believe she might be pregnant, her first move should be to see a doctor as soon as possible. She should keep all her appointments with him and follow his orders right down the line. Among other things, he will tell her to watch her diet, avoid contact with people known to have infectious disease, and not to take any medicine or drugs unless they are prescribed. Unnecessary X-rays will also be avoided.

As the pregnancy progresses, there are many things the physician can do to protect the health of the mother and baby. For example, if the woman has such diseases as diabetes or syphilis, there is treatment available.

Pediatric surgery has become a life saver for thousands of infants born with defects. Three out of four babies beyond the help of surgery as recently as 20 years ago can now be saved.

Before too many years have passed, it should actually be possible to operate on the baby within the womb, if necessary. This has already been done successfully in animals.

It is entirely possible that within ten years, infants we cannot help today, will survive because of techniques now being developed in such fields as fetal surgery, organ transplants and microsurgery.

Even today blood transfusions can be given to babies in the womb and certain tests performed on their body cells when there is a reason to do so.

Often parents find themselves guilt-ridden as a consequence of bringing a defective child in-sume each other's indebtedness. The indebtedness varies from district to district and this causes an inequitable situation between communities which have a high indebtedness and those who have little or no indebtedness.

The group feels that the above parts of the committee recommendations will hurt the majority of communities involved by the eventual loss of their schools and will hurt the entire area by the greatly increased taxation.

The superintendents of the various schools will be attending the Texas Education Agency School Administrators Advisory Conference of Education in Austin the week of January 8, 9, 10, and expect to hear Governor-elect Preston Smith express his views and attend work group meetings relating to the Implementation of the Recommendations of the Governor's Committee on Education. Upon their return, the superintendents will meet in Weimert, January 15, to make final plans for area or community meetings to inform the public of the details of the committee's recommendations.

The birth of a handicapped child may often lead to handicapped parents.

A family may find itself overwhelmed emotionally by the birth of a child with Down's syndrome, spina bifida or other birth defect. Such a handicap becomes equally real and cruel for parent and child. Whereas, previously physicians have been essentially concerned with the child's abnormalities, they are now becoming more aware and concerned about the emotional needs of the parents who give birth and raise such a handicapped child. The family which is unable to accept its child's defect and consequent limitations may cause emotional problems in the child which will further handicap him.

With the recognition of the importance of the emotional needs of the parents, more and more emphasis is being placed on adequately understanding these needs and dealing effectively with them. At The National Foundation - March of Dimes Center at the University of Louisville School of Medicine, careful evaluation of the family and their emotional needs are undertaken. Treatment, where necessary, is provided by the Center or by a referral to another agency for such. Emphasis is placed on helping families with their feelings of guilt, hostility, shame and often felt need of denial.

Unfortunately, elimination or reduction of these feelings and needs is by no means an easy or short term undertaking. But one must deal with this problem if one is to help the child.

IN WICHITA HOSPITAL
Henry Jones was admitted to the Wichita General Hospital in Wichita Falls Tuesday to undergo further tests.

According to his son, Henry Jean, there have been no new developments in his father's condition, and the tests are simply to determine the reason for no response to the medication.

Knox County Service Officer Commended For His Assistance

Knox County Service Officer Clarence S. Woodward received a letter last week from Charles L. Morris, executive director of the Veterans Affairs Commission in Austin commending him for "the thought, care, and service given to the veterans' problems in your county." Mr. Morris explained that the basic task in which the County Service Officer is engaged is that of aiding the veterans in securing federal benefits to which they are entitled. It is Mr. Woodward's office that assists the nation in paying part of the debt it owes to those who have suffered - and human damage from war can be found for along time afterward in even the smallest community, he said.

Through Mr. Woodward's efforts, approximately $149,198, was paid to veterans, their dependents, and orphans in Knox County during the past year. According to Mr. Woodward, $1,038,000 has been paid within the county during the past eight years.

