

J. R. NO. 10. A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON NOVEMBER 4, 1930

Proposed by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Section 5 of Article III of the Constitution of the State be amended so as to hereinafter read as follows:

The Legislature shall meet every two years at such time as may be provided by law and, at other times when convened by the Governor. When convened in regular Session, the first thirty days thereof shall be devoted to the introduction of resolutions, acting upon appropriations, passing upon confirmation of the recess of the Governor and such other matters as may be submitted by the Governor in special messages to the Legislature during the week with relatives.

They returned home Saturday, August the second. They are making their home with his parents until the present crop is gathered.

Opal and Cleveland were born and reared in Knox City. They are fine children and unusually well thought of by Knox City people. This fact was expressed recently in the handsome shower given for Opal on the lawn of the Baptist church.

Knox City is joined by the Herald in wishing for this young couple every happiness.

TO THE PUBLIC:

The official count of the vote cast in the primary election of Saturday, July 26 by the Democratic Executive Committee of the county, today, confirms the preliminary tabulation given out from the various polling places, with no appreciable changes, showing a substantial total but nevertheless a failure upon my part to get into the run-off.

The loyalty with which my friends supported me throughout the past campaign is truly refreshing and most certainly deserving of my personal thanks, and I assure you that if it were possible to know you I should hasten to make a personal tender of the deepest gratitude of which I am capable.

The remainder of my present official term will proceed with the usual even tender, with no attempt upon my part to even up political scores, but will be characterized by the same devotion to the general interests of Knox County that you have a right to expect; and I confidently crave your co-operation to that end.

This August 2nd, A. D., 1930. Respectfully, Oliver W. Lee

W. M. U. ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

At a business meeting of the Womens Missionary Union held Monday in the home of Mrs. Claude Stovall new officers for the ensuing year were elected. They are as follows: President, Mrs. E. O. Jamison; 1st Vice President, Mrs. John Dutton; 2nd V. P., Mrs. Pressa Clarke Secy., Mrs. John Darnell; Treasurer, Mrs. Finley; Reporter, Mrs. Joe Averett.

The Union is starting a new Mission Study book next Monday and the officers urge all the members to be present.

The Union had two new members at the last meeting. There were 25 or more present Monday afternoon.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the voters of Knox County for their generous support given me in my race for State Senator in the recent Democratic primary election. The reports from the district show that I received a larger vote than any of the other Senatorial candidates in the race.

In the run-off primary I expect to make the race on the same high plane and with the same energy that I did in the first primary.

I desire to ask that the voters, whether they cast their ballots in the first primary for me or not, give me their votes on August the 23rd.

