

Mrs. J. R. Nelson, Pioneer Mother Passes Friday

A beloved pioneer mother of Knox County was re-united with her husband, in death, last Friday, when Mrs. J. R. Nelson passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lee Burnison. Mrs. Nelson had been in poor health for some time, and her passing brought a pall of sadness to many homes of Knox County.

Born Verna Lou Houston was born on February 26, 1875, in San Saba County, Mrs. Nelson was 70 years, 11 months and 5 days of age. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Epp Houston, and came to Knox County with her parents about 1888, when a girl of 13 years.

Here she grew into womanhood and was married to J. R. Nelson on July 2, 1892. She knew Knox County in its pioneer days, when she and her husband began married life on the farm and farm work was done with a three-gang plow and six yoke of oxen.

She saw others settle in Knox county, saw the prairies turned into fertile fields. Her home was always open to friends and neighbors, she was jolly, christian character; she loved people and loved to converse and joke with friends. She was a loyal member of the Church of Christ. She will be missed in person, but the spirit of this noble character will live forever in the hearts of Knox County people.

Mrs. Nelson was the mother of eight children, seven of whom survive. They are Clyde and Bud Nelson, Mrs. Hugh Burnison and Mrs. Lee Burnison, all of Munday; Jim Nelson, Pasadena; Dr. J. C. Nelson, Temple, and Mrs. Carl Tyree, Amarillo. She is also survived by 13 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Her husband passed away July 25, 1943.

Funeral services were held from the Church of Christ in Munday at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, conducted by Minister J. E. L. Harrison of Ozona, assisted by Rev. W. H. Albertson of Munday. Burial was beside her husband in the Johnson cemetery.

The boys there completed their fall and winter breeding and sold him to the Munday Future Farmers. The Munday boys now own thirteen registered gilts and two boars of the Duroc and Hampshire breeds. They all come from the best herds in West Texas except the one duroc from A & M College. All the gilts will farrow during the month of March. The Chapter own all but one of them and they will be used for circulating projects. Each boy receiving a gilt will return a gilt of like size and age to the Chapter which will give her to some other boy for a project. CARBON 13

A major step in the hunt for the cause of cancer has been taken in the development of "Carbon 13," a rare material found to have great value in biochemical research work.

The Sun Oil Company has announced plans for construction of two plants to produce Carbon 13 in comparatively substantial quantities, and states, "In biochemical research, Carbon 13 is used as a tracer in probing the secrets of the fundamental processes that occur in all living things, as well as metabolic disease processes, of which cancer, diabetes, hardening of the arteries, and so-called 'heart trouble' are examples. Indistinguishable chemically from ordinary carbon, Carbon 13 is absorbed in living tissue and undergoes the same metabolic process as does ordinary carbon. But where ordinary carbon cannot be traced as it passes through these intricate chemical reactions which are the process of life itself, Carbon 13 can be detected by the use of an electrical instrument. . . and identified with specific bodily functions."

Up to now, the total world production of Carbon 13 has been at the rate of less than one-half ounce per year. The new plant will be instrumental in increasing world supplies five hundred to a thousand times.

While the layman is hopelessly bewildered by the mysteries of science, he can grasp the basic nature of such discoveries as Carbon 13. He knows that the tires probing and investigation in laboratories all over the nation by thousands of unknown scientists, may one day save his life.

WHAT TO DO WHEN FIRE STRIKES

If you should awaken at night with the acrid fumes of smoke biting your nostrils and suddenly realize that your house was on fire, what would you do? Unless you know what to do, and do it quickly, you and your family may die within the next few minutes. To avoid such tragedies, fire safety experts are promoting the adoption of fire drills in homes.

The details of fire drills in individual families will vary widely with circumstances, but the following suggestions are helpful in the general planning: (1) Insure the safety of everyone in the building. (2) Turn in fire alarm. (3) Fight the fire, if suitable fire extinguishing equipment is available.

The first suggestion means devising and practicing safe methods of escape from upper bedrooms when halls and stairways are cut off by flames and smoke. The first rehearsal drill may reveal conditions that require changes in domestic arrangements. Perhaps an invalid is sleeping in the room that is less accessible from the outside, or a baby is in a room that could not be reached if the main hall were cut off. If a hazardous condition cannot be corrected, the occupant of the room should be taught to jump only as a last resort. As a rule, firemen will reach the scene before that is necessary.

After safety of occupants has been secured, the next step is to turn in the alarm, preferably at a fire alarm box.

If an attempt is made to use extinguishing equipment, always remember to stand where there is a safe avenue of escape; maintain a position where smoke and flames will be blown away from you; clear the air in the room immediately after extinguishing the fire.

The above suggestions may save your life someday—don't forget them.

