Hallowe'en Carnival to Open Thursday With Parade

Legion Bldg. Fund Still Short of Goal

A total of between $6,000 and $7,000 is now on hand in the building fund of the Teague-Carpenter American Legion Post No. 229, according to post commander, C. J. Reese.

The drive will be continued another week, Mr. Reese stated, as the funds still fall far short of the $15,000 total needed to erect the new American Legion Hall and Community Center.

At the special meeting of the Legion Monday night, Congressman Ed Gossett was guest speaker and brought a stirring message on national and international affairs and the Legion's job during the coming difficult years.

The regular meeting night of the club is Monday, Oct. 28, and Commander Reese urges all ex-service men to be present.

A partial list of donations received this week, exclusive of donations and pledges by Legion members, is published below:

O'Brien Co-op Gin, $200; S. N. Reed, $100; F. E. Walker, $200; E. H. Teague, $200; E. R. Carpenter, $300; Abe M. Watson, $100; J. C. Reeder, $200; J. M. The remainder of the list will be published next week.

Entertain Friends From Honolulu

Mr. and Mrs. Chung Wo Au of Honolulu arrived in Knox City Tuesday for a visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Carpenter, who have been friends of Mr. and Mrs. Au since 1929, at which time they met in Honolulu.

Texas is not new and strange to Mr. Au, since he received his B. S. degree at Texas Tech in Lubbock and his M. S. degree at the University of Texas in Austin, however, this is the first visit to the states for Mrs. Au.

The couple arrived in the States in August and have spent the past two and a half months touring the country, having visited in Denver, Washington, D. C., Chicago, New York, Boston, Miami, Houston, and all parts of California. They recently visited in Canada and while there attended the West Coast Life Insurance Convention in Vancouver.

Since 1945 Mr. Au has been president of the B. F. Dillingham Insurance Company in Honolulu, with which he has been associated for a number of years.

Both visitors express their liking for this part of the country and also for the people of Knox City.

THIRD GRADE TO HAVE CAKE WALK SATURDAY

The third grade of the Knox City Grammar School is sponsoring a cake walk to be held Saturday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, in the display room of the Egenbacher Implement Co. Proceeds from the affair will go for support of the third grade candidate for Queen of the Carnival in the contest ending Friday night, Nov. 1.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS (Special)—General Jonathan M. Wainwright, Fourth Army Commander and Army advisor for the Texas USO Campaign, visits a USO Show ward performance on its tour of Brooks General Hospital at San Antonio, Texas.

In the picture above are Helene Denizan, USO performer of Lemhurst, Long Island, N. Y., General Wainwright, Vernon R. Rogers, Rt. 1, Sadler, Texas, and a friend.

General Wainwright, the hero of Bataan, congratulated members of the USO Camp Show "Breeding Along" on the "Perfectly wonderful job" USO is doing for the morale of the men in hospitals. He said "USO all over the world has rendered inestimable service to our armed forces. Hostilities have ceased but the USO must carry on."

Referring to the Texas drive to raise its $800,000 quota of the $19,000,000 necessary to carry on USO activities in 1947, General Wainwright said "May your campaign be a huge success."

USO activities scheduled to continue through 1947 include 135 USO Camp Shows playing Army, Navy, and VA hospitals and overseas bases, 400 clubs in the United States and in the Pacific areas where the Army and Navy have requested them and hundreds of USO Traveler's Aid Lounges in the United States.

Greyhounds Defeat Megargel Mustangs

The Greyhounds beat the Megargel Mustangs 20-2 Friday night in Knox City's next-to-last conference game. Both teams did some very good blocking and tackling. Bob Hackfield ran over a touchdown and got the extra point at the start of the first quarter, and that ended the scoring for the first half of the game. Both teams would click off some good passes and runs, but they were both checked. Megargel's pass offensive didn't work as well as had been expected, but they had a good defense.

Bob Hackfield started the scoring for the second half by making an end sweep for a long touchdown run. He made a line drive for the extra point.

Later in the same quarter, the Greyhounds were penalized and backed up nearly to the goal line. They tried to run it out, but a Megargel player tackled the carrier behind the line. That gave Megargel their only two points of the game.

Bob Hackfield made his third touchdown of the night when he made a line for a touchdown. This ended the scoring, but the play remained just as exciting.

The local team has just one more game to play to decide the conference. They play Paint Creek at Haskell Thursday night at 7:30. If they win that game they will be district champions, if not they will be in a tie with O'Brien.

O'Brien Tromps Mattson Six, 28-0

A hard-hitting O'Brien team beat a strong Mattson team 28 to 0 Thursday night, October 17 at Knox City. This was the second defeat for Mattson, who was beaten by Knox City, 18-6. The Bulldogs took the opening kick-off, and then marched down-field for a touchdown in six plays, with Bill Wheeler carrying the ball over.

Although the Mustangs played a good, hard game, they failed to break the Bulldogs' defense. At one time the Bulldogs held the Mustangs for four downs on the one yard line.

With only two more conference games to go, the Bulldogs rate second in the district. They have been beaten by first-place Knox City, which was by a score of 25-20.

Coach Wyatt's Bulldogs play the Sagerton Eagles at Knox City Friday, October 25.

Rev. J. S. Tierce of Rochester was in Knox City Wednesday on business. Rev. Tierce was at one time pastor of the First Baptist Church here.

Board of Commerce And Agriculture Meeting Held Oct. 17

The annual meeting of the Board of Commerce and Agriculture was held on Thursday, October 17 in the directors room of the Citizens State Bank. L. W. Graham was elected chairman and secretary, and B. B. Campbell treasurer, with W. E. Clonts, O. W. Caussey, H. E. Wall, H. G. Egenbacher, Guy Glenn, Roy Baker, H. M. Jones, Charlie Moss, T. E. Holcomb and S. N. Reed appointed as directors.

The Board of Commerce and Agriculture is a civic organization sponsored and supported by the community as a service to the community, and affiliated with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

J. C. Patterson Wins With Entries in State And County Fairs

J. C. Patterson of Benjamin, County Judge of Knox County, has entered his Dark Cornish (Clempit Line) chickens in several fairs this year.

