'Long and Short' of GM Guns

Farm Labor Program Aimed at Reducing Shortage Of Labor

Local needs will determine Knox county's participation in a new farm labor program aimed at reducing the manpower shortage which threatens success of the 1943 food production program, County Agricultural Agent R. O. Dunkle said following his return from a conference held May 13, 14, 1943, at Fort Worth. Lucille King, the county home demonstration agent, also attended the meeting.

County plans for registration and placement of farm labor will be worked out by local farm men and women who are members of the county Agricultural Victory Council, R. O. Dunkle said. Members of the council executive and labor sub-committees likely will be called in to discuss the new program.

At the Ft. Worth conference, county workers of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service learned that the college recently had agreed to accept supervision of the program upon the request of Chester C. Davis, War Food Administrator. Funds for conducting the program in Texas will be apportioned to the college under legislation recently enacted by the 78th Congress. The agreement between the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service and the office of the National Food Administrator relates only to the recruiting and placement of farm labor within the State and the various counties and does not apply to the movement of farm labor across international boundaries or state lines.

"We realize that farmers and ranchers in Texas will not be able to obtain the quantity and quality of labor to which they are accustomed, but we hope to be able to help them get enough workers to prevent the wasting of crops in the field and the dispersal of livestock," the county agricultural agent said.

In some counties where the need justifies and it is desired by farmers, town and city boys and girls will be recruited for emergency work as Victory Farm Volunteers on the farms.

R. O. Dunkle quoted Lt. Col. Jay L. Taylor, Texas rancher and deputy War Food Administrator, as saying that "ninety-nine per cent of this program will be carried on in the county and one per cent in Washington."

"The long hours and hard work of families now on Texas farms and ranches indicate their patriotism," local Extension workers said, and the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service accepts its new war-time assignment with the hope that it may bring some measure of relief to the people who are working to produce more food and feed than ever before.

Miss Madge Stanford of Paducah, deputy state superintendent for district three, was in the county last week, completing her check of the state aid schools. Her work with the local schools was completed on Friday, and she had one more county to check before returning to the State Department of Education at Austin.

Miss Stanford succeeds Jim Jernigan for this district. Mr. Jernigan has entered the armed service.

Maj. Walter Rice And Family Here To Visit Friends

Walter W. Rice, former county agent of Knox county, came in the latter part of last week, accompanied by Mrs. Rice and little daughter, for several days visit with friends in this county. They have been visiting with friends in various parts of the county.

Walter is wearing the insignia of a major now, and is stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss. He held a commission in the U. S. Reserves and was called into the service at a second lieutenant, giving up his position as county agent here to enter the service. He has received several advancements since entering the service.

Major Rice stated that his present commission was received a little over a month ago. He is with the field artillery at Camp Shelby.

The Rice family is thoroughly enjoying this leave of absence and their contacts with many friends in Knox county. Walter feels, however, that a move is forthcoming when he reports for duty again—with the likelihood of this move being to foreign duty.

Dairy Show To Be Held In Fall

G. S. Dowell, vocational agriculture instructor, announced this week that the Dairy Projects Show has now been postponed until in the fall, possibly in early October.

Inclement weather made it advisable for the show to be postponed on two occasions. It was first set for Saturday, May 8, and was postponed a week because of the cold, damp weather. Last Saturday again found weather conditions unfavorable, and again the show was postponed.

The fall show will be expanded, Mr. Dowell said, to take in a number of agricultural products. It is likely, too, that more dairy cattle will be shown next fall than would have been possible if the show had been held at this time.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Down in the Solomons and on the African coasts the Crocodile Boat or tank lighter played a most important role in landing our invasion armies. These self-propelled, light, fast boats haul tanks, artillery and other equipment from the big ships off-shore to the beach heads.

We need more and more of them, for they are essential to the successful operation of the war. They are made in several sizes from small fifty-footers, costing about $2,400 to the big 500-tonners costing around $37,000. Your purchase of War Bonds every payday will help pay for them. U. S. Rhineland and Hefner Are Hard Hit By Heavy Hail

A heavy hail which went through roofs of houses, broke out window lights and damaged automobiles almost completely destroyed many crops in the Rhineland and Hefner communities last Monday afternoon.

The hail came around eight o'clock from a cloud which seemed to move northeastward. Many crops southwest of Rhineland, including some wheat which would have been harvested within the next few weeks were completely destroyed.

A number of farmers in the Hefner community also reported heavy damage, while others received only a small portion of hail. Still others reported around 50 per cent damage.

Of over 100 window lights on the north side of Rhineland's school building, only seven remained after the hail, it was reported. Stones as large as the average orange fell, damaging practically every building in Rhineland.

The hail started some three or four miles southwest of Rhineland, and it was estimated a strip about two miles wide and five or six miles long had crops almost completely destroyed. Many farmers reported chickens that were caught out in the storm were killed, while a number of dead rabbits and other small animals were killed. This was one of the most destructive hails to visit the county in some time.

Those in the damaged section are already making plans for replanting as soon as the weather clears and the ground is dry enough for plowing.

Rubber Welders Has New Owner

Don L. Ratliff, operator of the Magnolia Service Station, announced this week that he has purchased the interest of James W. McMorries in the O. K. Rubber Welders and took over active management the first of this week.

Mr. Ratliff stated the same high class repairing and re-capping work would be turned out, with all work fully guaranteed to give satisfaction. He solicits the continued patronage of all motorists and said the quickest tire service possible would be rendered.

The shop will continue in operation in its present location, in the rear of Reid's Hardware building. Mr. McMorries will remain in Munday for a while, after which he plans to open a tire re-capping shop in Stanton, Texas.

Strickland Opens Radio Repair Shop

Melvin Strickland, well known radio repairman, has opened a radio repair shop in the building formerly occupied by the H. D. Warren Gulf Station.

Melvin is equipped to do all types of radio repair work, and he invites the public to bring their crippled radios to him for repairs. Expert repair work and prompt service will be given at all times. Melvin plans to add more equipment from time to time so his shop will be one of the best equipped in this section.

