Cotton Scouting Rules, Deadline Are Announced

Knox County cotton producers can sign up for the county Boll Weevil Association cotton scouting subsidy program at either the Rhineland Co-op Gin or Farmers Grain Co-op in Munday. Producers have until June 12 to sign up. Rules and sign up forms for the program are available at both of the locations listed above.

Producers interested in participating in the program need to be aware of the following:

1. Only cotton acreage grown in Knox County that was planted on or after the uniform planting date (May 25) is eligible for this program.

2. Person hired as cotton scout by the producer must have a college degree in entomology or a degree in agriculture and have two or more years professional experience scouting cotton.

3. Person hired as a cotton scout by the producer cannot be associated with a company that applies, sells or distributes pesticides used in the production of cotton.

4. Person hired as a cotton scout and the producer he or she is scouting for must sign the Cotton Scouting Agreement Contract and must be approved by the Knox County Boll Weevil Association executive committee before any scouting is done.

5. The Knox County Boll Weevil Association will reimburse producers who have turned in their Cotton Scouting Agreement Contract a maximum of $2.00 per acre upon the receipt of a signed Cotton Scouting Statement at the end of the growing season.

6. Cotton scouts approved by the Knox County Boll Weevil Association executive committee will be required to report insect population, applied control measures and fruiting data on one cotton field to the county Extension agent on a regular basis.

7. The Knox County Boll Weevil Association executive committee reserves the right to interpret these guidelines as necessary, the right to accept or refuse any or all Cotton Scouting Agreement Contracts, and the right to stop the program at any time without notice.

SHOVELING THE LAST FEW grains of wheat from a truck are Kenny Moore, left, and Kent Josselet, employees at Farmers Grain Co-op in Munday. The co-op took in several truck loads of wheat Monday after combiners got started about 3 p.m. Elevator manager Sonny Moore said many of these combine crews will be pulling out in about a week if the weather stays clear. In this event, the 1987 wheat harvest may be a short one.

Special Awards Presented To 1987 MHS Graduates

Christy Morgan, daughter of Melton and Kathy Morgan, was the top award winner when Munday High School's 1987 senior class received diplomas at commencement exercises Friday night.

Methodist Choir To Perform Here

Spirit Wind 1987, a Methodist youth choir, will perform at 7 p.m. Saturday, June 13, at the First United Methodist Church in Munday. Choir members are young people who were selected from more than 70 who auditioned and are representative of churches of all sizes in the Northwest Texas United Methodist Conference, which covers the Panhandle and West Texas area.

Spirit Wind's 1987 program is in four sections, representing different styles of sacred choral music written by composers such as John Ness Ceck, Douglas Wagner, Lloyd Pfautsch, Edwin Penhorwood, Ken Medema, Michael Jothan, J.S. Bath, John Rutter and Eugene Butler.

The choir is under the direction of Bert Bostic, music and program director at St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Midland, and Donny McAvoy, a music major at Southwestern University in Georgetown. Debby Vester, music assistant at St. Luke, is accompanist, and Patsy Giles, a guidance counselor at Hereford High School, is technical director and arrangement coordinator.

The concert is free, according to Rev. Russ Byard, church pastor, and the public is invited to attend.

Knox Area Weather Turns Wet And Wild

When a Knox County springtime is as uncommonly mild as this one has been, everyone knows that the bad weather is going to catch up with us sooner or later. And it did just that last Thursday, putting the county in a tornado warning and dumping over four inches of unwelcome rain and some hail on area farmland.

During the month of May, Munday received 9.95 inches of rain, which is exactly .04 more than the January-May rainfall total in 1986. So far in 1987 we've had almost twice that much.

Some parts of the country have registered from ten to twelve inches of moisture during the past month, and other areas are somewhat drier. Water is beginning to recede from low-lying areas where bridges washed out and some county roads had to be closed. Water crossed the road north of the Rhineland bridge where the river went out of its banks, and Highway 222 was flooded in several places.

Schools and nursing homes in the county had the opportunity to practice their tornado drill routine when the warning whistle was sounded in Munday, Knox City and Benjamin Thursday morning. Spotters located some funnel clouds, but none did any reported damage. High winds that blew in with unseasonably low temperatures flattened corn and other tall plants in area gardens.

