A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Stiff candidate not nervous

If one candidate looked stiff during a Philadelphia debate, it wasn't because he was nervous. He was made of cardboard.

The debate, on WTVE-TV and involving candidates for the presidency of the Philadelphia NAACP, featured three figures sitting at a table — two people and a life-sized image of Thomas D. Logan propped up in a chair.

Logan had called before the debate to say he couldn't make it because of an undisclosed family emergency, but station officials said they felt he should be represented anyway.

There was no comment from Logan.

House-sitter not anticipated

Timothy Michel of St. Charles, Mo., got quite a surprise when he called home to check his telephone messages — someone else answered.

"I thought it was a joke from one of my friends," said Michel, a member of the Lindenwood University wrestling team. "I was going along with it for awhile, but then I was like, 'Who is this?'"

The man eventually gave his name as "Harvey," Michel said, and told Michel he was just "sitting here in the Lindenwood houses."

The man assured him he wasn't going to steal anything.

Michel called three of his wrestling teammates who live nearby, and they held the man until police arrived.

No hogging the aisles

When pigs fly, they travel first class but aren't well-behaved passengers.

On a U.S. Airways flight from Philadelphia to Seattle earlier this year, two passengers used a doctor's note to persuade airline officials to allow a 250-pound pig aboard, claiming it was a "service animal" similar to a seeing-eye dog.

According to passenger accounts, the pig went wild upon landing, trying to enter the cockpit and defecating the passenger cabin.

The Federal Aviation Administration and the airline are trying to determine whether safety and sanitation rules were followed.

Mules take out Dalhart 37-0 as playoffs unfold

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

AMARILLO — Muleshoe's Mules entered Dick Bivins Stadium with so much confidence Friday that coach David Wood expressed concern about overconfidence.

His concern was unfounded, and the Mules hammered Dalhart's Golden Wolves 37-0 for their first-round playoff win.

Muleshoe did all the damage in the first half, and then coasted to an 11-0 season record — a first for a Muleshoe team.

The Mule defense took a few plays to warm up in the chilly weather. Dalhart, after taking the opening kickoff, gained three first downs before Lupe Nuñez shook the ball loose from the Wolves and Darrell Lewis claimed the ball for the Mules on the Dalhart 35.

The Mules gained only six yards on three plays, and a 46-yard field goal attempt was long enough but left of the upright.

But the now-warm Mule defense held the Wolves, and a punt gave Muleshoe the ball on their own 46. After a nine-yard gain by Lewis, Danny Ramirez runs free for a 44-yard touchdown.

T-Bird Cox runs the two-point conversion, and seven minutes into the game, the Mules lead 8-0. They score 15 more points before the first quarter ends.

The first came after Stephan Shelburne recovered a Dalhart fumble on the Wolves' third play

Combs says bill should enhance farm safety net

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

AUSTIN — Texas Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs says the coming farm bill should provide a better safety net for the nation's farmers and ranchers because the current temporary assistance from Congress isn't enough.

The commissioner held a listening session on Thursday for a coalition of agriculture states called NFACT, which includes New Mexico, Texas, Arizona, California and Florida.

Together, those states generate 25 percent of the country's agriculture income, she said. And each state has seen millions of dollars in loss from weather disaster, disease or pest that could not have been foreseen in 1996, when the bill was last adjusted.

"The practice of ad-hoc disaster assistance from Congress for our NFACT states has not been very efficient or effective," she said. "Clearly, we must come up with a better safety net for our producers."

Steve Verett, executive vice president of Plains Cotton Growers Inc., said a strengthened safety net for farmers is needed in the bill.

The farmers' group has identified three key items for such a precautionary measure: realistic marketing loan rates on all commodities, crop insurance and some form of income price protection or counter-cyclical price protection.

U.S. commodities need to be available to customers, Verett said, but producers need a reasonable price floor.

"We want the commodities to move the marketplace," he said.

The farm bill is a multiyear program with multiple facts. Congress reconsiders portions of the bill that aren't permanent. The latest update was 1996's Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act.

