At the call meeting Wednesday evening the chairman of the various committees made reports of the work done thus far, all of which met favorably with the members present.

Superintendent G. B. King made inspiring talk to the Association regarding the parents and teachers' work for better moral and social growth of the child. Mr. King also presented a two-fold plan to the association for the education of the child, that is, a beautifying plan in the way of city wide planting and yard improvement, specific improvement in the library in the addition of some new books.

Plans were presented Wednesday at Parent Visiting day for the new school, one to be in October and a second such day to be in November. This plan met with unanimous approval.

The next meeting of the Association will be the first regular program, September 25th at 7:15 in school auditorium. The subject of the program will be "Cooperation," outstanding speakers being Dr. G. W. Gores and Dr. T. R. Ed. of this city. Every parent in the city school district is expected to be in attendance at this meeting.

Mrs. Fay Boyles, who is living with her sister Mrs. C. H. Keek, spent the past weekend with her mother-in-law in Wichita Falls.

Mr. T. P. Friend complimented Mr. O. L. Jamison with a dinner Sunday evening of last week.

Miss Claudia Sue Morris had an illness over the weekend. Miss Morris, Norris of Haskell, Miss Sue Reeves of Rochester, and Mrs. Irene Jamison. The four girls spent a swimming party at Rule Friday night and a house party Saturday night. The latter included nine couples and was spent playing games which entailed games of cards, pickles, punch and cookout.

BAPTIST ANNUAL ASSOCIATIONAL

The Haskell Baptist Association is meeting with the Gillogie church this week. This is the annual meeting of the Association and every church should be represented. Those selected as messengers from the Knox City church are Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lawrence. Many others are expected to attend from the local church. The meeting will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Every one is urged to be in Sunday School and church at the Baptist church Sunday morning. The pastor will be in his pulpit and every member should be present. There will be no service Sunday evening and every one is invited to attend the revival service at the Methodist church. We want to do everything we can to make this revival meeting one of the best meetings ever held in Knox City. Sure baptism will get right into the meeting and do their territory being west of Cynthia.

HISTORY OF TEXAS AS CENTENNIAL MOVEMENT

In the progress of the Texas Centennial Movement, modern Texas history is being painted in as bold colors as was written in the earlier history of this commonwealth. Not a history as rich in personal and patriotic sacrifice, not a history with the blood of heroic sacrifice, but a history inspired by love and honor for Texas Forsathers and a purpose to mirror their deeds to the State, to the nation and the world.

Throughout the past ten years at many times the Centennial idea might have died a boring but for the perseverance and thought and planning of patriotic Texans who were determined that this Centennial should become a reality.

Innumerable many Texans have had thought of the possibilities of a Texas as Centennial in 1936 but the idea was crystallized and actually launched November 6, 1922. From that date until the present time the visitations of the Centennial plan have been many, and in the following issues of the Herald we will give you the step-by-step progress of the ideas which eventually led to the formation of the machinery making possible its materialization.

Not only is the history of the movement recorded by the persons who made possible this progress but these are here mentioned because of the simple justice of giving credit where credit is due.

Of course the major task yet to be ahead, that of the actual materialization of the Texas Centennial is in all the glory and magnificence that is capable of assuming. But the half-way milestone has been passed. The people have been presented with a vision and have rated overwhelming that Texas shall have it. On Henshaw's Birthday Party, the Legislature has acted upon the mandate of the friends and the official Texas Centennial Commission has been created and is already functioning in time to some record.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Patients in the Knox County Hospital this week include Mrs. R. K. Paul of Monday, Mrs. Sherman Allison of Tuesday, Joe Roy Hard of Vera, Mrs. W. G. Heidorn of Hallahan, Mrs. Harris of Rochester, Judge M. F. Billingsley of Monday, Mrs. Walker of Sunday, and Taphene Wren of Sun Sat.

Lige Wallace (son of Trosco) was dismissed Saturday. Celus Stovall was in Tuesday for a tonsillectomy. Master Frank Herring of Knox City, Ernestine Teaff of O'Brien and Loreeta and Martha Mae Davis of Aspermont all were in the first of the week for tonsillectomies. J. L. Grove of Haskell was dismissed Monday. Mrs. Hugh Gaunt of Gillum was dismissed Tuesday.

Miss Gladys Buckholz was away on her vacation and Mrs. Joe Watkins of near Hale is substituting for Miss Buckholz.

Attendance at the evening services of the Revival meeting now in progress at the Methodist church has been good thus far; however the past

Brother Oberholtz is looking forward to still an increased number.

Everyone is invited to all the services.

Evangelist Ray N. Johnson is presenting gospel messages in an attractive, inspiring way. One of the considerable inquiry it was learned outstanding messages presented by that Ernest Cox had ridden on his brother Johnson is the fact that the running board of the Melvin Griffith people have gotten away from the car from Mrs. Blanche Pope's home consciousness of God, and according to Benjamin from where the told to the evangelist, we must return (Griffith) he was going to the plains to the consciousness of our divine maker before true repentance can be shown and felt.

Heard this fine evangelist in other heart stirring messages that will be given each morning and evening at the Methodist church.