At the Cooke County Victory Fair, Gainesville, held September 2-7, Old Trio shown there won First Hen, Second Hen and Second Cock Bird, with $3.50 in prize money, and then the trio sold for $25.00.

At the Childress State Fair, Young Trio entered as "singles" won First Cockerel and First Pullet, and prize money offered in that class. This same trio was shown at the State Fair in Dallas and won fifth place in the Young Trio division.

At the New Mexico State Fair, Albuquerque, held September 29 to October 6, Old Trio won First Hen, Second Hen, Champion Cock Bird. Patterson won Sweep Stakes Ebbon and Champion in Sweep Stakes Race, with $10.00 in prizes. The same trio shown at the Dallas Fair, as singles, won 6th Cock Bird.

Patterson also plans to enter his poultry in the Oklahoma State Poultry Federation, which is to be held December 3rd to 8th.

COTTON GINNING REPORT

Cotton ginned to date this season at the Knox City and O'Brien Gins is as follows:

Knox City Gin	666
Brazos Valley	321
Cotton Growers Co-Op	687
O'Brien Co-Op	2,515

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Graham and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Watson accompanied their sons, Dale and Harold, to Denton Sunday, returning home Monday.

County Teachers To Meet October 28th

All of the teachers of the county are to meet at the Benjamin school Monday, October 28 at 9:45 a. m.

Schools throughout the county will be dismissed and attendance at the meeting will count as a regular school day.

The Knox County Teachers Association will assemble and elect officers and delegates for this school year. Then according to the plan set forth by the present president of the association, Supt. J. L. Hill of Benjamin, teachers will divide into sections for discussion of problems pertaining to their particular phase of school work.

This should be one of the most profitable school days of the year. Teachers need to compare notes on the most effective ways to present the school work to pupils, and this meeting will afford an opportunity to do that. Also teachers need to meet and discuss problems that pertain to their profession and its improvement. These questions will be discussed at this, the first teachers' meeting of the year.

Methodist Youth Rally To Be Held At Rule, October 26

A Methodist Youth Rally of the Stamford District will be held in Rule Saturday, October 26. All young people in the vicinity are invited to attend.

The program to be observed is as follows:

- 4:00-5:00 — Registration.
- 5:00-6:00 — Business (Pres. Alma Joyce Dozier presiding).
- 6:00-6:45 — Recreation, Kenneth Tooley, Director, presiding.
- 6:45-7:30 — Supper and Committee Meetings.
- 7:30-8:00 — Discussions.
- 8:00-9:00 — Closing Thoughts, James Pickens of McMurry College.

Plans Complete For Laymen's Retreat

Plans are nearing completion for a Laymen's Retreat to be built in the near future on Possum Kingdom Lake near Graham, by the Christian Churches in the 13th District.

Laymen's Retreat will be used for youth meetings and conferences and other church activities of this district, and will be similar to the encampment at Lueders.

John Atterbury, who is a member of the Board, stated Wednesday that the campaign for the building will begin as soon as the plans are completed.

Lawson Buys Egenbacher Hdw. Store

Announcement is being made elsewhere in this paper of the recent change in ownership of the Egenbacher Hardware Co. Otto Lawson, who has been associated with Egenbacher Implements for the past three years, purchased the hardware business from Herman Egenbacher, effective October 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson came to Knox City from Vernon in 1926, when he was employed by J. V. Jones Service Station for two years. At one time he was with Bryant-Link Grocery Store and was parts department manager for J. M. Ashcroft Chevrolet Company for four years. Later he and Mrs. Lawson owned and operated the Lawson Cafe for eight years, until his employment with the implement company.

Mr. Lawson knows merchandising and handling and all the duties of the business. He plans to rearrange and remodel the store in the near future and assure the same courteous service to both old and new customers of the City Hardware, as the business will be called.

Mr. and Mrs. Egenbacher plan to remain in Knox City, where he is senior instructor for the Veterans Administration Vocational School. He gives a word of appreciation in this issue of the paper.

March of Dimes Director Named

George D. Wilson

George D. Wilson, of Houston, has been named Texas State Chairman of the 1947 March of Dimes, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, has announced.

Mr. O'Connor, in making known Mr. Wilson's acceptance of the chairmanship, revealed that in coping with the 1946 outbreaks of infantile paralysis the National Foundation sent to its chapters in the field more than two and a half million dollars in epidemic aid through September.

$3.00 PER CAPITA IS RECEIVED FOR SCHOOLS

County School Supt. Merick McGaughy stated Wednesday that Common Schools of Knox County this week received another $3.00 per pupil from the State which, with the $6.00 per pupil received in August makes a total of $9.00 per capita to apply on this term of school.

The county receives $41.00 per pupil per school year from the State, payments being made at no definite date, McGaughy stated.

SINGING SUNDAY AT WHITTEN HOME

The regular weekly singing will be held this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pose Whitten, Sunday, October 27 at 2:30 p. m., according to W. M. Rowan.

All lovers of good music and those who like to sing are invited to attend.

The Knox City Parent-Teacher Association will present its annual school Carnival this time on Thursday, October 31 and Friday, November 1. On Thursday night a program will be presented in the high school gymnasium under the direction of the musical faculty. The program will be a variety show and promises many outstanding attractions for the evening's entertainment. Admission to the entertainment in the gym will be 15 and 25 cents.

In the rooms and on the grounds there will be a number of concessions of interest to the public. Side shows and games of chance will be operated by the different classes. Special stands will serve hamburgers and drinks.

On November 1 at 5:30 p. m. a big downtown parade featuring decorated cars and floats and mounted riders will assemble at the park and pass through the business section of the town and on to the school ground. Supper will be served at the school in the lunch room at 5:30, at 75c per plate. The menu has not been completed but there will be plenty of food for everyone.

At 7:15 o'clock on the football field the Carnival Queen and the Football Queen will be crowned. At 7:30 there will be a football game with O'Brien which promises to be one of the best games of the season, since Knox City won by only a small margin in the conference game with O'Brien.

