VERA BECOMES AFFILIATED HIGH SCHOOL

Gossett Announced for Second Term as Congressman of District

Washington, D.C., June 16.—Representative Ed Gossett, who is serving his first term in the Congress from this District, has authorized The Munday Times to announce his candidacy for re-election.

ED GOSSETT

Mr. Gossett has made a splendid record during the eighteen months he has been in Congress. The first bill introduced by him was one to compel freight rate adjustments and to force the removal of rate discriminations against the Southwest. Much progress is being made in this fight.

In line with his work for equal economic opportunities for the South and Southwest, he strongly supported an amendment to the 1939 Relief Bill which resulted in the partial removal of unfair differentials in the WPA wage scale and resulted in the raising of WPA wages in the South and Southwest and lowering of WPA wages in the North and Northeast.

Mr. Gossett has been an active member of the farm bloc in Congress and has distinguished himself in his fight against the Farm Machinery Trust. His record also proves him to be a friend of the veteran, laborer, and small business man.

Mr. Gossett has earned a reputation for hard work and staying on the job. While serving on 6 committees, he has missed only one roll call since being in the Congress.

Friends of the Congressman point to the first sentence of his 1938 platform: "I believe in Democracy. I hate Communism and Fascism." Then, as evidence of his sincerity, they call attention to the Gossett amendment to the first Army Appropriation Bill to pass the House following the President's National Defense message of May 15. The Gossett amendment to this bill provided that none of the funds appropriated could be used to pay the salary of any Communist, Fascist or Nazi.

Speaking in support of his amendment, which the House overwhelmingly adopted, the Congressman said in part: "In this time of peril, when we are concerned with our national defense, it occurs to me that our Military Establishments certainly ought to be purged of those not devoted and loyal to democratic institutions. We want no 'fifth column' in this country, most especially in our Army and Navy."

Aside from several amendments by Mr. Gossett that have been adopted by the House, he has been the author of two bills providing better law enforcement at less expense. Both bills have been signed by the President and are now the law. Not since 1925 has a Congressman from the 13th District been the author of any law.

"The problems of National Defense and International Relations with which this Congress has been struggling are perhaps the gravest ever to confront our country. Congress must leave nothing undone to prepare the United States for all emergencies," states Mr. Gossett.

As to his campaign, the Congressman says: "I have had no time to think of my personal problems which, of course, are secondary. I will stay by my post of duty so long as necessary during this crisis. I redeclare my platform and promises of 1938 toward the fulfillment of which I have been working. I will have little, if any, time to campaign, so am trusting to the finest citizenship in the United States for reelection to a second term in Congress."

J. A. Stephens Announces For District Judge

Judge James A. Stephens of Benjamin this week authorized The Munday Times to announce his candidacy for the office of District Judge of the 50th Judicial District, subject to the action of the voters in the coming primary.

Having practiced law in this county for nearly 50 years, Judge Stephens is well known by the voters over the entire district. He is one of the county's pioneer settlers. He polled 375,000 votes in Texas in his race two years ago for Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Judge Stephens came to Knox county in 1889, from Johnson county, later securing his license to practice law and hung up his shingle as a Knox county lawyer in 1894. His practice has been varied and successful in the courts of this section.

A full text of Judge Stephens' announcement appears in this issue of The Times, as published by O. C. Harrison of the Baylor County Banner, a personal friend of Judge Stephens for many years.

Judge Stephens asks the voters to study his detailed announcement, weigh carefully his qualifications for this office between now and the July 27th primary, assuring them that if elected to this office he will serve efficiently and with gratitude to those who placed him in this high judicial position.

Is Affiliated In Sixteen Subjects

Building Program To Be Completed In Near Future

The Vera High School has received 16 units of affiliation by the State Department of Education, making it a fully affiliated 4-year high school, it was announced Wednesday by Jess G. Thompson, superintendent.

