For the second time in as many years, the Knox City Future Farmers of America Chapter Sweetheart took top honors at the Oilbelt District FFA Awards Banquet, when Betsy Ross, popular Knox City High School junior student was chosen as the new District Sweetheart. The annual affair was held this year in the National Guard Armory at Jacksboro.

Betsy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ross, will represent the district in Area IV competition at Tarleton State College in Stephenville next May, competing with four other entrants from Wichita, Abilene, Coleman, and Cross Timbers districts. These five districts make up Area IV and include 88 schools.

The Knox City FFA Farm Radio team, composed of Mike Newton, Rogers Lankford, and Joe Barnard won second place in the district awards and since, has competed in Area IV competition at Stephenville where they placed in the top 10 per cent. The Junior Farm Skills team, composed of Rob Harrison, Jay Eaton, and Danny Woodall, placed third.

Craig Carver and Don Ray served the local chapter as voting delegates.

Others attending the December 4 banquet included David Ivie, David McCaughey, Leslie Fitzgerald, Danny Woodall, Chapter Advisor and Mrs. Leon Burkhart, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ross, Supt. and Mrs. Bill Baker, High School Principal Ward Cooksey, and Tony Shawver, ag student teacher.

BOB'S SUPER SAVE SAFE pictured above as it was discovered Tuesday morning in a pasture west of Knox City.

Two Local Stores Hit By Burglars

Two Knox City businesses were burglarized sometime after closing hours Monday night, as Bob Harrison, owner of Bob's Super Save discovered when he came down Tuesday morning to open the store about 7 o'clock. When he noticed a counter out-of-place, he immediately saw that his safe had been taken. Authorities were notified and the safe was discovered shortly about three miles west of town in a pasture belonging to A. P. Denton. The safe had been forced open and contents were scattered all around it, including checks and charge slips. Mr. Harrison reported that approximately $350.00 in cash was taken, a watch, two rolls of Gold Bond stamps, approximately 60 cartons of cigarettes, 17 hams, five turkeys, about 12 pairs of leather gloves, ten packages of lunch meat, and five two-pound packages of bacon.

Hoge Pharmacy reported that numerous watches, necklaces, and other merchandise estimated at $2,000 were taken, including $30.00 in pennies, $25.00 in other change in the cash register, and a few dollars in silver coins. No drugs were missing, according to owner Paul Hoge.

City Hardware was entered through a window at the back, but when the thieves opened the inside door into the front of the store, a burglar alarm sounded and apparently scared them off. Nothing was reported missing from the hardware. Jones Drug Store was not entered but an attempt was made. The back door showed definite signs that entry was sought, but the burglars failed in the attempt.

Investigating officers included Knox County Sheriff H. C. Stone, County Deputy Pete Hatfield, Police Chief Frank McAuley Jr., Texas Ranger Homer T. Melton, Nightwatchman Leroy Davis, and Highway Patrolmen Joe Hataway and Don Carmichael.

Cancer Mobile Exhibit Unit Visits KC School Campus

Facts and figures, dangers signals and final results, concerning cancer were presented to Knox City students recently when the American Cancer Society's Mobile Exhibit Unit visited the campus. Exhibit information dealt primarily with cancer in relation to cigarette smoking and according to County Judge Sam E. Clonts, Co. Public Schools Ex-officio Supt., it is the first exhibit in a series to be offered to the five schools in the county in a new cancer education program.

In films on cancer soon to be shown in the schools, the American Cancer Society will attempt to educate youngsters by helping them to better understand how the dreaded disease characterized, how to protect themselves from death by cancer, its warning signals, and some of the means of treatment.

Statistics indicate that last year more school children died of cancer than from any other disease and this year about 320,000 Americans will die of cancer. Have you had a check up recently? *****

Savings Bonds Interest Is Raised To 5 Per Cent

DALLAS--M. L. Wiggins, Knox County Chairman for U. S. Savings Bonds, was today queried about the new 5-per-cent interest rate for Savings Bonds.

