SENATOR ROBERTS SAYS FIVE MILLION DOLLARS CAN BE SAVED STATE

Austin, Feb. 28.—Failure of the Texas Legislature to bring out onto the floor of the House or Senate any kind of a tax measure during the first forty-five days of the current regular session, coupled with the fact that no sizeable tax measure has been passed by the Legislature for more than two years, indicates to many experienced Austin observers that the people of Texas are at last realizing that there must be a stopping point somewhere in the imposition of new State taxes.

The session this weekend is more than one-third gone, and introduction of new bills in the House from now on will require a suspension of the rules, under a four-fifths favorable vote. The House committees on taxation and revenue and on constitutional amendments are still considering a number of tax bills, ranging from the O'Daniel transaction tax to a few "single shot bills to tax this or that particular item. Included are plans to impose a sales tax on consumers both by constitutional amendment and by simple statute. The long delay in bringing out any tax bill to the floor increases the possibility that no new taxes at all will reach enactment before adjournment at the end of 120 days, many observers here believe.

Meanwhile, economy moves, while not receiving nearly so much publicity as taxes and pensions, are making good progress and, in the opinion of Sen. Morris Roberts, of Pettus, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee—the upper chamber's spending group—there now exists the best chance in ten years to effect some real efficiency and economy in the State government.

"I believe we have the best chance we have ever had to accomplish some real economy now," Senator Roberts said, "if the people will back up the legislators who are working to that end. This year, the House appropriations committee and the Senate finance committee are working harmoniously together on the regular appropriation bills, and unless I am badly mistaken we are going to save the taxpayers about $5,000,000 in the biennial appropriations. And we are not going to impair the efficiency of any State department or service. Our plan is to continue the appropriations for the higher educational institutions at about the same level as last biennium, deferring for some time certain building requests from the colleges. The elementary institutions will require somewhat higher appropriations, but I am convinced that we can cut $2,500,000 a year from the departmental appropriation bill, by abolishing useless departments and useless employees, without reducing service or cutting the pay of those State workers who are retained. We have had fine cooperation from several departments in this plan, notably the Liquor Control Board and the Railroad Commission, both of which have voluntarily reduced their payrolls substantially. The committee expects to follow closely the estimates of the Board of Control, and if the appropriation bills that we pass out are adopted without substantial increases, we shall accomplish some savings that will be surprising and gratifying to those who pay the tax bill."

Sen. Roberts pointed to three legislative measures, all related, which he declared form the keystone of real financial reform for the State. These are bills providing for the appointment of a State Auditor by the legislature, creating an efficient department of budgetary control, and the consolidation of many of the 105 separate departmental treasury accounts, all receiving favorable consideration. He also pointed to the lack of requests for large deficiency appropriations from many departments this year, in contrast to other years as another sign of progress in economical administration of the State's financial affairs.

HASKELL COUNTY YOUTH WHO DEMANDED $2000.00 FROM A. J. MALOUF IN JAIL AT DALLAS

Makes Confession Forty Eight Hours After Extortion Letter Received Culprit Behind Bars

Dallas, March 1.—E. E. Conroy, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office here, today announced the arrest of a farm youth, Clarence A. Gauntt, 18, in connection with an alleged attempt to extort $2,000 from A. J. Malouf, wealthy Knox City merchant.

Conroy said Malouf received a letter mailed from O'Brien Feb. 23, in which he was warned his daughter, La Rue, 9, would be harmed if he did not pay $2,000.

The youth, described by Conroy as the son of a wealthy Rochester farmer, was arrested by City Marshall Jim Stephens of Knox City and FBI agents Tuesday night at O'Brien.

Conroy said he had signed a statement in connection with the case, and that he would be brought before a United States commissioner here this afternoon for formal filing of charges.

Conroy said the youth was married and the father of a 5-months old child. The youth told the federal agent he wrote the letter because he needed money.

The federal agent refused to say what pointed the finger of suspicion at the youth in custody. But Conroy did say the extortion letter was mailed at O'Brien and directed that the money be placed at a point about 400 yards from the home of the suspect.

Conroy gave out parts of the letter in which the writer said: "If you do not do this as instructed, when you least expect it you will never see your youngest child again."

