Thousands Flock Here As Big Celebration Rolls

The big mule celebration is under way! Thousands flocked to Muleshoe Friday and Saturday for events which culminated in the mule statue dedication, the dedication of the historical marker at the old Muleshoe ranch cook house, the fly-in breakfast, and air show, the pioneers' gathering, the old-time style show, the hospitality stops, the downtown parade, and the big buffalo and beef barbecue. The big four-day celebration is at the half-way point and from all indications will wind up in a blaze of glory tomorrow night with the talent show, the board-judging contest and the fireworks spectacular.

The fireworks, says Earl Ladd, fire chief, "will be the most outstanding we have had here." Ladd and his firemen will be in charge of the display. This year's event will feature more "aerial" shots than ground firings, Ladd said, "to enlighten the skies for miles around."

Scores of persons were stopped by Harvey Bass and his helpers at all five highway entrances into Muleshoe Friday and were offered packets containing information about the celebration and Muleshoe in general and also containing free coffee and coke coupons given by local restaurants and drugstores.

Rolling west to head the procession to the old Muleshoe Ranch cookhouse dedication as a state historical site was the famous Rolling Plains Mule Train with headquarters in Spearman. Speaker at that event was District Judge Pat Boone.

At the noon dedication Saturday day of the statue to a mule, Attorney General Waggoner Carr was the principal speaker. Thousands watched as the drapes were pulled off the statue, modeled in image of the famous Muleshoe mule, 18-year-old Pete owned by Dave Anders.

Cindy Smith was mistress of ceremonies. Then thousands more lined the streets Saturday afternoon as the big mule parade was staged, featuring mules, antique farm implements and mule-drawn wagons.

Tomorrow night's beard-growing contest, sponsored by the Muleshoe Jaycees, will be held at Benny Douglass stadium, starting at 7:30. The contest is open to everyone living in the Muleshoe trade area.

The Jaycees announced Saturday that trophies will be given in three categories, according to Bob Stovall, chairman of the beard contest. Judges will be Doc Bodkins, Mrs. Vic Benedict, Mrs. Elvyn Devaney, president of ESA Sorority, Justice of the Peace Joe Vaughn, and Leo Welsh, newsman for KDFB-TV 10 in Amarillo.

And they're still selling shaving permits up until the time of the contest, but the "ducking tank" will be in use "spracked" down to the time of the judging," Stovall said.

The Jaycees were out in force Saturday afternoon, and many who had no beards — and no shaving permits — paid an unexpected visit to the downtown stock tank.

Many pioneers were on hand for their part of the big celebration Saturday and for their annual meeting Saturday morning in First Methodist Church's new fellowship hall. A hospitality center in the Muleshoe State Bank also was open with Mrs. W. T. Andrews in charge. The event also included an old-fashioned style show, sponsored by the Jayceeettes.

One of the stellar attractions after the fly-in breakfast, sponsored by the Jaycees, was a 1927 Fairchild airliner piloted by TV Weatherman Dan True.

Also a feature of the big celebration was a Saturday night dance at the Muleshoe Country Club.

Today's program opens at 3:42 with a Sunrise church service in the circle of wagons of the Rolling Plains Mule Train just south of senior high school.

Escapee Here Is Indicted In Pleasanton

Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements was informed Friday that Sixto DeLeon, 31, who escaped jail here last September, has been indicted in Pleasanton on a charge of murder.

The indictment was handed down Friday morning by a grand jury in the death of a Pleasanton constable whom DeLeon allegedly shot five times. The date June 14 plays an important part in the life of DeLeon, Clements said. He escaped from the Wisconsin penitentiary June 14, 1959. The shooting of gun Robles occurred on June 14, 1964, and the shooting in Pleasanton occurred on June 14, 1965.

DeLeon was being held in the county jail here last year after allegedly shooting Robles at Needmore following a family argument. He was placed in the Bailey county jail shortly afterward. Then on Sept. 1 last year he escaped from jail here after breaking three locks, Clements said.

"We never could figure out how he managed to break three locks, leading from his cell to the outside door of the jail," Clements said, "but we figure he must have had outside help."