NOW IT'S FUEL OIL

The country seems headed for a fuel oil shortage. Again, as in butter and countless other commodities, the reason goes back to maladjustment in price. OPA ceiling encouraged gasoline production during the war, at the expense of heating fuels. The Mayor of New York has frankly stated that a price increase for fuel oil is necessary. A spokesman for one of the largest refiners and distributors in the East says that, "An increase in fuel oil prices would undoubtedly promote a larger output."

Thus our era of regulated shortages continues. As long as free enterprises exists, the natural tendency will be to promote those things that result in a reasonable degree of profit. OPA has neglected to recognize that the war is over. Millions of consumers need oil in other forms than gasoline. Free markets would have recognized changing requirements months ago.

We don't have to keep a diary to remember the good times we have had. A glance at our cancelled checks is ample reminder.

The wise man is never wiser than his companions.

SO THIS IS PEACE

There is something frightening in the let-down that has followed the war. It runs deeper than mere relaxation of weary people after years of strain.

Our military disintegration, to mass demonstrations of American troops in foreign lands, the lawlessness and strikes at home—they all add up to an abdication of individual responsibility that can mean the destruction of democratic government in the United States.

Referring to the present state of collapse in the Armed Forces, the New York Times says: "Peace apparently has brought a release from the feeling of individual responsibility that showed itself during the war, at home as well as on the battle front—the feeling that what each was doing, even if it was only playing a small role, was a part of the whole national and international effort. Now each apparently is willing to let the other do it. Each parent is willing to let some other parent's son stay overseas if only he can his own son back. Every possible influence is brought, every possible string is pulled, to secure preferred treatment. A recruit report from a European command said that two officers were kept busy doing nothing else but running down inquiries from just one senator as to the status of the sons of his constituent."

Part of the fault for our scuttling and run attitude lies with the policy of the government which sold millions of people to the idea that war was an investment rather than an expense. Were not war bonds sold on that basis? And now instead of settling into the harness to pay those expenses, we are sitting back on our laurels waiting to collect on our "investment."

SAFELY IN MINING

When a score of miners lost their lives a few weeks ago in a disastrous coal mine explosion, the public was reminded again of the potential hazards of mining. Many undoubtedly assume that eliminating those hazards is exclusively the job of mine management. This is not true, although it is true that management bears a heavy responsibility.

Safety in mining in this country has progressed steadily. Farsighted management has combined mechanical devices and engineering resourcefulness in an effort to ward off the horror of death and injury underground.

But mine operators cannot set up safety records by themselves. The miners must help. In spite of the resources of science and invention, mining will always be hazardous when the men underground fail by safety rules. They must do their part in maintaining equipment and in using it properly. Those miners, like operators who through carelessness or neglect subject hundreds of men to the danger of accidents, deserve little sympathy. However, when an accident does occur, the tendency is to blame management exclusively.

It is well to remember that mine "crack-ups," like airplane accidents, are sometimes the fault of the men on the spot—the pilot—rather than the owner of the airplane.

LABEL DOES NOT CHANGE THE POINSON

The so-called St. Lawrence seaway, TVA, Bonneville, Grand Coulee, the Central Valley project in California, the Santee-Cooper project in South Carolina, the proposed Missouri Valley Authority, and numerous others are all as socialist as was the much publicized Dnieper dam in Russia which was part of one Russian "five-year plan." Our Federal government's tax-exempt power projects are no different in principle or effect, from the stand-point of killing private enterprises, than is the Russian system. The American people are just being fed communism under misleading labels.

Our stenographer says she wants to marry a sailor and rear admirals.

Washington News Letter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Perhaps some of you heard my speech from the city of Washington last night over the NBC hook-up attacking the program to set up a permanent Fair Employment Practice Commission. In that speech I pointed out that if a secret vote were taken in Congress less than 25 per cent of the members would vote for this legislation. However, through political pressure and for political reasons, on a record vote of the Congress the legislation would doubtless pass. It has been strongly supported and advertised by the Political Action Committee of the C. I. O., and by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and by the other organized minorities. I shall have this speech mailed to the box holders of our District shortly in order that you may understand just how pernicious and dangerous to everybody this proposed legislation is.

Admiral of the Fleet Chester W. Nimitz was the main attraction at the "Texas Brags" dinner held at the Statler Hotel on Wednesday of this week. The Admiral did a little bragging about Texas in his own right. He is proud of being a native son and claims Kerrville as his home town. He stated that proportionately more volunteers came from Texas than from any other state; that Texas furnished 500,000 men for the Army, 189,750 for the Navy, 29,194 for the Marines, and 8,000 for the Coast Guard. Texas units in all branches of the service gave remarkable accounts of themselves. More than twenty-eight Congressional Medals of Honor, our highest decoration, were awarded to Texans. This is a higher percentage per capita than went to any other state. The Admiral emphasized the value of sea power by saying that the Texas Navy, in keeping reinforcements from reaching Santa Anna, was responsible for Texas' victory in the Mexican war and for the winning of the battle of San Jacinto. The Texas navy was made up of three small ships—the Liberty, the Invincible, and the Independence.