The rain has delayed wheat harvest and cotton planting to some extent, but combiners were in the fields early this week. Billy Mitchell of Goree brought in the first load of wheat to Farmers Grain Co-op in Munday at 5 p.m. Sunday. The crop, taken from fields northwest of Goree, tested 13.7 for moisture content and weighed 58.1 pounds per bushel.

Elevator manager Maynard Moore said the test weights on wheat samples are disappointingly low, and yields are ranging from 20 to 35 bushels per acre. His crew unloaded 90 trucks Monday afternoon, and damage from the late freeze, early heat and excessive rainfall - or a combination of these factors - can be seen. The grains of wheat are very small, Moore said, and some are bleached and weather-beaten.

"Another week of weather like we had Monday should dry most of the ground up enough to cut wheat," Moore continued. "We've got lots of harvest crews in town, and it won't take long to cut once they all get started."

Larry Smith of TXS Vegetable Producers said the rain and high winds had washed the soil away from some of his potatoes. "There's nothing we can do about them," he said, "they're just ruined."

Smith plans to begin digging his crop on June 15, barring any more wet weather. Several acres of potatoes and onions have been drowned out and are rotting in the fields. The producer estimates about 5 percent of his tonnage lost so far.

Ironically, Smith said he would start watering drier ground mid-week. "We're moving around the mudholes on one end of the field, trying to plant cotton," he said, "and watering potatoes at the other end."

The price for chipper potatoes is very high now, according to Smith, and he is hoping it will stay constant for another few weeks. The crop is

Splash Day Is Next Monday

Annual Splash Day at the Munday Swimming Pool has been set for Monday, June 8. Swimmers can enjoy the first day of the official swimming season free, and after that the admission will be $1 per person per day.

During the rest of the summer, the pool will be closed on Monday, but due to schedule conflicts it was decided to open the pool on a Monday instead of having Splash Day on Sunday and being closed the following day.

Regular hours for the pool will be 1-5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. Kelli Smith will serve as pool manager again this year, and she and Annette LeFevre will alternate lifeguard duties. As in the past, parents must accompany children inside the fence, and children must demonstrate their ability to swim unless accompanied in the pool by a parent or other adult. Non-cooperation with the pool manager or failure to abide by the rules will result in eviction from the pool.

Parents are reminded that swimming is an enjoyable but potentially dangerous sport. Small children and those who cannot swim competently should stay in shallow water, and the only way to ensure their complete safety is for a responsible adult to watch them as they play. Letting such children come to the pool alone and expecting the lifeguard to dedicate all her attention to them is a form of neglect, and parents who are not able or prepared to spend time at the pool with their children are reminded that swimming lessons are available locally. These lessons are an investment in both pleasure and safety that will last a lifetime.

Nursing Center Residents Need Flag

Munday Nursing Center residents were recently treated to bowls of homemade ice cream, courtesy of the family council members. Six freezers of ice cream were devoured and enjoyed.

A tentative date for the next family night has been set, pending confirmation from the entertainment group. Families of the residents provide salads for a meal, and everyone enjoys sharing the good food and fellowship.

Volunteers are needed at the Nursing Center on Friday mornings. Ruby Myers leads a Bible and song session each Friday but needs some help in leading the songs. Anyone who is interesting in helping will be welcome and greatly appreciated.

The resident council of the center is interested in securing an American flag that can be placed in a standard in the living room of the nursing home and hung outside on special days. The center has a flag, but it is so old and faded it could not be used on Memorial Day, and this is a cause of concern to many of the residents. Donations will be needed to defray expenses of purchasing a new flag, and anyone willing to contribute to this fund should contact Nancy Cypert, activities director, at 422-4541.

late this year because of several days of cool, cloudy weather during which the potatoes did not grow.

Although the rain has pushed back the uniform cotton planting date (it was May 25), cotton producers think the delayed planting will be good for the crop. By the time the cotton leaves are big enough to support boll weevils, most of the insects will be dead, so weevils are not expected to be as big a problem in Knox County as first thought.

The added moisture in the ground may also be a plus for cotton growers. Abundant soil moisture in the early days and a decreased threat of boll weevil infestation may be indicators of a bumper crop, according to county Extension Agent David Tunmire, who said farmers would be getting into their fields in a few days if the clear weather holds. Unfortunately, Mother Nature has plenty of other disasters in her bag of tricks, and all agri-businessmen can do is hope that the bag stays closed.

