Sweetwater Is Chosen Convention City For 1940

W. H. Laroque of Cisco was selected by Lions Club delegates as the next district governor of District 2-E Lions to succeed Rupert N. Richardson of Abilene at the annual convention held at Mineral Wells last Sunday and Monday.

Sweetwater was chosen as the convention city for 1940.

The first day of the convention included Lions church program on Sunday night, at which Sam M. Braswell, Clarendon newspaper man and civic leader, was the principal speaker.

In the band concert Cisco placed first, Brownwood second, Bowie third and Hamilton fourth. Cisco, which now holds the position, will be renamed official Lions band of this district.

The afternoon session was presided over by District Governor Richardson and the main address was made by Governor Henry E. Pharr, District 2-X, Greenville, who spoke on the essence of Lionism.

Reports from committees were heard during the afternoon.

Cahley Williams, Fort Worth, won the golf tournament, runner-up was George Thompson of Sweetwater. Both were presented awards by Cecil Young, Mineral Wells.

Walter F. Dexter, president of Lions International, Sacramento, arrived Monday afternoon to attend the session and was principal speaker at the governor's banquet.

J. D. Sandifer, Jr., Breckenridge, was toastmaster and presented the new district governor to the delegates.

Former Munday Girl Enters In State Contest

R. Cunningham Goes To State Meet Held At Austin

Miss Reba Cunningham, former student in the Munday Public Schools and the Weinert school, entered the state interscholastic league meet at Austin recently. Reba entered the essay writing contest.

Winner of five blue ribbons this year, Reba won first in Baylor county, where she is attending school; then in district meets where her essay was proclaimed a masterpiece. She failed to win in the state meet, where she competed against high school students.

Reba won a medal in spelling contest while she was a student in the Munday schools. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cowan, who reside southeast of Munday in the edge of Haskell county.

Hamlin Band Is Heard In Concert Friday Night

The Hamlin school band was heard in an enjoyable concert here last Friday night. The concert was given in the school auditorium, with a nice representation of Munday residents being present.

Billy Jo and DeFrance Burton, former Munday residents, are members of the band. The concert was a courtesy program.

G. C. Collum, director of the band, and G. W. Collum, director of Stephenville high school band, assisted by a few Abilene teachers, are offering, in Hamlin, a six-week course in instrumental music beginning May 29, it was announced.

Bean That Grows Very Much Like Cotton Grown By Dr. A. B. Russell

Dr. A. B. Russell came into the Munday Times office last Saturday, exhibiting a giant bean and a long slender hen egg. The egg was a long, slender affair the like of which isn't seen very often, and Dr. Russell says it's one of his pullets first attempts at laying.

The bean, the pod of which was about twelve inches long, is called a "Sord" bean, Dr. Russell said, and was shipped in here from the north to Mrs. Graham.

"It grows on a stalk that grows very similar to cotton," Russell said, "and it's just as edible, just

Rhineland Takes Weinert Game 7-0

To Play Doubleheader At Rhineland On Next Sunday

The Rhineland team won their third straight softball game of the season last Monday at Weinert. The final score was: Rhineland 7, Weinert 0.

Red Denham was in rare form, limiting Weinert to only four safe blows. Rhineland sewed up the ball game in the very first inning, tolling four times on three walks and three solid base hits.

Denham and Rein Kuehler led the hitting for Rhineland. Red helped to win his own game by lacing out three straight bingles. Kuehler got two hits out of three official trips to the plate, one a double.

Rhineland will play two games at Rhineland next Sunday. They will tangle with Knox City in the first game, starting at three o'clock; then Donnell Ratliff's strong team from Goree will play in the night cap. Ratliff will probably start Denham, his star right-hander at the mound for Goree.

"Lefty" Decker, Rhineland's ace fire-baller, will attempt to do the old iron man stunt and hurl both ends of the twin bill for Rhineland. Lefty now has two wins and no losses. After Sunday he says he will have four victories and no defeats to his credit. Admission to both games will be 5 and 10 cents.

Sunday's score by innings:
Rhineland — 402 000 1—7 10 1
Weinert — 000 000 0—0 4 2
Batteries: Denham and Kuehler; Jenkins, McGuire and Reid.

REA Extension Of Lines In Knox County Planned

A rural electrification meeting was held in Munday on Tuesday night of this week, at which time Mr. Craddock and Mr. Garlington of the Seymour office were here to explain the planned extension of rural lines in Knox county.

The purpose of this meeting was an attempt to get an organization which would work for the extension of the rural electric lines to territory south, southeast and northeast of Munday. The plan is for this new line to run southeast into the edge of Haskell county.

Farmers interested in securing this electric service are asked to get in touch with H. C. Busby or Chester Bowden, who will explain the extension. They stated that the Rural Electrification Administration does not place lines on a man's property and make it inconvenient for him to farm.

REA leaders stated that if enough interested farmers would get together they would be glad to meet with them and explain this extension in detail. "People who hold off from the original organization, thinking they can tie onto the line any time, will find that their homes cannot be serviced without making direct application to Washington," they said.

Mrs. Seth Palmeyer, Mrs. W. A. Bennett and Misses Lois Waggoner, Imogene King and Pearl Hague, all of Memphis, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Edgar and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cabaness last Sunday afternoon.

Anderson And His Bondsmen—

Jan Anderson, center, director of Texas Pensions Union, and Representatives R. Temple Dickson, left, of Sweetwater, and Doyle Pevehouse, of Corsicana, bondsmen who effected Anderson's release from the Travis County jail, after the self-admitted lobbyist for $30 pensions for the aged had refused to post his own bail and had remained in jail for a week. Anderson was held on charges of contempt of the House of Representatives, the outgrowth of the pensions campaigner's refusal to testify before a House Committee concerning his own and the Union's activities in soliciting dollar membership contributions from the aged, unless given a hearing before a full House meeting and the proceedings broadcast over a state network.

W. R. Moore, owner of the Moore Chevrolet, announced this week that he has employed Bob Ivy, formerly of Haskell, as mechanic at the Chevrolet place.

Mr. Ivy comes to Munday highly recommended as a mechanic. Mr. Moore stated that he will be in charge of the repair and service department, and he is qualified for this job through many years of experience.

New Secretary—

Promotion of Edwin F. Browder as secretary-treasurer of the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway Company, effective June 1, announced by Edward J. Engel, president of the System Lines, today earned widespread approval of associates and friends in public life. Browder has been cashier of the company since 1918.

He assumes the position vacated by the retirement of Joseph N. Freeman, one of the best known officials in the Southwest and veteran of more than 50 years service.

401 Cattle Are Tested Here For Undulant Fever

Dr. Reneau Is Making Tests On Thursday

Dr. J. B. Reneau, veterinarian of Paducah, was in Munday again last Thursday, making additional tests of cattle for undulant fever. Dr. Reneau returned again on Thursday of this week, at which time he expected to complete this work in Knox county.

Up to Thursday of last week, there had been 401 blood tests of cattle made. Reports from these tests at that time showed that 49 cows had this disease. About 450 head have been tested in all. The figures indicated that undulant fever was prevalent in 12.2 per cent of the dairy cattle tested thus far.

