Farmers Short Course Gets Very Small Attendance Over County; Farmers Busy

From the standpoint of attendance Knox County's first Farmers' Short Course could hardly be classed as a success, due to the fact that the farmers are busily engaged in getting their crops in shape and could not spare the time off to attend in the numbers that should have attended, but from the standpoint of talent brought to our county, The Times believes it would be difficult to assemble a more efficient corps of speakers within the confines of our state than that which visited Knox County this week to offer their services, and their broad scope of experience to the farmers, and it is a very unfortunate situation that has prevented them in large numbers attending these gatherings and getting the benefits that may have been derived from them.

Due to the small attendance at Munday on Monday evening the speakers merely gave informal talks and made no attempt to cover the subjects which they were scheduled to have covered, however, the program throughout was very interesting and we believe those present enjoyed it very much and obtained many worth-while ideas. While the time here was limited to an evening program, all of the speakers in the party made brief talks.

The first of the speakers to appear on the program here was Paul Huey, field representative of the Progressive Farmer, and formerly county agent of Hale county. Mr. Huey's talk was along the line of dairy cattle, and among the points which he brought out in his talk was that the most practical was in which farmers in any given section could build up the dairy industry was through bull circles, by which a number of farmers interested might go into the market and buy a sire to head their herds and thereby gradually build up their stock. Mr. Huey discouraged the idea of going into the market and buying high-priced dairy cattle, for he states that it is impossible to buy real good dairy cattle at any price.

Miss McGehee, county home demonstration agent of Clay county, spoke at length upon improvements of the farm home, and gave some very interesting figures showing the physical efforts required to do the housework under certain unfavorable conditions, which are very common throughout this section of Texas. One of the interesting facts brought out by Miss McGehee, was the fact that while America was far ahead of Europe in the matter of agricultural methods and machinery, the statistics at her command showed that the average farm home in America did not possess the conveniences of the average farm home in Europe.

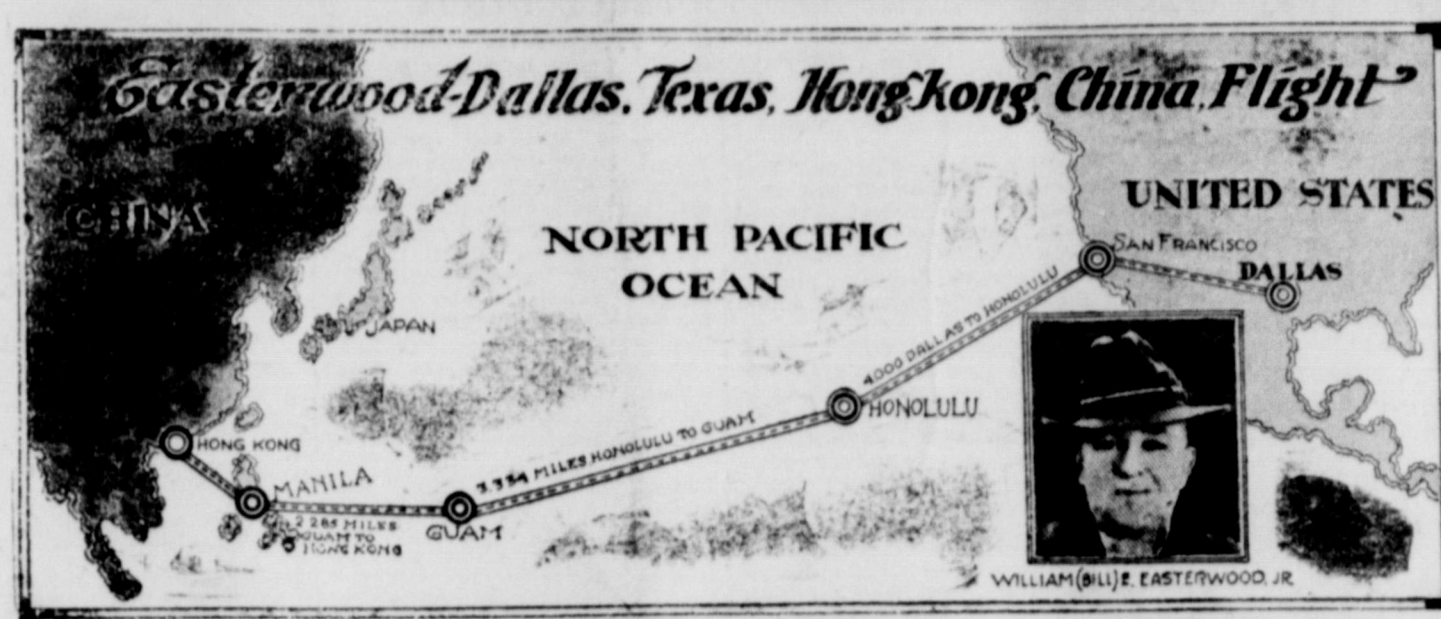

M. Bruce Oates, agricultural agent for the Fort Worth and Denver railway, was the next speaker. Mr. Oates has spoken to audiences here in years gone by and everyone knows that he always has something really worth while to say. Mr. Oates pointed out some statistics to show that without a certain amount of diversification the Famous Knox Prairie was not self-sustaining, and he urged a program of diversification. "One need not be in the poultry business to have a couple of hundred laying hens on the farm," said Mr. Oates, "neither need he consider that he is in the dairying business if he has five good milk cows on his farm, but with these and other sources of income, he may rest assured that he will not be compelled to go to the bank and borrow money with which to carry on." "And," said Mr. Oates, "these are things that every farmer on the Famous Knox Prairie can do without reducing cotton acreage or otherwise interfering with their present income without these things."

To many the brief talk by R. R. Reppert, entomologist with A. & M. College, was most interesting. Mr. Reppert has devoted many years of study to the insignificant little bugs that inhabit this and other sections of the southwest, and he gave some very valuable information as to how they might be controlled. "While there are more than five thousand different insects," said Mr. Reppert, "these five thousand are divided into two classes—those that have a biting mouth and those that have a sucking bill, and it therefore requires a varied method of poisoning to control them," said Mr. Reppert. In commenting upon the appearance of the cotton flea hopper Mr. Reppert suggested that the farmers use sulphur as a means of control, dusting it on the leaves of the plant. However, Mr. Reppert suggested other means of control which will be given in these columns later.

G. W. Barnes, beef cattle specialist, was the next speaker on the program. Since there was little interest in this section of the county on the subject to be discussed by Mr. Barnes his remarks were purely of a humorous nature, and he kept the audience in the most hilarious state during his talk.

County Agent W. O. Logan closed the meeting with a few remarks, in which he urged those present to spread the many good ideas that had been given to the audience during the evening.

New Hospital Board Holds First Meeting

At a recent meeting of the Commissioner's Court a new board was named to administer the affairs of the county hospital, it having been pointed out to them that the board previously named was not in conformity with the law, and the following directors were named to constitute the new board: D. C. Fritz, Munday; Tom Isbell, Goree; J. W. Howell, Knox City; L. H. Bratcher, Vera; C. C. Browning, Truscott and D. J. Brookreson, Benjamin.

The new board held their first meeting on Monday of this week.

Knox-Baylor Club Girls Hold Successful Encampment In The Cartwright Pasture

At the close of their annual encampment each year the 4-H Club girls of Knox and Baylor counties immediately begin their fond anticipation of the event that will follow the following year at about the same time, and we are sure that many of those who attended the encampment at Cartwright's pasture on Friday and Saturday of last week are doing this very thing.