County picks Thompson as EMS director

The Bailey County Commissioners' Court named Chris Thompson as the county's EMS director to replace Jackey W. Burris, who resigned.

Thompson assumed the duties immediately, as Burris resignation also was effective Monday.

Burris stated in a letter to commissioners that his resignation was strictly because he has become self-employed, not because of "any type of internal or ongoing problems with the service." He said he will remain active with EMS.

HopeChest works on needs that don't get met otherwise

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

The Bailey County Ministerial Alliance's HopeChest program is "the net that catches families and individuals as they struggle to maintain their balance in times of financial need."

Founded in 1998, HopeChest began with the purpose of filling a gap in the community where there were no services to meet people's needs.

As an example, the program recently helped an elderly person with doctors and the administrative fee to acquire a hearing aid.

With the holiday season approaching, and with cold weather forcing utility bills higher for many people, this is the time of year when people begin to think more often of reaching out to help someone in need.

From the beginning, HopeChest's resources have been from the local community, with the generosity of individuals providing the financial support that was needed.

Both the HopeChest and the Food Pantry operate under the auspices of the ministerial alliance.

Both are governed by boards of directors and maintained by groups of volunteers.

HopeChest has an interview process that allows assessment of need. Referrals come from local pastors.

All needs are given careful assessment; no need is too small. Donations to HopeChest may be given in honor of someone, in memory of someone, or as a simple donation.

The Journal will be publishing a list of donations made to HopeChest during the holiday season, either with the name of the donor or anonymously.

During the holidays, donations may be mailed to the Journal (P.O. Box 449, Muleshoe 79347) or brought by the newspaper office.

Donors wishing to honor someone should note that fact on a piece of paper separate from the check.

- Recent donations include:
In honor of George and Clydetta Mitchell — $25
In honor of Wells and Janet Hall and family — $25
In memory of Gordon Murrah — $25
In honor of Cliff and Carren Black and family — $25
In honor of Marilyn Cox — $25

City OKs option to buy building for senior center

The Muleshoe City Council has approved a purchase option on the Higginbotham building (formerly Perry's) downtown.

The option would be exercised only if a senior citizens' group gets grant money to buy the building, City Manager Rick Hanna told the council, but the group cannot the grant without control of a site that would become the center.

The council also re-appointed Councilman Juan Chávez to the Bailey Central Appraisal Board and named Councilwoman Sharon Grant to the Senior Citizen Board.

after the Muleshoe score. Then, on the Mules' third play, Lincoln Riley found Lewis on Dalhart's 19-yard line and Jeff Shelburne delivered a downfield block that cleared Lewis' path to paydirt.

From the "Swinging Gate," Cox tossed to Joey Tucker for the two points and the Mule lead grew to 16 points.

After the Mule kick, the Wolves again cannot move the ball and shank a punt out of bounds, giving the Mules great field position on the Dalhart 31.

Muleshoe continued to alternate quarterbacks, and with Travis Tunnell in control, a 31-yard TD pass and run by Ramirez extended the lead to 22. With 1:09 remaining in the first quarter, D.J. Dominguez's kick splits the uprights and the Mules lead 23-0.

The Mules force yet another Dalhart punt to end the first quarter. With possession on the Wolves' 46 and Tunnell at the helm, Muleshoe puts together a 46-yard drive in eight plays. Tunnell tossed to Lewis on the four-yard line, and Lewis bulldozed his way into the end zone.

Dominguez's kick was an automatic, bringing the score to 30-0.

Tad Lutz stopped the Dalhart return man on the Wolves' 38. Daniel Johnson, Jerrell Otwell and Tyler Black were among those on the Mule defense who stopped the Dalhart defense and forced another punt. The punt rolled dead on the Muleshoe four, giving the Mules their worst field position of the night.

But the Mules took only one play to cover the 96 yards for a touchdown. The was the "Hammer" to perfection, as Ramirez had a three-Mule escort into the end zone.