At another point the letter said "beware, do this or your youngest child will never live to be eighteen."

The letter specified that the payoff was to be made between 9 and 10 p.m. on the night of February 24.

Maximum penalty under the charge is 20 years in the penitentiary or $5,000 fine, or both, Conroy said.

Immediately upon receipt of the letter, Malouf notified the Knox City officers and FBI headquarters in Dallas. A guard was sent to the Malouf home in Phoenix, Ariz., where lived Mrs. Malouf and the couple's children.

Friends of Malouf in Knox City said last night the merchant had left by plane for Phoenix Saturday.

The extortion letter, officers said, was written on regular tablet paper in neat handwriting. Only misspelled word was the name of the merchant.

KNOX CITY BOY LEADS IN PONY EXPRESS DERBY TO SAN FRANCISCO

Officers working on the case said they believed at the start, the letter was the work of an amateur because the writer repeated directions as to where to place the money and repeated the threats.

The extortion note directed that the $2,000, in bills of $1 to $100 denomination, be put in a cigar box in a culvert "10 telephone poles north of" a certain cross road north of Rochester about 2 1/2 miles. A culvert was found at the exact spot described.

Officers working with FBI agents and Stephens included Sheriff Louis Cartwright of Benjamin, Orvel Capehart, deputy sheriff, City Marshall Doss Fuller of Rule and Constable Ollie Kitley of Rule.

Wichita Falls, March 1.—California bound pony express riders, road-weary and bereft of their only woman competitor finished 72 miles of hard traveling at Archer City tonight.

Shorty Hudson of Knox City came in at the head of the strung-out riders. The runner-up, Taylor Tuck, fainted just as he reached Archer City and gave away second place to Shannon Davidson of Paducah.

Bennie Greenwood of Nocona, the lone feminine contestant for the $750 prize, was forced out of the race for riding in an automobile. Her disqualification, however, won't prevent her from riding on to the fair.

Seventeen saddle-wise cowboys and the 16 year old girl sprinted out of Nocona this morning when the starting pistol was fired by Amon Carter, Fort Worth publisher.

SPEAKING AT SUNSET

We have been requested to announce that County Judge E. L. Covey will speak to the voters at Sunset Friday night, explaining the bond election that will be held in this precinct soon. Judge Covey informed us that he is not trying to influence the voters as to how they should vote, but only desires to give them the facts and figures in regard to the financial condition of the county and this road precinct. He says he does not intend to take sides in this issue, but believes the voters are entitled to know the true situation and then vote as they desire. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

UNION GROVE NEWS

The 4-H Club met in the home of Mrs. W. H. Lankford, Wednesday, Feb. 22. After discussing old and new business the program was turned over to Miss Astin. She gave a very interesting demonstration on fruit cookery. A delightful refreshment plate was served to Mrs. W. H. Littlepage, J. C. McGee, Cloys Littlepage, Tom Loper, W. D. Loper, Top White, and Bill Wilson, and Misses Alice Wilson, Cornie Hodges, Oleta Humphries, Kanova Loper and Florene Cornett. The meeting adjourned at 5 p.m.

Miss Viola Franklin of Guthrie has returned home after a visit with her sister, Mrs. J. S. Wilson.

Mr. Paul Fitzgerald is visiting his sisters in Pecos, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cornett spent the first of the week on the Plains.

Miss Dollie B. Hodges spent the week end with Miss Ina-leen Williams.

Mrs. Jane Fields is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Hodges.

Sunday afternoon the Knox County Singing Convention met in the Union Grove schoolhouse with a large attendance.

We are sorry to state that Mrs. Howard Griffith's condition remains unchanged.

Mrs. G. B. Cornett and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wren of Ranger spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cornett and family.

Sheriff Louis Cartwright was here Wednesday from Benjamin and called at our office. The sheriff is getting a long time from the fight he had with the prisoners two weeks ago. His head is badly banged up, but he is able to attend to his official duties.

District Attorney Lewis Williams was here a few hours Tuesday from Benjamin. He says that the regular term of district court is almost over at Benjamin.