In connection with the work in this county, County Agent W. W. Rice made the following statement:

A number of farmers have received reports from the Texas Livestock Sanitary Commission through their local veterinarian that their cow which had been tested for Bang's disease was found suspicious.

In most cases suspicious simply means that the cows have the disease in a mild form, and if she is kept six months and tested again, she will be found to have the disease.

Farmers are warned not to buy milk cows unless they have been tested for Bang's disease recently and that the numbers of the papers fit the metal tag number in the cow's ear.

Dr. Reneau recommends that infected herds have tests made every 60 days until they pass two negative tests; then, he said, the tests should be made once a year.

1939 Farm Bill Gets Amendment

Congress has recently amended the farm bill whereby farmers do not have to plant their allotted cotton acres in order to draw their full farm benefit payment, County Agent W. W. Rice stated Thursday.

The cotton acres may be planted to feed instead of cotton, and the feed sold or handled in any manner that the operator may care. This does not mean that the farmer can abandon his land and still get his farm payment. He must cultivate his land in the usual manner.

LEGISLATORS HONORED

Several legislators were presented distinguished service crosses by the United Daughters of the Confederacy at Austin this week.

Among those honored were the legislators of this district, Senator George C. Moffett of Chillicothe and Representative Grady Roberts of Munday.

All honorees are ex-service men whose forebears fought in the war between the states.

County Committee To Be Named For Texas Soil Conservation

Landowners will elect one member to the County Advisory Committee in each commissioner's precinct at 3 p.m., May 15. This is in keeping with the recent act of the Texas Legislature, known as House Bill No. 20, Texas State Soil Conservation Act.

Each precinct will elect one member, and one will then be selected to be chairman of the committee. The chairman will attend the district meetings and represent Knox county as their delegate.

This new law makes it possible for farmers to set districts and work soil and water conservation projects and secure federal aid that had been denied Texas before. The previous governor vetoed a very similar bill two years ago. The following notice to landowners has been sent out by W. W. Rice, county agent:

In compliance with H.B. No. 20, Texas State Conservation Act, a meeting has been called at 3:00 p.m., Monday, the 15th, to elect a members of the county advisory committee for your precinct at the following place:

Precinct 1, city hall, Knox City.
Precinct 2, district courtroom, Benjamin.
Precinct 3, school auditorium, Truscott.
Precinct 4, city hall, Munday.

Only landowners may vote, and only landowners may serve as committee members. Your commissioner is familiar with and can explain the importance of this new state law. Please tell your neighbor about this meeting.

About 40 Buyers Bid On Livestock

Over 500 Head Cattle And 200 Hogs Sell At Auction

Attracting buyers from many points in Texas and Oklahoma, the livestock auction sale last Tuesday was rated as one of the best ever held in Munday. Being supplied with a large number of cattle and hogs, the auctioneers ran until almost six o'clock Tuesday evening, before the last sale was made for the day.

There were more than 65 consignors of livestock at the sale, who consigned about 500 head of cattle and approximately 200 head of hogs to be sold. These were purchased by some 35 or 40 buyers from various points, netting the consignors around $14,000.00.

Some of the consignors are as follows: W. H. Merchant, Jack Ratliff and Bryan Frieson, of Knox City; L. E. Newton and L. E. Newton, Jr., Clyde and John Mayfield and Bill Johnson, Weinert; Buster and Orb Coffman, S. C. Roberts, E. O. LET US HAVE MORE FACTS

An investigating committee of Congress has pretty well discredited the Workers Alliance, which, as a union of WPA workers, has been the most active of all the groups pressing for more government relief spending. The investigators finally got admission from witnesses that many officials of the Alliance are members of the Communist party.

It was before this group that an administration official last fall asked that they "keep your friends in power."

Nobody knows, apparently, just how much money is needed for government relief. WPA officials have no means of making accurate checks of relief needs, nor has Congress. In the past several years, therefore, it has been the Workers Alliance which has claimed to know more about the needs than anybody else. This has enabled them to demand any fantastic amounts that spring to their minds, and nobody in the WPA has come forth to challenge the figures.

So while the Congressional Committee is investigating the WPA subject, it might be well to inquire how the Workers Alliance arrives at its figures. Isn't it possible that these figures might be discredited also?

POOR, POOR PUBLIC!

Benjamin Franklin, in the course of filling one of his "Poor Richard's Almanacs" with sage counsel and observations, made the following declaration back in 1758.

"It would be thought a hard Government that should tax its people one tenth part of their time, to be employed in its service."

Franklin thought that he was making a more liberal allowance for the necessary expenses of government. It is difficult to speculate what he would think today if he could see the burdens of Federal, State and local taxation constantly mounting, while spending increases even more rapidly. Today he would find taxation eating up 22 per cent of national income; which means, since national income is the measure of goods and services, that government today is taxing Americans more than twice the amount of time that Franklin thought so unreasonable.

Poor Richard?—possibly. But how about poor John Q. Public, 1939 edition?

THE NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS ACT

Appearing before the Senate Committee on Education and Labor, now considering proposals for amendment of the Wagner Labor Relations Act, Congressman Clare E. Hoffman of Michigan said:

"The great body of American people are sick and tired of being told by a few representatives of a fractional part of those who work with their hands, what they are to do and what they must pay in order to live and buy food and clothing and shelter."

Representing a section of the country which two years ago saw some of the worst industrial turmoil which followed the adoption of the National Labor Relations Act, the Congressman could be expected to know considerable about the Act's "contribution" to labor peace. And that experience has led him to urge amendment of the Act to eliminate what he describes as its "unfairness," "one-sidedness" and "inequalities."

Further, if we turn to the record, we find that the latest polls of public opinion show that a full 70 per cent of the nation is in favor of changing the Act. And this includes a vast number of farmers, who own their own homes and farms; millions of persons interested in the Labor Act only as a great mass of the public, and millions of workers who owe no allegiance to any national labor organization.

The figure certainly shows that the people are "sick and tired" of the act in its present form.

MOSCOW WAITS FOR WORMS

We have all heard about the "food queues" in Russia. These have presented for a long time the unhappy picture of people who had the money to buy the necessities of life waiting in line for hours on end because the Communist system was unable to produce goods fast enough to keep the Russian public supplied.

Now there's a new queue in Moscow. This time it's a "worm queue." The Russians are great goldfish collectors, and the small red worms they like to feed the fish are only available at one store in the whole city—and not very often there.

Apparently under the Communist system there isn't much incentive for men to dig the worms or sell them to the storekeeper, and there isn't much incentive, either, for the storekeeper to try to procure them. Everything can be put off until "tomorrow"—and meanwhile, people with the money to spend stand in line and wait for everything they need or desire—whether it's bread and meat or worms to feed the pet goldfish!

There is no constant and true work, carried on with constant and sincere purpose, that ever really fails.—Jordan.

The best reward for work well done, will be greater work.—Kleiser.

