Washington News Letter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C. May 11—The House this week passed by a vote of 288 to 88 the proposal to amend our constitution, to change our method of ratifying treaties.

The Summers Resolution passed by the House proposes that treaties be ratified by majorities of the House and the Senate. This is a major piece of legislation on which I have done a lot of "leg work" during the last two years.

This week I have talked with some half dozen Congressmen just returned from inspecting the scenes of German atrocities. These firsthand, eye-witness stories told me by Congressmen are more revolting than stories and pictures carried by press, screen and radio.

"We proceeded into the cold, filthy, dirty, ramshackled building that still held hundreds of the victims of the Nazi atrocities. Human beings starved, sick, and emaciated were lying all over the floors, unable to move, unable to speak, in the last throes of death.

Other buildings in which were hundreds dying of tuberculosis. It was the same pitiful, terrible story of death and starvation. We were then escorted into a building which had housed 2300 prisoners, that did not have as much floor space as an ordinary four-room bungalow.

"I noted in another building bins built into side of the wall, these bins about 3 1/2 feet square. We were told by the victims, who could still speak, that six people were compelled to sleep in each of these small bins.

"I saw the death chamber, on the wall of which were some 25 to 30 iron pegs, from which the victims were hanged by the German oppressors. I also saw the maul or club which the Nazi guards used to bash out the brains of the prisoners.

"I saw the clinical chamber where the German doctors were using human beings as guinea pigs for experimentation of all kinds, and where no kind of anesthetic was used. I also saw the brick crematoriums in which the victims were burned, and which, at the time of our first visit, were filled with charred skulls and skeletons.

"Near the gallows upon which many were hanged in public exhibition. Near the gallows I saw the massive monument that has been built by the Buchenwald in memory of 51,000 martyrs of all nationalities. At this one camp alone, more than 51,000 people had been murdered in cold blood, either by starvation, by hanging, by burning, by injection of death dealing drugs, by clubbing, or by shooting. Every form and kind of murder had been committed.

"Before going to Buchenwald, like many people in this country, I did not completely believe everything that had been printed about the horrors of the German prison camps. I have always taken the "atrocity stories" with a grain of salt. But after I visited this prison, and then sat down in the Commandant's Office in Buchenwald, and saw with my own eyes lamp shades made from human skin, and dancing girl designs in picture frames on the wall, made from the skin of a human being, then the evidence was overwhelming that the German people have been engaged for many years in the most inhuman, indescribable reign of murder and human slaughter that the history of man records. I was told by many inmates of this prison, who know, that those lamp shades and other articles made from human skin was at the request and to please the whims of the wife of the camp commandant."

Texas Migratory Labor Ready For 1945 Movement

COLLEGE STATION—Texas migratory labor, chiefly of Latin-American descent, is expected to be more flexible and efficient element in Texas agriculture during 1945 than at any other time in its history.

According to D. D. Steele, assistant state farm labor supervisor, the Extension Service for labor staff has devoted the winter and spring months to laying a solid foundation of confidence and cooperation between the more than 30,000 migratory workers and Extension county agricultural agents and staff of the State Extension farm labor office at College Station.

To acquaint the migrants with the plan and objectives of the Extension farm labor program, a group of experienced assistants who speak Spanish were assigned to 30 South Texas and Rio Grande Valley countries where majority of these workers live. They contacted more than 2,500 crew leaders, each having an average group of 15 workers, as the basis for spreading information about the program.

In all contacts the functions of county agricultural agents was explained, along with the services their efforts are able to render to laborers. The purpose is to accustom crew leaders and workers to seeking placements through county agricultural agents, and especially depending upon them for accurate information regarding demands for their services.

Farmers in parts of the state where this labor is used most largely are cooperating in providing reception centers and suitable housing for migrants.

Field assistants report contacting 2,350 workers through 50 meetings and more than 2,000 through personal interviews. Meanwhile, eight South Texas radio stations and one in Mexico are lending cooperation by broadcasting information regarding importance of the laborer's service in winning the war.

Supplementing this, letters in English and Spanish from the Extension Director and I. P. Trotter emphasizing the services which Extension workers are prepared to render have been distributed to migrants.

Steele believes that this preliminary planning should result in more equitable and economical distribution of migratory labor this year.

Texas Legislative News

(By Rep. Claude Callaway, House Dist., Crowell)

Austin, Texas, May 12—At this writing the Legislature has been in session 124 days, which is four days past the regular 120-day session, the time that our Constitution had planned the legislature should be completed.

For the past two weeks the House and Senate have been in confusion about their adjournment date. The Senate had sent a resolution calling for sine die adjournment on May 19. The House voted it down by a majority vote of 77-54.

