

Bank Officers and Directors Are Named Recently

Local Deposits At All-Time High

Few changes were made in the official roster of the First National Bank, when the annual meeting of stockholders was held recently for the election of officers and directors for the year of 1946.

Officers are: W. E. Braly, president; C. L. Mayes, vice president; M. L. Wiggins, vice president and cashier; Travis Lee, J. W. Smith, and Paul Pendleton, assistant cashiers. Lee and Pendleton were recently discharged from the service, and Wiggins has been back on duty several weeks, after having received his discharge.

Harvey D. Arnold, also ex-service man who is assistant cashier, was left off the list of officers because he will enter Texas Tech at Lubbock soon.

R. D. Atkinson was elected as director, being the only new member. Re-elected were J. C. Borden, W. E. Braly, Homer Lee of Wichita Falls, C. L. Mayes, J. W. Smith, and M. L. Wiggins.

That the bank has seen a successful year during 1945 is shown in its quarterly statement, which was issued at the close of business on December 31, 1945. Total deposits amounted to $3,273,042.41, while total assets were listed at $3,369,962.42.

Club People In Useful Projects For January

One hundred and ninety four 4-H Club boys and girls attended the demonstrations given on Monday, January 14, 1946 by the agents on "killing and curing pork" and "pork on parade with fruit."

The girls were in charge of the meeting during the business session, then the meeting was turned over to R. O. Dunkle, County Agent. He gave a demonstration on killing and curing pork. The following things were stressed:

Precautions

1. Don't overheat the animal before killing.
2. Bleed well.
3. Chill meat thoroughly before curing.
4. Use pure salt.
5. Seal utensils before using.
6. Do not puncture pieces of meat to admit cures.
7. Cure in a cool, dry place.
8. Examine meat frequently for mold.
9. Cleanliness in handling meat is always important.

Only healthy hogs should be slaughtered.

Pick a cool, dry clear day. Keep hogs off feed for 12 to 24 hours.

Stick the hog with a knife.

Preventing oversalty meat—

Eight pounds of salt to dry-cure 100 pounds of trimmed pork is recommended. Eight pounds in dry cure is on the easy side. If you use dry cure and are careful to get all the mixture packed into the shanks and patted on the faces of the hams and shoulders, 6 pounds is enough and will make a more palatable ham or shoulder.

Give the salt plenty of time to penetrate to the center of the cuts and distribute itself evenly through the piece (2 or even 3 days to the pound, per piece, dry cure.)

The meeting was then turned over to Miss Lucile King, County home demonstration agent. She gave a demonstration on "Pork on Parade with Fruit." She took the meat that had been cured by the agent and prepared it properly. She garnished it with pears, grapes and carrot tops.

She stressed the following points in preparing meat properly:

1. Wipe meat off with damp cloth.
2. Place meat on rack in roaster.
3. Place meat with fat side up.
4. Cook meat with rind on until nearly done then remove or take rind off at beginning.
5. Cook meat at low temperature 325 deg. F.-350 deg. F.
6. Weigh meat before cooking.
7. Cook meat 30 mi. per pound.
8. Insert thermometer in center of meat.
9. Garnish to make more attractive.

Following the meat preparation she then prepared a fruit cup of oranges and grapes to be served as a dessert. Then she took the Texas Food Standard and planned the remainder of the menu, which consisted of baked ham garnished with pears, green bean, sweet potatoes, buttered beets, cabbage slaw, butter, whole wheat bread, orange grape fruit cup and cookies, and milk.

Rain And Snow Brings Moisture To This Area

Knox County has received a portion of the much-needed moisture which was brought by the rain and snow of the past few days.

Munday was blanketed with a light coating of snow Wednesday morning, following the furies which continued all day Tuesday. Rain, snow and sleet was on the program, with what moisture that fell soaking slowly into the ground.

The moisture will be a great boon to the wheat farmers, whose crops have been suffering from the dry weather. Although classed as not sufficient to give a good season, the moisture is helpful to both land and crops.

A report from H. P. Hill, local weather observer, shows that .98 of an inch has been received at Munday since January 1, 1946.

Coldset weather of the spell was on Wednesday morning, when the temperature was at 19 degrees, according to Mr. Hill's records.

Crop Rotation Being Practiced To Conserve Soil

You must save what you have before you can add anything to it. In this statement, J. W. Ziessell in the West Rhineland group who is carrying on a coordinated Soil Conservation program cooperating with the Wichita-Brasos Soil Conservation District, is evidently a firm believer.

Mr. Ziessell, with the help of the Soil Conservation Service technicians has terraced his farm in order to hold moisture and to keep from losing the soil. He realizes this practice is good but not sufficient to improve soil productivity. To supplement this, he has planted about 14 acres of Austrian Winter peas as a soil improving crop. He also plans to plant 4 or 5 acres of Madrid clover this spring on a trial basis. If this proves successful Mr. Ziessell will use both Austrian winter pea and clover in his rotation system.

Both of these crops will produce grazing, hay and seed and will therefore pay their own way while improving the soil. A good many farmers in the district are planting these crops and indications at present are that it will pay to include them in a rotation cropping system.