Ben G. Oneal

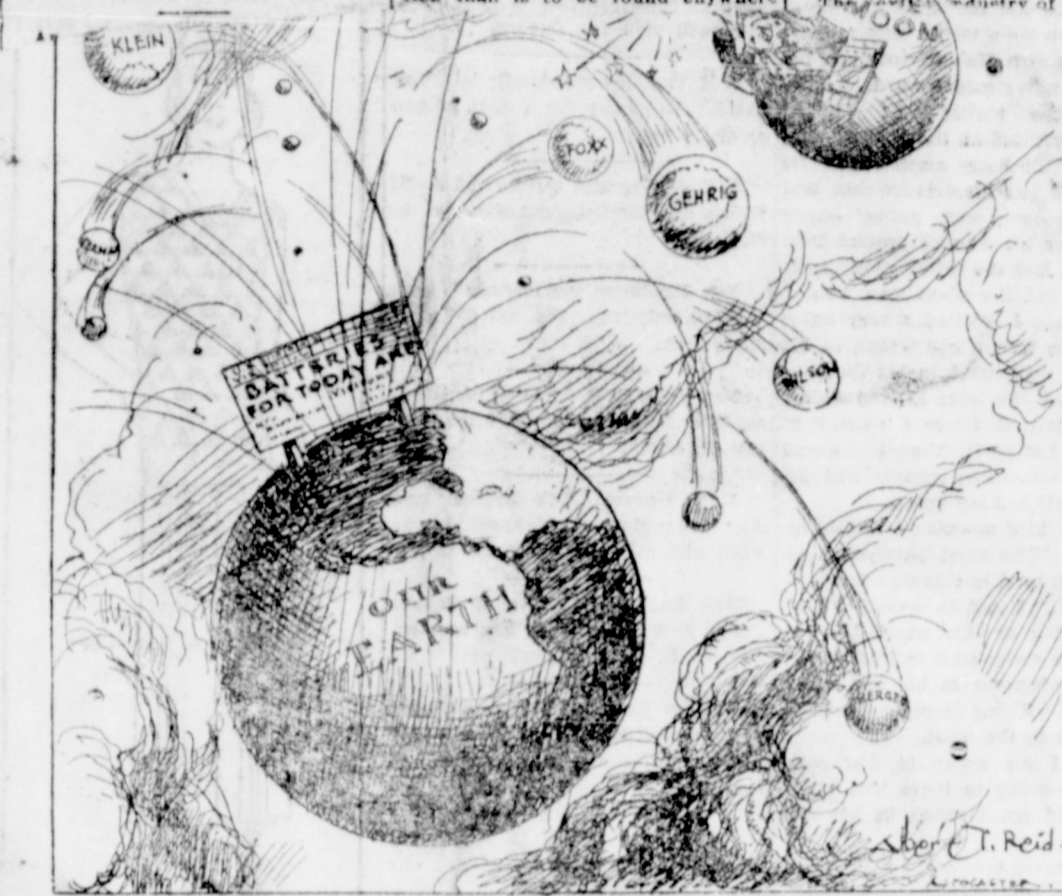

The Revival meeting now in progress at Smith Chapel is doing fine. The Reverend W. H. Albertson of Monday is doing the preaching. Report is received by the Herald that the services are fine and the attendance good.

The first "teachergage" in Texas was built in Guadalupe County, and Texas now leads all the states in their number and value with 1,292 for white and 37 for negro teachers. The one at McAllen, costing $40,000 is the costliest, but the average cost is $1,160 for whites and $1500 for negroes.

Upon arriving at the desired location a number of the children visited the creek just west of the school building and took a swim. At the same time the older one in the bunch arranged the tables and spread the supper. It was bountiful. High bowls of fried chicken, twenty or thirty in number, helped to decorate the table. Interspersed with salads, sandwiches, pickles, olives, potato chips, cakes, pies and numerous other dishes. Who could refrain from almost eating to much.

Following the meal the dishes were cleared away, the rubbish cleared from the ground and burned and interesting contests engaged in. Mrs. E. Q. Warren and Mrs. Lee Smith, game and contest committee, presented some of the most interesting contests known to the group. There was a contest for each sex and group present. The children led the number in a show racing contest. Following the women were ushered into a contest in which they had to balance a can on the head and walk a certain distance. It is needless to say that Mrs. Holt Moseley won.

One of the most entertained contests was that put on by the men. They were lined up and each given a farm animal to imitate. Impersonating one at the time the men went through the entire barn yard to the front gate where the dog was barking. This was well put on.

Following other group games the social hour was ended by a song, "Bless Be The Tie That Binds" led by Mr. Graham.

Misses Jewell and Jean Brown of Rochester were guests of Miss Elizabeth Griffith Sunday.

RESOLUTION NUMBER 2

WHEREAS, it has come to the attention of the State Firemen's and Fire Marshall's Association in convention assembled in the city of San Angelo, Texas, on June 19 to June 22, inclusive, that the local Fire Marshall in many of the towns and cities of Texas is serving in the capacity without pay; and

WHEREAS, the importance of the office of City Fire Marshall has become a very important public office within the past few years due to the development and growth of the State and for the further reason that the fire loss of this State has greatly increased each year to the point that said loss has reached startling proportions in that it is costing the people of Texas many thousands of dollars each year;

Well, I have not finished the first bottle before I realized I had at last struck the right medicine for my improvement was remarkable. He had had the satisfaction of his outburst, but the silent man won. Years ago I received a very bitter letter. The writer was wrong in his facts and unjustified in his tone.

I carried the letter around in my pocket. Several times I started to dictate a hot reply. Then I would think of something meaner and decide to wait and try again.

On the third morning I had an inspiration. "The most paralyzing answer I can send to this man is no answer at all," I said to myself. "What is he doing at this time? Looking eagerly in every mail to find my letter. Planning out in his mind the things he will say in reply. Mentally lashing me to the mast.

Peace came over me. I never thought of the man again.

The experienced knitter will need little more than suggestions to see how the pattern is worked out. First there is a band of the lighter material—or the darker—done in ribbing the familiar knit one, purl one of way time knitting. Then the contrasting color is introduced. To start one of the pyramid designs one knits seven stitches of the dark and then one of light, seven of the dark and one of light all the way round. The worsted of the alternate tone is not broken but simply carried along on the wrong side. There are two rows of the seven-one count, then two of five three, two of three-five and two of one-seven.

