Cotton Co-op Office Opens In Stamford Monday

STAMFORD, MISSISSIPPI, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A. J. Simpson, in charge of marketing and shipping the Stamford cotton of the Delta Cotton Co-operative association, was reported Monday that the new office in the Stamford Chamber of Commerce office.

Since its members of the cotton crop in the territory attached to the new office is now available and will be maintained during the cotton gathering season, Mr. Simpson says. The manager is a former cotton buyer and has over 20 years experience in the cotton business. His office will be in the Stamford office. Shipping services for non-members of the association will also be available at a charge of 25 cents per bale.

When the supplies of bales of cotton exceed by 100,000 members are sent to the office and the class and grade established, about 90 percent of the bales value of the cotton will be advanced in deliveries of the season's crop. Mr. Simpson says. He is authorized to advance 5 cents per pound of cotton grading, so-called, up to the usual price and in other grades is a proportion.

During this week, Mr. Simpson and E. J. Wilson, field man for the CCA in this area, have been appointing marketing agents for the cotton in the various towns in the area that will be served from the Stamford office. In every town where a gin is located a "cotton agent" will be designated to represent the association and assist the members in selling their cotton, drawing advances and taking samples when a final settlement at the time of ginning is desired.

Interest in the co-op program under direction of the Federal Farm Board is increasing all over the area surrounding Stamford and indications are that a considerable quantity of cotton will be handled by the association out of this region.

Under direction of J. C. Watson, secretary of the Stamford Chamber of Commerce, the educational campaign on the co-op program is being continued in this area, and information on the plan and its operation will find someone in the chamber of commerce office each day prepared to explain the membership contract and answer questions concerning the association.

Whenever citizens in any community decide they would like to hold a mass meeting for a general explanation of the marketing program, the office is advised of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry White and children made a trip to Stamford today. They reported the roads from Rochester on as bad. The rain hady attended from Rochester to Waverford, they report, and was a good rain.

All boys who are interested in two parts of vacation Agriculture, see us before you register Monday Morning, Mr. Underwood.

Argotane Proves To Abilene Carpenter That It Is Totally Different From Other Medicines

"I saw so many Abilene people were taking Argotane with good results and inasmuch as I have tried the medicine, I cannot explain to you what it has been worth to me. Its worth cannot be measured by dollars and cents," says C. B. Summers, 642 Simmons Avenue, Abilene, Texas.

"It has rid me of indigestion and constipation that caused me to cramp and have dizzy spells. I felt like I would faint. Instead of food feeling like knots in my stomach it now digests thoroughly and I don't have any more restless nights but sleep like a top and feel fine in every way. I am glad to tell others what this new medicine will do for a person for Argotane is different from other medicines and in a class by itself."

FROM AMERICAN LEGION HEADQUARTERS

Politically speaking, all is quiet around the Capitol City, but the approaching convention of the American Legion of the Department of Texas is occupying a large sector of the limelight and the city is bedecked in holiday attire for the big fun event which will begin its three-day session Monday September first.

The State Executive Committee of The Legion and the 40 & 8 the fun sections of the Legion and Auxiliary will hold session Sunday August the 31st.

The entertainment incident to the Convention proper will begin with a midnight dance at 12:15 A. M. Monday. This dance will be held in the Crystal Ball Room of the Driskell Hotel. And from this time until final adjournment there will be a variety of good entertainment for the visitors.

The registration fee has been reduced from $2.00 to $1.00 and the entertainment features have been materially added. The new Gregory Auditorium-Gymnasium has been obtained for the Convention Balls one of which will be held on Monday and Tuesday nights. The Gregory Auditorium is one of the newest units in the University of Texas building program and is of sufficient size to accommodate the entire mass of merry makers at one time. Another special entertainment feature is the presentation of the most stupendous fire works display ever witnessed in Texas, featuring The Battle of Chateau-Thierry in lines of fire. This marvelous spectacle will be shown at the Memorial Stadium both Monday and Tuesday nights at 8:15 and will attract people from all over central Texas.

TREE SETTERS FORCED DOWN BY STORM

Friday night of last week Knox City tree setter were forced down and into the house by the storm. David Clarke at that time, was believed to be the only real "sitter" in Knox City however it is a fact that there was another one, Martin Swazer Clarke. Martin Swazer climbed into a huge tree at his home on the day following David's ascent and there both stayed until forced down. Although the storm was scary David would not leave his place and his dad, Press, had to physically take the child in. Although Press did the only proper thing we will have to say "bravo" for David.

Since school begins Monday there will be no more trials at "tree sitting" this year; however, by the time school closes again the boys will probably have some other feat under way.

