Vegetable Festival Reminiscent Of Old-Time County Fairs

by Joyce Beecher Greenwood

I suppose every father received his share of socks, ties, and after-shave lotion on his special day. Father's Day seems to be the time for all fathers to have their tie and socks supply replenished, not to mention adding one more bottle of "Old Spice" to his collection.

Fathers are such special people. Even the mere word conjures up mental pictures of children waiting for the door to open at that certain time of day when "Daddy's home". With his appearance at the end of the day, there is a sense of security and well-being--a feeling of the family's being complete once again.

Isn't it sad that all fathers are not awaited at the end of the day with excitement and anticipation? Isn't it sad that the father's arrival in some homes is anticipated with another kind of anxiety? Nobody likes to think about a father's presence in the house marking the beginning of hours spent in a child's room to "stay out of Daddy's way" or to keep from making him mad, but it is a very real aspect of society.

The fact is, some men don't deserve the right to be called fathers and their selfishness, sometimes even cruelty, can damage a child's life forever.

There are also men who are never fathers and should have been. These men have a wealth of compassion and love that could nurture a child and help him grow into the kind of person who could make a difference in the world, but they never have a chance to experience fatherhood. They are the men who are the "favorite uncles", the men who shower all the love and attention they could have given their own child on a niece or a nephew.

Then, there are those men who are not biological fathers, but become important people in a child's life because they marry his mother. I don't like the word "stepfather" (or stepmother) because of all the storybook villains it brings to mind. I prefer to call them "stand-in" fathers, and in many instances, they become the center of that child's life.

Nobody could ever take the place of a real father, and a good stand-in father doesn't try. He makes his own place and if he is worthy, his place becomes special.

Francelle Echols and I attended an inservice meeting in Wichita Falls last week and the man who spoke to us made a "rather frightening statement. He was from San Francisco and I really don't know if he was quoting national statistics or those within the San Francisco area, but he stated that in the 1950s, 63% of all school age children lived in a connected home, or a home with both parents. Recent surveys show that now only 4% of school age children live in a connected home. That makes kids with stand-in parents in the majority.

It's heartbreaking that divorce statistics are so high. Certainly there are those instances when divorce is the only answer or where one party has no choice, but in the '50s, it was just more or less understood that marriage was almost always forever. That's not to say there were no disagreements or discord--even knock down and drag outs--but divorce was considered as the very last resort.

For one thing, there had to be a good reason for divorce--like spousal abuse or fornication--or a divorce was not granted. Now, divorces are granted on "irreconcilable differences" and that could include who gave the overdrawn check or who left the cap off the toothpaste.

Today it has become popular to end a marriage because a spouse is "not understanding". It just doesn't Munday streets will be reminiscent this week-end of the county fairs of thirty years ago. Ladies will compete with each other for blue ribbons with their pickles and pies-their quilts and crocheted items. The city hall lawn will be alive with people as kids chase each other and men sit under shade trees, discussing politics and weather and perhaps, proudly swapping "grandkid" stories.

Everybody agrees the festival is well worth the hours of work Paula Schur and her committee chairpeople contribute each year to ensure success. It is a time for gathering together for one carefree day in the midst of a busy, hectic schedule.

The festival first began in 1964 and was the result of planning by a group of creative people, some of whom included Callie Ann Combs, Moulton Wiggins and L.B. Patterson Sr.

In an attempt to promote the vegetable industry in Knox County, the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture agreed there should be a time for recognizing the natural resources that made vegetable growing so important in our county. They wanted the state to recognize, also, that Knox County was a serious contender in the commercial industry.

After several years the Vegetable Festival stopped, but was revised in 1984 by a group of community spirited citizens and still remains one of the highlights of the area.

Before the 1950s, Knox County was primarily a cotton and wheat area with a few acres of corn and milo dotting the landscape. But the fertile, sandy soil and the good underground water supply made it prime land for the growing of vegetables. Many people raised vegetables in home gardens, a few even sold some of them in little stands along Highway 277, but they were not sold on a commercial scale.

Then, in 1952, several farmers decided to try to grow potatoes commercially. Some of the first to start this new venture were B.E. and Edward Smith, Lonnie Offutt, and Gene Thompson among others. The company of Colville and Renfro set up a potato shed in Munday and the potato industry in Knox County was born. In about 1957, some of the potato growers started a co-op in Munday and in 1963, the Smith family started their shed in the country with Colville.

With the success of the potato market, farmers began to plant onions on a commercial basis until soon, Knox County gained the reputation of being one of the most important vegetable areas in Texas. The Colville and Renfro sheds were purchased a few years ago by the Young Farmers Association, and another generation of vegetable growers has emerged.

June 21-23 is the date for this year's festival and people will again travel from all points in Texas and even from some surrounding states to celebrate an event that began with "a good idea".

RENOVATIONS BEGAN this week on the burned out area between Munday Auto Supply and the Fair Store. The John Lee Wilde crew, Home Building Center crew, Mike Wulf and Tim Hendrix were working hard Monday afternoon, knocking down the front walls of the lot. Plans are to make a park in this spot, with trees, flowers, and benches, to help brighten up the downtown area. The auction will be held at this location on Saturday, June 23, at 10:00 a.m., followed by the announcement of the winner of the trip to Orlando.

Bloodmobile Will Be Here Monday, July 2

Red Cross volunteers are working hard to eliminate summer blood shortages this year with a "One Plus One" campaign. Donors are asked to come "Plus One" to the Red Cross Bloodmobile unit on Monday, July 2 at Perry Patton Community Center between the hours of 2:45 and 6:30 p.m.