Sgt. Detroy Trammell of Lubbock spent several days here this week, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trammell, and with other relatives and friends.

EVERY DRIVER CAN HELP

KEEP 'EM ROLLING

WAR 1943 style, is war on wheels. Men, weapons and materials vital to victory must be moved swiftly, safely and without delay.

But each day accidents at grade crossings in America injure or kill 19 motorists and delay 38 trains a total of 22 hours—a drain on manpower and time that a nation at war simply cannot afford.

Will you, as a patriotic driver, enlist in the nationwide campaign now under way to stop these accidents? Here's how you can help:

1. Be extra careful—warrant careful—in all your driving.
2. Be especially alert when approaching a grade crossing.
3. Be sure the way is clear before you cross the tracks.
4. LOOK, LISTEN and LIVE!

Help keep 'em rolling for victory!

INDUSTRY CUTS WAR COST 2 1-2 BILLION

"Price reductions" on war contracts, refunds by contractors, and miscellaneous recoveries effected through renegotiation of contracts between April 28, 1942, and March 31, 1943, amounted to $2,539,000,000, according to a report of the War and Navy Departments and the Maritime Commission.

The agencies, making a joint announcement through the OWI, said that $995,100,000 of the total represents actual refunds by contractors and $1,583,900,000 represents reductions in contract prices.

"Through the productive genius of American management and labor," these "price reductions are being effected voluntarily by business through the contracting officers in the renegotiating agencies of the services," the announcement stated.

To indicate the savings to the government these agencies included the following in a long list of war materials and equipment:

	Price Reduction
Bomber airframes	32 per cent
Fighter airframes	14 per cent
Automatic pilots	24 per cent
Human parachutes (assembly)	22 per cent
Generators	17 per cent
Sulphadiazine	48 per cent
75-mm. tank guns	28 per cent
20-mm. anti-aircraft cannon	34 per cent
50 calibre anti-airc. mac. guns	30 per cent
105-mm. H.E. shells	22 per cent
Steering gear	25 per cent

These remarkable savings in production costs are evidence not only of the success of American industry in reducing unit costs through mass production but also of the sincere efforts of the industrialists to reduce to a minimum the financial burden of the war upon the American people.

INCENTIVE—THE MAINSPRING

In a recent speech in which he lauded labor and management for their war record, Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said that the American way of life perform miracles as great in peace as it is now performing in war if the incentive of freedom for unlimited accomplishment is permitted to operate.

"If we tell men that they may earn just so much and no more," Mr. Schram said, "if we develop the suspicion that large earnings are socially uncouth, if we advance farther in taking from the prudent and productive to maintain the improvident and the indolent, if we teach that idleness is a virtue and work is a curse, if we cultivate jealousy toward the successful, and if we encourage those who fail to remain failures, we shall weaken the moral fiber of our people and the American way of life will decay."

"What we Americans want is production to create an ever rising standard of living. Our wants and our ambitions are unlimited," he said and we support the profit motive in that we are willing to "reward without limit those who give us what we want."

This profit incentive, so long under attack, "an elemental instinct of American life," Mr. Schram maintained. "It is as firmly imbedded in the laborer and in the small business man as in the great industrialist. Without it, our enterprise loses its mainspring. . . . So long as we have free enterprise and private property—so long as we do not become a socialistic or a communistic state—we must have profits and the profit incentive."

"In the postwar world, our government will have to nourish, rather than merely tolerate, the profit motive," he said. "And I have no doubt that it will do so."

FARMERS FED UP

Many large dairies have gone out of business. More and more is the nation having to rely for its food on the family farm where the members get up in the early hours, milk the cows, tend to the farming during the day, milk the cows at night, and at a late hour call it a day, go to bed, and get up to do the job all over again, seven days a week.

If the farmer worked the short hours and received the high pay of workers in war industries who are constantly striking for even higher wages, those workers would probably be paying a dollar a quart for milk.

Nature's requirements on the farm recognize no artificial production limitations and slow-down sabotage.

There are two good places to put strikers today—in the Army and on the farms. They would then get an idea of what real work is.

MAGNIFICENT EFFORT

Contrary to the expectations of the dopsters, and fortunately for the country, private enterprise has not proceeded to lie down and have its carcass trampled into the dust by total war. It has shown a toughness and resiliency that fully demonstrate its competence to assume the burdens, whatever they may be, of the post-war era.

The retail distribution industry is a perfect example of the capabilities of private enterprise. Early in the war peremptory retail price ceilings, which often were out of line with wholesale prices, squeezed profit margins perilously thin. These were followed by shortages and rationing. Presently the merchants became the official dispensers of government mandates as well as food and clothing. If the government decrees one can of beans a month per person, it is up to the merchant to keep consumers content with one can. He must also figure out how to keep his business going with no beans to sell.

How he manages to do it was recently described by the Wall Street Journal: "Magazine racks are showing up alongside the vegetable bins. Stacks of cook books are piled high on counters, giving housewives new ideas for ration menus. Space saved by diminished supplies of canned goods become a 'drug' department filled with vitamin pills, toothpaste, cosmetics and various non-prescription items."

The public can be thankful that the will to live is a dominant characteristic of retailing. Every store that manages to stay in business means just that much less wear and tear on transport facilities caused by consumers getting to and from shopping centers, to say nothing of time saved to the war effort. Of even greater significance, is the fact that in normal times the retail distribution industry is a heavy employer. When the war is over, the nation will sorely need every available source of private employment. Preservation of a strong framework upon which to rebuild normal operation, should be the effort of every industry today. The distribution industry is making the effort magnificently.

NEVER TOO LITTLE OR TOO LATE

The people have been so busy listening to political attacks on the electric light and power industry for many years past that some remarkable facts in connection with it have gone almost unnoticed.

For example, while wages have advanced to record highs since 1933 and living costs have jumped in proportion, the price of electricity has actually dropped 22 per cent in that period. There has been no rationing or shortage of electric power, as there has been of other commodities, in territories served by this outstanding private enterprise.