Dominguez booted another extra point to top off the scoring with 6:39 remaining in the first half.

The Mules ended the first half with 190 yards rushing and 59 yards passing for 249 total. The Mule defense made its contribution by allowing the Wolves only 37 first-half yards on the ground and 49 in the air, for a total of 86.

Also in the first half, the Muleshoe defense recovered two fumbles, forced four punts, and made Dalhart turn over the ball on downs once.

In the second half, the Mules got playing time for the reserves — and those who had just moved up from the JV got more playing time than they could have hoped.

Lutz, Chance Turney, Michael Durban and A.J. Flores all gave a great account of themselves and provided Mule fans a look at things to come.

The Mules finished the night with 304 yards and held Dalhart to only 125.

After the game, Wood was asked about the Mules' ability to explode on offense, and he explained: "It all begins with this year, said, "This was a great win for the girl's confidence. ... Our goal is to build a program that can be respected in our area."

Of the varsity boys' performance, coach Royce Winnett said, "We had a good game that showed what areas we need to work on."

Marvin McCaul's 21 led four players in double figures.

Coach David Combs said the JV had only five players, and played most of the last quarter with only four after Antonio Jasso fouled out.

your offensive line. You control the line of scrimmage, you control the game. We have a sign in our locker room, 'TCB,' which means 'Take Care of Business' — and our line takes that to heart."

Tommy Barrera explained, "The Mules believe in themselves, and have what it takes to go all the way this year."

Woodard commented, "In the playoffs, you have to step up and be happy with a win, but not be satisfied with just one victory. The Mules are about domination on offense."

Asked about blocking for the 26 Hammer, the lineman explained, "We just explode on the defense and let Danny run through the hole and in the open field, where he is at his best."

They expressed no preference on which teams they would face in coming games, but said, "They had better be ready to play."

The Mules will play the winner of the Crane-Denver City game. If Crane is the opponent, the game is expected to be at 2 p.m. Saturday in Brownfield. If Denver City, the game would be Friday night in either Lubbock or Levelland.

Rural lender exceeds $5 billion in volume

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
AUSTIN — The 10th Farm Credit District, the largest rural lending organization in Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama, has exceeded $5 billion in loan volume for the first time in its 83-year history.

That announcement highlighted the district's fourth-quarter financial results. The district is made up of the Austin-based Farm Credit Bank of Texas, 16 Federal Land Credit associations, and 12 Production Credit associations.

Gross loan volume totaled $5.063 billion on Sept. 30, a 5.5 percent increase from the $4.798 billion reported last Dec. 31, with increases in both the long-term mortgage portfolio and the short-term agricultural portfolio.

Long-term loan volume increased by $139.7 million — or 3.5 percent — from the year-end report to the $4.121 billion reported Sept. 30. This increase is attributed mainly to to competitive loan pricing, strong demand for real estate and generally strong economic conditions.

The short-term portfolio grew by $125.7 million — or 15.4 percent — over the same period, to a total of $942.3 million Sept. 30.

A stronger cattle sector, expansion in the integrated processing and marketing business, and increases in point-of-sale financing and loan participation volume contributed to the increase.

"This spectacular growth in new loan business is partly a reflection of the relatively strong economy and improved livestock industry," said Arnold Henson, chief executive officer of the Farm Credit Bank of Texas.

The quality of the district's loan portfolio also improved during the third quarter. As of Sept. 30, overall acceptable credit quality was 97.5 percent compared to 96.6 percent on Dec. 31.

Election Limbo Can Be a Learning Experience

I wrote a column just before Election Day in which I said, "I can't imagine being an undecided voter at this late date." Little did I know that, at this late date, we'd still have an undecided presidential election and that turkeys of all sorts on television would be vying with the Thanksgiving bird for our time.

Election limbo has been frustrating for all concerned. But I've learned some things.

I know more about the Electoral college than I've ever known. (I've even got an opinion now as to why folks like us in rural areas ought to fervently hope that the Electoral College lives long and prospers. And I'm more convinced than ever that rural America is the best of America.)