All of the five major appropriation bills have been passed by both Houses and are in free conference committee or ready to go to the conference committee.

The first of these bills was the eleemosynary which appropriated $15,700,000 for the two years of the biennium. I happened to be on the free conference committee for this bill and I think our committee will agree Monday on all parts of this bill and by Thursday the House will have approved the same.

The rural school bills which have grown to be one of the big appropriation bills, passed out of the House Thursday carrying an appropriation of $14,600,000, per year. I was on the sub-committee that wrote this bill. I had lots of letters from many school people over the state saying that it was the best rural school bill the state had ever had.

A very unusual thing happened, approved by the House and Senate. Many members of the House feel like the Senate is trying to hold the appropriation too low but in most cases I feel that the Senate has done a good job and will give them credit for trying to represent the people.

The bill goes to the conference committee carrying appropriations from the House of the $14,600,000 bill. It will cost $16,000,000 per year to pay off the bill.

In the five bills that are now in conference committee, there is about $6,000,000 difference in the amount that the Senate bill calls for and the amount the House bill calls for.

After the amendments had been added to where the cost had been increased $1,400,000 the previous question was ordered and the bill was passed in a few moments without any additional amendments being added to the bill to pay the increased cost.

TOWN and FARM in WARTIME

Prepared by OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION

Civilians At War

The Government needs and asks its citizens in the 180th week of the war against Japan to:

1. Buy your overseas serviceman a bond during the 7th War Loan Drive, and tell him you have done so on a V-Mail gift certificate, obtainable wherever War Bonds are sold.
2. Stay on your war job until victory over Japan. If manpower needs in your industry are changing, your U. S. Employment Service Office can tell you the nearest job where you are needed.
3. Continue to buy only what you need. Reconversion has started, but America's factories cannot produce sufficient civilian goods to end the threat of inflation while Pacific war needs continue.

Agricultural Information For Servicemen And Veterans

In order to provide agricultural information to servicemen and veterans of this war who are interested in agriculture, the U. S. Department of Agriculture will place kits containing samples of available information in separation centers, hospitals, libraries, and vocational guidance and retraining centers of the Army, Navy, Air Forces, and the Veterans Administration. These kits will be available for review in approximately 1,000 places in the Continental U. S. and overseas. Accompanying each kit will be Order Blanks on which the veteran or serviceman can order by a simple check mark any item or group of items he may want. Among the material offered are several general publications designed to help the agriculturally inclined serviceman or veteran decide whether or not he really does want to become a farmer. In addition the kit contains 12 bulletins on subjects such as Poultry Raising, Dairy Farming, Irrigation, Greenhouse Plans, and Conservation Farming.

V-E Day Statement By Claude W. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture
The farm people of America join with the rest of this nation, the liberated people of Europe and freedom-loving people everywhere in welcoming the coming of V-E Day. Though our hearts are madly happier by this good news, we all realize that this is not an occasion for all-out rejoicing. The European war has been won only at a very heavy cost. The lives and health of many of our young men have been sacrificed in this struggle. Also there is still a full-scale war to finish and we farmers know that means a continuing heavy demand for food for our fighting forces, for the homefront, and for our allies. And being a humanitarian nation we'll want to do our share in helping to feed the starving and suffering people of the liberated areas. So the fighting on the farm front is not over, just as the fighting on the Jap front isn't over. I am sure that the farm people of this nation—the people whose production record is one of the great achievements of this war—will pay tribute to V-E Day by continuing all-out production until final and complete victory is won.

V-E Day Statement by Judge Marvin Jones, War Food Administrator
American farmers will not stop work to celebrate our victory in Europe. They are devoutly thankful that one phase of the war is over, but they know that the needs for food are as great as they ever were. They also know that their war job must go on day and night until total victory is won. All of us would do well to follow their example.

AMERICAN HEROES

by JULIAN OLLENDORFF

WHEN the tanker Virginia was struck by enemy torpedoes and exploded, Mike Kuzma, seaman, suffered severe burns in the blazing gasoline. He ignored his hurts, however, when he saw two shipmates worse off. He succeeded in towing both men out of the flaming area and supporting them until picked up by a rescue crew. Kuzma was awarded a Merchant Marine Distinguished Service Medal. Hundreds of thousands of dollars in War Bonds must be sold to replace that tanker and the fuel.