Mesdames Ethel Goodyear of Anson, Bill Garrison and Ed Spurgeon of Abilene, sisters of Mrs. H. M. Warren, visited her the first of the week. Mrs. Warren has been dangerously ill the past few weeks.

HOGG DRAFTED FOR MAYOR

The many friends of Mayor C. C. Hoge have again drafted him for Mayor and his name has already been filed with the city secretary. Mayor Hoge is serving his first term and has made a wonderful record. As there are several WPA projects before the city at the present time his friends thought it best to have him serve another two years as Mayor. He was not a candidate for the position but said he would serve if his friends decided to elect him. As far as the editor can learn there will be no one to oppose him.

DIRECTORS MEETING

The directors of the O'Brien Cooperative Gin Company will hold their annual stockholders meeting Saturday, March 11, at O'Brien. This is one of the best gins in this section of the state and it ginned 3,800 bales of cotton last fall. Sam Reed, the manager, did not say how much dividend the gin would pay its stockholders.

Alf Gray of Benjamin was here today.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, acidity or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less known.

It Was Probably Mutual

By IRVIN S. COBB

IN THESE days of nightclubs and expensive theaters this story can best be appreciated by those whose kind lot it is to live beyond the pale haze of the metropolis.

In Derby, Connecticut, lived two brothers who while not exactly Damon and Pythias were none the less prone to advising each other on affairs relating to the fair sex. "John," said one of the brothers, "I have a very delicate and personal question to ask you. If I take a girl out for the evening and show her a good time at the movies and on the way home buy her an ice-cream soda, do you think I should kiss her when I tell her good-bye?" "I should say not," answered his brother. "Don't you kiss her, You've done quite enough for her."

MEDITATION

It is indeed a sad feeling when meditation puts a friendly yet warning grip on your mental being. Those moments come with rare frequency, yet when they do come they yield untold benefit. To meditate is not painful, yet there is derived from deep thought a pain that is not of physical being or detection.

We, as Seniors, are classed as those who are fully qualified to give thought of action in regard to the future. As we graduate, we are more or less leaving home grounds and entering upon new fields of exploitation. Now is the time for us to prepare for the use of strategy in those new fields to be conquered.

Very soon we will be more or less on our own. Our efforts will yield us financial and social prominence. So far we have climbed life's ladder without a major mishap. We should not want to fall to the bottom now after we have such a good start. To finish our education here is not the end. Our desires reach out to every corner of the earth. We will be able to fulfill most of these desires through work and hard struggle.

I, speaking for myself and my fellow students, am going to try to achieve success. To speak of success does not imply that success is easy—yet success is not difficult. You only have to acquire a portion of what is called ambition. When you acquire that factor, all you have to do is to enforce and fulfill your aims to the utmost.

I do not want it to appear that the Senior class is the only body that can achieve success. I, in my own small way, am trying to voice the sentiments of the entire class and the general student body of which I am only a very small part. I only want to pay tribute to a class which has made a record to be proud of and of which I am a life-long member.

Graduation is very near. Some of us are dreading to leave the old school of which we have been a part so long. But the world holds new stores for us; all we have to do is uncover them. We, as students, are on parade. It is our duty to see that the parade is kept resplendent with flashes of color and gaiety. In doing that, we are sure that we have done our bit to make life worth living. To uphold traditions, ideals and morals is our aim. When we do that, we can be classed as those who did our utmost to further the cause of the passing parade.

DEBATERS PUT UP GOOD FIGHT

Last Thursday the debaters from the Rochester high school were visitors in Knox City and engaged in a verbal battle with the teams from our own student body.

The visiting teams were victorious in both the boys' and girls' divisions, but they did not gain an easy victory. Billy Dean Davis and Henry Jean Jones gave the Rochester boys some stiff competition, while Marie Darr and Doris Elaine Clonts brought out many good points in their arguments for the retail sales tax.

The entire student body found the debates very interesting as well as educational. Everyone hopes that the home team will keep up their fine spirit and interest and go still farther toward success.

SONGS THAT FIT

We have come to the conclusion that the time has come for the students to make known their favorite songs, which always just happen to fit the occasion.