Mr. Morris concluded by extending his appreciation for services rendered and for Mr. Woodward's assistance in helping Texas to continue its outstanding veterans' program.

agree that rural area graduates and students cannot cope with urban life if they find themselves living in urban areas. We feel that the committee has ignored the fact that many national leaders feel that we must disburse our large urban areas population to cure many of our countries social ills.

We do realize that there are many areas of education where improved programs and methods need implementation. And we do favor many of these improvements in keeping with our ability to pay.

This resolution passed by unanimous vote.

(Note: The Knox City School Board met December 9, 1968 and passed the above resolution. They did not have the supplement to the Governor's Committee of Public School Education Report. The supplement was released December 27, Superintendent W. R. Baker confirmed that the supplement was prepared as expected and would not alter the Board's Resolution.)

Farmers Have Jan. Deadline To File SS Reports

DALLAS, Texas - Farmers have until January 31 to file reports on the Social Security taxes withheld from their employee wages, Ellis Campbell Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for Northern Texas, said today.

The reports should be filed on Form 943, Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees.

Mr. Campbell said that any farmer who pays an employee cash wages of $150 or more a year must withhold Social Security taxes. Taxes must also be withheld on wages under $150 for any person hired 20 days or more a year.

For tax purposes, a farm employer includes anyone who furnishes and pays workers to perform agricultural labor on his behalf or for someone else. Mr. Campbell said a "crew leader" is an employer under this definition.

The 1968 tax rate is 8.8 percent of the first $7,800 of taxable wages paid a farm employee. Half the tax is paid by the farmer and the other half by the employee.

Farmers should remember

City Council In Regular Session

In a regular session of the City Council Monday night, several interested persons met with the group to discuss parking problems and traffic congestion around the U. S. Post Office.

Meeting with the council were Mrs. Louise Kemletz, Mrs. Roger Williams, Joe Roy Smith, Jeff Graham, and David Counts.

A previous suggestion had been made to a member of the council that Austin Street between East Fourth and Main Street be made a one-way street. After discussion, it was decided that it would not solve any problems and probably create new ones.

Postmaster Graham requested signs to help keep traffic moving; therefore, motion was made and seconded that parking in the alley between Austin Street and Waco Street on the south side of the U. S. Post Office be illegal and a $5.00 fine be imposed. Also "No Parking" signs with the $5.00 fine notice will be posted at the east and west entrances to this alley.

Applications for the job as City Marshal were reviewed by the council, and it was decided to look further into some of the applications for consideration. Motion was made and carried to pay all bills, and meeting was adjourned.

All members of the council were present.

to give a W-2 wage and tax statement to every worker they pay $600 or more a year. Employees paid less than $600 should receive a statement covering their Social Security taxes Mr. Campbell said.

More detailed information is available in IRS Publication 51, "Agricultural Employer's Social Security Tax Guide." Send a post card to Supply, Internal Revenue Service, P. O. Box 1738, Dallas, Texas 75221, for a free copy.

IN BEAUCHAMP HOME

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Beauchamp last weekend were their son and his family, CWO and Mrs. Glen Beauchamp, Steve, David, and Debra of Killeen.

Other guests on Sunday were their other son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Beauchamp, Tammy and Sonny of Anson, Mrs. Lee Ballew of Sweetwater, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Speck of Rochester.

EDITORIAL

WHERE IS OUR SENSE OF PURPOSE?

The principal thing that may be said of 1968 is that it was not a particularly felicitous year. It was a year of tragedy, strife, confusion and contradiction. We had continuing prosperity for most people - accompanied by growing domestic dissension. In Vietnam, U. S. observers spoke optimistically about the military situation. At the same time, the patience of the American public with the war appeared to come to an end. For better or for worse, this country's armed opposition to communism in Southeast Asia may be terminated in the not-too-distant future.

