ON HIS TRAIL

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS OF THE CITY OF BENJAMIN

OBSERVE CHILDHOOD AND YOUTH WEEK

In observance of Childhood and Youth Week, a group of parents and adults met at the Methodist church Wednesday night to consider the interest of the Young Life of our community.

Judge E. L. Covey of Benjamin spoke on "The Influence of the Home in Creating Respect for Law."

"Of the seven thousand inmates in our penitentiaries," said the speaker, "seventy per cent are below the age of 26 years, and fifty per cent are below the age of 22 years."

Most of the cases of crime coming to his court, he attributed to a fault in the home life.

Dr. T. S. Edwards spoke on "Safeguarding the Health of Children and Youth." The doctor brought to his hearers some blood chilling facts out of the medical profession concerning prevalent social sins and diseases. With marked emotion he decried the habit of cigarette smoking among young people, especially among girls.

Professor Whitis spoke on "Understanding Children and Youth." "Children are often injured because of a lack of understanding or appreciation of the child's viewpoint on the part of parents," he said. Those present expressed a high appreciation of the meeting, and some expressed the wish that this sort of gathering might be continued, so that all the parents of the community might get this valuable and vital information.

The observance will be concluded at the Baptist church Sunday night in a community-wide Young People's Service. Rev. H. E. East will preach the sermon.

WORK AT CEMETERY ALMOST COMPLETED

The cemetery is a very respectable and different looking City for our Dead since the Cemetery Committee has had men working there for the past several weeks.

If you saw the cemetery before the citizens became interested and appointed this committee and donated money or contributed in any way, and if you will see the cemetery now, you will be glad you have assisted. The committee has been working diligently although it has been slow because the crop gathering season has kept most laboring people busy.

The citizenship is hereby called in mass meeting at the Texas Theatre Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, October 25, to hear the committee's report and to take further steps in the proper disposition and care of the cemetery.

NORTHERN STAR COTTON MAKES GOOD

Northern Star cotton is producing much better than was expected earlier in the season. The staple is attracting many new buyers and is bringing 8 and a quarter cents per pound right along. This cotton is going to be the bread-and-butter cotton for West Texas. It has many good qualities of Half and Half and has a good staple.

The Lankhart Bred Seed Farms at O'Brien are hoping to standardize a large number of West Texas counties on this cotton this year. They have recently sold several projects in and around Sweetwater, Rotan, Roscoe, Loraine and Snyder. It is a known fact that something has to be done about the cotton situation since the change in world conditions, and it looks like that for the next few years the only thing to do is grow less cotton and better cotton. Lankhart has bred a cotton that will answer the purpose and hopes to prove to the farmers that he has the variety best suited to this section. Every farmer in this section is cordially invited to visit the breeding block one mile east of O'Brien on the Bush farm and see for themselves what this cotton is doing. It was through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Bush that this breeding farm was located here and they know the world's need for cotton and believe that Mr. Lankhart has the best variety to meet that need and are encouraging the growing of better staple cotton. During the last few days there have been many visitors to the breeding block to look the cotton over, including a committee from Loraine and Rule together with some from Vernon who are working for the department of agriculture. This seed is State certified, being inspected by the State Plant Board. It is hoped that this project will continue to grow.

TO CONSTRUCT TANKS

Mr. Bentley, Agricultural Engineer for the Extension Service located at College Station, spent Friday in this county assisting County Agent Walter Rice and Range Supervisor Frank Glover in the selection and construction of tanks under the Range Conservation program. Visits were made to the Big Four ranch located 10 miles northeast of Truscott and the Beavers ranch located at Benjamin.

When tank construction was under way approximately $15,909.22 was earned in Knox county in 1937 under the Range Program, and the 1938 program is expected to be larger since more landowners are cooperating in the program this year, stated Rice.

Mrs. Silvia Favor and Velma Mabrey of Wichita Falls visited friends here Sunday.

KNOX CITY P. T. A. CARNIVAL OCT. 28

In anticipation of the hoped for greatest carnival in its history, the Knox City P. T. A. has completed final arrangements and committee appointments. The occasion will again be held at the school building and occurs on Friday, October 28. The parade of organization sponsored floats and funny costumed citizenry will form at the school building and will be led by Mayor C. C. Hoge. Other schools in the county will be asked to participate in the event and if so desiring aid the local band.