We will begin by telling you that Doyle Graham's song is "The Milkmaid's Dream"; Mary Helen Evans, "Baby Face"; Annalu Warren, "Alone"; Jean Anne Smith, "She's Tall, She's Tan, She's Terrific"; Odell Carver, "Flat Foot Floogie"; Paul Edward Benedict and David Clarke, "I Wish That You Were Twins"; Geneva Walker, "Sweet Little Headache"; Glenn Huntsman, "Why Do I Love You"; Wynette Farmer, "Million Dollar Baby"; Nina Mae Davis, "Satan Takes a Holiday"; Mary Frances Reeder, "Baby Won't You Please Come Home"; Dale Graham, "You Can't Go to Church on Sunday Morning and Then Go Truckin' on Sunday Night"; Faye Heath, "Twilight in Turkey"; Bebe Daniels, "Small Fry"; Geneva Mills, "I Makes No Difference Now"; Johnny Carver, "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush"; Melvin Dutton, "My Brown Eyed Texas Rose"; Edna Warren, "That Old Feeling"; and Sammie Woodward, "Bye Bye Blues."

That's all for this time folks.

TRACK STARTS

The center of attention is now focused upon track. Last week the call for track boys was made, and many responded. Our greatest hopes lie in the track team to bring home the honors that it did last year. Due to bad weather, the boys have not been able to come out as was expected.

Plans for equipment are now being executed. Hurdles are being built and the track is to be dragged. Track shoes and pants are now being ordered. It will not be long until the boys will be in their warming up exercises.

A lot depends upon our track team. Last year Knox City carried away top honors in the track meet of the county. This year we hope to repeat last year's performance. With plenty of training and a build-up of interest, we will be able to do it. More power to the track team!

THINKING OUT LOUD

(By Lynn Landrum in Dallas News)

Speaking of Taxes

It is pretty plain that the man who wrote the tax message of the Governor didn't actually want a transaction tax in this state, didn't expect a transaction tax in this state, and didn't expect the Governor to stand hunched on the transaction tax if the issue got down to the transaction tax or some other tax.

Of course, everybody is fairly well satisfied that the Governor didn't compose his own message. The man who wrote that message knows more about taxation than W. Lee O'Daniel has had time to learn in his brief contact with governmental affairs. A man who has paid one poll tax in recent years isn't the sort of man who can write a clever, confusing and unconfused message on taxation. Governor O'Daniel had skilled aid in that message. But it may not have been disinterested skill.

Governor O'Daniel is not to be set down as a boob because he accepted assistance in a field in which he is singularly unlearned. Reflect that there are some things you don't know, yourself.

Dissecting the Message

Consider the inwardness of the message.

(1) Governor O'Daniel did not invent the old-age pension issue—he merely rode it into office. (2) At the time when he expected to sell flour by his campaign—and not to be elected at all—he promised to find a way to raise the money. (3) The O'Daniel landslide was a surprise to O'Daniel himself—so much so that he was utterly unprepared to propose anything to fulfill his promises to the old people until he had consulted his advisers. (4) There is no practical plan which at the same time will (a) raise forty or fifty million dollars a year and (b) not seriously injure many Texans. (5) A proposal of an utterly preposterous plan was and is the easiest out for a man pledged to propose a plan. (6) The more the Legislature refuses to vote for a transaction tax the more the Governor can demand that the Legislature better his plan

REG'LAR FELLERS

Hope Some Kid Doesn't See That

By Gene Byrnes

—putting the pressure of the backs of the lawmakers. (7) Already the Governor is able to pour into the laps of the House and Senate the gimme-crut mail he has received from all Texans who are willing to take $30 a month of the other fellow's money for the balance of their natural lives.

The message passes the buck but it does not pass the transaction tax. It makes the Townsendites of Texas a vest-pocket vote for W. Lee O'Daniel. It might even be the basis of a candidacy of our friend, the yodeling floursack man, on a plane not hitherto contemplated by the day-to-day newspaper reader.

There is no law, you know, against a Governor of Texas who would like to run for President in 1940 on a modified ham-and-egg platform, plus the Ten Commandments, plus Home Sweet Home, plus a solemn endorsement of at least one yolk in every egg and one doorknob on every door. If Huey Long had lived—well, you haven't forgotten Huey already have you?