"The new higher rate announced by President Nixon makes Savings Bonds a better buy than ever before", Chairman M. L. Wiggins states, "it will greatly benefit the members of our communities who have been putting aside dollars regularly--through Payroll Savings Plans or over-the-counter purchases at their banks--savings for a new home, farm improvements, an automobile, college for the children, a dream vacation, or a retirement nest egg."

The 5-per-cent interest rate applies to all outstanding Series E and H Bonds sold on or after June 1, 1969, if held to maturity. All outstanding E and H Bonds also benefit from the new 5-per-cent rate, beginning with the first semi-annual interest period starting on or after June 1.

According to M. L. Wiggins, "the maturity period for Series E Bonds has been reduced from 7 years to 5 years, 10 months, H Bonds continue to mature in 10 years."

"Freedom Shares--which have been sold in combination with E Bonds since May 1, 1967--will be removed from sale effective June 30, 1970."

"The higher rate should boost Savings Bonds sales throughout our area", M. L. Wiggins said, "And it will be an added incentive for our young folks--many of whom have not yet learned to save the Savings Bonds way."

VA Reminder

The Veterans Administration issued a reminder today to veterans and widows who receive pensions and to parents receiving compensation to be sure and return the income questionnaire enclosed with checks dated November 1.

VA Administrator Donald E. Johnson said that VA benefits are paid to war veterans with limited income who are totally disabled for reasons not related to military service and to their widows, and to certain other dependents of veterans who meet income limitations.

Where benefits are based on income, the VA, by law, cannot make payments unless it receives the questionnaire containing the estimated income for next year.

Some 2,000,000 will receive questionnaires. Veterans and dependents who have questions were invited to contact their local VA office.

J. V. Jones Jr., who was born in Knox City, joined Santa Fe as a telegraph operator in 1924. He worked at various points in Texas, became traveling freight and passenger agent at San Angelo in 1945, and division freight and passenger agent at Phoenix in 1947. Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue in Northern Texas, said good records help you get all the deductions and credits you are entitled to.

A good system for keeping records is to label envelopes or folders according to the types of income and deductions you have, Mr. Campbell said. Bills and receipts should be put in the appropriate folder as they are paid.

Taxpayers who itemize their deductions on Form 1040 must have available cancelled checks, receipts, statements, and other data to support the claimed deductions.

Mr. Campbell said that, in addition to saving tax dollars, good record-keeping makes preparation of the tax return a much easier task.

Ken Clonts, technical director for the Merichem Co of Houston, got on his horse nearly 15 years ago and rode off in more than 20 directions — successfully.

In 1955, he received a chemical engineering degree from the University of Texas. But so many areas fascinated him, he was hard put to choose one.

Transport phenomena, quantum mechanics, Boolean algebra, kinetics research and computer applications were just a few of the scientific directions that beckoned Clonts, who comes from Knox City in north central Texas.

"Finally, since I couldn't decide what I wanted to specialize in, I looked for a young, growing company that was involved in developing technology so I could pursue everything. The company also had to be financially stable because I wanted to stay there," Clonts says.

That decision brought him to Houston and Merichem, which now produces chemical intermediates for industry out of waste materials from about 100 refineries throughout the central United States.

"At the time, the company had only six technical people, counting me," Clonts recalls. "So you did just about everything. And I still do."

He started as a production engineer. Now he serves as liaison between the company's research and development staff and its engineering personnel. Away from the plant he trouble-shoots problems for customers, which ultimately helps sales.

Additionally, the 38-year-old Clonts has developed numerous proprietary processes for the firm. But the processes generally aren't patented, he says.

"Our approach is one of selectiveness because a patent's information can give competitors a base to build on. Besides, if you patent, you need to enforce," Clonts explains.

"On the other hand, we've refinery treating process tents because we get our materials from refineries. When they improve their process, it helps us," he continues.

He also works on inventions that aren't plant-oriented. But he doesn't patent them.

For instance, he hasn't completed patent applications on an analytical instrument for monitoring air pollutants.

"I lost interest in the instrument once I had finished it," he says. "It's in the back of my mind though if I ever need the money."

"There are so many new, exciting things. Why dwell on something after the excitement's gone? As soon as there seems to be no more real promise of further knowledge or understanding, I lose interest. The doing right now is the exciting thing," Clonts says.