I know more now about Florida election law than I cared to know.

I know I'd rather endure a whole series of root canals than spend one mid-November 2000 day as Florida's Secretary of State.

I know that, though I'd never had occasion to think about it before, if I had a bunch of punch-type ballots to count, I'd trust a machine over a person any day of the week and twice on Sunday.

I know that in this technological age, there simply must be a better way to vote and to count votes (and that waiting for days after the election should already be history for the mail to finally deliver paper ballots is ridiculous; again, there must be a better, faster, more accurate way).

I've learned a lot over the last few days about counts, recounts, punch-cards botched by punchy voters, and endless dialogue from pundits and polls. It's been a mess.
But I think I know this also: If our democratic republic doesn't survive, it won't be because of this unpleasant bump in the road. Our form of government is still, I think, among the best in the world. But we'd better remember that, as Paul Harvey says often, "Self-government without self-discipline won't work."

We'd better pray that the majority of folks in our nation genuinely want what's best for the nation even if that conflicts with what's most beneficial for them.

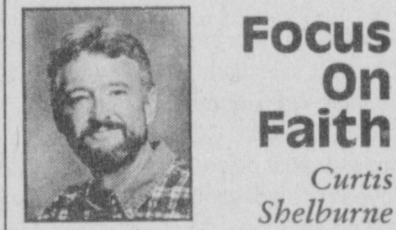

We'd better pray that our nation elects men and women who are not just among our loudest and wealthiest but who, regardless of their vocal volume or their bank statements, are among our best and our brightest in character, wisdom, and morality.

Truth be told, I'd gladly vote for a monarchy tomorrow as the very best form of government, if and only if . . .

*the king genuinely loves his subjects even more than he loves himself.
*the king is noble in character as well as in birth and is one of the finest men in the kingdom and the genuine champion of both prince and peasant.
*the king reigns long and well.
*succession is always orderly and successors are at least as good as those they follow.

Fact is, Christians have a King even better than the one I've described. Jesus is King of kings and Lord of lords, and, praise be to the true King, the vote in Florida won't change that one little bit.

Bare soil is an invitation to problems

By RONN SMITH
Editor

It will not come as news to gardeners that their two big enemies in a dry climate are sun and wind.

Granted, the sun also is a necessity, but we get too much of a good thing.

Bare ground invites the sun and wind to rob our moisture supply. After a rainy spell, you will see bare soil dried out after only a day or two of summer sun and dry wind. Twelve inches away, a shady spot will retain surface moisture for several more days — even if it's shaded by weeds. It's only when the soil begins to dry out that the plants start competing for what moisture is left, and then the weeds become a problem.

This is why mulching is so important — several inches of it, in whatever organic form you prefer. This is also why I'm a great believer in leaving duff on the ground; duff is the mixture of leaves and twigs and other dead matter that collects under plants.

But some gardeners just can't stand to let nature take its course. In some instances, we need a more elegant appearance than duff or even most mulches can provide.

That's where groundcover plants come in. These are plants that carpet the soil with low-growing foliage to shade and shelter the ground.

I have written several times about lamium (or dead nettle), with its silver- or white-spotted leaves (sometimes even pink).

It's a good groundcover option for us in shade because it prefers dry shade. Very few plants share that preference.

I'm speaking here of Lamium maculatum varieties — the popular 'White Nancy,' with green-margined silvery leaves and white flowers; 'Pink Pewter,' with bright pink flowers and whiter leaves than 'White Nancy'; 'Beacon Silver,' with paler pink flowers and silvery leaves; 'Aureum,' with yellow-edged white leaves and pink flowers; and several others.

This species forms a solid carpet maybe 6 inches high, and the plants can spread to 3 feet across, so allow it room or plan to transplant every other year or so. Transplanting is a snap — dig it up, throw it into a new hole and kick some dirt over the roots.