"SUDDEN DEATH"

A serious threat to public safety emanated from the Senate Finance committee a few days past and may receive action momentarily. In cutting $650,000 from the Department of Public Safety annual appropriation, highway patrol, rangers, investigators, narcotics agents, the crime laboratory and drivers' license divisions were either crippled or eliminated in some instances, according to the Safety Commission chairman.

Economy must be the watchword by Legislators who would serve the public interest, but not at the cost of safety. Eternal vigilance is still the price of safety, and any action that eliminates necessary complete public protection becomes a retreat from progress that cannot be lightly dismissed.

Our highways, homes and business enterprises are entitled to a full measure of protection. We pay the bill one way or another. Every taxpayer has a clearly defined right to demand ample protection. Any attempt at false economy which deletes or destroys any modicum of the rights of citizens deserves public condemnation. No state can progress when crime is invited to a holiday.

Pierce Brooks, recent candidate for Lieutenant Governor and Director of the State Safety League, in discussing this matter, stated, "I have ever been in favor of economy and tax reduction. I hate taxes but no retrenchment of law enforcement agencies can be construed as a constructive step in legislative administration. We do not progress by destroying law enforcement agencies, or by limiting their effectiveness. Let us have economy, but not at the price of public safety."

PROGRESS IN REVERSE

For a half-dozen years the recovery theory practiced in Washington has been based on an analogy between the national economy and a hand pump. That theory has been that if a hand pump can be made to work by priming it with water, the national economy can be made to function by priming it with dollars.

From the beginning of this experiment with the national economy, learned economists have warned that although priming might work on a hand pump, it could not be made to pump recovery out of the well.

And even the failure of the theory in these six years has not convinced (apparently) the experimenters that the analogy is a false one. They are still pouring billions into the economy pump, with no more show of concern than a farmer pouring a bucket of water into a hand pump.

And what have been the rewards of the priming theory? It is not likely that anyone has bothered to count the gallons of water pumped by a primed hand pump, but the National Industrial Conference Board has published these figures after a study of the primed economy pump: For every $3 poured into the pump, only $2 has been returned.

During 1934-38, inclusive, this study finds, the administration has increased the national debt by $14,000,000,000. Those billions have gone for pump priming. But instead of causing a vast increase in the national income which, according to these spend-our-way-out-of-debt advocates, should have resulted the income was only $9,000,000,000.

That is what a fisherman might call "catching a two-pound fish, using a three pound fish for bait!"

As making a hole in one is the life ambition of every golfer, so is scoring a perfect 300 game the goal of every bowler. William McGeorge of Kent, O., achieved the perfect bowling record a few days ago becoming the sixth man in American Bowling Congress history to attain that distinction.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, who delivered and has attended the Dionne quintuplets, has been given a new honor. After his initiation into the hilarious order of Circus Saints and Sinners in New York recently, his new brethren conferred on him the degree of "Doctor of Littlers."

INDUSTRY DEVELOPS GLASS 10 TIMES STRONGER

Philadelphia—A new "highest safety glass" which is ten times as strong at zero temperature as that now in use has become public property. The formula was worked out at a cost of $6,000,000 through the cooperation of five companies, and was acclaimed as the product of "the efforts of many workers, coordinated through sound research management."

It is estimated that the glass will be standard equipment in 75 per cent of the cars manufactured in the United States this year.

Demonstrators dropped a 9-ounce steel ball 28 feet on a square of the new glass, crashed the iron head of a "dummy" driver against it at high speed, and threw a fast baseball from 35 feet away against the glass while a young woman stood fearlessly behind it. In the first two cases, where the present safety glass would have smashed, the windshield cracked and "stretched" but was not pierced.

SUNDAY EXECUTIONS STIR LEGISLATIVE WRATH

A resolution which would have put the Texas House on record as being opposed to executions on Sunday was referred to the committee on penitentiaries last week but not until a bitter debate was waged on the floor and the author of the resolution, Roy Baker of Grayson, and W. O. Galbreath of Wharton had clashed on the action of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel in granting reprieves which expire on Sunday.

Baker's resolution referred to the two men who were put to death in the electric chair at Huntsville last Sunday morning. Baker said it was a disgrace for the state to put men to death "on the one day of the week which the Lord set aside for rest and worship." Galbreath pointed out that the

Interesting Description Of Old Mexican Convent At Pueblo Written W. R. Moores By Daughter, Mildred

Editor's Note: The following interesting description of a convent in Old Mexico was written to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Moore by their daughter, Mrs. Howard W. Harrell of Mexico City, formerly Mildred Moore:

Monday Morning Dearest Mother and Daddy: I came to town with Howard this morning while he finishes a machine he has started. This is Mexico's Labor Day, and absolutely no one is working. You aren't even allowed to have a car on the streets so we had to walk... a nice bit of exercise.

Yesterday we went to Pueblo and had a perfectly grand day. We had intended to spend the night, but decided to save our money and come home to our poach.

Now, I have to tell you about the convent for which the place is famous, so prepare yourself for a long story. The convent has been hidden ever since the government passed a law that there could be no more religious orders that were not open to the public, because the church already owned most of Mexico. This was about a hundred years ago, but this order was founded in the seventeenth century, and has flourished ever since.

The place was just discovered in 1934. From the outside it looks like an old tumble down house, but a family was living in it and buying food for the nuns, of which there were sixty. The police first got suspicious because so much food was going into a place like that. The priest of the church that adjoins the house and a few families in the town knew about it. All except fifteen of the nuns and the Mother Superior got word of the raid in time to flee, but the government turned those they caught loose. Before they let them go, however, they made them undress and leave every bit of their vestment clothing there, and what vestments!

They are of many-colored Chinese silks and brocades heavily embroidered with silver and gold threads and have been kept and preserved all of these many years. They say that there was thousands of dollars worth of jewelry there when it was discovered, but of course the government took all of that and divided it among different men. Now, there is none.

One entire room is devoted to the Lord's Supper. There is a long wooden table with life-sized figures of the Disciples around it, just like the picture, and on the walls are four huge paintings on velvet devoted to different phases of the Lord's life and each painting is valued at $200,000. To get into the hidden part, you have to get down on your hands and knees and crawl through a tiny little hole in the wall.

Oh, I can't describe all of it. You all just have to come down here to see these things for yourself. Howard had never been through this place, so he wasn't bored stiff and we both enjoyed it no end. We talked half the night about how a place like that could stay hidden right in the middle of a big town for all these years.

In one place they have the petrified heart of the founder of the place, and then in other places they have hearts of other nuns and saints of the place. Part of their belief was that when one of them was dying he had his heart cut out while it was still alive to signify that he was still living... pleasant thought!

After we had finished the convent, we had lunch and then hired a carriage a jillion years old, pulled by two horses and driven by an old man just as old, to take us through the town. By that time we had decided to start home, as it looked as if it were coming a flood through the mountains we had to cross.

Pueblo is about a two and a half hour drive from here, and we were both so tired we could hardly stand up, but we slept late this morning and now everybody feels as good as new.

Friday is another holiday celebrating the beating of the French by the Mexicans, heaven only knows when.

