KEEPING AN EYE ON THE BALL

Sometimes hubbub and colorful happenings, plus the mere passage of time, have a way of sweeping aside far more important issues. We have all of us, at one time or another, seen this state of affairs in operation.

This is likely to be the case with the National Labor Relations Act unless the individual citizen exercises very good judgment and "keeps his eye on the ball." For this reason, periodic reviews of the current status of the Act, and of the principal matters relating to it, are necessary from time to time.

Here, in essence, is the way these matters stand nowadays:

The Smith Committee appointed by the House of Representatives to investigate the National Labor Relations Board has just been granted $50,000 more to continue the investigations. Testimony before this Committee so far has revealed serious disagreement among Board members, evidenced in a number of cases of bias on the part of its examiners, and most of all a need for clarification of the Wagner Act itself to insure fair play for all parties concerned.

Meanwhile, public opinion throughout the country, as shown in various surveys of public opinion, has been strongly in favor of either repealing or revising the Act.

Designed to bring harmony between employer and employe, the Wagner Act saw the inauguration of the bitterest period of industrial strife in this country's history. The public, as well as representatives of all groups in our economy, has registered its desire that the Act be amended to reduce this strife to a minimum. The Smith Committee, by its sound treatment of the whole matter, is pointing the way to these sensible changes.

It behooves the ordinary citizen, then, the man or woman who wants to see industry and the country firmly back on the road to progress, to follow the course of the Wagner Act with close attention. Only through this course, in this case as in all others, can America be sure that the public will be not ignored or thwarted.

Mrs. Mary Draft of Philadelphia arranged to permit her divorced husband to remain as a boarder in their jointly-owned home. The plan didn't work well, as she later explained: "I had to put him out because he began beating me just as if he was still my husband."

HELPING KING COTTON

What is probably the most aggressive campaign on behalf of beleaguered King Cotton ever inaugurated, was recently announced by Donald M. Nelson, president of the Institute of Distribution, Inc.

A short time ago the Cotton Consumption Council met in New Orleans to consider ways and means of stimulating cotton sales in this country. At the meeting were representatives of growers, manufacturers, retail distributors, and government officials. Out of that meeting came a 15-point cotton promotional program that will see cotton continuously pushed on a nation-wide basis in 1940. High spot of the drive will be National Cotton Week, to be observed from May 17 through May 25.

Spearhead of the campaign will be America's organized retail distributors, including both the chains and the individual retailers. Every section of this country, from metropolises to cross-roads town, will be included in the cotton drive.

Some 12,000,000 Americans depend on King Cotton for their livelihood—for the money that buys food and clothes and homes and fuel and amusements and everything else. To quote Mr. Nelson, "When cotton wagons roll and guns hum, times in the United States are good." The cotton surplus has long been a problem on this country. The key to improvement is stimulated consumption at home.

More power to King Cotton—and the cotton sales campaign. Its success means much to every industry, every locality, every worker in this vast country of ours.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK

THEY SAY!

"A greater understanding of the problems of industry is so important at this time if we are to put our unemployed back to work and get industry going in a normal way. . . . We have been told many times that unemployment is due to over-production of new technological things. It is my contention that we are 'way behind in our development, for to me research is simply the producing of more jobs and more products and more opportunities."—Charles F. Kettering, vice-president in charge of Research, General Motors Corporation.

"Contributions which inventive genius has made to meet our needs and to supply our comforts and to afford us protection, have followed the inauguration and accompanied the development of the patent system. . . . Our patent system is itself a product of democratic principles and processes given effect by the Constitution and enlarged and extended down to the present."—Conway P. Coe, United States Commissioner of Patents.

"It is no accident that man has recorded his greatest industrial, economical and spiritual progress during these recent generations when the light of freedom has illuminated the path toward realization of the full possibilities of the human genius. It is freedom that has made these achievements possible; freedom will see them multiplied into uncounted new accomplishments for the greater well-being of the race."—J. Howard Pew, president of Sun Oil Company.

"The age of pioneering into the new fields of opportunity and applied science and invention is now with us, and so far as we can see, will stay with us with undiminished opportunity for years to come."—Dr. Karl T. Compton, president, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Federal government expenditures for all purposes in the 10 years ending June 1940, would buy the assets of all U.S. manufacturing corporations and all mines and quarries, and leave about $180 per family in the country.

and Willie Escobar vs. Mary Lucille Smith and Ina Fern Parker gave us an exhibition of their knowledge in the subject "Should Texas Adopt a System of Complete Medical System Available to All Citizens at Public Expense?" You might have called this a Battle of the Sexes, and it was really a battle. We are expecting both teams to place in county.

What could be the meaning of the woeful expressions on Butch's face as he sang "If I had the Wings of an Angel" and the placid look on the face of Joe who "takes things as they come" while he hummed "It's a Hap-hap-happy Day"? And its end of a hap-hap-happy day for me, so I'll see you next week with more news from dear old B. H.S.

"Don-a-Don, a Little More Dee and A Little More Do! . . . Around And Around the Students Go!"

Yes, they realize that this is the fourth week of the six weeks, and the notebooks are not even under way of completion. Too, the dawn is slowly but surely breaking that only nine more weeks are left in which to complete a whole school year's work. We don't know what Confucius would say about that, but we say it time to start working.

Question of the Week—Why does the east side of the study hall bear marks of erasure? Could those have been used to carry out the theme, "I wish I had the wings of an angel?"