It can survive the worst drought our climate throws at it, though of course it will need watering now and then to maintain landscape quality.

Yellow archangel is another species (Lamium galeobdolon) in the same genus, but is a completely different type of plant — 2 feet high, with a spread the books usually list as "indefinite."

You certainly can think of yellow archangel as a groundcover, in the sense that it will cover a lot of ground, but keep in mind the 2-foot height and also remember that it will not be a well-behaved garden resident.

If you plant it along an alley, or if you live in the country and plant it along a ditchbank, it can be beautiful when covered with yellow flowers. If you plant it in a more dignified flower bed with plants that can't compete with it (and few can), don't come crying to me when yellow archangel eats your house. And outbuildings. And livestock.

For those more civilized — but still sunny and hot — beds, you might try some of the carpet-type junipers that are available at most garden centers. 'Blue Rug' is one of the most popular, but there are many good ones that will provide a solid ground cover — and stay green year-round.

If you have a bed that's shady and can be kept relatively moist, heuchera (or coralbells) can make an elegant groundcover. It spreads, but more slowly, to 18 inches across. The foliage is rounded with uneven edges — a little similar to the potted "geraniums" everybody used to have — and gets only a few inches high.

Heucheras (mine are Heuchera sanguinea) produce spikes of tiny flowers about a foot high, usually red or pink but sometimes white. The red and deep pink types are loved by hummingbirds.

In recent years, the similar heucherella has also become popular. It's a cross between heuchera and Tiarella cordifolia, the Allegheny foam flower.

In an effort to convince more of you to use groundcovers by next spring, future columns will discuss other types of groundcovers and situations where they might be used.

Happy planting!

Election proof that every vote counts

Our nation has recently experienced a major milestone in political history.

The "too close-to-call" election for the 43rd president of the United States has demonstrated the importance and necessity of our democratic electoral system.

The situation in Florida is proof that one vote can make a difference in the outcome of an election and that participation in the political process should not be taken for granted.

Think for a moment about the significance of a single vote. As we have seen throughout history, one voter has made a world of difference, literally changing the course of history.

For instance, in 1776, one vote made English the official language of America instead of German. In 1845, one vote brought Texas into the union. And, in 1960, one vote per precinct would have elected Richard Nixon rather than John F. Kennedy as president.

Obviously, one vote does have an impact on what happens in our society. As voter apathy increases, each vote becomes more important than ever.

Over the past few years, we have seen a dramatic decline in the number of eligible voters that actually go to the polls.

Some argue that the decline in voting is due to a disillusionment with government. The Vietnam War and Watergate scandal undermined the American public's faith in its leaders, causing people to question government in a way they never had before.

A generation later, after another presidential election day, our country does not crumble. Therefore, we should never take the right to vote for granted.

With the presidential race hanging in the balance and a new Congress closely split along party lines, never before has the right to vote become so important and gained such national attention.

I urge every single eligible voter in West Texas to get involved in the political process. Be informed about the issues and take action on those which affect our lives.

I am proud to represent the people of West Texas' 19th District, and I assure you that I will continue to represent your views in Congress.

treatment for certain countries, while ignoring the rest of the voters in the state.

I believe that it is entirely appropriate for the Bush team to fight to ensure that all votes are treated equally and counted in a fair and objective manner. Regardless of the legal wrangling in Florida, it is essential that as a nation, we respect the voting process and the votes of the people in Florida.

As our country awaits the outcome of the presidential election, I think it is important to note how special our democratic process is.

Even though we are unsure right now about who will be attending the inauguration ceremony in January, our country has not ground to a halt. We have not experienced any major rioting, nor have tanks taken over our neighborhoods to try to strong-arm a decision preferring one candidate.

Everyone is still going about the daily duties — going to work, picking up children from school or running daily errand. Not much has changed.

The fact is that the United States is a unique country. We have unique laws that protect the rights of our citizens and provide us with the right to choose our own leaders.

Even in the absence of a clear decision on election day, our country does not crumble. Therefore, we should never take the right to vote for granted.