Commenting on this remarkable record, J. A. Krug, director, Office of War Utilities War Production Board, said: "Power men, public and private, should be proud of the job that has been done in providing power supply. Power has never been too little or too late. There is today no shortage of power. This is in sharp contrast to the situation as to many other vital necessities. The job has been done with the minimum possible interference with the rest of the war program."

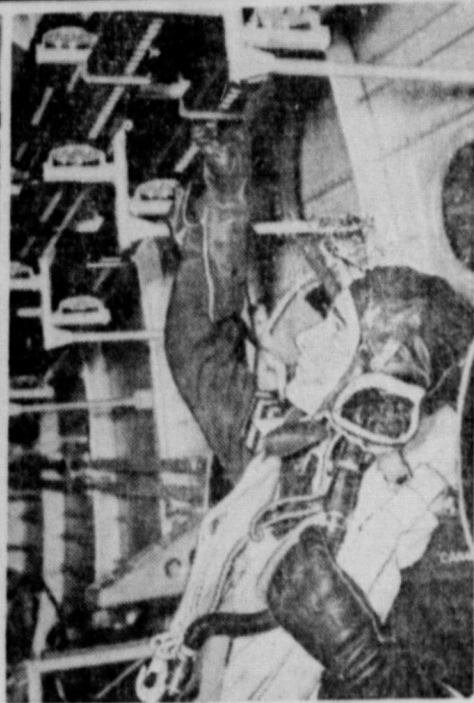

"At the end of this war American business will have its greatest opportunity to help put the better world for which we are now fighting on the healthy economic basis which will keep it better."—Paul G. Hoffman.

Recently Royal Canadian Air Force bombers were over Germany every night for a week and the squadrons of R.C.A.F. bomber group formed at the New Year are hitting their full stride. Broad, careful planning and a terrific amount of detail, in which everyone from the Air Vice-Marshal down to the lowest ranking rigger bears a share, are essential to the success of these nightly missions.

The "old reliable" of the raids on Germany is the twin-engineered Wellington, dubbed "Wimpy" by the Canadians who fly them. In addition the Canadian bomber squadrons are flying the big four-engineered Halifax bombers which can carry an 8,000-pound bomb load to Germany.

Gems Of Thought

VAIN AND TRUE GLORY

It is not to be imagined in how many ways vanity defeats its own purpose.—Lord Chesterfield.

The vain-glory of this world is a deceitful sweetness, a fruitless labor, a perpetual fear, a dangerous honor; her beginning is without repentance.—Quarles.

Remember that human pride forfeits spiritual power, and either vacillating good or self-assertive error dies of its own elements.—Mary Baker Eddy.

True glory takes deep root and spreads its branches wide; but all pretenses soon fall to the ground like fragile flowers, and nothing counterfeit can be lasting.—Cicero.

Applause waits on success; the fickle multitude, like the light straw that floats along the stream, glides with the current still, and follows fortune.—Franklin.

The glory of good men is in their conscience and not in the mouths of men.—Thomas A. Kempis.

Mrs. Carl Tyree of Amarillo spent the week end here visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Nelson, and with other relatives.

Word was received this week from Mrs. John R. Rayburn that her husband has been transferred from Camp Shelby, Miss., to Fort McClellan, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Lee of Fort Worth visited with relatives and friends here over the week end.

Know The Value Of A Good Cow

AUSTIN—Every farmer in Texas should be brought to realize the value of a good cow, M. E. McMurray, manager of the Texas Dairy Products Association, Fort Worth, declared here recently.

McMurray addressed the Texas Statistical Council, meeting at the University of Texas, on "What Is Taking Place within the Dairy Industry."

He deplored the fact that a few years ago there were 125,000 farms in Texas without a single cow, and that Texas ranks 42nd among the 48 states in the production of milk.

Requirements of the government for milk and dairy products for the armed forces has thrown a heavy burden on the dairy industry, he pointed out, but so far every quota set up by the government has been met by the industry.

"In 1942 the industry produced 119,240,000,000 (billions) pounds of dairy products, a vast increase over 1941," he said. "In 1943 we are going to have to increase production over 1942, and if the war keeps on we don't know how much greater increases will still be necessary."

Already under consideration are plans to ration milk as well as manufactured dairy products, he said, probably confining milk consumption to infants, growing children, and hospitals among civilians.

McMurray expressed appreciation of his association and of the dairy industry generally for the statistical records collected and compiled by the University Bureau of Business Research, which he said were constantly used by the industry in planning and carrying out its operations.

Lieut. and Mrs. W. R. Moore, Jr., left last Monday on their return to Augusta, Ga., where Lieut. Moore is stationed, after spending a leave of absence visiting with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Moore of Munday and Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Farmer of Knox City.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Haney and daughter, Laverne, of Wichita Falls spent last Sunday here with Mr. Haney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Haney, and with other relatives and friends.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, M.D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN — With the advent of summer and the ensuing exodus from city to country resorts and picnic spots the annual problem of ivy poisoning is once more making its appearance.

In order that city dwellers may guard against this poisonous plant by instant recognition of it, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, has issued the following statement: "Poison ivy may be best recognized by its leaves and its fruit. Each leaf is divided into three leaflets, the margins of which vary from smooth to more or less notched outlines. The small greenish flowers appear in May or June and the fruits which are the size of a small pea are pale green and poisonous when immature."

The symptoms of ivy poisoning range from slight redness and itching to exaggerated swelling and blistering, accompanied by severe burning sensations. There are all gradations between these extremes. In mild cases the skin is covered by numerous small blisters containing a colorless serum which is not poisonous. The poison cannot spread from broken blisters but pustules may form and infections may result as secondary consequence. Recovery usually occurs in from 10 days to three weeks. Occasionally a persistent skin inflammation follows.

"The best prevention is to recognize the poison ivy plant and stay away from it," Dr. Cox said. "The victim of ivy poisoning may not be fatally infected, but to say the least, the attendant discomfort and disability is far from pleasant and well worth avoiding."