Surplus Property. When Available, Assured to Farmers

Farmers and rural areas generally are assured equal opportunity to supply their needs out of surplus property as it becomes available, the Surplus Property Board said. The Board's Regulation No. 3, effective June 1, 1945, sets up procedures for channeling critically needed trucks, machinery, and equipment into agricultural uses. Farmers, however, should not expect a flood of surplus at giveaway prices, the board warned. First and second purchase priorities given by the Surplus Property Act of 1944 to Federal Agencies and State and Local Governments will absorb many surplus items, but trucks, machinery and equipment in critical short supply will be distributed on the basis of greatest need. Disposal agencies designated the board are directed to cause appropriate quantities of surplus property to be sold or channeled to rural areas so that farmers and farmers cooperative associations will be given opportunity to buy. Sales will be made to distributors, dealers, wholesalers, farmers cooperative associations or retailers who customarily distribute in rural areas, and who certify that the surpluses being purchased will be so distributed. The Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion has announced that surpluses will be sold mainly through dealers and distributors, not to individual consumers. An exception to that rule is provision for direct sales to veterans who wish to buy surpluses to establish themselves in business, the professions or agriculture.

Increased Need For Nurses Seen
Victory in Europe has increased, rather than decreased the Army's need for nurses and will not affect the urgent requirements for recruits to the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, the Office of War Information announced. According to the Surgeon General, U. S. Army, the Army Nurse Corps today is 9,000 nurses short of its June 1 goal of 60,000 nurses. Before July 1, 1945, there must be an increase in nursing strength in this country of nearly 14,000 nurses in the military and government services, and more than 35,000 for civilian needs, or a total of nearly 50,000 additional nurses, according to the Public Health Service. It is expected, however, that most of this need will be met by graduates from the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps. It is anticipated that more than 39,000 student nurses will graduate between July 1, 1945 and July 1, 1946. To help meet these needs further there is an immediate urgency for 10,000 new student nurses to fill spring classes by June 30, and for an additional 60,000 new students during the period from July 1, 1945 to June 30, 1946. GWI was told.

Probably no shorter speech was ever delivered than the one that President Lincoln made at a flag-raising before the Treasury Building—for he saw no reason to speak at length when he had nothing to say:

"The part assigned to me is to raise the flag, which, if there be no fault in the machinery, I will do, and when up, it will be for the people to keep it up."

Almost as brief but filled with touching sentiment was the speech that Lincoln delivered as he was leaving Springfield to take the oath of the Presidency. His lip quivered and there was a tear on his furrowed cheek as he said:
"My friends, no one, not in my situation, can appreciate my feeling of sadness at this parting. To this place and the kindness of these people, I owe everything. Here I have lived a quarter of a century and have passed from a young to an old man. Here my children have been born, and one is buried."

"I now leave, not knowing whether ever I may return, with a task before me greater than that which rested upon Washington. Without the assistance of that Divine Being who ever attended him, I can not succeed. With that assistance, I can not fail. Trusting in Him Who can go with me and remain with you and be everywhere for good, let us confidently hope that all will yet be well. To His care commending you, as I hope in your prayers you will commend me, I bid you an affectionate farewell."

Central High School in Memphis, Tenn., has had many and diverse students. For the identity of one, see the name at the top of this "column." Congressman Clifford Davis is another. While Davis was fire and police commissioner of Memphis some few years ago. "Machine Gun" Kelly was captured. If you've forgotten, he was the trigger man in the Urshel kidnaping. When Davis went back to take a long look at the prisoner, Kelly broke into a laugh and said, "You and I went to school together; I remember hearing you make a speech."

Well, you have to hand it to the ex-students of dear old C.H.S. Whatever they go in for, they do not go at it in any halfway fashion for Kelly was one of the best—in his line.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

GEORGE: "Yes, I certainly would like to hear why you call that an old fashioned idea, Judge."

OLD JUDGE: "Glad to tell you, George. Until recently, a person known as an alcoholic was generally treated as a social outcast. Little if anything was done to understand him or help him. But, during the past few years, medical research and study has developed that alcoholics are really sick people... that there is usually a deep-rooted physical, social or emotional reason behind their behavior. That's why today so much is being done to help them by finding out and correcting the condition that leads them to excess."

GEORGE: "How many folks are there like that, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Well, according to scientific research, 95% of the people who drink, drink sensibly. 5% do so unwisely, at times. Included in that 5% is the small percentage of the sick people I'm talking about."

GEORGE: "That certainly gives me a clearer picture. It's the most sensible approach I've ever heard of the subject."

Farm Labor Men Make Texas Tour

Extension Service farm labor leaders of Texas and other major wheat growing states are planning close cooperation in referrals and placement of labor and combines during the 1945 harvest.

Recently a party of Extension farm labor supervisors representing six great plains states toured Texas wheat and small grain-growing areas to observe crop conditions and study the Texas cooperative combine program, especially with refer-

MUNDAY H. D. CLUB TO MEET ON WEDNESDAY

Members of the Munday Home Demonstration Club are urged to attend the meeting in the home of Mrs. Frank Bowley on Wednesday, May 23, at 2:30 p. m. Miss Lucie King will be in charge.