RECONVERT TO SAVE LIFE

One of the principal topics of conversation today is reconversion and the general improvement of facilities for the public welfare.

None of the risks of living, except sickness, more vitally affects every home, than fire. It causes death and suffering and financial loss in thousands of families each year. Therefore, any means of controlling and preventing fire is of major public interest.

There is no exact model for carrying on fire prevention work because of the variation from city to city in the organization set-up of municipal affairs and the division of various inspectional functions and authority between departments. This situation becomes further involved when considered on a national basis, since many states have laws governing numerous matters on fire prevention. Every city should have a fire prevention code, properly coordinated with existing state laws or standards, and enforceable by the fire department. Such a code should also be integrated with building, electrical, plumbing, gas fitting or other city codes on matters of fire prevention and protection.

Fire departments and city council can get much needed and valuable information on how to establish or coordinate their fire prevention activities by writing to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, 83 John Street, New York, for a Suggested Fire Prevention Ordinance. Safety reconversion can make a good start here.

THE POST-WAR NEW YEAR

Now that most of the citizenry of America has settled down to the everyday work of the young year 1946, we look around and find the various Federal Agencies engaged in a sort of stock-taking and preparation for a bang-up first post-war year.

Particularly noteworthy are the land and water use programs of the Department of Interior's Bureau of Reclamation, the Army Engineers and the Department of Agriculture. They are confidently approaching tremendous jobs. Some of the tasks they are undertaking are projects that were interrupted by the war, others are new projects.

In the past, these agencies have done splendid jobs—now they are embarked on even greater and better ones.

The successful completion of their work is sound reason (even if there were not a dozen others) why it would be short-sighted and economically unsound to supersede these projects by untried "Regional Authorities." Such authorities could do no more, and undoubtedly would do less, less well and less quickly.

If any of the projected Regional Authority Bills now before Congress should become law, the fine organization built up by the above named agencies to meet the problems of flood control, reclamation, soil conservation, power development and river and harbor improvement, would have to be scrapped.

Chief sufferer in such an eventuality would be the taxpayer.

FAITH JUSTIFIED

Transcontinental air mail service has passed its twenty-fifth anniversary. Since September, 1920, when the first trip was completed, 4,000,000 passengers have been carried over the original transcontinental air trail, along with 125,000,000 pounds of mail and 177,600,000 pounds of cargo.

One of the pioneer steps in the development of the present day air transport industry was the inauguration of air express. The Railway Express Agency was one of the first to show faith in the new form of transport. It created an air express division and encouraged the expansion of shipment by air. Its thousands of off-airline offices are as ready to accept air express parcels as they are any other kind. Such packages are moved by the fastest method to the nearest air terminal and transferred to planes.

But the growth of the past will be dwarfed by what is to come in the future. The entire history of express is based on the principle of taking the property of shippers into personal custody for delivery to the desired destination by the fastest possible means. Progressive flexibility in response to change is characteristic of the private undertaking.

As the transcontinental airlines look back with satisfaction over twenty-five years of aviation history, air express looks back with them. Its faith has been justified.

One of our discharged sailor friends tells us that bolting the food down doesn't help a bit when you're seasick.

IT'S NOT INSURANCE

The Chicago Tribune observes that to call the President's proposed compulsory health program "insurance," is a misnomer. . . . The fundamental principle of insurance, says the Tribune, "is that the rate or premium is proportionate to the risk involved, and that all policyholders who offer the same risk pay the same rate. . . .

"The so-called health insurance program embodies neither of these principles, common to all insurance. The man with a record of good health gets no rating advantage over the man who has a record of chronic ill health. Furthermore, payments are not fixed according to the probable cost of providing medical care to the individual, but according to his income. President Truman proposes that the tax, or a combined tax and a Federal subvention, equal to 4 per cent of all incomes up to $3,600 a year, be used to finance the system. If the costs were placed solely on the beneficiaries, this income tax would cost a man earning $300 a month $144 a year. The man earning $100 a month would get exactly the same protection for $48 a year. That's not insurance.

"It may be a legitimate public purpose to tax people in order to provide medical care for their less healthy, less prosperous, or less capable fellow citizens. That, in fact, is already done through tax-supported hospitals, and clinics. But such a project is not insurance. It's a new form of taxation and a very heavy one, and its proponents ought to acknowledge that fact in the beginning."

SELLING BY SAVING

Those who advocate that this country now needs perpetual price control to prevent the public from being "gypped" by rapacious manufacturers and retailers, should correct their reasoning in the light of facts.

To begin with, modern American industry and retailing can exist only by producing and selling goods in volume at a price the people can pay. And, the cheaper they can produce and sell the goods, the more they can sell.

To take a specific case: How does the coal industry hope to make a profit? Certainly not by selling the least amount of coal at the highest possible price per ton.

Instead of being satisfied with mining the greatest amount of coal per man of any country in the world, American producers are actually trying to increase the use of coal by showing the average householder how to build new homes with chimneys of sufficient size to get efficiency out of every ton of coal used, and thereby actually save money.

America was built on the low-cost production philosophy. So why assume that we must now depend on non-producing price controllers to tell the producing price controllers to tell the producers and the sellers and the consumers how to live? The American industrial and selling technique has brought this nation the highest living standards in the world.