"If all regular donors will bring someone with them to the upcoming bloodmobile," said Latrece Lane, blood service chairperson, "we'll reach 100% of our goal."

Blood donors must be between the ages of seventeen and seventy-three, in good health and weigh more than 110 pounds. In Texas, seventeen year olds must have a written permission slip from parents or guardians.

Residents Urged To Clean Up The City

Lynn Fitzgerald, manager of the Munday Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, is encouraging Munday residents to pick up junk from yards, mow grass and hoe weeds to clean up yards and property before the Vegetable Festival this weekend.

Mrs. Fitzgerald stated that if someone needs assistance mowing or clearing some debris from yards, he or she should contact the Chamber office for information on how to obtain assistance.

Mrs. Fitzgerald stated that many out of town people will be visiting Munday, perhaps for the first or only time, and it is important that our city look its best.

"We are proud of Munday," Mrs. Fitzgerald stated. "We want everybody to see our city at its best and we can only accomplish this if everybody does his part."

City Council Assures No Interruption In Ambulance Service

The Munday City Council wishes to inform the people of Munday and the surrounding area of the recent resignation of Bobby Hutchinson as Ambulance Coordinator. The Council expressed appreciation to Hutchinson for his years of faithful service in the community and his dedication in establishing the ambulance service.

It is important that the people of the community be assured ambulance service will continue without interruption. The ambulance is being manned by highly qualified technicians who are more than capable of providing superior emergency care. The ambulance service will not only continue to operate on the same level of excellence, but will strive for an even better area of community service.

The Council is in the process of securing an ambulance coordinator, but until a full-time coordinator can be secured, the team of volunteers will continue to provide 24 hour service. Munday will also continue to cooperate with Knox City's ambulance service as has been past custom.

The City Council expressed confidence in the ambulance volunteers and appreciation for the service they provide in the area.

It is regrettable that it has become necessary to obtain a new coordinator, and the community is asked to cooperate until a full-time coordinator can be found.

School Finance Package Finally Signed Into Law

After three months of special sessions and two vetoes, Texas Governor Bill Clements, suddenly reversed his field and decided to sign into law a school finance bill very similar to one of last session's legislative proposals.

"This bill could have done more for our schools and could have been less costly to our taxpayers," said 30th District State Senator, Steve Carriker (D-Roby). "But I guess we're lucky to have any kind of school finance plan at all considering the mixed signals, flipflops, and political chicanery coming out of the governor's office for three solid months."

State Bill 1, which is virtually identical to the bill twice vetoed by the governor represents a compromise that moves toward financial equalization. While bolstering state funds to poorer districts, most of them will still be short of the state revenues that full equalization would provide. Wealthier districts will be protected from tax shock by phasing in reductions to their state aid.

State aid increases for the Munday School District is in excess of $270,090.

Senator Carriker went on to say, "It is a shame that this bill, which could have been adopted in a single week with the cooperation of the governor, took us four special sessions to enact and still leaves Texas school children at the mercy of the courts."

seem to be a good enough reason when one considers the trauma and the heartache a divorce can cause a child. Divorce is traumatic at any age, but when young children are involved, it becomes twice as devastating. There is no way a little child can understand why his mother or father doesn't live in his house anymore.

When my grandsons were two and four, out daughter's marriage ended. It was sudden and unexpected and she came home dazed and not quite believing that her marriage of nine years was actually over. The family tried to help her through the awful time, but she was so filled with the sense of failure and lack of self-worth that I often was afraid she would never get through it.

Gradually, she began to put her life back into order. She started making plans to finish her education and accepted the fact that her boys would grow up in a one-parent household.

She had been seeing a man for a while when Matthew, her youngest, was in first grade. For some reason, little kids always find it necessary to draw their families, and Matthew had brought home many pictures during Kindergarten and the beginning of First Grade of a woman, two little boys and a dog. When he brought home his picture of a woman, two little boys, a dog and a very tall man who towered over everybody else in the picture, we couldn't figure out why.

"Have you mentioned the possibility of marriage with the boys?" I asked Christy.

"No," she answered. "Not at all." But Matthew had decided Andy belonged with his family, so he had simply drawn him in.

As it turned out, he had drawn correctly because Andy became the boys' stand-in father a short while later. And for the past five years, he has been the hub of my grandsons' world. They love their father and visit him often and they are lucky in that they also have a stand-in mother who cares about them, but their home base is centered by Andy.

He is a quiet spectator at every athletic or school function in which they are involved. He never points out their mistakes, but rather encourages and soothes the hurt feelings that sometimes accompany kids' competitive events.

He helps them with homework, disciplines them with a firm but loving hand and teaches them responsibility and compassion. Though not their biological father, he is their father in all the ways that count.

He has earned his Father's Day tie.

Bank Accounts Can Affect SSI Eligibility

How bank accounts affect Supplemental Security Income (SSI) eligibility is an area that consistently confuses people who are receiving or applying for SSI, says Frances Braden social security representative of the Vernon office. The following should help clear up some of that confusion.