This was one of the most successful encampments in the history of the organizations, there being 105 girls in attendance, 45 of whom were from Baylor county.

One of the most enjoyable features of these encampments are the various contests that are a part of the program each year, and more interest was shown this year than ever before and competition was keener in each of the contests.

In the Knox county wild flower contest Majorie Harris of the Munday Club was awarded first place, with Frances Diersing of the Rhineland Club a close second.

In the 4-H appropriate dress contest Lottie Henderson of the Union Grove Club was awarded a trip to the A. & M. Short Course, and Oma Loper of the Union Grove community was awarded second place. Zuleka Wilson of Baylor county was winner of the Short Course trip in her county.

In the school costume contest the trip to the A. & M. Short Course in Knox county was awarded to Lula Hurd of the Vera Club, and Helen Collier of the Vera Club was awarded second place, while Lottie Henderson of the Union Grove was third, and Birdie Henderson of the same club won fourth.

One of the most interesting features of the encampment was the stunt contest participated in by the various clubs on Friday evening, and some of the stunts that were put on by the clubs were very enjoyable, and all were original. In this contest the judges awarded first place to Shawver, and as a premium they were awarded eight pounds of stick candy. Ex-Club girls were awarded second place in the contest, and were awarded a large stick of candy. All of the clubs represented at the encampment gave their stunts, many of which had been planned after the encampment had opened.

On Friday evening after the girls had enjoyed a fine supper they were served ice cream cones as compliments of the Munday Chamber of Commerce, and on Saturday morning the girls were served breakfast by the Goree Study Club and on Saturday they were served dinner in Munday by the Munday Study Club.

On Saturday afternoon the West Texas Utilities Company gave a very interesting demonstration on electric appliances, including the electric range, Frigidaire and other appliances, which were fully demonstrated by Mr. F. F. Seifert, the aggressive commercial agent of the company. At the conclusion of the demonstration the girls drew for the two beautiful prizes offered by the company, and Viola Peek of Baylor county won the beautiful ivory dresser set, while Doris Stratton of Goree won a beautiful box of candy.

Another feature of the afternoon's entertainment in Munday was afforded by the Peoples Theatre, which admitted them complimentary to the show, and we have their word for it that they had a most enjoyable encampment from the start to the finish, and they are loud in their praise for their home demonstration agents, Miss Mamie Maxwell of Knox county, and Mrs. Kelly of Baylor county.

It was the pleasure of the Times man to visit the camp of the girls on Friday evening, and we believe it would be an injustice to these two demonstration agents to close without saying a few complimentary words concerning the encampment. In the first place, the perfect discipline and order maintained with so large a number of girls—all enjoying themselves to the fullest extent, yet ever ready to respond to the call to order. If the 4-H club girls were taught no more than was demonstrated in this one respect, the work would be worth while, but this is only one of the many things that are taught them, and we believe the work that is being done along this line possesses the greatest amount of merit.

Rev. Jas. M. McLean Resigns Pastorate

Rev. McLean has been pastor of the local church for the past two years, and during that time has made a large host of friends in this city, and the same may be said of Mrs. McLean, and both will be greatly missed from the church and social circles of the city, and all will join with us in commending them in the highest terms to the citizenship of Throckmorton and wishing for them a large measure of success in their undertakings there.

CHURCHES

HOME COMING SERVICE AND DOLLAR DAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH

We want three things at the Baptist church next Sunday. First we want to break our Sunday school attendance record. This ought to be easy. The way to do it is for you to come yourself, and if possible bring a friend with you. The second thing we want to do is to have another successful dollar day. But if you cannot bring a dollar, do not be embarrassed about it, you are not the first or only person to be financially broke; nor do we suppose it is the first time you were in that condition. We want you more than we want your dollar, however, you will both be welcome. In the third place we want you to fill a basket with something to eat and let's have a real old fashioned dinner on-the-ground. Let it be understood that we are not going to have lunch at the church, but "dinner on the ground," for everybody.

If there are those who live away from the community who used to hold membership in this church, and you read this notice, let it serve as a special invitation to you to be with us. In fact, everybody is invited.

Brother W. R. Underwood, one of the most popular pastors this church ever had, is preaching at the morning hour. We do not know now who will fill the pulpit at the evening hour. We hope to have another of the ex-pastors.

Visitors welcome.

P. D. O'Brien, Pastor.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE OF MUNDAY CIRCUIT TO BE HELD AT HEFNER

The third quarterly conference of the Munday circuit will be held at the Hefner church on Saturday, beginning at eleven o'clock, and continuing throughout the day. Dinner will be served at the church and a full attendance of the officers of the church and the membership is desired.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

There will be the usual services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. This will be the last service of our pastorate, and we would like for all our members to be present. We expect to take up our new work at Throckmorton the first of July.

Come and worship with us.

Jas. M. McLean, Pastor.

REV. J. F. CURRY BADLY INJURED BY UNRULY MULE

Rev. J. F. Curry has been laid up for repairs since the latter part of last week, when he was quite seriously injured in a very unusual manner. The accident occurred at the home of a relative near Haskell, and rendered him unconscious for more than twelve hours.

From reports it seems that he was talking with his kinsman, who was engaged in un-harnessing a mule, and just as the mule was released from its bridle it made a lunge and ran against Rev. Curry, knocking him against a trough and inflicting a severe wound near the temple. He was also badly bruised about the body, and we are pleased to announce that he is reported to be getting along nicely at this time.

Rev. Curry's appointment at Prairie View last Sunday was filled by J. W. Pippin of this city.

A flying squad of London detectives will be equipped with motorcycles capable of making 80 miles an hour.

Texas Co's. Bowden To Spud This Week

After being delayed for several reasons we are informed that the Texas Company's Bowden No. 1 will spud on Friday or Saturday of this week.

It was thought that things would be in shape for the spudding of this well some time ago, but when the crew was about ready to begin rigging up here trouble developed in the Texas Company's well near Knox City and members of the crew were transferred there to help get things going, and later it was found that the water on the location could not be used advantageously in the boilers and a pipe line was laid to Scott's lake, three miles south of the well, and pumping equipment was installed to bring the water from the lake to the boilers.

Two boilers have been set up and when drilling is started it is likely that the well will be drilled with all possible speed.

Work Is Begun On Farmers Union Gin

Work has been started this week on the rebuilding of the gin plant of the Farmers Union, which was destroyed by fire last November.

The plant is to be a five-stand, seventy-saw Murry equipped, and will be operated by steam power.

Emmett Partridge, manager of the plants of the Farmers Union, is in charge of the building, and states that the plant will be completed and ready for operation by the opening of the fall season.

All business concerns in Munday with the exception of the drug stores, filling stations and cafes, will observe July 4th, and plan to close their places of business on that day. Since the 4th comes on Monday, it will enable those who wish to make a journey of any distance to have two days together in which to do so.

COMMISSIONERS RECID ACTION TO RAISE VALUES ON FARM LANDS

The Commissioners Court of Knox county decided last Saturday to recind the recent order issued by the court calling for a raise of 25 per cent on farm lands in the county. The action was taken after it was decided by the court that funds sufficient to meet the requirements could be procured without resorting to a raise in the taxable valuations at this time.

W. F. MURPHY BRINGS IN FIRST NEW ROASTINGEARS

W. F. Murphy of the Hood community was in town Saturday with the first new roastingears that he has raised in this year, and his cargo consisted of five dozen fine ones, which were purchased by the Broach Grocery.

Mr. Murphy states that the roastingears were from corn planted the last week in February, and states that the yield will be good, the recent rains having the effect of making the ears fall out large and plump.