Jack Idol and son of Benjamin, accompanied by Major Walter W. Rice and little daughter of Camp Shelby, Miss., visited with friends here last Friday.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

AAA NEWS

By MARVIN ALLEN, Administrative Officer
Knox County Agricultural Conservation Association

In passing the legislation under which the farm program has been developed, it was the purpose of Congress to preserve and improve our soil fertility, to promote the economic use and conservation of land, to reestablish parity purchasing power for persons on farms, to protect the interests of both producers and consumers, and to contribute to the national welfare; and, I might add, to enable farmers in time of war to make their maximum contribution in the war effort.

The program from time to time has been modified to meet changing conditions and emergencies. One of the fundamental principles of the farm program has been to stress the production of commodities in greatest demand.

Cooperation in the program has been conditioned on meeting certain requirements, which have been varied from time to time. For example, in 1942 payments on basic crops such as cotton and wheat were conditioned among other things on having a certain percentage of the land devoted to soil-conserving crops. This itself was a war measure.

Under the impetus of war, it has now become necessary to use all the facilities and devices at hand to increase the production of certain crops, designated as war crops, for which the need is greatly in excess of the supply. As one means of accomplishing increased production, much consideration was given to a plan for shifting all payments from cotton and other basic commodities to designated war crops. However, an alternative method was finally adopted. It was decided to continue commodity payments under the 1943 program on cotton, wheat, and other special crops, but to condition such payments on meeting 90 per cent of the war crop goal.

Principal war crops in Knox county are: soybeans for beans, peanuts, and grain sorghums. Under the provisions of the 1943 program, announced December 1, 1942, a deduction of $15 an acre is to be made from the special crop payments (but not from the soil-building practice payments) for each acre by which the farmer fails to grow 90 per cent of the war crop goal for the farm. This in reality is not a penalty, but is a condition for receiving a full payment. So long as special crop payments are made, it would seem that payment deductions are justified as a means of stimulating war crop production.

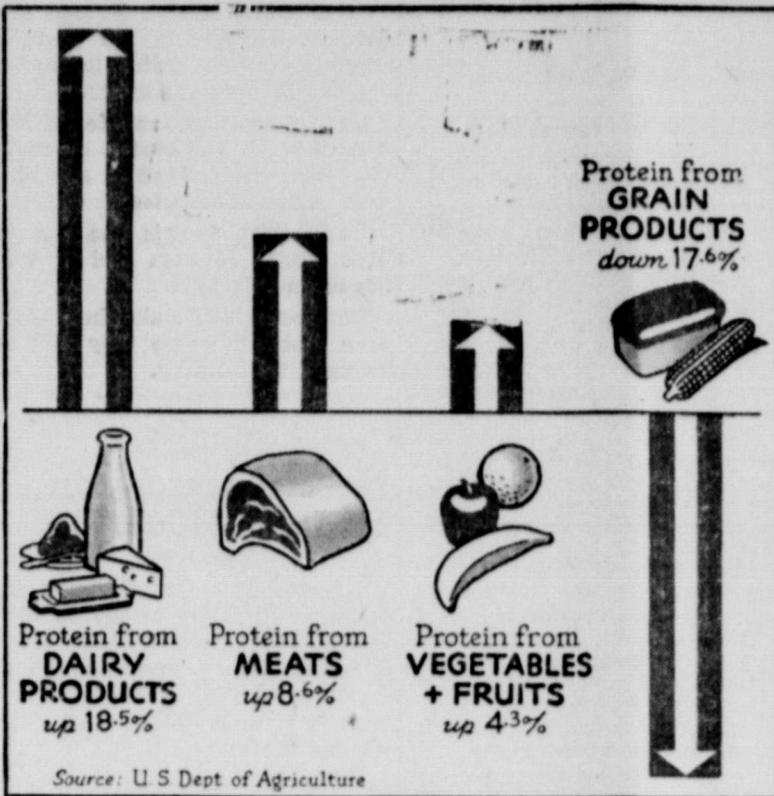

The national war crop goals are determined on the basis of urgent national needs. These national goals are prorated to States after taking into consideration all of the factors, including land, labor, and adaptability of the various war crops. The State war crop acreage goals are in turn distributed by the State War Boards to counties, and the county war crop goals are distributed by county committees to farms in the counties. Final approved war crop goals were sent to all producers this week.

Naturally, war crop acreage goals vary from farm to farm, from county to county, and from State to State. However, the goal for each State, each county and each farm is only its fair share of the national goal. If each national goal will not be met, and the Nation will be short on some critically needed crops.

Possibly some of us don't quite realize that while total farm production was much larger in 1942 than in any previous year, we are still running into some shortages from time to time because of greatly increased domestic consumption, as well as increased needs for our Armed Forces and our Allies.

We all are proud of the contribution farmers have made and are making to the war effort, we are gratified that the greatest increases in 1942 were in the com-

CHANGING FOOD HABITS IMPROVE FOOD SELECTION

Milk and its products are gaining steadily in favor as a source of protein in the American diet. United States Department of Agriculture statistics analyzed by the National Dairy Council show that the amount of protein supplied by dairy products for human consumption increased 18.5 per cent from 1929 to 1941. Intake of protein from meats increased 8.6 per cent and from all vegetables and fruits only 4.3 per cent.

Most of these gains were made at the expense of grain products. Protein consumed in the form of grain decreased 17.6 per cent. Since the protein of milk, ice cream and cheese is of the highest quality, these changes are of particular importance in this wartime period. An adequate amount of high quality protein is essential in the formation and repair of all living tissues—muscles, skin and blood. An inadequate supply of such protein may result in a breakdown in human tissues more serious than ordinarily caused by vitamin deficiencies. Dairy products contribute to maximum health and efficiency and become increasingly important when other important sources of protein are less available for civilian consumption.

modities we needed most. I am confident every Knox county farmer is going to do his part in the national effort again this year.

Praises Work In Second War Loan Drive

The persuasive power of a free press in influencing the ideas, attitudes and actions of free Americans has never been more clearly demonstrated than in the 2nd War Loan. In this single drive our government needed to raise $13 billion of extra money to finance a part of our "survive or perish war." It hoped that at least $13 Billion could be raised in this drive; and that of this total at least $8 Billion would be invested by non-bank investors.