The New Deal is sagging in the middle and popping at all the seams right now. The millenium bloc is going to need another Great & Good Man pretty soon. What is wrong with a G & GM who can wow 'em over the radio and throw in a medicine show for good measure with camp meetin' music and mount'in music to suit?

The highbrows have mused up the millenium dreadfully. But the lowbrows still want it.

Well, the floursack was never a high-brow flag.

Deadpan or Dumb?

If you read these lines carefully, you will see that while they assume that Governor O'Daniel is capable of some murkiness of ideas on the subject of practical taxation it is no part of this column's intention to imply that the Governor is more than average on the dumb side.

The truth is that no successful business man could be as dumb as the Governor sometimes allows himself to appear. It is hard to resist the thought that possibly the Governor has adopted a deadpan countenance and innocency role in this political poker game to help make up for his unfamiliarity with the cards.

With one card, however, he is familiar. He knows that the radio is the deuce and he plays his deuces wild—holding all the deuces.

"CROSS PATCH"

By Vee Lawnhurst and Tot Seymour

Vee Lawnhurst began as a pianist, became one of Roxy's Gang, and turned composer by chance as a result of introducing lyric writer Tot Seymour, to a young composer.

Their publisher had asked for a fast rhythm song. Vee had the piano pulled close to the phone, and played her idea of "Cross Patch" to Tot in Atlantic City.

BIRTH OF A SONG

Tot and Vee formed the first combination of women songwriters in the professional field. Their first song was "Sunday Go To Meetin' Time." It was successful so they continued their song partnership.

Tot Seymour listened to the tune and wrote down a dummy lyric. She returned to New York a few days later with the completed song. The team polished up the song till they were satisfied, and submitted it.

Tot went away for a rest in Atlantic City. Miss Seymour became amused at a bad-tempered chap, and suddenly the idea of the song "Cross Patch" came to her.

Their publisher accepted it and was perform

by Joseph R. Flesler and Paul Carruth

She promptly called her partner, and gave her the idea. Vee was quick to respond. Composers are like that, sometimes, quick to respond, quick to condemn.

THINKING OUT LOUD

(By Lynn Landrum in Dallas News)

Antidiscrimination Bill

Do you remember the NRA codes? Well, they'll be back in the retail trade in Texas, if the antidiscrimination bill goes through in its present form. The theory of the antidiscrimination bill is that you, Mr. Consumer, are mortally wounded when somebody sells you something at a cut price.

Indeed, the consumer is so desperately hurt, in the mind of the framers of the bill that a public emergency is declared in order that there shall be no delay about the enactment of protection from the calamity of paying too little for what the consumer buys.

Austin is asked to do pretty nearly everything except bring Hugh Johnson back to tell you what a parallelepipedon you are for wanting three packages of chewing gum for a dime.

Who Runs Your Business

Every time the State makes something an offense which in its essence is not immoral, dangerous or calculated to bring on a breach of the peace, the dignity of the law in general is lowered and the prestige of the law is lessened.

Your competitor across the street, we'll say, sells strawberries at a penny a box. It makes you angry as sin. You know he is losing money and you want the sheriff to shoot him, or something. But, brother, suppose your competitor paints a sign forty feet long and ten feet high. He can't eat that sign. He can't sell it. Nobody is going to trade him eggs for it. He is out cash money for that sign. Suppose he'd rather give away strawberries than paint that sign? Suppose he'd rather hire a trick monkey in his window than to give away strawberries? Why shouldn't he?

Have you got to where you have to have Austin or Washington run your competitor's business because you don't know how to run yours?

What Is Merchandising?

It is all hooey to try to make the public believe that running a successful retail store is simply a matter of buying at wholesale, stacking the goods on the shelves and then making the correct change. It isn't. That isn't merchandising. That is merely clerking behind a counter. If you are just a counter clerk, that is perfectly honorable. Don't be ashamed of it. But, for the sake of your wife and children go get a job under somebody else.

Don't go into business for yourself if you have no conception of running your own business. Don't go into business for yourself if you are afraid to let the other fellow run his business for himself.

The idea that cutting a price is unfair competition won't hold water if the price is really cut and if anybody can walk in and get the advantage of the cut.