I guess I'd better go. Lots of love, MILDRED

The reason why thousands of women like to listen to Margaret Hillias in the title role of "Manhattan Mother" is that she portrays the character with which most of them are familiar—a married woman and mother, approaching forty, who has a grown, married daughter in the script. Many Farmers To Participate In AAA Program

More Texas farmers are going to participate in the AAA farm program this year than ever before, according to reports here from AAA field workers who have been gathering factual data from prospective cooperators and who have commenced to check compliance with the 1939 program.

Ralph Price, field man at large, estimated approximately 85 per cent of all Texas farm and ranch families will receive benefit payments for the contribution to the conservation of agricultural resources in 1939.

Approximately 95 per cent of all farm land and about 90 per cent of all active range land in the state will be in the Agricultural Conservation Program of the AAA this year, he said.

There are about 3 million fields of all grades and sizes in the state, and each one must be measured and classified before the 1939 payment process can begin. To avoid delay and confusion, producers are urged to be present at the measuring, so they can catch mistakes and be certain they are corrected before the program progresses too far.

Measuring farms has begun in South Texas and in other early planting sections of the state.

The work is being sped through the use of aerial photographs now covering approximately 7-10 of the state. About 370,000 farms have been photographed from the air, and such maps will be used this year in 178 counties.

A small gadget called a planimeter, which does arithmetic in its head, is used to measure the photographed farms. A county AAA worker can run the point of this little instrument around the picture of a cotton patch as it appears on the aerial map, and the planimeter will record the size of the plot to a tenth of an acre. It's three times as fast and a third as expensive as running a surveyor's chain around the field.

State Fair To Feature School Exhibits In '39

Every school child in Texas has been invited to participate in the school exhibits and contests to be held in the Educational Building at the 1939 State Fair of Texas, it has been announced by L. A. Wood, superintendent of the State Department of Education.

The entire Educational Building will be turned over to this department for exhibits from Texas schools, and contests such as spelling bees, public speaking, puppetry, rhythm bands, radio dramatizations, chemurgic, photography, and a regular band contest will be held in the auditoriums and band shells on the grounds.

More than $3,000 in cash prizes has been appropriated for this department, and State Fair officials and Superintendent Wood are working toward making this the outstanding exhibit ever held in the entire country.

Miss Edgar Ellen Wilson, assistant State Superintendent, has been named General Chairman of the school activities, and has surrounded herself by a committee of teachers and deputy superintendents who will have complete charge of the activities.

More than 18,000 Premium Lists have now been distributed to the schools throughout the state. A total of 1,041 schools were invited to participate in the contests and exhibits to be staged at the Fair, and in addition, a school yard beautification contest is being staged on the school grounds with premiums being paid by the State Fair.

Information relative to the contests and exhibits can be secured at the State Fair or at the State Superintendent's office at Austin.

The 1938 Farm Show policy at the State Fair of Texas of awarding each county with a credible exhibit $125 will again be the vogue at the 1939 State Fair. It is expected that at least 100 counties will have farm exhibits at the 1939 Fair.

Only six counties in Texas remain under Federal and State quarantine for ticks. The blanket quarantined area of Texas has been reduced from 191,885 square miles to 9,504 square miles.

More than 500,000 school children will participate in the contests and exhibits at the State Fair of Texas, October 7 to 22, according to estimates of the State Department of education, of which L. A. Woods is superintendent.

State Capitol Had First Labor War In Texas

Austin, Texas.—Texas first labor war almost halted work on the State Capitol it is disclosed in an article by Dr. Ruth Allen, University of Texas associate professor of economics, in the April issue of the Southwest Historical Quarterly, edited at the University.

Accusing contractors of hiring "scab labor," granite cutters halted construction of the State Capitol in 1885, and then fell back upon the "King of Labor," A. F. of L. foreman, when contractors imported workmen from Scotland, Dr. Allen recounts.

The granite cutters finally received an $8,000 judgment against one of the contractors.

Highway Dept. Sponsors Wild Flower Shows

Austin, Texas, May 6—Julian Montgomery, State Highway Engineer, stated that the annual wild flower exhibits sponsored by the Highway Department are now being held in each highway district. The practice of holding these flower shows started several years ago to acquaint the public with the many varieties of wild flowers grown on the roadsides, and the attendance has increased each year.

The wild flowers are collected from the roadsides and adjacent fields and are displayed by the ladies beautification committees, in cooperation with local civic organizations. The exhibit is not held in the same city or town each year, but moved around in the district. Some of the wild flowers are arranged in individual classifications, while others are in attractive mass displays. All are shown with both the common name and scientific name. Mr. Montgomery urged every one to watch for the date of the local exhibit and attend same. "There is no admission fee of any kind," he said, "they are your wild flowers and we want you to see what the Department has done to encourage and increase their growth on the roadsides."

J. Edgar Hoover, G-Man Chief, Raps Wily Women Gangsters

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (more generally known as the "G-Men"), brings his sledgehammer down on the women in American crime in "Persons in Hiding," which local moviegoers will see for the first time next Saturday, when Paramount brings it to the screen of the Roxy Theatre. The picture is based on an actual case related in Hoover's book.

Romance isn't all that the women in question bring to organized crime, Hoover believes. Peculiarly gifted and ruthless as the worst killers, they often supply the brains and inspiration, while their men do the heavy work. In the startling career of "Dorothy Bronson," the main feminine character in the picture, Hoover illustrates his point.

Patricia Morison, Paramount's lovely recruit from the New York stage, plays "Dorothy Bronson," a normal young girl until the day she meets a desperate killer who promises her all the luxuries and excitement of life if she will marry him. She does, throwing over her job, hard-working boy friend and middle-class security to go with him.

The crime career of Miss Morison and her husband, played by J. Carroll Nash, includes what Hoover believes to be the most exciting pages from the story of recent lawlessness. The picture takes the pair through a cross-country pursuit by relentless G-Men, a $200,000 kidnapping of an elderly millionaire, an amazing partnership with another fugitive couple and a nerve-racking hideaway with Miss Morison's mountaineer parents. In the typically-Hoover climax, the girl has the tragic choice of selling out her killer-husband or seeing her innocent family "take the rap."

store for moviegoers is the role of Lynne Overman, last seen as the comic relief in "Spawn of the North" and "Men With Wings," who now plays a serious character.

Future Homemakers Attend State Rally

On Tuesday afternoon, May 3, at one o'clock Mrs. Dillon, Jozelle Tidwell, Sue Stodghill, and Lenore Longino started their trip to the State Rally of the Future Homemakers of Texas, which met at Galveston. After passing through Ft. Worth, they stopped at the Oriental Cafe in Dallas where the girls had their first taste of chop suey and other Chinese food.

They spent the night at Corsicana, and on Wednesday morning resumed their journey. Just before noon the group stopped at the State Prison at Huntsville. They were conducted through the prison with another group of Home-making girls. Each of the girls from Munday sat in the electric chair. After seeing the dining hall and the shops where shoes, mattresses, car licenses, stoves, and farming material were made, the party left Huntsville and went on to Houston.