Hungry people may go to the home economics room from six to eight, where Mrs. Bill Clonts will be in charge of the cafeteria. All of the other booths will open at six and be at the public's service until eight, when the main show, or "Hayloft Party," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Milton Bradberry and Mrs. E. Q. Warren. Mr. Chas. Shumaker, master of ceremonies, and other members of the stage committee assure us of an enjoyable, fast-moving show of over two hours duration.

Mrs. N. F. Mullins and Miss Pauline Benton are arranging for a Bingo booth for lovers of the national pastime. Do you care to know what bearing the past has on your present and future? Mrs. Joe Averitt, P. T. A. president, will reign at the palmistry tent to tell these secrets. Mrs. E. R. Carpenter plans to sell a number of surprise bundles to the lucky buyers. A novelty fish pond set up by Misses Pauline Cherry and Ruth Rice should interest all of you who are interested in a "catch." Mesdames Grady Benedict and H. L. White will conduct a dandy rink for the kiddies to race or ride tricycles. Domino champs, come show your prowess at this art. Mrs. Roy Baker will be parlor keeper and welcomes all to come and play. A main added attraction will be the professional boxing match conducted by the new coach, Mr. Craig Walling, a former professional himself.

Do you want to buy a terrapin for the 500-inch race? Mr. Roy Baker in charge of this added event promises to bring some well trained ones for the group's use. The main thrill will be the race for the gate when they are turned loose. Come early if you want a winner. If he wins, dispose of him in a manner to your liking.

Out of town people are extended a most cordial welcome and are assured of an evening well spent. Every effort is being made to make this carnival interesting to everyone. You can afford yourself much fun if you don a Hallowe'en costume and take part in the parade. You might be the costume winner. So plan to attend as much of the fun and frolic as possible.

A STUDENT VIEWPOINT

Turmoil and confusion— anxiety and hope—these are the problems confronting the war-torn nations of today.

War spreads like a disease. Destroying all in its grip, it tears apart much more than the bodies of men. It reaches into the hearts, minds and souls of the loved ones back home.

Men go to the battle front to come face to face with death. Knowing that each minute may prove to be his last, the soldier hides his fear and heartache behind a forced smile. He has no rest. For a few minutes he might steal precious moments of physical rest, but in his mind and soul he knows no peace until he steps over the line and shakes hands with the enemy.

Day in and day out the soldier is on the march. Air filled with smoke, shells screaming through the air, falling bodies of men, bodies blown to bits, shellholes dotting the landscape to offer temporary protection, stepping on the forms of fallen comrades are all part of his lot. But daily he must face the tramp, tramp, tramp, through mud, sleet, rain and ice. He must drag his weary body on, on, on, and face endless short rations day after day until he is finally torn apart by a bullet and put to rest with his countrymen.

Homes are torn apart by deadly, hateful war. Children are left fatherless and wives are left broken in mind and spirit. This is the most tragic result of conflict between men.

Who is to blame for war? Sometimes that is hard to answer. The head of each nation involved is partly to blame, but the cause rests on the shoulders of no one man. Alliances, secret agreements, greed and graft are all major forces in the causes of war.

Pictures have appeared recently of leading men of some nations demonstrating their physical prowess by leaping through hoops of fire, and even to the extent of helping the peasant gather his crop for a few hours. This, they maintain, demonstrates their ability to govern the nation over which they are leaders. But does that give them the right to send the cream of the nation's youth on the battlefield to be blown to bits by enemy missiles? I say "No!" The fates of men were not meant to be placed in the hands of one executive authority. Only one governs the life of man, and He does not use it to His own selfish ends.

But men are funny creatures. They let themselves be ruled and guided by some person who uses them to further his own cause. Human life means no more to a person like that than does the life of a fly. In the eyes of others he might be valiant in leadership and control, but is he the one who fights on the battlefield, risking his own life to realize his goals of ambition? He is not!

If we are people to be swayed by the wishes of one person, even to the extent of giving our lives, then we deserve no better fate than to die "for our country and democracy."

So I hail the sons of the future! I hail you as putty in the hands of the ambitious. I salute you as those too weak to uphold civilization for you will be the cause of its downfall. I hereby salute you as victims of strife.

—Glenn Huntsman.

LIBRARY MAKES PROGRESS

Martha McNulty, the high school librarian, has been busy for the past week preparing a shelf list for the library. This year the library has been making much progress in cleanliness, service, and helpfulness. For this the high school is very grateful to all who are in any way connected with it.

It is hoped that we will soon be able to order some new books to replace those which are wearing out and have been lost. The library needs some new fiction as well and it is now planned to get some of the new fiction books as soon as possible.