Vera became an accredited 2-year high school for the first time last year, and has just been advanced to a four-year high school with affiliation in these 16 units. Affiliation means that graduates of Vera may now enter any college or university without the necessity of entrance examinations.

The units of affiliation granted Vera are: four in English, one in speech, two in commercial work, three in social science, two in science and four in mathematics.

News of affiliation was learned recently when Mr. Thompson and Supt. Merich McCaughey made a trip to Austin to check up on work of the Vera school.

The school has made rapid advancement during the three years in which Mr. Thompson has served as superintendent, and this advancement is a credit to the splendid work Thompson is doing there. In addition to becoming affiliated, the school has taken in two other districts by consolidation. They are the Lone Star and Cottonwood school districts.

Because of the Cottonwood consolidations, which was voted several weeks ago, Mr. Thompson explained that election of teachers for another year has been delayed. Only the superintendent and principal have been re-elected. Mr. Thompson was re-elected for his fourth term, and Roy Tomlinson has been named for his third term as principal. Other teachers will be named within the near future.

One new school bus will be added to the system next year, Thompson said, making three buses that will serve the Vera school during the next term.

The school is also working on adding vocational agriculture and vocational home economics to the course of studies.

Vera's building program, which has been suspended for some time, will likely be resumed soon after July 1st, it was said. Workmen are expected to complete the building program by September 1st, giving Vera a modern school building with lighting, modern equipment, a sodded football field, two tennis courts which will possibly be topped with asphalt. A yard beautification program is also included in this project, Thompson said.

Candidates wishing to avail themselves of this opportunity may do so by appearing personally or by representative, Mrs. Marr said.

It is likely that some two or three candidates for governor will appear and speak at this rally, as well as others who are running for high offices of the state and district.

Knox City is planning to entertain a large crowd at this rally.

Nineteen Texas Youths To Wear Uncle Sam's 'Wings'

Charles Giddings To Complete Course At Randolph Field

Nineteen Texas men soon will be wearing wings in Uncle Sam's rapidly expanding Army Air Corps. A total of 7000 pilots are to be trained annually, according to a recent statement by Major General Henry H. Arnold, Chief of the Air Corps, just a few days after the President's defense message to Congress.

Flying Cadet Charles H. Giddings, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Giddings of Munday, is among the 215 student pilots scheduled to complete their basic flight training at Randolph Field, Texas, the "West Point of the Air," in June. They will be transferred to the Advanced Flying School at Kelly Field for another ten week period of flying instruction before joining either a bombardment, pursuit or observation squadron of the Air Corps.

Every five weeks thereafter another class of student pilots will complete its basic training either at Randolph Field or at one of the other training schools soon to be announced, and will go into the advanced period of flight schooling before receiving their wings.

When the first Air Corps expansion program was announced last spring, plans were laid for an air arm of 5,500 airplanes and a comparable number of highly trained pilots. Today a training program envisioning 7,000 pilots and 3,600 navigators and bombardiers annually is getting under way.

Under the Air Corps pilot training plan approved early in June, Flying Cadets will be transferred into military pilots in slightly less than a year. Ten weeks of elementary training on rugged 200 horsepower biplanes will be followed by a second ten week period of basic flight training on 450 horsepower low wing monoplanes, according to Air Corps Training Center officials.

A third ten week period of advanced flying training at one of three advanced flying schools will prepare the future birdmen for a final five weeks course in specialized aviation, such as pursuit, bombardment, attack or observation. In all, approximately 265 hours of flying time will be logged by each Flying Cadet during the training course.

Every maneuver in the veteran pilot's bag of tricks is taught the future airmen of the Air Corps. Within a few days after the Flying Cadet arrives at one of the many elementary flying schools, he is making landings and take-offs, under the watchful eye of his flight instructor.

Within eight hours flying time he has soloed, and is mastering the intricacies of the chandelle, lazy eight, and pylon eight, all training maneuvers. Before completing the first 65 hours of the 265 hour course, aerial acrobatics such as loops, rolls and Immelman turns are executed as a matter of course.