His drive for innovation is long-standing. Even before he started to grade school, he was hooked on invention.

"I think kids have a real disadvantage when they don't grow up in a small town and when they don't have parents who own a hardware store with all those parts to experiment with," says Clonts, who had such advantages.

"I've always had a real compulsion to do things differently and improve upon them. And I've come to the conclusion that there's hardly anything that you can't improve upon," he observes.

Unlike many scientists, Clonts finds people fascinating.

"The world of facts and scientific relationships can be described precisely, mathematically and quantitatively. But in the world of people, relationships are imprecise and qualitative. The interest comes from the contrast. You can't predict about people with consistent accuracy."

"I've toyed many times with trying to reduce sociological factors into mathematical matrices," Clonts says. "I have generated a happiness equation. It's a mathematical expression that borrows upon the discipline of mathematical weighting of elements in terms of their respective importance."

A favorable self-appraisal is the most important element in determining a person's potential for happiness, Clonts says.

"If a person's not happy with himself, then he's going to have a hard time generating a big happiness sum," the inventor concludes.

One of Clonts' new ventures would interweave science and people, he says. By the end of next year, he hopes to start what he calls Technology Park using leased equipment in Houston.

"The park would give chemical companies economic access to sophisticated scientific instrumentation," he explains.

In addition, a staff of doctoral and post-doctoral specialists would furnish expert assistance, Clonts says. The companies, moreover, could find recruitment possibilities among this staff.

He also plans pragmatic industry-oriented seminars and envisions the park as a bank of knowledge from which to update companies' personnel. "It's an exciting concept and it's what I want to do now," Clonts says.

For High School Grads Business College And Junior College Students

The Dallas Office of the FBI through its Special Agent in Charge, Mr. J. Gordon Shanklin, has advised of excellent job opportunities with the FBI in Washington, D. C. for young people, male or female, who are at least sixteen years of age, United States citizens, high school graduates, and able to pass a rigid investigation of loyalty, reputation, and character. No previous experience is required. Qualified applicants are being sought for the positions of clerk, fingerprint clerk, typist, and stenographer.

The entrance salary for a clerk is $4,360 (GS-2) per year, with a raise in 90 days to $4,917 (GS-3) per year, if their work is found satisfactory. Only a twenty word spelling test is required for clerk applicants.

Applicants for the clerk position are considered for the fingerprint clerk position which starts at $4,917 (GS-3) per year. Those individuals found acceptable for the fingerprint clerk position and who progress satisfactorily in such position are considered for promotion to $5,522 (GS-4) per year after six months and to $6,176 (GS-5) per year after one year in fingerprint work and to $6,882 (GS-6) per year one year later. This means it is possible for a fingerprint clerk who develops satisfactorily to reach a salary of $6,882 per year after only two years of service.

A typist enters on duty at a salary of $4,917 (GS-3) per year, and applicants for this position must be able to pass a ten minute typing test of 45 words per minute and a twenty word spelling test.

A stenographer is paid a beginning salary of $5,522 (GS-4) per year, and applicants for this position must pass a three minute dictation test given at the rate of eighty words per minute; pass a ten minute typing test at the rate of 45 words per minute; pass a twenty word spelling test; and successfully pass a twenty question vocabulary examination.

Many young men and women continue their college education on a part-time basis in the Washington, D. C. area while working at these full-time jobs for the FBI. Young men who obtain a four year college degree from an accredited college and who have been employed in a clerical capacity with the FBI for one year and meet the other requirements, are considered for the Special Agent position at a starting salary of $10,252 (GS-10) per year.

The FBI provides counseling services to its new employees to assist them with housing, transportation, and other needs. If close friends or young married couples apply at the same time and are found acceptable, every effort is made to afford them appointments at the same time.

The FBI does not come under Civil Service in that the FBI has its own application form, tests, investigates and hires its own employees rather than drawing them from a Civil Service list or register.

Completed applications should be sent to the Special Agent in Charge, FBI, 200 Mercantile Continental Building, Dallas, Texas, 75201, telephone 741-1851, as soon as possible as processing of such applications can commence as much as six months prior to an individual's availability. Upon receipt of a completed application, the interested applicant will be contacted promptly and arrangements made for personal interview and appropriate tests at a time and place convenient to the applicant.