THIRD GRADE ACTIVITY

The third grade is very happy over winning second place in the recent P. T. A. drive. Plans are being made to spend the four dollars for material to further our new unit.

The third grade is beginning a new unit this six weeks in which Knox City is the chief interest. The purpose of the unit is to learn more about the town in which we live. Three of the third grade boys have built a table on which a small model of our town will be constructed. Some are drawing a large map of Knox City which is to be hung over the table on which our model city is built. A large scrapbook is going to contain the best stories, letters and sentences about our town.

Those who have made 100 in spelling last week are: Donald Caussey, Parsey Nell Camsey, Rudolph Hackfield, Marie Rope, Thomas Taylor, Willard Posey, Virginia Sue Webb, Margaret Jackson, Betty Ann Sherrill, Dorothy Jane Dodson, George Plumlee and Lawrence Hennigan.

P. T. A. AWARDS GIVEN

Friday, October 14, Mrs. Averitt, president of the local P. T. A., presented the checks to the winning classes in the annual P. T. A. membership drive.

The Freshman class led with a total of 66 members. Second place was won by the third grade, and third place was taken by the Sophomore class, which won by only three members over the Juniors.

"Our congratulations go to each of these classes for the good work they have done," remarked Mrs. Averitt.

BAND MINSTREL SUCCESSFUL

On Friday, October 14, the band presented its annual fund raising minstrel show. A large crowd gathered to witness the talent of K. C. H. S. boys and girls. The people were not disappointed. Everyone in the show had surprising artistic ability which delighted the audience. The plot was never slow or dull, and witty sayings of the cast brought a host of laughs and giggles from the patrons. There was proof that the show was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

A profit of twenty dollars and nineteen cents was realized from the minstrel. The entire band wishes to thank the citizens for their patronage and help in making the production a success.

JUNIORS AND SENIORS PRESENT ASSEMBLY

Friday, October 14, the Junior and Senior classes were scheduled to present the general assembly program. Superintendent Whitis acted as the master of ceremonies. A three act drama, "The Fatal Quest," was presented by members of the two classes. This was a tragedy, which brought tears to the eyes of all who witnessed it. Reed Bradley was the stern king of the land; Geneva Walker played the part of his "devoted queen"; Margaret Dutton made a sweet princess and Dickie Mullins, playing the part of the stalwart duke, made everyone realize just what true bravery really is.

The rest of the program was devoted to a presentation of the old favorite, "The Three Bears." The role of Goldilocks was portrayed by Mary Helen Evans. The three bears were presented in artistic style by Doyle Graham, Papa Bear, Bobbie McCarty, Mama Bear; and Doris Apple, Baby Bear.

GREYHOUNDS TO TAKE THE FIELD

Great plans are being made for this season of basketball. The boys on the team are filled with high spirits and assure us that they are going to do their best to uphold the standards of K. C. H. S. in the coming year.

Those who have seen the boys working out state that the team shows great prospects. They are in good shape and are learning new formations and plays daily. The boys will have more experience than last year and this is to their advantage. Out of approximately twenty boys that are coming out there can be found great ability and stamina.

The entire student body is backing the team wholeheartedly, and everyone is looking forward to the first game of the season. Mr. Walling and Mr. Shumaker attended a meeting of the coaches of this area at Sunset High School Monday night, where a schedule for the season was mapped out for the teams of the various schools. This gives high hopes that there will soon be games and yelling for the Greyhounds to come out on top as champions!

SHORT STORY

This is the second of the series of short stories written by students of the English II class under Charles Shumaker.

SUSPENSE

By Faye Heath

The rain drizzled lazily against my window pane and through its rectangular outline the street lamp gleamed like a pin point in the distance. The stillness was unbroken except for the low rumble of thunder.

My mind was alert, to the degree of becoming imaginative, for I distinctly heard the winging door downstairs open slowly; perhaps I had left the back door ajar.

The sheep I had been counting jumped sixty consecutive fences before the stillness was again broken. A steady creak, creak on the stairs caused my mind to fashion startling pictures! My rings in their little satin padded box suddenly became very precious, but not half so precious as myself. My nerves became tense; I held my breath so long my ears began to ring.

Some maniac had broken into the house, knowing I was all alone, with only one desire in his distorted mind, and that to kill me! What could I use for a weapon? The footstool was heavy enough, only clumsy to handle. If I only had a gun! How terrible it would be to kill a man, but could it be more horrible than being killed myself? This atmosphere was maddening. I supposed he was creeping down the hall nearer and nearer my door with crazed maddened eyes, clutching a gun or knife!