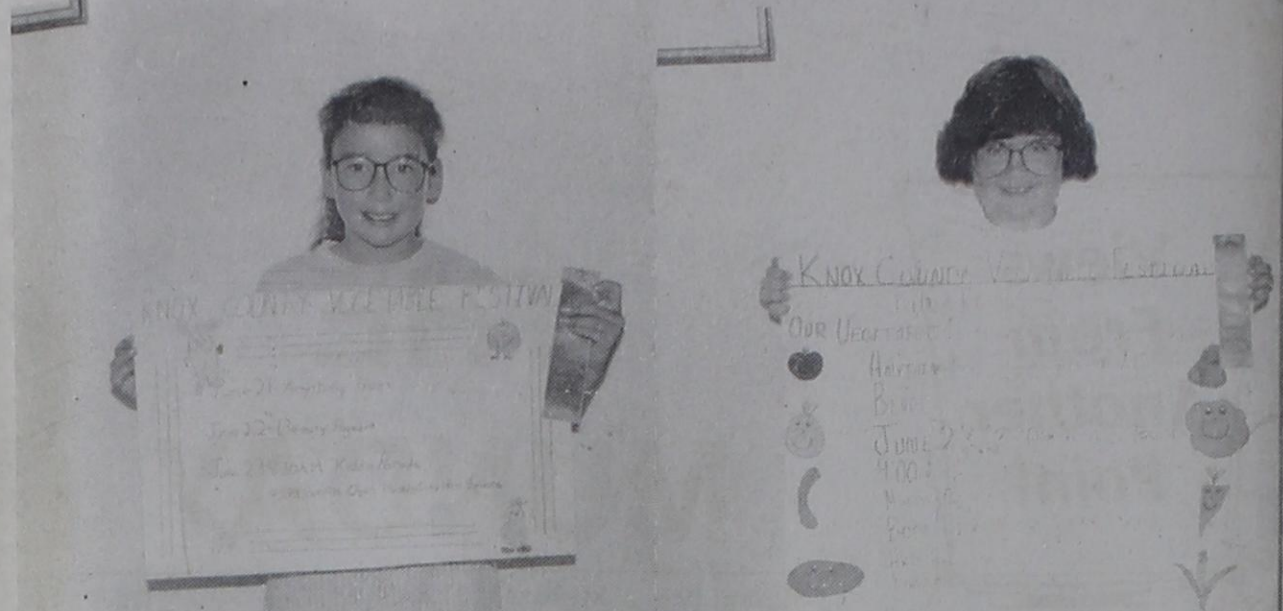

To be eligible for SSI, a person must have resources of less than $2,000 ($3,000 for a couple). Bank accounts are usually considered resources; therefore, they count toward this limit.

What's so confusing about that, you wonder. Well, Social Security considers a bank account yours if your name is on it as owner or co-owner and there are no legal restrictions that keep you from taking money out and using it for your own benefit. This is true even if you don't use the account or don't consider the account yours. That means it's important that bank accounts are precisely titled to reflect ownership and access.

Let's suppose Mary Jones applies for SSI. Her daughter, Jane, has a $3,000 savings account. Jane listed Mary as a joint owner, primarily so Mary would have access to the money in case something happened to Jane. Although Mary doesn't consider the account to be hers, Social Security does, and should could be found ineligible for SSI because she is over the $2,000 resource limit. Of course, if Jane's account is titled to restrict Mary's access, the account would not be considered Mary's and would not affect Mary's eligibility.

Proper titling is also critical when community, civic, or social groups collect money for a special reason such as to help pay an SSI recipient's medical expenses. Although the donors gave money to the person, they also placed restrictions on its use, and the account must be titled to show the restrictions. As long as the account title shows the money cannot be used for food, clothing, or shelter, the account is not considered a resource.

The best advice is always check with social security about how to set up accounts involving SSI recipients. We can give you specific instructions so you can avoid jeopardizing someone's SSI eligibility, Braden says. All it takes is a phone call. The number is 1-800-2345-SSA (1-800-234-5772). Call between 7 and 9 a.m. weekdays for the best service.

Q: I was studying with a fellow who said that the Bible contradicts itself concerning Jesus' time in the tomb. Matthew 12:40 quotes Jesus saying he'll be buried in the earth for three days and three nights (like Jonah was in the whale). But from the various Bible accounts it appears Jesus after his death was in the earth only two nights. Is my friend right? Does the Bible contradict itself? My preacher said he didn't know the answer and suggested I write to you.

A: Sounds like you have been studying with a member of one of the cults which teach that the Bible has error and therefore you need "their revelation". The Bible does not contradict itself! This is an excellent example of how we tend to define Bible ideas, words and phrases using "Americanized" definitions.

To the Jewish reader (along with most of the other ancients) part of a day was a whole day. This figure of speech is called idiom. We have many obvious examples of the same type idiom concerning "three days and three nights". In I Samuel 30:11-12, it is said that an Egyptian had not eaten or consumed water for "three days and three nights" because of his abandonment. Yet, verse 13 makes it clear that it had only been part of the third day that he had not eaten. Likewise, Esther told Mordecai that she would fast for "three days and three nights" and then go to the king on behalf of her people. Yet she went to the king on the third day (Esther 4:16-5:1).

Many so-called contradictions and unbiblical doctrines can be cleared up by understanding the Bible was written in Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek (originally). This means that not only the words were in these languages but also the figures of speech. Such figures of speech apply to the use of numerals (3, 7, 40, 1000 and their multiples).

The Bible is from God and without error. It should be our only "doctrine book". If you would like to study this further, I suggest you read Figures of Speech Used in the Bible, written by E. W. Bullinger (published by Baker Book House, Grand Rapids, Mich.). This would also make an excellent gift for your preacher.

If you have any question for Dr. Fitzgerald, write him c/o Box 211, Munday, Texas 76371.