All proceeds of the Carnival will be used by the local P.T.A. and distributed among the different school funds.

Those who have attended the Carnival in the past can expect an even better one this year, so make your plans to spend two enjoyable evenings at the Parent-Teacher Hallowe'en Carnival.

Surplus Sale To Be Held at Pantex Plant

World War II Veterans holding War Assets Administration certificates for the purchase of surplus government property will have an opportunity to share in many splendid values for five days starting Monday, October 28. WAA will open a huge "site sale" on that date at the Pantex Ordnance Plant near Amarillo and veterans will have exclusive purchasing rights through November 1.

Clothing, general hardware, industrial, tractor and passenger tires, insulating materials, fire fighting equipment, binding materials, industrial rubber belting, tractor parts and hand tools are listed among the types of surplus property available.

Time For First Killing Frost Nears

Literature from College Station advises us that the time for the first killing frost is rapidly drawing near. This is further substantiated by a Climatic Summary prepared by the Wichita-Brazos Soil Conservation District, Jack Idol, Chairman, which advises that November 10 is the average first killing frost date for a thirty-year period. This information was compiled from weather records at Knox City, Monday and Haskell.

This means that to secure best results, succulent bundle crops must be cut prior to the frost date. Most grain sorghums of the county will mature enough for cutting after the frost date, however, which may come a little earlier or later this year.

Club Entertained Horizon Girls Group

Knox City Study Club entertained the Horizon Girls group in the auditorium of the church Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Club president, Mrs. C. conducted the business.

to Our Sponsors" was a discussion of the workings of the Knox City Horizon Girls group from its organization about a year ago to the present time. With Mrs. Mabel Pyeatt at the piano, Mrs. Leonard, assisted by Mrs. Andy Kirby, conducted an initiation ceremony in which nine girls were officially initiated into the Horizon Girls. These girls were: Virginia Buckley, Becky Hackfield, Mary Jo Watson, Mary Bea Woodward, Arminta Smith, Roxana Leonard and Betty Sue Teague.

Twenty-five club members answered to individual roll calls for Saturday. The club's roll call in itself was a very interesting program.

The following officers were installed: president, Mary Bea Woodward; vice president, Arminta Smith; secretary, Betty Sue Teague; treasurer, Wilma Lea Woodward.

The girls were very pretty in their formal dresses, and the Study Club members were happy to be guests for this, their first initiation ceremony.

Immediately following the initiation and installation of officers, the girls invited members of the Study Club to the basement of the church for a social hour. The girls served sandwiches, hot apple cider and fudge bars.

The next meeting of the Study Club will be the "Citizenship Program," under the direction of Mrs. S. M. Clonts, on Nov. 2, in the home of Mrs. T. P. Frizzell, Sr.

MONDAY NIGHT BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED

The Monday Night Bridge Club met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones on Oct. 21 at 8:00 o'clock. Autumn flowers were used throughout the home as decorations. Following dinner, games of bridge were enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. John Atterbury, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Benedict, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. M. Armstrong, and Mr. and Mrs. George Zachary as members, and Mrs. Alma Culwell and Mr. and Mrs. Den Davis of Ruidosa, N. M., as guests.

VISITORS IN KNOX CITY

Mrs. J. A. Hailmark and Mrs. Guy Milford have as their guests this week their brother, Miller Herring of Modesto, Cal., and Mrs. R. T. Turner of Gainesville, Texas. Mr. Herring arrived in San Antonio Oct. 3 and visited several days with another brother, Frank Herring and family of Bandera, Texas. From there he went to Fort Worth for a short visit with relatives, then to Gainesville to visit with Mrs. Turner and other relatives. Mrs. Turner accompanied him to Knox City. A niece, Mrs. W. B. Thompson of Abernathy met him here and also visited Mrs. Ida Herring.

Last Sunday Mr. Herring's sisters accompanied him to Anson to visit their brother, Dave Herring and family. He returned to Knox City Tuesday.

Mr. Herring, who was for many years a resident of Knox City, says he has had many pleasant chats with old friends and has enjoyed his visit immensely.

Mrs. T. S. Edwards returned Friday from Wichita Falls where she had visited her sister, Mrs. C. L. Bailey.

Mrs. F. M. Faulkner of Hereford is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ulric Lea and Mr. Lea this week.

Guests in the home of Mrs. A. L. Lea this week include Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Herndon of Little Rock, Arkansas and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Porter of Dickens City.

WCS Meets To Observe Birthday

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church observed its sixth birthday with an Indian Tea in the basement of the local church on Monday, October 21. The basement was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, roses and dahlias.

The guests were greeted at the door in Indian fashion by three women dressed in Indian Saris. A program consisting of a violin solo, "Song of India," played by Mrs. George Zachary, a vocal solo, "The Shalimar," sung by Mrs. Ross Griffith, and a review of the book "Behind Mud Walls," given by Mrs. Henry L. White was enjoyed by a large number of guests and members of the local society. Mrs. F. Q. Warren was accompanist for the musical numbers.

The table was laid with a lace cloth and was decorated with autumn leaves and pyracantha. Mrs. Cecil Gregory assisted by Mrs. Vernon Henderson, Mrs. T. S. Edwards, Mrs. Sam Clonts, Mrs. C. C. Hoge, and Mrs. Geo. Zachary poured tea and served the plates with sandwiches, roasted peanuts, coconut, raisins, cloves, cashew nut candy, and olives.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Qualls are spending this week in Amarillo with her son, Chester Yates.

End Table Easily Made From Spools

IF THERE is a table shortage in your home, here is an easy way to solve the problem. All you need is some plain shelf boards with holes bored in the corners, empty spools, a set of curtain rods and some glue. In a few minutes you can combine these things to make the attractive table shown here.

This is just one of more than thirty clever ideas in BOOK 5. With its aid you can work minor miracles throughout your house and neither inflation nor the scarcity of materials need stop you. A copy of BOOK 5 may be obtained by sending 15c with name and address direct to:

Genius at Work

Alexander Hamilton once said to an intimate friend: "Men give me some credit for genius. When I have a subject in hand I study it profoundly. Day and night it is before me. I explore it in all its bearings. My mind becomes pervaded with it."