My door was partially ajar; it gradually opened an inch at a time. My eyes were straining at their sockets trying to pierce the darkness; I must have closed them, for I could no longer see.

I could hear his breathing in steady gasps, and I visioned his hand with the knife ready to strike! The suspense became unbearable! As I reached for the head lamp, he leaped on the bed, and there in the glare of light sat "Vanilla," my pet cat, casually licking her paws.

FRESHMAN CLASS MEETS

The Freshman class met last Friday morning to discuss the election of room mothers for the following year. Those selected were Mrs. Varneil, Mayme Shaver, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Bill Clonts.

A committee was appointed to make plans for the freshman float in the Hallowe'en parade. Those appointed were J. Harrell, Louise Lewis, Col-Hill Vaughn Grubin, Harold Mills.

A social committee was appointed. This committee arranged for a social for the class. Those appointed to serve on the committee were Alma Roberts, Zella Plumlee, Winifred Walker, Jack Varneil, Harold Stephens and Joe Ball.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
 Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
 Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
 The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval, and are endorsed the country over. Instant relief. Doan's Pills sold at all drug stores.

Important Notice To Our Subscribers

We realize that money is a little scarcer than usual this fall, and that it is hard for many to meet all their bills. For this reason, we are urging our subscribers, those who are now delinquent and those whose subscriptions will come due in the next few months, to take care of their subscriptions, if at all possible, out of the first money that comes to them.

At $1.50 per year, a subscription to the Herald is one of the smallest items of expense a family has. It figures less than 3c per week, for which the reader gets local news, farm news, the most important national news, and valuable advertisements which will, if read, save far more than the subscription price each year.

But while the subscription price is small to the individual subscriber, it mounts up when multiplied by the number of subscribers we have. And when 50 or 100 become delinquent, the decreased revenue is big enough to be very noticeable when it comes to paying running costs and overhead.

The price of the paper on which the Herald is printed has advanced 25 per cent since January 1, 1938. Costs of other materials and supplies have likewise gone up. With the subscription price remaining the same, it is necessary that we collect subscriptions as soon as they become due in order to meet these increased expenses.

Our subscribers as a whole have been very faithful and punctual about renewing their subscription when it expires. We appeal to you to continue in that spirit, so that the Herald's service may not be impaired.

DAILY PAPER RATES

The Herald is now writing orders for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Wichita Daily Times and Record-News, Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News, and Abilene Reporter, both singly and in clubs with this paper. The Star-Telegram is now $7.45 for Daily and Sunday, $8.45 including the Herald; $6.45 for Daily without Sunday, $7.40 including the Herald. An advance in this price after October 20 is indicated.

The Wichita Daily Times and Record-News price this year is $5.50 for either one, Daily and Sunday. The price for either with the Herald is $6.50.

The price for both the Abilene Reporter-News and the Herald is $6.50. The rate for the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News is $1.00. $2.25 with the Herald.

SENIOR REPORT

The Seniors report a grand and glorious time during their cotton picking vacation, but they are all glad to be back in school.

The Seniors received their rings Monday and are very proud of them.

JUNIOR REPORT

Monday morning the Juniors returned to school to take up their school work where they left off when school dismissed for cotton picking. They found that they had survived the six weeks exams and have started in on their next six weeks work.

In English the study of the biography is to be taken up and the lives of great men studied. In History the study of the Declaration of Independence will keep the class occupied for a while.

FRESHMAN NEWS

Back to school again after a months vacation. There are a few pupils who have not started back, but they will be with us in a few days.

The girls in Home Economics have ordered their uniforms, and they surely will be proud of them.

The time was shortly after one o'clock Monday afternoon, the place was the study hall of S. H. S. A Junior reposed at ease on his seat when suddenly a group of wild eyed Seniors burst into the room. They were talking enthusiastically, and in their hands was a package.

Immediately the cry went out, "The Seniors have their rings!" The next twenty minutes was chaos and confusion among the Seniors.

The Junior leaned back in his seat and smiled contentedly. He was amused. "Silly nonsense," he thought, "going wild over some old rings. I won't be like that." Little did he realize that when the eventful day does arrive, he will be just as silly.

SPEAKING OF FORTUNE TELLERS

Do you believe in fortune tellers? I can't say that I do exactly, but anyway, I went to a fortune teller last week just for curiosity's sake. I really went to have my fortune told, but she asked me if I would like to look into the future and see just what the Seniors of Sunset high school would be doing in 1946. I told her that I would, so the old Gypsy lady beckoned me over closer to her, offered me a chair, and set the crystal out before us. She quickly made some signs I couldn't attempt to repeat, and then quietly, but quickly, told me to look into the crystal.