Open House Set At 3 Duplexes

Open house will be held today, starting at 1:30 p.m., for three new duplexes just completed at 17th and West Ave. D, just south of Richland Hills. Dr. Armando C. Durant and Melvin Smith & Associates, Lubbock, announced Saturday. Refreshments will be served.

The duplexes contain 10' square feet of living space, plus the carport. All are carpeted throughout and have kitchen stoves and garbage disposals built in. The duplexes have refrigerated air conditioning.

If leased for as long as a year, one month's rent is given free.

Each apartment has cathedral-type ceiling in the living room, and each unit has its own private, fenced back yard, Dr. Durant said.

Financing was arranged through Don Harmon at the Tri-County Savings and Loan Co. in Muleshoe, and Eddie Lane handled the land transactions for the structures.

An entirely different frontal pattern marks the duplexes. "This makes each unit distinctly different," the builders explained, and all have brick and stone facade.

The builders own another piece of property on Ave. D, and are contemplating additional duplexes in that location August or September.

Station Wagon Rolls Over, Two Hurt Slightly

Two Marinas enroute from California to the east coast, escaped serious injury Thursday evening when their station wagon rolled over on U. S. Highway 84 four miles west of town.

Injured slightly were Thomas Howard Johnson and Thomas Gibbons. Johnson had a cut on his elbow and Gibbons suffered a cut on his head and elbow. They were treated at West Plains hospital and released.

Their automobile, a 1960 Rambler station wagon, was demolished.

Johnson and Gibbons told Highway Patrolman Fredie Jack that an oncoming automobile traveling west crowded them off the highway. When the driver attempted to pull the station wagon back onto the highway it turned over.

Johnson was being transferred from Camp Pendleton in California to Philadelphia, Gibbons was enroute to his home in Portland, Conn.

Jack said that the car was heavily loaded, and that this prevented more serious injury to the occupants. He said they were within the legal speed limit.

mentator turned to writing poems about mules is not completely clear.

But Hugo T. Speck of Garland is doing just that and some of his poems have appeared in the columns of this paper. To hear Speck tell it, he learned at a young age at Lone Grove, Llano county, not to twist the tail of a mule.

He was born at Lone Grove (just north of the Llano river where the president bought his latest ranch in Llano county) and lived in Texas until he was 11 where his Mother and Father were country school teachers. His family moved to Chicago, he finished high school and attended Northwestern University while learning the job of newspapering at the Chicago Tribune.

In 1920, after the crash he moved to London where he had a brother who was a newspaper correspondent. Speck went to work for the INS and stayed there three years before moving to Paris, France. In Paris for five years, and with assignments all over Europe, Speck worked in Rome for the UP (was there when World War II started) and after eight months was sent to Istanbul, Turkey to cover Turkey and organize UP coverage in the Middle East.

One year in Istanbul and he foreign correspondent in any good unless he has been kicked out of at least one country and went to Sofia, Bulgaria, and covered the Nazi attacks on Greece and Jugoslavia. In June, 1941, Speck went to Berlin to become chief of the INS Berlin Bureau. He made four trips to the Russian front (with the Nazi army, and was interned for five months following Pearl Harbor. Back in his country, after making a tour of speeches, he was assigned to Washington and was a White House correspondent when he left the INS.

Next saw him at WFAA - 820, Dallas, where he was news director, commentator, and did special broadcasts for WFAA. After nine years of that he and his wife moved to Garland where he is semi-retired, does free lance work and takes public relations assignments — and was interested in mules in general and Muleshoe in particular.

Speck wrote Publisher Hall of this paper on June 29 after reading Paul Crum's column "and Paul Crum says a couple of Dallas boys — Ted Malor and George Haddaway — will be there.

Inhabitants of Nauru will have to leave their tiny Pacific Island when its only economic resource, phosphate, runs out in 39 years. They have already turned down offers to settle Palm, Woodlark, Prince of Wales, Curtis and Goodenough Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Clawson have had two of their daughters visiting the past week in their home: Mrs. Betty Jo Brewer and children Billy and Rodney of Banning, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Holly, children Mark, Leisa, Royce Lynn and Connie from Garland, Texas.