Best Pastime of the Week—To see Mr. Watson in the wig used in "King Sargon's Jams," uncutted, of course, by those facial expressions adapted from a certain colony in Wichita Falls.

A certain Senior girl receives one two letters a day (one from Tarleton and one from South of the Border)! We wonder which will hang on the longer. Or is it possible for her to keep two? Answer, M.L.S.!: Read your mystery novels if you will, but just staring into Miss Diersing's eyes is enough for anyone. . . . Shudder, shudder!!

After a final roundup, and counting each Mustang, we find one little stallion of a question that is still kicking around in our heads: That is, when and why was Leap Year ever created if it's not carried out? Oh, well, food for the fish!!

Interscholastic League
Those who will represent our school in the literary events of the Interscholastic League are as follows:

Declamation, Senior High School Girls, Gertrude Laird.
Declamation, Junior High School Girls, Mary Ellis Stevens.

Declamation, Junior Boys, Bryson Laird.
Declamation, Sub-Junior Girls, Sue Moorhouse.

We hope that by the time this edition is out, that these students will have already won their respective events. We have been watching them and thoroughly believe that they will come out victorious, so power to you, students!

P.T.A. Meeting
The Benjamin Parent-Teachers Association met last Tuesday afternoon in the Assembly room of the courthouse. Mrs. A. M. Sams was the leader for the program, which consisted of a rendition of various declamations and a skit by the fourth grade. The playlet was in charge of Miss Willie Payne Wells. The second grade won the dollar, having had the greatest percentage of mothers present at this meeting.

Senior Report
Great excitement and interest prevails in economics class as the students look forward to their visit to court this week. The seniors are now studying buying and selling.

ing, which has been impressed on their minds by a visit to the new school building, and a thorough explanation of buying made by Supt. W. C. Cunningham.

Dr. Diersing of the English Department diagnosed the case of the seniors as "diagramnosis" recently, and found their minds minus much-needed knowledge in this field. Symptoms, mouth agape when sentences were diagrammed. Treatment, forty sentences to be diagrammed daily. Wow! Doctor, how you do run on. . . . Result, partial cure.

Students and teachers are wearing those expressionless faces this week and sighing "When the work's all done this week. . . it will be a hap-hap-happy day." Interscholastic League events are occupying the minds of all industrious citizens of B.H.S. this week.

Seniors Turn Chef!

The Seniors are busily collecting and compiling recipes to go in their cookbook. Parents have been urged to submit several of their favorite recipes, and in turn receive our cookbook, which costs only 25 cents. One hundred are being produced, the proceeds are going into the treasury to help finance the yearly trip to Carlshad. We shall appreciate your purchases, and feel you will derive much from them.

Junior Report

Tossed frantically back and forth along the "sea of thought" we Juniors plunged into another Shakespearean drama, "The Tempest" . . . and do we use our imaginations. . . . I'll say we do, that is, if we possess such a thing. We have been translating (and I said translating) the Shakespearean language into modern terms. Wow! what slang! Although there are a few of us that are not so appreciative of Shakespearean work, we do hope to become more appreciative of this type of literature and understand more clearly the factors that influenced the writing Shakespeare did.

Times moves on and we find the Interscholastic League activities occupying the greatest portion of our minds. (How large a portion would that be?) Our debating teams, Edward Lee Kirk (Piggy),

An Easter Poem

TRIUMPH THRU SACRIFICE

At the foot of old Olivet mountain,
Beyond little Kedron brook,
There once was a beautiful garden,
A peaceful, secluded nook.
There often our Lord with his chosen
Conversed in the grateful shade
Of the "old olive trees" where he rested,
Or walked with own in the glade.
But once on a time in deep anguish
He prayed while the others slept;
As the shadow of happenings,
tragic,
Nearer and nearer crept.
And then there were torches gleaming,
There were soldiers with lance and sword
And Judas stepped out from among them,
Then kissed he the cheek of his Lord.

In Jerusalem there was confusion,
The council was summoned in haste,
The chief priests, the scribes, and
the wise men
Were to sit in a marvelous case,
For they had in their presence a prisoner:
Not a law-breaker, boisterous
and loud,
Neither was he a dark-visaged robber,
Nor a Pharaoh, haughty and proud.

But a meek, quiet man they had taken,
Who had no place to lay his poor
head;
Whose birthplace was only a stable,
And he was a king, he had said:
Now all friendless he stood in the council, (Save that John, the beloved was there).
They spit on, they mock and they
smite him,
Then to Pilate the prisoner they bear.

"And art thou a king?" half in terror,
Half in doubt, Pilate asked of him then.
"To this end I was born," Jesus
answered,
"And I witness the truth unto men."
Then Pilate's wife sent him a message:
"I have suffered this day, in a dream,
Many things because of this just man.
Have thou nothing to do in the scene."

In vain Pilate sought to release

him;
The mob was athirst for his blood.
Protesting, with washed hands, he scourged him
And delivered the dear Son of God.
They mocked him, the blessed, the pure one,
And wove him, of thorn twigs,
a crown
Which cruel hands pressed on his temples:
Then in mockery low they bow down.

The blood trickled down o'er his features:
His body was bruised and torn,
And a harrowing thirst he suffered
When he was so weary and worn,
And I ween that the portals of heaven
Must have closed for a moment that day
To shut from those raised eyes the glory
And the face of his Father away.

For if on the cross he would languish,
And bear on his heart the world's sins,
He must feel, too, that love separation
From God that iniquity brings.
'Twas the last bitter drop of his sorrow
That made his full cup overflow
No wonder he gave, in his anguish,
Such a piteous cry full of woe.

