State Approval Of 8 Titles Slows Killer 84 Land - Buying

Next move in the tedious process of widening Killer 84, a project that was started three years ago and has yet to see the first dirt - grading machine on the ground, is up to the state highway department, says local officers.

Attorneys for the state highway department have yet to check titles on eight plots which the county has approved, says Judge Glen Williams.

As a result, buying of property along the proposed 10-mile project has come to a virtual standstill. "We lack approvals by the state attorney on eight plots out of 71 lying along the route," said Judge Williams. "Their attorneys have been tied up with other matters and haven't had the opportunity yet to check those strips. As a result, we can't buy the land and wind up deals."

He said state approval of the projects is always delayed until after the highway commission attorneys have given their approval to the titles.

"We have people coming into my office every day who are ready and willing to sign up," Judge Williams explained, "but we can't close the deal until the titles are given the once-over by the attorneys."

He praised the land - owners along the route for their cooperation. "We have been very fortunate in that all the deals which we have closed have been accepted by the owners at the state - approved valuations. This has simplified the buying of the 23 tracts which we have now approved and bought."

Judge Williams said some of the title delays are not due to lack of action by the state's attorney. "Some of the titles are clouded, and it may become necessary to file condemnation suits before the matters can be cleared." He cited the case, reported in December in a Journal story, of the woman in California who has remarried and does not have her former husband's name on her title. (See STATE Page 5)

General Meeting Planned

Suggestions and ideas offered at public meetings in November for Muleshoe's betterment will be summarized at a general meeting in the American Legion Hall next Friday night, starting at 7:30. Dr. Charles Lewis, president of the Chamber of Commerce announced Saturday.

"In November we asked the people of the Muleshoe area for their ideas for improving the area, and at the meeting Friday night we will bring those ideas back to the people in organized, statistical reports."

The general session was delayed until after the holidays and the chamber's annual banquet.

The material offered at the sectional forums in November have been assembled by West Texas Chamber of Commerce. That organization has made a summary of all the suggestions and classified them into various categories. It was explained.

"From scores of suggestions made, the WTCC has catalogued the suggestions and ideas to make them easier to present," Lewis explained.

The Friday night meeting will be presented by categories by a team. Giving the report will be Roger Albertson, Joe Harbin, Mrs. Bernard Phelps, Doug Haynes, Vic Beaded, Alex Lewis and others. The same group will make up a panel which will discuss the various reports in a question - answer session. (See HEARING Page 5)

Banquet Sets Record at 355 Longview Man Gets Award

Troy Clem, who has farmed in the Longview area, south of Muleshoe since 1949, was named the top conservation farmer in the 13th annual Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday night.

The presentation was made by Dale Fischgrabe, Work Unit Conservationist here.

The banquet, with a record 356 persons in attendance, had editor Bill Collins as the speaker, and Irvin St. Clair was master of ceremonies. Progress report was given by Roger Albertson, out - going president, and Incoming President Dr. Charles Lewis, sketched the chamber's plans for the future. Muleshoe, said Collins, "can be the 'can do' city of the South Plains; it all depends on the vision of the people."

He took for his theme, "What Do You All Do in Here?" pegged on an incident which occurred in Midland Chamber of Commerce office when a small rat wandered in and asked just that question of Collins, who was the manager of the Midland Chamber.

"What you all do in here," Collins said in his humor-packed address, "depends on the (See BANQUET Page 5)

Muleshoe Lieutenant Piloted Plane For Syndicated Writer In Viet Nam

Muleshoe's Edward Wimberley, a lieutenant with the U. S. Air Force, knows the smell of gunsmoke, first - hand are dish - out by the Viet Nam fighters in the war that is not officially a war.

The sounds and smells of that war are described by professional news writer Holmes Alexander for his syndicated column. And Lt. Wimberley is the man who flew Alexander when he was gathering sights - and sound material for one of his columns.

In telling about the flight, Alexander writes: "The pilot, Edward Wimberley of Muleshoe, Texas, had laid in close against the mountain in the hope of spotting One Shot Charlie, with whom this Huey crew seeme to have a private feud. The co - pilot, Warrant Officer John Linstrom of Alamogordo, N. M., was disappointed that the reporter would not be writing for the Daily News of Alamogordo. The other gunner, William Holly of Monroe, Wis., had been a company cook until he decided to fly."

"We landed behind the mountain in the rice - paddy country where an outpost of the Viet (See LIEUTENANT Page 5)

He Danced 54 Miles On 54th Birthday On U.S. Highway 54

"There are three ways you could handle a story about me," said Lewis Larrymore, the dancer, when he came into Muleshoe for a look - around at the dancing school possibilities here.