When the last sale had been recorded it was found that Americans had purchased more than $18 Billion in 18 working days—MORE THAN ONE BILLION DOLLARS PER DAY—and that more than $13 Billion had been bought by individuals, corporations, and other non-bank buyers. Non-bank investors had bought more War Bonds than our own government hoped all investors would buy.

In the 311 counties of the Eleventh Federal Reserve District—comprising all of Texas and parts of Louisiana, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona—War Bond sales totaled $577,228,000, exceeding the district's $400 million goal by more than $177 Million or 44 per cent; and, of this total, non-bank investors bought $349,025,000, exceeding the non-bank goal of $200 Million by more than $149 Million or 75 per cent.

Characterizing the tremendous over-subscription to the drive as "the most successful money-raising campaign ever conducted in the U. S. A. or anywhere else," Mr. R. R. Gilbert, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas and chairman of the War Finance Committee of the district, said the unprecedented over-subscription by non-bank investors made the drive "a great victory on the financial front almost as vital as a great victory on the military front." He said, "it helps us to win at home as well as abroad and at the same time helps us to assure ourselves and our fighting sons that a firm financial foundation is preserved for the terrific reconstruction job in the days of peace to come."

"A large share of the credit for making Americans aware of the need for putting their money directly to work in War Bonds as a means of combating inflation, must go to our newspapers," Mr. Gilbert said. "In the 2nd War Loan drive they (the newspapers) not only conducted a sustained educational campaign in their editorials, news columns and in advertisements sponsored and paid for at their solicitation by public-spirited advertisers, but they also explained the need for non-bank investment so clearly and in such detail that the advertising, publicity and saleswork of volunteer salespeople, radio stations, poster-advertising, motion picture theatres and every other sales auxiliary was made most effective."

As a result of the excellent publicity and sales campaign conducted in the district, Mr. Gilbert reported that according to U. S. Treasury latest figures sales to individuals, partnerships and personal trust accounts exceeded the district's goal for these buyers by 99 per cent, giving the Dallas district first place among all 12 Federal Reserve Districts in percentage of sales made to these types of buyers in excess of goal.

WHEN SHORT OF MEAT — EXTEND WITH WHEAT

"Now, Alice, don't tell me you're going to make two pounds of meat out of one like you did with the butter last week? I'm not so sure I'll like my meat that way."

"No, Henry, I'm not going to double the amount of meat but I am going to make our meat go further, and I'll guarantee you'll like it!"

Extending meat is not a new idea devised for wartime when meat is scarce. Smart, thrifty women have always known how to make meat go further by combining it with other foods to make perfectly delicious dishes. Now, when it becomes important and even necessary to make the available meat go further, it's well to revive some of these good foods which haven't appeared frequently on many American dinner tables and make them better than ever before. Here are just a few from which to choose:

Meat Pie—(biscuit topped)	Curried Lamb on Rice
Brown Stew with Fluffy Dumplings	Tamale Pie with Cornmeal
Braised Beef with Noodles	Veal Birds with Stuffing
Meat Balls in Tomato Sauce	Macaroni and Cheese with Thuringer Sausage
Spanish Rice	Scrapple, cut and fried
Pigs in Blankets (franks wrapped in biscuit dough and baked)	Meat Shortcakes with Gravy

Gravy is one of the best ways of extending meat flavor—so much of the meat flavor is in the drippings. That's where a lot of the minerals and vitamins are too, so don't let any drippings go to waste. It's also important to extend meat nutritionally, with foods which contain some of the same food values as meat. Meat has been one of our most important protein foods. It has also supplied important amounts of iron, niacin, riboflavin, thiamine, copper and phosphorus.

Now, cereal foods—those of whole grain, enriched or restored—can be called on to furnish an important share of the protein we need, also the iron, thiamine, niacin and in some cases riboflavin and phosphorus.

So—when short of meat, extend with wheat. The equal amounts of ready-to-eat whole wheat cereal and milk proteins are as valuable as an equivalent amount of meat proteins. Here's a different meat loaf made with these crisp whole wheat flakes. Besides extending the meat, they give added taste appeal—a nutty, whole wheat flavor.

1 lb. ground beef	1 small onion, chopped
1/4 lb. ground pork	1 tsp. catsup
1 cup whole wheat flakes	1 1/2 tsp. salt
1 egg, beaten	1/2 tsp. pepper
1 cup milk	1 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. horseradish	3 tsp. catsup for topping

Mix together all ingredients, except the 3 tsp. catsup. Pack into well greased 8 by 4 inch loaf pan (2 1/2 inches deep). Spread the 3 tsp. catsup over the top. Bake for about 1 1/4 hours in a quick moderate oven (375° F.).

Munday Sends 20,000 Camels To Men In Service

As a result of recent contributions from merchants and friends in Munday, men in the U. S. armed forces overseas will enjoy the pleasure of smoking 20,000 Camel cigarettes. There are a number of Knox county boys in foreign service, and it is likely that they will enjoy a portion of this gift from the folks at home.

In a letter to R. B. Davy recently, the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company acknowledges receipt of this order. The letter is as follows:

Dear Mr. Davy:
We are pleased to advise that a shipment of 20 M Camels is being made through Special Service Office, Port of Embarkation, in accordance with order you kindly placed with our representative.

Entirely aside from the pleasure men at the front will derive from smoking the Camels you are responsible for sending, there is another thing that is of major importance. This is the fact that the men who receive these cigarettes will get a real thrill out of knowing by this practical gift the folks back home are thinking of them.

We are happy to cooperate with you in this good cause and assure you we appreciate your selection of Camels. It is a matter of pride with us that Camels are the favorite with the men in the Service. Our facilities are at your command at any time.

Yours very truly,
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

Frills Banned For Deliveries Of Petroleum

Elimination of many peacetime frills from the services of petroleum tanks engaged in local deliveries and establishment of minimum quantities for motor fuel deliveries were ordered today by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Intended to enable local distributors of petroleum products to continue essential services in the face of rubber and manpower shortages and other wartime problems, the action was taken through a general order, General Order ODT 37, drawn up by officials of the ODT. It will become effective June 1.