I at once saw J. E. Hunter seated on a very modern tractor plowing away in a large field of cotton. He was listening to the radio and who do you think he was listening to? None other than Dr. Brinkly. Well, that was enough for me. At least, the radio program was.

The Gypsy lady made another movement over the crystal and told me to look again. I could faintly see Orville Strickland tossing the old dark one over the plate in one of the World Series games. The score board then flashed before me, and I noticed that the score was 13 and 0 in favor of the Cubs, which was the team Orville was playing for. I was very glad to see that he had made good.

The Gypsy lady again waved her wand over the crystal, and I saw Wardell Sweatt teaching a Civics class in a large school in Washington. Another Senior had evidently made good—or had she. I'll leave that up to you.

Upon looking into the crystal again I saw Nettie Griffith writing an editorial for the largest newspaper in the world—The New York Tribune. Nice work.

I looked again and saw Junior Matthews with a pair of boxing gloves on in Madison Square Garden getting ready to fight some English champion. Junior had won the Worlds Heavyweight Championship. I was only a little surprised.

Another look at the Crazy Crystal—pardon me, I mean another look at the crystal exposed E. G. Parkhill sitting at a modern desk dressed in a spotless white uniform. He was looking over some X-Ray plates. I noticed that the room had all the modern and expensive medical machines known to science. Another look at the crystal showed a newspaper—The New York Tribune—with headlines like this: "Dr. Parkhill saves another infantile paralysis victim." Nice work, if you can get it.

I looked again and saw Louise Gray seated at a desk with an adding machine nearby, and she was writing an article for a large newspaper, giving advice to the lovelorn.

As this picture faded away I saw Mamie Tankersley washing dishes for her farmer husband and their thirteen kids.

By the time I had recovered from this picture, I saw Mary Herring teaching an English class in one of America's large public schools.

I looked again and saw Winters Groves setting some good looking lady's hair in a large beauty parlor in San Francisco.

I looked once more and saw Traphene Wrea standing by the door of a small cottage near the city limits of a small town in Texas waiting for her husband to return from his work in the city. Several children were playing in the yard, and Traphene looked down at them and smiled. As she smiled the picture faded slowly away, and I knew that this was all. I paid the old Gypsy lady her dollar and went happily on my way, content and glad that the Seniors of '39 had made good.

Yours while they last,
Frenchy.

P. S. I forgot to tell you that Hallie Phine Clarke was sitting in the grandstands cheering her pitcher husband. The lucky man was pitching for the Cubs in the Worlds Series, and you can guess the rest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McGee were called to Fort Worth Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mr. McGee's cousin, Mrs. J. T. Syytles. En route they visited Miss Ruth at Weatherford Junior College.

In Accordance With the Ethics

By IRVIN S. COBB

OUT West a dump car broke its couplings and went on a wild trip down grade. At a switch it was derailed, turning over on its side and instantly crushing to death a Mexican laborer.

It fell to the lot of the foreman of the gang to which the victim belonged to render a report of the tragedy. This foreman, whose name I believe was Cassidy—at any rate it was a good Hibernian name—got along fairly well with his literary labors until he came to the final space in the printed form, opposite the question: Remarks? Mr. Cassidy studied awhile and then inserted these words:

"He never made none!"

The companion-piece has for a setting a stretch of a Southern line whereon a freight train had killed a cow, the property of a farmer. Mr. Dugan, the resident-boss, interviewed the owner of the slain animal and then proceeded to fill out a blank for the subsequent use of the claim agent who in due time would adjudicate the damages on behalf of the company.

Painstakingly Mr. Dugan entered references relating to the circumstances under which the fatality occurred, also the age, color and presumed value of the lately deceased cow and other particulars, as gleaned from eye-witnesses and from the bereft farmer. But he was stopped when he came to the words: "State disposition of the remains!"

He was stumped, but not for long; he set down this:

"She was kind and gentle!"

Dutch Bread in the 15th Century

BREAD was a food as vital to the Dutch in the 15th Century as it is to us today, and the Dutch made a wide variety of breads, buns, pretzels, rusks and cakes. The Dutch had many superstitions and beliefs based on bread and its uses. For example, the Dutch mother placed a piece of stale bread in her baby's cradle to ward off disease; and a square cake containing almonds was presented to the bride and groom at their wedding. The Dutch bakers in the year 1400 cried their wares by blowing a ram's horn and calling, "Bread's ready!" They were required to place their marks on each loaf of bread, as a guarantee of its quality. Today, here in America, the housewife no longer waits for a call to get her bread. Modern methods of distributing bakery products have made them readily available in all parts of the country. The American housewife knows that her daily bread is of the finest quality known in the world.