Mrs. Bobby Short and son Curtis, Lubbock, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her parents, the C. L. Carters. Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Harlan and Ann were lunch guests Sunday of her mother, Mrs. Mary Britt at Amherst. Mrs. Harlan also got to visit with an old friend, Mrs. Felix Smith, who was visiting in Amherst. She now lives at Lake of the Pines near Jefferson.

Miss Barbara Williams spent the past week with her sister, Mrs. C. C. Young at Denver City.

Sheryl Medlin and Juana Young will be among the several hundred young people from over the state attending the youth assembly July 6 through July 10 at McMurry College.

Mrs. C. A. Williams had two of her sisters to help her observe her birthday Wednesday, June 30. Mrs. Ethel Cooper and daughter, Janette, of Morton, and her two granddaughters, Jan and Vickie Cooper of Artesia, and also Mrs. Billie Walden of Springlake.

Becky Jo Lancaster of Dumas is here for a two-week visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lancaster. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Lancaster, plan to spend the fourth of July here and Becky will return home.

Mrs. Chester Pierce and children Wellington, Kans. were among the visitors at the morning service of the Church of Christ. They were guests in the home of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pierce. Mrs. Pierce will be remembered as Patsy Tiley.

Cheta Elkins, Tulsa, spent the past week as guest of her cousin, Margaret Richardson.

Allen Williams spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Williams. Allen has been working as a trucker for the past two months in the Corpus Christi area.

"HARRY SHOT ME!"
 Watchers of TV westerns know the scene by heart. Old Ed, the victim of a shooting, lies near death. The sheriff bends over to catch his last words. Ed gasps.
 "Harry shot me!"

On TV, that usually settles the identity of the killer. But in real life, if Harry were charged with murder, would a statement like Ed's be valid in court?

There are arguments both ways. The main problem is that Ed's accusation, when repeated later by the sheriff, is mere hearsay — that is, second-hand evidence. And the law has good reasons to be wary of hearsay.

For one thing, Ed's charge was not made under oath. For another, he is no longer available for cross-examination by the person he has accused. For another, a man in his death throes might not be calm enough or rational enough to make a dependable declaration on any subject. Yet there are also good reasons for accepting the evidence. As a practical matter, it may offer the best possible chance of bringing a killer to justice. Furthermore, the very nearness of death is likely to induce the victim to be truthful. In the words of a dying Shakespearean character:

"What in the world should make me now deceive, Since I must lose the use of all deceit?"

Considerations, the law generally does accept a deathbed accusation as evidence — but only under careful safeguards. For example, it is necessary that the victim not only be near death but be aware of it. If he still has hope of surviving, he might not be sufficiently motivated to tell the truth. But if all hope has fled, his words may be heard in court. In fact, if he is too far gone to speak, even gestures alone may serve. In one case, a dying woman's squeeze of the hand, in response to a question, helped to send her slayer to jail. In another case, a nod of the head was held enough.

Of course, the principle works both ways. A victim's dying words may be used in court not only to prove that the defendant is the killer but also to prove that he is not. As with all rules of law, what may convict the guilty may also free the innocent.

BABE AND RUTH — When Babe Ruth bet Wilcy Moore that that Moore wouldn't get three hits all season, the big, 30-year-old Moore took exception. He bet Ruth $300 to the contrary, he did and Ruth did, and the Bambino paid off. With the money, Moore bought two mules for his Hollis, Okla. farm, paying $150 each. And here are Babe and Ruth, the team in the center. Moore now lives in Muleshoe.

Here's How Famous Muleshoe Ranch Got Its Name (Maybe)

A tall, lanky wrangler shifted his wad in his sunburned cheek and spat a stream of tobacco juice an admirable 10 feet. His hand held a broken branding iron, and his mouth was screwed down in exasperated disgust. "Now what do we do?" he growled.

Around him, stymied cowhands stared at the broken iron and one or two tried to equal his spitting range.

Only the young smart-alec, new to the crew, retained his relaxed slouch. After a moment, he ambled a few steps out onto the prairie. He stooped and picked something up.