It will seem to many, in looking back over the past year, that much of our trouble stems from a confusion of philosophies and labels - a confusion that has existed for a long time, but in 1968 reached a climax. The confusion is well typified in the career of Mr. Johnson as President. He went into office with the near unanimous support of the people. He carried out his pledge. An unprecedented wave of social legislation became law. Untold billions of federal dollars have been committed to programs of health and welfare, education, urban rehabilitation, a broad war on poverty and environmental improvement. All of these things have been produced under the label of liberalism. In fact, liberalism has become nearly synonymous with the outpouring of governmental tax funds and broad expansion of government powers. This in itself is perhaps the most confusing and contradictory phenomenon of our times. Historically, liberalism is the antithesis of authoritarian government.

Many reasons have been given for Mr. Johnson's eclipse in popularity, of which the Vietnam war ranks high. Yet, he brought into full flower the highly popular philosophy of government responsibility for solving social and economic problems. Some call it the welfare state. There is no reason to doubt that Mr. Johnson was sincerely striving to give the people what they thought they wanted. Measured by legislation, he was largely successful. Logically, he should have looked forward to tranquility and strong support. Instead, he got riots. Before the end of his first full term as an elected President of the United States, he fell so low in popular esteem he was compelled to announce that he would not be a candidate for reelection.

It is difficult to believe the Vietnam war is wholly accountable for the sudden reversal of Mr. Johnson's political fortunes. His misfortune - if it be called that - may be a symptom of national confusion in a day when love of country is considered juvenile by many, patriotism corny, and Presidents are chosen on the strength of their ability to keep everybody happy. The decline in Mr. Johnson's popularity accelerated when the cost, both in inflation and taxes, of the government's increasing dominance began to be felt.

As a new President prepares to take office, we hear a great deal about the task before him of "bringing the country together." Judgment is being withheld until people can see how he performs. Perhaps it might be well in the coming months for the people to look inward and judge themselves. Our country will become what the people make it. Unless we are ready to accept a dictatorship, we should cease expecting the President of the United States to be all things to all men. He is a fellow citizen filling one of the world's most dangerous jobs. In the long run, he can but reflect the will and purpose of the people. Do we believe in a government on a stick. Do we believe in our philosophy? Do we believe in a government? Do we believe in individual? Do we believe in American system of the country? Do we believe in the White man in the White house? Do we believe in the answer them for a hundred and sixty prove to be a year of people, not a people who a day newest sense of purpose on the ideals and self-government.

Expect Jolt If You Failed To Fill Out Your VA Questionnaire

The new year could begin with a financial jolt for thousands of veterans and widows on the Veterans Administration's pension rolls who thus far have failed to return their annual income questionnaire to VA.

Totally and permanently non-service-connected disabled veterans and wartime veterans' widows who meet income limitations are eligible for pensions, according to Jack Coker, Manager of the VA Regional Office in Waco.

The law requires these beneficiaries to report their income each year in order that the VA can determine the amount of pension, which is related directly to income, to which they are entitled. The questionnaire requesting data on 1968 income received and 1969 income estimated was sent to 2,033,000 pension recipients about the first of November. Deadline for returning the questionnaire to VA was set at January 15.

With this deadline fast approaching, approximately 645,000 pensioners have not returned the questionnaire.

Until the VA receives 1969 income estimates from these beneficiaries, it can not determine or pay any pension benefits in 1969 to them.

And in 1969, discontinuance of pension payments could be more costly for many of these beneficiaries than in the past, Coker said.

Starting January 1, VA pensions will be completely restructured. Income limits will be raised $200 for all pensioners. Further, the present three income levels used in determining the amount of benefits a recipient may be paid will be increased to between 13 and 28 income levels in $100 increments.

For approximately 1.2 million beneficiaries on the VA pension rolls, this restructuring will mean higher monthly payments in 1969.

Thus, failure to return the income questionnaire could mean the loss of $110 a month in pension payments in 1969, compared with the present rate of $104, for the veteran with no dependents and little or no income. The loss could be $130 a month instead of the present $119 for the veterans with three dependents and little or no income, Coker said.

He urged those who have not returned the questionnaire to complete it and mail it in the self-addressed envelope without delay. Any information and assistance they may need in completing the questionnaire may be obtained from their nearest VA office.

