Wagging
Tongue

by Cynthia
White

My mom and her twin sister are 78 years of age and still enjoy getting out and about. This past week they had enjoyed a day of shopping in Abilene and were on their way back to my Mom's house. As they were driving along, busily talking and enjoying each other's company, they suddenly realized that somehow they had ended up in a funeral procession. Upon looking a little closer my aunt remarked, "My, we must be very close to the family - we're third behind the hearse!" Feeling embarrassed by their situation they tried to help matters along by turning on their lights - hoping to blend in. As they ventured closer to my mom's home they decided they couldn't put on their blinker and turn because they were afraid the rest of the procession would follow right up to mom's house! They journeyed on with the procession until the hearse and the immediate family (right in front of them) turned into the cemetery. Seeing a way out they continued on straight away out deciding that surely the rest of the followers would know to turn in at the cemetery - they did and mom and my aunt breathed a sigh of relief. They then turned around and went back to the house where they immediately picked up a newspaper to see just whose funeral they almost attended!

Goree golf team advances to Regionals

The Goree LadyCats and Wildcats participated in the District 8-A Golf Tournament held at Throckmorton Country Club on Monday, April 7. The girls team, consisting of seniors Latisha Allen and Crystal Hibdon, juniors Melissa Horton and Amy Ramos, sophomores Traycee Harlan and Amanda Luna, placed second in the tournament, thereby advancing to the Regional Tournament to be held at Levelland Country Club on Wednesday, April 23 and Thursday, April 24. Earning individual honors, Crystal Hibdon and Melissa Horton tied for third place in medalist competition.

Competing for the boys team were senior Michael Castorena, and Sophomore A.R. Hibdon. Michael had a top ten finish, and A.R. gained valuable tournament experience which should help next year. All of the Goree golfers have had fun competing thus far, and the LadyCats are looking forward to the Regional Match.

Monday that Ricky Serrato of Munday has signed a national letter of intent to compete for the Texan track and cross country teams.

Serrato placed fifth in the 800-meter run at the UIL state meet as a sophomore in 1995 and placed third in the 800 at the state meet as a junior in 1996. He also placed fifth in the 1,600-meter run at the state meet in 1995.

The 18-year-old Serrato also was a state qualifier in cross country as a senior, finishing second among Class 1A runners at the state meet in the fall.

He owns personal-best clockings of 2:00 in the 800, 4:38 in the 1,600 and 10:56 in the 3,200 meter run.

"He has very good leg speed," Morris said. "He's a very competitive runner. He has tremendous potential. He comes from a very strong program. He's also a good student. I think he'll be a real asset to our program."

The Texans won their second national championship in cross country in November, having placed first or second at the national meet each year since 1991.

"On A Wizer Note"

by Paul Weiser
Knox County Extension Agent

A week or so ago I was asked about a new grain sorghum disease that was filling many of the farm magazines. This single question has been asked of me several times since then. Hopefully this disease has a bigger bark than bite.

This disease is known as Ergot. Researchers, Extension plant Pathologists, Texas Department of Agriculture personnel and the sorghum seed companies are keeping a close eye on the development of this new disease. As of now, the researchers do not believe that Ergot will be a threat in West Texas or the high plains. This is because of the dry climate.

Fungicide treatments for this disease are being researched. Currently there are no known treatments or cures. When this information is made available to my office I will pass it on to the newspapers here in Knox County. Anyone hearing rumors or seeing any type of printed material on this disease is welcome to share it with my office. In times like this, some chemicals may claim to be useful for treatment. However, their research may, I repeat may, be biased.

I am trying to schedule a producers meeting for Knox County sometime in early May. Hopefully at this meeting I can schedule a speaker to give us an update on the Ergot disease. Watch for date, time and location. The meeting will be worth about 2 or 3 CEU's towards a private, commercial or non-commercial applicators license with TDA.

Anyone needing more CEU's should be aware of two upcoming events at the Haskell County Civic Center. The first is on April 17 and is worth five CEU's. This program begins at 8:30 a.m. and concludes at 4:00 p.m. It too should be worth 5.0 CEU's. However, I have not received official word.

The Rolling Plains Cotton Conference is scheduled for April 30 at the Haskell County Civic Center. This conference will begin with registration from 8 - 8:30 a.m. and conclude around 4:00 p.m. Some of the topics covered will be on irrigation, managing moisture in a dry land situation, double cropping, Boll Weevil Eradication, worm strategies, cotton market and many others.