PLACE TO GET MONEY IS WHERE IT IS—BLACK GOLD

Governor Nominated W. Lee O'Daniel will propose to the next legislature an increase in the tax as a means of financing old age pensions, he indicated in a speech last week before a convention of water conservationists in Austin.

"I told the oil men in Oklahoma that the place to get money is where it is where it is, and they took it with a smile," he said.

Previously O'Daniel told a group of news-hawks that he still considers himself pledged against a sales tax and recalled that he once made a trip to oppose a sales tax against a legislative committee.

He still is receiving many suggestions on how to raise the money for old age pensions, he said, but has reached no definite conclusions.

O'Daniel's announced subject for discussion was "Industrial Development of Texas as Dependent Upon Conservation and Prudent Use of Our Water Resources." But the governor-nominate could not leave out a reference to the topic which he said was close to his heart—old age assistance.

"Water conservation is a fine thing but we have been planning that since 1922—a lot of folks can starve to death in 16 years. The old folks can not live on water altogether. Old age pensions are close to my heart. This state must pay its debt. As that debt is discharged we shall then turn to the other big problem, industrialization of Texas."

'AWKWARD' TEXAS NEEDS NEW CONSTITUTION

"Texas is at the awkward age. It does not have the coordination and rhythm of a trained athlete."

The speaker was Gerald Mann, the state's next attorney general, who several years ago won fame on the gridiron of S. M. U. as an all-American. He was explaining to the Oak Cliff Commercial Association in Dallas last week that Texas needs a new constitution.

"We have been playing at the game of politics instead of working at the science and business of government," he declared. "Consequently we are almost bankrupt."

While talking so much about inviting new industry to Texas, the state should realize that nothing will attract new capital so strongly as an efficient, well organized government, Mann said.

He drew an analogy between the constitution, adopted in 1876, now an unwieldy mass of amendments and amended amendments, and an old house: "We have made 150 efforts to repair it. We have stuck on a few closets for storage space. During the depression we added a room for grandma—and now we plan to enlarge that room. But we are still keeping the new car under the hayloft. What we need is a new house, built on the strong foundation of good government which would eliminate waste."

He criticized sharply the two-year term of office, the spoils system by which jobs are doled out in return for political favors, and an extravagant judicial system.

SOMEWHAT PERSONAL

Knox County Herald: Back in Texas for a visit recently was Walter Holbrook, former Dallas and Fort Worth newspaperman, now with the New York Herald-Tribune. He is known to his friends as Leo, because—as a movie press agent—he carried Leo, the MGM lion, around in an airplane. He—Holbrook, not the lion—is almost a double for Edward Everett Horton, the comedian.

"If Mr. Holbrook looks like the Mr. Horton who pursues his nervous way through some moving pictures, then Mr. Holbrook is not the handsomest man in New York. Probably not the handsomest man the Herald-Tribune office, though handsome enough, no doubt. But why, if we may ask, should a journalist who once journaled in Dallas go around in an airplane with a lion for company?

The beast in question may be utterly tame, perfectly friendly, but no lion is fit company for a newspaperman. A newspaperman may claim to be willing and able to fight his weight in wildcats, but a lion is too much for him. Traveling with a lion in an airplane is especially hazardous. The brute may become skisick and in seeking an antidote swallow the newspaperman. When a lion is skisick it forgets friendship, discards ethics, scorns morals. This is said for the record, not to discourage Mr. Holbrook. He seems to have been persuaded to give up the lion and return to journalism, a hard choice but a sensible one. Journalism has its disadvantages, but it is better to associate with other journalists than run around with a lion. Some better, if not very much."

CHEVROLET PRESENTS OUTSTANDING PROGRAM

The Chevrolers, heard over the Chevrolet-Dixie Network at 5:30 P. M. Sunday, presented an outstanding program with musical variety in the fullest extent of the word. First there was authentic Hawaiian music by Lani McIntyre and other native entertainers from his Aloha Islanders orchestra. Mr. McIntyre's band, which was featured in Bing Crosby's "Waikiki Wedding," is now playing a successful engagement at the Century Room of Hotel Adolphus in Dallas.