With the presidential race hanging in the balance and a new Congress closely split along party lines, never before has the right to vote become so important and gained such national attention.

I urge every single eligible voter in West Texas to get involved in the political process. Be informed about the issues and take action on those which affect our lives.

I am proud to represent the people of West Texas' 19th District, and I assure you that I will continue to represent your views in Congress.

TOPS NEWS

Leader Laverne James called the Nov. 16 meeting of TOPS No. 34 to order and led the prayer and Pledge of Allegiance.

The meeting was held at the usual site, the Muleshoe Church of Christ.

A new member, Juanice Bridgeman, was welcomed.

Missy Royal led the opening song, "The Slimmer We'll Be!" At the close of the meeting, she also led "The Goodnight Song."

Janie Hughes gave the previous week's minutes, which were approved as read.

Twenty-two members were weighed in by weight recorders Betty Jo Davis and Alene Bryant.

Royal was the best loser and Joline Franklin was first runner-up. Elaine Coburn was second runner-up.

Get-well cards were sent to Ozell Cherry, Jerrell Otwell and Tommie Fulcher.

A sympathy card was sent to the Louis Mata family in the loss of a loved one.

The TOPS No. 34 card chairperson is Lucille Harp, who prepares the cards for mailing after they are signed by the members.

In the points contest, Side I is ahead with 750 points, with Side II right behind at 720 points.

Royal said there was a tie for first place in the "Don't Be a Gobbler!" contest — she and Franklin were tied for the position of "rabbit."

Royal added that although she was ahead of Franklin, it was by a small margin. The two received four feathers each.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

POWERLESS ON THE BATTLEFIELD!!

A TRADITIONAL CUSTOM, IN EARLY BIBLICAL TIMES, WHICH WAS A CRUEL BUT EFFECTIVE METHOD BY WHICH WARRIORS WERE MADE POWERLESS... WAS THE CUTTING OFF OF BOTH A MAN'S THUMBS AND LARGE TOES! ACTUALLY THIS WAS LOOKED UPON AS HUMANE TREATMENT RATHER THAN AN OUT-AND-OUT KILLING. THE SUBJECT'S LIFE WAS SPARED BUT, HAVING LOST HIS THUMBS, HE COULD NOT HANDLE WEAPONS, AND LOSING HIS LARGE TOES MEANT HE COULD NOT WALK LET ALONE RUN ON THE BATTLEFIELD, PROPERLY. A MENTION IS MADE OF THIS IN JUDGES 1:4-7. ADONIBEZEK, A CRUEL AND SUSPICIOUS KING OF BEZEK, WAS GIVEN SUCH PUNISHMENT BY THE WARRIORS OF THE TRIBE OF JUDAH. ODDLY, THIS KING SAW THE "POETIC JUSTICE" IN THIS ACT BECAUSE HE'D GIVEN THE SAME TREATMENT TO SEVENTY OTHER KINGS WHOM HE HAD CONQUERED. THIS HE REGARDED AS A DIVINE REQUITAL, VISITED ON HIM BY GOD, FOR THE SIMILAR CRUEL-TIES PERPETRATED BY HIM.

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY

The Muleshoe Area Public Library's Friends of the Library met Nov. 6.

Members present were Robert Orozco, Richard Orozco, Noemí Mora, Tracy Pearson, Gayle Jones, Dyan Shipley and Shorty Flores.

A motion was made and seconded not to have a booth at the Dec. 4 Christmas Bazaar.

Tracy Pearson from Beta Sigma Phi said her sorority is fixing baskets for newborns at Muleshoe Area Medical Center. Shipley said she would work with Pearson in getting books for the baskets—in both English and Spanish. It was also mentioned that the labels to be included in the books, identifying the donor, will be made on the computer to save printing costs.

Members decided to have the Christmas party Dec. 4, the date of the next Friends meeting. It was decided by the members that a $10 gift be brought for a grab bag. The Friends will provide a fruit and vegetable tray and the remaining food will be brought by members. The Christmas party will serve as a membership drive, open to anyone interested in joining the Friends of the Library (families are welcome).