I have information on other producer meetings that offer CEU's. However, most of these are in Abilene or Lubbock. If you need CEU's, please try to attend the one's in Haskell to avoid long trips and the headache of obtaining enough CEU's when your license is about to expire.

Anyone who wants the information on other CEU meetings may give my office a call or drop by and I will be glad to give you this information. I also have an order form for a cotton insect field guide entitled "Recognizing The Good Bugs In Cotton". Cost for this publication is $5.00 per copy and no, I do not have enough power to get them for free.

If you have any questions about the materials contained in this article please call Paul Weiser in the Knox County Extension office in Benjamin at (817) 454-2651.

Extension programs serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Show steer validation tag orders due

It is time to order validation tags for show steers to be shown in 1997-1998. This validation process has been in effect for a long time and is required for market steers shown at most stock shows in Texas.

In the past each 4-H club and FFA chapter made individual orders. This year those plans are changing. Each county will place only one order - no matter how many FFA chapters of 4-H clubs wish to order ear tags. To place an accurate order, the Ag. Science Instructors and County Extension Agents ask you to place your validation tag orders by 5:00 p.m. April 18 - this is different than what was set earlier this year. Please give these to any of the Ag. Science Instructors in Benjamin, Knox City or Munday or Paul Weiser, Knox County Extension agent in Benjamin.

After April 18 all ear tag orders will be added together and a total from Knox County will be sent to proper state show steer validation personnel. Extras will not be ordered for anyone unless they are requested.

These ear tags will be received in May and all show steers will be validated in June. If you have any questions please feel free to call the Knox County Extension office in Benjamin (454-2651) or your local Ag. Science Instructor.

Mr. and Mrs. Jose de Jesus Martinez
Genie Andrews and Jose Martinez united in holy matrimony in Kaufman

The Victorian Chapel in Kaufman, Texas was the setting where Genie Daniell Andrews became the bride of Jose de Jesus Martinez, March 15. John L. Holt, brother-in-law of the bride and minister of Gospel Chapel in Dallas, united the two in a double ring ceremony.

Genie is the daughter of Doyle and Nelda Andrews of Dallas. Jose is the son of Jose de Jesus and Exalee Martinez of Dallas, grandson of Rue Del Roberts of Goree and great-grandson of Genevieve Tyler of Goree.

The bride's attendants were Heather and Aimy Holt, nieces of the bride. The groomsmen were Louis Guerrero and Casey Williams. Ring bearer was Rudy Torres, nephew of the bride and the flower girl was her niece, Lori Torres. Following the marriage ceremony a reception was held in the home of John and Vonda Holt in Hutchins.

The couple are graduates of Bryan Adams High School in Dallas. Genie is a graduate of Metroplex Beauty School in Mesquite and is currently employed by J.C. Penney. Jose is currently a student at Texas A&M. They will reside in College Station where the groom will resume his studies.

O'Brien fifth grade students learn about wildlife

The fifth grade class at the middle school in O'Brien have had quite an interesting spring. They have been part of a pilot program coordinated by two government agencies - The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Through a program entitled "Project Wild", these two agencies have presented programs to the fifth graders about area wildlife species. Two such programs were conducted at the school. One on "owls" the other on "wildlife habitat".

The "owl" program, conducted by Dana Wright, Texas Parks and Wildlife Biologist from Paducah, covered what owls eat and their feeding habits. The "wildlife habitat" program was conducted by

Guidelines on Social Security disability for children explained

Regulations providing guidelines on how the Social Security Administration will apply the new definition of disability for children were published in the Federal Register on February 11, 1997.

The Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996, passed on August 22, 1996, requires that a child's impairment or combination of impairments will be considered disabling if it causes "marked and severe functional limitations." The rule states that the child's condition must meet or exceed the level of severity indicated in a listing of impairments. It is expected to affect about 135,000 children nationally currently re benefits.

"Although some news articles have alleged that children with impairments such as Down's Syndrome, severe mental retardation, autism, or many rare diseases will lose benefits, the new rules provide guidelines for evaluating severe impairments such as these to ensure that such children remain eligible for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits," according to Doug English, Field Representative in the Wichita Falls District Office.