WHERE ARE OUR WAR HEROES?

The public is always curious as to what becomes of the picturesque figures of war. Lieutenant General James H. Doolittle has returned to the Shell Oil Companies as a vice-president, where his duties will include coordination of the aviation interests of the organization in the United States, as well as in other parts of the world.

So when you think of "Jimmy" Doolittle and his Tokyo raid, you can remember that he is still working for the future of aviation.

Then there was the sailor who just ordered his dinner thrown overboard.

You don't get to be a lady-killer by starving the girls to death.

Old Clothing To Go To People In Dire Need

In the bomb-gutted, ruin-strewn lands, peace alone could not bring an end to the war-created shortages in raw material, yard goods, clothing, shoes, and bedding. The shipments of clothing that Americans donated were not nearly enough to go around, yet as these war sufferers try to rebuild their lives, they need clothes for courage, protection and survival.

These people in dire need such as you have never known do not ask you to give them Utopia—But only a small part of the serviceable warm clothing that you in all probability would not wear enough to give housewifery. That old coat that is outdated but still good and the baby blankets so long stored away, will mean the difference between a happy new year and no new year at all for some families between despair and renewed faith in the ultimate good will of mankind to his fellow man. Americans have always been the most generous nationality, and in so doing we have always had the means to give.

The devastation and want in these lands is on such a vast scale as to defy description, but no correspondent returning from either theater of operations has failed to be appalled by the need of the people, and especially the little children. Millions are even now poorly clad for winter weather, for health and self-respect. Can you imagine a large family with only enough clothing to out-fit one so that the others are compelled to remain at home in order that the one with clothing may forage for food for the others?

What is needed is used clothing, for both winter and summer wear. Although clothing need not be in perfect repair, it must be useful to the people who will receive it.

Garments will be distributed free and without discrimination of any kind.

In the next three years you will be asked by the school children, your neighbors and the press to make a concerted effort to collect all clothing you are not using and place it on your porch on Friday morning so that the truck may come for it. The collection center for this area is the City Hall. Don't forget them.

Income tax time is just around the corner, and Uncle Sam will soon discover that America has a lot of untold wealth.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS
by BOYCE HOUSE

At least once to every man comes a moment when he touches the hem of romance's robe, no matter how drab his daily round of life.

Herman Hackmeyer sold hardware for a San Antonio house over Southwest Texas. He was short and pudgy of figure, red of countenance, with mild eyes and a harmless expression. Yet even the prosaic "Hack" had his fleeting minutes of glory.

Probably you are incapable of imagining such a thing to be true but there was a time when wrestling was a sport and not a hippodroming affair. This was years before World War I. Frank Gotch, the Iowa Farmer, otherwise the Cornhusker Giant, was champion of the World and the title-holder of Europe was Hackenschmidt, the Russian Lion. Hackenschmidt was short, thick-set and tremendously powerful.

It was inevitable that the two should meet and Kansas City was chosen for the battle. Gotch arrived early and set up training camp; but two weeks before the match, "Hack" had not yet appeared and so the fans were excitedly expecting him momentarily.

And it was at this juncture that Herman Hackmeyer was dealt his prize hand by smiling Fate. The hardware drummer stepped from a train in Kansas City and, as he entered the Union Station, all acquaintance called out, "Hello Hack."

Now it was a cold day and the traveling salesman was wrapped in a huge overcoat that gave his fat form the appearance of a stumpy-like physique of great power.

A "red cap" murmured in an awed tone to the traveler whose suitcases he was carrying, "Gee, dat's Hackenschmidt!" — and the word swept across the station. There were cries on all sides of "Hurrah fer Hack" and Hackmeyer acknowledged the acclaim with bows.

As he walked to the hotel, the tidings had preceded him; news-boys, shine-boys, messenger boys, brewery wagon drivers, fruit vendors, ice men, in short the citizenry in general called out, "Hyah, Hack" or "Good boy, Hack." A few of the bolder stepped forward for a handshake, and so was born many a boast in the John L. Sullivan tradition, "Shake the hand that shook the hand of Hackenschmidt."

Hackmeyer, with shoulders thrown back, swung along with stately tread, for during that walk he felt himself indeed to be the Russian Lion.

"That was years ago and it lasted only fifteen minutes," he said with a sigh and a smile in the lobby of the hotel at Cotulla, "but it was the climax of my life."

Texas And Her Annexation

By Dr. E. C. Barker, Professor of American History, The University of Texas

CLAY AND VAN BUREN ON ANNEXATION

The campaign of 1844 is said to have begun in 1840. To the surprise of the country, Martin Van Buren, the Democratic candidate in 1840, was defeated by the Whigs, who supported William Henry Harrison and Tyler. The Democrats thought it good strategy to continue to back their defeated candidate, so that the nomination of Van Buren in 1844 seemed to be a foregone conclusion. It was well understood in Whig councils that Henry Clay would finally receive his reward and succeed Harrison. He had earned the chance and had been a receptive aspirant for many years. Harrison's death and Tyler's succession threatened Clay's hopes, while Tyler's raising of the annexation issue ultimately side-tracked Van Buren's nomination and defeated Clay for the presidency.