The neck and armholes are finished with a band of the light worsted and this is most conveniently done by means of crochet.

Hens Produce Tenth Of Farm Income

More Than One Third of Whole World's Poultry Found in This Country

By CALEB JOHNSON

As in almost everything else, the United States leads the world in poultry and egg production.

Poultry are raised everywhere in the world. Everybody eats eggs. But one third of all the world's domestic poultry are in this country. We have five hens to every human being, which is a very much higher proportion than is to be found anywhere else.

This is one branch of agriculture that is not confined to farms. As everybody knows, residents of villages and of the suburbs of cities are as frequently as not found keeping "backyard" flocks of poultry. Some thing more than a half million such backyard flocks are estimated by the Federal Department of Agriculture, which has computed the total number of farm flocks at 5 1/2 million, or a total of about 6,000,000 flocks in all.

Poultry is raised on more than 36 per cent of the farms of the country. About 85 per cent of the flocks are raised on general farms inflocks of 50 to 400 hens, principally in the grain-producing north central states.

The number of chickens on farms in 1929 was about 42,000,000 with a value of $540,000,000. The income from chickens and eggs amounted to about 10 per cent of all farm income in 1928, being estimated at $71,000,000 for eggs and $458,000,000 chickens or a total of $1,175,000,000 out of a total of $11,827,000,000 from farm production. Poultry products were exceeded in value in 1928 by only four other farm products—corn, milk, swine and cotton. Over 2,500,000,000 dozen eggs and more than 500,000,000 chicks are produced annually.

The poultry industry of the United States represents on the one hand a widely distributed enterprise supplemental to general farming, and on the other hand a high degree of specialization in commercial plants. In production sections near the large cities on the Atlantic seaboard and in the Pacific coast States of California, Oregon and Washington, there are areas in which commercial poultry production predominates. In other localities, the keeping of poultry for breeding stock and for the production of eggs for hatching is important, the baby chicks being sold to those who keep both large and small flocks for commercialized egg production.

Throughout the farm-production areas as well as in the commercial poultry districts are many highly specialized egg-packing plants, poultry-feeding and slaughtering plants, poultry-canning plants, and egg-breaking plants, while cold-storage warehouses are devoted to an important extent to the storing of poultry products.

Although the industry is made up primarily of producers and handlers of chickens, eggs, the turkey, duck and goose production is also important. Few products are as widely distributed and consumed as poultry meat and eggs.

The poultry industry has developed for a small beginning when the first settlers brought fowls to North America, and the production of poultry for meat and eggs has been an important course of food supply for the cities for over 100 years. The commercial development of plants devoted to poultry raising alone increased attention was given to breeding, feeding, and management. In about 1873 standards were developed, and in 1874 the first standard of perfection was printed. Beginning about the year 1880, hatching in incubators on a large scale developed and in 1916 the International Baby Chick Association was organized.

In the early history of the poultry industry the egg market offered the main stimulus to better methods. In this land of abundant meat supplies, eggs were more of a luxury than poultry. Until the development of cold storage, marketing was limited by the lack of means of preservation. Eggs were often preserved by immersion in lime-water and were sometimes preserved in ice houses. As facilities became available cold storage came into more general use as a means of preserving the surplus production of the Spring months for consumption in Summer and Fall. The introduction of the 30-dozen egg case to displace the barrel about 1880, was a considerable economy. The production of dressed poultry for market was greatly stimulated by the use of refrigeration for transportation and storage.

Poultry raising occupies an important place in the organization of North American farms. Not only is poultry raised on about 90 per cent of the farms, but on many farms poultry products are one of the best paying products.

The value of eggs represents about 57 per cent and the value of poultry meat about 43 per cent of the total value of all poultry products. Chickens contribute about 95 per cent of the value of all poultry products and are the only class of poultry raised extensively for the production of eggs, all other classes being raised primarily for the production of meat.

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

Being utterly human I am truly grateful for the splendid vote I received Saturday July 26. As I have said to most of you personally I have done my very best to perform the duties of Commissioner and I am thankful for this expression of appreciation. When re-elected I shall spare no effort to do my official duty, alike to the man who supported my opponent, as well as my most ardent supporter. Again I thank you.

This August 2nd, A. D. 1930.

Respectfully,
Wm. Griffith.

FRAUDS
The Federal Government has begun an active campaign against false, fraudulent and misleading advertising. The Federal Trade Commission has announced a policy of holding newspapers and magazines responsible equally with the advertisers.

One result has been the cleaning up of the advertising columns of the less responsible publications in the past few months. Another result has been to send advertising frauds, especially medical quacks, into radio broadcasting.