"You could write a story about the time I danced 54 miles on U. S. 54 on my 54th birthday," he explained, "or you could write a story about my 'dance paintings' which I do with my feet, or you could write a story about my home."

Let's take the last one first. Larrymore lives in a fancy "car house" every night. It's a dumpy little house, but it's dumpy and wonderful for a foot loose (no pun intended) man like me." Or, take how he happened to get into the "foot painting" hobby. That started on the same cross - country dancing trek he made a few years ago. "I got caught in a snowstorm in Arizona, and dancing in a snowstorm is no breeze (again, no pun intended). Well, I got to noticing that my feet made some picture - like prints in the snow. And that's how my dancing painting started."

He says he combines three arts, dancing, music and art — to create the pictures which his feet do. He says it takes all three arts to get a nice - foot loose (no pun intended) man like me." (See DANCER Page 5)

Sister Writes of Losses And Hardships of California Floods

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a letter, in part, to the Joe Vaughns from her sister in Alton, Calif. concerning recent floods and snow there).

We are doing fine, but water was 31 inches deep in our house. Two huge beams floated up against our house and saw logs three feet in diameter, were all over our yard.

We saved our refrigerator, cook stove and furnace. The floor furnace had to be taken out and overhauled before it would work. Our two mattresses were hardly soiled as the box springs floated. We got in here with a Jeep and saved all our linens, blankets and bedspreads. (That took a lot of elbow grease). Our cleaning bill was $23. We completely lost our antique bedroom suit, but saved the mirrors from both the dressers.

Our living room suit is also gone. Had just re-upholstered the chairs and all the rooms had just been repainted except one bedroom. Now it all has to be done over. The hot water tank and garage is also gone.

We saved our TV by turning it upside down on the dining table and the table was floating around and the top of the TV got wet, pulling the corner apart some, but it works perfect. Also saved the sewing machine.

Both cars were under water. The insurance adjuster was here today and we hope to get one new car as ours only had 16,000 miles on it.

This is the worse mess I've seen in my life. The company C. F. works for lost 30 million board feet of lumber, about that much log scale, their plant and lots of houses. Thousands of electric motors are out here.

They've been flying workers in and out to do clean up work. Humboldt County lost three post offices and we lost ours here at Alton.

All food and clothing is being flown in and some sent in on barges right now.

There were 2,800 head of dairy cattle lost in this county. This is only a small description compared to the mess this country is in around here.

No Schooling, No Work, Says Home Specialist

Some comparisons of the labor force status of young men 18 to 24 years dramatically illustrate the problem of school dropouts, says Mrs. Eula J. Newman, Extension home management specialist.

The plight of the rural school dropout compared with that of high school graduates was especially apparent in occupational roles, the Texas A&M University specialist noted.

Labor force comparisons nationally show that:

1. Seventeen percent of those with less than nine years of school were neither working nor looking for work.

2. More urban and rural graduates than dropouts were in white collar jobs.

3. Rural - farm dropouts with the least education were concentrated in farm occupations.

4. Unemployment was less prevalent among graduates than dropouts.

A national study also showed that about one - third of the males 18 years old and over with a farm background were white collar workers, compared with about half of those who had no farm background.

About one - third of the rural high school graduates and one - half of the urban graduates in 1960 enrolled in college. Higher rates of rural school dropouts, lower scores on aptitude tests, lower salaries and fewer facilities are among factors putting rural schools at a general disadvantage, the study showed.

The outlook for rural youth in the future includes: The importance of social and economic influence on educational opportunities must be considered, for the most desirable and best paid occupations generally are in urban areas. The number of farms will continue to decline, along with employment on the farm. Rural residents from 14 to 24 years of age likely will need 1.1 million new jobs by 1970 - thus, education beyond high school will become increasingly important.

Other implications of the outlook for rural youth are that major differences between urban and rural youth in school enrollment will be in the proportion entering college; the consolidation of rural schools will increase and social problems associated with low levels of education will likely continue.

Runoff Water Control Saves $1400 Per Well

Water losses from irrigation run-off are greater than the average irrigation farmer realizes.

Several hundred tailwater return systems are now in operation with the High Plains Underwater Water District.

In 1963 and 1964 the district selected four of these installations to study the average amount of water salvaged during the irrigation season.

Records of the High Plains Underwater Water District reveal that an average of 78 acre feet of irrigation tailwater was recovered in each installation.

A total of nine irrigation wells contributed to the four systems studied. This gives an average recovery of 35 acre feet of water per irrigation well.

