Soil Testing Is Profitable

The period August 29 through September 4 will be observed as "Soil Testing Week" throughout Knox County.

County Agricultural agent, Herman R. Collier, said that Knox County farmers may have held back on soil testing because of the dry summer. With improved prospects of small grain growing weather now, they are encouraged to have soil tested so that recommendations for applying the right amount of fertilizer this year might be made.

"Perhaps," said Collier, "no other single investment puts as much money in the pocketbook as the $2. investment in a soil test."

The intense program of soil testing is underway now in all counties of the Texas Rolling Plains, as part of the massive Rolling Plains Economic Program (R-PEP).

"A soil test," said Russell, "is the basis of a profitable fertilizer program."

"The Rolling Plains history of proper fertilization is this: For each $1. invested in fertilizer, the farmer may expect the resulting increase in yields to get him $2. at the market."

Farmers may send or carry their soil samples to the Extension Service Soil Testing Laboratory in Seymour, or leave them at the county agent's office in the courthouse at Benjamin.

Benjamin Fire Dept. Recipient Of Check

The Benjamin Volunteer Fire Department received a check for $75,000 recently from the Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies as an expression of thanks for the Department's work on the property of Charles Griffith, P. O. Box 236, Benjamin, Texas.

The money will be used for purchase of equipment. The Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies pay volunteer fire departments this amount when the department works at a fire in rural areas, involving property insured by them.

The Insurance Company believes volunteer fire departments have contributed to reduce the amount of loss involved by fire and is more important, to prevent fires. It is their hope this money will help the Benjamin Volunteer Fire Department in their program.

Miss Judith Jeanette McCown Weds Rochester Man Saturday

The Rev. Aubrey Headstream, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Rochester, officiated at the Saturday evening wedding of Miss Judith Jeanette McCown and Michel Steven Wyatt in the First Baptist Church in Knox City.

Smith To Help With 1969 WTRC Round-Up

Lee Smith will be among the 121 area chairmen of the 1969 Cattleman's Round-up for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene. The chairmen will serve as the main link between the Round-up and individual stockmen.

For the 1,235 patients who receive free treatment at the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, "Christmas" has always come in September in the form of the renowned "Cattleman's Round-Up for Crippled Children."

This year, however, "Santa Claus" is dead.

"Santa Claus" - in this case the man who had singlehandedly done the most to help the Round-Up reach its annual goals - was the late Conda Wylie of Fort Chadbourne.

Mr. Wylie, 86, who suffered a fatal heart attack at his home on January 6, 1969, had gained the title, "Father of the Cattleman's Round-Up," and rightfully so, for he had actually founded the first Round-Up in 1960 when he gave WTRC Executive Director Shelly V. Smith 20 calves to "see if you can use these to help the Center."

Those 20 calves were to become the backbone of what has been praised as one of the most unique and humanitarian money-raising events in the Southwest, an event which annually raises a bulk of the non-profit WTRC's operating funds.

This year's Round-Up is scheduled for 1:00 p.m. September 29 at Ranchers and Farmers Livestock Auction in Abilene.

Since the foundation of the Round-Up, the late Mr. Wylie kicked off each year's drive with a substantial donation - as many as 100 of his prize heifers from his famous Charolais-Angus herd.

"Needless to say, we will greatly miss Mr. Wylie's guidance and support this year, but we are hopeful, too, that the other good ranchers in the Southwest won't let us down," said Charlie Morris of Abilene, who is serving his eighth year as the Round-Up's general chairman.

Operation of the Round-Up is simple - ranchers and stockmen pick out a calf or pen of calves and designate them as his pledge to the 1969 Round-Up.

Contacting his area chairman, he makes arrangements for free transportation to the auction site.

When the cattle go on the auction block, the donor is mentioned, so that the Round-Up has become an event publicizing not only the generosity of stockmen, but the quality of their stock.

In addition to Mr. Wylie's prize winning donations, top livestock in the past have come from former President Lyndon B. Johnson, then a U. S. Senator, West Texas Chamber of Commerce President J. Fike Godfrey of Spur, and Hollywood Actor Rex Allen.

Top bulls from some of the state's leading ranches have also gone on the block to help raise funds for the WTRC's operation. Last year's Round-Up netted just over $71,000 for the Center, and officials are hoping for more of the same this year.

"It'll take a lot of good 'Santa Clauses' for us to reach our goal," Morris quipped, "but we'll do it. The children served by the rehabilitation center have grown used to the services that are provided primarily because of this Round-Up. We're going to see to it that they have their 'Christmas' again this September."

In operation for more than 16 years now, the WTRC has seen the demand for its services grow in overwhelming proportions - and the services had also increased.