Most of the provisions of the order are based on reports and suggestions submitted by industry representatives who make up ODT-S State Petroleum Transport Advisory Committees on local delivery.

The order prescribed minimum quantities for motor fuel deliveries by tank truck to retail outlets, such as gasoline stations, and to farms and other ultimate consumers. The effect of the minimum-drop provisions is limited largely to automotive gasoline. Rationing uncertainties, Mr. Eastman explained, make it undesirable for the present, at least, to apply minimum-delivery requirements to fuel oil.

In general, deliveries of motor fuel by tank truck must be at least 60 per cent of the storage capacity currently being used by the receiver for the particular grade and brand delivered. To ultimate consumers, however, no delivery of motor fuel may be less than 150 gallons, except those to farms, to which may be delivered any quantity of 25 gallons or more which constitutes 60 per cent of the tank capacity or which fills the storage receptacle.

The order further provides that in the delivery to farms of several kinds of petroleum products aggregating at least 50 gallons, no minimum-drop requirements will apply to any one product. Moreover, in no instance may a single delivery of more than 150 gallons of motor fuel to a farm be required. Mr. Eastman urged, however, that farmers, as well as other consumers of liquid fuel, accept deliveries in such quantities as will minimize the use of transportation facilities.

Allowance is made by the order for instances in which deliveries are made by tank truck compartments.

An exception to the minimum-drop requirements authorizes the operator to deliver any quantity which completes the emptying of his tank truck. Moreover, while making a permitted delivery he may deliver to the same point any quantity of another grade or brand carried in the same truck at the same time.

With certain specific exceptions the order prohibits call backs and the use of tank trucks for any purpose but petroleum deliveries and requires that less-than-truckload deliveries of motor fuel or fuel oil must be dispatched as a part of a full load and "routed in a manner that will best conserve mileage and time."

Under the terms of the order, no operator may be required to "make any less-than-truckload delivery of motor fuel or fuel oil by tank truck within less than 48 hours of receipt of the order." Commenting on this provision, Mr. Eastman appealed to purchasers to cooperate by refraining from demanding such quick service, in order that distributors may improve planning and routing to save rubber, gasoline, manpower, and equipment.

The order forbids the transportation or delivery of motor fuel for transfer directly from a tank truck into the fuel tank of any automotive equipment or vehicle. Specifically exempted from this provision, however, are deliveries of 25 gallons or more into the tanks of farm machinery and deliveries made by a bulk consumer or farm operator into the tank of any piece of equipment used by him.

Specifically exempted from the restrictions of the Order are:

1. Tank trucks operated under the direction of the war shipping administration, the maritime commission, or the armed forces, and deliveries made to those agencies.
2. Deliveries made in emergencies, exclusively for the protection or preservation of life, health or public safety.

Exemptions from the minimum-drop requirements are provided for instances in which compliance would conflict with new inventory restrictions or, as the result of a supply shortage, would cause discrimination among the seller's customers.

The provisions of the order also are subject to "any special or general permit issued by the office of defense transportation to meet specific needs or exceptional circumstances or to prevent undue hardship."

Copies of the general order may be obtained from the local field offices of the ODT Division of Motor Transport.

Alfred Hendrix Now In Training As Bombardier

The following is a letter to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hendrix, informing them that their son, Alfred F. Hendrix, has been selected for training as a bombardier:

Headquarters
Santa Ana Army Air Base,
Santa Ana, Calif.

April 28, 1943.

Dear Mr. Hendrix:

The classification board has informed me that your son, Alfred F. Hendrix, is qualified and has been selected for training as a Bombardier in the Army Air Forces. I congratulate both you and him upon this achievement.

In order to be selected for this most important training, it is impressive that an individual possesses very definite qualifications.

His character, integrity and trustworthiness must be unimpeachable as he is one of the few entrusted with the carefully guarded secrets of the famous U. S. bombsight. The work of a Bombardier requires the highest degree of coordination between a keenly alert mind and a sound body. The success of every mission is dependent upon his precision and skill.

Your son will soon be assigned to a West Coast Army Air Forces Training Center bombardier school for a very intensive course of instruction. Upon the successful completion of this course, he will be awarded his Wings and rating as a qualified Bombardier.

It is my hope that you will derive great satisfaction from the selection of your son for training in this important duty and that his future career in the Army Air Forces will be one of continuing success and service.

Sincerely yours,
W. A. Robertson,
Colonel, Army Air Forces,
Commanding.

Canning?

HERE'S HOW TO HANDLE YOUR MODERN Gas RANGE

ARE YOU TAKING EXTRA CARE of your Gas Range, to make it feed your family till we win this war? If it's a modern automatic, it can serve with a flourish for years and years (war or no war), if it has good care.

1. Don't burn out the oven enamel with prolonged high heat. (Only a few oven dishes call for high heat; and roast meat tastes much better with a definitely LOW heat).
2. In canning jars of food in the oven, don't prop heavy loads on the open door; it might warp the door.
3. Notice the jar-pan in photograph below.
4. In canning on the top burners, handling pressure cooker, water bath, or open kettle, do not set anything hot or wet directly on the enamel spaces. Use cork mats, or asbestos mats.
5. If anything drips on the range, wipe it off immediately with a DRY cloth. (The damp cloth comes later when the range has cooled).
6. Your low-cost natural gas is very rich in heat units, so that a little of it goes a long way. But use it wisely; do not waste it.

Shallow pan protects the oven floor, in case of boil-overs

Jesse E. Medley Dies In Crash of Training Plane

Was Brother Of Mrs. A. B. Warren, Fomer Munday Citizen

Jesse E. Medley 22, civilian instructor at Curtis Flying Field, Brady, and the son of Mrs. J. W. Medley of Haskell, was killed in a plane crash 12 miles west of Brady on Tuesday morning, May 11, while on a routine training flight. Also killed in the crash was Aviation Cadet William H. Wardell, 26, of Alameda, Calif. No particulars concerning the tragedy were given, but both occupants of the plane were killed instantly.