Values of irrigation tailwater are approximately forty dollars per acre foot. This would give the farmer a saving of $1400 in irrigation water from each well contributing to a tailwater return system.

For detailed information concerning tailwater return systems, contact the High Plains Underwater Water Conservation District, 1628 13th Street, Lubbock.

Screwworm Eradication program Ends Good Year, New Plans Mapped

Screwworm eradication officials are looking forward to another successful year for the program, although many stockmen feel last year's results leave little room for improvement.

Only 65 Texas counties were reported to be infested by the livestock pest in 1964, and only 223 cases were discovered. In contrast, during 1963, a total of 4,919 infestations was detected in 182 counties, while 49,484 cases occurred in 242 counties in 1962.

New Mexico had only 14 outbreaks last year compared to nearly 1,500 the previous year. Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana had no infestations during 1964.

Eradication program pilots flew nearly 2.7 million miles in dispersing approximately 47 billion sterile screwworm flies in Texas, New Mexico, southern Arizona and along the border in Mexico. Sterile flies, reared in a huge plant near Mission, mate with native flies and prevent production of offspring.

Eradication activities have reduced annual losses to Southwestern livestockmen from $100 million to less than $1 million since the program began in February 1962.

when the public was asked to present ideas.

Muleshoe's future and the area's future are the only concerns of the organization, known as the Muleshoe Area Improvement Forum.

MAIF has been set up as a permanent organization. Many of the suggestions were for immediate consideration, while some deal with long-range goals.

"After we have presented the summary to the public Friday night, we will go ahead and attempt to solve our community problems and set goals for their accomplishment," Lewis explained. He had urged support of MAIF at the banquet Thursday night when he was introduced as the new head of the chamber.

The speaker, Bill Collins, Midland, also had urged area people to support the movement, saying that "anything is possible to people who work together."

The suggestions made at the November meetings ranged from small, present needs, up to elaborate industrial planning for the future.

Officials think they can reduce losses even more in 1965 by strengthening the barrier zone between the United States and Mexico.

In this barrier, which is several hundred miles wide and runs from the Gulf of Mexico to the Gulf of California, sterile flies are dispersed routinely to prevent fertile screwworms from migrating into "clean" areas and causing new outbreaks.

Stockmen can also help by frequently examining their animals for promptly reporting all infestations. No screwworms have been reported in the Southwest since early in December so outbreaks can be detected during early stages of development.

(Continued From Page One) leaders, the workers, the opportunities and the assets — but mostly on the human element. If you want to you can truly be THE city of the South Plains."

In his review of the year just ended, Albertson pointed to such achievements as these: The setting aside of a 17-acre tract for industrial development; the $900,000 school building program; the new library service; new homes and construction and progress in rural development.

Dr. Lewis said the chamber has many plans for the future, with the "Muleshoe Area Improvement Forum" due to kick off this week again. The forum is a planning program which was started last autumn with a series of meetings at which individuals presented their ideas on Muleshoe's needs. A report will be given on these findings at a meeting Friday.

Clem started his farming in Longview community as a dry land operation, but in 1954, drilled his first irrigation well. It was pointed out at the banquet that Clem practices crop rotation to improve his soil lith and maintain productivity. He applies cotton burrs to help control wind and water erosion and increase the water - holding capacity of his soil.

Clem manages his crop residues to leave them on the surface and help prevent wind erosion. His soil is sand, underlain with clay, and he deep breaks the land to create a good mixture of the two.

He presently has two small irrigation wells on a labor of land. With the use of underground pipe and sprinkler system, he makes maximum use of the water. His yields are consistently among the highest of farms with similar operations.

Clem presently is a participant in the Great Plains Conservation Program. He has planted a 35 - acre strip of sloping land to permanent grass.

Plans for the future include additional underground pipe and continued application of sound soil and water conservation practices.

New directors and officers as well as retiring board members were presented at the banquet. Albertson was 1964

"Whereas, the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and its affiliated state and local organizations have set aside the week of Jan. 17 - 23 to observe the founding of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and to commemorate such founding by the selection of an outstanding young man in this community as the recipient of the Distinguished Service Award, and

"Whereas, this organization of young men has contributed materially to the betterment of this community throughout the year.

"Therefore, I, Wilbur LeVaque, mayor of the City of Muleshoe, do hereby proclaim the week of Jan. 17 - 23 as JAYCEE WEEK and urge all citizens of our community to give full consideration to the future services of the Junior Chamber of Commerce."