Just before the Whig national convention in Baltimore, Clay published a letter declaring that he did not favor immediate annexation of Texas. About the same time an official friend asked Van Buren's views and he answered at great length. Since 1837, when he rejected Memucan Hunt's overtures, he had convinced himself that annexation would not violate the constitution, but he was not ready to act until Mexico recognized independence and made peace. Clay's views were accepted even by Southern Whigs in the national convention and he received the nomination on May 1, 1844. Van Buren already had nearly enough votes pledged to nominate him and many of the instructed delegates were on the way to Baltimore when his statement appeared. Those from the South knew that his attitude was opposed to the wishes of their states, but there was not sufficient time to hold new state conventions and get other instructions. The traditional two-thirds rule of the Democrats offered a way out. After a few ballots, delegates complacently decided they had fulfilled their instructions and switched to James K. Polk, of Tennessee, the first "dark horse" in a national convention. Polk was known to favor annexation, and to have the support of Jackson, the old warrior in the Hermitage. After the ninth ballot Van Buren's name was withdrawn and the convention stamped to Polk.

Combat Veterans of the Forty-fourth Division Look to the Future

The Democratic Platform

The Democratic Platform contained a strong expansion plank. Controversy with England over the boundary of Oregon was active, and Oregon and Texas were linked together in the demand for "the re-occupation of Oregon and the re-annexation of Texas at the earliest practicable period." The play on "re-occupation" and "re-annexation" begged important historical questions, but they were good slogans with which to excite voters. In the November election Polk won a popular plurality of 40,000 over Clay, and his electoral vote was 170 to 105.

England Views With Alarm

England had used strong diplomatic pressure to induce Mexico to reorganize the independence of Texas and make a peace guaranteed by England and France, hoping thereby to make the prospect of national independence so attractive to Texas leaders that they would reject annexation, but Mexico would not yield. Then the governments of England and France contemplated a joint declaration against annexation in the hope of winning votes for Clay and the anti-annexationists. Fortunately they consulted their respective ministers in Washington and were told that no action they might take could contribute more to the victory of Polk and annexation.

Rats Are Carriers Of Typhus Fleas

Austin.—Rats from the farmers' barn can carry typhus-bearing fleas, as well as cats and dogs, state health department officials reported recently at a meeting of the Sanitary Engineering and Public Health Council of Texas, in a session at the University of Texas.

Dusting rat-infested buildings with DDT, then using the new 1080 poisoning a week later has proved very effective in programs now being carried on by the state department, Dr. J. V. Irons, sanitary engineer, said.

Fly control by the use of DDT was also discussed at the conference and improved methods of rat-proofing, trapping, and in using fumigants were discussed as necessary researches.

Officers of the Council include Dean W. R. Woolrich of the University of Texas, president; Dean O. V. Adams of Texas Tech, vice president; Phil M. Ferguson of the University of Texas, secretary, and V. M. Ehlers, State Department of Health and Dr. J. K. G. Silvey, North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, Council members.

Regular Army Offers Career For Veterans

"Soldier, what's your future?" is becoming a familiar greeting among combat veterans returning from overseas these days, as the men in uniform discuss the advantages of choosing the Regular Army as a career.

Many of these men experienced the Army at its worst—the hazards of war, the muck of fox holes—and now they are studying with interest the advantages offered by the peacetime Army. They are aware that the Army offers security, travel, and practical trade instruction. They are also keenly alive to the necessity of maintaining a force of "guardian of victory" as a barrier against future wars.

Typical of the men discussing these points are five men of the Forty-fourth Division who were interviewed as they returned to this country on the liner "Queen Elizabeth" recently. They are Private First Class James D. Seitzer of Williamsport, Pennsylvania; Staff Sergeant Lawrence N. Shepherd of East Lansing, Michigan; Technical Sergeant Fred Heinrichs of Hollis, Long Island; Sergeant William R. McGleughlin of Great Neck, Long

Drawbacks To Cotton Ceiling Are Outlined

Austin.—The chief drawback to the proposed OPA ceiling price on cotton will be the successful administration of the regulation, Dr. A. B. Cox, professor of cotton marketing at the University of Texas, pointed out this week.

"There are so many different qualities of cotton and uses for cotton that it will be difficult to enforce such a law," he explained. "Manufacturers may shift from one quality to another or from one product to another, with some slight variation, and thus create an entirely new problem."

"It was the opinion of the group of cotton experts on the committee of price ceilings and cotton research which met in Washington in '43 to place the ceiling on the goods rather than on cotton," said Dr. Cox, who was a member of that committee, "and thus effect control of cotton through that means and through the sale of Government-owned cotton when the price threatened to reduce consumption."

"It will be to the advantage of the Texas producer in the long run if the government will sell its stock of surplus cotton at a price which will maximum consumption

Island, New York; and Technician Fourth Grade Robert Kubicek of Edwardsville, Illinois.

Sergeant Heinrichs, for instance, has a wife and young child and has no civilian job to go back to, he said.

"Enlisting in the Regular Army and staying in as a technical sergeant looks good to me," he told his buddies.