THE JOURNEY ONWARDS

By Thomas Moore

As slow our ship her foamy track Against the wind was cleaving,
Her trembling pennant still looked back

To that dear isle 'twas leaving,
So loth we part from all we love.

From all the links that bind us;
So turn our hearts, as on we rove,
To those we've left behind us!

When round the bowl of vanished years

We talk with joyous secumg,
With smiles, that might as well as tears,

So faint, so sad their beaming;

While memory brings us back again
Each early tie that twined us,
Oh, sweet's the cup that circles

then
To those we've left behind us!

And when, in other climes, we meet
Some isle, or vale enchanting,
Where all looks flowery, wild, and sweet,

And naught but love is wanting;

We think how great had been our bliss

If Heaven had but assigned us
To live and die in scenes like this,
With some we've left behind us!

As travelers oft look back at eye
When eastward darkly going,
To gaze upon that light they leave—
Still faint behind them glowing—
So, when the close of pleasure's day
To gloom hath near consigned us,
We turn to catch one fading ray
Of joy that's left behind us.

One Town or Many

Electricity is required at different times for different purposes.

This simple fact explains why a widespread electric system, serving many communities over a wide area, can operate more efficiently than small plants each serving a single community. Serving a larger number of people, with a greater variety of demands, the widespread system keeps its facilities working over more hours of the day.

There is another important advantage of the widespread transmission system over the small plant serving a single community. The transmission system can meet increased demands at once. No delay is necessary for increased facilities, as so frequently is the case with the small plant.

Community growth is thus encouraged and hastened.

The West Texas Utilities Company places at the disposal of 116 prosperous cities, towns and communities in West Texas, the "Land of Opportunity", 100,000 horsepower of electrical energy—generated by three Major Generating Stations and 22 Auxiliary Plants, and distributed over a network of more than 2,500 miles of transmission lines.

THE CRAZY WELL—1930

This magnificent structure has replaced the old one room shack of 1885, and is a popular playground, health and recreation center for people from all parts of the globe, and is familiarly known to them as the home of Crazy Water.

Mineral Wells, Texas, Aug. 1890. Among the most romantic of legends which have woven themselves about the existence of Texas is one which has lain idle in the memories of a few gray bearded pioneers of the eighties. Like a nugget of gold that at last glows in the hands of the prospector after setting unfound for decades, the legend of the founding of Mineral Wells and the discovery of Crazy Water glows with all the romance that the story of the discovery of a medium which has benefited so many people should find when after 78 years it is brought to light and told.

The story of the accidental discovery of Crazy Water hidden deep in the earth, and which now attracts a hundred and fifty thousand visitors annually to Mineral Wells reads like fiction: A homesteeker wagon, experienced difficulty in finding a water supply. No shallow vein could be located and finally when a driller chanced along the trail, he hoisted one of his much prized teams of oxen to induce him to sink a deep well. The water was strongly mineral—unsuited for cooking and would not lather soap. They almost feared to drink this water, but hard-pressed, they did so. And lo! The invalid wife who was suffering from a disease called hysteria dementia was cured of her ailment, and thereafter this well bore the name of Crazy Woman Well until time simplified it to plain Crazy Well.

And beginning thus, with the grateful settler's wife, down through over half a century, the waters of Mineral Wells have gained fame, until it has become the place "Where America drink

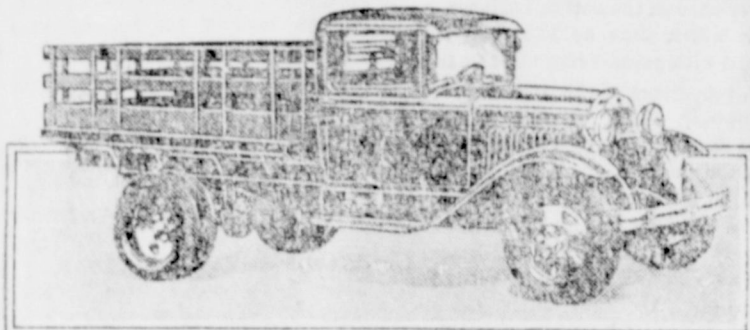

FANSY

To thousands of middle-aged and elderly Americans the news of the death of Mrs. Isabella M. Alden will come as a surprise that she should have lived so long, and will cause many a sigh of regret at the snapping of another link with the irreplaceable past.