"Then the efforts which I make the people are pleased to call the fruits of genius. It is the fruit of labor and thought."

Gas on Stomach

Relieved in 5 minutes or double your money back. When on one stomach acid causes painful, suffocating gas, sour stomach and heartburn, doctors usually prescribe the fastest-acting medicine known for symptomatic relief—medicines like those in Peppermint Tablets. No laxative. Built-up brings comfort in a day or double your money back on Peppermint Tablets if you do not get relief.

Baby's Cold Relieved As He Sleeps

When your child catches cold, rub his little throat, chest and back at bedtime with warming, soothing Vicks VapoRub. Its special relief-bringing action goes to work instantly... and keeps working for hours to relieve distress while he sleeps. Often by morning, most distress of the cold is gone. Try it! Six thousand books—all new—are on their way to the war veterans in the 11 Veterans Administration hospitals of the Southwest.

Roy E. Eury, Special Services director for VA's Dallas branch, said both fiction and non-fiction obtained from the Army are being distributed among VA hospitals in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

The books will boost the number of volumes in patients' libraries to nearly 50,000, Eury said.

During September, patients in veterans hospitals in the tri-state area checked out 10,140 books and showed a strong preference for fiction, or "escape" reading.

One book-loving veteran at the Legion, Texas, hospital set some kind of a record, reading 1,500 books during his two-year stay at the tubercular hospital.

Approximately 8,100 children in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, whose fathers died as a result of World War II service, are receiving monthly compensation benefits, VA reported this week. Throughout the country about 90,000 children are receiving these payments.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. I am a disabled veteran taking "on the job" training under Public Law 16. I am receiving pension and also subsistence allowance. My wife recently had a child. May I get an increase for this child while I am in training?

A. Yes. Send a certified copy of the certificate of birth to the VA. The subsistence allowance will be increased $10 for your first child and $7 for each additional child.

Q. I am a disabled veteran and was injured while taking VA rehabilitation training in a machine shop. The doctor says my left arm will be permanently crippled. Can I get a pension from the Veterans Administration?

A. Yes. You must apply for it within two years of the date of your injury.

Q. I have been advised that my pension is to be reduced in 60 days. What can I do to prevent this reduction?

A. You may submit evidence to show that the reduction is not warranted and your case will be reviewed. The best evidence would be an affidavit from your doctor describing in detail your disability.

Q. Is it permissible for a veteran who is receiving a high rate of disability compensation to seek and obtain employment?

A. Yes. There is no VA objection to such action on his part.

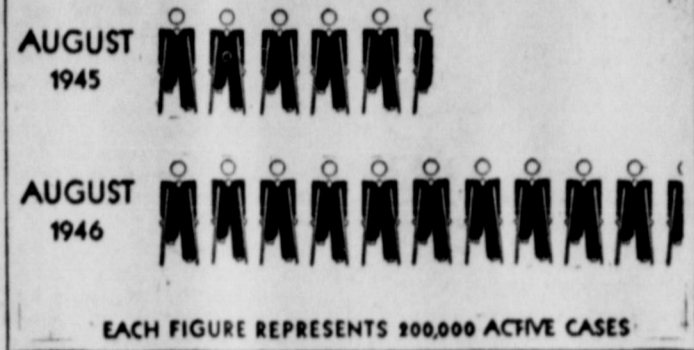

Q. May a pension be paid because of a service-connected disability if the veteran did not serve in wartime?

A. Yes. Certain rates of pensions are provided for disability contracted in line of duty during military or naval service in peacetime.

Q. Is the parent of a World War I or II veteran eligible to receive a pension when the cause of death was not related to service?

A. No.

VETERANS DRAWING DISABILITY PENSIONS OR COMPENSATION

The number of veterans receiving disability pensions or compensation practically doubled during the first year following the surrender of Japan, Veterans Administration officials reveal. In August of 1945 there were 1,103,000 on the disability compensation rolls. One year later, the Veterans Administration was paying disability claims to 2,073,000. This increase is shown graphically above.

LEGAL NOTICE
ELECTION NOTICE — STOCK LAW — SUBDIVISION
Art. 6930 or 6954

Take notice that an election will be held on the 16th day of NOVEMBER, 1946 within JUSTICE PRECINCT No. 1, a sub-division of Knox County, Texas, for the purpose of enabling the freeholders of said sub-division to determine whether Horses, Mules, Jacks, Jennets and Cattle shall be permitted to run at large in said sub-division, in obedience to an election order entered by the Commissioners Court on the 14th day of October, 1946, which is as follows:

On this the 14th day of October, 1946, the Commissioners Court of Knox County, Texas, convened in regular session at the regular meeting place thereof at the courthouse at Benjamin, Texas, all members of the court, to-wit:

- J. C. PATTERSON, County Judge and
- O. L. KNIGHT, Commissioner, Precinct No. 1
- L. A. PARKER, Commissioner, Precinct No. 2
- O. W. WELCH, Commissioner, Precinct No. 3
- GEORGE NIX, Commissioner, Precinct No. 4

being present, came on to be considered the petition of W. C. Glenn, and 51 other persons, praying that an election be held in JUSTICE PRECINCT NO. 1, a sub-division of Knox County, Texas, for the purpose of enabling the freeholders of such subdivision to determine whether HORSES, MULES, JACKS, JENNETS and CATTLE shall be permitted to run at large in said sub-division. The said sub-division and the boundaries thereof are described as follows:

BEGINNING at the S.W. Corner of Knox County, Texas, THENCE North with the Knox-King County Line to the South Wichita River; THENCE East with the meanders of South Wichita River to the N. W. Corner of Justice Precinct No. 3; THENCE South with the boundary line of Justice Precinct No. 1 and No. 3 to the Brazos River; THENCE West with the meanders of the Brazos River to the place of beginning and containing all of the territory embraced in Justice Precinct No. 1, Knox County, Texas.