Any individual interested in becoming a part of this highly respected organization of the Federal Government may obtain an application and additional information by writing or calling the Dallas FBI Office at the address and telephone number mentioned above. The many benefits of working for the FBI, such as annual leave, sick leave, health and life insurance and retirement benefits should be thoroughly considered in choosing a career.

Cotton Classing Report

Receipts in the Munday Classing Office were very light during the week of December 8-12th. The week's classing total was 4087 samples bringing the season total to 13,436.

Today responsible men of action are determined to help bridge the affluence gap, to help change the conditions that are the root causes of our problems—not only in unemployment, but in education, medical care and housing. Businessmen are helping lead many of these efforts because they know their image can be no better—not only in the eyes of the poor but also in the eyes of the public and especially in the eyes of today's college generation—than the performance of the business system in serving all our citizens.

Why Sugar

In 19th century Europe, hard white sugar was so exceptional it was called "royal" sugar—and carried a kingly price tag.

Times and prices have changed. Today sugar is so familiar to us that we take it for granted.

Few people know, for example, that about three-quarters of the sugar we consume comes to us in ready-prepared foods, not out of our sugar bowls. According to "Why Sugar," a

Local SS Class Enjoys Social

The Fidelis Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church met at the church fellowship hall last Tuesday evening, December 9 at 7 o'clock for a Christmas social.

Brilliant Christmas decorations, complete with a lovely gift bedecked tree, lent a festive air to the occasion. Supper was served to twenty-five members and guests.

The program, under the direction of Mrs. Martha Brown, included a devotional presented by Mrs. Ada Mae Averitt, a Bible quiz conducted by Mrs. Bonnie Crone, Mrs. Tony Smith sang a song entitled "The Lost Sheep," and Mrs. Roger Butler, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Alice Thompson, directed the group in several Christmas carols.

The mood of the evening was completed by the exchange of gifts and the benediction offered by Ethel Lemond.

Guild Attends Dinner Party

Members of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First United Methodist Church here attended a dinner party with their husbands recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McGee. Christmas decorations set the holiday mood and guests enjoyed after dinner games.

Mrs. Paul Hoge assisted Mrs. McGee in the hostess duties.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Media Executive:
I am sure that you share my concern about the traffic accident potential of the coming Christmas-New Year holiday season.

As Governor, I deem it my responsibility to do everything within the prerogatives of my office to appeal to all the citizens of Texas to reduce the tragedy and the heartbreak of traffic crashes during this period and throughout the year. It is a responsibility that we are meeting with all our effort, all our energy, and all our dedication.

Because of the severity of the traffic situation, I have declared a state of traffic safety emergency in Texas this holiday season. Although we recognize that media support is essential at all times in order to achieve highway safety, the impact of newspapers, television, and radio will be particularly important between December 14 and January 5.

Our efforts will be of little avail unless the news media of Texas provide all the support and leadership in traffic safety that is possible. The agencies of state government most directly concerned with traffic safety, including the Governor's Office, will be keeping you up to date on the traffic situation during this holiday period.

I know that together we can make an impact on this problem. With strong media support and ingenuity, the needless loss of life of Texas citizens can be reduced to a minimum at this time of the year when the well-being of family and loved ones is so meaningful.

If we in the Governor's Office can help you in any way, you can count on our full support.

With kindest personal regards, I am
Sincerely,
Preston Smith
Governor of Texas

Model Cleaners... Striving To Please

Model Cleaners at 323 Central Avenue is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Webber who purchased the business from M. A. Cochran of Stamford in August of 1967. Prior to that time the establishment was owned and operated by a number of individuals by whom Webber was employed.

He began his career in the business when he went to work for the late Mercer Armstrong as a silk presser in 1945 and the cleaners was located at 409 Central Avenue, next door to McCarty Jewelers. It was sold to Marvin Goodson in 1951 and moved to the present location in 1953.