"My God!" starts the throng in the darkness,
"My God!" reached the portals
afar.
And when came, "Why hast Thou forsaken?"
I fancy the pates moved ajar.
"It is finished," he said and earth
trembled,
And broken were gravestone and
clod,
Those who scoffed, now in terror
were quaking
Saying "Surely He was the Son of God."

But eyes, dimmed with tears, saw not clearly
Nor could reasoning minds pierce
the gloom
Of despair that enveloped his
chosen;
Till victorious he came from the tomb,
He came forth, as he said, one glad morning,
Though weak faith could not understand.
But now we have faith in his promise
That his coming again is at hand.

We are glad that the Word does not leave Him
In the cold grave so silent and lone
But we're glad that it follows the story
Till men saw Him ascend to the thone,
Blessed though to the Christian,
Our Savior
Is not molding low in the dust.
He lives, the best friend of the sinner,
The hope of the faithful and just.
—Mrs. Ida Simkins.

Munday Girl Is Pledge Tech Social Club

An initiation ceremony in a restored Indian kiva near Arrowhead camp Sunday night will conclude a five-day program for members and pledges of the K. Shari, girls' social organization at Texas Technological College in a ceremony near Santa Fe, New Mexico, next week end.

Fifty women students left Thursday morning in two chartered buses and will return to Lubbock Monday. The Easter schedule is the eighth annual trip the organization has made to Santa Fe.

The club is based on an age-old organization within Southwestern Indian tribes, will spend the Easter holidays visiting Indian pueblos, museums, and shopping for curios and souvenirs.

Friday the group will go to the El Rito de los Frijoles, the canyon home of ancient Indian cliff-dwellers. It is now a national park, made famous through archaeological excavations and restoration.

Sunday's itinerary includes the historic Governor's Palace, the Art Museum, the Laboratory of Anthropology, a drive out Artist Row, shopping excursions, and visits with the famous writers and artists who live in Santa Fe.

Ko Sharis will go to High Mass in the historic St. Francis cathedral Sunday morning, after which they will attend the club's traditional Easter breakfast.

Following a supper at Arrowhead Camp, pledges will be initiated in secret services in the ceremonial kiva that dates back to the 14th century. The kiva is a part of a pueblo under excavation by Dr. W. C. Holden, dean of Historical and Anthropological Research and a group of Archaeology students of Tech.

Miss Wanda June Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Williams, is a pledge of the club.

Cemetery Report

The end of another year of plans and work finds the cemetery association at the crossroads as to plans and funds.

Failing to get any WPA help—we are hoping to get NYA labor for fence building—they allow no funds for the upkeep of the cemetery.

Financial statement: Owe Musser Lumber Co. $22.92 for lumber for stakes in the survey of the cemetery; owe Munday Times $4.75 for printing deeds; on hand in bank, $11.96.

To Mr. Oliver Lee, we owe a warm vote of thanks for the survey, which took many days and long hours of work, and which he deemed a privilege to do.

Mr. Kimbrough, the NYA supervisor, will be here in the near future to advise as to fence building, but in no way do we have funds to keep weeds down, old rubbish and excess dirt on graves removed except by labor paid for by the funds donated individually.

We need help from all who are interested in Munday's cemetery, and we ask that you pay any amount you may contribute to Mrs. W. V. Tiner, our secretary. We hope to pay these bills and have some funds to begin another year's work by April 1st.

Signed: Maud Isbell, Pres. Mrs. W. V. Tiner, Sec'y.

One of the yokels thought for a moment and then said: "Forty-four."

"Marvelous," said the city man. "How on earth did you find that out?"

"Well," replied the yokel. "I have a brother who is 22 and he's only half nuts."

At The Churches

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Next Sunday all people and nations who accept Christ as the Messiah celebrate his resurrection from the dead. His resurrection was the climax of many promises; the triumph of a great life; and the victory of a substitutionary suffering.

The sermon for Sunday morning will be The Joy of the Resurrection.

There will be no services Sunday evening on account of the meeting at the Presbyterian church.

Remember that the Fifth Sunday (March 31st) is Mission Day. We are asking everyone to bring an offering for Home Missions.

W. H. Albertson

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The revival services will run through Sunday night, March 24. Dr. J. Stuart Pearce, evangelist for Fort Worth Presbytery, has been delivering an inspiring group of messages. If you want to hear the Gospel preached then we invite you to attend these meetings.

Next Sunday we commemorate the day that Christ arose from the grave. I need not remind you that this event was the greatest thing that ever took place in a world filled with sin and lost. I can remind you, however, of a Christ who lives today in Heaven and rejoices with great joy every time that a lost man turns to Him. Nothing can give Jesus more pleasure than the sight of a sinful man who has found his way home at the foot of the Cross. Do you know Jesus? If you have never accepted Him as your personal Savior then there is no time like Easter to make this step. Come and be with us and worship with us. Everyone is cordially invited.

Week-night services, 8:00 o'clock. Sunday morning services, 11:00 o'clock. Sunday night services, 7:30 o'clock.

Senior Class News

I'm afraid that if all the people were like the reporters on the Tom Tom, they would be a little inclined to be slow—or shall I say forgetful. By looking at last week's paper, I notice there was no Tom Tom. Yes, I'm like you . . . wondering why. It should be rather large this week—making up for lost time.

I guess I'll start the Senior report with the life of one of our Senior girls—Doris Howell.