Soldiers who enlist or reenlist in the Regular Army can retain their present grades and seniorities and can select the overseas theater in which they wish to serve. Physically qualified civilians 18 to 34 years of age, inclusive, also may enlist in the Regular Army at any Recruiting Station.

in order to dispose of the cotton surplus at present high prices.

"The maximum consumption of cotton is needed to relieve the present scarcity of cotton goods. If the government will turn loose its surplus, the maximum amount of cotton will be available and the carry-over will be reduced, which must be accomplished sooner or later," he pointed out.

"Such a policy would be the greatest possible curb on inflation. A policy of pushing sales of Government cotton to prevent excessive price advances of cotton will have the additional advantage of holding the maximum portion of the goods market for cotton. The price of American cotton is now about six cents above its world competitive level due to the Government loan and purchase programs. The Government now owns and controls about 4,700,000 bales of cotton of cotton.

"The Government buying price is now 22.46 per pound and the market price is 22.45, which means a $10 per bale difference," the cotton expert continued. "The Government's buying price of 22.46 per pound and its high non-resource loans are undoubtedly encouraging speculation in cotton. The point is, there is nothing more important in the cotton situation, especially from the standpoint of the cotton growers, than getting the present surplus of cotton into consumption at, or near, present prices," Dr. Cox concluded.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

ART: "Saw you at the movies last night, Judge. That was quite a weekend that alcoholic went through, wasn't it?"

OLD JUDGE: "Sure was, but I'm afraid most people won't really understand it."

ART: "What do you mean, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Simply this. That poor chap was really a sick man...not just a drunk. Studies by famous psychiatrists and the medical profession show that alcoholism is not caused by a craving for alcohol...it is usually the result of some deep-rooted social, physical or emotional condition. If that fellow had not turned to alcohol for escape, he would have turned to something else."

ART: "Are there many that get in that condition, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Fortunately not, Art. Scientists at a great university have stated that approximately 95% of the people who drink do so sensibly. Only 5% are immoderate at times. In that 5% is the small number known as alcoholics. And the beverage distilling industry which does not want a single person to use its product immoderately, is cooperating fully in the solution of this problem."

FEDERAL LAND BANK LOANS . . .

What does a Land Bank loan cost? What does low cost mean to the borrower? Its the complete price the farmer or rancher pays for his long-term credit...the cost of his trip toward debt-free ownership.

The supreme cost all borrowers want to avoid is the loss of one's property...one's home. Assurance that Land Bank Loans are not "overloaned" and that proper collection policies will be followed are a protection against such a catastrophe.

Some other factors that determine the worth as well as the cost of Land Bank loan services are the value of having a low rate of interest tied down, no renewals, a loan that can be repaid from earnings . . . and the right to pay off in part or in full at any time with funds from any source without penalties or restrictions.

Former Citizen Turns Poet; Sends Work To Munday

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Mayes recently received three poems which were composed by Edwin Heald, a former Munday resident. Mr. Heald, now of San Diego, Calif., was cashier of the First National Bank in Munday for several years. His poems follow:

LONG-RANGE PLANNING
If I had a million dollars,
I'd use it every cent
To build a lot of houses,
Each one of them for rent
To families with children;
And before a lease I'd let
I'd make the stipulation
Each child must own a pet.
They could run, yell, and play,
and the family live in peace,
Do as they wished in the house
On which they paid the lease;
For healthy, happy childhood
In a home free from fear
Means citizens of the future
Who hold their freedom dear.
I might not make much money,
But my reward would be
Though I grew old and feeble,
I'd remain forever free.
EDWIN HEALD

THE POINT OF VIEW
They say clothes don't make a person;
Whether it's so or not,
From men I saw down on the beach
I'm sure they help a lot;
For lumpy legs and knobby knees
A barrel-shaped fallen chest,
I'd recommend a pair of pants
Also a coat and vest.
For bathing beauties whom I saw,
I know the saying is true—
Clothes would be superfluous,
Detracting from the view.
—Edwin Heald

PAST AND PRESENT
It's a wonderful experience to visit
The place where you lived before,
To view the scenes of your childhood
And meet old friends once more.
Things, you'll find, are different now
As you look with great surprise
At hills once steep and creeks so deep.
But now only half their size.
The houses that dot the countryside,
Their spaciousness you recall;
But like the farms and the big red barns,
They now appear pitifully small.
People your age with graying hair,
The kids whom once you knew . . .
It seems very strange, but the facts are plain:
Everything has changed but you!

Children Likely To Suffer From Winter Illness

Austin.—Young children may suffer as much from winter illness as they do from those commonly known as "summer complaints," in the opinion of Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, and his advice to parents is to guard babies and young children against these winter hazards.

Influenza, tonsillitis, pneumonia, bronchitis, and asthma are included among those diseases which may be dangerous winter illnesses among children since they affect the respiratory or breathing system. Pneumonia, in particular, may develop from neglected cold, it may follow as an aftereffect of the measles or whooping cough, or it may occur suddenly and with little warning. Diseases of the respiratory system are more prevalent in winter than in summer and are much more difficult to combat than digestive ailments such as summer complaint.