Then there was a jam session by hand-picked swingaroos from Carl Lambert's Chevrolers orchestra. They swung out on "Diga-Diga-Do."

Next in the line-up of musical variety was a solo, "I'll Sue You Again", by Ruth Salter, the Whistling Co-Ed, who is said to have the most perfect tone of any whistler. Another unusual number was a duet of "Summer Souvenirs" by Miss Salter and the Chevrolers' regular soprano, Ruth Bickford.

The newest dance craze that has taken the country by storm is the Lambeth Walk. Karl Lambert's Chevrolers orchestra played the original music of "Doin' The Lambeth Walk" on Sunday's program.

Others heard during the half-hour were the singing ensemble and Jimmie Jeffries, the Chevrolers chauffeur.

E. W. Heatherington of Fort Worth arrived here this week and assumed charge of the Conoco Oil Company Wholesale plant, succeeding Mr. Montandon, who resigned. Mr. Heatherington will move his family here as soon as he can are a house.

"YOU AND YOUR MONEY"

WITH the whole world in more or less of a state of chaos and millions of people unemployed, it is refreshing and encouraging for one to read a little book of some 80 pages entitled "You and Your Money" of which C. Donald Dallas, President of Revere Copper and Brass Incorporated, is the author. From the first to the last page of this little book there is a wealth of information presented in the language of the layman, which when read by American citizens in particular, will give them heart to carry on and they will see a rainbow of prosperity and happiness in the years to come.

The forward of the book was written by Virgil Jordan and he has summarized in a few words the fact that there is something inspiring for everyone who has the luck to be an American today. The people of America have a privilege and opportunity, he states, that remains to few others—that of freedom to determine their own destiny. One can only pray that they will not prove too stupid and lazy to use it.

Fifty Years of Locomotive Development

(Above)—Santa Fe Railway's new 5001-class of freight locomotives is illustrated here in contrast to the modern automobile which appears small enough to fit easily into the engine's firebox. Ten of these mammoth power units capable of 70-mile-per-hour speeds are being placed in service. Their tenders carry 20,000 gallons of water and 23 tons of coal or 7,000 gallons of fuel oil. Nickel steel boilers enable these locomotives to carry a steam pressure of 210 pounds. The engine weighs 440 tons.

Fifty years ago, No. 684 was the latest thing in Santa Fe freight power. She served her heyday when freight train speeds averaged 10 miles per hour and 30 cars made a big train. Today, she is the last survivor of her class. At the Topeka shops she puffs mightily as she shoves her modern sisters, as shown above, around the locomotive shop yards. She came from the Baldwin locomotive works in 1888 just 50 years ahead of No. 5004, which represents the latest engineering developments in steam freight engines.

THE HERALD SNAPSHOTS

John Nesbitt tells pretty Jean Rogers, screen starlet, of the renewal of contract for his "Passing Parade" broadcasts over CBS on Sunday nights. Like his "Passing Parade" movie-shorts for M-G-M, Nesbitt's radio program features bizarre stories of real-life people.

Most Perfect Legs—And we think you will agree that Laurie Lane, pretty starlet, has the most perfect legs in the movie capital.

Dr. William H. Cathcart, Research Director, American Institute of Baking, freezes bread for bakers' consumption at Annual Convention in Chicago, October 16-19. This new process, keeping bread fresh for 30 days or more by freezing at low temperatures, indicates how the baking industry keeps abreast of the times by the application of scientific research.

FATE OF CONVICTS UP TO GOVERNOR

After four years of controversy, the fate of I. L. Sutherland and Ovid Mathis, convicted as bank robbers who claim they were victims of mistaken identity, last week appeared to have been checked up to Governor James Allred.

Convinced that the two men were wrongly imprisoned, T. C. Andrews and J. E. Keith, members of the Pardon Board, recommended that they be pardoned. Chairman Bruce Bryant dissented from his colleagues.

The matter is not, however, actually before the governor. At one time, Keith and Andrews filed their report. Then Judge Bryant filed a dissenting opinion. The majority members withdrew their original recommendation to revise it and take into consideration the dissent of Judge Bryant.

Sutherland and Mathis were convicted of robbing a bank at Atlanta. Subsequent to their conviction, Charlie Chapman, captured in connection with another robbery, confessed that he and Luther Bone were the actual robbers.

Since that time the controversy has raged, with some officers on one side and some on the other. The case has been the subject of several articles in the "True" Detective type of magazine.

Judge Andrews and Keith are now working on their final recommendation, probably will file it with the governor in a few days. Pending compliance with formalities of filing, none of the three men would discuss the case.