Under the pen-name of "Fansy" Mrs. Alden wrote more than 120 books, which were enormously popular in the 1870's and, indeed, down to the beginning of the present century. She was born in 1841, and before 1850, more than eighty years ago, her first story had been published! The wife of a minister, all of her books were of a distinctly religious cast. Her most popular series, the "Esther Reid" books for girls and young women, sold into the millions. It was largely through Mrs. Alden's writings that the Chautauqua educational movement gained its great popularity.

I know of few persons who have lived such useful lives and none who spent so many years in one vocation.

New Ford Truck With Closed Cab

NEW Ford Model AA trucks and Model A light delivery cars were announced this week by the Ford Motor Company and are on display in the show rooms of Ford dealers.

Changes in the trucks are principally in the front end, which has been completely redesigned, and in the cab. The radiator is higher, with more cooling surface, fenders are wide and flowing, and a black cow strip adds a note of distinction.

The new Model AA trucks with the four-speed transmission introduced several months ago may be had with enclosed or open cab. The enclosed cab, shown above, is all steel, it is low in appearance yet with ample head room. The open cab is of black rubber top material and is easily removed. Both cabs are equipped with windshields of Triplex shatterproof glass and vacuum type windshield wipers.

Model AA trucks may be had with a platform body, which can be equipped with stakes or a panel body. The chassis has many improvements including the four-speed transmission, larger front brakes, stronger springs, power take-off opening and optional dual rear wheels.

The Model A line of new commercial cars comprises a light delivery truck with pick-up body, a deluxe delivery truck, a small panel truck and a station wagon. These cars have the smaller wheels and larger tires of the new Ford passenger cars.

With the election is over and the cooling off. The cut-off has been on the hot air and steam has relaxed and the heavens seem pleased for the rains have been sent to the parched political fliers (and would be fliers).

The heat of the last few weeks is gone and Texas is enjoying a rest from "I did this and that". The enjoyable feature of the Herald of the battles was the news of the last few weeks in the inches subscribed and in the Herald.

While we did not agree with some of the candidates and their platform for all Texas to do is to shoulder to the wheel and together for a bigger and better Texas, it is great to be a Texan.

It must have gotten some consolation from hearing Sterling in his home county also in Dan's county.

What the best thing that has taken place in Knox City since summer is the erection of the new concrete bridges over town. Of course we pay much attention to them here there is not enough rain on the roads bad and we can stand over the old ones with a wreck but wait until winter and we will then realize the value of good, substantial bridges. The only thing that bothers us now the red lights that are hung in the middle of the street indicating that we will have to drive a block further north or south to get to town. We are glad to get these bridges and hope that every old wooden bridge will be replaced with a concrete one.

THE COST OF LIVING

Living costs have come down nearly a quarter since the end of the war, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. They are still two-thirds greater than they were in 1913, however. Stated another way, a dollar today will buy only as much of the necessities of life as 60 cents would have bought 17 years ago.

Reduction in the average cost is still going on, however. In the past eight months average food prices have declined more than 4 percent, and they are still falling in some commodities. Just now for example meat prices are very low, because the drought has forced many farmers to rush their cattle, sheep and hogs to market. Milk in the large cities, on the other hand, is up a cent and a quart, because of the short supply.

The greatest increase in living costs since the war is in the items of fuel and home furnishings. The latter average nearly double the cost of 1914. Food is less than half again as expensive as it was before the war, clothing only slightly higher than that.

There are a lot of things on which the average family spends money today which did not figure in the domestic budget before the war, however. Radio sets are one of these. Automobiles are another. So are electric refrigerators and a good many other kinds of electrical household equipment, which were luxuries for the very rich only a few years ago. Maintenance and operation of cars, radio, electric equipment, telephone things which were luxuries only recently but which most people now look on as necessities—run family expenditures up, but those things are not officially classified as "cost of living," since we could get along without them if we had to. However, we shall set a standard of living in America to which in time we shall have elevated the whole nation, and that includes the upkeep of bobbed hair price of golf balls and numerous other items which do not figure at all in the average citizen's budget anywhere else in the world.

BUILD HUGE HOUSE FOR WAR PICTURE

Work is rapidly going forward on the huge building which will house the "Battle of Gettysburg" famous cyclorama picture, which will be one of the major attractions at the 1936 State Fair of Texas. The building will be the largest structure ever erected on the fair grounds for a single picture.

The building will be 500 feet in circumference, 130 feet across and 65 feet high. It will be of frame structure.

The showing of the famous cyclorama at the State Fair is the first time the picture has ever been shown except at world fairs. The State Fair will be the only showing of the picture before it is taken to Chicago for the World's Fair there in 1933.