"These winter diseases are especially dangerous to babies and young children," Dr. Cox stated. "Nearly all of them are spread through the secretions from the nose and mouth. Children not in vigorous health are naturally more susceptible to these complaints and the first line of defense," Dr. Cox cautioned, "is to strengthen the powers of resistance against dis-

Jeanette Beck, Vera Club Girl Is Selected Knox County Gold Star Girl

Jeanette Beck of Vera 4-H Club was selected as the Gold Star Girl for Knox County for 1945. Other winners were Betty Jo Barnett of Benjamin 4-H placed second and Veronica Decker, Sunset 4-H Club placed third.

In order to be eligible for a Gold Star Girl one must have been a club girl for three years and have carried a successful demonstration each year.

The girls 4-H club members elect one girl from their club as a candidate for Gold Star Girl of the County. There were seven girls elected. They were as follows:

Benjamin—Betty Jo Barnett, Gilliland—Eva Dell Shaw, Goree—Naomi Jean Miller, Sunset—Veronica Decker, Truscott—Mary Kathleen Chowning, Union Grove—Jean Talant, and Vera—Jeanette Beck.

The girls were judged by a representative of the women's council and a 4-H club representative.

The judges were Mrs. R. M. Al-representative of the women's council and Jonnie Jackson Gold Star Girl in 1944 representing the 4-H Club girls. The judges and Lucile King, home demonstration agent made a tour of the county and visited each girl on Saturday, Dec. 15. The judges left Saturday morning at 8:15 and spent the day visiting the girls.

Each girl gave her report and displayed some of their work. A written report was turned in by the girls when the judges left.

Jeanette's report is as follows: In my last three years of 4-H Club work I have done various things. I have not worked in the cotton field because daddy rents our cotton land out and we wheat farm; I was kept busy at home since no help could be secured.

One summer I helped my brother herd three hundred head of sheep twice a day for about eighty days. We did this on horseback. One season I drove the truck for the men to gather the corn. During harvest, when too short handed, I carried wheat to the grain elevator. Last summer and summer before last, mother and I cooked for the thresher hands. We had them for about twelve days in all and one day there were twenty-three men. Two summers ago we rode our river land almost everyday until time to start back to school. This averaged about five miles of riding a day. Every summer for about six or seven weeks I have helped haul bundle feed to feed sheep, horses and cows.

Last winter I learned to laundry clothes at the washer by myself. I help with the family ironing almost every week. I have helped feed and raise twelve orphan lambs in the past three years. In the last few months, I have killed and dressed six chickens by myself. I have learned to prepare a balanced meal and I have assisted in the preparation of two hundred meals. I have learned to set a table correctly and I average doing this about once a day. I helped solicit funds for establishing the lunch room. One day last week another girl and I donated our services for an hour and a half before lunch in the lunch room. We helped check the number of pupils present that day; then dried new plates and silver ware, set the tables, and poured the water.

I have contributed to the meat shortage by raising pigs, sheep, club calves, grass calves, and chickens. My brother and I each have half interest in thirteen pigs and a sow. My part in the sheep has been about ten head. I have also had two club calves, two grass calves, and three hundred chickens.

I have observed and experienced in picture and furniture arrangement.

I have taken special care of my clothing in order to wear them longer and thus adding a few things along have a better variety in my wardrobe. Out of the money for the sale of my stock I have bought fifty dollars worth of clothing and three hundred and fifty dollars in War Bonds.

In 4-H Club activities I have been secretary, president, and vice-president respectively in the last three years. I have also assisted as song leader. I have been both chicken and garden demonstrator. In my garden work I helped to plant eight different kinds of vegetables. I have canned and assisted in canning two hundred quarts of fruit and vegetables.

In school and social activities I have been president and secretary of my class. Last year I lacked one point making the highest average in high school. Several times each year I took part in school programs. Just recently I was in a program honoring the service and ex-service men of the community. I was also elected football queen of Vera hi. Last summer I rode in the rodeo. In 1943 the schedule was arranged so that at one period all the teachers were busy, so the superintendent asked me to keep the study hall that period. I attend Sunday school and church as regularly as possible and am at present General secretary of the Young People's Department.

This summer while daddy was in the hospital for a period of about two and a half weeks I ran the house by myself most of the time. For a few days my grandmother was here to help me.

For sewing I have made seven garments, two hats, two pairs of window curtains, patched four sheets, and remodeled six other garments. I also made a wastebasket.

I have earned daily for my personal appearance such as hair, hands, teeth, cleanliness, etc. I read my Bible every night before retiring.

Washington News Letter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—One of the biggest problems to be settled by the second session of the Seventy-ninth Congress convention on January 14, is the President's recommendation for unification of the armed services. The President has recommended that we set up a single Department of National Defense with a Secretary of National Defense in the President's Cabinet. Under this Secretary of National Defense would be Secretaries of Army, Navy, and Air. These secretaries of Army, Navy, and Air would not be Cabinet members, but would be under and answerable to the Secretary of National Defense who would be a Cabinet member.

This program is strongly favored by the Army and is strongly opposed by the Navy. The Navy is proud of its reputation as our first line of defense and the guardian of the oceans. It fears that under the unification program it would be relegated to an inferior and secondary role.