KNOX COUNTY SINGERS TO MEET SUNDAY AT GOREE

We are requested to announce that the Knox county singing convention will meet on next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Goree, and the public is extended a cordial invitation to attend.

The new song books will be here in time to be used at this gathering, and all of those who enjoy singing or enjoy hearing good singing are urged to be present.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gilmer of New Orleans, better known by her pen name of Dorothy Dix, was given the honorary degree of doctor of laws by Tulane University.

Phebe K. Warner

One of the happiest thrills that comes to a mother's heart is when somebody says something nice to her about her children. And the next best thrill is for some stranger to walk up to you when you are away from home and say something nice about your home town. Especially if your home town is just a little town that folks scarcely notice when they drive through.

But that's just what happened to me the other day. I was down at Rochester. Now, some of you may wonder where Rochester is. Most of us know only one Rochester and it is far away and noted principally for its importation of aches and pains. But this was Rochester, Texas, a happy little town of about a thousand folks down on the Orient.

Yes, the Orient is still running and running faster and more regular than ever. A railroad that just a few years ago some of the Texas people wanted to kill. But today it is one of the big business lines in the State with from ten to twelve long freight trains loaded down with oil and other things every day in the year.

So I went down to Rochester a couple of weeks ago to attend the seventh grade and high school commencement. And while I was there I met Mrs. T. B. Bagwell. And the first thing she said was "I never will forget your home town." And then turning to a group of women she told them that "for fifteen miles before they reached Claude they began to read the bill boards of the Claude Baptist Church. One told of the time of the Sunday school and church service. Gave the pastor's name. Told them where to find it. And invited them to come to their church and Sunday school as they passed through Claude." And then she added "I've been through a lot of towns, but that was the first time I ever saw a sign along the highway inviting every stranger to attend their church and assuring them of a welcome."

Now to be real honest some of the home folks criticised the Claude Baptist Church when they put those signs up. But that's natural. You can guess at the reasons. Home folks usually criticise home folks more than anybody else. And it is usually the home folks that knock their own little town. That's the chief reason it never grows up. If everybody would boost their own little home town as religiously as they knock it, it wouldn't stay a little town any longer than a baby stays a baby. Any way those signs were not put up for the benefit of the home folks who knew where the Baptist church was and how to get there and when to go. They were put there to let all the people who travel up and down the Colorado to Gulf Highway and the Ozark Trail know there is a Baptist Church in Claude, where there is always room for strangers. And for the life of me, I can't see why a church has not the same right to advertise its business as a circus. And if a circus comes along every board fence and cowshed from one town to the next will be plastered with invitations to attend the show. And often the deacons and elders and stewards will let the circus use their cowsheds to advertise things they won't let their children go to see. They don't need to go. They can see the whole show on the cowshed.

But to find someone two hundred miles from home, who actually saw something good in my little home town as she passed through it set me to thinking. Why don't we all advertise the good things we are doing in our town more? It's not the size of a place, or a person that counts for the most. It's the SPIRIT of the place and a little town can have as BIG a spirit as a large town. And often the little town is doing as much if not more good per capita and capital than our great human centers. But who knows it?

Why don't every church advertise Sunday school and church services? And if there is to be some special attraction at their church why not let the people know? Every Sunday from this week on until the snow flies next winter every town in Texas and every other state will have a lot of campers. And campers and tourists are just home folks away from home. And thousands of them would enjoy going to the "Little Brown Church in the Dale" if they thought anybody wanted them. It would actually be a relief to a lot of city folks to get back into a little country church where everybody sings and visits and has a good time at church. Most of us were brought up in just such churches. But a lot of folks have wandered far from the little old family fold where they once loved God and humanity and felt natural when they went to church.

The little church in the little town is always doing good things for somebody. Don't you believe the work our churches are doing would make as good reading on a hill board as the "Battle Ax," "Bull Durham" and "Camel" stories we see every where we go. I hope to see the day when our churches will be advertised as much as cigarettes. Do you suppose there is as much money spent on all our churches in the whole United States as there is spent on cigarettes alone? One thing sure we are not training our boys and girls to give as much to the church as they spend on cigarettes. Which would be the best for their character and constitution? I heard a young man say not

HOW A FARMING COMMUNITY WAS REBUILT AGAIN

Glass factories and coal mines had kept the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker and the banker busy the year round in Point Marion, Pennsylvania. Hired men left the farms followed by the farm owners to get their share of the attractive wages.

Suddenly labor saving machinery was brought in to the old hand method window glass factories. The coal business took a drop and hundreds of people had to find new employment. Savings accounts dwindled. Deposits of the two banks dropped off almost a million dollars.

"Bring in more industries," was being sung at luncheon clubs all over the land, every town seemed to be advertising unlimited water supply, cheap fuel and free factory sites. Competition was keen and the reward doubtful.

The question came, "Why not stimulate the agricultural pursuits of the community which have lain dormant so long?" Farm income might be increased and production sets lowered in many instances.

The first move of one of the banks was the purchase of healthy chicks. These were furnished by the bank at wholesale to interested farmers, payment to be made by note payable in six months. The bank followed through by aiding in the dissemination of culing and feeding knowledge and by helping to market the cockerels which in most instances paid the initial cost of all the chicks.

When the pumpkins began to turn yellow, plans were laid for a great community exhibit. Besides the poultry display, farm produce exhibits from the surrounding country were entered. Altogether it made an impressive exhibit, bringing home the lesson to Point Marion people that there were great undeveloped opportunities within their own doorsteps which they had overlooked.

The annual exhibit will be continued in the future by the bank. A horse show is sponsored, better seed corn and seed potatoes are made available to the farmers for planting and the bank will continue to build agriculture in the community as a sound basis on which to work. "It will probably be some time before we shall see larger fruits of our endeavors," the banker says, "but we are looking ahead ten to fifteen years."

THE NEW MENACE

Hitch-hiking its way towards the nation's corncrib, the European corn borer is threatening to destroy crops to the value of billions of dollars and chase skyward the cost of production. If it worms its way into lung ago if he had seen as many Sunday school signs as he saw cigarette signs when he was a boy he might have gone to Sunday school instead of going to smoking cigarettes. I wonder who is responsible for this lack of advertising the good things in all our towns? Does advertising simply mean doing something to make money? Would advertising the best things in our towns be worth the price of a bill board for educational purposes? Folks just naturally love to read things as they go along the highway. Since there's not so much for them to see in our small towns, why not give them something to read as they go by?

Wabash and Mississippi Valleys, it can readily float downstream, spread out and become more difficult to control. Proper cooperation of all concerned will, no doubt, enable us to continue to grow corn profitably.—Agricultural Bulletin, American Bankers Association.

FIND YOUTH IS "HORNING" WAY AROUND WORLD

"Horning one's way around the world," is rapidly becoming a popular means by which young America is gratifying its "going abroad" hunger, according to information reaching the Conn Music Center, Elkhart, Ind. Music is not only the wherewithal which makes it possible for him to satisfy his desire for travel, but it is also keeping his pockets rather well lined. The American band is found aboard the ships of every flag, and in the capitals of the nations of the Orient and Occident. Members of orchestras provide music aboard boat at comfortable salaries and further increase their earnings through concerts in foreign ports. The story of America's symphonic jazz has penetrated every nation, and the natives are waiting to know more of it. They are anxious to try their luck with America's dance steps, too.

Even the American girls are "horning it" on this free but de luxe travel scheme. When Jack Sutherland returned to the United States recently his saxophone sextette included four American girls. They had stopped in Honolulu for their first appearance, then jumped to Japan. From there they kept on going, and playing. "We were treated like ambassadors," reported Jesse Wright and his fellow members of the S. S. Franconia orchestra, when they docked at San Francisco after circling the globe on one of their tours.