Second phase of the 36 week training period is spent in the BT-9s or BT-14s, low wing monoplanes, top speed 175 miles an hour. More precision in all the aerial gyrations is developed, and Flying Cadets get their first taste of night flying during this period of 75 flying hours.

Third period of training will be at one of the three Air Corps Advanced Flying Schools, soon to be set up. Air Corps officials declare. Formation flying, wing tip flying, navigation flights, more aerial acrobatics, and advanced instrument flight training will be stressed during this period, also 75 hours of Final phase of five weeks specialized training will be spent diving and zooming in 300-mile-an-hour pursuit planes or giant twin engine bombers, all climaxed by graduation day, awarding of wings, emblem of a military pilot, and a commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Corps Reserve.

Applications for appointment as Flying Cadet in the United States Army Air Corps are being received in greatly increasing numbers. Air Corps Training Center officials at Randolph Field, Texas, state, in discussing the expanded pilot training program. They point out that the entire course of flying is free to the Flying Cadets who also receive $75 per month during the training period, which is later increased to $205.00 per month after graduation and appointment as Second Lieutenant.

Connally For Strong Navy To Assure Peace

"A strong navy is costly, but not as costly as a war," was the statement of Senator Tom Connally, but it appeared to be the feeling of practically the entire Senate as that body passed a Naval Appropriation bill recently by a vote of 63 to 4 which calls for the building of 19 fighting ships.

Senator Connally told the Senate that he had always been in favor of a strong navy. He said, "I think the United States should have the United States should have the flanked by two oceans, and the only way in which we can protect ourselves is by dominating those two oceans. A navy costs a great deal of money, but does not cost us as much as a war would cost us. I believe it is the duty of the American people to provide an incomparable navy, one which will have no superior on the sea, and I am prepared to vote the necessary funds."

"It is my belief that we cannot rely upon any one arm. We have to have a balanced fleet; and the basis of the fleet is the heavy battleship; then the fast cruisers, the cavalry of the sea; then the destroyers for more mobile equipment; then submarines; and finally, aircraft."

Speaking about our involvement in the war, Texas' Junior Senator said, "The United States is not going to become involved in the European war. The only way we could get in it would be by some foreign nation attacking us, and no foreign nation is going to attack us, especially if it knows we have a navy capable of meeting its navy and destroying it, and that is what we have."

James A. Stephens Announces For District Judge
Heale and hearty after successfully practicing law for nearly fifty years...

JAMES A. STEPHENS

are employed by persons or corporations they are covered by a bond to secure them and their folks for injuries caused by negligence...

Judge Newton knows the law, and knowing this the companies have paid rather than try these cases in his Court. In some counties the Courts are filled with such cases.

In Criminal Cases anyone can take pleas of guilty but there is a class of criminals that violate the law and where they find that a District is being presided over by a Judge that doesn't know the law they flock to his Court to deprade upon its citizens...

Judge Stephens was born on the old John Stephens ranch on Noland river in Johnson county that his father established in the 40's. An orphan at eight years of age, he came to Knox county in 1899 upon the suggestion and advice of a country school teacher in Johnson county who had inspired his ambition to become a lawyer...

Spanish until she married T. J. Boaz Jr. Mrs. Stephens died soon after the two girls finished their education. Marguerite, knowing that her father's ambition was to have a son to follow him in the practice of law...

JUDGE STEPHENS' GRANDSON

He is five years old and is an ideal of his mother. Judge Stephens has an ambition to round out his professional career by service on the bench because he can bring to the most important office in the gift of the people a ripe and successful experience as a lawyer...

been bestowed upon him. From the standpoint of health and endurance, Judge Stephens is a most remarkable man. While believing in doctors, clinics, drug stores and medicine when needed, during the past fifty years he has never had or consulted a physician or surgeon for himself or had a prescription filled at a drug store...