While Muleshoe is picking its most distinguished young man, U.S. Jaycees will be recognizing America's Ten outstanding young men of 1964 at Santa Monica, Calif. with national Jaycee President Stan Ludley making the presentations. Earl Richards had picked five outstanding young men whose names are entered in the national contest.

Jaycee Week, DeVaney explained, celebrates the founding of the Jaycee movement in St. Louis in 1915. From a small nucleus, it has expanded into an organization with a quarter-million members in 5300 communities throughout the nation.

The organization was founded by Henry Giessenbier who saw the need for a young men's civic group and organized the first chapter. The national organization was formed in 1920 in 24 American cities.

(Continued From Page One) Nam Army protected the town of Baria which is a province capital. A few weeks ago this was 'safe' country where the Americans in advisory support of the Viet had walked around without side arms. But recently a communist commissariat known as the Xa, had turned up. I had been told at Third Corps headquarters that one of the most significant and encouraging events of the war had happened on the previous night here at Baria. I had come here to get the story at its source.

"I got it from Thomas Avant of Charleston, S. C., the intelligence officer of the American detachment who told me:

"The significance is that we were able to use a double agent for the first known time in the Corps area. This man led the enemy platoon right into a Viet Nam ambush. Be sure and give the National Police plenty of credit. It was their show. We were only advising."

The same news fought at night, Alexander continued, "under flares dropped by planes. Two VC's were killed, two were captured and bloodstains inspected by intelligence personnel" indicated several more killed and wounded. But there was an unexpected and almost unprecedented jackpot. Larrymore, whose professional name is Keith Taylor, calls Lubbock his "base," but he travels a lot, setting up dancing studios, teaching the dance and just plain dancing himself. He was born in Childress and finished high school in Lubbock and went to college there. Back in the depression days, he entered many dance marathons, popular in those days when couples literally danced themselves into a state of exhaustion to win prizes — mostly the scarce item known as money. He opened his first studio in Amarillo in 1929.

These marathon dances probably gave him the idea of dancing smack down the highway between California and West Texas. That dance, however, didn't come off until in May, 1963 and the 54 - mile stunts across the Oklahoma Panhandle. He admits he was "pretties and captives, allowed the police and army intelligence to make 12 arrests of undercover V. C.'s in the area.

"These will seem thrilling figures back home. Usually if there is a double agent, taking money from both sides, he ends up by betraying the Viet. But this was a unique instance when the agent thought it safe and profitable enough to sell out the communists."

"I have been told that this, and some related actions when local spies have revealed the location of communist caves could be the turning point. . . . One thing is certain. This war will only be won when the local peasants and townfolk begin to support the home government and to become informers against the communists."

Killed In Crash

A well-known Hub farmer, Jack G. Shirley, 42, was killed instantly southeast of Hub when the truck in which he was riding overturned. Driver was Truett Glen Harrelson, 36, Friona who "suffered facial cuts."

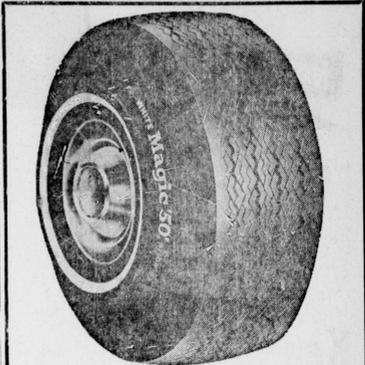

The accident occurred when a tire on the loaded truck blew out.

Larrymore has managed to make news "copy" a number of times for big-time news media. Shows like "To Tell the Truth," "Today," and the Steve Allen show.

Larrymore says there's need for all kinds of dancing instruction these days. "And there's especially need for instruction in ballroom dancing and social graces for teenagers.

And there, briefly, are the three stories of Lewis Larry-

Chemicals, Machines Again Whittled Cotton Production Costs In 1964

The use of chemicals and machines for cutting production costs continued to gain favor with Texas cotton growers in 1964.

In a year-end report, Fred L. Elliott, Extension cotton specialist at Texas A&M, said that despite a drop in the state's harvested acreage of cotton in 1964, more acres were treated with chemicals for weed control and harvest preparation than ever before.

The greatest jump in chemical usage was registered by growers who used pre-emergence and post-emergence chemicals on 467, 664 acres in 1964 compared with 174,263 acres in 1963. The number of acres treated with DSM-

(Disodium Methylarsenate) rose from 99,976 to 273,469 acres in 1964 over 1963.