FAMILY BAND

These who are laboring under the delusion that the present generation alone is responsible for the Jazz Age would do well to study this picture, says the Conn Music Center, Elkhart, Ind.

Here five generations are pictured in harmony. It shows Mrs. Sarah Jane Hewitt of Los Angeles, eighty-six years of age, drawing harmony from one saxophone, while two more and a clarinet are held in reserve. Her "little boy" Frank, a mere lad of sixty-seven, is playing the cornet. Her granddaughter, Mrs. A. G. Wagner, forty-one, holds still another saxophone while her great-granddaughter, Mrs. J. Effinger, Jr., twenty, is playing second cornet. Great-grandson Jack Effinger, Jr., is doing his best with the drums. Needless to say, there are no dull moments in the homes of the Hewitt-Effinger clan.

450 HENS ON FARM MAKE $1,000.00 NET PROFIT

(By F. W. Kazmeier, Bryan, Texas)

Farm poultry keeping offers one revenue for reducing cotton acreage, practicing diversification and providing for a steady cash income.

Poultry keeping will do more to ease a community on a cash basis than anything else a farmer can do. Next comes the dairy cow that makes the daily milk check possible. Besides poultry and carrying are a wonderful combination especially when cream is sold and the skim milk becomes a by-product. Such a combination positively can not be beaten. The only serious objection to this plan is work regularly for 365 days in the year. To counterbalance this, however, is the positive assurance of a daily cash income, which means much to a family and community.

Banks, business men and merchants of any town or city, can well afford to get behind such a constructive agricultural program as outlined above. The hen is today the most efficient transformer of raw material into a popular finished product. A flock of bred-to-lay hens on every farm in the county will do more to bring about general prosperity than any other form of development.

Just recently one of our best Texas agricultural papers, the Progressive Farmer, fostered a so-called "Master Farmer" project. This project, singled out the best all round farmer in Texas, real honest to goodness dirt farmer, and then studied their plan of work and general program for the year. To be listed as a "Master Farmer" undoubtedly is a distinct honor. We have long had master mechanics, and now we have master farmers. What we are actually trying to get at, however, is the outstanding fact that the greatest of these master farmers, according to Mr. M. R. Martin, of the Progressive Farmer, adopted farm poultry keeping as the leading activity. Quoting from the Progressive Farmer, as follows: "Today 450 standard bred hens are daily producing profit on this farm. K. A. Holekamp, the master farmer," says: "If you want your farm flock to pay profit, start right. Get the best laying stock you can find, house them comfortably, cull rigidly and feed properly, then you are assured of profits in the poultry business. For instance, this past year I sold over $2,000.00 worth of poultry products, from 450 hens from November 1, 1925 to November 1, 1926. My total expense has been about $1,000.00 on my poultry investment."

This really is a real human interest story. How many young married couples, on our farms, find themselves confronted with the problem—"What can I do to be assured a steady daily cash income, to keep me from going into debt too deep?" If you have a few acres of land, are willing to work every day, then K. A. Holekamp's story as a "Master Farmer" should mean something to you. It should help you show the way. It brings out most wonderful opportunities in farming.

Quoting further from the "Progressive Farmer," Dallas, Texas: "Mr. Kolkamp, plans to increase his flock from 450 layers to 1,000 layers in the Spring of 1927, the writer casually asked if poultry was proving a very profitable "sideline" on the farm. In a very pleasing and tactful manner Kurt spoke up and said, "Poultry is no longer a sideline here; it is beginning to be a main line on the farm. I am going to build this flock up to 1,000 laying hens and I am going to have not less than $2,000.00 net profit out of that bunch of hens each year."

We are glad of the opportunity of presenting this story to our readers, for the simple reason so many of our young people are inclined to believe opportunities of farming in Texas to be very few and far apart. Surely as many opportunities exist today as have any other time. May not the trouble be the lack of grasping and making the best of the opportunities as they present them selves?

Today in Texas poultry keeping on the farm and in suburban places offer the most wonderful opportunities. Why not make the best of them?

We would like to present a few factors, learned from both experience and observation, that will mean much to develop poultry keeping along profitable lines. The most profitable farm flock consists of 200 hens or more. Less than this number is not an economical unit to work with. This talk of "50 hens on every farm" is largely based on enthusiasm and theory. It is absolutely wrong, because it is not an economical size of unit. It does not take any more time to take care of 200 hens in properly equipped houses than 50 hens. The investment and possibilities of a 50 hen flock are so small that they are neglected, forgotten, and even abused. Undoubtedly the least number should be 200 layers in one flock in one house. It is better for less farmers to have 200 hens or more than for every farmer to have fifty hens or less. Such propaganda may look good on paper, and sound pleasing in speeches, but alas, on the farm it is not the most satisfactory. No doubt each year our marketing problem will become more acute, but if we can get our farmers interested in keeping chickens in flocks of 200 or more, then we will also have taken the first step towards group commodity or co-operative marketing. The farmer with 200 hens can afford to take the time to deliver the eggs as frequently as necessary. This can not be said about the flock of 50 hens or smaller. Let us not go after every farmer keeping 50 hens but rather, more farmers with 200 or more good bred-to-lay hens of a standard breed for the community. These facts are based upon actual experience in the good old school of "hard knocks."

Literally millions of dollars are lost to American savers annually as the outcome of buying into something—a fraudulent farm promotion, a business or a job that is nothing more or less than a setup to catch suckers. Often the savings of a lifetime are lost by buying unimproved farm lands with the understanding that the seller, or a service company promoted by him, will plant the farm to trees or vines, care for them, market the crop and turn the profits, which, it is promised, will be big, over to the owner. But this dream never comes true. The so-called guaranteed big profits are never realized. If people would only stop long enough to consider all angles of an offer like that before investing they would see the folly of plunging blindly into such a proposition. Let them ask themselves only this one question: "If it is true that such big profits are to be made, why

WHY WIDOWS ARE THE SPECIAL PREY OF CONFIDENCE MEN

By W. R. MOREHOUSE
Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

WOMEN are often easy victims for the high-pressure promoter. Widows are especially sought out by the confidence men. Even before their deceased husbands, protectors and counselors are buried the wolves of high finance are waiting outside their doors. They know the defenseless widows will be easy prey. Many a woman today is penniless as a result of making poor investments. "Getting rich quick" for the widow without investment experience is in reality getting poor quick. Once a sharp promoter gets the confidence of a rich widow he has a "Bonanza" as he calls it. Eventually he gets the estate and the widow gets the property. Widows with estates should be on guard every minute. They are marked persons, with promotion crooks hot on their trail. The best thing that every woman investor can do is to consult her banker before investing.

Properly cut and set, crystals sparkle in realistic imitation of diamonds. The same is true in the field of finance. There is that which is fraudulent parading as the genuine. Don't buy investments simply because they sparkle. In the realm of wild-cat financing, fictitious credentials, testimonials, and references are employed to give setting and genuine appearance. Some are such rank imitations that they are easily recognized, but others defy detection except on the closest investigation by an expert. The only safe procedure is to investigate under competent advice.

CASH FOR FLOOD AREA

At the request of President Coolidge, bankers and business leaders of the country have responded promptly to the need for financial aid for the flood-stricken districts of the Mississippi Valley.

This amount is to be matched, dollar for dollar, by local subscriptions in the flooded areas themselves, making a total of $3,500,000 immediately available in cash.