The Secretary of War, Robert P. Patterson, strongly supported by Generals Spaatz, Bradley, Grieger, Devers, Doolittle, Eisenhower and others make out a good case for unification.

The Secretary of the Navy, James Forrestal, backed by Admirals Leahy, Nimitz, Halsey and others are fighting the proposal with everything they have.

Until World War II our separate Departments of War and Navy functioned very well. Land and sea battles were essentially different, each being remote and separate from the other. During the present war, however, we have had three strong elements often in rivalry and sometimes in conflict, to wit: On Okinawa some of the forces were under General MacArthur, a thousand miles to the south in the Philippines. Some were under Admiral Nimitz, a thousand miles to the east on Guam. Those in the strategic air forces were under General Spaatz, who was a thousand miles away. MacArthur reported to General Marshall, Nimitz reported to Admiral King, and Spaatz reported to General Arnold, all in Washington. It is said that the so-called Island Commander lacked a thority to discipline traffic violators under branches of service other than his own.

Even on a tiny island like Johnson Island, which is barely large enough for a single air strip, the Army and the Navy each maintain its own exclusive personnel to service planes.

The Army specified one color and weight of underwear for its men in Iceland and Alaska, and the Navy another. As a result both forces could not be outfitted from a single depot.

Proponents of unification say that while there might be some ground for maintaining separate finance establishments, it is costly and inefficient to maintain separate procurement for medical supplies, separate hospitals, separate intelligence force, separate air field, and other competing, duplicated service. They point out as ridiculous the maintenance of separate research since rockets, jet propulsion, radar, proximity fuses, and atomic bombs are common to all branches of services.

Opponents, on the other hand, point out that the Secretary of National Defense might be prejudiced against one or the other services. Under the present system, for example, the Secretary of the Navy, being in the Cabinet, has the President's ear. Under the proposed set-up the Secretary of the Navy, being under the Secretary of National Defense, could not carry his complaints directly to the President. The Navy feels that under such a program the Navy would be dominated by the Army and that its identity as a separate, integral force would be lost. The Navy denies their fight on unification is one of pride and prestige; they base it on historical grounds and on logistics as they see it. They concede the necessity of unified command of joint operations in the field, but argue that unified command in Washington through a Secretary of National Defense is fraught with peril and evil.

Some unification was attained in World War II through the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Admiral Leahy, as the President's chief advisor, together with General Marshall and Admiral King, made up the top layer of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. General Arnold represented the Army Air Forces and sat in conferences but had no vote.

"Hey, Ref—aren't you out of bounds?"

In basketball or business, Americans expect fair play all down the line. In basketball, the referee is there to see that the game is played according to the rules. But he's not a player.

In business, the referee is the government, which establishes regulations for fair practices.

But when government goes beyond governing and into business and competes with its own tax paying citizens, the American tradition of fair play is set aside. The referee then becomes a player, and he takes advantages that are denied to all the other players in the game.

Take government-owned or subsidized electric power systems, for example. They pay no taxes. When they need money, they call on our U. S. Treasury funds and get it at little or no interest. If they have losses, through political management, why worry? You, as a taxpayer, will have to take care of that.

Business-managed power systems, on the other hand, do not have these special government privileges. They pay their full share of taxes, pay fair interest on any loans.

It is a tribute to American self-reliance that tax-paying, self-supporting companies supply over four-fifths of the tremendous amount of electricity used in this country.

The same foresight and experience which furnished the required electric power to win a global war will continue to assure America dependable—and cheap—electric service for a postwar world. And businessmen can do the job better than bureaucrats.

Brownwood Prepares Welcome For 36th Division; Organization Planned

BROWNWOOD. — Reactivation of the 36th Division Association is scheduled as one of the principle activities in business sessions of the outfit's three-day reunion here January 19, 20 and 21.

The 36th Division Association as it existed after World War I has been more or less dormant since the National Guard outfit was impressed into Federal service for a second time on November 25, 1940.

It is contemplated that the Association will be re-formed, elect officers, and adopt rules that will take into membership veterans who were with the Division in World War II.

Veterans of both World Wars who served in the Division are authorized and urged to attend the reunion, first held since the end of the last war. Those eligible to participate in the business sessions will be members of the Division between these dates: April 26, 1917 and November 11, 1918; and November 23, 1940, and December, 1945, all dates inclusive.

A program has been worked out by a citizen group of Brownwood and a committee from the division, of which H. Miller Ainsworth of Luling is chairman.

A preliminary meeting will be held January 19 at 10 a. m. in the Brownwood Municipal Auditorium. In the afternoon at two o'clock will be a parade. It is contemplated the Division will march by regiments, battalions and companies. For that reason all 36th Divisioners are urged to register immediately upon arrival at booths to be located in town and also at Camp Bowie in order that they may learn where their outfit will form.

Sunday morning will be given over to memorial services in Brownwood churches with former chaplains of the Division conducting the services.

The State Park at Lake Brownwood will be dedicated to the Division in a ceremony commencing at three o'clock Sunday afternoon. Governor Coke R. Stevenson will make the presentation while Major Fred L. Walker, who led the Division overseas and into its first combat, will accept.