It appearing to the Court that said petition is signed by more than FIFTY freeholders of said sub-division of Knox County, Texas, IT IS THEREFORE CONSIDERED AND ORDERED BY THE COURT, that an election be held in said JUSTICE PRECINCT NO. 1, a sub-division of Knox County, Texas, on the 16th day of NOVEMBER, 1946, which is not less than thirty days from the date of this order.

In accordance to the above order passed by the Commissioners Court, I, in my official capacity as County Judge of Knox County, Texas, do hereby order that an election be held on the 16th day of November, 1946 within the limits of the sub-division described in the order of the Commissioners Court authorizing said election, at Benjamin, Texas, with Collins Moorhouse as Presiding Officer; at Brock School House, with J. O. Warren as Presiding Officer; for the purpose of enabling the freeholders of said sub-division to determine whether Horses, Mules, Jacks, Jennets and Cattle shall be permitted to run at large in said sub-division.

The manner of voting at said election shall be governed by the general laws of the State of Texas regulating general elections when not in conflict with the provisions of the statutes relating hereto.

Only persons who are freeholders and qualified voters under the constitution and laws of this State shall vote at said election.

Voters desiring to prevent the animals designated in this order from running at large shall place upon their ballots the words "For the Stock Law," and those in favor of allowing such animals to run at large shall place upon their ballots the words "Against the Stock Law."

Notice of said election shall be given for at least thirty days before the date of election by publishing a copy of this order in some newspaper published in this county, to-wit, KNOX COUNTY HERALD.

Given under my hand, with the seal of the Commissioners Court affixed, this the 14th day of OCTOBER, 1946.

(SEAL) J. C. PATTERSON, County Judge.

FOR EXTRA SAFETY AND EXTRA MILEAGE THE NEW B. F. Goodrich Silvertown IS WORTH THE WAIT!

The new Silvertown tires have been setting records for long mileage, safety and economy not only on taxi fleets, police cars and special test cars but in regular car owner use. These new tires are built with a broader, flatter tread that puts more rubber in contact with the road, spreading the wear over a larger area. To hold this heavier tread, B. F. Goodrich engineers developed a 35% stronger cord body with stronger cords and more of them... This meant better bruise resistance, greater safety. If you want the tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES, place your order today. A little wait will be rewarded with today's biggest money's worth in tires.

Hallowe'en Carnival Queens

These are the candidates and their escorts that have been selected to run for Hallowe'en Carnival Queen:

First Grade — Belinda Coates and S. E. Parks.

Second Grade — Patsy Denton and Billy Stephens.

Third Grade — Barbara Egenbacher and Charles Wilson.

Fourth Grade — Barbara Carver and Billy David Holcomb.

Fifth Grade — Dorothy Pack and Dicky Cross.

Sixth Grade — Jo Denton and Jerry Wilson.

Seventh Grade — Carol Ann Armstrong and John Ed Smith.

Eighth Grade — Jean Ames and Earl Hutchinson.

Puns

We're mighty busy this week. We've been doing everything from selling chances on chickens to receiving report cards.

We are getting ready for the Hallowe'en Carnival, and are still running the queen's race. All support will be appreciated by the candidates.

Speaking of report cards, the following was heard in the hall the other day:

Teacher: To be or not to be, that is the question.

Pupil: Two B's or not two

B's, that is my grade.

Which reminds me of another one just as corny.

Teacher: "Richard, give me a sentence with an object."

Richard: "The teacher is very pretty."

Teacher: "What is the object of that sentence?"

Richard: "A good grade."

While I am on the repulsive subject of corny puns, I shall narrate just one more.

Teacher: "What is the definition of a circle?"

John: "A bow-legged square."

Okay, Okay, I'll go quietly.

Firecrackers for Sale

The Senior Class now has firecrackers for sale and all those who want fireworks are asked to purchase from them.

Doghouse

We hear Verne and Quincy are interested in Mary Gea and Mona. This may develop into quite a romance.

Donnie has sure been trying to get a date with Clara Dean. Maybe someday he will succeed.

Bobby Hackfield and Virginia were together after orchestra practice Monday.

We wonder if Lajin still has a crush on Roxie.

Margaret, Bobby, Ken, Mary Lou, Jessie, Lain and Quincy were together Tuesday night.

Senior News

Three cheers for the Greyhounds on their victory over Megargel. We hope they do the same for Paint Creek Thursday night at Haskell.

We have a school teacher that seems to think she has to keep the class informed about the romances of the Senior boys and Junior girls. Personally we think they can take care of it themselves without any outside help.

We had a good rummage sale Saturday and also made quite a bit of money the two nights we had the concessions at the carnival.

Honored With Birthday Dinner

A birthday dinner honoring Mrs. Fred Qualls and Mrs. E. L. Thompson was given Oct. 20 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Pierson of O'Brien.

Dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Qualls, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thompson and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Pierson, all of O'Brien; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Yates and children, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Abston, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Sampson and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rodgers, all of Anacolis. Afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Charley Hill and children, Miss Bobby Stephens, Sam Qualls and children of O'Brien, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McGee of Knox City.

Campfire Girls Participate In World-Wide Program

Campfire girls of the West Texas area council participated in the world-wide Children's Christmas Festival at a service at the First Methodist Church in Stamford Sunday, October 20 at 4 p. m. Six counties, Haskell, Knox, Stonewall, Jones, Kent and Shackelford were represented.

The welcome address was given by A. C. Humphreys, who is the area council president. Mrs. Fred Stockdale of Haskell, executive secretary of the area council, directed the program.

New members of the Camp Fire were welcomed with the lighting of their individual candles from the Wohelo candles. Each girl who advanced in rank received rank insignia and service ribbons, presented to the leaders by Mr. Humphreys. The Blue Birds formed the choir for the service and gave the 23rd Psalm as a choric reading just before the new members were received.

The Camp Fire girls from Knox City who attended the meeting were Carol Ann Armstrong, Zana Ann Hamm, Julie Frizzell, Wanda Carol Denton, Jo Denton, Melba Reid, Mary Helen Dodd, Carol Ann Hitchcock, Jane Knight and Neida Reid. Those who advanced in rank and received service ribbons and rank insignia were Zana Ann Hamm and Carol Ann Armstrong to Fire Makers; Julie Frizzell, Wanda Carol Denton, Jo Denton, Melba Reid and Mary Helen Dodd to Wood Gatherers; and Carol Ann Hitchcock was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Mercer Armstrong and Mrs. Olvis Hamm accompanied the girls to Stamford.

