Notes From The Rolling Plains

(The following continues the series of stories by noted wildlife photographer Wyman Meinzer that are furnished for wildlife photographer Wyman Meinzer that are furnished for your enjoyment and Conoco Company.)
"The river is not long. Perhaps only 20 miles or so. But it is one of the finest fly fishing rivers in the U.S. It has a unique personality and I fear for it. I fear that we are about to see the disintegration of its very soul. It is this that I want to preserve in a book.
This was some of the conversation that I had last week with a book publisher from central Texas as we walked along the rocky course of a small but swift river and discussed the bleak future of the watercourse. A short distance away, the roar of a bulldozer could be heard as the cat skinner pushed tons of rock and mud around the river banks, probably making another road on which more people might infiltrate this pristine land.

Bill's boyhood had been spent along this very river and he knew every swimming hole and bend that the course offered. "In that mot of trees is a beautiful spring that courses down through the rocks. In that bend is a fabulous swimming hole where lots of large bass can be caught on a light fly rod." Bill continued to talk as I listened to the mellow sounds of water splashing over rocks as the clear spring-fed river fell sharply on its path to the Llano several miles away. The familiar sight of beer and cola cans were not to be seen on this day during our travels. It is one of the reasons why Bili wants to publish this book. "People, those from the outside, are finding out about this fabulous place. They are buying land along its course and slowly robbing it of the very spirit that makes it so special. It will be gone in a few years as the outsiders move in and put up the fences and "KEEP OUT" signs. The old people have watched over the land for so long but the years will take them away. When they are gone, there will be no more kind guardians of the old land. The soul of the river and land will go with them."

Termites strike five times as many homes as fire and do more economic damage than all tornadoes, hurricanes, and windstorms combined. They have the longest life-span of any household pests; under favorable conditions, individual termites may live up to 15 years, and colonies may exist in dwellings for considerably longer periods.

Received news about former resident Johnny Kimmel last week. Johnny, you may recall, was injured critically last spring in an accident when his horse fell with him. He's in a rehab center in Austin and though progress is slow, he's making some headway. Certainly we continue to pray for Johnny and his family. Gloria and Leroy West were in Jacksboro on Friday to attend to business matters.
Clodell Duke attended a track meet Saturday at Seymour. Her granddaughter, "winding down" her senior year at Iowa Park High, took part in the competition. And it's congratulations to Knox City's one-act play cast, director

The Lord's Corner

 by Dr. Pete Bradfield, pastoFirst Baptist Church A "little thing" is great or small, depending upon whose yardstick it is measured by.
What often seems insignificant to us has great significance to God.
What is a seemingly insignificant feature in your life? Your income. . . your stature ... your personaility ... your family background? Use it to complete this sentence: "Lord, I realize that in the eyes of the world my means very little. But faithfulness in a little thing is a great thing with You, and so I give it back to You right now, asking that You use me in a mighty way to Your glory!"
See you next week, and remem-to our income, lest God make our to our income, lest God make incomes match our gifts.

At Your Service  by Dr. Larry Fitzgerald  Minister, Munday Church of Chris

Q: Why is it that Easter always changes dates? Sometimes it is in March and sometimes it is in April.
Q: Where did the Easter holiday come from? A: Originally, Anglo-Saxon pagans celebrated a Spring holiof light known as "Eastre". In about the 8th century A.D., An-glo-Saxon Christians started call ing "resurrection Sunday" by ing resurrection Sus by same term as their Spring holiday.

However, resurrection Sunda had long been established as a Christian holiday prior to the application of the term "Easter" The early Jewish Christians cele brated this holiday on the 14th day of Nisan. The same date as he Old Testament Passover holiday. The Jewish calendar is based on the moon's cycles unlike ours which is based on solar cycles. Roman Christians celebrated he resurrection on a Sunday in the Spring. Thus a compromis was struck in the 4th century. The Sunday closest to the 14th of Nisan would be resurrection Sunday. It was determined as the first Sun day after the full moon following the vernal equinox (when Spring begins). Thus the date varies between March 22 and April 25. Jesus was executed on the Friday of the week of Passover. The following Sunday he came back to life (resurrected). This event gives hope to all Christians that we, too, will have life after death (see 1 Corinthians 11 ) The term "Easter" is not found in the Bible except for a mistransof Acts 12:4.

Being In Focus!

That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings. being conformed to His death. (Philippians 3:10).
I saw an advertisement of a camera with automatic focus. I have tried to use cameras before that I had to focus, but the process of focusing the camera took too long. I could not get the quick action shots. Eventakingmy time, much of the time. There is nothing more disappointing than the beautiful picture you thought you had taken retuming to you fuzzy Some of us also have lives that seem fuzzy and out of focus. We do not seem to know what to do next. We miss many onat to do ties in life because while we are trying to decide what to do, the opportunity is gone. And even when the decision is made many times it does not seem to be right We never feel "in focus" e never feel in focus The key to a clear and focused ife begins with our relationship with Jesus Christ. When we try to focus our life on things or to success and ambition, we will always feel that things are quite right. Things and success quite right. Things and success are always moving and deny us down. We must always be strivwn. We must always be siriv-

Jesus also helps us focus th rest of our life. The things that an happening are in clearer focus $i$ we look at them through our rela tionship with Jesus. Our plans fo the future are clearer and easiert plan and prepare for if we look a them on the foundation of ou commitment to Jesus.
Is your life out of focus? Why not ask Jesus to help you get thing: into focus? He will help you i your first desire is to know Him I hope to see you in study and

Thank Youl!

There have been times in my life that people have asked why I liked living in a small town versus the "benefits" of a large city. The answer to that question seems so easy to answer after experiencing Tyler's illness. Small town people are one big family and when someone is in need, or are hurting, people come to their aid. Our family would like to thank that small town family for coming to our aid and especially for your prayers for Tyler. We will cherish the love you have shown us through cards, letters, flowers, food and deeds. You concern and actions of love will always be remembered and we will always be grateful