MRS. JAMES MARK ANDERSON

Melanie Moore and James Mark Anderson Exchange Wedding Vows

Melanie LeAnn Moore and James Mark Anderson, both of Athens, were married in a double ring ceremony on Saturday, May 26 at Eastern Hills Church of Christ in Athens, with the Reverend Dean Campbell officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Jimmie Del Moore of Athens and the late David C. Moore.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Stovall of Seagoville.

Given in marriage by her brother, David Wayne Moore, the bride wore her mother's formal wedding gown of silk bombazine and hand-clipped French Chantilly lace. The gown featured a Sabrina neckline edged in lace scallops reworked with pearls, iridescent sequins and seed pearls. The skirt was fashioned from silk tulle, edged with scalloped Chantilly lace and extended into a chapel-length train. Her veil was a Victorian lace caplet which held three French silk illusions.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses caught with a handkerchief, a gift from her grandmother.

The church was decorated with two four-foot columns holding white rose bouquets and two spiral brass candelabras decorated with English ivy. Decorations also included two seven foot columns with white rose bouquets.

Wedding music was furnished by the Eastern Hills Singers directed by Dave Davis. Singers included Rita and James Curington, Dave and Annette Davis, Bob Sears and Carolyn McIntyre. Featured soloists included Guy and Thelma Griffin and Wade McIntyre.

Maid of honor was Michele Moore of Dallas, sister of the bride and matron of honor was Sheri Hargett of Irving. Bridesmaids were Tammy Blanton and Shaine Morrow, both of Athens.

Best man was Terry McNatt of Athens. Groomsmen were Charles Longbine, Vance Fincher and Russell Smalley, all of Athens.

Serving as flower girl was Gentry Griffin. Usher was Gene Butler and registering guests was Cricket McNatt.

A reception was held following the wedding in the fellowship hall of the church. Members of the house party were Leah Moore, Libby Groom, Lisa Mark Anderson, DeAnn Baker, Melissa Miller and Heather DeRosa.

After a seven-day cruise to the Caribbean, the bride and groom will make their home in Athens.

The bride is a graduate of Athens High School and Tyler Junior College with an associate degree in medical lab technology. She is employed with Lakeland Medical Center as a medical lab technician.

The groom attended DeSoto High School. He is a graduate of Trinity Valley Community College and the University of Texas at Tyler with a bachelor of science degree in industrial technology. He is employed by Lakeland Medical Center as director of engineering.

Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Moore and Mrs. Rudell Roberts, all of Goree. Great-grandmother of the bride is Mrs. Genevieve Tyler, also of Goree.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50% five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $60.00

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

The Fishing Doc

By "Doc" Fitzgerald

Miller Creek Reservoir

Level: 19 feet above normal spillway level

Temperature (at surface): 77°F
Condition: Slightly stained in main lake; murkey in creeks

Roads: Bridge road still closed due to high water

Catfish: Excellent. One 40 pounder caught on bare hook. Trotline baits that are catching the most include: Large minnows, golden shiners, small perch, goldfish and soft baits in cheese cloth. Best rod and reel baits: Tan Bait™, blood bait, worms, hotdogs with cheese in the middle.

Black Bass: Improving to fairly good. Taking spinners, rattles, plastic worms, and large live shiners. Best plastic worm colors include: fire and ice (red/blue combos), purple with light tails, and motor oil.

Hybrid: Good to 15 lbs. Mostly caught near dam on trolling lures. Some caught casting chrome lures near Antelope Creek.

White Bass: Good to 2 lbs. Best at night under lights using 1/8 - 1/16 oz. tube jigs. Best near dam and new docks.

Crappie: Fairly good to 2 lbs. Somewhat difficult to find in schools. Best near flooded trees. Taking live minnows and some on light colored tube jigs.

Rough Fish: Excellent. Carp and buffalo taking Tan Bait™, worms and raw biscuit dough. Drum taking minnows and worms. Gar best in creeks with archery equipment. (Remember only rough fish are legal with bow).

Fishing Tip

Q: Does feeding crappie with rice, dog food, corn, etc. really work?

A: Yes, it works but not in the way many fishermen think. To be successful in catching crappie it is best to develop your honey hole by brushing and feeding. I prefer to brush using tumbleweeds wired to cement bricks. I lose less jigs and hooks to soft tumbleweeds. To feed my hole, I usually use canned corn. Corn is the substance used in many fish foods. The brush and the feed bring in live minnows. Crappie follow the minnows. Rarely, if ever, will crappie feed on any dead bait so don't expect to find rice or corn in them.

It usually takes a day or two for feeding to take effect. It takes at least a week for new cover to work (generally). Brushing also has a side benefit. Crappie hate bright light (because of the construction of their eyes). The diffused light of brush helps bring them in, too.

Just because crappie are in an area doesn't guarantee they will bite. To catch crappie takes proper panfish technique seldom used by occasional anglers.

Measles Vaccine Now Available In Munday

With the ending of school, the threat of measles has lessened and Pediatricians are breathing easier. Although most cases of measles occur in young children, it is the older high school and college age people who are more at risk since immunization to the disease lessens after the age of 15.

People born between 1957 and 1980 received a measles, mumps and rubella vaccine that lacked a stabilizing factor. They are therefore more likely to contact the illness. Most people born before 1957 are safe because they have had the measles. If they know they have been exposed to measles, however, they might consider a second shot. Health care workers, school teachers, day-care providers and anyone who works with children are advised to get a second measles vaccination.