Number of cotton acres on which growers used spot oiling and dalapon for Johnsongrass control remained stable. Elliott said that since cotton acreage was smaller in 1964 the percentage rated was higher than in 1963. Number of farms using defoliant or desiccants in 1964 increased by about 4,000. These chemicals, Elliott explained, are used to prepare cotton fields for harvesting operations.

Rotary-hoe equipped tractors continued to be popular as a mechanical means for weed and grass control. More than 51,000 were used in 173 different Texas counties during the past year.

Number of spindle-type picking machines increased by about 500 and were used in 86 counties. Some 2,000 more stripper-type harvesters were in use in 1964 than in 1963. They were used in 181 counties compared with 168 counties in 1963.

Elliott's programs in cotton work are conducted as a part of the 7-Step Cotton Program, initiated by the Agricultural Extension Service in 1946. He said the program continues to play an important role in the agricultural economy of Texas and in keeping late information flowing to cotton farmers.

McManey, cotton's share of the total fiber consumption showed a slight decline to a low of 45 percent.

U. S. exports of upland cotton for the 1964-6 season are expected to total 5.32 million bales, compare with 57 million for the 1963-64 season but above the average for the past four years. McManey believes exports will hold at the high level due to the continued upswing in foreign free world consumption. But, he adds, foreign bales than were used in 1963-64 and the largest domestic usage since 1950-51.

Per capita mill consumption of cotton for 1964 was up about 5 percent from 1963. But, points downward to reflect the 2.5 cents per pound reduction in the 1964 support price. For the 1965 crop, the basic support price for middling 1 - inch cotton, gross weight, at average location is 29 cents per pound. Farmers who plant within their domestic allotment will be eligible to receive an additional payment of 4.35 cents per pound on their farm's normal cotton yield, as determined by the county ASCS committee.

JAYCEE WARNING - Muleshoe Jaycees, as one of their projects for 1964, put up this sign on Highway 84 west to warn travelers that the road is dangerous from here to the Farmer county line. A widening program for the road is still in the land buying stage after three years of preliminary work. The sign is reproduced here to point up the fact that this is National Jaycee Week. (See story and picture on Page 1-A) and Muleshoe Jaycees are planning an active program for the week.

The national acreage allotment for the 1965 crop of upland cotton has been set at the statutory minimum of 16 million acres.

600,000 - Bale Cotton Surplus Seen By August

Cotton growers of Texas and the nation will add an estimated 600,000 bales to the carry-over Aug. 1. This, points out John G. McManey, Extension economist, Texas A&M University, will bring the national carry-over to an estimated 13 million bales, the largest since the record carry-over of 14.5 million bales in 1956.

And, continues the economist, the large 1964 crop will likely offset the high disappearance expected during the period from August 1964 to July 31, 1965.

Lower net costs of upland cotton to domestic users, resulting from legislation enacted hestopect do-ex, ede last April, were cited as contributors to the expected domestic use of 9.7 million bales during the present crop year of 1964-65. This is 11 million more bales than were used in 1963-64 and the largest domestic usage since 1950-51.

Per capita mill consumption of cotton for 1964 was up about 5 percent from 1963. But, points

Nation's Future Clouded By Bad Movies, Literature, Peery Claims

The fall of America probably won't come to the days while today's middle-aged folk are around to see it, but it may come in the lifetimes of today's 91,150,000 people who now under the age of 25.

This is the opinion of the Rev. J. Frank Peery, who says there is bound to be a population explosion when today's teenagers, have families of their own.

Speaking before the Muleshoe Lions Club, the pastor of First Methodist Church said today's literature and movies have a demoralizing effect on today's youth, and our standards of morals "are bound to decline as the nation is saturated with such vile movies as 'Kiss Me, Stupid,' the books by James Baldwin," One of the Baldwin books, he said, is now on the required reading list for high school pupils in some states.

He cited instances of filth and degradation noted in all cities today. He spent several days in Chicago recently, and toured the city's poverty-stricken south side where "people will listen to anything and anybody whom they think might better their financial condition."

He pointed to the vast number of churches, not affiliated with any denomination, that flourish for a time in the city's south side "where people are eager for a word of hope." He said he saw barefooted children in Chicago's south side, even naked kids, despite the fact that the temperature was 30 degrees.

"It's difficult for us to realize the squallor that exists in many of our big cities, or to realize that these children will be the nation's adults of tomorrow," he said, "and I shudder to think what kind of a world we may have, especially if our literature and movie fare which is now so popular continues in favor."

Poverty breeds discontent, and is the popular breeding ground for all kinds of isms, he concluded. "Many think it can't happen here, but if our morals decline, poverty continues and Christ's teachings are ignored, it can happen here — or anywhere else in this land."