"Reckon we just might change the brand a mite. Won't hurt nothin' long as we know whose it is," he drawled.

In his hand was a worn mule shoe. "Put this in the fire and let it get back to work," then he chuckled. "From now on, any critter that looks like he's just been kicked by a mule belongs to this here ranch."

And, according to legend, so began the famous mule shoe brand — and thus, in time, Muleshoe Ranch received its name.

However, other sources say Bovina Cattle Co. used the mule shoe — or U- (U-Bar) as its brand and the brand was registered Dec. 4, 1903. Records show the shoe with the open end at the top and leaning to the left.

Some oldtimers claim the name — or brand — "Mule shoe" or "Mule Shu" was derived from the U Bar because as lucky as a horse shoe to reside for a permanent statue to the "U" resembled a mule's hooves of Muleshoe, Texas. It pays tribute to the mule, is gaining national and international acclaim for accounts always gather around "Muleshoe" originated, the town of Muleshoe because its beauty of greatness — like name consistently has drawn name played a large part in night moths to a lamp.

Many A Plodding Mule Trudged Western Structures Into Place

OLD GRANNY
BY J. SIGMAN SMITH

There are many bright memorials to the mule still standing all over this country. Those old red - bricked streets are lasting memorials to the tough mule as well as the better bred animal. Many early brick, or stone building, still serves. Old courthouses, granite or brick, were slowly trudged into position by the plodding little mule.

To supplement his own income my papa sometimes took his little team of mules and joined the train of wagons to bring in brick for the pavement of little towns, like Bowie and Montague. Another time, he went to Terrell, Oklahoma, on the same kind of contract.

When the people of Muleshoe first began to talk about the memorial to a mule I wasn't impressed. Then I began to reminisce. Which, in its self is a memorial.

There was that little sorrel mule of Papa's which we kids called, "Ole Granny". The dictionary defines sorrel as brown, red - yellow. That was Granny's color. Her chin and tail etched with white. A question in my mind? Whether Papa owned her, or she owned him. But there she stands, with all her contribution to our well being and to the communities in which she served. This is not sacrilegious.

To think of my father's toils, the breath and strain that life put upon him, invokes the deepest sense of humility and gratitude. And, here it is that I begin to recognize this solitary level - headed mule that went every mile of papa's adult years. In early years, before we children were old enough to be impressed with titles, Papa called this mule Net. His first girl problems came from a girl named Nettie. It was only natural that he call his sole world property at that time, "Net". Since she was a small mule, Net was no doubt "cute", before the muscles were exaggerated. Something went wrong with that early romance. And today, I'm made to wonder just how much Papa's mule influenced it. Not that he ever went courting Festus - type. That is the only abuse I can imagine Net not tolerating.

I'm sure he had other business in mind when he bought a mule. And when he went to see Nettie, I suspect he took to his heels. He might have carried his shoes in his hand, until he reached the glade hewn - out for her own house. Anyway, there were two kinds of farmers in those days. The Mule farmer, and horse farmer. There was a line drawn between them. Not that the horse farmer didn't have mules. He did. They were invaluable. But the farmer who didn't have better - bred animals was less apt to have a big red barn.

Whether this was a determining factor in the romance between Papa and Nettie, no one could ever say. But we do see the joint industry of the man and mule acquiring another mule and a hack in which to go courting.

Early one spring morning in 1908 Papa left his home, in the eastern hills of Nocona, crossing unbridged swollen streams to see a butter - honey headed girl in the eastern part of that county. Denver Creek is a big one. The last one he had to cross. I feel the reluctance of both man and beast as they eased into the turbulent water. I can well imagine, that Papa forced the little animals into the stream. But before he and Net could emerge on the other bank he must plunge into the water and free her from the drowning mule and his little topless Buggy.

Two years later Papa married this fair - haired girl. His father then deeded him eighty acres of hills and hollows, covered with shrub and black - jack oak. By that time there was another mule called Kate. Like old Pete, of Muleshoe, Kate was black with brown etching, only smaller, as was Granny. This team of mules span no much wool into the life of their master that his children cannot today see the whole man separate and apart from them.