As a lawyer, Judge Stephens has few equals. Perhaps no lawyer in West Texas has tried a greater variety of cases. Many of these have involved new and novel questions requiring pioneering in the particular branch of the law under consideration. He has been connected with a vast number of celebrated cases and has been pitted against the learned and great lawyers of the State and has always been able to hold his hand against the best of them...

ward partisanship and bias and prejudice, which disqualify any lawyer for the office of District Judge. Early this year Judge Stephens signed and endorsed for Judge Newton an endorsement requesting that he again make the race and after he learned that Judge Newton had decided not to run he joined hundreds of others in trying to persuade the Judge to again make the race for the reason that the conditions that are now disturbing the entire country are such as require a District Judge with a mature mind; with State-wide acquaintances; and one that will be able to assist in any emergency that might arise by reason of the war in Europe...

The District Judge's office is one that should be filled by the best lawyer available and not by a "play boy". Judge Stephens wants all of the voters to know that he is not going to make any political speeches and he doesn't make that the office of District Judge is one in which speech making is an asset, and that he would not indulge in political harangue, nor exhibition of oratory because the office is not a speech making job. Judge Stephens thinks that the office of District Judge should be filled by one able to judicially determine the rights of the people to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; requires a lawyer of ripe experience and good judgment; of judicial temperament, one who is patient, painstaking and free from all political alignments, promises or obligations; one who has the ability to think and who has enough balance not to go off at a tangent. No lawyer of arbitrary disposition should ever be judge, nor one without an open mind; no one who is unwilling to patiently listen to proof or argument or citation of authorities; nor one who has pets or favorites. The importance of the office is evidenced by what is determined in a District Court, viz: the life, liberty and pursuit of happiness of the people, which involves their religious and political freedom, their freedom of speech and their most sacred property rights. Judge Stephens will not personally solicit any person's support as he would not have time to see every voter in the District and unless he could do that he would not attempt to make that kind of a campaign. He will appreciate everyone's help and he will not have any ill will for those who do not support him; it is just a position to be filled and the voter should use their best judgment. There is no office in the gift of the people that would cause him to neglect the humblest citizen, and therefore will be no difference in his greeting during this campaign than in years past nor years to come, neither will he change his personal habits, lest someone might remember Prov. 28:11.

TEXAS OUT-O-DOORS

Our Redoubt Latest Sport
Austin.—The campaign of the State Game Department to get sportsmen fishing for gar is bearing fruit. In fact, it is catching on at such a surprising rate that several cities are now planning gar swims, believe it or not. And gar fishing with a simple snook of No. 20 hair wire is propounded to be as sporting a proposition as you will find in Texas waters. Veteran bass fishermen have been known to desert that sport and go in for gar angling almost exclusively. Fishing with light tackle adds to the sport, but any kind of a line and pole, from a flyrod to a bamboo pole, can be used. The sport is not as simple as it sounds. The first time or two out the fisherman misses about five times as many gar as he catches. But when he gets the knack of jerking the nose around the gar's snout then he is really having fun. When you find a concentration of gar it isn't many minutes between bites, whether you catch gar or not. The Game Department is urging anglers to fish for gar, not only for the thrilling sport that is in it, but because every gar that is taken out of the water saves many game fish. A request to the Game Department, Austin, will bring a free leaflet detailing how to make the nose and how to fish for gar. Georgia Bream Fishing Good Reports are coming into the office of the State Game Department from various sections of the state concerning the excellent luck anglers are having fishing for those large red-eared bream, a fish which had been overlooked by most anglers before the Department started a campaign to acquaint piscators with the fun of catching them. The red-eareds often reach a length of 12 to 13 inches. You fish for them on the bottom of streams or lakes and the lighter the tackle used the more sport there is to it. Once for once, bream have more fighting ability than any fish found in Texas waters. Should the sportsmen of the state fish for gar and bream, of which there is an abundance of each, in sufficient numbers, the balance between game and rough fish could be restored in Texas. Snake Swallowed Big Catfish More evidence that snakes do cut into the supply of fish in Texas came to light recently when the Game Department was forwarded the stomach of a three-foot water snake. In the stomach was a 12-inch channel cat which weighed approximately a pound. Cooperation, Plus Raising and lowering of the water level in artificial lakes in Texas destroys millions of fish eggs each year. However, the West Texas Utilities Company co-operated during the last spawning season by holding the water in Lake Nasworthy near San Angelo at a regular level. This was done despite a ten-foot rise in one of the creeks running into the lake. Another company which has promised its co-operation along the same line next season is the Central Power and Light Company. It will maintain the water level on Lake Walk for a four or five month's period starting about January 1. Explodes Hunters' Theory Many hunters have always preached the theory that bearded hen turkeys should be killed because they do not raise young. That theory was exploded recently when a Game Department warden captain saw two heavily bearded hens with several young. One was seen with 13 young turkeys in the Kerville State Park and Bob Trevaunt of Galveston also witnessed the sight. The other bearded hen had eight young and was sighted near the south fork of the Guadalupe River. Feeding Turkey Saved Crop The feeding of wild turkeys by the Game Department last summer, when a drought hit part of the Hill Country and southwest Texas counties enabled those sections to carry through brood stock which would otherwise have perished, according to reports of game wardens to the Austin office. Range conditions are favorable almost everywhere this year, reports indicate, and deer, turkey and quail are doing well.