Webber continued to work as presser while learning other phases of the business. In 1961 Jessie James and Joe Averitt purchased the establishment and Mrs. James operated it, continuing to employ Webber. Five years later Cochran became owner and Webber was employed as both presser and cleaner. Webber took charge of all operations when he became owner and employs Mrs. Tolle Large as wool presser and alterations lady. His wife Dorothy works part time at the shop helping out with alterations and silk pressing.

GREENBUG ACTIVITY

Due to increased greenbug activity producers are urged to inspect their fields regularly for this insect and its damage. Under heavy infestations of this insect entire fields of small grains can be killed. Conditions during the past few weeks have been favorable for greenbug population buildups.

Greenbugs reproduce well at temperatures between 40 degrees and 95 degrees F, and predators and parasites that prey on greenbugs increase slowly at temperatures below 65 degrees F. Thus, in cool weather the greenbug may increase to enormous numbers while its natural enemies multiply slowly.

Information on determining the need for applying an insecticide for control of greenbugs is given MP-339, "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects and Mites on Grain and Forage Crops." This guide can be obtained at the county agricultural agent's office.

Insecticides listed in MP-339 for control of greenbugs are malathion, methylparathion, parathion and phosphamidon. Since the guide was printed, disulfoton (Di-Syston) has been cleared for control of greenbugs on wheat only. Disulfoton should be applied only once per season and treated fields should not be grazed. These insecticides are more effective when the temperature is above 50 degrees F. Malathion is not as effective as disulfoton, methylparathion and parathion but may be used where a less toxic material is preferred for ground applications.

Producers should read and follow closely information given on the label. Safety precautions in handling insecticides should be given careful consideration.

CATTLE LICE

With the arrival of colder weather, stockmen in Knox County should be on the alert for the annual invasion of lice on livestock. These pests, unless controlled, will reduce profits and increase feed bills.

Livestock producers may come by the county agent's office and pick up a copy of MP-

691, "Texas Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry."

The publication outlines control measures and lists formulations for controlling all major external parasites of livestock and poultry. It also contains a dilution chart for mixing sprays and dips and outlines control programs for all types of livestock and poultry.

To get a head start on lice this winter, it is suggested to initiate a sound control program now.

PLAN FRUIT TREE HEALTH PROGRAM

The health and vigor of trees and the quality of fruit they produce may well depend upon a well-planned and conducted insect control program.

While it is true, most fruit and nut trees are dormant, it should also be remembered that now is the time to make plans for keeping orchards and groves free of insects and diseases.

As an aid to such a program, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has available through its county offices L-254, "Guide for Controlling Insects and Diseases on Fruits and Nuts." The guide should be a big aid in planning insect and disease control programs for the one-tree homeowner or the commercial producer. Copies are available at the Extension office.

It is necessary to properly time spray applications in order to keep insect and disease losses at a minimum and to produce high quality fruits and nuts.

Plans made now and carried out as needed can mean the difference between a fine crop or excellent quality or a crop failure.

UP-COMING CONFERENCES

The Texas Fertilizer and Limestone Conference, January 7, 8, and 9, 1970 is to be held at the Ramada Inn in College Station.

Beltwide Cotton Production Mechanization Conference is in Houston, January 8-9 at the Rice Hotel.

ROLLING PLAINS COTTON GROWERS INC.

Stamford - Reducing the number of boll weevils that survive the winter is the prime goal of a diapause control program, according to Emory Boring, entomologist of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Vernon.

"To survive the winter, the boll weevil must attain a condition called diapause," Boring pointed out. "The weevil in late summer begins to add body fat, stops reproductive activities and goes through other physiological changes that prepare him for hibernation."

The diapause control program calls for continued poisoning in early fall until all bolls are mature. He pointed out that this procedure will reduce weevils entering hibernation more than 90 per cent.

With fewer weevils entering hibernation in the fall, far smaller numbers survive the winter and emerge into young cotton in the spring. This means that many cotton farmers do not have to poison for weevil control boll worms. Properly carried out, the program will result in a 30 to 50 per cent reduction in costs of insect control plus increased yields, Mr. Boring said.

"Boll worms have become a major threat to our cotton because we have in the past killed out natural enemies of the worms (beneficial insects) through early poisoning for boll weevils. If we can avoid early weevil poisoning, the beneficial insects will give control of bollworms and spider mites", said Mr. Boring.