The second earliest photo I have of Papa is made with his harnessed Granny and Kate. When they were not tilling his rented fields, they were hauling rock for fences, or dykes, and cord wood, for which there was a ready market. Those were the years when little country towns grew prosperous enough to spread brick on their streets.

When the First world was over Papa, by the power of his rugged little mules, had earned an additional two hundred acres of farm land. His wood land was fenced and stocked with goats and cattle. He mortgaged all of these for other rolling grassy hills in Clay County. And, in the early twenties, he again emerged from a torrent of disaster with only a near - sacred team of mules, Granny and Kate.

He now had seven children. How he redeemed that pair of mules is a mystery, for there were no laws then to protect a man in such a crisis. He, no doubt, later mortgaged them many times. In the later twenties they brought a loaded wagon on through muddy roads from Clay County to Lamb County. They were no doubt mortgaged many years by the bank in Sudan. In the thirties Papa harnessed up his mules again and moved from land he had called his own, to become once more a tenant farmer.

Through the years Granny developed a temperament comparable to my papa's. He never lost his will to whistle and to laugh. Papa loved people. It could be said that Granny was also gregarious.

She would never annoy the cows or harm a new - born calf, she wouldn't kick a child, which could never be said of Kate. Once when we were children, Granny and Kate got out of the lot and made a run for the pasture.

In her desperation to get away Kate ran right over Pete, my sister and jumped the pasture gate. But Granny seemed to have an understanding with Papa. She knew just how much monkey business he would put up with. Nor, was she sullen and revengeful. Like when the house was on fire, and the old dinner bell was crying out at a weird hour, for help. Papa, whipping those little mules every jump of the way, came tearing up the lane Granny had an understanding. After Kate died, in the early thirties, I have no way of knowing how many times Granny was mortgaged.

'GOOD' MULE — West Texas early - day mules has a reputation for general meanness, but not all were bad, like old Kate here who enjoyed giving 18 - months' old Nadine Fried an occasional ride. This picture was made in 1932 north of Muleshoe. The rider is now Mrs. Lester Spears, Lovington, N. M.

(Journal Engraving)

Only, I do know she was mortgaged once when Papa made another down payment on a piece of ground near Springlake. The Spring morning came before Papa was killed in the Fall, that Mama remembers, "Old Granny can't get up this morning, Papa said. The hopelessness in his expression, uncommon to Papa, Mama remembers.

It couldn't be a run - away horse, or a drowning mule that cost us Papa's life. No, it was a truck - car collision. The little sorrel mule stands a monument in my memory. The way she watched my Papa and felt after his sentiment. I see her starting at him in the morning from the moment he slams the kitchen door, till he reaches the lot gate. When he takes a hold on that gate late she may turn fast and kick up her heels.

Mrs. Medlin bringing the first part of the study on order of worship; Mrs. Landers second part, Lord's Supper and Holy Communion; Mrs. Simmons had the last part on Baptism. The study closed with Mrs. Kirk giving the benediction.

Present were Mrs. Paul Young, Mrs. Tommie Kirk, Mrs. George Bahman, Mrs. B. L. Blackman, Mrs. F. L. Simmons, Mrs. Charlie Landers, Mrs. L. H. Medlin and Mrs. Harvey Whittenburg.

Betty Salyer and Juana Young with their advisor, Mrs. Owen Young, were among the more than 1,000 girls, who were enrolled for the annual officers' workshop at Texas Tech June 13 and 16.

Officers were placed in classification according to the size of the school. Each officer attended the small group sessions, to get new ideas to use in her own local chapters. Group sessions were also held, area and state officers gave reports.

The girls attended the luncheon Wednesday at the Hulens hall where they were staying. Betty and Juana enjoyed the meeting and feel like they have gained many profitable ideas for the Bula Chapter.

Mrs. L. L. Walden, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Marie Aaron, Carlsbad, N. M., visited Wednesday through Sunday with Mrs. Walden's sister, Mrs. M. C. Bacon in Ringling, Okla.

Don Macoon has been hired by the local school board for High School Math teacher. Mrs. Macoon will act as tax collector and secretary for the school superintendent.