It was decided that the Friends would raffle a color Gameboy on Dec. 19 at the library. Members were asked to sign up for tickets, with a Dec. 18 deadline for turning in money and tickets will be turned in. The tickets cost $1.

Members discussed having the Friends' financial records audited by a CPA. Robert Orozco talked to an accountant about the price and was told that it was not needed. Members decided not to have the audit conducted.

Shipley requested that the Friends purchase a Christmas decoration for the library. She mentioned the "Bedtime Tales" being sold by Avon, and members voted to purchase it.

The next meeting will be the Dec. 4 party.

Gretchen Frederick of the National Honey Association, will demonstrate making homemade honey gifts. Frederick is from Longmont, Colo.

Evelyn Langston of Branson, Mo., representing Ozark Crafts, will demonstrate how to make a dogwood shawl.

Lisa Reid of Santa Fe, N.M., will discuss how to make holidays and special events more enjoyable without breaking the pocketbook.

Information on candles, mustard and nighttime heartburn will be featured Nov. 21 at 10:30 p.m.

and Nov. 23 at 1 p.m.

Olga Puzas of Plymouth, Mass., representing Partyline Gifts, will discuss what she says is a trend toward entertaining more in their homes. Candles are a great way to create ambiance both indoors and out.

Nancy Berkoff of Los Angeles, representing Morehouse Mustard, will demonstrate several recipes showing mustard's use as a health food.

Pat Baird, an author and registered dietician from Greenwich, Conn., will discuss nighttime heartburn and explain some ways to remedy this common but troublesome problem.

Viewers can request copies of materials offered on the show by sending a first-class stamp for each handout requested.

Send the stamps, along with name, address and booklets requested, to "Creative Living" Requests, c/o KENW-TV, 52 Broadcast Center, Portales 88130.

JV Lady Mules lose hard-fought Frenship battle

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

The Lady Mules' junior varsity contested Frenship High School's Lady Tigers all the way to the final buzzer Tuesday night in Wolfforth, but came up short 50-47.

Coach Su Scott asked the girls to put the pressure on the Lady Tigers, and the trapping full-court press and tight defense kept the Lady Mules close all night.

The press created turnovers, but Muleshoe had a difficult time converting the turnovers to points.

The Lady Tigers shot well from the free-throw line, and that was the difference in the final score.

Jodie Hawkins banked in a three late in the first half to keep the Lady Mules close at halftime, trailing 28-24.

The Mules continued the pressure in the second half, and with 3:30 left in the third quarter, Hawkins hit a jumper from the free-throw line to give the Lady Mules the lead, 34-33.

After the teams exchanged baskets, and the Lady Tigers knocked down a couple of free throws, Summer Daniels set up low on the blocks. Eva Pylant fed Daniels the ball, she turned, scored and was fouled on the shot.

The free throw was short, and the third quarter ended with the Lady Mules trailing 39-38.

Then, with two minutes remaining in the fourth quarter, Muleshoe forced back-to-back turnovers by the Lady Tigers.

Lady Mules drop opener to Frenship

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

The Lady Mules varsity basketball team traveled to Wolfforth on Tuesday night and dropped their season opener to Frenship's Lady Tigers, 55-48.

Frenship's 6'5" post player was never a factor in the game.

The Lady Mules were able to run on the bigger Frenship team during the first quarter, ending the period ahead 16-12.

The Lady Mules' stifling defense forced turnovers that were converted to points. Britni Gartin's quickness and jumping ability helped her garner three steals within the first four minutes of the game.

The aggressive Lady Mules also were called for six fouls in the opening period, with Megan Tipps and Shani Rasco called for two each.

The foul situation slowed

Muleshoe in the second period, as caution became the watch word. The slower pace favored the Lady Tigers, and with two minutes remaining in the first half, they were up 25-20.