Measles is a highly contagious disease and is a severe illness. Complications may include pneumonia, meningitis or encephalitis (infection of the brain). Houston and Dallas have had severe outbreaks and more cases are expected to travel north through the state so that our area could be affected by next year.

Munday Rural Health Clinic has obtained a supply of the measles vaccine. People who feel they or their children may need the vaccine may contact their private physician for more information.

Humid Heat Can Cause Hypothermia

The late spring of 1990 may be remembered in parts of Texas as a time for torrential rains, flooding, high winds and lightning.

If the ravages of violent weather were not enough, an early heat wave has combined with high humidity to pose a less obvious threat.

Heat stress, or hyperthermia, causes about 200 deaths each year in the United States. The victims are usually the elderly, the very young, or people weakened by illnesses although prolonged heat stress can be fatal to anyone.

To avoid overheating, people should wear light, loose-fitting clothing and drink more than their normal intake of water. Those with heart or respiratory conditions or people taking medications should be especially aware of early signs of physical problems.

The symptoms of dehydration include muscle cramps, dizziness, nausea, low blood pressure and headaches. Anyone with these symptoms should immediately find shade, ventilation and fluids--preferably water--to drink until the symptoms subside.

Savings Bond Interest Rate Shows Increase

The semiannual market-based interest rate for United States Savings, in effect from May 1 through October 31, 1990, has been set at 7.01 percent, the Treasury Department recently announced.

Catalina V. Villalpando, Treasurer of the United States and National Director of the U.S. Savings Bonds program, called the new rate -- nearly unchanged from the previous six month rate of 6.98 percent -- "a reflection of the relatively stable nature of market activity during the past year. While little changed, the new rate will keep Savings Bonds in the competitive range with other market-sensitive instruments during the coming months."

Savings Bonds semiannual rates are changed each May 1 and November 1 to reflect market activity during the preceding six months. The new rate is 85 percent of the average market yield on five-year Treasury marketable securities between November 1, 1989, and April 30, 1990, 8.25 percent. The previous rate, 6.98 percent, was in effect from November 1989 through April 1990.

For bonds held at least five years, yields at redemption are the average of semiannual market-based rates during the time held, compounded semiannually, or a minimum rate, whichever is greater. The current guaranteed minimum rate is six percent. EE Bonds held less than five years earn interest on a fixed, graduated scale.

The market-based rate program for U.S. Savings Bonds has been in effect since November 1, 1982, and has been responsible for a marked turnaround in the sale of Bonds during the past decade. Since 1982, when sales of $3.1 billion marked the lowest ebb for the program since it was established in 1941, the Bond program has seen sales increase 150 percent, to $7.7 billion in 1989. During the same period, the value of Bonds held by Americans has increased by 76 percent, from $68 billion in November 1982 to $120 billion today.

FARM AND RANCH REPORT

By Donnie Peters

COTTON PRODUCERS...TO SPRAY OR NOT

By this week, cotton planted at the May 14 cotton planting date should be nearing the pin-head square stage and producers will be faced with the decision to spray for over-wintered boll weevils.

In determining the need for insecticide application, cotton producers should check fields that have pin-head squares or larger.

If 2 or more weevils are found per 100 plants or 5 weevils per hundred foot of row, then producers should treat fields.

Another treatment should be applied at a 3-5 interval.

If weevils are not found then producers may choose not to make applications.

In monitoring boll weevil traps which have been run on weekly basis and located throughout the county, an average of 11.5 weevils per trap were found as opposed to a 1989 average of 114.4 weevils per tran in the week of June 6.

Products labeled for use in controlling boll weevils include Guthion, Sevin, Malathion, Mathyl Parathion, Vydate and Imidan. Producers should have a good idea of the boll weevils in cotton fields and if no weevils can be found then avoid destroying beneficials which are building levels in fields and in addition save spraying costs.

From sunup to sundown, you won't find a more useful farm hand than the Polaris Trail Boss 2x4. It hauls tools and parts to almost anywhere on your operation. It has optional implements like a mower and dirt/snow blade. Some farmers even use the Trail Boss 2x4 for light field work, like spraying, especially since its light weight and balloon tires won't compact the soil. And once chores are finished, the Trail Boss 2x4 works just as hard at something else: Play.

BENJAMIN NEWS

By Mrs. Gladene Green

Homecoming 1990 has come and gone and Benjamin was a busy little place this past weekend because of it. Registration began Friday afternoon at the memorial building, and those who came Friday night again enjoyed the free supper of sandwiches, chips and dip plus other snacks provided by the "good folks of the community".

The dance began at 9 p.m., and the highlight of the evening was the coronation of the queen. Gertrude Sams Jones, 1988 queen, relinquished her crown to Nelda Holmes Timberlake. Nelda also received a bouquet of roses and she and her husband, Charlie, then started the dancing. The night ended around 1 a.m.

Folks were "rearin to go" early Saturday morning. Horse races and games, plus more visiting, were the morning's activities. An arts and craft display held at the memorial building was provided to let folks know there is a lot of talent in the area.

The parade went as scheduled, starting promptly at 4 p.m. Thirty-one floats including horsebackers, motor vehicles, bicycles, clowns, and floats on trailers and pickups provided a very nice parade and a variety of "know-how" for everyone.

Trophies were awarded the winners. B J's Country Store won the Best Motorized Vehicle. The Mustang Cafe won the trophy for the best bicycle brigade. In wagons or buggies, the Pitchfork Ranch of Guthrie took the honors. The Best Theme float went to the Little Ole Hens Home Demonstration Club, who also won the Sweepstakes Trophy. This year's parade theme was "The South-west Look".