The fund was raised under the direction of President Pierson of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and will be handled by a holding corporation to be known as the Flood Credits Corporation.

"This response is another indication of the sympathetic interest of the industrial and commercial interest of the country in constructive and sound efforts to assist critical agricultural conditions when they arise."

Government estimates place the area flooded at 15,000 square miles, and the economic loss at from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000.

VANDALISM

The citizens of this community have approximately one hundred thousand dollars invested in an educational institution.

At the close of the school term these buildings were all closed and the doors locked in order that the investment might be protected against vandalism.

We have just been informed by a member of the school board that the community auditorium, which was erected and equipped for school purposes and public gatherings at an expense of more than six thousand dollars, is being left open by reason of the fact that the locks have been placed on the doors have been broken off by vandals seeking entrance.

Whether this mischief is the work of misguided boys or is the work of grown-up men is a question yet to be solved, but whoever is guilty should be apprehended and dealt with severely.

GOOD ROADS ECONOMY

Among the many amazing national accomplishments of the past ten years, none is more beneficial than the great progress made in behalf of good roads.

The national bill for highway building and maintenance is now close to one billion dollars a year, and on the whole the money is well spent.

At the present rate of progress, ten years more will see paved roads reaching to every town of consequence and traversing rural districts which a few years ago were inaccessible during several months of the year.

The benefits of such a system of roads need little comment. Saving of time in travel, elimination of wear and tear of vehicles, added comfort of motoring and the bringing of various sections of the country into closer communication are some of the blessings conferred by good roads.

Any reasonable expenditure to secure them is justified, provided care is taken to see that the highways are intelligently planned and honestly constructed, without waste and without political graft.

NEW ACID TREATMENT

An important discovery involving the treatment of throat and lung disease with acid fumes is reported from Germany, where almost startling results are said to have been attained.

Like many other discoveries of value to mankind, the efficacy of acid fumes in promoting health was noticed accidentally. In a factory where acids were used for cleansing rags, it was observed that the employees had a peculiar feeling of well-being and were also free from grip and colds even when these maladies were epidemic in the vicinity.

These observations led to experiments with animals and human beings, which confirmed the phenomenon in a scientific way. Guinea pigs were placed in an acidified atmosphere, while others were kept in ordinary air.

Later it was found that mild cases of tuberculosis in human beings were healed by exposure to acid fumes, while the treatment appeared to give absolute immunity to the disease when administered to healthy persons.

The specially prepared acid is merely put into an evaporating dish and placed at the bedside of the patient, so that the air becomes charged with the vapors, which are thus drawn into every crevice of the lungs and bronchial tubes at each breath.

A PROPHET NOT WITHOUT HONOR

The local business man may question the power of publicity to pull in business, sometimes and hesitate to tell folks that he wants their trade.

"I believe in the country weekly newspaper. I believe that no printed matter in the United States is more thoroughly read or has more influence than the pages of those home town newspapers."

ALICE CONSTANCE

One of the greatest aids to worth-while accomplishment is the quality of patience. This applies to laying the foundation for a successful career in any profession or business.

This is particularly true with respect to the accumulation of wealth, as many misguided individuals now behind prison bars can regretfully testify. Many men who go wrong through speculation with other people's money do not set out deliberately to be criminals, but they think they see an opportunity to make a "killing" and take the chance.

On the other hand, the patient plodder, who builds upon a sound and honest foundation, frequently achieves success which is denied to the spectacular plunger.

THE PREACHER'S LAMENT

Perceiving the difficulty of pleasing all the members of his flock, and reflecting upon the criticisms which he had long endured, the Rev. Basil Matthews, vicar of Holy Trinity Church, London, voiced his lamentations recently in a rather humorous rank, in part as follows:

"Be he (the minister) grave in his demeanor, seeking to uphold the dignity of his cloth, he is said to be standoffish and uptight; yea, the ungodly call him 'Holy Joe.'"

"So then he trieth to be gay, but this too displeaseth some. With young men and maidens, if from them he hold aloof, they mislike him much. So that when they should turn to him as a friend, with them he cutteth no ice."

"If he exhorteth all men to abstain from strong drink, he is said to be a killjoy, inhuman. But if he entereth a tavern and putteth his foot upon the rail of brass, there be those who say, 'Behold a winebibber.' So when he bloweth froth he committeth iniquity, and when he bloweth it not he is likewise a sinner. 'Let the servant therefore walk in the steps of his Master, and care naught for the opinion of man.'"

FERTILIZING THE AIR

For years the problem of enriching the soil by the application of artificial fertilizers has been growing in importance, and great strides have been made recently in the fixation of nitrogen from the air for this purpose.

In addition to the stimulation of plant growth through increased soil fertility it has also been discovered that such stimulation may be effected by the enrichment of the air which the plants "breathe."

It is well known that green leaves procure carbon dioxide from natural air, of which it forms three parts in ten thousand parts of air. Late experiments with plants grown under glass in an atmosphere richer in carbon dioxide demonstrate that yields are thereby greatly increased.

While this method of increasing production may never become practicable in the case of field crops covering large tracts of land, Dr. E. E. Slosson, the eminent chemist, believes that it may eventually prove profitable in the case of certain vegetables grown within limited areas.

A PUBLIC SALE IN '49

Interesting sidelights on the manners and customs of by-gone days are found in old newspapers and advertisements, one of which was recently reproduced by an exchange, which quotes a public sale announcement published at Versailles, Ky., 78 years ago.

Some may wonder why anyone possessed of the large and varied assortment of worldly goods listed would want to leave Kentucky. Anyway, here is the advertisement:

"Having sold my farm, and as I am leaving for Oregon Territory by oxen team on March 1, 1849, I will sell all my personal property, except two oxen teams (Ben and Buck, and Lon and Jerry), consisting of the following:

"Two milk cows, 1 grey mare and colt, 1 pair oxen, 1 yoke, 1 baby yoke, 2 ox carts, 1 iron plow with wood mold board, 800 feet weatherboarding, 1,500 fence rails, 1 60-gallon soap kettle, 85 sugar troughs, 10 gallons maple syrup, 1 barrel Johnson-Miller whisky 7 years old, 20 gallons apple brandy, 1 40-gallon copper still, 2 spinning wheels, 30 pounds tallow, 1 large loom, 300 poles, 100 split hoops, 100 empty barrels, 4 sides leather, 12 wooden pitchforks, half interest in tan yards, 1 rifle with bullet molds and powder horn, soft soap, bacon, hams, lard, molasses, 6 head of fox hounds, all soft-mounted but one."

"Also 6 negro slaves, 2 men, 2 boys and 2 mulatto wenches, all together to one party, as I will not separate them. Sale will begin at 8 p. m. Plenty to eat and drink."

MORE FLYING HONORS

Flying honors have come to American aviators so thick and fast lately that it is difficult to keep up with them. Before we have time to cheer one hero as much as we wish, another pops on the scene.

Within a few weeks we have seen the return of the South American "good-will" flyers, Lindbergh has flown from New York to Paris, Doolittle has for the first and only time in history negotiated the "outside loop," Chamberlain has broken even Lindbergh's long distance non-stop record by flying from New York practically to Berlin.

While neither of these spectacular flying stunts has appreciably advanced the cause of aviation in a strictly practical sense, all have done so in the stimulation of greater interest in the art and in creating unbounded enthusiasm for the brave men who daily risk their lives to demonstrate its possibilities.

Aside from any influence their recent exploits have exerted upon aviation, the good will which these American airmen have created in other countries can hardly be over-estimated. The initiative, skill and daring which they have exemplified have commanded the admiration of the whole world.

