Moguls To Host Haskell In Season Opener

THE 1993 MUNDAY MOGUL FOOTBALL TEAM is ready for action this Friday night as they take on the Haskell Indians in the first game of the season. Munday will be looking to avenge last year's loss to Haskell while the Indians are determined to make it two in a row. Fans will be able to see the "single shoot" offense Head Coach Jim Edwards installed this year and it should be an exciting Mogul football season!

The Munday Moguls will begin their 1993 football season this Friday night at Scruggs Field as they play hos to the Haskell Indians.

Munday ended up with a 4-7 season in 1992. A 4-1 record in district put the Moguls in the playoffs but a loss to the Hart Longhorns in the first round ended the season.

Runningbacks Aaron Kiser and Dustin Kiser should help the Moguls move the ball pretty good.

Also expected to shine for the Moguls are seniors Terry Tomlinson, Jake Jordan, Kole Sanders, Jason Bowman, and Tony Morgan. These veterans will be the key to the Moguls success this year.

Junior, Bronco Flyc, will be a big asset for Munday although he missed the last three and a half games last year due to an injury in the Spur game.

Meanwhile, the Haskell Indians return six starters on both sides of the line from a 6-4 team last year.

The key producers on offense are back. Quarterback Mart Guess, tailback, Justin Lisle and end Jonathan McFadden.

Lincman, Martin Limones, Brandon McFadden, and Matt Perry return to clear the way for Guess and Lisle.

Back from the defensive side are linebackers Keiland Riley, Jason Torres and McFadden, Defensive backs Casey Larned and Robert Huff and tackles Kevin and Deon Walker.

Coach Walter Hargrove loses all district and all area end Tommie Isbell, but has a good group coming up from junior varsity. Seymour transfer, Tony Session, a sophomore runningback could be a big help as well.

Grab Your Shotgun, Let's Go Hunting!

Look out, our feathered friends... dove season is upon us once again! Area hunters will be scattered over the county, hiding in tall grass or behind a bush near a tank, waiting for the unsuspecting birds to glide by.

Dove season officially opens Wednesday (today), September 1. Hunting regulations are the same as last year. You may hunt 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset, and have no more than 12 birds in your bag at the end of the day. Possession limit is 24 after the second day of the season.

According to Ronnie Ainsworth, Knox County Game Warden, the dove population is good right now, but should be better later in the month. Last week's rain has scattered the birds pretty much, so there probably won't be any fast and furious shooting going on the first day, but there is plenty of doves. He reminds local hunters that all shotguns must be plugged to a three-shot capacity.

Hunting licenses are mandatory, and may be purchased from Mr. Ainsworth in Knox City, the County Clerk's office and Bud Clower's bait shop in Benjamin.

and at Snack 'n Tackle at Miller Creek Reservoir.

If you were born on or after September 2, 1971, and you are age 17 or over, you must successfully complete a Hunter Education Training Course. If you are age 12-16, you must successfully complete a hunter education course or be accompanied by a licensed hunter 17 years of age or older. Children under 12 must also be accompanied by a licensed hunter 17 years of age or older. Proof of certification is required to be on the person while hunting. You do not have to show proof of this certification to buy a license.

If you have any questions concerning hunting regulations, you may contact Ainsworth at his Knox City residence.

Plant to 1st square	480
Plant to 1st bloom	900

Let's Extend Our Christmas Lights A Little Farther!

The Munday Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring Project: Skyline II, a continuation of last year's fund raiser used to purchase Christmas lights for the downtown area.

Donations to Project: Skyline II will be used to extend the lights even further. The amount of funds received will determine how far the lights will be extended. $279 has been donated thus far.

Once again the Munday Volunteer Fire Department will be working with the Chamber on this project.

If you would like to make a contribution, there are three locations to choose from - the Chamber of Commerce, Buds For You and the First National Bank where a box will be placed in the lobby. Memorial donations will also be accepted.

No School Monday For Local Students, Teachers, Faculty

Local students, teachers and faculty will get a break from school on Monday, September 6, for Labor Day.

Labor Day Weekend will be celebrated in many different ways. Some will go camping one last time before cold weather hits, some will be dove hunting an extra day, while others will just stay at home to relax and do nothing.

Whatever you decide to do, we hope you enjoy your holiday because it's back to school on Tuesday.