One thing that can be predicted is the fact that we'll have plentiful drinking water for some time. The brightest spot in all this mud is at Miller Creek Reservoir, where water is running over the spillway. Jerry Atkinson, manager of the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority, said the lake had not crested Monday. Atkinson had done some homework on the gallon amount resulting from all the rain, and he calculated that the three-foot extension added to the original spillway has held over three billion (3,162,000,000) gallons of water, an amount which will take seven years to sell. Water authority officials can congratulate themselves on their foresight and planning. In addition, the fishing should be fine for the June 14 bass tournament at the lake.

Wonder if the beleaguered farmers will take any consolation from that?

JUDGING HOW MUCH LAUNDRY DETERGENT TO USE

The consumer does laundry to clean clothes, of course; to remove dirt and bacteria and to make clothes sanitary and useable. Because the items in the family wash will be used again and again, consumers expect that laundry products will assure a reasonably long life for their washables.

The detergent performs several functions in the laundering process. It helps the water to wet the fabrics and the soil quickly and thoroughly, ties up water hardness to permit the detergent to do its cleaning job, loosens and removes soils from fabrics and holds the removed dirt in the washing solution to prevent it from depositing on the fabrics before it can be rinsed away.

When too little detergent is used, one or all of these functions will suffer.

Detergent manufacturer's package instructions are based on what will give the best cleaning and total product performance under conditions most homemakers usually encounter.

However, conditions vary from home to home and even between washloads, within a home. Among the variations to be considered are:

Kind of soil - from sand and dust to heavy grease.

Amount of soil - from light to heavy.

Type of items in the wash load - from frilly blouses to sturdy jeans.

Size of load - from small to large.

Water conditions - from soft to hard; from cold to hot.

Water volume - from as few as two gallons in a wash basin to seventeen or more gallons in a washing machine.

Individual standards and expectations must also be considered. Since the detergent manufacturer has no control over these many variables, homemakers must use judgment in adjusting the recommended product usage to their specific needs.

A TAXPAYER'S GUIDE TO DONATED GOODS AND THE IRS

Most people know they're entitled to a tax deduction when donating items to charities. Deciding how much to deduct is the problem. The IRS guidelines is fair market value (the price you, an informed and willing seller, would get if you sold the item to an informed and willing buyer). Some charities give you an appraisal figure, but others do not. In either case, the IRS requires proof you made the donation and documentation supporting its appraised value.

The following guidelines, prepared with the help of the Salvation Army and Goodwill, suggest some price ranges for items in good condition.

★ Truscott - Gilliland News

By Mrs. Clara Brown

Last week was filled with rain and threats of rain. Reports around Truscott and Gilliland were from two inches of rain up. The wheat farmers are begging for sunshine just about as hard as they were asking for rain six weeks ago. It will take several days of sunshine, and maybe a southwest wind, to dry the fields.

Edgar Jones had to spend last Thursday night with Jack and Clara Brown because he couldn't get to his house from Truscott or from the dump ground road either. The North Wichita has been up since last Thursday. Water washed over the highway south of the bridge, but didn't ever get up on the bridge. Someone said the telephone cable buried under the river was damaged. Water was out of the channel and spread all over the lowlands near the river.

Joe Brown in the Wichita Falls paper said this rain, on what weather men called a 1,000 mile long front, was a once in a thousand years occurrence for Wichita Falls since the Wichita River, Holliday Creek, and the Red River all crested at the same time. Reports upriver in King and Cottle counties were for up to 8 inches of rain in some places.

The sun came up full blast Monday morning and birds were singing all along China Creek. The sky was a hard, clear blue with the only hazy spots being one almost transparent cloud in the northeast and a few streaks in the west.

The Little Dribblers adult sponsors are still working to add to the fund to send the girls to the tournament in the panhandle this week. They try to see that all room and food expenses are paid so that no girl has to refuse the honor she earned because of not being able to afford to go. Gail Whitley, Kristy Kimmell, Janet Conner and Dolly Vincent of Benjamin, and Candy Hudgens and Sheila Eavenson of Crowell played in a fund raiser volleyball tournament for the little girls trip one night last week.

Vula and Derrell Hord were in the panhandle for four days last week at the Wair Ranch near Boys Ranch, northwest of Amarillo. Vula said she enjoyed going through the Boys Ranch museum.

Margaret Daniel is out of school for the summer. She will be back in kindergarten next fall.

The Harold Barrys are home after several weeks at San Antonio and Seguin.