Loss Leadership

The women do most of the marketing in the loss-leader stores. Loss leaders are supposed to mislead them. But the women are wiser than their would-be deceivers. They know to a penny how much the loss is and how much it is leading them into. They figure where the prices are really lowest. They trade accordingly.

Why shouldn't they? Supply and demand is based on that principle. Trying to put prices on stilts so that the marginal merchants can keep their noses above the water is dead against the basic principles of competition. Calling competition something else doesn't make it something else.

Pretending that you are saving the cus-

He's A Diplomat

By Gene Byrnes

tomor when you aren't does not make for straightforwardness in thinking. The anti-discrimination bill really means that the discriminating housewife is a public menace. But she isn't, bless her heart, and she is apt to be heard from before our brethren down at Austin get through with this legislation.

Antitrust Law

The theory of the antitrust law is that the greatest good to the greatest number over most of the time is a fair objective of the law. You can't always make that the sole consideration, but it is the main idea in the antitrust law.

The antitrust law is on our statute books because it is believed that over a long period of time it is better to have free competition in lowering prices than to have a combination for raising prices. It is conceded that lowering prices by agreement so as to freeze out a competitor and later buy him out at ruinous figures is bad because then the prices can go back up. But it is the ultimate mulcting of the consumer—that is the care of the laws—not the failure of a single merchant to survive.

THERE IS NO WAY TO MAKE COMMERCIAL FAILURE UNLAWFUL. Try it, if you like. It can't be done.

THE "ISMS" PREACHERS

"There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation and pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results. They carry on mad hostility against all established institutions. They would choke the fountain of industry and dry all streams. In a country where property is more evenly divided than any agrarian doctrines. In a country where wages of labor are high beyond parallel, they would teach the laborer he is but an oppressed slave. What can such men want? What do they mean? They want nothing but to enjoy the fruits of another man's labor."

This statement was made about one hundred years ago in the United States Senate by one of the greatest American statesmen—Daniel Webster.

Every tradition and institution in the United States is periodically under attack. The man who invests the capital that keeps business running is accused of monstrous iniquities. Socialism, communism, fascism, razism—all of these, judging by the critics of our social order, are better than democracy.

The fact that the American system has given the highest standard of living on earth is disregarded. The fact that the American workmen have luxuries, enjoyed only by the well-to-do or official class in other countries, is covered up. Fortunately, the American people, secure in the knowledge of their heritage, don't seem to be fooled very easily by these detractors and their assorted "isms."

WISE MAXIM

A short time ago an agricultural expert told a group of farmers that the use of government help in solving farm problems should not handicap marketing cooperation. Those farmers never heard wiser words.

The government can help, at times—but it can't do the whole job. Government farm relief plans are necessarily of political origin, and are thus assured of only a short life. Real and permanent farm betterment must come largely from the efforts of the farmers themselves, through such a movement as production and marketing cooperation to dispose of produce at fair prices.

"Self help is best help" is still a wise maxim.

BEAM OF LIGHT GUIDES THREE SAFELY DOWN MT. WHITNEY, HIGHEST U. S. PEAK

REACHING the summit of Mt. Whitney, highest peak in the continental United States, after an all-day climb, three Californians were forced by cold to descend the mountain in darkness, a feat described by experienced climbers as "almost a miracle."

Cutting through snowbanks, fording streams and negotiating rocky trails covered with ice, they made their way down the famous California mountain. They owe their lives to flashlights, which made it possible for them to follow the trail and avoid disaster on cliffs hundreds of feet high.

John M. Conrad, of Inglewood, Calif., and two friends started on their adventure at 2:30 in the morning. They reached the base of the mountain after a five-hour trip, and at once began to climb. They made good progress up to 10,000 feet, but there the rare atmosphere began to affect their breathing. From then on, more time was spent resting than walking.

Near the top of the 14,950-foot mountain, Conrad became ill. His friends did what they could for him, but he did not respond rapidly. It looked as though the project would have to be abandoned. But, as the afternoon wore on Conrad recovered somewhat. Meanwhile the temperature was dropping sharply. The trio were now determined, however, to try to reach the summit.