Its purpose is to serve all handicapped in various rehabilitation services, and patients come from far and near, many setting in Abilene or the surrounding area simply to benefit the outstanding facilities.

Providing treatment to all handicapped without regard to race, creed, age, or financial circumstance, the Center offers the following services to all patients referred by a licensed physician or some other accredited referral agency: physical, occupational, speech, educational and language therapy; audiology, psychometry and pre-vocational evaluation.

The WTRC also offers six special diagnostic and evaluation clinics in physical medicine, general neurology, pediatric neurology, learning disorders, otology and orthopedic disorders.

Coaches' Comments

By CHARLES HIBBITTS

With the climax of two-a-day workouts close, I would have to say this has been the most spirited group I have ever worked with. The interest shown is also tremendous. We started with 38 boys and have only had two boys to quit. We would also like to thank the citizens of Knox City for the interest they have shown.

This Friday night we go to Throckmorton for a 7:30 scrimmage. The Throckmorton Greyhounds are the defending regional champions and have most of their outstanding boys returning. Three outstanding players are all-state center Joe Whitaker (245 lbs.), all district full back Freddie Chandler (215 lbs.), and all district quarterback Randy Nichols (220 lbs.).

This will probably be one of the toughest tests Knox City will face all season. I might add that since Coach Jimmy Rogers and I are originally from Throckmorton, we have deep feelings concerning this contest. We want this one badly! BE THERE to support the Knox City Greyhounds!

The proposed budget will be discussed and examined by all the associational officers and pastors.

It sounds like you all have been having a pretty active summer, what with all the festivals, shows, and beauty contests thereabouts. Sheryl Trimmer must be quite an effervescent young lady in that she has had major roles in the recent dress reviews and Cotton Queen festivities, along with her regular Home Demonstration Agent duties. She might should oughta get a medal of some sorts. "Course it's not possible to put on these events without help from the numbers of people around our town and the surrounding area. Tom Crane is one of the best TV announcers that I've seen, and that includes some in Chicago and here in Honolulu. It was nice of him to give of his time and effort. He gets two gold stars.

The golf tournament sounds like it was mucho fun. I wish I could have made it, but I understand that my family was well represented, and that a good time was had by all. Even though my brothers Jim, Duck, and Yeats didn't do real well according to their standards, they did have fun. Saw a lot of old friends, they did... Happy Birthday, Patsy.

It's good to hear of the downtown renovations and improvements such as Perry Brothers' moving into the old Cobb's building, and Egenbacher Brothers' making use of the old lumber yard across the street. One thing I don't like to see in any town is empty, unused buildings. Surely ruins the looks of a town, and makes a person feel downhearted. Such shells stand ominously like silent ghosts - omens depicting the impending end of a town. Thank goodness some people have the fortitude to attempt to keep this from happening to KC. I understand some other stores are toying with similar ideas. Good luck. In contrast, the concrete and steel jungle which composes much of the downtown Waikiki area, just a few feet from the golden beaches, is just about to cover up the scenic beauty of what was at one time a magnificent view. Diamond Head a few years back could be seen from most points in Honolulu and Waikiki, except when the swaying palm trees and broad outgrowths of monkeypod trees and banyan trees got in the way. The hotel magnates and barons are building condominiums, apartment houses, and hotels at a phenomenal rate, making it necessary for a person to get out on the beach or atop a hotel in order to catch a glimpse of the staunch old landmark. These buildings cost a pretty penny, but pay big dividends in return to the investors. It's still a shame.

The coed season is over. Toward the first part of September all of the bikini-clad gals will be back at home where they belong. Turned out that there weren't as many of them here as had been originally planned.

I've been here for one year this last August, and it surely doesn't seem like it. It's not that I've kept busy - heck no! The hours pass slowly - it's the DAYS that fly by!

I hope new Coach Rogers will have a good year in KCHS. It was back at McMurry where I was acquainted with Jimmy and his wife, Kay. One thing about it - he has a good group of coaches to work with, for sure. Good luck to the '69 version of the 'Hounds. You guys are due for a good year.

Understand that there are reports out of the fashion centers of the world which say that this will be another fall, winter, and spring of short skirts. I have seen some articles in newspapers and magazines saying that the maxiskirt is arriving, along with the already-present see-through outfits (sigh!). Once upon a time, according to Lou Boyd of Seattle, one British military expert, B. H. Liddell-Hart said, "Short skirts and straight lines have always foretold trouble, whereas long skirts and curving lines have borne a promise of peace and prosperity. Women's fashions, like a barometer, have been of great significance in foretelling a warlike or a peaceful tendency in the world." Hopefully, the war will end before the hems are lengthened. That's pau for now... ALOHA, Bobby Robinson *****