A business meeting followed the parade. Sammy Pierce, Ex-Student Association president, presided. Ben Grill, superintendent of schools, gave a run-down on the school situation and introduced the BHS graduates of each decade back to 1920, and gave them a chance to stand and be recognized. Collins Moorhouse was the only graduate there from the class of 1924. Dicky McCanlies, treasurer, reported on the financial status of the association.

New officers were nominated and elected for the coming two years. Sammy Pierce will again be the president, Judie Ryder Whitten will serve as vice-president, and Kathy Roberson Waldron and Dicky McCanlies will return as secretary and treasurer, respectively. Other board members are Nancy McGréger, Kenneth Groves, Wyman Meinzer, Philomac Roberson and Donnie Ryder. Jim Bob Bisbee is ex-officio president of the association and Buddy Tolson is outgoing vice-president.

A BBQ supper, complete with all the trimmings, was served at 6 p.m. More visiting followed and a dance concluded the day's fun.

Sunday morning worship services were held in the District Courtroom. Stanton Brown was in charge of the program. Charles Jones led the singing, accompanied by Bobby Frank Hudson at the organ.

The message was brought by Terry Cartwright, 1974 graduate of BHS. Terri is the son of Dub and Jo Cartwright, and now resides in Lakewood, Colorado, where he is pastor of a Church of Christ.

His message brought the end to the ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT: Mr. and Mrs. Ronald S. The couple will exchange vows on August 4, 1990. The future bride is employed by Sedgwick James of Texas Inc. The bride-elect is a 1981 graduate of R. L. Turner High School and is employed by Ronald S. Coody Insurance. Ricky is the grandson of L. O. homecoming, and a very busy weekend. Folks parted their ways, each one looking forward to the next reunion.

Folks here at Benjamin are glad you all came and hope you had a good time.

Pat Stevens of Safford, Arizona, and her granddaughter, Stephanie of Douglas, Wyoming, and Peggy Dillard of Lubbock, visited their sister, Virginia Griffith, Thursday and Friday.

Here for homecoming and visiting Omitene Barnett during the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Jerrel Barnett of Baytown.

Kenneth and Jessie Roberts, Bea Parks and Pam Duke attended the wedding of a niece and cousin in Wylie on Saturday.

Opal McClain of Leonard returned home Sunday after a two week visit in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, James and Jimmie Klutts.

Heath Driver of Albuquerque, NM is spending a few days with his grandmother, Bertha Driver, and other relatives and friends.

Buddy Crenshaw of El Paso was here for homecoming. He reported that his dad, Fred Crenshaw (Snot) of Matador, had fallen and broken his hip about three weeks ago and is in a Lubbock hospital. He looked forward to homecoming, but his misfortune kept him from being here.

The Cross and The Flame

First United Methodist Church
Loren Gardner, pastor

This column was written by the Rev. Ross Dunn, pastor of Kingswood United Methodist Church in Clovis, New Mexico. I like what he said, and I want to share it with you this week.

"I read one time that the United States Navy has 768 ships which comprise what they call the 'mothball navy'. These ships are anchored in various harbors around the country. They receive regular maintenance, being repainted periodically and receiving frequent electrical impulses to retard the process of rust and corrosion. Moisture content of the air in their inner compartments is kept at a proper level with giant humidifiers. While these ships can be readied for combat on very short notice, at the present time, they just sit there doing absolutely nothing. The only purpose they serve is to provide jobs for those who provide their upkeep.

It set me to thinking about 'mothball Christians'. How many do you suppose comprise that fleet? They are being preserved somewhat through the ministry of concerned friends. They consume incredible amounts of time and energy in local churches. Periodically, someone must go after them and try to reactivate them. Their talents and abilities are not being used for anything constructive as far as their church is concerned. They are on the church roll and perhaps feel snugly harbored because of it. They receive a lot of attention and loving concern, but never give anything in return. They are served, not serving.

I can see a legitimate reason for maintaining our 'mothball navy'. National security is at stake. But there is no excuse for believers to remain inactive. The energy and manpower needed to win the world is sidetracked--used up on those who should be involved in helping reach the world. Every Christian is responsible for using his or her God-given abilities for the salvation of the world.

If you are a believer, why not consider taking your Christianity, your time, and abilities out of mothballs to serve the Lord?

Come join us at First United Methodist Church.

Hit me, if you can!

Miss Gleghorn And Danny Sloan Are Married In Garden Ceremony

Kayla Denise Gleghorn became the bride of Danny Wayne Sloan on the morning of June 9, in the garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Myers in Munday. Rev. Loren Gardner, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Munday, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gleghorn of Joshua and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sloan of Munday. The bride's grandparents are Mrs. Gladys Tipps and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Glen Gleghorn, all of Seymour. Mrs. Glea Conatser of Levelland is the groom's grandmother.

Decorations in the garden included two wooden heart-shaped candelabras made by the bride's brother, Kyle Gleghorn. Adorning the tree were two bows with streamers in the bride's chosen colors, peach and country green.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a tea length gown of candlelight satin. The fitted bodice, designed with a boat neckline and a lace inset, featured tulip sleeves and came to a deep V in the back. The matching hat worn by the bride had a band of tulle net with a bow and streamers attached to the back of the brim which was made by the bride's mother. She carried a bouquet of peach and white roses, carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Diana Beverly of Crane was matron of honor. She wore a floral dress in the bride's chosen colors of peach and country green and carried long stemmed peach and white roses and plumoss.