ALIENS WANT IN

More than 1,500,000 foreigners have applied for admission to the United States through our consulates abroad, and an even greater number desire to come who have not paid their application fees.

This information was given in an address last week by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, a member of the Senate committee on immigration, who also stated that 80 per cent of these applicants have relatives in this country, who are using every effort to break down our present system of immigrant restriction.

Such pressure is being exerted to induce Congress to again let down the bars which it has erected for the protection of American workers that the effort may be successful unless measures are taken to counteract this alien influence.

The matter is an important one, which should be given thoughtful consideration by all who desire to see present wage levels and American standards of living maintained.

IT DON'T PAY—HE TRIED IT

A week ago a local merchant told Free Press editor that "advertising does not pay." He said in part "I have watched it when I was a clerk at a grocery store in town and the money spent for advertising was just thrown away" or words to that effect.

To which the editor replies, yes, that grocery store he referred to may not have found its advertising profitable. That grocer buys not more than one small ad in three months—one ad in twelve weeks—and the balance of the eleven weeks people are supposed to REMEMBER that he's in business without being reminded, are supposed to know that he carries "staple and fancy groceries, flour and meal, fresh groceries, produce, etc."

Little stores can continue business without advertising—absolutely they can. But no "little store" ever became a big store, that had for its motto: "Advertising does not pay."—DeLeon Free Press.

HONORING LINDBERGH

Never before in the world's history have such honors been bestowed upon a private citizen as have come to Charles A. Lindbergh, hero of the New York to Paris flight. In fact, seldom if ever, have such demonstrations greeted an individual of any rank.

Lindbergh is the first person other than a President of the United States or a foreign ruler to receive the national military salute of 21 guns.

The new Lindbergh air mail stamp is the first United States postage stamp to be printed in honor of any man while he was still alive. He was also presented with a specially prepared State Department "white book," containing messages of congratulation from rulers and governors throughout the world, and the replies to them, with a record of the decorations and medals awarded him.

Never before have such demonstrations been accorded any American in foreign lands, and his home-coming receptions exceeded in enthusiasm those which welcomed the return of Dewey from Manila and Pershing from France.

It is gratifying to observe that throughout all the wild acclaim and shower of unprecedented honors Lindbergh has kept his head. In spite of his leap from obscurity a few weeks ago to his present fame as the world's best known and most admired figure, he is still the same modest, unassuming boy that he has always been.

His daring flight proved his dauntless courage and consummate skill, while his subsequent demeanor has demonstrated his sterling character. In all of these admirable qualities he has set for the youth of America an example of inestimable value.

New Tower of Babel Would Stump "Hoosier Schoolmaster's" Ingenuity

American Citizenship and the acquiring of sufficient English to enable them to attain it is the actuating influence behind this class of earnest workers of varied nationalities.

New York, N. Y.—A group of men meeting four times a week in the Metropolitan Tower in New York City has stamped that stately structure with some of the characteristics of the Tower of Babel. Gathering there in a class that would have stamped the ingenuity of Edward Eggleston's famous old "Hoosier Schoolmaster" are Poles rubbing elbows with Russians, Turks with Greeks and Armenians, and Italians with Germans and Austrians. But despite this medley of nationalities, the same motive sways all the men. Each is intent on acquiring sufficient understanding of English to fit himself better for American citizenship.

LOCATING THE FINANCIAL LEAKS THAT TAKE THE PROFITS OUT OF FARMING

By DAN H. OTIS
Director Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association

INDUSTRIAL lines suffer because of inefficient firms, whose officers cling to old methods and place goods on the market even at a loss, to compete with the more efficient institutions. Agriculture, too, has this problem to face. We find farmers who fight new methods. They retard the prosperity of other farmers by throwing on the market poor quality products, frequently produced at a loss.

The nature of the banker's business places him in a position to help this type of farmer as well as the more progressive farmer. At the same time the banker can assure himself of good loans based on the farm as a going concern. A study of the investments, sources of income and expenses of the successful farmers in his community will give the banker a measuring stick by which to gage the hazard entailed in furnishing loans to other farmers. This study is readily accomplished through the use of summaries of farm records. In the absence of good records, survey blanks which can be obtained from the agricultural colleges, may be used for collecting the information.

A banker in a dairy district would use data similar to Farmer A's summary in the following table as a measuring stick to judge the condition of Farmer B.

	Farmer A	Farmer B
Farm receipts	$2,465	$2,214
Farm expenses	2,122	1,979
Receipts above expenses	$343	$235
Interest on total investment of 3 per cent.	1,979	989
Net income after deducting interest	$2,273	$1,466
Net investment	$21,400	$19,772
Operating capital (machinery, 11% stock, equipment)	5,962	4,473
Number of cows	12	11
Investment in cows	$2,392	$1,200

The total investment of Farmer A is moderate with a large percentage (27 per cent) of operating or working capital. Farmer B is low in operating capital. The number of cows is also low, which is reflected in the farm receipts, these being $2,251 less than those of Farmer A. The expenses of Farmer B, although about one-half those of Farmer A, are, nevertheless, high in the ratio to receipts. The only way to safeguard a loan so Farmer B is to consider assets and net income. Before any loan should be considered at all the banker and the farmer should go over the situation, uncover the leaks and outline a definite program of improvement.

Diversity of Business Good Sign
Farmer A's income from crops is $1,176, from dairy products, $1,289. The share of livestock (including increased inventory) is $1,058. Miscellaneous income, $227. A good diversity of income serves to protect the farmer against years of overproduction of any one farm product. Farmer A has a good diversification of income.

BUILD FOR FIRE SAFETY URGES FIRE CHIEF

In reviewing measures now being taken by the International Association of Fire Chiefs to combat the appalling loss of life and property by fire in the United States, Fire Chief Rugsby points out that one of the most effective ways to reduce the fire danger is to give such buildings as we erect the highest degree of incombustibility.

"It would be impracticable, of course, to build an all-fireproof structure," Chief Rugsby continued. "In a residence of this nature the beds would have to be of steel or concrete slabs and furniture would have to be of a similar material. There would be no draperies, rugs, linen and clothing. But it never is impracticable to construct a building as fire-safe as is compatible with comfort."

"Take the average wood frame house as an example. When the wood frame is covered with a sheathing of wood, and this in turn is covered with wood siding; and when the lath under the plaster and the shingles on the roof are of wood, you have a highly combustible, conflagration-breeding type of construction—one that would put surrounding structures in jeopardy if a fire should break out, particularly if there were high wind blowing. For a high wind would carry burning embers to adjoining roofs and scatter sparks far and wide."

"But it is probably a long way off before wood frame houses will altogether be abandoned, particularly since the development of modern building materials have resulted in a protected type of wood construction that retains all in good features of the all-wood house."

"In building such a fire-protected wood house the regular manner. But instead of a sheathing of wood applied over the frame, an incombustible type of sheathing is now used. This protects the frame from the outside. To protect it from the inside a metal or rock lath is used in place of wood lath. With a roof-covering of asbestos or other fire-resistant material, a house so built possesses a high degree of protection from fire as is possible in a frame structure."

Chief Rugsby feels that preventing fires is just as important a part of the Fire Department's work as fighting fires, and along with the thousands of other fire chiefs throughout the country, he is actively co-operating with the International Association of Fire Chiefs in its great "1927 as Fire Prevention Year" movement which it is hoped will acquaint the public with means for reducing the annual fire toll.

CORN BREAD

Lucy Chamder Fuller

"I want a piece of corn bread," declared Jimmie, reaching across the table in an attempt to help himself.