New Caparol controls weeds in cotton at layby without residue problems in crops planted next spring.

You can spray new Caparol* at layby for control of most annual broadleaf weeds and grasses, without fear of a soil residue carryover to harm crops planted in the spring of 1966. Just apply Caparol after your cotton is up six inches or more and before weeds are two inches high.

Spraying Caparol at layby will give you control until your cotton is up high enough to shade out any weeds that may germinate late in the summer. You can even apply Caparol where other herbicides have already been used and you find weeds breaking through.

Caparol is easy to handle and apply. Just direct the spray at the base of the cotton plants. You'll get quick knockdown of the young weeds and grasses. Then the action of Caparol continues to control weeds and grasses through the roots as they germinate for the next several weeks.

With Caparol on the job, you won't have weeds to compete for moisture and plant food. And you won't have rank weeds to foul up harvesting... to stain and downgrade lint.

So plan now to use Caparol at layby. It's available through your local supplier.

Visitors From Far-Away Places Flocked To Refuge Here In 1964

BY CECIL DAVIS
The Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge was established by Executive Order 7214, October 24, 1935. Negotiations for the purchase of the lands in 1937 and the land acquisition completed and operation started in 1938, making it the oldest Game Refuge in the State of Texas. It is one of a chain of refuges on the Central Flyway extending from Canada to Mexico. The resident house and the equipment building was completed in May of 1959. The headquarters Office and Service building was completed in June of 1959.

The refuge is located 20 miles south of Muleshoe, Texas. State Highway 214 running north and south, bisects the refuge, with the headquarters located 2 miles west of the Highway. The Refuge Headquarters is accessible in almost any kind of weather by a gravel road. The Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge is under the management of Mr. Mel Evans and wife.

There are 6 prairie dog towns on the refuge. There are also a few Black - Footed Ferrets among the prairie dog towns. The Black - Footed Ferrets are on the verge of becoming extinct, as there has been only a few reported in sparse areas since 1920. There was a W. P. A. Camp started here in 1938, and not more than 14 workers here at one time. The Camp and W. P. A. work ended on May 24, 1942. Restriction on the refuge are: NO hunting, NO firearms, NO rock hunting and NO fishing. With permission from management, picnicking is allowed in picnic areas only, with campfires in fireboxes only, and ALL litter must be picked up and area left clean. Geologists believe there were at least four major ice advances in North America.

Muleshoe's Emblem, Like Town's Population, Also Showed 'Uturn'

As the saying goes, "time changes everything — often in such a gradual and sneaky manner no one knows how or when the change occurred. Like the Muleshoe emblem. In its early days, the emblem depicted a mule leaping through a mule shoe — the open end of the shoe turned up and a star hanging overhead. And then a change up — tied in. No one seems for sure to have seen or heard it. Nevertheless, a few years ago citizens became aware the mule shoe had been turned upside down, the mule was no longer leaping but racing — and the star had disappeared.

A likely explanation is human error. Several Muleshoe residents offer the feasible explanation that a local firm had a commercial print made in another city and through mistake the shoe was turned downward. Or, maybe the printer forgot his spectacles that day, and power of 'only' 139 percent increase compared to the more indicative 368 percent increase in effective buying power indicated some progressive, often competitive and still expanding Muleshoe trade and service firms and individuals.

Muleshoe's trade and service area takes in parts of four High Plains counties in West Texas and brings 'em in from neighboring New Mexico (just 20 miles away) too. The city fathers commissioned the Texas Highway Department in early 1963 to change those outdated 1960 population signs signifying 3,771 population to a more accurate 1963 figure of 4,954. . . and that was a couple of years ago.

It would seem the mule and his shoe are bent on blessing Muleshoe — anyway you look at it. Another popular belief concerning the emblem's change is that the late Neil Rocky initiated the new design when he organized Muleshoe Motor Co., Oct. 13, 1927. It adorned the sign across his building. About that time, the new em-

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm apparently has got ten a weather report from Viet Nam, his letter this week indicates. When it comes to understanding the problem in Viet Nam, I leave the job to smarter people than me who have a lot more facts, and when one President after another from both parties says it's important that we keep on doing whatever it is we're doing over there, I don't argue. Maybe I ought to be ashamed to admit it, but news from Viet Nam to me in my ignorance is as baffling as a report on a national golf tournament. I see the headlines but the names are beyond me because I don't keep up with golf. I'm worse on geography, and I don't know any more about Viet Nam than I do Brooklyn.