Mr. Medley, brother of Mrs. A. B. Warren, former employee of The Fair Store here, was a native of Haskell county, having been born and reared at Weinert. He graduated from Haskell high school in 1929, and several years later moved to Santa Rosa, N. M., where he had been engaged in business for eight years before going to Curtis Field as an instructor several months ago. In civilian life he had been licensed as a private flier for some time.

In addition to his mother, Mr. Medley is survived by his widow, who was making her home in Brady with him; two brothers and four sisters; Walter and Manuel Medley, both of Santa Rosa; Mrs. A. B. Warren of Oakland, Calif.; Mrs. Ed Hester of Haskell; Mrs. Inez Brown of Alexander, La.,

and Miss Elizabeth Medley of Washington, D. C.

Funeral services for Mr. Medley were held at the First Methodist church in Haskell last Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Pickens, Methodist minister of Shamrock. Following the Haskell service, the body was carried to Santa Rosa, N. M., where final rites were held, with interment in the Santa Rosa cemetery.

Mrs. B. L. Blacklock, who underwent a major operation at the Knox county hospital about two weeks ago, was returned to her home here last Saturday. She is reported to be doing nicely and will be able to be up again soon.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

by BOYCE HOUSE

Running for office—even when you don't win—has its bright side. One of the treasured memories of my race for Lieutenant Governor last summer was the vote that the fine people of the little town of Lodi, in Marion county, bestowed. Of the 37 votes cast, all but two were for me. That vote was the a tribute to my brother-in-law and his family, who live there.

There was a lawyer whom I had tried to help when he was a candidate. Years went by but he did not forget. When I was a candidate, the attorney, old and almost blind, offered me free space in his office as a campaign headquarters.

And there was another lawyer, reserved and studious, a friend of bygone days in West Texas. His home is in one of the big cities and his time, for years, he has divided between long hours in his office and rest over the week-ends on his farm not far away. But when I got into the race, he had a sign painted on his car and, dignity put aside to help his friend, he would go over and hand out one of my cards.

One night there was a big rally in progress at Mansfield. An opponent was making a speech and my wife, standing near the platform, remarked to another lady, "I wish that someone was here to speak for Boyce." A young attorney, whom I had never met personally, (Drew Clifton, now in the Army), overheard the remark and said, "I'll be glad to make a speech for him"—which he did, and a mighty good one, too.

And over at Arlington there is a very popular citizen—"Happy" King, who is in the automobile business. He had never made a campaign speech in his life but when there was a rally in Arlington, he got up and made a dandy for his friend, this columnist.

These are just a few of many instances—space will not permit mentioning them all. Such deeds as these are far above the power of gold to buy; they come from the heart and they make a man happy that he has such friends.

A colored woman was eating when neighbors brought her the news that her husband had been killed in an accident. She continued eating and they thought maybe she had not understood—or was stunned by the news and didn't know what she was doing. So the tidings were repeated and she said:

"I heard yuh all; and yuh all jes' wait till I finish eatin' dis heah hambone an' den yuh all will hear some mournin' what is mournin'."

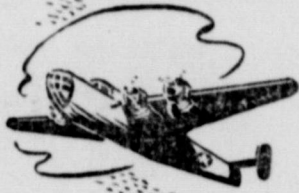

Like the negro parson who, in the middle of his sermon, was hit with an overripe tomato. Slowly he wiped the debris from his face and then said:

"Brethern and sisters, for de next 15 minutes, yuh is gonna hear de Gospel preached as yuh neva heard it befoah; and, den, ef yuh'll stick aroun', yuh is gwine to see the durnedest niggah fight yuh evah did see."

Mr. and Mrs. Sebern Jones and Mrs. Howard Collins visited with relatives and friends in Jermyn, Texas, last Sunday.

Aaron Edgar was in Throckmorton last Saturday night to attend the regular meeting of Ft. Griffin Lodge at that place.

Canada's Railroads at War

THE railways of Canada, geared to total war, are the Dominion's biggest war industry, employing nearly 200,000 men and women who are engaged 24 hours every day of the year in "keeping 'em rolling" from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the United States border on the south to Churchill on Hudson Bay and Dawson Creek, the gateway to the strategic new Alcan highway to Alaska.

Canada is a country of vast distances and over its widespread network of rail lines, moves in an unceasing flow, traffic comprising Canada's huge contribution to the United Nations war effort. In Canada are North America's only trans-continental railroad lines—extending directly from the Atlantic to the Pacific—two of these lines being operated by Canadian National Railways and the third by Canadian Pacific Railway. The railways of Canada are also all-inclusive transportation systems, extending directly from the Atlantic to the Pacific—two of these lines being operated by Canadian National Railways and the third by Canadian Pacific Railway. 21 Bills Become State Law Through Signature Of Governor Stevenson

Twenty-one bills passed by the recent session of the state legislature were signed into law last Monday by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson. In acting on the bills, the governor stated he is picking out first those which will take immediate effect and deferring the ones that will not be effective until August 9th.

The governor said he has read but has not acted on the bill to license chiropractors after examination by a chiropractic board. In recent days, according to reports, he has received numerous telegrams from chiropractors asking that he veto the bill.

Among the bills signed and filed today was the dental bill strengthening enforcement of the existing dental act. Still unsigned is the proposed new pharmacy act which is said to include apprentice training that it is impossible for prospective pharmacists to acquire under terms of the bill as passed by the legislature.

The governor said a Dallas delegation which has asked for a hearing on the Dallas river protection tax remission has postponed its conference with him until tomorrow. He previously announced he would veto all tax remissions, and is committed to that action as one of the inducements for proponents of abolition of ad valorem state taxes to withhold that bill from the recent session.

Bills that have become law by today's signing include:

Authorization for municipalities of less than 5,000 population to adopt city manager form of government.

SAFETY ON THE FARM

COLLEGE STATION — Farm workers are war workers and they should learn to protect themselves just as soldiers do.