"Not until you have finished your supper, Jimmie," said his mother kindly but firmly. "But not at all if you are rude," she added.

"I don't want my wheatena," shouted the little boy and he began to dish out his cereal on to his butter plate. "I won't eat it."

"See here, young man," said the father, glowering at Jimmie. "You calm down and behave yourself."

"I want corn bread and syrup," yelled the boy, every muscle tense, his little face flushed and his eyes glowing. "I don't like this stuff."

"I'm about ready to thrash the kid," muttered the father under his breath.

"You know the rule, Jim," said the mother. "No dessert until you have finished your first course and no dessert at all if you are impolite."

Somehow with much spluttering and sopping Jimmie managed to swallow his cereal. "Now can I have my corn bread?" he angrily asked.

"No, dear," replied his mother, "for you have been very rude indeed."

Then the storm broke. All the passion in the little fellow's being was let loose. He stamped and kicked and screamed and threatened to take the corn bread. When his mother could get a word in amid the din she reminded Jimmie of the justice of her action but Jimmie's anger only waxed the hotter.

"A real Indian would never act like that," suggested the mother.

Jimmie stopped yelling and began to look interested. "He would take his punishment like a real warrior," continued the mother. "And eat his corn bread the next day for breakfast," put in the father.

At those words the clouds burst again and through the

HOWE ABOUT—

By ED HOWE

Plenty of capable leaders have appeared; the masses will not follow them. It is the herd that is running away, not the best individuals. The middle-class people have done very well and have honored the world somewhat, but the proletarians have disgraced it. . . . Writers are clamoring for reform for those who have reformed themselves and complimenting those in need of reform.

A man, who says he is elderly, writes: "You once asked the question, 'Are husbands and wives naturally antagonistic, as are foxes and hounds?' I at first considered it a rude question, and began convincing myself of it, with a view of writing a protest. But the more I thought of it the more I became convinced of pursuit, capture and conflict in marriage."

Marriage isn't a solace; it's another problem to work out.

In a town near where I live a man was shot and killed by an assassin unknown. The newspapers were full of it at the time. I visited the town not long after the tragedy and heard the men talk about it. They said the murdered man was a decent fellow, and as certainly a martyr to his family as a good many women were before suffrage. They said he was a hard worker and well behaved in all respects, but that he had a worthless wife and children. The men of the town do not doubt that some of his family killed him and are still looking around in the hope of finding the culprit.

A pastor is an attorney for his church and makes out as good a case as is possible, as attorneys do for clients. His criticism of antagonists is seldom fair.

The main idea, of course, is to be a good and capable man; not to claim such distinction while acting like the devil.

In literature we often hear of "style." That's all there is to literature. As a man has it, or lacks it, he is genius or dullard, but neither of them have new ideas.

You claim certain people are fools. The only way to prove your contention is to get along better than those you condemn. If you succeed in doing it, you will prosper well enough; the punishment will go to others.

RED TOP CLUB SONG BY MRS TOM HENDERSON

OH! HAPPY CLUB DAY (Tune to Oh! Happy Day)

Oh! happy was the day for me, When a club woman I could be And may each visitor feel at ease To have you with us we are pleased.

Chorus
Happy day, Happy day
When club work took our drudge away.
It taught us how to cook and bake
And make good icings for our cake.
Happy day, happy day, when club work took our cares away.

It's come, the great club day has come
I feel so glad that I am here
And if you'll ask us one by one
Why so care free doth appear.

Chorus
It is because, it is because
Our club work took our cares.
It taught us how to can and save
And put things up for rainy days.

Happy day, Happy day, when club work took our cares away.

We can make dessert both hot and cold
And make new clothing out of old.
And if you will ask us we will show,
How to make your garden thrive and grow.

Chorus
Oh! Happy day, Happy day,
When our encampment comes this way.
And rest our long decided heart
Fixed on this blessed center rest.

Now have we found a nobler part,
Here heavenly pleasure; fill our heart.

A Message To the Home

It is the well-lighted home, of course, which seems the happiest, and usually is. There is no doubt about that, but there is what is meant by well lighted.

Many people, sincere people, too, still think of unshaded lamps and old-fashioned fixtures as "ELECTRIC LIGHT," the clean, cheap, convenient light. They do not seem to realize that there has been a change; that modern lighting means soft, mellow light, diffused to every part of the room—light which eliminates eye strain and which adds to the beauty of modern furnishings.

A lady would not think of going to town wearing a hat that was in style ten years ago. Yet, how many homes have drop lights that mar and distort the beautiful furniture.

WHY CITIES OUTGROW THE COUNTRY

By Phobe K. Warner

The Houston Edition of the Texas Commercial News has just arrived. It is a beauty! And makes my heart throb with both pride and pity. Such human magnificence! Such grandeur! Such temples of commerce! Such beautiful homes and churches and schools!

No wonder 2,000,000 more people left our farms last year and crowded into such cities where they could get a cash job and send their children to one of those wonderful schools, and hear some good music once in a while and play in their magnificent parks. And 3,000 of those are TEXAS FARMERS plus their families who lost their farms and homes last year and had to give up and move to town and get a job in order to live. They were tired of sending their children to a four or five months, one room school, with some little city girl for a teacher who caught the train or street car or bus every Friday night for the city. They were tired of going to church at the school house where they had to curl their babies on top of the desks while they listened to some worn-out or embryo preacher tell them about the sins of the city and how happy and thankful they ought to be because they had the privilege of living in God's big Out of L-ors where the birds were singing, the sun was shining, the cotton fleas hopping, the cattle ticks tickin', the wheat fields burning up and homes being washed away in the floods. They were tired of living in the little 2 by 4 rent houses that their city landlords provided for them and decided to go to town where they could have electric lights instead of oil lamps, city water in the house instead of a well at the barn, or elsewhere on the place, and not a sign of comfort or beauty anywhere except in the sky. They decided to go to town where they could set their price on a day's work and be protected to some extent. Especially if they could get into any kind of a union or organization. Anyway, they WANT TWO MILLION of them, which now leaves less than 30,000,000 men, women and children on our American farms to raise enough food and clothing for approximately 120,000,000 people.

At this rate, if nothing is done to check the human tide that is steadily increasing every year as it flows toward the city, it will take just fifteen more years until every farm in the United States will be deserted and the whole population will be sitting round in some town or city looking for a job. "NONSENSE!" "It will never happen." "It can't happen." Well, it is happening just about as fast as it can. How ever, I agree with my objectors. Because when the 8,000,000 farmers and their families who are still left on the farms all move to town and cease to produce that $8,000,000,000 of new wealth each year, that builds up every business and industry going to be the Chicago of the South in a few more weeks. But we'd like to see the farmers of Texas stand together like an army and demand equal rights, equal profits and a just system for marketing their products the same as any other producer of wealth. But until the farmers will work and pull together to protect themselves no use to blame the city for taking all the profits and building skyscrapers with them.

ARE YOU THE ONE?

Somewhere among the thousands of readers of this little Pinnacle of Print is one man. He is struggling—away out there—with a business. Dollars come hard; profits are scarce; and the road is uphill.

If he is discouraged, may I ask him to read The Story of the Pantry Shelf by the Butterick Publishing Company. In it he will find that:

Charles William Post made the first Postum in a barn.

Messrs Loose and Wolfers were retail bakers and confectioners.

J. L. Kraft was a grocery clerk who started with capital of $65.00 to peddle cheese from a one-horse wagon.

Charles Hires ran a drug store in Philadelphia.

