 lives were lost and $500,000,000 worth of property values were burned.

Therefore, I, J. H. McLain Mayor of the city of Knox City, do hereby proclaim Sunday, October 9, 1921, Fire Prevention Day in our city, and call upon every citizen to join in its appropriate observance.

On that day it is proper that ministers of the Gospel throughout the city arrange for addresses from pulpits and before Bible schools concerning safety from fire.

Let 9th day of the month of October this year for safeguarding against fire during which let us place our homes and business properties in order against damage or destruction by a careful examination and repair of chimneys and flues and heating and lightning apparatus and equipment, by making provision for the safe handling and storage of volatile liquids and explosives, and by clearing away rubbish and trash and other agencies that cause fire.

It is important that our board of education and teachers in all public and private schools inaugurate fire drills, and instruct the children in their care how to avoid fire. In cooperation with the city Fire Marshal and Chief of the Fire Department let all Fire Insurance Agents, the chamber of Commerce, Women's Clubs, Boy Scouts, Labor Council and other organizations plan and execute appropriate activities to impress the need for fire prevention.

And henceforth let us set ourselves diligently and constantly to the task of eliminating preventable fire waste.

In Testimony Whereof I have hereunto signed my name and affixed my seal of office, on this 6th day of Oct. A. D., 1921.
J. H. McLain Mayor.

Light's Dream

—What They Mean

QUARRELING.

DOCTOR CORIAT says "Everybody dreams and ridiculous it may appear." But with regard to the prophetic quality of dreams he says: "From a strictly scientific standpoint such an interpretation would be very superficial in that it did not take into full cognizance all the complex facts which may produce a dream." For instance it must be proved what the event "foretold" in the future never existed as a wish in either the conscious or unconscious thought of the dreamer. In my experience I have yet failed to find one genuinely prophetic dream.

Yet all the scientists agree that the study of dreams from a scientific standpoint is still in its infancy and one scientist goes so far as to suggest that as our waking thoughts frequently contain the germs of our future actions so our dream thoughts may have in them similar germs.

Dr. Charles Mackay, in his well-known book, "Extraordinary Delusions," scoffs at the belief in the prophetic quality of dreams but remarks: "It has subsisted through all the changes that normal or physical revolutions have operated in the world and the record of five thousand years bears testimony to the universal diffusion of the belief."

The scientists would explain a dream of quarreling with a friend as the springing to life of some dormant idea regarding that friend lurking in the subconsciousness. Given the whole dream Freud would, doubtless, see it tinged with neurosis.

What say the mystics? They say that to dream of quarreling with your sweetheart means that you are going to love each other better than ever. To quarrel with a friend means that your friendship is secure and that you will shortly enjoy yourself in his company, though some of the mystics are unkind enough to add that it also means loss of money. If you quarrel with a stranger it is an omen that you will soon make the acquaintance of an undetachable person. Any dream of quarreling signifies the reconciliation of estrangements and constancy in friendship. So quarrel all you want to in dreamland and keep the peace in the waking world.

THEIR ARMY TRAINING

Training still manifests itself

SAYS WAR HELPED RELIGION

Big Fight Made Soldiers Better Men, is Assertion Made by Man Who Knows Them.

The American soldier came out of the war with more religion than he went in, according to Rev. Henry Russell Talbot, canon of the National cathedral at Washington, who arises to defend the doughboy from the libel that the "war ruined him."

"He is a better man for having been in the army," asserts the canon, refer-ing to the veteran, the Stars and Stripes states.

Canon Talbot was senior chaplain of the First division of the American expeditionary forces. In a communication to national headquarters of the American Legion at Indianapolis he admits the American, as he saw him in France, was "uncommonly timid in the exercise of his religion. He was frightened at his own religious shadow or he might have been grossly ignorant of the content and practice of his religion."

But as the First division's senior chaplain, the canon was in charge of all the private belongings of the 1,800
Americans killed in the ten days' fight in the Argonne, and in nine out of ten of the men's kits found a scapular, prayer book or testament. And in those "days," Canon states, "the First division was

STANDARD BREEDS OF FOWLS

Poultry Keeper Should Select Breed
Best Adapted to His Purpose and Locality.

Leaving out of consideration the breeds kept as novelties, all the standard American breeds of fowls have been made and developed on the general principle of practical quality as the foundation of breed character and value. In harmony with this principle, the common classification of breeds according to their places in the general scheme of poultry production divides them into three principal classes: laying breeds, meat breeds and general-purpose breeds—that is, breeds that are not as ready and persistent egg producers as the laying breeds, and not as meaty and as easy to fatten as the meat breeds, yet combine in one individual fowl a very good laying capacity with very good table quality.