The National Organization of Campfire Girls, Inc., has practiced and stressed friendship for many years and especially toward the war-torn countries. Each girl made an apron from yard-square material, with ribbons used as ties and the pockets filled with useful gifts, such as soap, combs, crayons, tooth-paste, etc., to be sent to a girl of her own age in one of the war-stricken countries. Every gift was wrapped separately, and the sender enclosed a letter in each apron. No awards or beads were given for the apron work—instead it was done as a symbol of love. The girls marched one by one to the altar and left their gifts as the "Boating Song" was sung.

W.N.U. SERVICE

Mark Darrell, young American lumberman, is boss of a lumber camp near St. Victor, Canada. He and his assistant, Nat Page, soon discover that they are very unpopular in the French-Canadian village. When they seek lodging at the hotel, they are told it is full. An angry mob gathers and one man attacks Mark with a knife. Madame Kinross quiets the men, then asks Mark to cancel the lease. Mark refuses. A moment later Horace Broussac, Madame Kinross' lawyer, arrives. He offers Mark $6,000 for rescinding the lease, but Mark again refuses. Broussac is visibly angered at this, but promises that he will not interfere with the lumbering operations.

CHAPTER III

Mark had arranged for a supply of money—three thousand dollars, in fact—to be sent by registered mail. Monsieur Vitard, who was also the postmaster, would ensure its safety. Two schooners were to arrive in a week's time, to receive the two thousand cords of lumber stacked at the spillways. The next week would show pretty well what Mark's prospects were.

On the morning after their arrival, Mark and Nat made an inspection of the mill. It stood on a stretch of flat terrain between the base of the cliffs and the St. Lawrence. Where the St. Victor emptied into the Gulf, a strong log boom had been constructed, forming an artificial lake for the reception of the lumber. Some three hundred yards above it was a rather primitive dam meant to hold back the flood waters and ease the logs over it into the lake below.

"Not much of a mill," said Mark to Nat, as they stood looking at the silent barkers. "Cheap dynamo, cheap everything. We need grinders, cheap couche-rolls and presses, to turn out the finished product."

"Which means plenty of money," said Nat. "More than we've got to risk. But, shipping the logs, one turns the bulk of the profits over to the paper-makers up the Gulf. However, if Broussac really has two thousand cords at the spillways, that gives us a leeway. Maybe next season we can begin to think of couche-rolls and paper-making."

"Broussac's got something up his sleeve."

"He'll have to bring it down." The mill office was a sound, substantial substructure, with two bedrooms above, and well heated by stoves.

"I guess we'll move in tomorrow," said Mark.

"I think we could be comfortable here," Nat agreed. Pipelon, a fawning, weedy young fellow, who appeared to be book-keeper, and also to run the tiny store, assured them that that was the case. He, Pipelon, would be responsible for that. Also, he would procure a woman to cook and sweep for them. He unlocked the safe and produced the books. Mark spent an hour studying them.

There appeared to be no reason why the little mill had been a failure in Broussac's hands, unless the lawyer was unable to procure the money to develop it. Having looked through the books, Mark took the trail with Nat up one side of the St. Victor, to inspect the spillways.

Foreman Larousse Goes Back to Work

Mark was surprised that Broussac seemed to have told the truth about those two thousand cords. Men were at work finishing the stacking, sawyers were cutting trees into lengths, and the grating of saws rang everywhere through the woods. A little group of workmen gathered about the two.

"I'm your new boss," said Mark. "I want to tell you that I'm prepared to carry on for the next year, and anybody who wants his job can keep it. If you've any complaints bring them to me. I'm going to try to fix up your homes, to make them more comfortable."

They eyed him silently, with all the suspicion of the Habitant. As in St. Victor, Mark saw furtive glances exchanged.

"How many of you are from St. Victor?" he asked. Mark had understood that Broussac had had to employ outside labor. He was surprised when all the group but two admitted to being St. Victor men.

"Well, who's your foreman?" he asked. "He does not work for you any more. You have discharged him," volunteered one of the group.

"Discharged him? I haven't discharged anyone. I hope I won't have to. What's his name?"

"Louis Larousse, Monsieur." A light dawned upon Mark. The big man with the knife whom he had had to pummel outside the hotel.

"Where does he live?" he asked. "The white and black house facing the mill."

"I'll go and see him. I haven't discharged him—yet. You've done fine work," Mark added. "If I get these logs safely shipped, we'll be all set for the summer."

He didn't think it advisable to mention that he was contemplating raising their two dollars a day to two-fifty, itself less than the standard in the more settled parts of the Province. One had to go slow with these fellows.

that the group had drawn together, and were watching him, and whispering.

"If that crowd is St. Victor men, we'll have to watch them closely," said Nat.

"On the other hand, we've got them where we want them. Broussac's been underpaying them, and I'm planning to raise them fifty cents a day. I think," said Mark, "we've got them."

Larousse recognized Mark, and his face, which was badly bruised, grew sullen. One eye was entirely closed, and his lip was swollen badly. He glowered at Mark in silence.

"I understand you're the foreman of the gang," said Mark. "Why aren't you at work?"

"Because you have discharged me," Larousse grunted.

"How do you get that?"

"When a man beats me in the face, he discharges me. I will not work for him. I am not a dog. I am a man," said Larousse sullenly.

The frowsy woman came to the doorway and burst into a paroxysm of shrill expostulations that Mark could hardly understand. He gathered, however, that she was shrill.

"I don't see," said Mark, "that I am called upon to cancel a business undertaking without more solid reason. After all, I am bringing money into the seigniory."

He was convinced the cure was being made a catspaw by Broussac, who had received a more advantageous offer, but it would do no good to go into that.

"So you are not willing to reconsider, Monsieur?" asked the priest. "I should advise it, urge it. You cannot succeed against the sentiment of the people here."