BOY MISSING FRIGHTENS GRANDPARENTS

The grandparents of Ernest Cox, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Green, spent several hours in fear and anxiety over the disappearance of the boy from their home last week.

Monday or last week Ernest Cox, 14, came to Knox City and bought a 32 target with his cotton picking money. He also bought four boxes of shells and received one free with his purchase. He then took his gun and went home, that is to the home of his grand parents. His parents live in Sweetwater.

Monday evening Ernest ate his supper, got up and took his gun, cotton pack and a few clothes and left the house, unknown to his grand parents. He failed to show up Thursday following the gun was found a mile and half up the river from the George Vause place.

Mr. Green came to Knox City where he informed officers of the disappearance of his grand son and soon a group of men drove to the location the gun was found.

A thorough search was made of the country throughout but no trace of the boy was found.

Time passed and Monday S.

Fay learned that Cox had been violent to Benjamin. After making arrangements will be completed between Mr. Jordan and the local fire chief at an early date in the week announcements will be made sufficiently early for those who wish to view the demonstration.

Those wishing to take advantage in the lessons in life saving may do so without cost by going to the Huie swimming pool Sunday afternoon.

Pastor Resigns

Reverend C. B. Stovall, pastor of the Knox City First Baptist church, tendered his resignation to that church Sunday morning. Brother Stovall was conducting a revival meeting in Benjamin and tendered his resignation by letter. Sunday was Church Conference day at the Baptist church.

Brother Stovall's resignation is to be effective November first of this year. He has been with the Knox food for our winter use," said Mrs. Stovall. She has done splendid work with the membership and other of the city during that time. Mrs. Stovall likewise has been a spiritual attraction to the church. The many who have learned to love Brother and Mrs. Stovall approach their soon departure with a feeling of sadness yet one of triumph for the successful work in the forward march of the First Baptist Church of Knox City.

LIFE-SAVING COURSE BEGINS SUNDAY

Mrs. G. D. McCarty, chairman of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, announces this week that a life saving course, free to all, will begin Sunday afternoon at the Huie swimming pool. This course will continue through three days will be under the instruction of Al Jordan, National instructor.

Mr. Jordan will teach swimming for beginners as well as the life saving course. The course is being sponsored by the local chapter of the Red Cross and any person in Knox City or territory may have the course with out cost, only, of course, the cost of entering the pool.

Mrs. Claudia Sue Messely and Maizlyn Edwards have enrolled thus far.

Mr. Jordan will give a free demonstration to the Knox City Fireboys and possibly the school children, in recognition one day next week. Arrangements will be completed between Mr. Jordan and the local fire chief at an early date in the week arrangements will be made sufficiently early for those who wish to view the demonstration.

Monday or last week Ernest ate his supper, got up and took his gun, cotton pack and a few clothes and left the house, unknown to his grand parents. He failed to show up Thursday following the gun was found a mile and half up the river from the George Vause place.

Monday or last week the above mentioned date had out 159 poles.

They are now bringing around 12 cents, about the same price as last week.

We are glad this week to send the Herald to Mrs. Bob Brown in Lamess, Texas. Mrs. Brown was formerly Miss Anna Hyde.

Gin Report

At one thirty today, Thursday, September 12, the four gins of Knox City had out a total of 1050 bales. If the present rate of picking and ginning continues for another week the prophesied crop for this territory will be ginned and in the yard. However, it is likely that the crop will exceed the first figure estimated for this territory.

The O'Brien gin at the above mentioned date had out 159 poles.

They are now bringing around 12

WHERE DO THE STATES GET OFF?

We sometimes wonder, with a bit of concern, whether the present tendency toward the centralization of all governmental activities in Washington is all for the best.

This is a pretty big country. It has more diversity of interests, activities and climate, than any other nation we know anything about. Governmental methods and plans which may fit one part of the nation may not fit another part. And we are not at all sure that any Government at Washington, however wise and intelligent, can legislate down to the last detail for every country and town in the nation, and get away with it.

Lord Bryce, that wise English connoisseur on public affairs, once wrote that the strength of the United States lay in the fact that it has forty-eight separate laboratories each working out its own experiments in government. It is well understood that much of what is being proposed from Washington is purely experimental, but why not leave some of the experiments to the states?

We think Prohibition as an experiment which worked pretty well, on the whole, in the states that tried it, or most of them, but which failed utterly when it became a national experiment. Until the states found they could lay the burden of unemployment relief on the Federal government, they were handling that situation with what we must regard as much greater economy and efficiency than it is being handled today and we heard of nobody being allowed to starve.

There is not only the tradition of state rights to be considered, here is the distinct difference in the outlook and the point of view of the people of different sections. Each has its own special interests and problems.

We concede that many matters require national regulation and supervision. We are merely trying to sound a warning against carrying the idea of a centralized control too far.

SOCIAL INSURANCE

We read a great deal these days about plans for what is generally called "social insurance." Under the heading are included all sorts of schemes for health insurance, unemployment insurance, accident insurance, widow insurance and maternity insurance, as well as old age insurance. None of the plans seems to have been worked out very fully as yet. Most or all of them involve contributions by the state or Federal government. Some apply only to industrial workers, some do not discriminate between one class and another. Some have provisions for contributions to the insurance funds by the workers themselves, or by employer, or both, and some would have Government take care of everybody.