Questions Answered At Town Hall Meeting

Concerned citizens met with Congressman Bill Sarpaulius at a Town Hall Meeting Tuesday, August 24, at the Munday Chamber of Commerce office.

The Congressman discussed health care reform, economic growth, social security, the Reconciliation Bill or Deficit Reduction Bill.

Following his presentation, he opened the floor for questions.

One person in attendance expressed concern on the $59 million cut in college grants. Sarpaulius replied, "We passed about 4 weeks ago a new education program where any kid can now go to college. The government will basically loan them the money. When they finish college, they can either pay that back either by money, or by community service. With that program in tact now, there's no need for another program."

He was also asked how the $5 million cut on research building facilities would affect the local research station. "You probably won't see an increase as far as building more buildings, but I think we're going to be successful in hanging on to what we got," he replied.

EPA regulations on landfills was another subject brought up. Following a brief discussion, the Congressman added, "With my one vote, I'm trying every way I can to help you with it. We're going to continue working on it, and I hope we're successful."

He closed the meeting by saying, "I respect those people who feel differently than the way I do, and the way I voted. The beautiful thing about this country is you're entitled to your own opinions. But I did what I thought was right, and I think it's worth the chance to try and make some of those changes. I hope it will work, but we'll never know unless we give it a try. There's those who complain about the government, but if you stop and think, I think we still have the best country in the world. We have a tendency to always complain, and sometimes we forget to turn around and look at the blessings that we do have."

Reserve Your Seat For Home Games Before Friday Night

You have until this Friday, September 3, to buy your reserve seat tickets before they go on sale to the public at halftime Friday night.

Those who had reserve seats last year have the option to keep those seats, or let them go to someone else.

Reserve seat tickets are $5 each. This is just to insure you have a good seat for the game. You still have to pay admission at the gate.

Hospital Auxiliary Donates Funds For New Ambulance

The Pink Ladies Volunteer Auxiliary of Knox County Hospital have donated $15,000.00 toward the purchase of a new ambulance, according to Stephen Kuchler, Administrator of the hospital. "Our volunteers generously donate their time to serve our patients at the hospital every day, but this donation means that everyone in the county will benefit from their generosity," he said.

The new ambulance, which replaces a 1980 Modulance Type

Unit, is a Ford Diesel 7.3 Type 3 Marque, purchased from Reliable Emergency Vehicles in Dublin, Texas. "We received four bids for the unit, and made our choice based on the structural integrity, warranties, price and references," Kuchler said. The balance of the cost of the ambulance will be paid from hospital district funds.

Knox County Hospital District operates the ambulance service for Knox County, with ambulances stationed in both Munday and Knox City. The service has four full-time employees: one paramedic, one EMT-Basic, and two EMT-Intermediates.

"This new ambulance will benefit the entire county. The advanced technology of the ambulance and the increased reliability of a new unit will enhance emergency care for all of us," Kuchler said.

From A Carpenter's Son

First United Methodist Church - Munday and Goree
Don Whetsell, Pastor

My daughter is 16 months old. There isn't a door in our house she can't open, a container she can't get the lid off, or a cabinet she can't empty in five seconds flat. Anytime I call my wife from the office, our conversation is always interrupted by "No, don't", "stop it", and my personal favorite - "Courtnei Elizabeth Whetsell!!!!!!" And from what I have witnessed and been told, we have a good baby! Older parents, who are "in-the-know" about such things, give me the reassuring message "wait till she starts talking!"

I, being a former nursery worker veteran, know exactly what they mean. What's the difference between a politician and a talkative two-and-a-half to three year old? Try as you might, you can never get the toddler to only say "no comment". They can talk a fencepost to death in record time.

There are several main reasons for this bent towards unceasing conversation. First, they have just learned the art of conversing verbally and are fascinated with this new toy. They want to try it out in every occasion that presents itself. Second, all children are born with the desire to grow up and to mature. They have learned that talking is a grown-up way to socialize. It's much more grown up than say, biting or randomly pulling on your parent's clothing.

But third, and I think most importantly, they are proud, proud of the new words they master every day, proud of the attention they can receive now if they 'turn up the volume', proud that they can talk to mommy and daddy the way mommy and daddy talk to each other.