OLD FOLKS SAY DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice. He treated constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination of senna and other mild herbs, with pepsin. The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BK, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

LESS MILKING BUT MORE PROFIT

Kansas City, August 15.—Seven good cows return a larger labor income for their owner than 11 fair cows, according to the recent record of a typical herd in Jackson county, as reported by C. W. McIntyre, county dairy extension agent. This was the situation on the farm of C. C. Stout of Lees Summit, who has a herd of 21 Jerseys, averaging 6,962 pounds of milk and 346 pounds of fat per cow in one year. The five high producing cows in this herd returned $158 a year per cow, while the low five cows returned only $93 each. Do good cows pay?

RECENT SHOWERS SAVE FEED AND HELP COTTON

Rain fall since and including last Friday night will help the feed crop and the cotton materially. Although it has varied even in the town and immediate community the amount received will be a great help.

Friday night the first shower came it followed an intense sand storm in the late afternoon, the sand blowing some time into the night. A light rain followed, amounting to about one half inch and an electrical storm. The electrical display was intense, the lightning crackling so close that it seemed in the room with one.

Rains following since Friday night are reported from one fourth to one inch. People living east of town report about an inch rain while others report less. Although varying, the rain is a big help. The feed that was not totally destroyed by the drought will come out and make. The cotton stalks will be revived, the top blooming stopped, and the bolls will fill out better, which in all will help the production materially.

The ground is wet enough now for Fall gardens. Some people have already planted and others should be about it. Turnips and other fall greens would make well now, and although small as compared with a bale of cotton, they will look mighty big and good when gathered and brought into the house a few weeks from now.

Where To Start

One morning a very unhappy man waylaid me outside my front door.

He is twenty-two years old, an idealist. The men in the plant where he works use coarse language; their crudeness grates on him. Also, his job is dull.

"I read biographies," he said. Great men have all had an aim. I seem to be headed nowhere. I haven't found my self.

Reader, what would you have said to that boy?

I said that most of the men whom we read about in biographies did not have any great purpose. A few, such as musicians and painters, had a talent that could not be mistaken. The great majority of whom Lincoln is the classic example, were just as discouraged in youth as my young friend. They did not know where they were going, but did not quit. They simply plugged ahead an, usually to their own surprise, you out.

I said in the second place, that all men are crude and all men are wonderful. The purest saint has secrets in his heart that made him bluish, the worst man has moments of splendor.

Man is the noblest of all the creatures, and the most tragic a little higher than the animals, a little lower than the angels. With all his crudeness, he does his work, sacrifices for his young, and faces blind fate with courage.

"Don't criticize men or judge them I said to the lad." Like them. Sympathize with them. Laugh with them. God will do the judging."

Finally I said that, while it might do the younger man good to change his job, I doubted whether it would. He is in a fast-growing industry which has made fortunes and will make many others.

I told him about a friend of mine who was driving through the Kentucky mountains. Wanting to get to Cincinnati for the night, he asked directions of a native.

"Go down this road about ten miles, and take your right turn," the native began. Then he stopped, and spat. "No, I think you'd do better to go the other way and take your first left." He spat again, thought deeply, and then, in a sudden burst of confidence, exclaimed: "I'll tell you what neighbor, if I was aiming to go to Cincinnati I wouldn't start from here."

Most of us want to arrive, but we'd like to start from somewhere else. Maybe I'm wrong, but I have come to the conclusion that it doesn't make much difference where one starts that all business are good and all are bad, and all are dull and all are thrilling.

And that the important thing about getting somewhere is not studying maps or wondering about other roads. But starting right here, where we are.

CORPUS CHRISTI LADY GLAD TO PRAISE KONJOLA

Old Resident Eager To Tell What New Medicine Did For Her After Others Failed

MRS. H. L. DRYER

"I was badly run down and even the simplets of foods brought on attacks of indigestion," said Mrs. H. L. Dryer, for more than fifty years a resident of Corpus Christi, Texas, residing at 1337 Ocean Drive in that city. I bloated terribly after meals and suffered severe belching spells. Constipation was a source of constant worry and I had severe pains in my abdomen after meals. I was unable to sleep at night.

"I have taken Konjola but a week and I can say that every ache and pain in my stomach is gone. I can rest well at night and eat what I wish without any of my former miseries. I have never used a medicine like Konjola and although I am 65 years of age I can do plenty of work. I am more than glad to pass my praise for this medicine on to others."

This is not an exceptional case. Konjola does work quickly and none the less thoroughly. It is best in most cases to continue the treatment over a period of from six to eight weeks.

Konjola is sold in Knox City, at the Orient Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.