Ray and Doris Welch of Vernon visited in the L.D. Welch home Sunday afternoon.

Becky and Tracy Baty of Howe visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.D. Welch, Saturday and Sunday. Other visitors in the Welch home were Linda and George Oustad, Kevin and Leann of Munday, Susan and Tracy Cartwright of Benjamin, and Dennis and Charlotte, Julie and Adam of Truscott. Becky and Tracy came for Leann's graduation.

Tommy Shaw of Fort Worth visited the Elmo Shaws over the weekend.

Ruby Lee Wisdom and her daughter, Darlene Young, both of Lubbock, visited Bryan and Lorene Jones over Memorial Day. J.C. and Lucille Langston also were dinner guests in the Jones home.

Members of the Truscott History committee are scheduled for Joe Brown's tv program at 6:30 a.m. Thursday, if they can leave Truscott at 4 a.m.

Why We Shouldn't Use Alcohol At All

(Editor's Note: The following composition was written by Jeffory Johnson, 14-year-old grandson of James and Emma Williams of Munday. Jeffory is the son of Sharon and Jim Johnson of Long Beach, Cal., and a freshman at Southern California Military Academy. We should all heed Jeffory's sensible comments.)

WHY WE SHOULDN'T USE ALCOHOL AT ALL

We don't need it! If it had never been invented, then we could live without it. But it was invented. Some people fall into the trap of alcoholism and just go deeper and deeper from there. You will ruin your family and lose most of your friends - except for the ones that are in the hole with you.

No one likes a loud mouthed know-it-all. That's what you become when you use such a deadly drug as alcohol. I don't see how anyone could even stand the taste of it. It tastes like you're drinking household cleaning products. Another reason, and the most important, is drunk driving. Drunk driving is one of the top killers of teenagers and adults in the United States.

When people drink, it dulls their senses so they might think they are able to drive, but their perception is all fouled up. If there is a signal, the driver's reaction to it will be delayed by the alcohol in him. He will have less time to stop his vehicle. Sometimes it's not enough time.

A lot of innocent people are killed by drunk drivers. Just recently, there was a story on the news about a teenager who had a basketball game one night. That night his parents, little brother, and girlfriend were killed by a drunk driver on the way home from his game. That example right there is reason enough not to use alcohol, but drinking people ignore these innocent victims of drunk drivers - thinking this could not happen to them.

I think people should get smart and give up this drug. Drugs kill. There are many different types of clinics one can go to and get professional help, but many people ignore getting professional help, because they think they don't need any help. But the smart people do realize they have a problem and seek the help they need. I wish everyone could just give up alcohol and make it a thing of the past. It would make the world a better place to live.

I don't see how anyone could put their lives in jeopardy over a drink that tastes like bleach. It's very stupid, in my opinion, that thousands of people are killed because alcoholics won't take the responsibility to know when to stop drinking, or realize they've had one too many and are unable to drive. How many teenagers and adults would be alive today, if the alcoholic had known when not to drive. All in all, a top priority reason you shouldn't use alcohol is for YOURSELF! Do you want to live out the rest of your life with the haunting nightmare that you killed someone - or maybe several people? And you might want to program this thought into your mind: "That Person You Kill Could Be YOU!!!"

Longtime District Judge Dies May 28

Lewis M. Williams, 85, of Knox City, former district attorney and judge, died Thursday, May 28, in the Haskell Memorial Hospital. Funeral services were at 3 p.m. Saturday, May 30, at the First Christian Church in Knox City with Rev. Derrell Marion, Rev. Floyd Bailey and Rev. Leon Ward, all Knox City pastors, officiating. Burial was in the Knox City Cemetery under the direction of Smith Funeral Home.

He was born October 29, 1901, in Limestone County and moved to Haskell County as a child. A Knox City resident since 1948, he moved to Benjamin in 1926. Williams was first elected to public office in 1934 when he became Knox County Attorney. In 1935 he was elected district attorney of the 50th Judicial District, and in 1940 he was elected district judge. He served in that capacity for 31 years, retiring in 1971.

Williams was a member of the state and American bar associations, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club and Masonic Lodge and was a 32nd degree Mason. He was also a member of the Dallas Scottish Rite and the Wichita Falls Maskat Temple and had served as chairman of the Knox County Housing Authority board and as president of the Brazos Valley Care Home. An elder at the First Christian Church in Knox City, he taught the men's Bible class and served as lay preacher.