And there is absolutely nothing wrong with any of that. Eternal conversation is a small price to pay for the healthy development of these little minds. Even though from our past comes the phrase,

"Children should be seen and not heard!", most of us, with a few reasonable exceptions, would tend to disagree . . . or do we?

It just occurred to me that I can think of one group of children who ought to at least be seen before they are heard - God's children. There is entirely too much talking going on in the Body of Christ, especially for the slim amount of 'walking' that's being done.

Don't get me wrong, I am a strong advocate of personal verbal witness, especially when you have no other choice due to circumstances, i.e. the person is 'just passing through', etc . . . But most people have their best witness opportunities with their friends and co-workers, and in the words of Mike Wamke - "people aren't listenin' to hear Jesus, they're lookin' to see Him." In James 1:27, James writes "And this is what God considers to be pure and undefiled religion: to care for widows and orphans in their suffering, and to keep yourself from the corruption of this world."

One of the primary requirements for an authentic evangelistic witness, is a genuine love and concern for God's people, or in the words of John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, "a passion for souls" and this is best demonstrated by our actions of love toward those we wish to win to Christ.

"What good is it to say to them, 'God bless you! Keep warm and eat well,' if you don't provide them any food or clothing? So it is when faith produces no actions. It is dead and worth nothing"

James 2:14-16

CDC Helps Small Businesses With Economic Development

Expanding businesses in West Texas may now have greater representation when they seek Small Business Administration funding. Eric Geisler, Economic Development Specialist at West Texas Utilities Company, was elected to the Board of Directors of the Capital Certified Development Corporation at its quarterly meeting recently held in Midland. The Capital CDC, established by the Texas Department of Commerce, is the only statewide CDC that serves small businesses in Texas by assisting them in accessing federal funds administered by the SBA's 504 Loan Program.

WTU Director of Wholesale and Business Development, David Young said, "We are always looking for ways to provide Economic Development tools to our region and this can be a competitive funding source for new or expanding businesses." A business can only access the federal SBA 504 Loan Program through a certified development company.

The Capital CDC has a 10 member board with statewide representation from private lenders, business organizations, local government, and community organizations. All board members are active in small business economic development and have business finance expertise.

For more information on the Capital CDC, please contact Armando Ruiz in the Texas Department of Business Finance at 512-320-9649 or any of the board members.

The cable company has not received permission from KTXS, KJTL and KFDX to carry their signal after October 6, 1993. In accordance with the new law, the company is notifying its customers 30 days prior to the October 6 date that it may not be able to carry these signals without permission from these stations.

The company did emphasize that it is continuing discussions with all of these stations and that it hopes to reach an agreement for continued carriage prior to the deadline. The company has reached agreement for carriage of many television stations throughout the company that have not asked for cash payments for continued carriage.

It is Harmon Cable's position that it does not feel cable customers should have to pay for television signals that non-cable customers receive over the air for free.

Area Harmon Cable customers have shown little concern over whether or not area broadcasters are dropped from the cable system. According to a spokesperson at the Stamford office, they have only received a couple of calls.

Please Be Careful When Installing Your Football Booster Sign

The football booster signs were being distributed Monday morning by Leroy and Welton Leflar. They stopped by the Courier office to request our help.

Due to the dry weather, they were unable to place the signs in the ground at this time. It will be up to the booster to tend to this task.

The Leflars suggest that you water the spot and make a hole with a post hole digger or other instrument. Do not try to hammer the sign into the ground by hitting it on the top. This will break the sealant and water will then ruin the wood.

Your cooperation will be appreciated. These signs are used each year, and are costly to replace.

This little gal with the holes in her jeans
And no shoes on her feet,
Simply looks super keen
And isn't she a cookie so sweet?

But with the passage of time,
And a lot of water under the bridge,
She's beginning to look a "little" more fine,
Even though she's still quite a midge.

At 22, we figure she's "over the hill"
And has seen her better days;
She's ran her legs off and been through the mill,
But we're all bettin' her "gift of gab" is here to stay!

KNOX COUNTY PROFILE . . .

Pat Smith, Antique Dealer, Enjoys Preserving The Past

As we sat in the Rusty Nail with the front door open, trucks and cars going by in a steady stream, Pat Smith sat back in one of his antique chairs and told me a little about himself.

He was born June 26, 1949, to Arthur, Jr. and Lucille Smith. A lifetime resident of Munday, he was raised on the south side of town with his two brothers and a sister.