The next place of interest was the San Jacinto monument about 25 miles from Houston. The monument is a huge, graceful structure made of beautiful stone quarried near Austin. The girls and Mrs. Dillon went up to the observation tower about 480 feet from the ground. Beautiful bays, roads, trees, and towns stretched in every direction.

The next stop was Galveston, where the party registered at the Hotel Galvez, a large hotel on the waterfront. The next day the girls entered two contests each. One contest was modeling the dresses they made; the other was a written contest. Jozelle was rated good on the written contest.

Among the entertainments for the Future Homemakers were a beach party, a banquet, and a boat ride seven miles out on the channel. Old friends were greeted, and new friends were made. Everyone had such a glorious time that each was sad at leaving Galveston.

However, soon after noon on Saturday the party bade Galveston and the Gulf goodbye and set out

Exceeding Speed Limit Tops Traffic Violations

The percentage of fatal automobile accidents due to excessive speed increased again in 1938 according to an analysis released by The Travelers Insurance Company. Three years ago, in 1936, 32.6% of all persons killed as the result of some driver's lawlessness met death because of speed. In 1937 that percentage rose to 36.8%. Last year, 8,410, or 39.6% of the total of 32,000 persons who died in automobile accidents, were killed because of exceeding speed limits. Is experience the best teacher? If so, the lesson taught by the annually mounting total of deaths due to excessive speed is not being taken seriously by drivers. Millions of words are poured into type each year in an effort to stem the rising tide of fatalities due to the single factor of speed, but just as children will play with matches, so the automobile drivers of America continue to toy with speed, killing thousands annually.

No one can regard with complacency last year's record of 32,000 killed and more than a million injured, or the fact that speed was the largest contributing factor to that disastrous record.

Practically every senior at this time is preparing his term theme, giving his book reports, or is in some way finishing up his requirements. Somehow as the time when we part with a dear school that we've known for so many years draws near, we feel a lump in our throats and we begin to think as our instincts informed us that the bell was tolling out for the last time. We hurried toward the massive brick structure that had been home to us for so long. Coming across the street one of the girls was stricken with the thought that routine would be interrupted in the near future. She would no longer be one of the clinging group

We have often been told that flattery is like soft soap in that both are about ninety per cent lie.

One day in English class during a lesson in punctuation, Miss Couch was reading a sentence. The sentence read, "Criminals were executed on the Commons," and Miss Couch said, "Criminals were executed on the semi-colon." These semi-colons are executing us!

HOME OFFICE—MUNDAY, TEXAS
 BOYDE CARLEY, President WADE MAHAN, Sec. Treas.

MANY FAMILIES

from ALL sections of Knox County and surrounding territory have joined this Association this week.

Among these families are many who have other insurance, but due to the extremely low rates of protection in this Burial Association they have seen fit to reinforce their Insurance Estates at an extremely low cost.

Lots of these families, it is true had no protection of any sort and we are receiving thanks from all sides for making this protection available to all regardless of financial circumstances.

If you have not applied for membership in the Carley-Mahan Burial Association, you owe it to yourself and your family to join at once. When you become a member of this Association, you will realize that you have modest, yet safe protection on your loved ones at the lowest cost such protection has ever been offered the citizenship of this territory.

This is not an out of town organization that is trying to take Knox County money to foreign lands and leaves no obligations to fulfill with no obvious means to fulfill them. It is a local Association operated by local men, backed by a local business that is fully prepared and equipped to render this service to the local people.

If you have Old Line Legal Reserve Insurance, KEEP IT. Protect that Insurance Estate that you expect to leave your loved ones with this Burial Benefit. If you do not have Old Line Legal Reserve Insurance, you cannot afford to be without this protection.

Your burial certificate under this plan can be used on any price funeral service that you wish to provide for your loved ones. You automatically become entitled to all of the features of the Mahan Funeral Service, many of which are exclusive in this territory, when you become a member of this Association. Some of these exclusive features are listed below:

1. Only Licensed Embalmer in Knox County.

It is our sincere belief that once you have the many features and benefits of Membership in this Association explained to you that you will readily realize that we are bringing to you a new service, the many features of which you cannot afford to be without.

Wild Life Conservation

There are almost thirteen and a half million acres involved in Texas game preserve demonstrations, and more than four thousand signs bearing the legend "Game Preserve Demonstration with Extension Service, Texas A. & M. College" designate the areas.

The work, started less than two years ago, recognizes wild life as a crop of the land and upholds the right of the landowner to receive compensation for hunting and fishing privileges in return for his efforts toward increasing game.

R. E. Callender, game management specialist of the Extension Service, said county agricultural agents' annual reports showed that 15,633 individuals were taking part in the demonstrations.

Plans for the demonstration preserves call for regulated harvests of game when the amount of wild life warrants. In many cases, Callender pointed out, this means that preserves have been closed to sportsmen while the supply of game is built up. Individual organizations have the "say" as to the open seasons and amount of hunting to be allowed.

The specialist said that 16,663, 191 acres of the total were included in the holdings of individual cooperators, while 69,564 acres were managed by 4-H club boys. The cooperative organizations are located in 130 counties.

"I have no idea how much income farmers and ranchmen may eventually get through hunting and fishing licenses and day hunting privileges, but I expect it will come pretty close to paying the tax bill in many parts of the state," Callender declared. He said county agents in 18 counties had reported $228,132 from this source.

Sportsmen in the near future may expect to pay for their hunting, but Callender thinks they won't mind because they'll have an opportunity to "pop a few caps" instead of coming home empty-handed. Free hunting is often hunting for clothing. "At the rate we were going, all the good hunting would have been in the hands of a few groups within another decade or so," he pointed out.

Most of the improvement in game conditions is expected to come through providing cover, feed and natural conditions, but some artificial stocking is being carried on. Members in the movement, for instance, planted 10,943 game birds, including some 6,552 quail, through the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, and stocked 840 old and 1,036 new tanks, totaling almost 10,000 feet of water, with 1,850,049 fish.

Here are a few questions and answers regarding the game preservation work now being carried on by the Extension Service of A. & M. College of Texas with the U. S. DA cooperating:

Who controls the Game Preserve Demonstration area? The demonstrators themselves. They control the land.

How long should a Game Management Demonstration be carried? For a group of years or so long as the individual or groups desire to continue.

May an individual withdraw or the group abandon the demonstration at any time? Yes. However, it is anticipated that their interest will grow and that they will continue indefinitely. Good sportsmanship on the part of all is apt to increase interest, and such a demonstration should continue for a long period of time.

Are there any dues incident to being a member of the Extension Service Game Management Association? No. There are no dues collected under the Extension Service farm demonstration program. The membership at any game management association may assess themselves in their own way and by their vote to further their own program, if they so desire.

Will these demonstrations include any work with farm ponds for fishes? The plan of work may include such in the program of the area. Work may be carried on with waters already existing or new bodies to be impounded, including construction of dams, setting of vegetation, stocking, etc. Every farm should have its own fish pond.

When should wildlife and game management demonstrations be started? Since the demonstrations should run longer than one year, such may be started at any time during the year. It so happens that "now" is the best time.