Even YOU Can Wear The Frivolous Fall Felts

But study the shape of your face carefully before choosing

If your face is long and thin, you need a hat to give it width. This Breton with its slightly rolled wide brim and flat crown tends to broaden your face and take away from its bigness. The quill high slants forward slightly instead of standing up straight, also adds width.

Nothing makes a handsome matron with large, full features look bigger than a tiny, brimless hat. She needs a medium sized brim at least. This high, flat-topped crown with its smart side roll brim softens large features yet gives the up-sweep effect so important in today's hats.

Here is a Watteau pancake in gray felt bound with black ribbon for the girl with a round, heart-shaped face. It is ideal for the new hair-do. The ribbon band in back holds the piled high curls in place, while the up-shot ostrich feathers and brim carry out the upped effect.

For a square jaw and broad features, your hat can do wonders. Note how the lines and details of this high peaked crown with its two long quills add height to a wide face. Yet the hat is a classic felt with the brim up in back and down in front, to be worn at a perky angle.

REG'LAR FELLERS

He Heard It Anyway

I GIVE YOU TEXAS...
By Boyce House

Ranger is still one of the most colorful towns in Texas. Main Street, of course, is quieter than it was on that New Year's Eve, back during the big oil boom, when men stood on opposite sidewalks and fought a "battle" with Roman candles.

But oil drillers still sit around in the lobby of the Gholson and swap tales of the great rush, as well as experiences in the fields of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma and foreign lands—Russia, Mexico, Venezuela.

The old Ranger police station still stands. Many a hijacker was brought in by Byron Parrish and members of his department. Parrish wore gold pieces for cuff-links and could juggle a tin can with bullets until both his six-guns were empty. The building is now occupied as a residence.

The spot where the once-celebrated Oklahoma Cabaret flourished is the location of a hospital.

Most daring crime during the entire boom was the daylight holdup of the cabaret by two men who lined up a dozen tough customers at the bar and searched them. There was a puddle in the middle of the floor and one of the robbers addressed the proprietor:

"You're supposed to be tough; get down and wailow in that puddle like a hog."

At this moment, a policeman entered and they disarmed him. Then, after one of the bandits had shot a hole in the floor, they left. There was a running gun-fight through the streets, in which a deputy sheriff was wounded. Some of the pursuers were on horseback. The robbers were cornered in a hotel and were captured without another shot being fired though one of them was reloading his pistol as the posse burst into the room.

Austin is, of course, the most politically minded city in the State. Even when the headlines in the Austin newspapers do not play up some political or governmental event, the newsboys will pounce upon a political story with a small heading and base their shouts upon that. Particularly is this true of the newsies around the hotel entrances.

They shout "All about State Official Zilch." If any issue ever really printed all about some of the officials at Ausch, the copies would sell at two-bits apiece—and most of the buying would be done in a big hurry by the officials and their friends, intent on suppressing the issue.

Just about the last word in newspaper offices is the new home that Col. George Spears has built for his Graham Leader and Graham Daily Reporter, edited by H. I. Trout, widely experienced journalist.

A fan big enough for an airplane propeller completely changes the air in the building every 55 seconds. There is a fire-proof vault to store the historic files of the Leader, founded 62 years ago. Alongside the building, in a courtyard, formed by 3 structures, there is already a big tree, and grass and flowers will be set out to create a beautiful patio.

Colonel Spears owns newspapers also in Menard, Forney, Megargel, Stanton, Newcasttle, Wylie, Throckmorton and Bridgeport.

Men's Hats Assume
New Importance
In Fall Fashions

Town Hat

The conservative gentleman immaculately dressed for business tops off his sartorial elegance with a light gray homburg. This hat is suitable also for strictly dress wear during the day with a fitted coat in oxford or black.

The Derby

For daytime dress and evening wear as well, the black derby is still a classic. It can be worn with a Chesterfield and is shown here with a blue-mixed double duty coat which is also excellent for both daytime dress and evening wear.

For Rough Tweeds

The Tyrolean in a green mixture with its corded band and feather is becoming increasingly popular with boys as well as men. It is shown here with a rough tweed suit and can be worn equally well with covert or sports coat.

Spectator Sports

The matched band on this light tan hat with seal skin finish is an accepted fashion in Hollywood and West coast cities but is comparatively new in the East. It goes especially well with a brown coat or this camel's hair and is particularly high fashion with a navy blue camel's hair coat. This hat can also be worn turned up all the way around.