"I was raised on Methodist Street," Smith said, which was the nickname given to the 2 block lane because all the families living there were Methodists, except the Smiths who were Baptists. "Mrs. J. H. Bardwell, a neighbor and teacher, called it Good Children's Street," he said. She even wrote a poem about all the kids on the block, and made copies for each one to keep. It is now 11th Ave., and Kenneth and Joy Baker live in the Smith home today.

Pat has always been interested in old things, having been raised around antiques belonging to his parents. "If you get bitten by the bug, it gets in your blood and you just love it and it's fun!" he said with a smile.

Smith calls his shop the Rusty Nail, which is located just north of the blinking light in Munday, and has been in the antique business for 7 years.

Working with flowers is another talent Pat enjoys. He has worked for Perry Kuehler in the flower shop, Buds For You, for the past 8 years, and with Irene Earle when she owned the shop.

Pat loves singing. In January of 1987, the quartet, "Minor Chords," was formed. He sang tenor, along with Lyndle Reeves, Russell Byard and Ray Hunter. They performed at many community functions, including the Chamber of Commerce

LOCAL ANTIQUE DEALER, Pat Smith, has everything imaginable in his store, The Rusty Nail. He spends a lot of time going to estate sales, auctions and garage sales to find that special item he or someone he knows has been looking for. And if you don't get there early, you're "whipped", so he's up early each Saturday morning and out the door with his list in hand!

Banquet in 1987 where they were named Citizens of the Year. In just two short years, the group had to split up after Ray Hunter, Church of Christ minister, moved to Caddo Mills.

You can find Pat on the track field almost every day, even in the cold weather, where he runs/walks four miles. He also lifts weights a couple of times a week.

Besides singing and exercising, Pat enjoys his skiing trips. He said he doesn't get to go very often, but he loves the feeling of being free when he's on the slopes.

A great spectator of sports, Pat said he enjoys working in the community and being around other people. He is a member of the Munday Chamber of Commerce, and loves helping with activities involved with the chamber.

One of the lowest points in his life was the illness and loss of his dad three years ago. He passed away in June of 1990.

"There are as many high points as low points, I guess," he thoughtfully stated. "When I get together with the old quartet" is one of the high points, he said, and getting away from business once in a while, like going snow skiing.

In discussing the changes in life since youth, Pat looked out the front window of the store and said, "All I have to do is look at my town." He reminisced about the hustle and bustle when going in the stores on Saturdays, "and the old ceiling fans would just be a churning."

"Eiland's Drug was my favorite place because it had a fountain," he fondly remembered. As a matter of fact, his antique store use to be a drug store. It was first called the old Tennessee Store, built in 1921. "During wet weather, when I drive up the back, I can still see the original paint that reads, The Tennessee Store, he said. It was a mercantile, and later became Loveless Drug, and then City Drug. Mary Cartwright took the building over not long after that, and sold children's and babies' clothing. The building has changed hands many times and has an interesting history, he stated.

Pat's mother and dad both came from Virginia. He enjoys talking about the genealogy of his family, and how his great-great-grandfather Hogan had 21 children, no twins! "I love to trace family roots."

Memories of his childhood was a favorite topic in our discussion. One of Pat's special memories was to see the four stars on each side of the old city hall at Christmas time, each one a different color, and the big string of colored lights zig-zagging down main street. "It was very bright downtown at Christmas time in Munday!" he laughed.

The Roxy Marquee, located where Smith Drug is today, was the "fun place to go," Pat explained. He remembered the Fair Store used to be located where Ben Franklin is now, and Ben Franklin was where Munday Auto is, in just a small building. Perry Brothers was located where S & L Apparel is, with windows all down the east side, according to Pat. It was later Western Auto. In the 50's, Norleine Willoughby ran the "Snack Shack", which was the teenagers haunt. "She had a jukebox that wouldn't quit!" he said with a grin. It was close to the high school, where Gail's Hair Shop is now.

You wouldn't think a 44-year-old man would remember this much about Munday, but he explained, "I've heard all of this, and it's fun to know it. I like to know the history of the town and what was where." His family talked often of the changes.

Pat's antique shop is full of history. There's a story behind almost every piece, and he enjoys preserving a part of the past for future generations.