Chris Moore of Grapevine served as best man. Ushers were Kerry Therwhanger of Megargel and Matt and ties.

MRS. DANNY WAYNE SLOAN

The bride's parents were hosts for a reception in the Myers' home following the ceremony. The table was covered with a white cloth with bows in the bride's colors. Centerpiece for the table was the bride's bouquet surrounded by greenery. The three-tiered Italian creme wedding cake was decorated with tiny peach flowers and bows. A Precious Moments cake top was used. Punch was served from a crystal bowl and appointments were crystal. Serving were Mrs. Philda Dudgeon, sister of the groom, Mrs. Tracy Gleghorn, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Diana Beverly, all of Crane.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Michels Corner Inn on Friday, June 8.

After a wedding trip to St. Matin

Island in the Caribbean, the couple will make their home in Crane, where they are both coaches and teachers in the Crane school system.

The bride is a graduate of McGregor High School and Texas A&M University. The groom graduated from Munday High School and Angelo State University.

The Lord's Corner

by Dr. Pete Bradford, pastor
First Baptist Church

Have you discovered that God's heavenly timetable doesn't always make good earthly sense?

You know God has the perfect marriage partner for you, but as the years slip by you grow more and more impatient . . .

You know God wants you to succeed in your work, but year after year you labor at the same task with no promotion in sight . . .

You know God wants you to help win the world for Him, but after years of teaching Sunday School . . .

Are you becoming impatient with God's timetable for your life? Do some "wait watching" today. Meditate on Isaiah 25:0; 30:18; 40:31.

See you next week, and remember: patience is accepting a difficult situation without giving God a deadline to remove it.

DOUBLE MOUNTAIN COACH PROVIDES SERVICE TO 6 COUNTIES

The Double Mountain Coach, located on South Washington in Aspermont Small Business Development Center offices, is a rural public transportation service utilized by the general public of our six (6) county service area. This service is equipped with nine vans that provide transportation to qualifying individuals in Stonewall, Kent, Knox, Jones, Haskell and Throckmorton counties. Four of these vans are stationed in Aspermont, one van is equipped with a wheelchair lift and other features which make travel for medical passengers more comfortable. The other vans are standard vans with many comfort options. The other vans are located in Jayton, Haskell, Hamlin and Throckmorton.

The Double Mountain Coach service employs eleven employees in the entire program. This service has been available for the counties for six years and many residents of our area have derived a great benefit from it. The passengers are picked up at their homes, taken where they need to go and returned back to their homes by the drivers of the vans. Drivers are Vance Morgan, Marshall Conner, Gloria Cork, Melvin Scott and Rick Montez. All drivers have had training in CPR, First-Aid, Passenger Assistance Techniques and Defensive Driving.

Most of our trips, at this time, are medical related; however, other requests are taken as space is available. The Double Mountain Coach Program Director is Dana Myers. The economy and the publicity of the service have contributed to the rise of passengers.

Service is curb-to-curb and all seats are reserved on a first come, first serve basis and a 24-hour advance notice is required. More information may be received by calling 989-2239.

Stealing electricity is against the law!

Stealing electricity is a felony.

Some people tamper with their electric meters to avoid paying for the energy they use. Stealing electricity is a felony offense in the state of Texas and violators will be prosecuted. West Texas Utilities' Current Diversion Department is working hard to help combat the growing problem of energy theft.

Energy theft is dangerous.

Not only is service theft a crime, but it is also very dangerous. Serious injuries can result from meter tampering.

A crime against you!

When someone steals electricity, they are not only stealing from WTU — they are also stealing from you, as a rate-payer. Just as shoplifting increases the cost of items you buy in the store, power theft increases the cost of your electric service.

WTU will prosecute.

Because we are concerned about the dangers and costs resulting from meter tampering, West Texas Utilities will prosecute energy thieves.

Mammography Service Receives Accreditation

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit of Odessa which services Munday today received the certification of the American College of Radiology Mammography Accreditation Program.

The voluntary program is designed to insure that women receive optimum quality mammographic examinations. The American Cancer Society and other medical experts see mammography as the best means for the early detection of breast cancer. Accreditation must be renewed every three years.

Statistics show that breast cancer will strike one in ten American women. The American Cancer Association recommends that women do monthly breast self-examinations and have regular physical breast exams by a doctor. It further recommends mammography on the following schedule:

A baseline mammogram between age 35 and 39.

A mammogram every one or two years between age 40 and 49.

An annual mammogram from age 50.

The Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Munday on Thursday, July 5. Call 422-4222 for an appointment.

The public is encouraged to attend the fashion show and support these youth.

SUNGLASSES: PROPER PROTECTION CAN SAVE YOUR SIGHT

Sunglasses are more than a fashion statement. They can help preserve your vision and might save you the cost of a cataract operation.

Prolonged or severe exposure to sunlight has proved to be a factor in the formation of cataracts, a clouding of the lens that can lead to blindness if left untreated. The culprit is ultraviolet (UV) light, which also is responsible for tanning and sunburn.

Because the Earth's protective ozone layer acts as a UV filter, many experts believe the risk of cataracts (and skin cancer) will increase as the ozone layer continues to deteriorate.

Fortunately, wearing sunglasses can provide all the protection you need against the sun's eye-damaging effects. But not all sunglasses are created equal, and even a seemingly common-sense approach to selecting and buying a pair may not guarantee protection against UV light.

In general, sunglasses' protective capabilities have little or nothing to do with cost, color, darkness or brand. The protection comes from special lens coating that block UV rays.