The Leghorn, Minorca, Andalusian, Ancona and Campine are well-known breeds of the laying class; the Brahma, Dorking, and Cornish of the meat
class; the Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Rhode Island Red and Orpington
of the general-purpose class.

The breeds of the laying class, with the exception of the Minorca, are relatively small, very energetic and lively, mature early, and are easily kept in good laying condition. The Minorca is of larger size and modified somewhat in the other particulars mentioned, yet has more the character of the laying class than of any other.

In the meat breeds there is not the same uniformity of type that is found in the laying breeds. The three mentioned differ decidedly. The Brahma is most popular because it is at the same time the largest and most rugged in constitution. The Dorking excels in quality of meat, but is generally considered somewhat lacking in hardiness. The Cornish is rather

hard mated but, being very shiffeathered, has its special place as a large meat-producing fowl in southerly sections where the more heavily feathered Brahma does not stand the summer well.

Among the popular breeds of the general-purpose class there are also differences in type, adapting breeds to different uses. The Plymouth Rock is generally regarded as the type meeting the widest range of requirements in the general-purpose class.

The Wyandotte is a little smaller and earlier maturing, but still very well mated and easy to fatten.

The Rhode Island Red has nearly the same standards of weight as the Wyandotte, but is a more active bird, not putting on fat so readily. Consequently, it approaches the laying type and is most popular with those who want eggs and meat, but want eggs most.

The Orpington is at the other extreme in the general-purpose class, being a heavier, meatier fowl than the Plymouth Rock.

Such a list of breeds affords so wide a range of choice that poultry keepers can always select a standard breed better adapted to their locality and their purpose than any non-standard stock they can procure, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. A flock of standard-bred fowl will have the further advantage of reproducing true to type.

MAKE PROGRESS WITH FOWLS

Select Best Individuals for Breeding Whether for Table, Show or Egg Production.

Whether the purpose of poultry breeding be for the show, for table stock or for egg producers, the best progress will be made by picking out the best individuals in the flock at breeders rather than by breeding from the flock as a whole.

COMPEL FOWLS TO EXERCISE

Thick Litter of Straw, Leaves or Something of That Kind Will Keep Birds Scratching.

In all henhouses there should be a thick litter of straw, hay, leaves or something of that kind into which the grain can be put to compel exercise.
When the fowls are confined to the house, or the house and yard, they need exercise to keep in good health.

PROTECT SACRED SNUFF

Given for the High Bench Behind Which Supreme Court Judges Have Their Seats.

The Federal Supreme court is celebrating its centenary of "the high bench." Originally the justices sat behind a long bench on the floor of the court—on a level with the lawyers who tried their cases before them. This straight desk had set into it a snuff box opposite each justice's seat. Henry Clay was arguing a case before the court. During a pause in his argument one of the justices reached forward, took a pinch of snuff and settled back to weigh the more carefully the reasoning presented. In his next pause Mr. Clay reached over and with a "Thank you" took a pinch himself. The court was indignant. That afternoon they met to decide what could be done to preclude the possibility of a second breach of the "etiquette of the court" and decided to have a bench made of such height that no mere practitioner could reach their pet snuff. Since then they have sat behind the high bench that is in use today.—New York Tribune.

A Flying Chariot.

All Paris, I think, myself among the rest, assembled to see the valiant brothers, Robert and Charles, mount into the air yesterday, in company with a certain Pilatre de Rosier, who conducted them in the newly-invented flying chariot fastened to an air-balloon. It was from the middle of the Tuilleries that they set out, a place very favorable and well-conducted for such public purposes. But all was so nicely managed, so calmly carried on, somehow, that the order and decorum of us who remained on firm ground struck me more than even the very strange sight of human creatures floating in the wind; but I have really been witness to ten times as much bustle and confusion at a crowded theater in London, than what these peaceful Parisians make when the whole city was gathered together.—Mrs. Piozzi (1784).

What He Wanted.
A little boy was dining at a restaurant with his mother not very long ago when Charlotte Russell's paper collars were one of the features of the dessert. The fluffy delicacies tasted very much like "more" to the hungry little chap. "Is there anything else you'll have, dear?" asked the hostess, solicitously. "No, thank you," eagerly assented the young gentleman. "Another of these collars?" "No, please," answered the nouveau riche woman. "I'm not hungry." "But you are," said the other afternoon, with a condescending air, that really her neuritis was setting so bad she was at her wits' end; she'd tried everything except a chiropatrick! Did any of us have any faith in the ministrations of chiropatrick? It is not at all infrequent to hear the Hotel Raleigh in Washington spoken of seriously as the "Hotel Hall-Edge," or Hupler's candy place as "Hullyer's."

An innocent local dame boasts of the bed of scarlet "saliva" that bloomed in her garden all through the autumn.—Washington Star.