English said that one of Social Security's highest priorities will be to make sure the new disability guidelines are implemented fairly and consistently. Last December, letters were sent to about 263,000 children who may have their cases reviewed using the new guidelines. If found not disabled under the new law, letters will be sent to parents and guardians explaining their appeal rights, including the fact that benefits can continue during the appeals process until a face-to-face hearing is held before an administrative law judge. Under the law, no benefits will be stopped before July 1, 1997.

If it's happening out there somewhere, The Munday Courier wants to know about it. If you are sponsoring an event, teaching a class, having a meeting, organizing a trip or just want people to know something, send your announcement to The Munday Courier, P.O. Box 130, Munday, TX 76371.

Paul Weiser, Knox County Extension Agent in Benjamin. This program enlightened the youth on how farmers, ranchers and homeowners can enhance wildlife habitat with their everyday decisions and work. The "wildlife habitat" program was also used to show how certain weed and brush control can not only help wildlife survive, but will also help save soil from erosion resulting in cleaner streams and ponds.

The excitement shown by these youth during the two programs was overwhelming. This created a brainstorming process that resulted in an organized field trip planned for the fifth graders on May 9. This field trip, planned and organized by these two agencies with some help coming from the Forestry Service, will be conducted at the Copper Breaks State Park. The youth will attend sessions on "identification of Aquatic Wildlife", "native wildlife species" and "wildlife track identification".

The field trip is scheduled for May 9 for one very exciting reason. Not only will the youth learn something about wildlife they will also be exposed to some history. While attending Copper Breaks the youth will be allowed to see an encampment of Buffalo Soldiers. The Buffalo Soldiers are scheduled to arrive on Wednesday May 7 and depart on Sunday, May 11. Learning about history can be tiresome, but seeing it is an experience.

Should the clouds decide to rain on this field trip the youth will still get a very educational program. Sessions on "native American storytelling and games", "the art of flintknapping (how to make Arrowheads)", "wildlife identification" and other indoor programs are being scheduled as a backup plan.

If this field trip is successful, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Copper Breaks State Park staff will try to organize a day long educational event in 1998 that will be open to any school that wishes to participate. Any teacher, parent, or school administrative staff that wishes to conduct such a field trip for their school/class may do so by contacting Paul Weiser in the Knox County Extension office in Benjamin at 817-454-2651.

Protecting your cotton crop from weed competition and insect damage can pay off in higher yields. We've got a real knock-out punch for weeds and insects.

WEED CONTROL

PROWL® herbicide delivers long-lasting control of grasses and certain broadleaf weeds, without root pruning, stunting or carryover. And less root pruning helps improve insecticide uptake. That means your cotton gets off to a fast, healthy start, for a higher-yielding quality bottom crop.

INSECT CONTROL

THIMET® 20-G soil and systemic insecticide provides early-season control of aphids, thrips and mites in cotton. And applied at planting, it also controls aphids, leafminers, leafhoppers, black cutworms and white flies.

Scholarships available to Munday seniors - applications now available

Institutes of higher education are costly, to say the least. Many deserving graduates may think that they do not qualify for a scholarship but help could be available right here in Munday.

Currently there are many scholarships offered by businesses and individuals in our own community that may help take the edge off of the high cost of education. Applications are available for some of the scholarships and others are decided upon by a committee. The awards vary in dollar amount but it is important to remember that even a $50 award can help a student. A small amount may purchase a book or other tool that is vital to the scholars selected course and successful completion of that course.

The B.R. Winchester Scholarship Award is bestowed upon a graduating senior who may not have the highest grade-point-average and may not have starred in extra-curricular activities, but has always made the effort to reach his or her fullest potential. This award is filled by a selecting committee who chooses a student who has shown determination in the search for wisdom, who has shown honor in school and community, and who has grown in the ability to accept responsibility.

The Munday School Faculty Scholarship Fund was established in 1986 and is annually awarded to a recipient who has displayed positive school and community citizenship and who has maintained acceptable grades. The recipient is chosen by teacher recommendations and the monetary award is presented upon the student's enrollment in a second semester of college.

The Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture is offering a $250 award to an accredited college, university or trade school. Payment is received when the student enters his second semester of classes. Interested seniors are encouraged to pick up an application at the Principal's office and have it completed and returned to that office prior to Friday, May 2. Students should submit an essay explaining your goals and future plans after graduation. The essay should not exceed 200 words. A letter of recommendation from a member of the community (not a faculty member) should also be attached to the application.

The First National Bank in Munday will offer a one year $1,000 scholarship to a deserving senior at Munday High School. The recipient will receive $500.00 for the fall semester and $500.00 for the spring semester of his or her freshman year at a four year college, university, or accredited junior college.

Interested students can obtain an application at the high school principal's office which should be completed and returned to the principal no later than May 1.

The recipient will be selected by a committee consisting of the superintendent of schools, high school principal and two teachers to be selected by the principal and superintendent. Applicants are ranked by the committee according to three criteria - grades, participation in school activities and need.

The Brazos Valley Young Farmers will be issuing a $500 scholarship to a Knox County senior. All applicants must be involved in Ag in High School or active in FFA or 4-H. They must have an Ag major in college or plant to attend an Ag related technical school. The scholarship will be issued in two payments - one of $250 in the fall semester and one of $250 in the spring semester. Applications may be picked up at the principal's office or may be obtained by calling the County Extension Agent at 454-2651. A committee will select the winner. All applications must be returned to the Brazos Valley Young Farmers in Munday or the Knox County Extension Service, P.O. Box 167, Benjamin, Texas 79505 by the deadline of April 30.

Other scholarships that are available to graduating seniors from Munday High School are arranged through the Band Boosters, the FFA, a Faculty award from high school staff members, and the Joe Choucair award. Interested students are encouraged to go by the school office to pick up applications and gain other information.

Persons and organizations who may be interested in providing a scholarship for worthy graduates are encouraged to do so. A higher education is a valuable tool for adults but some of our students may need and appreciate even the smallest help.

April is Child Abuse Prevention month - let's stop emotional abuse and neglect

by Cynthia White

We hear tragic and terrifying news everyday concerning the beating, maiming, death and sexual abuse of small children. We shake our heads, shed a tear, say a prayer and go on with our lives, unaware of the devastation that may be occurring to thousands of other children - devastation that can be attributed to words.

Emotional abuse goes on right under our noses - sometimes it occurs in our own homes and we really don't think much about it. It's a way of life. We go to the grocery store and hear parents belittling their children, calling them names, humiliating and ridiculing the smallest of citizens. We turn and walk away questioning the parents actions but not putting much consideration on the children's emotional well-being. Emotional abuse is a concerted attack on a child's development of self and social competence. It may or may not be a conscious act by the parents or other caregivers but it does have drastic consequences for the child.

Emotional abuse can be hard to detect. After all, emotional harm often is invisible - it's not like a broken bone that shows up on an x-ray. Children who are verbally and emotionally abused most often don't realize that they are being abused - it's just the way they exist day to day.

There are many forms of emotional abuse. Ignoring the child, rejecting the child's value, isolating the child from family and community, terrorizing the child with continual verbal assaults, corrupting the child by encouraging and reinforcing destructive and antisocial behavior, verbally assaulting the child with name-calling and overpressuring the child to achieve.

Parents who refuse to touch their children or show them affection or who do not acknowledge the child's presence are guilty of rejecting their children. Rejection also occurs in the form of belittling and ridiculing the child or in purposefully and continually embarrassing the child. Or they may undermine any attachment that the child has to another adult.

Certain family circumstances can also be associated with rejection. Many times unwanted pregnancies result in child rejection. When caregiver's have not time to spend alone they may resent the child and the care they take and therefore ignore or underrate the child. Fathers who are not involved in their children's upbringing are guilty of rejection and sometimes a community may be guilty when they reject a young child or the child's family.

Terrorizing a child is also a form of child abuse. In this situation the parent or caregiver intentionally stimulates intense fear and creates a climate of unpredictable punishments when the child does not attain certain expectations. Bizarre means of discipline and frightening a child with a gun, knife, whip or other weapon is terrorizing - even if the adult would not submit to carrying out the threat. If a parent continually threatens suicide or threatens to leave a child - that is terrorizing. Routinely engaging in fights and frightening behavior in front of a child is also considered emotional abuse.

Many modern day parents are guilty of corrupting their children and this is also considered emotional abuse.