No national standards have been set for sunglasses, but the Sunglass

Association of America has adopted a voluntary labeling system that consumers can use to assess a pair of glasses' ability to block out UV light. Two forms of UV light may harm the eyes--ultraviolet A (UVA) and ultraviolet B (UVB).

Sunglasses labeled "special purpose" block virtually all UVB and at least 60% of UVA. "General purpose" glasses block at least 95% of UVB and 60% of UVA, and "cosmetic" sunglasses protect the eyes from at least 70% UVB and 20% of UVA. Many sunglass manufacturers use labels or tags to indicate whether their glasses meet the UV blocking criteria.

You should be able to find a fully protective pair of sunglasses for $15 to $20. Glasses that fit close to the forehead provide better protection. If you already have a favorite - but not fully protective - pair of sunglasses, ask your optometrist about adding a protective coating to the lenses.

People who don't like to wear glasses or find them impractical to use in outdoor activities can reduce UV exposure to their eyes by up to 50% by wearing wide-brimmed hats or baseball-type caps.

Whatever route you choose, don't forget to protect your eyes - and your skin - from the sun's rays this summer.

TOFU A GOOD SUBSTITUTE

Tofu, an inexpensive meat substitute that works great in lasagna and casseroles, is not just for vegetarians. Four ounces, or just about 80 calories' worth of soybean curd, contain 200 milligrams of calcium (25 percent of the recommended dietary allowance), plenty of protein, a fair amount of iron, no cholesterol, and only a trace of sodium. And while tofu is rather high in fat, like many protein sources, most of that fat is polyunsaturated.

TRUSCOTT-GILLILAND NEWS

By Mrs. Clara Brown

Pat VanDyke is still visiting her mother, Mrs. Clara Owens. Pat and Clara Brown had a long visit one afternoon and recalled the long lines of wheat trucks that used to occur every harvest. They remembered when the Sub-Deb Club used to sell sandwiches and lemonade to the truckers. Pat said her husband, Dick, made a home video about harvest and interviewed some combine owners. Dick was surprised to learn the combines cost $100,000.00 and up.

Chris Shook and children of Lillian spent Wednesday to Saturday of last week visiting her parents, Elmo and Billie Shaw.

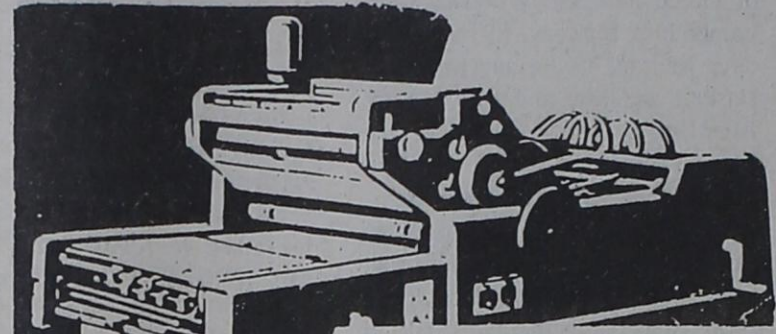

June and Newell Looney spent June 6-12 in Hawaii on an insurance trip she had earned. They got back in time for hot weather.

Gail Whitley, Crystal Dishman, and Ila Mae Bullion were in San Angelo Friday to Sunday for the Saturday night wedding of Ila Mae's niece, Pam Hedden, daughter of Lou Ann and Forrest Hedden of San Angelo. They stayed with Ila Mae's sister, Nadine Nibbling. Gail carried the partly-decorated wedding cake down in the van and finished it Saturday morning.

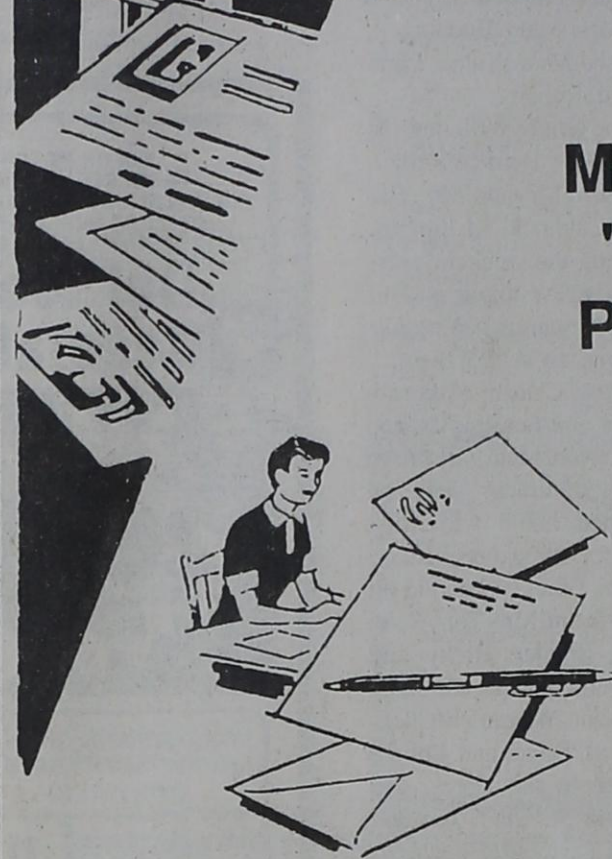

The Shirley Moores visited in Amarillo last Thursday to Sunday.

Norma Lee of Vernon, Vernol Jones of Crowell, and Edgar Jones had dinner with Jack and Clara Brown on Father's Day.