The program will be on handwork, stenciling and block painting, and rugs.

ance to its operation in the counties. The party included C. M. Keelchan of Minnesota; M. C. Altenburg and M. S. Burke of North Dakota; Leroy Mercer of Oklahoma, and J. V. Hepler, former state Extension director of South Dakota but now coordinating director of the farm labor program for the North central area with headquarters at Washington, D. C.

C. H. Day, representing the state office of the Agricultural Administration Agency, and D. A. Adam, assistant Extension farm labor supervisor with headquarters at Plainview, conducted the party through the areas of the Panhandle, low rolling plains, north central Texas and the Heart o'Texas. One objective of the four-day tour was to lay the basis for a coordinated program on grain harvesting with emphasis upon exchange of information between the farm labor offices of those states, Adam said.

This exchange, he believed, would greatly assist in getting maximum service from combine operators because county agricultural agents and farm labor workers would be able to direct them promptly to jobs. This in turn would hasten harvesting and storing of grain.

Texas will go into harvesting ahead of the other plains states, with light cutting of wheat commencing in the southern part of that area about May 25, Adam said. With favorable weather, he estimated that the peak of the harvesting in the low rolling plains should be reached about June 10.

Cutting oats in the lower area, however, may start about May 15, Adam said, with the outlook for a near record yield from the 1,337,946 acres in crop. In Brady region where the conditions of oats was reported as 83 percent good April 1, the crop is very heavy, and present indications are that in many instances yields would exceed 50 bushels an acre.

War Veterans Warned Against Hasty Purchase of Dwellings

With the current high prices of property, war veterans may seriously encumber themselves with bad investments unless they consult competent advisers before borrowing money from the government under the GI Bill of Rights, in the opinion of Miles L. Colean, former Assistant Federal Housing Administrator.

Caution against undue haste in taking advantage of federal loans for veterans is urged by Mr. Colean in an article in the May issue of House Beautiful magazine in which he explains in non-technical language just what home loan benefits our veterans are entitled to.

Mr. Colean points out that veterans who want loans under the GI Bill of Rights do not even have to deal with the government direct, but may transact their business through their local mortgage companies.

In warning against hasty and perhaps ill-considered investments made with such loans from the government, he says in part:

"In many part of the country, now is a dubious time for either buying or building. The selection is limited and the prices are high. A liberal loan and a low interest rate won't take the curse off an inflated price. There is every reason therefore to be cautious in investing in a home."

Although the GI Bill of Rights stipulates that applications for such loans must be made within two years after an honorable discharge or two years after the "termination of the war," whichever is the longer period, Mr. Colean points out that this provision should be no cause for undue haste in applying for a loan.

"Fear of missing the advantage provided by the law should not be made an excuse for haste," he states. "Terminating a war, even after hostilities cease, is apt to be a lengthy business. It may be recalled that while hostilities ceased in 1918, the last war was not 'terminated' until 1921."

Guy Hardin Flies With 388th Group On 300th Mission

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, England—Staff Sergeant Guy S. Hardin, of Munday, waist gunner on an Eighth Air Force B-17 Flying Fortress, recently took part in the missions of the 388th Bomb. Group, as the aerial war against Germany neared an end.

The group, commanded by Lieut. Colonel Chester C. Cox of Superior, Wis., flew its first mission to bomb a motor plant at Amsterdam in Holland on July 17, 1943, and rounded out 21 months of battering the German war machine with its 300th combat trip, an attack on fortified areas near Bordeaux, France.

As it helped to pave the way for the Allied invasion and sweep across Germany, the 388th Group ranged across the whole of Europe cooperating with Allied ground forces, striking at targets in virtually every corner of Germany and Nazi-controlled-oil refineries, aircraft plants, airfields, heavy industries, port installations, railroad yards, enemy troop concentrations and flying bomb factories and launching sites.

The group flew in the first shuttle mission to Africa when Messerschmitt plants at Regensburg were bombed, it was assigned to lead all heavy bombers over Normandy on D-Day, it led the first Eighth Air Force shuttle mission to Russia, and its planes led the Eighth Air Force to Berlin in February, 1945, when a record tonnage of bombs was dropped on transportation targets in the Nazi capital. One week the 388th bombed military targets in Berlin five times.

The group is a member of the Third Air Division, the division cited by president Roosevelt for the Regensburg shuttle mission.

Sgt. Hardin is the son of Mrs. Nell Hardin, of Munday, and had been engaged in farming before entering the AAF in January, 1943.