The Lady Mules again applied the pressure and were the beneficiary of Lady Tiger fouls and turnovers that Muleshoe converted to five more points before the half expired.

Jessica Carpenter laid the ball up and in as the half ticked away, tying the score at 25 apiece.

The third quarter started slowly for both teams, but the Lady Tigers were able to convert free throws to points and again built a seven-point lead. Tommie Hernández cut the lead by two on a put-back late in the quarter.

With only 6:38 left in the game, the Lady Mules were down 10 points — 43 to 33. With pure hustle and determination, Muleshoe mounted one last comeback attempt. Frenship connected on the first three-pointer of the game and Rasco answered with an old-fashioned three-point play of her own, sinking a free throw after being fouled on a shot.

Myndi Heathington nailed her three with 2:20 on the clock, but the Lady Mules ran out of clock before they could close the gap.

The game was not pretty for either team, but the Lady Mules did provide glimpses of what coach Shana Sims has said she sees in this Lady Mule team.

Eighth-grade boys lose season opener to Roosevelt

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

The eighth-grade Mules' season opener on Nov. 13 got spoiled by the Roosevelt Eagles 45-27.

The Eagles were taller and faster than the Mules, and used those advantages effectively.

Trent Black knocked down back-to-back threes from the corner to give the Mules their only lead of the game, with two minutes to play in the first period.

The Eagles got the Mules into a running game the last two minutes of the quarter and gained a 12-7 advantage by the end of the quarter.

Roosevelt continued to run and score on the Mules in the second quarter. But the Mules did create two turnovers late in the period to give Eric Newton and Tomás Buenrostro layups to end the first half at Eagles 21, Mules 13.

The second half began with the Mules slowing the Eagle running game but struggling on offense. The third period ended with the Mules down 35-15.

Muleshoe continued to hustle on defense, and rebounded aggressively in the fourth quarter. There were glimpses of a half-court offense that was effective against the Eagles late in the game as the Mules' confidence grew.

There is basketball to be seen on the Mules' home court each Monday night — seventh, eighth and freshman Mule or Lady Mule teams play at home each week.

Emergency Preparedness Checklist

The next time disaster strikes, you may not have much time to act. Prepare now for a sudden emergency.

Learn how to protect yourself and cope with disaster by planning ahead. This checklist will help you get started. Discuss these ideas with your family, then prepare an emergency plan. Post the plan where everyone will see it—on the refrigerator or bulletin board.

For additional information about how to prepare for hazards in your community, contact your local emergency management or civil defense office and American Red Cross chapter.

Emergency Checklist

Call Your Emergency Management Office or American Red Cross Chapter

- Find out which disasters could occur in your area.
- Ask how to prepare for each disaster.
- Ask how you would be warned of an emergency.
- Learn your community's evacuation routes.
- Ask about special assistance for elderly or disabled persons.

Also...

- Ask your workplace about emergency plans.
- Learn about emergency plans for your children's school or day care center.

Create an Emergency Plan

- Meet with household members. Discuss with children the dangers of fire, severe weather, earthquakes and other emergencies.
- Discuss how to respond to each disaster that could occur.

- Discuss what to do about power outages and personal injuries.
- Draw a floor plan of your home. Mark two escape routes from each room.
- Learn how to turn off the water, gas and electricity at main switches.
- Post emergency telephone numbers near telephones.
- Teach children how and when to call 911, police and fire.
- Instruct household members to turn on the radio for emergency information.
- Pick one out-of-state and one local friend or relative for family members to call if separated by disaster (it is often easier to call out-of-state than within the affected area).
- Teach children how to make long distance telephone calls.
- Pick two meeting places.
 - 1) A place near your home in case of a fire.
 - 2) A place outside your neighborhood in case you cannot return home after a disaster.
- Take a basic first aid and CPR class.
- Keep family records in a water and fire-proof container.

Prepare a Disaster Supplies Kit

Assemble supplies you might need in an evacuation. Store them in an easy-to-carry container such as a backpack or duffel bag.