Mark shook his head. Father Lacombe sighed and rose. "Ah, well, I have said all that I came to say," he observed. He shook hands. There was a look of sadness on his finely chiseled features; it flashed through Mark's mind that Father Lacombe hadn't told him as much as he might have done.

"I'm glad you called, Father, and I hope we're going to be good friends," he said.

The freshets had already started. There was still ice in the gorge, but it was rapidly filling with water, held back by the dam, through whose spillways cascades were now pouring down into the dam lake beneath. One of the two schooners that Nat had hired was already anchored in the deep water off the end of the flume.

It was time to begin to release the logs from the skids. Mark, leaving the office soon after sunrise, after Nat and he had made themselves a pot of coffee, was surprised to see his men gathered in front of the cabins, apparently unprepared to start for their work.

A woman was shrilly screaming from a cabin, others were at their doors; it looked as if something of consequence was happening.

Larousse was seated sullenly on his door-sill, a pipe stuck into a corner of his mouth. As Mark moved toward him, the crowd closed up behind.

"Well, what's the trouble?" asked Mark. "Stand up when I speak to you!" he added, seeing that Larousse looked as if he was again set for trouble.

A Strike Threatens To Ruin Everything Larousse got slowly to his feet. "The men say they will not work for two dollars a day, to make you outsiders rich," he announced sullenly. "They say they are poor men, and they toil all day for just enough money to support their families."

"A strike?" queried Mark. "Yes, we strike, we all strike," shouted Larousse. "We want five dollars a day—and six for me, because I am foreman. If you don't want to pay, you can lose your lumber."

The demand was a preposterous one, it was evidently made in the anticipation of refusal. Mark found himself mentally computing how much Broussac was staking on the issue of his speculation.

Mark laughed into the sullen faces about him. "You will have to move out of the cabins, then," he said. "I shall get labor from outside."

"And you lose two thousand cords of good spruce lumber?" Larousse demanded.

Mark nodded. Nat, who had understood the drift of the conversation, pulled him by the arm.

"Listen, Mark, you can't afford to do that," he said in a low voice. "Give in to them—till that load is shipped. Then can the whole lot of them. They're asking for it."

"They're asking for what they're going to get," retorted Mark. "All right, I'll pay you off tonight," he told the men. "You can stay on here for a while, but I'll need your cabins for my new crew."

The meaning of his decision was unmistakable. Half-a-dozen women had joined the party, and a series of angry recriminations began. It was evident that the feminine part of the community had no sympathy with the strike. On the faces of the men there was, however, sullen satisfaction. Mark knew that they saw no further ahead than the immediate.

"No, father, sit down," said Mark. "It's a pleasure to see you." They talked vaguely for a minute or two; then Father Lacombe looked Mark straight in the eyes.

"I have come, Monsieur Darrell, to advise you to relinquish your lease of the St. Victor property," he said.

"Why?" Mark shot back. The cure sat bolt upright, his hands upon his knees. "You see, Monsieur, when the lease was agreed upon, Madame Kinross was in great need of money," he said. "Now she has enough, and she has that sentiment about her husband."

"Broussac told me he was drowned at sea, when the ice-floe became detached. He was never heard of again. That was five years ago."

"Yes, Monsieur," agreed the cure. "Nevertheless, Madame Kinross has that settled conviction—monomania, if you like—that her husband is still alive. And she feels that she has done wrong to alienate part of his property. You see, she was a Kinross too, a distant connection of the seigneur's. She married him when she was barely sixteen—half-an-hour before the sailing-vessel sailed. It was not an ordinary marriage."

"No, father, sit down," said Mark. "It's a pleasure to see you."

"I don't see," said Mark, "that I am called upon to cancel a business undertaking without more solid reason. After all, I am bringing money into the seigniory."

He was convinced the cure was being made a catspaw by Broussac, who had received a more advantageous offer, but it would do no good to go into that.

"So you are not willing to reconsider, Monsieur?" asked the priest. "I should advise it, urge it. You cannot succeed against the sentiment of the people here."

Mark shook his head. Father Lacombe sighed and rose. "Ah, well, I have said all that I came to say," he observed. He shook hands. There was a look of sadness on his finely chiseled features; it flashed through Mark's mind that Father Lacombe hadn't told him as much as he might have done.

"I'm glad you called, Father, and I hope we're going to be good friends," he said.

The freshets had already started. There was still ice in the gorge, but it was rapidly filling with water, held back by the dam, through whose spillways cascades were now pouring down into the dam lake beneath. #### PAUL'S WIDENING FIELD OF SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 13:1-5, 13, 14, 44-46, 48, 49; 14:26, 27.

MEMORY SELECTION—But when it pleased God . . . to reveal his Son in me, that I might preach him among the heathen.—Galatians 1:13, 16.

God uses men to accomplish his high and holy purpose of preaching the gospel in all the world. They must, however, be men who have been called by the Holy Spirit, prepared and sent out by him. They must be willing to labor and to sacrifice without limit for his glory.

Paul was such a man, and as we study the widening sphere of his service and influence, we catch a vision of what missions should mean in the church.

I. A Missionary Call (Acts 13:1-4). Much discussed among earnest Christians is the question of what constitutes a missionary call.

The need must be brought home to the individual believer's heart by the Holy Spirit, and he must give a conviction that one is to go out to meet that need.

Note that the call came through a live, active and well-equipped church in Antioch, a city of Syria. It was a cosmopolitan church—read the names of those who served there. They were of many nationalities and of various occupations and social positions. In the midst of that group were two exceptionally able preachers, Barnabas and Paul. They all loved the Lord and served him.

To such a church the Holy Spirit can speak, be heard and obeyed. Notice that they gave of their best, at the direction of the Spirit, not withholding it for themselves (cf. II Sam. 24:24). God wants our best.

Sent forth by the Holy Spirit these men went promptly and willingly. Why should the Lord have to plead, and prod, and wait for his people to obey him?

II. A Missionary Conquest (Acts 13:4, 5, 13, 14, 44-46, 48, 49).

To trace this first missionary journey it is well to look at the map illustrating the Acts and epistles at the back of most Bibles.