But I did run across one small fact about the place the other day and I've been thinking. According to this article, there are places in Viet Nam where the normal rainfall in November is 29 inches. That's right, twenty-nine inches. It slacks off to eleven inches in August and thirteen in September, with scattered showers and thunderstorms throughout the rest of the year, except for a few months when it dries up and the temperature gets unbearable. In the months when it rains every afternoon, everything bogs down. Top wet to plow or drive a tank.

Now I'll tell you, a country's in bad shape when it has to plant a crop and fight a war in between showers. I know the free world has got to take a stand against Communist dictatorship, but it sure is unfortunate we couldn't

Dear Editor: On behalf of the Texas Society for Crippled Children and Adults, we extend to you and your staff many thanks for making known the needs and hopes of crippled children and adults in Texas during the 1965 Easter Seal Campaign. By telling their story so effectively through your news and feature columns, you have helped to assure success of the 1965 fund appeal, as well as the continuing operation of broad rehabilitation services provided for the physically handicapped through Easter Seal funds. By reflecting understanding and support of the disabled you and your paper have also helped immeasurably in creating a greater public acceptance of the handicapped. We and those we serve are grateful to you.

Peiman who just recently returned from a three weeks stay at Northwest hospital in Amarillo, recovering from major surgery. During the pastor's absence the Rev. Henry L. Schaefer of Immanuel Lutheran, Clovis conducted the services at an earlier hour. Now that Peiman is back the services will again be held at 10:30.

Peiman reports that he has made a most remarkable recovery from his surgery so that he is not only able to again conduct the services of the congregation, but is able to do most any physical labor he did before his hospital experience. The 71 year old clergyman also reports that this is the first time that he ever occupied a hospital bed, and that during his 40 years in the ministry he missed just one Sunday because of physical disability to preach. Asked for the reason for his exceptionally good health, the pastor replied, undoubtedly Proverbs 17:22 has been quite a contributing factor, "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine".

In 1850, a Mount Holyoke College graduate, Esther Howland of Worcester, Mass., started to make Valentines and soon took over the American market. Ironically, Miss Howland died a spinster in 1894.

Peace Corps To Test On July 10

An opportunity for Muleshoe area residents to offer their abilities to the Peace Corps will come at 9 a.m., Saturday, July 10, at the Littlefield Main St. Post office, or Lubbock Rm. 16 A in the Post office building.

The opportunity is the Peace Corps Placement Test, which is not passed or failed and you can't study for it. It measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language. If, for example, test scores indicate limited language acquiring ability, the Peace Corps tries to place the applicant in an English-speaking area. The test is used by the Peace Corps only as a tool in the matching of Volunteers and jobs. The Peace Corps application is the most important indicator of suitability for Peace Corps service. It must be filled out and brought to the exam unless previously submitted.

Applicants should plan on about one and a half hours at the testing centers, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French language achievement test, which requires an additional hour.

have found a drier spot to do it on.

On the other hand, think what a snap a weather forecaster has over there. One of the few places on earth where, when he predicts rain, it rains every time.

Yours faithfully,

Most folks can't see a thing in the hieroglyphics on a medical prescription. But to the registered pharmacist, it spells out a specific combination of drugs in exact measurements. We follow these directions to the letter.

"YOUR GOOD NEIGHBOR SINCE 1914"

Please listen before you dig...

There may be people talking down there!

Farfetched? Certainly. But we're sure you dig the idea... There may be an underground telephone cable smack in the middle of the spot you're out to excavate. And if you strike one of our cables with a bulldozer, a power shovel or a pile driver, it can knock out communications throughout the entire community. And that would be poor public relations for you and for us. But there's an easy answer to the problem. If you'll phone our Plant Department before you start digging, we can check out the location and let you know just where our conduits are—if any. You can be sure that your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.