Survivors include his wife, Myrtle; a son, Clyde E. Williams of Knox City; two grandsons and six great-grandchildren.

Locals' Daughter Receives Doctorate

Former Knox County resident Judith Ann Hunter was awarded the degree of Doctor of Medicine by the University of Texas Health Sciences Center in Houston during commencement exercises held Saturday, May 30.

Dr. Hunter, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Hunter of Munday, received her bachelors and masters degrees from Texas Tech University and is a graduate of Munday High School. She will begin a residency in psychiatry at Timberlawn and Baylor Hospitals in Dallas on July 1.

MILLER CREEK'S "JAWS": Benny Little, left, and Quinn Smith are hoisting 60 pounds of catfish taken from a trotline at Miller Creek Reservoir Sunday afternoon. The fish measured 46 inches long, with a six-inch spread between the eyes. The young men had their trotline in about 15 feet-deep water, and to their knowledge, their catch is the biggest taken from the lake.

OXYGEN DEPLETION A PROBLEM IN FARM FISH PONDS

During the hot, dry summer, farm fish ponds often suffer from oxygen depletion, and the result is fish die-off. Recently I talked with Sterling Lewis of Knox City about this problem in his pond.

Oxygen depletion can result from a combination of factors, some of which cannot be controlled by the producer. One of these is the weather. Hot, still and cloudy conditions do little to generate oxygen production in a farm pond. In fact, this condition can cause die-offs of oxygen-producing phytoplankton, which may further increase oxygen debt. In addition, cold heavy rain can cause a pond to run over, which further increases oxygen demand and the likelihood of a depletion.

A pond owner can do several things to lessen the likelihood of an oxygen depletion. One is to maintain fish populations below 1,000 pounds per surface acre. This can be a problem for pondowners managing intensively for catfish in small ponds. Weed control in the spring rather than summer will also help reduce oxygen depletion. If weed control treatments are necessary, make spot treatments to prevent too much plant decomposition at one time.

If oxygen depletion is an immediate concern, the oxygen level can be increased by pumping water from near the surface and spraying it back over the pond. Another option is to back a boat and trailer into the water and use the outboard motor to circulate the water.

Remember, these corrective techniques are treatments and really do little to solve the real problem. If the cause of any oxygen depletion is manmade, take appropriate corrective action.

Hot, dry weather lies ahead, and oxygen depletion problems will only increase. Proper management now may prevent dead fish later on.

Letter To The Editor

This is the last week that my family and I will be living in Munday. We have enjoyed the Courier very much and would not want to leave without making arrangements for continuing to receive it in Lake Jackson.

Munday is a very special place, and we will never forget the six years we have lived here. We appreciate so much the love and acceptance the entire community has shown us. We have friends we will treasure always.

The citizens of Munday are very fortunate to have an excellent school system. Our boys have been blessed with caring, competent teachers and have enjoyed all the activities in which they were able to take part. We will all continue to have "Mogul" blood in our veins.

We love all the special people of Munday and will miss them very much. Our concern and prayers will remain, and we will look forward to hearing from "home folks" often.

God bless you,

Manage Range Brush With Individual Plant Treatments

Ranchers with limited brush problems on their ranges should consider individual plant control, and proper use of herbicides can be effective in this effort.

Ranchers can use foliar, basal or soil-applied herbicides to control sparse brush, says Dr. Wayne Hanselka, a range specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Foliar treatments consist of spraying a mixture of an approved herbicide and water on the foliage of target plants, Hanselka explains, using a handgun on a power sprayer or a compressed air sprayer. Treat plants when growing conditions will allow plant leaves to readily intake the herbicide. This means treating mesquite in the spring and early summer while huisache, macartney rose and/or blackbrush may be sprayed in the fall.

Generally, best results are obtained when growth conditions allow development of full foliage and plants are not water stressed, the range specialist points out.

Spraying or pouring a herbicide solution on the base of brush plants can also be an effective control method. Diesel fuel oil, kerosene or oil with a herbicide added are commonly used.

Basal treatments give the best results when soil is dry and soil around the plant has contracted and pulled away from the stem, notes Hanselka. Fuel oils provide excellent control under extra dry conditions. If the soil moisture is present, add a small amount of herbicide to the oil. Pour or spray the soil completely around the bottom 6 to 12 inches of each stem; use enough oil so that runoff occurs.