What is the organization status of a Game Management Demonstration? A simple federation of independent landowners banded together for the purpose of conducting a unified program in the interest of wildlife conservation and propagation.

Does one member of the group have automatic hunting or fishing privileges, etc., on the lands of the other members of the area? No. No rights, titles, or privileges are surrendered to any man, not even to other members of the area. By special permission of the individual owner, one member may be granted liberties on the lands of another member. This is a matter between individuals. However, no individual member should operate his farm in any manner to the disadvantage of the whole area. The Golden Rule is an excellent guide.

May an individual demonstrator of the area tract grant hunting privileges to outsiders on his own tract of land? Yes. Such should be done, however, in keeping with the program and the general rules and regulations adopted by the whole group.

What becomes of any "dues" or monies collected for hunting privileges by the individuals or the association? Such details are entirely in the hands of the members themselves.

What relation does the county agent have to the Extension Service Wildlife Demonstration? Wildlife and Game Management is a part of his regular program. Game Management Demonstrations are conducted under the leadership of the county agents the same as other phases of the farm demonstration program in Texas.

What about game wardens for such areas. No police powers are vested in the Extension Service. Such powers belong to the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, of Austin, Texas. See your nearest game warden for details or write direct to the Game Commission. No law is stronger than public sentiment. A program of education in behalf of our wildlife species is absolutely necessary.

To whom should application be made for assistance in securing game birds or game animals for stocking the area? Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, Austin, Texas. Where even a limited amount of seed stock already exists, such applications are to be discouraged. The most valuable game birds or game animals are the ones already there. Ample food, cover, and protection will increase them.

What about assistance in securing fish for stocking farm ponds? Through State hatcheries; apply direct to Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, Austin, Tex. Through Federal hatcheries; direct your applications to Bureau of Fisheries, Washington, D.C. Be sure that fish desired are adapted to the waters in question. The A. & M. College has no fish nor game for distribution.

The Game Management Demonstration is the Extension Service method of approach in an educational program designed to maintain and increase our wildlife species as a whole. The landowners, who control the state's 170,000,000 acres of land, are key men in such a program. Sportsmen and thinking people everywhere are cooperating. May we look forward to a more abundant wildlife and game crop in the future? Texas wildlife is a crop worth many millions each year.

Suspicion

A banker in Kentucky was in the habit of wearing his hat a great deal during business hours, as in summer the flies used his bald head for a parading ground, and in winter the cold breezes swept over his polished surface.

A negro workman each week presented a check and drew his wages, and one day as he put his money in a greasy wallet, the banker said:

"Look here, Mose; why don't you let some of that money stay in the bank and keep an account with us?"

The negro looked towards him with a quizzical look at the banker's hat, answered confidentially:

"Boss, I 'se jes' afeared. You look like you was always ready to start somewhere."

Caution

There had been an explosion in a powder mill. The proprietor was telegraphed for. He hurried to investigate the cause. "How did it all happen?" he asked the foreman breathlessly. "Who was to blame?"

"Well, you see, sir," replied the foreman, "it was this way: Jake went into the mixing-room, probably thinking of something else, and struck a match!"

"Struck a match!" interrupted the proprietor in dismay. "I should have thought that would be the last thing on earth he would do!"

"It was, sir," the foreman replied calmly.

Burnet County Protects Fish

Fish sanctuaries created last year in portions of several creeks flowing into Lake Buchanan and Roy Inks Lake in Burnet County, for the protection of spawning fish, will remain closed to fishing for the next five years, the Game Department announced.

The Department was requested to extend the life of the fish sanctuaries by the Burnet County Commissioners' Court meeting in special session.

The sanctuaries are located in portions of Clear Creek, Spring Creek, Beaver Creek, Morgan Creek, Deer Creek, Adams Branch, and Council Creek, and all are clearly marked for the convenience of fishermen.

Had the request for continuance not been made, the fish sanctuaries, which saved thousands of fish last spring, would have been thrown open to fishermen May 15 of this year, since the Burnet County Commissioners' Court originally requested that the sanctuaries be maintained for only one year.

He talks and sings with lip motion, rolls his eyes, turns his head, moves both arms and is capable of creating facial expressions. His talks and singing are automatic, being run entirely by radio wave, receiving no manual help during the operation.

Stars Over Young Bill's Farm 70 Years Ago Built Big Observatory

Austin, Texas, May 10.—Texas was to boast the world's second largest and most perfect observatory today because seventy years ago a big red-headed youth was developing a great flair for the mysteries of science.

The youth was William Johnson McDonald, to become one of his pioneer state's outstanding bankers, was born in Paris, Texas, December 21, 1844, son of one of the pioneer settlers of Lamar County.

His early days, young William spent on the extensive farm of his father with his two younger brothers where, reports say, his interest in the science of nature was whetted. At the age of 16, he was enrolled in the then flourishing McKenzie College, a small school at Clarksville, Texas.

The outbreak of the Civil War interrupted the young scholar's interest in the scientific and he joined the Confederate Army as a private. Stationed in East Texas throughout the war, he saw no action, however, and returned to study at McKenzie College for graduation in 1867.

A bachelor then and until he died, young McDonald then began a business career, which became a steady rise to financial independence and success.

He was in succession, a printer, and then a lawyer in Mt Pleasant. But the money from his first fees brought such good returns as loans, he deserted the bar for finance. There he remained for the rest of his life, founding in 1865 the Citizens Bank of Clarksville, first of his ventures. This was followed by two more, which had brought him, by his forty-third year, a considerable fortune.

At first a student of the natural sciences in general and botany in particular, his interest shifted gradually toward astronomy. At one time he was said to have jokingly remarked to his Negro barber that one day would be built a telescope large enough to see the gold-paved streets of the New Jerusalem.

That remark was later brought into court when relatives contested his will which left more than one million dollars to the University of Texas for an observatory.

The contest was settled with the University receiving $800,000 however. That money, invested, made the fund from which was built a Texas contribution to science and a monument to the wisdom of one of its great pioneers.

Bill Holden of Haskell was a visitor in Munday last Sunday afternoon.

The Shoestring—

It Broke For 57 Girls In Texas University Last Fall!

Austin, Texas—"The shoestring" on which 57 "co-eds" were attending the University of Texas last fall broke before the semester was over, the Dean of Women's Office revealed today.

Fifty-seven girls had to leave the University during the fall semester strictly because of financial inability to remain, a survey shows. Of the 380 "co-ed" withdrawals, 15 per cent withdrew because of financial difficulties.

That financial insecurity faces many others is indicated by the fact that 67 per cent list this factor as their reason for seeking inexpensive rooming houses or housekeeping rooms.

In addition to furnishing calcium for building bone and teeth, milk supplies protein for building tissue and aids in the proper functioning of the nerve and muscles.

During pregnancy and nursing, a mother should have one and one-half grams of calcium daily to insure the sturdy development of the baby. This can be most efficiently supplied through one and a half quarts of milk.

Senior Class News

The Senior Class wishes to express its appreciation to each and every one who helped to prepare the wonderful banquet last Thursday night. It was enjoyed by all and was one of the most outstanding social events of the school year, and it will be treasured among the sweetest memories of the Seniors.