Business sessions are scheduled for Monday, January 21.

Varied types of entertainment are being arranged by Brownwood citizens to be interspersed in the more serious side of the program. Some of the features will be dances.

Urging all enlisted men, warrant officers and officers to attend, Ainsworth said: "This is your Division meeting, and plans that have been made so to now were worked out so that an expression can be had from you as to what your wishes may be for your association."

Answering inquiries as to whether or not the uniform may be worn, Ainsworth said the matter was optional as far as the parade is concerned for Army regulations specify it may be worn on special events. The parade meets that requirements, he said.

Facilities of Camp Bowie, where the Division assembled for its initial training after federal mobilization on November 25, 1940, have been opened to the veterans to prevent any housing shortage. Billets at camp will be available for those who do not bring their wives—after all accommodations in Brownwood have been taken. Costs will be nominal and only for the laundry service. Meals also will be available at the camp at a nominal cost.

Reservations may be made by writing to the Hotel Brownwood, Brownwood, Texas. The staff there is arranging all billets, whether they be in the city or in the camp.

It was pointed out by Ainsworth that individual or special invitations are not being issued, and that the only form of invitation is that being disseminated through the press.

Values Decline On 1945 Crops

COLLEGE STATION. — A decline of about 18 per cent in the value of Texas' 1945 farm crops compared with the total for 1944 registered the first check in the successive upswing for the past five years.

The comparative figures, assembled by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Austin, give the preliminary total for 1945 as $754,914,000 against the revised estimates of $916,346,000 for 1944. The BAE cautions, however, that these farm value computations, based upon estimates of production and season average prices, should not be confused with cash income figures which represent returns from only that portion of the crop which is sold.

Broadly, the decline may be attributed largely to the failure of Nature to cooperate as well in 1945 as in preceding years. But the BAE is more literal in ascribing it as "due mainly to smaller production of cotton, sorghum for grain, and wheat." However, excessive rain at planting time in east Texas and drought in the western portion of the state delayed getting seed cotton into the ground or caused abandonment of prospective cotton acreage. After a very promising fall and winter growing season, wheat deteriorated rapidly under dry, hot weather as it approached maturity, while the expected volume of sorghum for grain shrank under similar conditions.

As a consequence, the BAE report said, these major crops valued at about $366,000,000 compared

TO DODGE SHOWING

Jim Reeves spent Wednesday of last week in Dallas, attending a dealer's meeting for a preview showing of the new Dodge automobiles for 1946. He reported the new Dodge to be "a beauty in every respect."

with $507,000,000 in 1944, account for a large part of the total decrease in value of all crops. The combined value of cotton lint and cottonseed production in 1945, estimated at $233,000,000, was about $87,000,000 or 27 per cent, less than in 1944. Value of wheat production, while dropping from nearly $100,000,000 for the record 1944 crop to about $61,000,000 this year, still was much above the level of any other year since the high-priced crop of 1919. Sorghum for grain was valued at $72,000,000, compared with the record total of $87,000,000 for the 1944 crop, and $79,000,000 for 1943. Corn, the fourth major grain crop, declined $4,741,000 in value below 1944.

The BAE points out that the price level as a whole was little different in 1945 from the preceding year and price changes of individual commodities mostly were small.

Cotton Remains Good Cash Crop

DALLAS, January. — Texas land planted to cotton in 1945 produced 56 per cent more value per acre, on the average, than acres planted in other crops, the Texas Cotton Production Committee estimated today.

Cotton and cottonseed produced on 6,000,000 acres are valued at $233,103,000 in 1945, by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, or an average of $38.85 per acre. This compares with an average crop value of $24.85 per acre for 20,996,000 acres of Texas land devoted to other crops.

The Committee points out that this difference of $14 per acre in favor of cotton was made during a season very unfavorable for the crop, and despite the fact that the 1945 lint yield in Texas was only 146 pounds per acre, or 103 pounds less than the United States average of 249.6 pounds per acre.

"By following practices that will increase acre yields and improve cotton quality, such as the seven-point program recommended by the Extension Service, Texas farmers in 1946 can greatly increase the acre value of their cotton and their net income," the Committee added. "No other state has a greater opportunity than Texas has for soil building, use of better planting seed, control of insects and diseases, and other practices that will make cotton more productive and profitable."

"As a rule, high value crops should be planted on the best available land that is adapted to them, and these figures for 1945 clearly show that cotton deserves the best possible land and methods of production and harvesting. In addition to planting the larger acreage that has been set as a goal in 1946, it will pay cotton farmers to make extra efforts to increase the yield per acre."

A bunch of us fellows are going to get our wives together some night and have a big evening — just as soon as we can find a place to leave them.

Peach trees should be treated with P-D-B crystals during the early winter for control of the peach borer. Presence of the borer is indicated by masses of gum mixed with brown sawdust on the lower trunk of the tree.

"Gib Morgan" is the title of the 1945 Texas Folklore Society publication, which has just come off the press. Moody C. Boatright, professor of English at the University of Texas, is the author of the book, which is a collection of stories told by Gib Morgan, and stories told about him.