For this reason the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service offers some safety suggestions to the thousands of women and girls now helping in the fields and lots. One phase of working safely involves the handling of machinery, and in this case women are urged to read and follow instructions, to stop the machine when adjustments and repairs are being made, and to give machines a check-up before putting them in operation. Wearing clothing with no loose parts to catch in a machine also is important.

In the handling of animals, safety authorities recommend speaking quietly to animals when approaching them. Another safety rule concerns dressing for the job. Hats or bonnets and long sleeves give protection from the sun and wind, while gloves are advisable for rough work. Protection for the nose and throat is necessary in dusty jobs. Sometimes dark glasses are helpful. Farm work also demands well-fitted, low-heeled shoes.

Women or girls unaccustomed to work in the fields would be wise to get a physical check-up to be certain they can do heavy work safely. One other safety "must" is a handy first aid kit for the family. Workers can help keep fit by eating according to the Texas Food Standard, stopping for mid-morning and mid-afternoon snacks if their hours are long and hard. Eight or nine hours of sleep each night cut down accidents also.

For women who have in addition heavy home duties, home demonstration specialists suggest organizing and planning both housework and farm work, giving each member of the family a definite task, and planning meals ahead.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Elliott left the first of this week for Dallas to take their son, Bob Elliott, for treatment. They stated it was likely he would undergo an operation at Dallas.

Henry Harrison, who has been on the Caughran farm northeast of Munday, has moved his family to Wichita Falls, where he has accepted a position as pumper in the oil fields. Jack Abbott has taken his place on the farm, which is being operated by E. W. Harrell.

T. W. Templeton, Leroy Melton and Homer T. Melton of Benjamin attended a Masonic meeting here last Friday night.

C. B. Jones has returned to his home in Mineral Wells after several weeks here with his son, Sebern Jones, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Levoyn Burton of Haskell visited with Mr. Burton's father, W. T. Burton, and with other relatives here last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cunningham and little son visited with friends in Benjamin last Friday night.

Mrs. George Rector is in Goldthwaite this week, visiting with relatives and friends.

America Must Continue To Grow, Zellers Declares

BOSTON, Mass. (IPS)—Service men overseas were urged to "begin to think in terms of world trade" by John A. Zellers, vice-president of Remington Rand, Inc., whose talk was one of a weekly series beamed overseas under the sponsorship of the National Association of Manufacturers and the National Broadcasting System.

"As I see it," he said, "this is one of the most important factors in our business future. Our forefathers were world traders. Our country was founded on world trade and became great on it. We must learn again to meet the peoples of other lands and to trade with them upon an equal basis. Only by serving them can we serve ourselves.

"Our country must continue to grow in usefulness. We must continue to expand and improve our products and to make them constantly available to more people throughout the world. Only in that way and by maintaining a fair and liberal attitude toward other peoples can we hope to maintain the peace for which you are fighting. We want this to continue to be a land of opportunity for yourselves and for your children, and for all others who come after you."

Mr. Zellers, who is a member of the National War Labor Board, said that Remington Rand is no longer manufacturing typewriters, but is devoting production to military needs. He estimated that only a "few months" will be needed when the war is over for the company to reconvert to production of peacetime products. In the meantime, he said, "our development department is not idle. We shall have improvements in our old products and there will be new things to make and sell."

Cull Your Hens For Production

538 4-H Club boys and girls of Knox county are being taught how to cull poultry this week, according to R. O. Dunkle and Lucile King, agents of the A. & M. College, Extension Service.

They say now is the time to start your first job of culling these hens in the laying house that are doing a set-down strike. You should be able to remove about 10 per cent loafers now and next month you probably will be able to get rid of the same number. Feed is too expensive and too scarce to waste it on any hen that won't pay for her keep.

It's not hard to do the job and won't take much time. If you have Leghorns, the job is very easy; if some of the other breeds like Barred Rocks or Reds, it is a little more difficult but not impossible. Here is how you can do it fast and fairly accurate and at the same time not upset production.

Pen your birds in the house and get a good catching hook. Walk around among the hens so as not to disturb them and keep that good chicken eye open for loafers. If you spot one with a shriveled comb pick her up and examine her. If she is a low producer, cull her. If she is still in good production, turn her out so she won't confuse you again and cause repeated handling. Those that are molting should be culled. If you spot one with yellow pigment in the beak and shanks, pick her up—chances are she is a loafer. Look for those with saggy abdomens—this is a good indication of an egg organ breakdown. Watch for those birds that have a bad diarrhea. If you spot a few pale, and weak looking hens, get them out. Now while you are looking them over, keep a sharp lookout for any birds showing grey eyes. It is a wise practice to sell these.

You can do a good job of culling if you look for these few things. It will save on feed, give more housing room, and cull hens will bring you a good price on the market.

Next month do the job over again.

Man In Street Leading Buyers Of War Bonds

Texas' man in the street paced the entire nation in the purchase of war bonds in the Second War Loan drive.

Frank Scofield, state war bond administrator, disclosed Monday that bond sales to individuals, partnerships and personal trust accounts nearly doubled the fixed quota.

Sales to small investors totaled 199 per cent in the 11th Federal Reserve District which comprises all of Texas and parts of Louisiana, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona. Texas has 254 of the 311 counties making up this district.

The district had a goal of $400,000,000 for all bond sales in the war loan drive. It handled Uncle Sam a cool $572,451,600 to make it hot for the axis in translation of bonds to armament and ammunition. This means the goal was oversubscribed by 43 per cent.

Banks, institutions and governmental departments invested heavily in the war loan drive, but the individual investor—the man in the street—emerges as a great factor in its success, the No. 1

Bond Salesman declared.

"This shows beyond a doubt that the average man has wholeheartedly accepted his responsibility in the people's war," Scofield added.

"Uncle Sam needs everybody in this all-out war. He called for that help and he got it. The average man has rolled up a victory of his own on the home front."

The Atlanta Federal Reserve District ranked next to Texas in bond sales to individual investors, attaining a goal of 189 per cent. The Minneapolis district was third and Kansas City fourth.