It will appear at once that it was not an easy itinerary these men undertook. It involved travel by sea, through difficult country, and often among hostile and hateful peoples.

God does not call his servants to an air-conditioned arm-chair evangelism. His Word must go out where it has never been heard, and that means pioneering among the most backward of peoples, the neediest of this earth. It means working in rescue missions, in thankless and difficult pastorates; yes, anywhere the Divine Executive, the Holy Spirit, may direct.

Paul met both popularity and persecution, and that not far apart. After the experience of acceptance and rejection on the island of Cyprus (Acts 13:7, 8), Barnabas and Paul went to Antioch in Pisidia (a different city than Antioch in Syria; see map). Here they were invited to preach in the synagogue and Paul was blessed in the presentation of a powerful gospel message. Read it in Acts 13:16-41. It met with such a response that the people "bought that these words might be preached to them the next Sabbath" (v. 42). So great was the popularity of Paul's message that the whole city came the next Sabbath "to hear the word of God." What a wonderful sight that must have been.

But wait—there is something else here beside popularity, and its name is jealousy (v. 45). It caused the Jews to blaspheme as they contradicted Paul's preaching.

Jealousy always makes a fool out of the one who yields to it. Yet this green-eyed monster is permitted to go right on hindering the work of God. The result in this case was that Paul turned from the Jews to the Gentiles with the gospel. This is a great turning point in the history of the church.

Now the preachers turn homeward to Antioch in Syria, and there they had

III. A Missionary Conference (Acts 14:26, 27). Nothing stimulates missionary feeling, and praying, and going in a local church like a live missionary conference, where those who have been on the field come back and tell what the Lord has done as they went out to serve him.

It is good to know that what the Lord led men out to do has been fulfilled. That completes the circle of divine guidance and blessing, and strongly encourages us to go again—and others to go for the first time—to do missionary work for God.

The church which does not have such an annual missionary conference misses a blessing and an opportunity for enlarged vision and service. No pastor or church can afford to miss such an open door for the working of the Holy Spirit.

Mark put the men to work upon the boom.

Treat Peach Tree Borers Now, County Agent Advises

Peach tree borers caused much damage to many orchards in Knox County this past summer by boring into the trunk of the tree and bleeding it of its food. Since borers cannot be properly treated until late fall, now is the time for treatment, according to J. M. Carpenter, County Agent.

In Knox County the proper time to treat these insects is between October 20 and November 15. The ground around the base of the tree must be clean of all grass and weeds by shallow cultivation. The ground should be leveled for a distance of six to eight inches around the tree. Do not disturb the ground too deep. For each tree six years of age or over, use one ounce by weight of Paradiolobenzene (P. D. B.) spread in a circular band one inch wide around the base of the tree. Keep the inner line of the band two inches from the tree. Do not apply the P. D. B. crystals on any projecting roots. After placing the crystals in the above manner, take a shovel and cover them with about four inches of fine earth and pack down.

For trees under six years of age, use only 1-2 ounce of P. D. B. Crystals per tree, applied in the same manner. Leave the crystals covered with earth for about six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Branton were business visitors on the Plains last week.

Truscott Ranch Institutes Program of Soil Conservation

Believing that proper water and salt distribution is one of the best ways to assure more even grazing of range land, the Big 4 Ranch northwest of Truscott is putting into effect a coordinated Soil Conservation program. J. D. Smith is manager of the ranch, and he has the help of Soil Conservation technicians in putting the program into effect.

Four new tanks have been constructed in areas where permanent water has not been available before. Salt locations are placed away from the water and will be moved from time to time to insure grazing away from the watering place. A system of deferred grazing will be carried on in connection with Sudan grass in fields to give the more desirable grasses a chance to seed and spread.

Mr. Smith states that he realizes stock will graze out the more palatable grasses first and leave the less palatable grasses, and he is taking these measures to improve his range land.

In addition to the range program, there have been about 16 miles of terraces built on the cultivated portion of the ranch. Chisel plowing is being practiced to aid in holding the water and Austrian Winter Peas are planted for a soil improving crop.

Plans Laid For Polio Campaign

DALLAS, Oct. 22. — Plans for the 1946 Sister Elizabeth Kenny Infantile Paralysis campaign, which will run from November 1 to December 7, are proceeding rapidly, according to George C. Francisco, Jr., Houston, state chairman. The Texas quota is $150,000.

The state campaign is being conducted by counties, with a separate quota for each county. Chairmen are now being selected for the individual county campaigns.

Funds from this campaign will be used to send nurses to Minneapolis to train as Kenny technicians, and to eventually build a Kenny clinic in Texas, so that Texas victims will have access to the best known treatment of this dread disease.

Anyone wishing to help in this campaign is asked to contact the Texas Headquarters, Driskill Hotel, Austin, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Chad Wilson and Mrs. Jack Spikes spent Saturday in Graham on business.

Army Volunteers Still Get Credits For Free Education

There still are free educational opportunities for volunteers in the new peacetime regular Army. Although October 6 was the deadline for educational benefits under the GI Bill of Rights for the full term of enlistment, men between the ages of 17 and 34 joining the service now will continue to get educational credits until the war is officially declared terminated, the U. S. Army announces.

Before October 6, men volunteering for three year enlistments were eligible for 48 months of free college education. Nevertheless, educational credits for all enlistments will accrue until the official termination of the war — one year of college after 90 days of service (one day of which must be served prior to the official termination of the war), plus one month additional for each month served thereafter.

Allowances remain unchanged. The government pays tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per year at a college or business or trade school, of the veteran's selection where he qualifies, plus grants of $65 monthly for living expenses, $90 if the veteran has dependents.

Young men who want to obtain a part of their college financing, or those who want to complete shorter courses in business or trade schools, will find that the Army still can help them. Those who were unable to enroll in colleges now crowded with wartime veterans resuming their education after three-to-five year lapses, may enlist in the peacetime Regular Army and earn educational credits until the war is officially declared over, then start their schooling two or three years hence when the crowded conditions in colleges may be improved.