The subject is very much alive just now, and we have no doubt that vigorous efforts will be made this coming winter to get some legislation for the Federal assumption of some of these projects. It seems to us to be a degree of responsibility for some of something to be looked into very carefully.

The most interesting of all the old-age insurance schemes of which we have heard originates like so many other social innovations, in California. Dr. F. E. Teague, of Long Beach, a retired physician, first broached the idea of having every person over 60 years old, whether in war or not, receive a pension of $200 a month from the Federal government. The idea has caught on like wildfire, and organizations have been set up in nearly states, we understand, to get signatures to a great petition to Congress for such legislation.

As there are about 15,000,000 persons over 60 in the United States, and the proportion of elderly people is increasing, this would mean about two billion dollars a month or twenty-four billions a year, to be paid out of tax income. But the advocates of the plan have attached to it a provision that the whole $200 must be spent each month, and contend that putting so much money into circulation would immediately restore prosperity and make it no burden at all.

If that theory is right, why not go the whole hog and make it $1,000 a month?

H.D.C. News

After having all the fresh vegetables we wanted all summer, we have canned over 500 containers of in this number. I canned 50 quarts G. P. Lansford, member of the Man-day Home Demonstration Club. "I also have quite a variety of products in this number. I canned 50 quarts of beans from 4 short rows, I have English peas, beet pickles and canned beets, 50 quarts cucumbers, 50 cans of corn and a great many containers of peaches and berries put up plain, in pickles, jellies, jams and preserves. We still plan to can tomatoes and still more vegetables later," Mrs. Lansford also stated.

"We really live at home" remarked of Mrs. Lansford. "We have sold enough eggs and cream to more than pay for the staple groceries we have needed. We have had our meat and bread and have plenty to last until cold weather, when we plan to kill and can 2 hens and several hogs."

Mrs. Lansford, after doing all this canning has time for many other activities. Right now she is making a hooked rug that she plans to have finished for the county exhibit in November.

PROSPECTS FOR FALL GARDENS GOOD

It is not too late to plant fall gardens according to Mr. Roseborough, Extension Horticulturist. Now the local showers have provided some moisture in most sections of the country. It is possible to have a variety of vegetables that will withstand a light frost and some that will withstand rather heavy frost.

In order to promote a more rapid growth of these fall gardens, they might be planted over the tile and soil proved so helpful in the raising of the spring gardens. Also through the use of Ruthrauds, it is possible to raise more and a greater variety of green vegetables for late fall and winter use.

Fall gardening is a waste of time and effort unless the soil is thoroughly prepared. In turning under the growth of annual weeds and dried up spring vegetables is where most of us go wrong, declares Mr. Roseborough. By cutting the weeds down and throwing them over the garden fence before plowing is begun, you have taken the first step toward a successful garden. The turned under weeds heat and dry out the soil above and prevent thorough cultivation. In most bare lots at this time of the year you will find a layer of several inches thick of tramped manure that has dried out, leaving the seeds that have sprouted. After the garden soil has been plowed, instead a covering soil to three inches thick of this "autumn mulch" over the surface, then cultivate the ground or disc and harrow until it is well mixed into the soil. This spongy material will greatly increase the water holding capacity of the soil and prevent it from packing. When the fall rains come to the garden and harden in this manner will be in excellent shape for planting.

In preparing seed for the fall gardens it is advisable to sows one-fourth more seed for tile planting than for spring gardens. The germination of the seed at this season is poor, consequently, the extra quantity of seed will uniformly be necessary to secure a good stand.

The question, "What shall we plant?" is one we should give more thought to. Your family eats bread of various grains and cereals. Why not grow them with a variety of vegetables that will grow equally as well during the fall as mustard or carrots. Carrots if planted in the fall will withstand cooler weather than turnips. They will also be available for use throughout the spring months and into the early summer. Danver's Half long is a good variety to plant. Detroit Dark red beets will also stand as cool weather as turnips. Remember that the seed of beets are in a seed pod which we commonly think is one seed. On the contrary you will find that there are three or four seed contained in each seed pod. When beets first come up we say that they "Go to top." In reality all of the seed in the pod will have come up and are competing with each other for supremacy. Naturally no bulb is produced below the surface when the plants are this close together. When your beets have attained a height of three or four inches, thin them out to four inches apart in the row. Then it will not be a great while before you will have nice beets ready for table.

Swiss Chard is another vegetable that you can add to the fall planting. Cold weather will have little effect upon this new vegetable for your garden. When the leaves have made sufficient growth to be used as greens, be careful and separate the veins in the leaves for the tender portion between the veins. Some people complain that Swiss Chard has a bitter taste. By removing the large coarse veins from the leaves and using only the tender portion of the plant, you will find that Swiss Chard compares very favorably with spinach.

In case you do not have any Pinto beans from the spring garden, plant a few rows of beans of this type and you will find that they will mature