Corrupting a child teaches and reinforces antisocial behaviors and deviant patterns which tend to make a child unable to function in a normal social setting. Praising a child for antisocial or delinquent behavior or failing to discipline a child for delinquent behavior can be considered corrupting. Of course, giving drugs or other contraband to a child or exposing a child to pornographic materials and encouraging a child to participate in sexually exploitative behaviors is definitely corrupting.

Verbally assaulting a child with constant name-calling and sarcastic put-downs that continually "beat down" the child's sense of worth with humiliation is a type of emotional abuse.

Parents who set high standards for their children and still demonstrate acceptance and love when they fail are to be praised. On the other hand, overpressuring parents may demonstrate those same qualities and may tell their children that they have done a "good job" at a certain task but fail to praise and value the child for just being themselves and nothing more. Many parents overpressure their children when it comes to academics and sports. Many of us want our school aged offspring to excel at a variety of things but we may be hurting their emotional development by expecting too much and not praising them for a "normal" performance. Parents may withhold affection when a child falls short or they may ostracize the child for not achieving far above normal abilities. Overpressuring is emotional abuse.

When we constantly push our youngsters toward an activity and barrage them with phrases like "be tougher" or "you're better than those other kids so go prove it" and when they come in second or third we tell them that they were not really trying, this can cause emotional damage to the child. The child begins to feel unworthy.

We may also use our children, or even someone else's child as a scapegoat. We blame the child without cause or point a finger at another child for our own offspring's lack of achievement. We may make comparisons between our child or someone else's child to those who are more advanced - leaving the feeling of "poor by comparison" with the party we blamed. We cause the children to feel worthless, discouraged, lazy, unreliable, unacceptable and inferior. How many times does this happen in the realm of athletics? How many children have we emotionally scarred because of overpressuring them or using them as a scapegoat? Don't we often hear parents sitting at a sports event and yelling, "Come on Kathy, you are better than that Smith kid." How does it make the other child feel? Maybe we as parents should ask ourselves how we would feel about another adult belittling our child in public and then remember that when we begin to shout remarks at sporting events.

Emotional abuse is a community problem. Children who experience emotional abuse frequently grow into adults who feel badly about themselves, are afraid of other people, have trouble forming healthy relationships and who underrate their own abilities and potential. They feel depressed and anxious and may grow up to abuse or neglect their own children. They may grow up feeling unloved and may find it hard to lead productive lives. Therefore, society pays the price.

A parent's behavior may offer clues as to whether they are guilty of inflicting emotional abuse. When a parent always seems disappointed with the child's progress at school or if they refuse to meet with teachers and principals they may be emotional abusers. If they stay isolated from the community, abuse alcohol or other drugs they may be offenders of emotional abuse. If they belittle or scream at the child in public then changes are they do the same at home.

What can we do to help prevent child emotional abuse. First, we can take a look at our own homes. Do we encourage our children to express ideas and feelings? Do we set an example for open, honest communication? Do we know our children's likes and dislikes and do we support our children's creativity. How often do we praise our children? Do we teach our children a clear sense of right and wrong? Do we express our affection in words and actions. Do we push our children to heights of success that they are incapable of reaching and then ridicule them when they do not meet our expectations? Do we down grade other children publicly when they "out-do" our own children?

All parents and teachers have bad days but there is help out there for those who consistently have problems. Parents Anonymous is a group that lets parents talk openly about their problems without fear of criticism. The national office will happily provide you with the number of a group near you. Just call 1-800-421-0353. There are other family resource agencies waiting to help you. Emergency shelters, counseling, parenting classes and parent aide programs are available through The Texas Department of Human Services and they are also ready to assist you if you call them with a suspected case of abuse or neglect. Hotlines may be utilized for immediate help or referrals to services in your area. The Childhelp Hotline is available 24 hours a day. That number is 1-800-422-4453.

Let's take a look at ourselves, our actions, and also our words and try to help curb emotional child abuse.

Evangelist

Believers Chapel has been a supporter of the ministry God has called him since he decided to go to Detroit in 1990. His background and his training make Waleed uniquely qualified to take God's Word around the world to everyone, and especially to the Muslim people, who are people for whom Christ died, too. I hope that anyone who can will come to hear this man speak. His personal testimony will bless those who hear him. I expect him to really challenge his listeners to the continuing validity of the Great Commission that Jesus gave to the church."