Doris was born near Hico, Texas, on March 1, 1922. The first three years found her still living there, but the moving spirit struck her, so she then moved to a home near Knox City. Her first school days were spent at Gillespie, then she attended school at Sunset. It was during her seventh year that she moved to Munday.

Doris has been a member of all the Home Economics organizations since she has been in high school, and last year she represented M. H.S. as a declaimer.

Her favorites are as follows:
 Subject, law.
 Teacher, all.
 Color, blue.
 Flower, rose.
 Song, "Indian Summer."
 Hobby, sewing.
 Sport, football.

Doris can be recognized by the following characteristics: hair, brown; eyes, blue; weight, 118; height, 5 feet 4. She tells me that she intends to major in Home Economics at Texas Tech.

I slipped up on some of the Seniors the other day, and each was telling the other what his thoughts were. It sounded rather interesting to me, as this is what my ears told me:

Jane was wishing for short cut to Knox City. The present route is entirely too long.

Marion was wishing that the shot-put was made of rubber so that things would not be so dangerous. (Maybe the ground needs cushions.)

Zell was saying something about a little booklet of instructions on how to ride a bicycle.

Bud was discussing a subject which dealt with redheads at Sunset.

Doris and Emogene seemed to be chattering about late hours and all that goes with these hours.

Jerry looked sort of downhearted and I believe I heard the word "letter" pass from her lips.

Beth wasn't saying anything in particular, but she was certainly making good use of her ears. Lamoine seemed rather down-and-out, but he wasn't too far gone but that he could start a fuss with one of our Senior girls.

D.P. had his hands full, it seemed—as two little girls (quite grown) were on either side of him. Reekon who is going to be eliminated?

Junior Report

The Juniors have been very lazy for the past two weeks. Don't ask me why because I don't know, but I think "spring fever" is popping out on us again. We didn't even have the energy to write a report for the Tom-Tom last week.

We really haven't done anything of importance to tell you about. However, we are planning a box supper next week. I don't know much about it, but you will hear more about it later.

This high school must be full of industrious girls. It appears to me that they want to stay in school longer than the ordinary student, because just certain girls have been meeting with Miss Moody the seventh period for several days. Maybe they like school better than the average student, and maybe they don't but it seems to me that they enjoyed the seventh period very much Tuesday.

Munday High School,
 March 21, 1940

Dear Reader:

Since I am supposed to snoop around and hear all the gossip and then tell it, I thought that I could write this news in less time and spread it much, much farther. I dearly love this job; therefore, I am doing my best to tell you everything that is of interest to snoopers.

I may get some of this gossip mixed up a bit, but it is still good to tell anyway. Well, here goes—

The other day I saw a girl from Goree in Munday. She said that one of her friends was ill and that she just had to see her. Oh, I think that it was a boy. Well, anyway, she turned down the street just east of Dr. Bass' house. In about five minutes she was driving furiously back toward Goree.

I suppose she decided to make her call rather short, or maybe she just wanted to leave Munday and rush back to her own home. This doesn't sound like much; but if you could induce Lamoine to tell you the rest of it, I am sure your time would not be wasted.

This is leap year, and some of the girls around here really are taking advantage of it. If you don't believe me just ask Cora Jean Martin. At least, the girls plan parties and picnics for the boys. And they really have a good time, don't they Sue? I know of one instance where some of the girls invited the other girls' boyfriends. There wasn't any hair pulled or any black eyes on that picnic but I heard that they went nearly that far. Floyd, did you feel double-crossed? Well, I guess that all goes with having a boyfriend that doesn't like to be true to one girl.

Oh yes, I couldn't skip telling you about a certain little Junior. Yes, it happens to be a girl. The other day I saw her and she was limping. Of course, I rushed over and asked her what was wrong. She just laughed and said that she had a note or a letter in her shoe which was hurting her foot. She found this note or letter and had to dispose of it in a hurry so she discovered that her shoe was the easiest and safest way to get rid of it. (The owner of the note or letter was coming down the street at the same time.) She didn't say whom the note or letter belonged to but I thought that it belonged to Jerry, Flora Belle, or Evelyn, since they get so much fan mail anyway.

I think this is enough for one week, but don't miss this column next week.

So long,
 Snoopy

Sophomore Report

Midst all this confusion of Tracy and Orrin Joe's conversation, I find it difficult to write this report. Besides that, I do not know anything to say. Orrin Joe has left and now Jacary is worrying me with questions of whether he is loyal or not.

Now for some real advice:
 For success, keep your eyes open, and your mouth shut.

For eating grapefruit, reverse the process.

Mr. Allen: "Now Ben, can you tell me an example of wasted energy?"

Ben: "Yes sir—Telling a hair-raising story to a bald-headed man."

Miss Couch: "David, give us the definition of 'nothing'."

David: "Nothing is a balloon with the skin off."

Mr. Hardegree: "Who can give a definition of a waffle?"

Red: "A waffle is a pancake with a non-skid tread."

"Flora Alice," asked the teacher, "What are the three words most used among students?"

"I don't know," replied Flora Alice.

"Correct!" said the teacher.

He drew a circle that shut me out—
 Heretic, rebel, a thing to flout.
 But love and I had the wit to win;
 We drew a circle that took him in.

Habit is a cable; we weave a thread of it every day, and at last we cannot break it.—Horace Mann.

Neighbors To The Stars

By Mae Pace Killingsworth

Ah! The lassie, of Scotland fame, was meeting her laddie "Comin' Thru the Rye." Then "Ave Maria" was softly permeating the grav-dipped, February air and next, unrolling like a flowered petal, came "On-ward Christian Soldiers" to tell the sufferers in that great institution to "hold on, have more courage, you'll win the fight" and be back in no time at all "By the Bend of the River." The river and home and a new song—it was all so wonderful.