"At length we got there," said Conrad, "but by that time it was so cold and the wind was so high that we knew we had to start back down at once—or freeze to death. We also realized we were going to be up against it when it got dark, but we had to make the attempt.

"We had a flashlight, and we saved this until darkness came down. Then we switched the light on and took our chances on the cliffs. With this single light, we went safely along precipices which dropped off hundreds of feet. By our light we located trails that we had lost while fording streams.

"Hour after hour we worked through snow drifts, crept across icy ledges, and stuck to the trail. If our light went out, we were done for, but I had loaded it with batteries that I knew were fresh, and they did a job for us. They were what saved our necks."

In the course of their ascent and descent of Mt. Whitney, the climbers covered some thirty-two miles,

I GIVE YOU TEXAS
By Boyce House

Representative Gene Worley of Shamrock tells about the cowboy who registered at the big city hotel one night. "Do you want to leave a call?" the clerk asked. "No, I want to sleep right on through till daylight," the cowboy replied.

Austin is filled with people whose ways of making a living are a mystery. They are almost always to be seen in the hotel lobbies and apparently they never work yet they are well dressed and well fed. Two men were talking about a mutual acquaintance recently and one of them said:

"I wonder how he makes a living?"

"Funny thing, he was asking the same thing about you yesterday," the other answered.

Here and there: Vann Kennedy, well known member of the Austin press corps, says: "Imitation is the compliment that hypocrisy pays to truth."

Enrique Encarnacion writes all the way from Puerto Rico to learn about the Texas Lions second annual good will pilgrimage that Julien Hyer of Fort Worth is arranging for Lions and their friends, March 23 to April 2.

Folks who have chuckled about Jerry Sadler's request for permission to have a coal oil lamp or lantern in his office because Capitol lights don't come on till 6 a.m. will be interested to learn that the Railroad Commissioner really is an early riser. He has long been in the habit of getting half a day's work done by the time lots of people are rolling out of bed. The habit goes back to his days on the farm at Hickory Grove. Already he knows a large number of milk men and others around Austin whose duties require them to be astir long before dawn.

One of the most interesting visitors in Austin recently was R. C. Bowen of Fort Worth. A former automobile mechanic, he has become the most important figure in bus transportation in the United States. A native Texan, he had the first garage between Fort Worth and Waco, in Italy when he was only 18. In 1918, when the oil boom hit West Texas Bowen began running trucks between Mineral Wells and the boom towns of Caddo and Breckenridge, which had no railroads. Then, with Breckenridge as the base, he operated many trucks throughout the oil fields. Selling out this business in 1925, Bowen turned his attention to buses.

Half a dozen individuals were running cars or buses between Fort Worth and Weatherford; as many more operated from Weatherford to Mineral Wells, and still more ran between Mineral Wells and Breckenridge. There was no regulation or safety measures for the passengers, and layovers were long and tiresome.

That year, Bowen bought out 40 individuals, established the West Texas Coaches between Fort Worth and Abilene as well as Fort Worth and San Angelo. By connecting with a line at El Paso, he became the first to give transcontinental bus service. Three years later, he sold one half of his lines for $1,250,000.

To the holdings that he retained, Bowen has added others until today Bowen Buses have routes totaling 3,900 miles, with 300 employees and 114 buses that travel 21,000 miles daily. His relations with labor have always been harmonious. His drivers work seven hours a day and are members of the A.F. of L. He carried passenger insurance long before the law required it. He tries to keep ahead of public demand with his service, explaining "The people appreciate your efforts to give them the very best and latest." He is spending $80,000 this year to air-condition his buses.

"R. C." is quiet, modest and the easiest fellow to talk to that you ever met. His career is proof that our nation is still the land of opportunity.

"A little black book" is one of the chief exhibits in the fight before legislative committees on the price-fixing bill. The books contain the standardized prices in New York, which has laws similar to the proposed fair practice and anti-discrimination bills and so the housewife doesn't need to check through newspaper ads—she just looks in the little black book. Opponents contend that such laws reduce advertising and raise prices to the consumer, not only in the cities but in the small towns. The National Grange, with 800,000 farmers as members, passed a resolution branding such laws as unfair to the buying public and also as being opposed by President Roosevelt and the Federal Trade Commission.