Typical Cowboy

Aug Holmberg, age 64, of Du-mont, foreman of the Tongue River SMS Ranch, was selected last year at the Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford as the most typical cowboy over 55 years of age. Holmberg has had just half a century of service with the far-fung Swenson ranches in West Texas. Entering upon his 51st year with the Swensons, he has the longest service record of any of the SMS employees. He plans to be at the Reunion at Stamford this year on July 2, 3 and 4. One of the coveted honors awarded at the Texas Cowboy Reunion each year is the title of "most typical cowboy." Two are selected—one under 55 years of age and one over 55—and prizes awarded each.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

"The melancholy days, the saddest of the year" are not in November, as the poet sings; they are now, as far as the unsuccessful pupil is concerned because this is the time for "summer school." I speak from bitter experience. Brownwood was the scene of my Waterloo. Arithmetic—more specifically, the multiplication table—was my downfall, so I spent four weeks in summer school while my fellows were out in bare-footed glory. I highly resolved then and there that I would never flank another subject and that was one resolution that was lived up to.

As a reward for my mastering 8 times 9 and 11 times 11 and all the rest, my father took me with him on a vacation. We rode the train to Bardy, which was then the end of the railroad. There we boarded a hack and, changing horses every 10 miles, rode to Menardville (as Menard was then called), a distance of 40 miles. Next morning we climbed into the mail-carrier's buggy and rode 22 miles to Fort McKavett.

The fort, a relic of frontier days, of course had ceased to exist as such, but the old buildings, strongly constructed with thick cool walls, housed the stores and the hotel, a rambling structure with wide, shade porch. The river was near and there were many adventures.

Oddly enough, the two individuals that are most vividly recalled through the mist of years were not boys but men. One was the owner of the hotel and he also was proprietor of the meat market. Once, maybe it was twice, a week, he

Annual Cowboy Reunion Will Be Three-Day Event

Opening with the grand parade on Tuesday, July 2, the eleventh annual Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford will have its big closing day on the Fourth of July. Improvements on grounds and buildings are under way and added features for the celebration which brings some 65,000 people to Stamford each year are being worked out.

The cowboy rodeo, in which actual ranch hands compete, will again be the outstanding entertainment feature. Cash prizes amounting to $2,300 will be awarded in addition to the championship prizes, consisting of five special made saddles.

Other entertainment features include the old fiddlers' contest at the Will Rogers Bankhouse, old-time dances at the Combes Round-Up Hall and sponsors' dances at the Reunion Pavilion.

Beginning this year, new emphasis will be placed on the livestock angle. Details are being worked out for a horse show which will likely feature three kinds of animals. Gaited horses will probably be included and these will perform in the arena as an added attraction in the rodeo program.