Yes, the 23 bells, (from the ponderous to the diminutive of the lot) from their star-cornered niche in that nineteenth floor of Rochester's Medical Building, and quite unmindful of their latent power, were flinging down the familiar tunes. They were greeting the new folk and bidding farewell to those departing, with the carillon concert.

All day I had waited, on my first day there, for I had heard of their matchless beauty. Then—as the haunting melodies floated earthward, I felt they were remembering also. Remembering the miraculous achievements of two great leaders in the medical world—"Dr. Will" and "Dr. Charles" as they are most affectionately spoken of. "We won't forget, we won't forget," they seemed to say. Though it was Dr. Will, himself, who dedicated the carillon to the "American Soldier," now these "Soldiers Two" could well lead the vast army.

With much enthusiasm and appreciation I listened on and on, not wishing to miss a single note. Fascinated, I sat, and all too soon the thirty minutes had ended. From that "Singing Tower" those bells seemed to know their duty and knowing it, did it well. A Belgian carillonist could not have performed that Wednesday rite more efficiently, than did that Rochester musician that day. He had that "touch" and one would have to love it to make it the beautiful thing it was.

For almost a month, I came to look forward to that twice-weekly concert. It dropped as a soothing April rain from the lofty perch and like a lantern in a darkened cave it shed warm glows on the days of my stay. Yes, bells, to me, have a peculiar fascination. I have loved them in the small churches, and the hoary cathedrals; I have been inspired by bells in a monastery and by various types abroad, and always they are irresistible. But the help, and the encouragement I derived from those, that are Neighbors to the Stars in that trimmest and tidiest of small cities, shall remain ever a jeweled memory.

Attitude That Machines Destroy More Jobs Than They Make Called Defeatism

New York.—H. W. Prentiss, Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers and president of the Armstrong Cork company of Lancaster, Pa., characterized as "defeatism" the attitude that machines destroy jobs.

Speaking at the National Modern Pioneers Banquet held here to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the United States Patent System and to honor the contribution of America's inventors to national progress, Mr. Prentiss cited a recent statement by President Roosevelt that we in this country "face the task of finding jobs faster than invention takes them away."

"Surely it is defeatism for the President of the greatest industrial nation in the world to suggest, as he did in the same message, that 'the efficiency of our industrial processes has created a surplus of labor,'" Mr. Prentiss declared.

"The ultimate purpose of the whole industrial and business organization is to supply the needs and wants of the population. There is no limit to the amount of business that may be done, because there is no visible limit to human needs.

"Did the president count our encouragement of invention and business enterprise during the period of our greatest technological advance, 1870 to 1930, among the 'ways that have failed' that he mentions?" Mr. Prentiss asked. "It was during that period, while the population of our country nearly tripled, that the number of gainfully employed persons nearly quadrupled and the volume of production increased about eleven-fold. Did inventions take away jobs faster than other jobs could be found for them in those years?" Obviously not.

"Moreover, employment today is more nearly normal in those industries that are most highly mechanized—in which there has been the greatest technological advance. Manufacturing employment has risen, in spite of many obstacles, to virtually the 1929 level. In the building industry where handicraft has largely persisted and per capita production has not increased, employment is at least one-third below the 1929 level.

"In the modern world the development of political and religious liberty, the rise of private business enterprise, and the amazing growth of science and invention rather than 'labor-saving'—designed to create entirely new products, render new services, or improve old products or services. One out of every four persons employed in America today holds a job in an industry unknown in 1870. Over 100,000 new articles have appeared on the American market since 1900. There has been temporary dislocation of employment, with individual hardships, it is true. The cushioning of employment against such hardship is today one of the major objectives of manufacturing industry as evidenced by the consideration given this matter in the recent 'Declaration of Principles' of this Association. The record is clear, however, that the satisfaction of more human wants at lower costs is the essential prerequisite of a rising standard of living."

Grammar School News

In the fifth grade, the good citizens for the past week were Barbara Jane Almanode, Martha Louise Walker, Earleen Brewer, Weldon Walling, Willie Marie Cogburn, J. B. Walling, Viola Hodges, and Betty John Beauchamp. The policeman and policewoman for this week are Weldon Walling and Betty Nell Walker, respectively.

Baseball

The Grammar School girls and boys baseball teams went to O'Brien on Tuesday, March 19 to play. They enjoyed their trip very much. The girls won with scores of 25-10; we are very proud of them. The boys lost with scores of 3-7, but they played a hard game. Better luck next time, boys!

The high school junior girls also played and won with scores of 10-2. We are proud of all of our teams; however we wish the boys better luck in their next game.

The girls play as follows in the county meet Saturday, March 23.

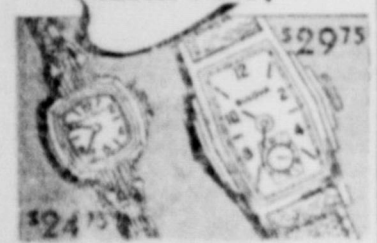

Pitcher, Frances Walling, (captain).

Catcher, Doris Jane Burton.
 First base, Gena Beth Griffith.
 Second base, Edna Faye Hardin.
 Third base, Glyndolin Frost.

Freshman Report

Well, here comes our gossip column again. (We're just a bunch of tattlers.)