Sooner or later broadcasting will have to be regulated, too.

CIGARETTES
The prejudice against cigarettes seems to have practically disappeared. The report of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for the year which ended on June 30th last, shows the largest consumption of cigarettes in history, nearly one hundred and twenty billion of them having been sold during the year. That is an average of 1,000 cigarettes a year for every man, woman and child in the United States!

The idea that cigarette smoking is more injurious to health than the use of tobacco in other forms is still held in some quarters, but medical men generally do not take it very seriously.

Cigarette smoking by women is now commonplace, though until the war there was only one restaurant in New York that permitted women to smoke within its walls.

POLITICS
After all the sound and fury over the ratification of the Naval Reduction treaty, just nine Senators voted against it.

By the noise they made, and the amount of space which the newspapers gave to the opponents of the treaty, most people were expecting, if not defeat of the treaty, at least a very close vote. In Washington everybody knew better. There never was any real doubt that the treaty would be ratified. All the uproar was merely personal and partisan politics.

The trouble with two-thirds of the so-called "news" that comes out of Washington is that it is misleading. It gives the impression that little men are big men, that their words are intended to be taken seriously.

HOMES
Home building is on the increase, according to the Home Owners Institute of America. Regions where there has been no shortage of housing facilities are now beginning to feel a demand for new homes.

This is a particularly favorable time in which to build a house, the Institute states. Building materials are lower than at any time since 1922, and financing companies, savings banks and other money-lending institutions are making more liberal loans for home building, and on easier terms.

Practically every new home is built with borrowed money. Most people hold that it is better to have a "permanent" mortgage on one's home than to own it free and clear. In most communities it is easier to sell property with a mortgage on it than otherwise, and there is less of the home-owner's individual capital tied up in a house which cannot be turned into cash in an emergency.

CREDIT
A few years ago the principal grocer in the suburban town where I was living began to raise his prices. After a few months my family found it so much cheaper to go across the railroad to the "cash and carry" store that they transferred all their trade there. Our old grocer stopped me on the street one day and asked whether he had failed to give satisfaction. I told him I was satisfied with everything but his prices.

He explained that so many rich people had moved into the suburb that he had to charge more, because, as he explained, the rich took so long to pay their bills! My next door neighbor, reputed a millionaire, had not settled his grocery bill for three years. Instead of refusing to sell him, the grocer was so afraid of losing the "millionaire trade" that he tried to make me, and others like me, who bought for cash, pay interest on the debts of the wealthy.

I was reminded of this by seeing a report of the Department of Commerce on retail trade failures, in which it is stated that a principal cause is the extension of credit. It seems incredible that there are people who do not pay for the food they eat, but apparently there are a good many of them.

TWO LOVERS
By George Elliot

Two lovers by a moss-grown spring:
They leaned soft cheeks together
There.

Mingled the dark and sunny hair
And heard the wooing thrushes sing.
O budding time!
O love's blest prime!

Two wedded from the portal step:
The bells made happy carolings,
The air was soft as fanning wings,
White petals on the pathway slept.
O pure-eyed bride!
O tender pride!

Two faces o'er cradle bent:
Two hands above the were locked
These pressed each other while they rocked,
Those watched a life that love had
O solemn hour!
O hidden power!

Two parents by the evening fire:
The red light fell about their knees
On heads that rose by slow degrees
Like buds upon the lily spire.
O patient life!
O tender strife!

The two still sat together there,
The red light shone about their knees,
But all the heads by slow degrees
had gone and left the lonely pair.
O voyage fast!
O vanished strife!

The red light shone upon the floor
And made the space between them wide;
They drew their chairs up side by side,
Their pale cheeks joined, and said,
'Once more!
O memories!
O past that is!

ATHLETE REGAINS HEALTH BY NEW KONJOLA

Baseball Player Suffering From Rheumatism and Other Ailments Finds Prompt Relief

MR. JACK M. LONG

"For over two years I suffered from rheumatism," said Mr. Jack M. Long, 511 Burnett Street, Fort Worth. "My legs and back were affected so much that I could not carry on my work as a baseball player. Finally I was forced to remain in my home for three months. I had attacks of indigestion and my kidneys gave me no end of trouble; the pains in my back were terrible. I was forced to rise many times nightly and became very nervous."

"I tried many remedies without result when a friend recommended Konjola. After taking seven bottles, I was able to resume my work in the K. I. C. League as a ball player. The rheumatism pains have completely vanished and my stomach is in perfect condition. My kidneys are again normal and I do not have to rise at night. The pains have left my back and my nerves are strong. Konjola restored me to perfect health."