As you all know this is our last week to attend Rhineland High School and nobody knows it better than we Seniors. We have enjoyed our association with teachers and students, and although we regret to leave we are also experiencing the fact that there is joy in accomplishing our goal. We know that we will miss the dear old R. H. S., its teachers, and students, but we cannot stay here any longer, because life travels on and on.

Just a few of the Seniors' last sayings:

Bertha: "I have enjoyed this year better than any other, in spite of the stumps hit during it."

Angeline: "It will be easy to drop studying, but where will I stick all my foolishness and eat my candy."

Wilma: "It will be a relief, knowing that I will not have any more punishments to write."

Josephine: "Now I will be able to go to a few dances free of mind, knowing I will not have to go to school next morning."

Teresia: "I am now beginning to realize I will have to stand on my own feet since school years are ended."

Lucille: "I have enjoyed being Senior reporter, although I did have to be 'nosey' to find out some news."

Mr. Hoffman, our teacher: "What a relief it will be for me to get rid of the three S's."

The Seniors chime in at the last chorus of the Senior News, bidding all a farewell and saying, "Aloha, Aloha."

Juniors

This is the last Junior report that will be written this year, and we can only hope that you have enjoyed reading them. We have tried to bring you our class activities, and also some gossip, and I want to say now to my classmates that for any misinformation that has been written about you, my deepest regrets. As has been said before, we have tried, and that is all anyone can do. If we have failed at times, well, it was discouraging to us, too, but the ever-guiding hand and encouragement of Mr. Hoffman, has helped us to go on. To him we owe any success that we

Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

We've spent many an hour in our textile laboratory investigating the wearing qualities of many well-known brands of hosiery, to find out what you can do to make your stockings wear longer. "Wear squads," large groups of active girls and women, have helped us verify our laboratory findings on stockings in actual use. Here are the several things we've learned which will help you lengthen the life of your stockings.

First, buy a good brand of hosiery. Before buying, plan your hosiery wardrobe carefully, and buy the correct weight of stocking for the occasion for which you will use it. You'll find the following weights suitable:

- 1 and 2-thread for evening wear
- 3-thread for afternoon or informal wear
- 4-thread for street or business
- 7-thread for service and sportswear
- 10-thread for extra service

Of course, the very sheer stockings do not wear as well as the heavier ones. But then you will want to wear them on occasion for their beauty alone.

Buy at least 2 pairs of the same color at the same time. If one of each pair wears out, you will still have a whole pair left. Sometimes there is a price saving when 3 pairs are bought.

Be sure the linings of your shoes are smooth to prevent unnecessary wear. Rough eyelets or sharp-edged buckles may also cause snags and runs.

Put your stockings on properly. The best way is to first roll the leg of the stocking down and slip the foot through the roll into the toe. Then straighten the foot seam, and slowly unroll the stocking, smoothing it up over the leg with the finger tips and straightening the leg seam at the same time.

Don't wear garters after they have lost their elasticity. They should have plenty of stretch. The garter should always be clasped half-way down the well or reinforced part of the stocking, never in the seat in order to allow for knee action.

It is important, too, to buy the correct size and length of stocking. The size stocking to buy is the actual length of your foot in inches, from the back of the heel to the end of the toe, measured along the side of the foot.

The approximate length of stockings you require is from the point where you fasten your garters to the bottom of the heel, measured at the side. Variations in size of ankle, calf and top measurements make some difference in length requirements. The standard lengths for hosiery are 23 inches (short) 30 inches (average) and 32-33 inches (extra long).

Avoid contact with sharp or rough objects, such as rough finger nail, hard callouses or corns, settings of rings, silverware of wood and rough places on chairs, and particularly desks, if you are an office worker. Short bristly hair on the legs may also injure the delicate silk thread in sheer stockings. Keep your toe nails smoothly pedicured. If you have dry skin on feet or legs, use a skin lotion on it as regularly as you do on your hands. If you are careful, many of the snags, pulled threads and runs which happen so quickly and are so disastrous, can be avoided.

have achieved.

Quoting from a German poem we learned during the year, we wish to say to the Seniors, "We look at you and sadness creeps into our hearts." For even after our many quarrels with you, we hate to see you leave. The good examples you have given us will be kept as treasures for next year; the bad ones, if any, we will try to throw away. To the Seniors, the best of luck and happiness that this world can offer.

All of our notebooks have been checked over and graded, and a few very nice notebooks were made during the year.

The Juniors really enjoyed the banquet last Thursday night. Our heartiest congratulations to the playground ball team. You certainly did "bring home the bacon," girls!

Sophomore Report

Again the girls' team won, which gives us first place. We played two games, one with Knox City, and one with Truscott. We won over both teams. Every player enjoyed both of the games very much. All except a few of the players knocked home runs. Our pitcher, Genevieve Herring, was the main one that helped us win. Cletus said she is a better pitcher than Dizzy Dean or Carl Hubbell.

We had a visitor Monday from Sunset. Dorothy Hertel spent the day with us.

The Sophomores enjoyed the banquet last Thursday night. Everyone seemed to have a good time. Another school term has come to a close. We hope all the Sophomores will come back next year as Juniors. To the Seniors we say farewell, and we are sorry we cannot enjoy going to school with them. Seniors, keep on traveling, some day you will become great persons.

Five of the Sophomores are exempt from finals.

Freshman Report

Our school term has at last come to an end. We are glad to get out of school, but hate to think of the cotton patch!

We wish Miss Walsh would teach here next term, but we are afraid we will have to get someone else.

The Freshmen all say that they have learned very much from her in science and English.

Dorothy and Rose Mary Hertel were visitors in our school this week. Come again, when finals are not so near.

Rhineland High School girls' team won first place this year in soft ball. No wonder they have been saying "Rhineland Can't Be Beat!"

The banquet that we had last Thursday for the Seniors was a great success.

For An Enjoyable Summer Vacation

Austin, May 3.—Colonel Homer Garrison, State Police director, suggested today that summer vacationists will have a lot more fun if they see the sights instead of the business end of a wrecker car as they travel hither and yon this season.

"It's human nature to brag to the home folks when you get back. But be able to brag about what you saw instead of the miles-per-day you averaged," he advised the thousands of Texas who soon will be headed to the New York and San Francisco fairs.

Other rules which will lessen summer traffic casualties:

Budget your mileage for daylight travel rather than night travel over unfamiliar roads.

Keep brakes, lights and tires in top condition.

Don't clutter your windshield with a lot of stickers. They obscure vision and cause accidents.

Get plenty of sleep and rest if you feel drowsy at the wheel, pull to the side of the highway, get out and exercise until drowsiness passes. If it doesn't, change drivers or take a nap.

Women motorists should keep car doors locked to prevent anyone forcibly entering and they should under no conditions pick up hitchhikers. No one should display large sums of money or valuable jewelry.

It's best to carry traveler's checks.

