Man Hole and Fire Take Two Vehicles in 3 Days BY TOMMY HERRING

I have always heard there would be a week - in a person's life that it seems everything that could happen would - To start this part week, come Sunday morning the family got up and prepared to attend Bible class and church as usual.

Sunday night, after church services, teen-age son and daughter borrowed the car to ride around for awhile. After journeying over to Knox City. being teenagers, they managed to find an unpaved street that had suffered damages from recent rains . . . and lo and behold a freak accident occured . . . trying to avoid a deep rut, got in another, and in the motion of slowing down .... up zooms a man hole.

A man hole? ? ? Yep that's right . . . and a man hole is one of those holes in the ground that enables the city employees to work on water mains. It has concrete side walls and a slab of steel on top. Sounds solid and true it is . . . as No. one and only son found out when the car hit the top of the man hole . . . putting it entirely out of commission.

So the family car is hauled in for repairs . . . then we began to realize what it was like when we had only one vehicle. Some things have to wait and some places one of our four might want to go, also has to wait because the remaining El Camino has to be used in our business.

Among the duties of the El up", Camino is making the weekly trip to Quanah on Wednesday nights to deliver the papers Memorandum all the papers safely unloaded. a truck driver from Anson, hauling sheetrock, came by. He was wise enough to carry a fire extinguisher, so he had the blaze out while we were still unloading. We told him the El Camino was insured but our papers weren't and we were trying to get them out of danger's way. We thanked him as went on his way but said he we had to stay with our papers. Some time later Wayne Watson and family of Knox City came by and offered to help and so he got the job of towing the El Camino and the reloaded papers into Knox City that night and to Haskell the next day for repairs. Watson operates a Phillips "66" Service Station in Knox City and has a wrecker he uses in his business. It sure came in handy Wednesday night. Mr. Watson was also kind enough to loan us one of his automobiles to enable us to deliver our papers to their respective places. We wish to publicly thank him again for his services.

We also wish to express out thanks to Bailey Toliver of Haskell for efforts made to get our wagon in running shape and to others who have helped during our misfortune.

Instead of being in Knox City Thursday morning helping Mrs. Angle with the Herald as we had planned, the day was spent trying to get the El Camino back in running order, but to no avail as she was all "burnt

Why all the talk about the El Camino? On our return trip from Quanah Wednesday night, everything was rosy. We were too hours ahead of schedule and with one more paper (The Knox County Herald) in the family and were feeling very proud of our progress.

Then, ah then, we discovered flames coming out from under the hood and the smell of smoke getting strong. By the time "Old Tom" got the El Camino stopped, she was well ablaze, Our first thoughts were the Rule, Rochester, Munday and Knox City papers were in the back and no fire extinguisher. This happened about half-way between Benjamin and the Brazos River bridge so there was certainly no sand we could throw on the fire, and then the unloading job started taking place fast, and we do mean fast!