Consultant Pays Visit To Special Education Class

Miss Jo Ann Paul, Division of Special Education consultant with the Texas Education Agency in Austin visited the Knox City special education program here last month. Knox City Independent School District's program consists of one unit for the educable mentally retarded at levels I-IV. Eleven pupils are enrolled with an age range of 7-14.

In Miss Paul's report, she stated that the physical facility was spacious and designed to provide for individual and group activities, skills in personal grooming and habit training, prevocational training and desirable social habits. The classroom was well supplied with the type of equipment that lends itself well to a vocationally oriented curriculum, including table, flatware, dinner dishes, hotplate, and a refrigerator, she said. She also noted other equipment included a full length mirror, record player, Peabody Language Development Kit, typewriter, filmstrip projector, structural arithmetic kit, sewing machine, puzzles, SRA word game and reading kit, show and tell, cyclo teacher, and an overhead projector.

Miss Paul remarked that the quality of instruction was extremely good in that many of the activities had direct applicability to the end results of the special education program which is a vocationally oriented program. Pupils could see immediate results which served as a continuous stimulus, she continued. Lesson plans and a daily schedule had been developed.

Miss Paul said there seemed to have been strong adherence to the local plan as determined by the availability of equipment and teaching materials, the design and arrangement of the physical facility, and the quality of information contained in the individual pupil folders. She also noted that a recent news release in the Herald indicated a degree of community awareness and support. She said that Superintendent W. R. Baker appeared keenly aware and sensitive to the structure and function of the special class.

Listed among the strengths of the program which were reflected were the quality and variety of equipment and materials, the design and arrangement of the classroom, and the teacher's awareness and sensitivity to individual needs and in her ability to influence self-discipline in the pupils.

In Miss Paul's report, recommendations for continuous program development include the installation of additional shelving and storage space, the installation of portable room dividers to designate the different learning centers, the continuation to establish on campus work stations for pupils who are 12 years old and older, and enriching the background experiences of pupils through field trips and/or excursions.

Mrs. Esther Weaver, former second grade teacher in the Knox City Elementary Schools, is special education teacher.

A&M TO START CATTLE FEEDING CAREER PROGRAM

Texas A&M University's Animal Science Department will start a new program this spring which will prepare students for careers in the expanding cattle feeding industry.

It will be the first of its kind in the United States.

Dr. O. D. Butler, head of the A&M Animal Science Department, said the project will train graduates to manage large commercial feedlots, or service this growing industry as feed company representatives, consultants or in other roles.

"Texas is the fastest growing state in cattle feeding," Butler said. "Numbers of feedlots with more than 10,000 head capacity have mushroomed, and Texas now ranks fourth among all the states in total cattle feeding."

He said Oct. 1 data released by the USDA show that more than 1 million cattle are on feed in Texas, a 34 percent increase over 1967. New packing plants are springing up in the High Plains. Greater supplies of cheap grains, plus almost ideal feedlot conditions, assure the state of a leadership role in the feedlot business.

The new program will start with the 1969 semester. Students can begin at the sophomore or junior level, or return after graduation if they wish to take advanced training.

Students will receive at least 1 1/2 years intensive training beyond the B. S. level in nutrition, beef production, marketing accounting and financial management, together with engineering courses to prepare them for mechanized feedlots. Also emphasized will be animal health, disease prevention, grain chemistry and environmental control.

Butler said a unique approach will be a "work study" requirement, with the student spending at least one semester working in commercial feedlots. Here, he will get the feel of management and the problems involved.

RANGE IMPROVEMENT ORGANIZATION FORMED

A new organization has been formed to provide funds for increased research on range improvement and brush invasion of pasture lands, one of the state's major agricultural problems.

The organization, called the Brush Control and Range Improvement Foundation hopes to obtain 1 cent per acre from each cooperating landowner each year for five years. Money collected will permit more basic research and education on brush control.