Soil herbicides are photosynthesis inhibitors. They are applied to the soil surface and not to the plant and require rainfall to move the chemical into the root zone. The herbicide then moves into the plant through the root system, explains Hanselka.

Conditions for application of soil applied herbicides are less restrictive than for liquid herbicides. The best application time is before high rainfall periods and plant growth, such as late winter to early spring or fall. Active plant growth allows for maximum root uptake of the herbicide. Both liquid and pelleted herbicides are available for soil application. They require more time to control brush than foliar applied herbicides, often two to three years. During this period, brush species will drop leaves and produce new leaves several times, says the specialist. Grass in the immediate area of applications may be killed, but the area will revegetate in two to three years.

Since soils high in clay or organic matter content will tie up the herbicide, Hanselka advises using soil applications only on soils with less than 40 percent clay content.

Apply liquid formulations to the soil with an exact delivery spotgun so a measured amount can be used. The target area is soil within 3 feet of the base of the main stem.

Hanselka recommends placing pelleted formulations on the soil under the drip line of the plant.

As with all chemical materials, the specialist advises following label directions concerning rates and methods of application.

In addition to herbicide treatment, individual brush plants can also be controlled by grubbing - cutting the roots. However, this practice has high labor requirements, notes Hanselka. In recent years several farm tractor attachments have been developed for economical and efficient low-energy grubbing of brush. These methods show a lot of promise and offer viable alternatives to obtaining effective and efficient brush control, he adds.

A new Extension Service bulletin, "Brush Control on Small Acreages," outlines various alternatives and is available at any local county Extension office.

Repairing Home Water Leaks Is Conservation Measure

Water conservation doesn't always mean installing new water saving devices, and developing better water usage habits. In fact, some of the most effective water conservation occurs when leaky faucets and toilet tanks are repaired.

Dr. Susan Quiring, a housing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension System says, "Leaks are not only frequent and annoying, they are also a waste of water, money, and energy."

"A faucet dripping 60 drops per minute will waste almost 2300 gallons of water per year. That's enough water to fill a swimming pool," she says. "Leaky toilets are even worse. They can waste over 300-500 gallons of water per day without anyone noticing."

The average homeowner can fix these small leaks, and possibly save themselves the expense of major repairs or replacement later on.

"Before attempting to repair a leaky faucet, make sure to shut off the water supply to the sink," says Quiring. "You may also want to line the sink with a towel to prevent scratching and to stop any parts from going down the drain. When you take the faucet apart, remember to lay the parts out in the same order that you're going to put them back together."

Toilet repair may be a little more difficult because the leak isn't always obvious. The specialist suggests putting a little food coloring in the toilet tank, letting it sit for 15 minutes, and checking to see where the food coloring is. This will at least give an indication of where the leak might be.

According to Quiring, these common problems may be easily fixed: a full tank and water continues to run; an empty tank and water continues to run; it doesn't flush properly; slow filling or noisy tank; condensation in the tank. If there is a leak under the toilet tank, it may require professional repair.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has prepared leaflets and bulletins on the subject of faucet and toilet repair which can be obtained from local Extension agents. These agents are also trained to help in this area.

Quiring adds, "Water is a precious resource that is rapidly dwindling in our state of Texas. Leak repair can be an inexpensive and effective way to help ongoing conservation efforts."

A person with ordinary vision can distinguish about 150 different colors. An expertly trained eye can distinguish more than 100,000 colors, tints and shades.

AWARDS PRESENTED

Academic, perfect attendance and scholarship awards were presented at the high school graduation.

A-awards (ones presented to students making no grade lower than an A this year) went to:

First grade - Jeremy Brock, Amanda Bufkin, Wade Pierce; second grade, Ivan Bolanos, Rachel Duke, Diandra Grill, Julie Welch and Chrystal Hibdon; third grade, Michelle Conner, Zeke Duke, Edward Estrada; fourth grade, Clay Patterson; fifth grade, Stephanie Conner; sixth grade, Kate Grill, Ricky Trepanier; seventh grade, Kristin Simmons; eighth grade, Rebekah Duke and Nocona McNitt; tenth grade, Sandra Bolanos and Francine Redder; eleventh grade, Jeff Pierce, Jody Stone, Lorrie Rolston, SuLynn Oxford Beauchamp; and twelfth grade, Becky Griffith, Sue Gideon and Stacia Ryder Propps.