Breeding classes of the popular ranch type animal, known as the Quarter horse, will be included and also breeding classes of Palominos. One or more classes of steers are proposed. Total prize list in the livestock division will be about $1,000.

The Texas Cowboy Reunion Association, oldtime cowboys' organization, will hold its annual meeting and election of officers during the reunion. Lewis Ackers, Abilene ranchman, is serving his second year as president and will preside at sessions of the association.

made a trip to sell meat to the Mexicans in their scattered, thatched adobe huts and we would stop at one or two ranch houses for a cool drink of water and for a little visit. He was a big man and very strong, and made fun of anyone who got sick. One night, he awakened the entire hotel with his terrific groans—he wasn't dying, he just had a chill.

The other man was the cook. He had only one eye and was a Confederate veteran, with a bristling mustache. The chief component in everything he cooked (except, maybe, pies) was red pepper. His language, when he became angry, was even hotter than the seasoning of the food. Late one afternoon, I took the pitcher to the steel tank just outside the kitchen door but when I set the container on the rock slab under the faucet, the bottom broke out. I left the bottomless pitcher setting there and hurried to tell my father. He told me it was all right and I soon forgot the matter but it was recalled a little later as twilight had descended, when there came a burst of cussing and the old cook roared, "What in the h--- is the matter? I've been trying to fill this blankety-blank pitcher for 30 minutes and still it ain't full!"

Well-a-day, that was long, long ago. Maybe I'll re-visit Fort McKavett some of these times.

Do you know any older ones than these?

"I used to own a goat that didn't have any nose."—"How did he smell?"—"He smelled awful!" (So did that joke.)

A minister, delivering his farewell sermon before leaving to become chaplain in the penitentiary, took as his text, "I go to prepare a place for you."

After seeing a swimmer remain under water three minutes, a Scotchman bet he could beat that. He won the bet—he hasn't come up yet.

A Chinaman, walking through the woods, happened to glance back and a few yards behind was a bear, sniffing at the man's footprints and the Chinaman said, "You like my tracks, me make you some more."

After listening to a tramp tell how hungry he was, a Chinese cook asked, "You like fish?" and when the man said "Yes," the Chinaman said, "Come back Friday."

Which reminds you no doubt of the Irishman who went into a cafe on Friday, very hungry, and asked the waiter, "Do you have any shark steak?" to which the waiter said "No." The Irishman asked, "Do you have any roast whale?" and again the answer was "No." Then the Irishman said, "Bring me a big, thick beefsteak—Lord knows I asked for fish."

One story leads to another; and this one is about the Jew who went into a restaurant and he smelled pork chops frying, so he ordered one. The day had been bright when he entered the place but as he went out, a flash of lightning and a heavy clap of thunder came. He jumped and said, "All that fuss about one little pork chop."

In many lands today, mothers are forced to give up their children—even the youngest. Dictators demand them—and dictators are all powerful. In peace as in war, they control business and industry, capital and labor, life itself. Men and women are told what work they must do. There is no prize for ambition, no hope for the man who would like to choose his own career.

How different it is in the United States! Here, governed by men responsible to the people, we choose our life-work for ourselves. This system of free enterprise makes the United States the world's greatest nation. Because men are free to dream and work as they see fit, scores of industries have grown great in America; the automobile, radio, telephone and electrical industries are just a few.

As typical Americans, the employees of your electric company are devoted to the American principle of working together, producing more of the good things of life and making them available to more people. Through their efforts electric service steadily improves; at the same time, its price steadily comes down.

Who inspires the people of your electric company? The best answer is this: the employees of this company are proud of their part in keeping America great. They work as free men to bring better service and value to other free men. They are glad to create wealth instead of destroying it.

This company has been built by free Americans. It is built to serve other free Americans. It is free from political dictation. Like all industry, it will succeed as long as there are free Americans to work for it and free Americans for it to work for.