Where cotton is defoliated and harvested before frost, producers might consider the addition of methyl parathion or Guthion to arsenic acid or phosphate-type defoliants.

Boll weevils move into other fields or to hibernation sites as their food supply is destroyed. If the weevils are destroyed at the same time cotton is desiccated or defoliated, however, the number which otherwise might overwinter will be significantly reduced.

The cost of adding an insecticide to the harvest-aid chemical may be more than offset by reduced spraying costs the following year", said Mr. Boring. He recommended adding one-half pound of methyl parathion or one-fourth pound of Guthion to arsenic acid or phosphate-type defoliants or desiccants.

These insecticidal materials, he warned, should not be used with chlorate defoliants or desiccants.

"Stalk destruction immediately after harvest is another important step in reducing overwintering weevils population. This practice completely removes any possible food sources for the weevils, according to the entomologist.

respect to a claimant's election of supplementary medical insurance under Medicare. This is why it is imperative that people make their applications in the three month period before age 65.

Though the regulations allow a person seven months (three months before and three months after his 65th birthday) to enroll in the "doctor bill" part of Medicare, she pointed out that the claimant must make his election before he becomes 65 for his protection to be effective with the

S. S. Reports

"Don't delay, do it today" might sound like an overworn cliché, but it is an important suggestion to anyone nearing his 65th birthday, Mrs. Helen Rigdon, Vernon, Texas social security manager announced today.

Failure to make an application on time could result in a loss of cash benefits and Medicare protection.

A worker should apply for his social security benefits during the three month period before his retirement date, she stated, and definitely during the three months before his 65th birthday, whether he is contemplating retirement or not.

She emphasized that early filing of the claim allows the social security office adequate time to assist the claimant in securing the required proofs for approval of his claim, and also assures the payment of benefits promptly.

Mrs. Rigdon said that applications are retroactive for a period of one year but this regulation is not effective with

Tax Man Sam Sez:

"Does that Internal Revenue employee know what he's talking about?" is a common question that taxpayers ask of their accountant, attorney, or friend. The best insight into how much the tax man would know would come from a look at the (1) kind of education required, (2) type of training received after they are employed in Internal Revenue, and (3) experience required.

(1) Ordinarily Internal Revenue Agents, Revenue Officers and all of the professional and technical employees in Internal Revenue Service are required to have a college degree or the equivalent of a degree in experience at a professional level. (2) When Internal Revenue recruits the young accounting graduates upon finishing college they are required to go to school for 13 weeks before they audit any cases. Then the young man or woman received additional on-the-job training for another 13 weeks. Most Internal Revenue Agents are required to take additional advanced tax training of three to six weeks every few years. Constant on the job study is necessary since each case report prepared by an Agent must be supported by law, regulation, court decisions, or other applicable rulings. Internal Revenue has one of the better training programs for their professional and technical employees out of all the public and private training programs for comparable large organizations. (3) Finally, in looking at the experience of the Internal Revenue employee, each employee works only cases for which he is fully qualified. The new college graduate would not be assigned to audit a billion dollar conglomerate. This type of case would be worked by a highly competent, senior, fully experienced tax man that knows how to get additional professional and technical support from the specialists such as engineers and the Counsel.

Of course the man working your case could make a mistake and could be wrong, but it is safe to say he sure should know what he is talking about of his birthday. Mrs. Rigdon urges everyone nearing 65 to file for these benefits. As an added service to the public Mr. Carl Belsner visits Monday on the 3rd Thursday of each month. He will be at the City Hall in Munday on Thursday, September 18 from 10:00 a.m. until noon.

Party Is Held In McGee Home

Mrs. J. C. McGee and Mrs. Guy Robinson were hostesses for the Knox City Garden Club Christmas party held in the McGee home last week.
 Eleven members enjoyed refreshments of Christmas cake, punch, and coffee.
 The program included the poem, "You Can't Crush Christmas, It Makes You Glad Inside" read by Mrs. H. E. Wall. Mrs. McGee presented a timely article entitled, "Conservation".
 The arrangement for the Christmas table was a lovely pink tree with small pink lights, created by Mrs. G. E. Wilson.
 Gifts were exchanged and the January 13 meeting was announced. Members will meet in the Wilson home to observe Arbor Day.