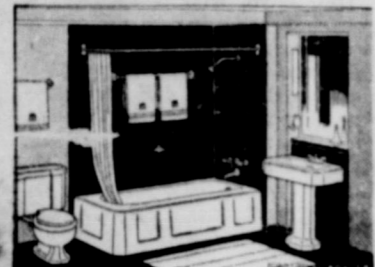

Be sure you have your driver's license. Become familiar with the highway laws of other states you pass through.

If you must imbibe, drink in the beauties of nature—not the contents of a flask.

Conduct yourself so that Texans will show the nation they are careful, courteous drivers.

Mrs. Tom Wood of Odessa spent the week-end here in the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Eiland. Mr. Wood, who has been here for medical treatment, returned home with Mrs. Wood.

C. A. Eiland of Lamesa visited relatives and friends here last week-end.

Forty Farmers Of County Visit Spur Station

Forty Knox county farmers visited the Spur Experiment Station on Friday, April 28. Mr. R. E. Dickson, superintendent of the station, stressed the importance of saving soil of the moisture when and where it falls by means of terracing and mulching.

"Most West Texas counties get enough rainfall during the year to make a crop, if it can be stored in the soil and not permitted to run off down the hillsides," Dickson said. It takes about 5 1-2 inches of available rainfall in the soil to make an average crop, yet if we get 25 inches and let it all run off we cannot expect to make a crop. Terracing has paid us $6.00 an acre more than the same land not terraced and with rows running downhill. Our terraces break about once every five years, and it costs about $30 to make the necessary repairs, but our tractor and other farm equipment need a little repair every four or five years."

Several pens of steers were on feed at the station. They were fed red top cane silage, maize, and cottonseed meal in several different combinations. The steers had been on feed for 200 days, weighing 500 pounds, cost $50 when started and were fed for an average cost of $25 per head. The steers were sold in Fort Worth on Wednesday, and weighed an average of approximately 1000 pounds, selling for ten cents per pound.

"We have tried all kinds of cane and sweet sorghams, and nothing beats the common red top cane, or sugar," Dickson stated. "We have seen other strains of sweet sorgham cane come and go, and we stay by the red top cane—the variety that yields the highest tonnage of roughage year after year."

The Social Security Board has recommended that the Social Security Act be amended so as to provide for the payment of survivors' benefits to widows and orphans.

"The growing of cotton and the feeding of calves will be the two major projects carried on next year," Mr. Rice stated.

SOLONS READY TO START HOMEWARD TREK

When will we go home? This is the question on the lips of most legislators as the regular session of the Forty-sixth Legislature wearily drags toward sine die adjournment.

As the heat of the summer days increases and the legislative work gets heavier, the lawmakers are beginning to long for the scenes of home. They will have been in session for almost four months, and the veterans say that the work this session has been many times heavier than ever before.

The Texas Constitution provides that the regular session each two years shall last at least 120 days. For the 120 days the members receive $10 per day; after that, their pay is cut to $5 per day.

There is no limit to the length of the regular session, but the weariness always present at the end of four months lawmaking plus the fifty per cent drop in salary at the end of 120 days always push the legislators to an early adjournment.

State police report: "This car had broken glass in the right front window, and it had been repaired with a piece of cardboard. Making a curve, the driver's vision was obscured by the cardboard and there was a collision with an oncoming car."

"Accident: Fatal to four-year-old girl. Nine-months-old boy injured."

There is a companion tragedy to every such accident. As a patrolman put it:

"Every one of those drivers will carry a stone in his heart to the end of his days."

BEAUTY SPOTS IN MUNDAY

Although Munday is a small town we have some lovely homes.

We have a very clean town and it is nice to mention that people have complimented our town because of the neatness and cleanliness of the homes.

Some of the homes have already been mentioned in this column. More of the attractive places are the homes of Mr. and Mrs. George Dingus. They have a well-kept lawn with some beautiful red poppies which give an attractive appearance. Another place that looks restful and attractive is that of Dr. and Mrs. Stone. They have some pretty roses that add color to their yard.

May I add that Mrs. J. R. Nelson has a beautiful yard that helps to brighten up the south part of town. She has a pretty bed of poppies of mixed colors. She also has a pretty bed of bluebonnets. Mrs. J. C. Borden has a cool, attractive place.

Mrs. Marvin Reeves also has a pretty bed of poppies. Mrs. Louise Ingram has some beautiful larkspurs.

When you are out for a drive some evening pass by these places and notice how attractive they are.

METHODIST CHURCH

Since this next Sunday is Mother's Day it would be a fine time to honor your mother by going to church. If possible to bring her with you, so much the better. There will be special service in honor of our mothers, either living or deceased. It would be an inspiration to each one would wear the appropriate flower; the white if the mother has passed to her reward, and the red, if living. Flowers are always an inspiration in church services and this community has been blessed with a season for flowers most of the year. Bring them to the church, won't you? A dedicatory service for children will be held at the beginning of the church hour. We are grateful for the large number of boys and girls coming into the church recently. It is very clearly the result of training in the homes, for the most part, they come from Christian homes.

Did you ever notice that the fellow that is knocking the church is not an outstanding character in the community for good. You might not need the church, and the church may not need you, but our nation certainly needs people who have a vision that the church develops through Christian teaching and consecrated living. One might condemn the church and have much to say about the lack of national security and unknowingly have some part in fostering the thing he condemns.

"If the church does not annex the world, the world will annex the church."

The root idea of the church is that of a particular relation of man to man, originated by a common relation to Jesus Christ."

Negro Play Is Given At Vera

The Vera community was well entertained Friday night, May 5, at the school auditorium with a negro play, "The Kink in Kinkie's Wedding," which was presented by Vera boys and girls sponsored by the 4-H Club girls.

Mrs. Boyd, who is sponsor for the club, was in charge of the program.

Proceeds from this play will be used by the Vera 4-H club girls, who plan to make a trip to Carlsbad Cavern with the Knox and Haskell 4-H clubs on June 5, 6 and 7.

Weekend Travel Shoots Accident Rate Skyward

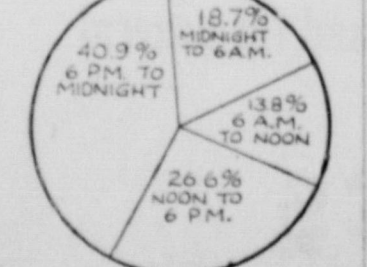

On the highways, Sunday is the most dangerous day of the week and the hours from 8 until midnight are the most perilous hours of each day. These conclusions are drawn from an analysis of America's highway accident record for 1938, published in "Let We Regret," the ninth annual booklet issued to the interests of street and highway safety by the Travelers Insurance Company.

Next to Sunday, Saturday is the most hazardous day of the week to venture out on the highways. Fewest accidents happen on Tuesday and Wednesday. An unexplainable fact revealed by the figures is that although there are more persons killed on Sundays, there are more injuries on Saturdays. These persons are killed in traffic accidents between the hours of eight and eight o'clock in the evening than at any other hour of the day. The high point for injuries is between four and six o'clock in the afternoon, indicating that dusk, darkness and fatigue are strong contributing factors in bringing the accident curve to its peak toward the close of the day.