A trophy was presented to the salutatorian and valedictorian. Also trophies were presented to the highest ranking student in junior high and high school. Recipient of this honor in junior high was Rebekah Duke, daughter of Dennis and Pam Duke, who boasted a yearly average of 97.29. High school recipient of this award was Francine Redder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Redder. Francine had a yearly average of 97.

The Spring Chickens Home Demonstration Club gave two $100 scholarships. President of the club, Janet Conner, presented these awards to Becky Griffith and Sue Gideon.

Only one student "persevered" all year long, didn't miss a day, and was not tardy. The perfect attendance award went to Jason Simmons. With viruses, colds, sore throats and everything else going on this past year, perfect attendance was quite an accomplishment.

Congratulations to all these young folks. We will be waiting to see what you do next year!

HERE AND THERE

How about all this rain we had last week. In our First National Bank rain gauge, we had between 6 and 7 inches all together. Reports of varying amounts came from all around the area but it was all in that range.

Michael Driver of Albuquerque, N.M. and Billie Jean Johnston of Midland visited the Van Greens Friday night. They were in this area for Trent Driver's graduation in Knox City Friday night.

Grace Snailum returned home recently after several days visit with Charles and Audie Snailum at Granite Shoals. While in that area, the Snailum family had their annual reunion at the Charles Snailum and Ted Snailum lake homes on LBJ Lake. They reported a wonderful time with beautiful weather for the event. The group enjoyed fishing, boating, lots of visiting and lots of good food.

Those attending were Claudie Lee Nunley of Amarillo, Billy and Vera Snailum of Abilene, Darr and Nancy Snailum of Ft. Stockton, Bob and Bonita Pyatt of Plainview, Ted and Peggy Snailum and Shirley and Ray Jordan of San Antonio, Jerry and Jackie Snailum of Plano, Charles and Audie Snailum of Granite Shoals and Grace Snailum of Benjamin.

Sunday guests of Grace were Angie Snailum and a friend and Lois Givens of Plano.

Grace also told me that her granddaughter, Mona Kay Nunley Williams, who has been in critical condition in an Amarillo hospital, is showing some improvement but is still in serious condition. Grace and the rest of the family ask that we all remember her in our prayers.

Kathy and Jack Waldron spent the weekend with relatives in San Antonio.

Sunday guests of Buster and Louella Tolson were their granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs.

Calvin Jackson and Charlie of Lubbock.

Jimmie Kay Ryder tells me that her mom, Eunice Friday of Dallas, has purchased a ready-built home and will move it to Benjamin. It will be on the lots where the Bill Glenn house now stands. That house is to be torn down and the new one put in its place. We all are anxious for her to make her move and we hope she enjoys living in our town.

Nora Duke spent several days this past week with the James Harvey Dukes in Throckmorton. The Dennis Dukes visited in Throckmorton on Sunday and Nora returned home with them.

Zell Barton and Anne and Danny Allen of Amarillo have been here visiting the Joe Bartons and other relatives the past few days.

Jan, Homer and Jennifer Rolston visited Craig Carver in the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock Saturday. They report Craig to be improving after suffering a heart attack a week ago. He hopes to return home in the next few days but will have to take it easy for quite a while.

Christi Whitten, Kim Cash, Susan Bolanos and Rebekah Duke left Monday morning for Tarleton State University at Stephenville for a week of cheerleading camp. They were accompanied by their sponsor, Belle Grill.

SOROSIS CLUB MEETS

Letter To The Editor

On Friday, June 5, at 2:30 p.m., The Wichita Falls Waterfall will officially be turned on. As Mayor of Wichita Falls, I would like to issue to each of you a personal invitation on behalf of the citizens of Wichita Falls to join us for this momentous occasion.

The people of your community make up an important part of this large North Texas, Southern Oklahoma area, so we think of this special event almost as a "family" reunion for the entire region -- and no one ever wants to miss a family reunion.

There are other events also planned.

The Sheraton Hotel is sponsoring a lawn party at 1 p.m. on that day for everyone interested in celebrating the falls.

Then, immediately following the turn-on of the falls, the gates to FallsFest will open at Lucy Park. This three-day festival on the banks of the Wichita River offers a variety of games, special events, continuous entertainment and any and every kind of food you might want.

A special country-western concert by Rex Allen Jr., will be held on Friday evening, and a rock concert is planned on Saturday.