Industry Opposes New Controls on Federal Contracts

Proposed uniform cost accounting standards for prime and subcontract defense procurement would not be feasible, the National Association of Manufacturers said in a letter to the General Accounting Office.
 Signed by Thomas T. Arden, chairman of the Association's National Defense Committee, the letter said that the GAO has failed to support its case for such feasibility and further study of the proposal is needed.
 Theoretical not Practical
 After reviewing the report GAO made to Congress, NAM said, "It is obvious from the report that feasibility was tested not from the basis of usefulness, practicality and workability, but rather from a base of theory and theoretical possibility. It does not address itself to the issue of whether and how standards would correct or avoid abuses or inequities, arising from the lack of such standards. In addition, the report does not adequately support the firm recommendation that standards are feasible but rather tends to support the opposite view."
 The NAM said industry is concerned that unless the report is modified considerably Congress will take precipitous action and set unrealistic deadlines for the establishment of standards. The letter stated that the GAO report does not properly recognize the generally accepted accounting principles now in existence.
 The letter said the NAM believes the GAO has not adequately recognized the significant and far-reaching impact its conclusions will have upon all types of business, large and small. The effect of the recommendations extend into wholly commercial activities of "mixed-contractors" and would apply to the entire spectrum of business organization.

Party Is Held In McGee Home

Mrs. J. C. McGee and Mrs. Guy Robinson were hostesses for the Knox City Garden Club Christmas party held in the McGee home last week.
 Eleven members enjoyed refreshments of Christmas cake, punch, and coffee.
 The program included the poem, "You Can't Crush Christmas, It Makes You Glad Inside" read by Mrs. H. E. Wall. Mrs. McGee presented a timely article entitled, "Conservation".
 The arrangement for the Christmas table was a lovely pink tree with small pink lights, created by Mrs. G. E. Wilson.
 Gifts were exchanged and the January 13 meeting was announced. Members will meet in the Wilson home to observe Arbor Day.
 If absence makes the heart grow fonder, then a lot of people certainly love the church.

For now, that's pau... From Hawaii... via Texas. Aloha... Bobby Robinson

It's about time something more was said about golf (the sport of gentlemen) in this column. And golf is, of course, one of the favorite sports in the Fifth State, since Hawaii has some of the most lush courses in the world. Although I pictured every golf course in the Islands as being lush and green, I was a bit disappointed when I found out that some are just as bare in spots as some of our Texas courses.

I talked to a golfer friend of mine who has had more experience here and has played more of the courses in Hawaii. Since the temperatures here vary no more than 5 degrees to 10 degrees year around, the manicure of the grass is an unending job, whereby at home the cold weather sometimes gets to the greens, and fairways turn brown. The courses which entertain tournaments (for example, the Hawaiian Open was held this year at the Waialae Golf Course, and the Makaha Country Club will host the Open in 1970) allow their roughs to grow a bit longer, while the trees and greens are manicured to near-perfect shape.

The world-famous Mauna Kea Golf Course on the island of Hawaii has long, narrow fairways cut out of lava, as the dormant Mauna Kea Volcano looms in the distance. Hawaii Country Club, on Oahu is surrounded by pineapple fields, and our own Barbers Point Golf Course is outlined with towering growths of sugar cane. Some courses are also laid out on top of coral, with thin layers of grass and topsoil covering it. It doesn't seem to keep us from scarring up our clubs, though, when we take too big a divot.

I must remind you, though, that the main reason for coming to Hawaii is to relish the sun, sights, and scenery, not to spend a half day playing golf. But who can tell a golfer that?

For I will satisfy the weary soul.—(Jer. 31:25).

It is agreed that we need to communicate with our fellowmen in order to establish a good world. Could it be that we need to communicate with our Christ in dwelling in order to establish a good life? Prayer helps us to commune with our Christ self; prayer brings involvement with the Spirit within. As we pray we discover that there is no longer self and Christ, but a merging into one. Our life is no longer empty, but satisfied and purposeful.