In the words of the poet:

Popular Sophomores at TCU

These four sophomore girls at Texas Christian University have been named by their classmates as popularity and beauty queens for the 1938 annual. They are: Poppy Bass, McKinney; Florida Buckner, Dallas; Elizabeth Hager, Dallas; Dorothy Finlayson, Rhame.

"Laugh, and the world laughs with you; Sneeze, and you sleep alone."

A friend who served in Russia during the World War said the names of the soldiers were so unpronounceable that, one day, he sneezed during roll call and nine men answered "Present."

Stood the Test

he did in years of vaudeville, so "weep not for Caesar, etc."

Jack Haley's advice on becoming a radio comedian reads: "Study the screwy dialect of Arty Auerbach, take a course in double-talk, filling your mouth with marbles, and make believe you're addressing a six-months-old child." Sounds simple.

Lovely Joan Banks, featured in Her Honor, Nancy James, is only two years out of High School but she has already starred with top radio names like Walter O'Keefe and Stoop and Bud. She is a talented comedienne as well as dramatic actress.

It's Rancher McGee, he's known as in these days. Anyway, Fibber McGee is looking over ranch houses in California's San Fernando Valley. Wouldn't you love to listen in on his conversations with the real-estate agents?

We caught Eileen Fainter of These Happy Gilmans the other day broadcasting in her stocking feet. Seems she turned up in a pair of these new wooden shoes and the director made her take them off because they made too much noise in the studio.

H. L. Mencken has put his stamp of approval on the inclusion of the word "gracie" in the American language dictionaries to signify "dumb-belle." That makes Gracie Allen one of the few living persons to become "a word for it."

George Gail of the Theatre Guild and Jane Seymour of "The Women" have joined the already star-studded cast of Big Sister.

Wanta' be a radio actor? Then don't be yourself. is the advice of veteran Bill Adams, heard on Your Family and Mine. "The trick of real acting," Bill says, "lies in losing your own identity and acquiring that of someone else."

Petite Loretta Foynton, Chicago radio star, journeyed to Manhattan recently for a film test and this enabled her to become acquainted with already established Hollywood stars.

SUPT. CUNNINGHAM ATTENDS CONVENTION

Supt. Cunningham has been away all of this week. He is attending the National Teachers Convention in Cleveland, Ohio. It is not very often that a teacher from this section attends the national convention and we are sure that Mr. Cunningham will have many interesting things to tell us when he gets back.

SENIOR REPORT

The Senior Class is sponsoring an amateur program in the auditorium Friday, March 3. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Immediately following the program will be a cake walk.

All amateurs who can dance, sing, read, etc., are invited to enter. Cash prizes of $3, $2, and $1 will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners.

As this is the last program to be held in this school building, everyone is invited to attend.

The price of admission is 10 cents. Contestants will be admitted free.

JUNIORS

Overheard in the study hall just before the bell:

Mary Lucille: Well, I'm glad those terrible exams are over! Just think, those teachers tried to make us think the tests were easy.

Ina Fern: Yes, but I know they were the hardest we've had this year.

M. L.: Oh well, now they're over and we can spend more time studying debate.

I. F.: Did you ever see pupils studying for the Interscholastic League any harder? Benjamin certainly ought to shine this year.

M. L.: Don't you appreciate Mr. Cunningham's letting a student take charge of the American History class while he is gone to the National Teachers Convention? I think it is a credit to our citizenship.

I. F.: Yes, and Mutt is doing a very good job of teaching it. That reminds me, I'd better study my lesson right now because she certainly does grade carefully.

ONE ACT PLAY

The one act play has been chosen for the county meet. The play is an interesting farce entitled "The Elopement." Most of the cast has been selected and the rest will be chosen in the immediate future. It has been quite a task to determine who should play each part, as several capable actors and actresses have tried out or a part in the play.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

Last week an interesting assembly program was presented by Mrs. Burnett and her music class. Several songs were sung by some girls, a tap dance was given by Mrs. Burnett's small daughter and a song, "You're a Sweet Little Headache," was sung by Joardis Burnett, who is in the first grade.