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
 Juanita enjoys reporting. (At least she's been writing the report for some weeks now.)

Pauline doesn't like to be teased about her ring—yes, her ring.
 Gena Beth has given someone at O'Brien a solemn vow that she will be in Knox City the last of the week. (I guess so, the County Meet's there.)

Frances likes bananas (Because they have no bones.)
 Coy isn't as helpless as she looks. No sir!! (You ought to see her slam an "ole" home run.)

Juniors Present Play

On March 14 the Juniors of Sunset presented a play in the Sunset auditorium. A good crowd attended the play. The Juniors made about $35.00 in the play. Dude Coffman and boys played several musical numbers before the play and between acts. The Juniors and Seniors of Sunset and other Juniors and Seniors from other schools enjoyed the reception which was given after the play in the study hall. Seniors of 1940 in 1950

 Oh that beautiful happy-go-lucky land of Sunny California! Here I was to linger longer than before. Why, here I was entering the great Hollywood movie lot. What could be the main objective of that? There was the question in my mind. Who was the handsome "Romeo" that all the young ladies were flocking around? Some even on his knee! That dazzling smile portrayed the Robert Taylor of 1938, 11 years ago! Yet! A closer view. The hero was none other than Howard Myers—now under the stage name of Dewey Howard. A most promising future was his outlook and he seemed to be enjoying every inch of it. Next the scene was in Hollywood's exclusive broadcasting station. The strains of a very modern dance orchestra could be heard very plaintively. Now, in sight the band was a sight to behold. Yet, even more glamorous was their vocalist. Her contralto voice turned the tide. That, I knew was our own singing Nellie Prather. I wanted greatly to stay and enjoy the song she had started to sing, but time carried me over space to a large building. Further notice showed me that it was Harvard University. What? Surely another one of my Seniors hadn't turned school teacher! The door marked Professor Medical Science, opened and there was a young man bending over the odds and ends of many fragments of animals, insects, etc. Why! That was the smart fellow of my class—the little man with brains. Yes! Glendon Matthews. As before, we next saw the mighty magnificent buildings in California. This time in Los Angeles, in one of the most picturesque valleys I've ever seen. The cameramen were like a mob. Was I again to view one of my scholars in movieland? Surely!! And my doubts became obscure when I saw a supposedly coe-girl doing some very grand acting. Her blonde ringlets nuzzled me for an instant. It couldn't be... but yes—that was little "fisty" LaVerne Bumpas. Just then something blew off her head! Now she was a swell girl even to her wig; but everything was explained then. Next came the figures of the All-American Girls Basketball team. Oh yes! One of my girls had made a name for herself. Could that be—of course, Juanita Hunter, and a very nice job of guarding she was doing. She was the all-around guard. What! Another medal, and she already had an immense chain of them around her neck. Boy, what a girl!

And now the 22nd member of my honorable class. This time I find myself in Chicago, Ill. This member's ability of common sense and talk had made him one of the most famous radio announcers in America. Indeed, I was very proud of this young gentleman, Claude Harrison; he was doing very well, and I so hated to leave. It seemed that time flew by faster, so comes the end of my interesting class of

TEXAS OUT-O-DOORS

Conservation Course Spreads

Austin, Texas.—Several wildlife experts of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission will lecture before classes in the conservation of natural resources at the 24 Texas colleges which will offer the course this summer. Nine other states and federal agencies will co-operate in the course which has proved so popular that it has, in three years, grown from a one-institution affair to the point where two dozen schools are presenting the study of the needs of natural resource conservation.

Dr. B. B. Harris, dean of North Texas State Teachers College, at Denton, conceived the course in 1938.

Schools that will offer the classes this summer are: all the state teachers colleges including Sul Ross at Alpine, Sam Houston at Huntsville, Stephen F. Austin at Nacodoches, Southwest Texas at San Marcos, East Texas at Commerce, West Texas at Canyon, and North Texas at Denton; Abilene Christian College at Abilene; Austin College at Sherman; Baylor University at Waco; Daniel Baker at Brownwood; Hardin-Simmons at Abilene; Incarnate Word College at San Antonio; Mary Hardin-Baylor at Belton; McMurry at Abilene; Our Lady of the Lake College at San Antonio; Southern Methodist University at Dallas; Southwestern University at Georgetown; Texas College of Arts and Industries, at Kingsville; Agricultural and Mechanical at College Station; Texas Christian University, Fort Worth; Trinity University, Waxahachie; the University of Houston, Houston; Howard Payne at Brownwood.

2 Does Killed in Collision

Several hundred deer are killed on the Texas highways each year, but the first report in recent years of two being slain at one time reached the state game department recently. J. A. Lott, of Carlsbad, N.M., a former Texas resident, was driving near Kerrville at dusk recently when two does leaped into the path of his automobile. One deer was hit by a bumper while the other ran head-on into the side of the car. Both were killed instantly and Mr. Lott's car was damaged to such an extent that a wrecker was needed.

Armadillo is Food Crop

The armadillo, that armored Seniors of 1940. It helped an awful lot to hear of them again. Most of them I hadn't seen since their graduation—and last—but not least, may I say that may all their dreams really come to pass, and the utmost of their ambitions be realized. Each was successful so far; my prayer was that their success would continue always.

Seniors on Parade

Glendon Matthews was born on March 6th, at Munday, in 1923. Glendon won't tell just what he did before he started to school, but we all know he was not an angel. At the age of five he moved to Plainview. There he started to school and remained there until he was in the seventh grade. Then he came to Sunset, remained here until his sophomore year and then moved to Freer and Texas City, Texas. After remaining there for a time, Glendon came back to Sunset where he has remained ever since.