In 1869 H. J. Heinz planted a small plot in horseradish. He and two women and a boy graded and bottled the root.

Mr. Groten worked in a cotton mill. He had a liking for fish and packed salt mackerel in his cellar after working hours.

Coco Cola was first made in the kitchen of an old home adjoining Dr. Pemberton's drug store.

E. A. Stuart, president of Carnation Milk Products Company, drove a team of mules in a construction gang on the Santa Fe. Later he ran a grocery store and in 1899 bought a bankrupt condenser in Washington.—Birdy Talk.

Hilda Hayes, born with only one arm, is a star player on the Dougherty, Okla., school basketball team.

MOTHER'S LOVE HARD TO SHARE

Mother sacrifice is eternal. It gives with a smile, yet often fails in its greatest test. Time comes when a mother must realize that the baby is no longer Full grown as a man he loves another. The great fund of understanding is taxed to the utmost, the mother finds it hard to share his love with the wife.

And, frequently, to add to the burden, the wife is jealous of the affection the husband shows for the mother. Such is the situation that builds to the smashing climax of "The Fourth Commandment." Coming to Peoples Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, June 29-30.

Belle Bennett, as a wife and mother, gives the screen a great characterization. Her emotions are real, and touch the heart with a poignancy that lingers.

Mary Carr appears as another mother. Sweet, sympathetic and lovable she is the ideal mother and the typification of the one held dearest in the hearts of millions.

The two enact a story of mother love that possesses almost epic quality. Strongly contrasted they leave an unforgettable impression and glorify the hearts of true motherhood.

Supporting them in the sensational emotional Universal production are such well known players as June Marlowe, Robert Agnew, Henry Victor, Kathleen Myers, Claire DuBrey, Knute Erickson, Brady Kline and three child actors, among whom is four year old Wendell Phillips Franklin.

SIDELIGHTS

By Marcy B. Darnall
While in Paris Lindbergh expressed disappointment over not sighting a whale on his way across. But he saw several from the deck of the Memphis while returning, so his trip was a complete success.

Straw votes for Presidential candidates have begun early. With a total of more than 632,000 cast by subscribers of newspapers served by Autocaster, the result showed President Coolidge as first choice of the Republicans, with Lowden second; Al Smith as first choice of the Democrats, with Senator Reed of Missouri second.

The greatest ambition of many persons continues to be to get on the government payroll. More than 19,000 applied for the 2,500 places to be filled in the new Prohibition Bureau.

Lindbergh's lack of egotism was well illustrated by a remark made to Admiral Burrage while on the deck of the Memphis steaming toward Washington. Gazing upon his escort of warships and airplanes and anticipating the tremendous demonstration awaiting him, he said: "I wonder if I really deserve all this?"

If results to date are to be taken as an indication of women's influence in politics, that influence appears to be negligible. In Virginia elections, for example, it has happened that only 22 per cent of eligible women voted. So far, as one writer states it, "women as voters have not changed any political situation or altered the political complexion of any locality."

Have you ever made good on one job... for 39 years?

THE extra mileage you get from Dunlop tires starts with the fact that Dunlop has had thirty-nine years of tire-building experience—more than any other tire-maker.

Each part of each Dunlop is built right. Dunlop owns its own cotton mills to spin selected long-fibre cotton into the special Dunlop cable-twist cords.

These cords mean extra strength—an added factor of safety against constant load and pounding of roads—longer life and greater mileage.

They mean extra "stretch"—so the tire carcass will give under blows, and come back to its original shape without the slightest injury.

Every Dunlop you buy has extra miles built into it because Dunlop knows each part of its job. That is why we recommend you put Dunlops on your car.

KIN HUBBARD ON The Value of Intestines

Doubtless many have read about the early hardships of John D. Rockefeller, how he had a clerk in a general store in his bare feet, and how he struggled as a young boy, and how he was cornered nearly all the time by his aunt, and how she didn't have a cent to give him for a party, and how he had to go to Wapakoneta, Ohio, and...

hair cut ever week, an' own a brought him home, where he re-dinner suit, like the 'buddin' maimed till times got better. His youth of 'd day. Besides Rockefeller has allus had dyspepsia, sellin' his home 'whistin' ever' dollars on that account. But in his home 'whistin' ever' dollars on that account. But in his home 'whistin' ever' dollars on that account. But in his home 'whistin' ever' dollars on that account.

I know a man who lately sold his business to a rival. He says he will in future devote his time to public service, in which he has long been interested. I think the facts in the case are as follows: The man gave too much of his time to the public service, and was worsted by a rival who attended to business. In fact, he failed, and his establishment was absorbed by his rival. I make the prediction that the man will in future make his living from public service work, and charge all the traffic will bear.

A honeymoon is a good deal like a man laying off to take an expensive vacation and coming back to a different job. When men are as gentle and polite as women, I like them as well as women. There is a story of an old-time man who resolved not to have women in his house; he said they had notions that annoyed him, because they were not true and natural. So he employed only men to wait on him. But finally he turned the man out, and had the women back, saying they were polite; in his presence, at least. Women may be impertinent with each other, but they are politer than men in the presence of men.

HOWE ABOUT—

By ED HOWE
There is no question about the facts: those who object because the truth is true. I know a man who is in an asylum; actually quite a smart fellow. But the truth didn't suit him, and he complained so immoderately that it was necessary to lock him up.

WHEN YOU STOP TO THINK OF IT, THERE ARE THREE THINGS THAT A WOMAN'S TONGUE CAN DO FOR YOU: IT CAN GET YOU INTO TROUBLE, IT CAN GET YOU OUT OF TROUBLE, AND IT CAN GET YOU INTO TROUBLE AGAIN.

THEY SAY THAT WHEN A DOG BITES A MAN IT ISN'T NEWS, BUT IT IS NEWS IF THE DOG BITES A WOMAN. IT ISN'T NEWS IF THE DOG BITES A MAN, BUT IT IS NEWS IF THE DOG BITES A WOMAN.

THE SHOT HEARD 'ROUND THE WORLD
When the poet Emerson wrote the much-quoted lines—'Here once the embattled farmers stood, and fired the shot heard round the world'—he made use of poetic license to take sides in a historical controversy that even yet has not been settled, a century and a half after the so-called Battle of Lexington, to which it refers.

$25,000 Prize Posted and Three Enter China Flight

A check for $25,000, the prize offered in the Dallas-Hongkong flight was deposited by William E. Easterwood, Jr., Saturday in the Dallas Trust and Savings Bank. This will go to the airplane pilot who in 144 consecutive hours or less and with no more than two stops, flies an American plane from Dallas to Hongkong, China, before Sept. 16, 1928.

Europe Repairing Highways

IN America the automobile has provided the reason why this country has the most ambitious road-building program of any nation in the world and why we will have in the United States the finest system of highways to be found anywhere. In Europe, especially on the Continent, where there are highways which are as many as 2,000 years old, military preparedness has been the principal stimulus to highway construction.

More and more Americans are taking their motor cars to Europe to tour England and the countries of the Continent. The battle areas of France and Belgium are attracting more tourists every year. And the American, whether in England or picturesque Holland with its tree-lined highways, in France or Germany, will find good roads. And after all, is there any better way to see a country well than by automobile?

When you stop to think of it, there are three things that a woman's tongue can do for you: it can get you into trouble, it can get you out of trouble, and it can get you into trouble again.

When the poet Emerson wrote the much-quoted lines—'Here once the embattled farmers stood, and fired the shot heard round the world'—he made use of poetic license to take sides in a historical controversy that even yet has not been settled, a century and a half after the so-called Battle of Lexington, to which it refers.