Although many men and women state that one or two bottles brought relief, it is recommended that six or eight bottles be taken to obtain the best results.

Konjola is sold in Knox City by the Orient Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

WHAT DR. O. J. EMERY LEARNED YEAR

A physician with constipation for 47 years that no matter how much laxatives and exercise, relief would occur from time to time, the next importance, then, is how to get it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell was in favor of getting as close to the cause as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound that can not harm the system and habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not apply drastic physics and purges. He believed they were good for the system. In a practice of 47 years never saw any reason for their use. Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels as promptly.

Do not let a day go by with bowel movement. Do not sit and but go to the nearest druggist and one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Ill. for free trial bottle.

Hens Produce Tenth Of Farm Income

More Than One Third of Whole
World's Poultry Found in This Country

By CALEB JOHNSON

As in almost everything else, the United States leads the world in poultry and egg production.

Poultry are raised everywhere in the world. Everybody eats eggs. But one third of all the world's domestic poultry are in this country. We have five hens to every human being which is a very much higher proportion than is to be found anywhere else.

This is one branch of agriculture that is not confined to farms. As everybody knows, residents of villages and of the suburbs of cities are as frequently as not found keeping "backyard" flocks of poultry. Some thing more than a half million such backyard flocks are estimated by the Federal Department of Agriculture, which has computed the total number of farm flocks at 5 1/2 million, or a total of about 6,000,000 flocks in all.

Poultry is raised on more than 86 per cent of the farms of the country. About 85 per cent of the fowls are raised on general farms inflocks of 50 to 400 hens, principally in the grain producing north central states.

The number of chickens on farms in 1929 was about 442,000,000 with a value of $540,000,000. The income from chickens and eggs amounted to about 10 per cent of all farm income in 1928, being estimated at $71,-

000,000 for eggs and $458,000,000 chickens or a total of $1,175,000,000 out of a total of $11,827,000,000 from farm production. Poultry products were exceeded in value in 1928 by only four other farm products—corn, milk, swine and cotton. Over 2,500,000,000 dozen eggs and more than 500,000,000 chicks are produced annually.

The poultry industry of the United States represents on the one hand a widely distributed enterprise supplemental to general farming, and on the other hand a high degree of specialization in commercial plants. In production sections near the large cities on the Atlantic seaboard and in the Pacific coast States of California, Oregon and Washington, there are areas in which commercial poultry production predominates. In other localities, the keeping of poultry for breeding stock and for the production of eggs for hatching is important, the baby chicks being sold to those who keep both large and small flocks for commercialized egg production.

Throughout the farm-production areas as well as in the commercial poultry districts are many highly specialized egg-packing plants, poultry-feeding and slaughtering plants, poultry-canning plants, and egg-breaking plants, while cold-storage warehouses are devoted to an important extent to the storing of poultry products.

Although the industry is made up primarily of producers and handlers of chickens eggs, the turkey, duck and goose production is also important. Few products are as widely distributed and consumed as poultry meat and eggs.

The poultry industry has developed for a small beginning when the first settlers brought fowls to North America, and the production of poultry for meat and eggs has been an important source of food supply for the cities for over 100 years. The commercial development of plants devoted to poultry raising along the coast created attention was given to breeding, feeding, and management. In about 1873 standards were developed, and in 1871 the first standard of perfection was printed. Beginning about the year 1890, hatching in incubators on a large scale developed, and in 1916 the International Baby Chick Association was organized.

In the early history of the poultry industry the egg market offered the main stimulus to better methods. In this land of abundant meat supplies, eggs were more of a luxury than poultry. Until the development of cold storage, marketing was limited by the lack of means of preservation. Eggs were often preserved by immersion in lime-water and were sometimes preserved in ice houses. As facilities became available cold storage came into more general use as a means of preserving the surplus production of the Spring months for consumption in Summer and Fall. The introduction of the 30-dozen egg case to displace the barrel about 1880, was a considerable economy. The production of dressed poultry for market was greatly stimulated by the use of refrigeration for transportation and storage.

Poultry raising occupies an important place in the organization of North American farms. Not only is poultry raised on about 86 per cent of the farms, but on many farms poultry products are one of the best paying products.

The value of eggs represents about 57 per cent and the value of poultry meat about 43 per cent of the total value of all poultry products. Chickens contribute about 95 per cent of the value of all poultry products and are the only class of poultry raised extensively for the production of eggs, all other classes being raised primarily for the production of meat.

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.