So join us. Help us celebrate the turn-on of the Falls and enjoy an exciting weekend.

Sincerely,
Charles Harper, Mayor
City of Wichita Falls

P.S. If you can't make it to Wichita Falls on Friday, be sure to watch the television newscasts at 6 and 10 p.m. The opening of the Falls (at 2:30 p.m.) will be carried live on KFDX-TV, Channel 3.

Watching Washington

We've had a drought of good news for Texas agriculture over the past several years, but we are beginning to see a few hopeful signs for our state's farm economy.

Texas farmers, already the world leaders in cotton production, saw their exports more than triple in 1986. Meanwhile, a number of foreign competitors decided to cut their cotton acreage.

We have seen similar success stories in rice production, and the reason behind both is simple. It's called the marketing loan program—a tool for our farmers and leverage for our trade negotiators.

This program prevents international competitors from undercutting American producers' prices. It lets us tell the rest of the world, in effect, "No more free rides. We're going to compete."

We must help producers of all major commodities and our American trade negotiators as they fight unfair practices. That is why I have joined in sponsoring legislation to establish loan marketing programs for food grains, soybeans and wheat—unless we have secured an agricultural trade agreement which would accomplish the same goal.

Under old farm programs, unfair subsidies by other nations chased our products out of many markets. Our competitors would price their products just below ours, then sell their entire crop. Much of ours went unsold and into storage, and we accumulated huge surpluses of farm products.

The marketing loan program can change things, as the cotton and rice programs have shown. It allows the farmers' loan payments to drop enough that they can lower their prices and export their crops competitively.

But this is no giveaway program. Rather, it is a sound business deal which lowers the government's costs and benefits our economy.

For rice, the government costs dropped from more than $300 million in 1986 to about $200 million in 1987 and should decline to about $50 million in 1989 and 1990.

Meanwhile, there are more jobs on farms, in milling and in other related industries. As a result of the rice marketing loan program, the Texas economy will see $248 million of economic activity, $31 million of additional tax receipts and 3,150 more jobs over the next five years.

America's share of world trade is projected to expand to its 1970s level—23 percent (9.3 million metric tons)—by 1990-91. That's a 60 percent increase from the level before marketing loans were begun.

However, an agricultural trade agreement could achieve the same goals—price protection for our farmers while saving taxpayers' money.

A major round of trade negotiations began last fall, with the U.S. seeking to cut back agricultural subsidies and trade barriers. Unfortunately, the negotiators on the other side of the table have the upper hand and are in no hurry to deal.

But they respect the power of our marketing loans, and the possibility that we will expand these loans to feed grains, soybeans and wheat should be a powerful bargaining tool.

Weinert Cage Coach Tenders Resignation

Mark Coffman, basketball coach at Weinert High School for the past five years, has accepted a position at Bridgeport High School for the coming school year. After coaching two playoff teams at Weinert during his tenure there, Coffman will become head boys' basketball coach at Bridgeport, a Class AAA school.

Coffman is a graduate of Goree High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Coffman of Goree. He is married to the former Daria Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Jake Myers of Rhineland. The couple and their small sons, Drew and Jordan, will be moving to Bridgeport in the near future. Following the move, Coffman will spend the month of July as a staff member at the basketball camps of L.A. Lakers stars Pat Riley and John Wooden. *****

METER TAMPERING NOW A FELONY

The State of Texas has recently adopted an amendment to the State Penal Code making meter tampering a third degree felony. A third degree felony comes with a punishment of confinement in the Texas Department of Corrections for a term of not more than 10 or less than 2 years. In addition to imprisonment, an individual adjudged guilty of a third degree felony may be punished by a fine not to exceed $5,000.

Before the amendment of the new law, it was a class A misdemeanor for meter tampering unless the loss of service was more than $200. Under the new law, any meter tampering regardless of the amount of loss is now a felony of the third degree.

Meter tampering consists of, but is not limited to:

- (1) Diverting electricity from passing through a meter device.
- (2) Preventing electric service from being correctly registered by a meter device.
- (3) Unauthorized activation of electric service.

As a special note to our members, it will also be considered meter tampering if a meter is reset and electrical service is restored by anyone other than a Cooperative employee.

All Cooperative meters are sealed. This seal should not be cut or broken without special authorization. In cases where the seal must be cut for emergencies the Cooperative should be notified as soon as possible so that the meter can be resealed.