Some of Glendon's favorites are:
 Subject—typing.
 Sport—basketball.
 Teacher—all of them.
 Color—blue.
 Hobby—stamp collecting.
 Song—Oh Johnnie!
 Glendon says he has not formed any definite plans as to what he will do after graduation.

Did You Know... Did Ya?

Thelma wishes Saturday would repeat itself more often.
 Edith just can't seem to forget O'Brien.
 Gaynelle was the cause of a great disturbance Thursday night.
 It's Munday again with Rachel. Just who is it this time?
 Glendon is still as shy as ever.
 Payne was looking very lovely some Saturday night.
 That Annie is wearing a new watch.
 Cleta caused a lot of disappointment Saturday night.
 Bill doesn't seem to like the girls since he lost his ring.
 Wallis made another flying trip to Fort Worth over the week end. (Just what is it down there, Wallis?)
 That Nellie is a great radio fan, her favorite program being Kay Kveser's College of Musical Knowledge.
 LaVerne sleeps so late, sometimes.
 Claude Richardson is said to have a new flame.
 Jo says that she has stopped her bragging forever.
 So long.

Chatter-Box

Vida Lee Nichols of Goree was a visitor in town the latter part of last week.

Earl Sams of Benjamin, tax assessor and collector, was here Saturday on official business.

M. F. Billingsley was in Abilene last Saturday, where he attended the meeting of the bar association for this district.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

The world's poet, Henry W. Longfellow, was during his lifetime probably the most popular poet in the world. His poems were translated into all the European languages, including Hungarian, Polish, Russian, and Turkish. Thirty-three translations appeared in Germany, twelve in Italy, nine in France.

Longfellow was born at Portland Maine, February 27, 1807. When he was six he received the following testimonial from his teacher: "Master Henry Longfellow is one of the best boys we have in school. He spells and reads very well. He also can add and multiply numbers. His conduct last quarter was very sweet and amiable."

Although he thought it might be necessary for him to study law for a living, his heart was always in literature. He wrote to a friend: "Somehow, and yet I hardly know why, I am unwilling to study any profession. I cannot make a lawyer of any eminence, because I have not a talent for argument; I am not good enough for a minister, and as to physic, I utterly and absolutely detest it."

His poetry has perhaps always been more popular with general readers than with professional critics, yet his best work gives him a permanent place in the history of literature.

He was a great educational force. He was a translator not only of Dante and other works in foreign languages; he was a translator of the whole culture of the old world, with which he enriched America.

Among his works are "Hiawatha," "Evangeline," "The Courtship of Miles Standish."

He died at the age of seventy-five.

Senior Class News

Last Monday we listened to Columbia's School of the Air. The subject, "Telecasting America," proved very interesting.

Last Tuesday afternoon the Senior girls volleyball team motored to Goree to play them. Although we were defeated we enjoyed the game very much. (Alma seems to be sliding on the floor most of the time. We wonder what she had there.)

The other day Margaret was looking rather sleepy. Mr. Hoffman said: "Margaret, you must have gotten up this morning before you went to bed."

We were glad to have Mr. McCaughey visit our school last week. Here are the nicknames of the Seniors:

- Alma: Mixie.
 - Rosa Lee: Lee Rosalem.
 - Bernice: Prissy.
 - Jean: Hamburger.
 - Clara: Virgie.
 - Margaret: Guy.
- We wonder who is developing into a snapturtle? (Alma, do you know anything about it?)

Junior Report

Many of the Rhineland students attended the playground ball meet at Munday last Saturday. All of us enjoyed the games immensely, even though we didn't win.

In Geometry we have completed the study of circles and are now trying to obtain knowledge about the locus of a point.

Did You Know That . . . Geneva enjoys watching the volleyball games on Friday night. (Especially if . . . is there.) Cletus is beginning to like English.

Florine enjoys reading Junior boy's story book. Richard and Albert are real pals. Catherine loves to go hunting on Wednesday night. (What for, Catherine?)

Ethel enjoys going to the Goree school.

Alma is a little blonde who loves black curly hair.

An Interview on Agricultural Census

"No group has a greater degree of self-interest in the success of the Decennial Census of 1940 than has the farmer," declared Clifford Deaton, district supervisor of the Census for this district.

"Agriculture as an industry has been in bad health for a number of years," declared Mr. Deaton. "Just as a prudent person goes to his doctor for a complete checkup the farmers will in the 1940 Census get the most complete study of their symptoms that has ever been made. Facts to be collected on the seven million farms will provide the farmers themselves, the government, and students of the farm problem with a guide to the future."

"The nation as a whole cannot be fundamentally prosperous unless the farmer is prosperous," declared Mr. Deaton, "because the farms directly support 25 per cent of our population and the business of farming affects about half or all of our people. Besides being the producer of the nation's food supply, the farmer is one of the largest customers of the business man. The farmer's ability to purchase goods directly affects all business as well as the workers in the city. The farmer is one of the greatest suppliers of raw materials for industry."