Foundation funds will support basic experiments and field trials on the various methods of control. There also will be follow-up studies on range improvement. All such activities will supplement intensive studies already underway at Texas A&M University, Texas Technological College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

John Matthews, prominent

Ablene area rancher, is foundation chairman. Bill Donnell of Marathon is vice chairman and Robb Brown of Throckmorton is secretary. The group already is selecting district chairmen and county leaders eventually will be named to organize local efforts.

Nearly 82 percent of Texas range has been invaded by brush. That reduces animal carrying capacity by half or more. Brush also affects the prosperity of many Texas communities that depend on agricultural income.

The program already has the enthusiastic support of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, Texas Farm Bureau and the Texas Farmers Union. Until now, no organized effort among stockmen has been developed to help in the attack on brush.

"Melanie Meddles"

By Melanie Whitley

Once upon a time I was one of those new mothers who says what their children will never do. Cartoons was one thing.

That was before I began to appreciate their magical powers. Now once a day for an hour and Saturday mornings I know exactly where the kids will be, and can be pretty certain that during this time they won't be attacking each other or sawing the arm off their daddy's chair.

It doesn't matter that they have seen each cartoon sixteen times and can mouth all the words, they sit through the whole hour hypnotized.

Even Popeye and his gang teach subtle lessons. Four year old Melissa declared to me one day that if she were Olive Oyl she would marry Popeye and never Bluto, which proves, I reckon, that the good guys can be distinguished from the bad guys.

Usually I can tune out the racket, but once in a while, a good line of satire will break through the smoke screen. My favorite line of unreason is when the villain threatens, "I'm going to destroy you, very much."

Last summer I began a collection of sherbet dishes, ones of a kind, but lately I have decided the dainty glasses were "not me" and have packed them away.

I did start several of my friends off on their individual paths of collecting. Veeta Reid is collecting owls, not live, Karen Britting is looking for antique pincushions and Barbara Barnard prizes old crockery.

Let me know what you are collecting and I will list it here, maybe some of the readers will have a piece of your collection.

A recent letter in The University Daily of Texas Tech College in Lubbock was submitted by Bill Cornett and four other cowboys, as their tongue-in-cheek answer to other loud minority groups who had been demanding special rights at the college. Proposed policy changes for the college include:

1. Ridin' and ropin' courses to be offered and taught by real cowboys.
2. Recruitment of students from area ranches.
3. West Texas draw and slang to be offered as a course.
4. More cowboy entertainment.
5. More cowboy speakers in front of the Union.

 6. Recruiting of cowboy professors.

7. Hiring of cowboy coaches for cowboy sports.

8. More cowboys in high office.

9. Providing stall space: one horse for each dorm room.

10. Serving cowboy food in Union and dorm cafeterias (Bar-b-que and milk) with dinner bell rung at noon.

11. Recruitment of more cowboy athletes.

12. Substitute boots, spurs and chaps for cleats and pads.

13. Recruitment of cowboys from nations other than Texas.

True Greatness

Greatness consists not merely in doing the world applauds; nor in climbing some mountain and touching the constellations. Greatness is in the idle glory of fame, nor in winning national and wealth alone cannot make one great.

The truly great lead lonesome lives. They are the quiet to be true to their ideals, or to a station who have been through the struggle know the responsibility, to take one's ease, to follow an easy way of life that leads to self-indulgence and to oblivion. The crowd always follows the way, the "popular" way. The majority, the common acceptance, is seldom right, seldom great.

The truly great are found often in unadorned environment, struggling against the odds, true to themselves. Alone, they achieve their goals. Benefits to a child, an aged dependent parents, a disabled dependent widower, a divorced wife, a disabled widow, or a widow receiving benefits as the mother of minor children of a wage earner generally stop if the beneficiary marries. There is a special rule that applies for widows who remarry after age 60.

Payments to a wife or dependent husband generally end if a divorce is granted.

Payment to a wife under 62 or to a widow or surviving divorced wife under 60 will generally stop when she no longer has a child under 18 or disabled in her care.

When a child reaches 18, his payments end unless he is disabled or is a full-time unmarried student between 18 and 22 years of age.

Adoption of a child will end social security payments unless he is adopted by a step-