"Vital changes throughout the world have directly affected the prosperity of the American farmer," explains Mr. Deaton. "Dislocation of world markets due to wars and the efforts of foreign nations to make themselves self-sufficient has made the American farm surplus burdensome by curtailing exports. Mechanization of farms has increased farm production while decreasing the number of consumers even on the farm. Greater mechanization in factories has reduced physical labor and the demand for staple food products. Lighter women's clothing has added to the cotton surplus, and reduction of physical labor has resulted in a per-capita decline in the consumption of wheat. The reduction of horses and mules from 27,000,000 to 15,000,000 in favor of tractors and trucks have made it necessary to find a market for cash crops from 3,000,000 acres formerly used to raise horse feed. The greatly reduced birth rate from 25 babies per 1,000 population to 17 means fewer mouths to feed in coming years."

"The farmer is therefore confronted with the problem of adjusting his production to meet these vital changes and the Census will tell him what these changes are. The Census figures will tell him what crops are being over-produced; what progress is being made to use more of his crops in industrial plants."

"Industry has developed a fine statistical record which guides its future operations. Not one of the 7,000,000 farmers can develop such a set of records for his own guidance because he has only his own figures. Census records of 7,000,000 farms combined is the only complete national picture of farm operations to tell the farmer which way he is going, and to provide students of the serious farm problem with the facts to meet this

Since examinations are just over, we do not have to worry about others for a while.

In science Monday we work out the amount of calories we had for breakfast.

The girls are still practicing playground ball. They have high hopes of winning.

Professor: And so, students, we come to the conclusion that nothing is impossible.

Frosh: Well, I'd like to see you run this umbrella down your throat and then open it.

We Wonder Why—

Lucille finds books so interesting. Victor said he had a bundle of feed and a bushel of corn for breakfast. (How many calories are in that?)

problem."

Mr. Deaton urges all of the farmers of this section to cooperate with the enumerator so that a complete record of farm operations in this section can be made. He suggests that farmers acquaint themselves with the essential facts about their 1939 operations such as the number of acres farmed; number of acres owned or rented; value of the production of each item; number and classification of all live-stock; quantity and value of all products, including milk, butter, eggs, and even the volume of foods produced and consumed on the farm. The enumerator will want to know the number of acres in use for each crop, pasture land, land lying idle or fallow, woodland, the amount of farm mortgage, interest rate, expenditures for feed, farm implements, automobiles, trucks, building materials and equipment, fertilizer and gasoline.

Mr. Deaton urges farmers to get help from their county agents many of whom are able to supply sample copies of the farm schedule.

YOU think electric service is a wonderful thing—and it is. It lights our homes. It makes our streets safe at night. Turns wheels in factories. Lifts the burden of housework. Helps make the good things of life cost less.

Really, there doesn't seem much left for electricity to do, does there?

Yet we employees of your electric company believe that every service and comfort electricity now gives you is but a beginning of what's to come.

Why, today we don't even know what electricity is. We simply know and enjoy some of the things it is capable of doing every moment of the day and night. But we also know that there are still a great many undiscovered tasks for electric service.

Who will perform these miracles-to-come?

The men who serve you now—the same great army of skilled technicians, capable managers and loyal employees whose tireless efforts in your behalf have already vastly improved the service your electric company gives you, already drastically reduced its cost.

No, it isn't an accident that electricity has reached its greatest present development in the United States. The reason is that these thousands of men and women in the electrical industry have the American spirit of initiative—the good old-fashioned kind.

Their work, and theirs alone, makes your electric service the best in the world. It's an amazing service. It gets better and better, costs less and less.

Your electric company doesn't often think about the work it has done because it is too busy planning the work that lies ahead.

MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

In the last 10 to 15 years, the engineering improvements and operating economies of your electric company have made it possible to cut the average price of household electricity just about in half. Many customers now using more household appliances, lots of light, a radio, and refrigerator pay very little more to operate all of these than they used to pay for light alone.

Olin Culberson Seeks Railroad Commission Post To Reduce Gas Rates

OLIN CULBERSON

AUSTIN, Feb. 22 — Stressing the need for "consumer protection against excessive gas utility rates throughout Texas," Judge Olin Culberson of Austin today announced his candidacy for railroad commissioner. He served the state as chief utility rate expert and head of the gas utilities division for the past eight years.

Culberson, a former county clerk and County Judge of Hill county, said that the same vigor and fairness that had marked his past service to the state in the regulation of gas rates would continue to be his policy as a commissioner and that the thousands of dollars already expended in assembling data upon which to fix gas utility rates and which should be used in assisting cities and towns would be utilized

"Gas utility rates generally, are entirely too high," Culberson said. "I will reduce them. I want the opportunity to complete the work of giving to gas users of the State fair and reasonable rates—fair to the public—fair to the gas utility companies," he said.

"Transportation, both rail and motor, is an increasingly serious problem and is entitled to and should have its full share of attention from the regulatory body," Culberson said. The problems of this industry are just as important and should receive as prompt consideration as any other matters over which the commission exercises authority.

"The great oil industry upon which Texas is dependent to so large extent for its prosperity must be supervised in such manner as to obviate any suggestion of federal control. Texas can run her own business. I pledge to the affairs of that industry a fair, square and equitable administration, leaving nothing undone that will bring stability to the oil industry. The oil industry is far too important to our economic setup and to Texas school children, who participate in its prosperity, to be subjected to a vacillating and devious policy."

Culberson emphasized the need for a fair equalization of rail rates between the Southwest and Eastern markets and said he favored using every expediency to eliminate all discrimination against Texas agriculture and industry in regard to transportation rates.

As secretary of the Volunteer Firemen's and Fire Marshals' association for the past 21 years, Judge Culberson has been actively serving in that organization's program which has resulted in steadily declining fire losses and fire insurance rates. He is an ex-service man, a member of the American Legion, a Mason and a member of the Odd Fellows.