House and Senate conferees this week agreed upon a plan through which the Government will dispose of 15 billion dollars worth of surplus ships. For cargo vessels the price will be 50 per cent of the pre-war domestic cost. Tankers will be sold for 87½ per cent of their pre-war domestic cost.

Among so-called minor bills to be considered in the House within the next few days is one to amend the Hatch Act on pernicious political activities. Some feel the Hatch act is too restrictive on the political activities of Government employees. Another bill will clip the wings of that autocratic, arbitrary dictator of American music, James Caesar Petrillo. For the last several years high-school bands and army bands could not broadcast without paying tribute to the musicians union headed by Petrillo. Passage of this legislation is long past due.

Congressmen will average receiving about ten books a week sent to them complimentary. Most of them are propaganda. The latest received is a beautifully bound and illustrated volume of 400 pages entitled, "The Santa Fe—The Railroad that Built an Empire." The book publicizes the Harvey Houses. My first experience with a Harvey House still rankles in my breast. When sixteen years old I left our farm for work in the Kansas oil fields. The train stopped for twenty minutes in Amarillo for supper. I got off to look for a hamburger. The only place to eat was the Harvey House. I sat at the counter and requested a hamburger and glass of milk, eating hurriedly for fear the train would leave. I had my ticket and only a few dollars extra in my pocket. The check handed me was for seventy-five cents. I protested and was told it was my own fault—that it was all one price and that I might have eaten anything on the counter I wanted. I still think Mr. Harvey owes me a sixty-five cent refund.

In addition to the many books and resolutions from outside sources mailed to Congressmen, hundreds of official reports are filed in each session. This week the Ways and Means Committee has released a 742 page report by its technical staff entitled, "Issues in Social Security." This report discusses (1) Old Age and Survivors Insurance, including extended disability; (2) Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, to Dependent Children, and General Assistance; and (3) Unemployment Compensation. The hearings before various committees run into hundreds of volumes a session.

In the House Caucus Room this morning members were invited to see a picture show entitled, "Hitler Still Lives". This picture illustrated vividly the problem we still have on our hands in dealing with the so-called "master race" and with their philosophy of blood and iron. Some think the Russians are doing a better job on this score than are the English or the Americans. They hanged three generals and some lesser officials this week for atrocities against their people.

Mrs. Oates Golden spent several days last week in Dallas and Denton, visiting with her daughters. She was accompanied home by Miss Juanita Golden of Dallas, who spent the week end here with her parents.

Mrs. Ruby Kethey of Abilene visited with her sister, Mrs. P. V. Williams, and other relatives here several days last week.

Mrs. Milton Boone and Miss Joe Cornett of Hale Center are visiting in the C. L. McAfee and C. H. Guley homes this week.

Editorials And Articles Stress Need For More Cotton As Added Feed Supply

Agricultural leaders, writers and editors throughout the Cotton Belt are emphasizing the need for increased cotton production in 1946 to provide needed and critically scarce protein feed. Some typical editorial comments from recent issues of leading publications are:

Associated Press Articles From Washington: "There can be no increase in the domestic supply of protein meals until the new cotton crop is harvested in the fall, said

Frank George, Agriculture Department feed specialist. Cottonseed meal is regarded as the best protein feed and if this year's twenty million acre cotton crop goal produces a normal yield, George said the need situation will improve vastly."

San Antonio Evening News Editorial: "The country's need for cottonseed—as a source of food-oil, protein feed and other essential products—is critical. . . By far the most important protein meal produced in this country, in terms of food-value to the pound and also in terms of average production, is cottonseed meal."

Editorial In "The Farmer Stockman": "Oklahoma livestock men are again scrambling for cottonseed cake, or any kind of protein cake they can find. Bluntly, the feed that we need just doesn't exist. It won't exist this time next year, either, unless we grow it. The time has come when we must consider growing cotton primarily for seed, not letting the statistical heaps of lint cotton frighten us out of the cotton business."

International News Service Article: "Solution of the stock-feed problem in Texas, so far as essential protein feeds are concerned, depends directly upon finding additional markets for cotton through research, Texas State Senator George Moffett declares. He characterized cottonseed products as the only dependable source of protein feed in the Southwest. Moffett pointed to the fact that this year's short cotton crop and a feed shortage are going hand in hand."

Dr. Henry G. Bennett, President, Oklahoma A & M College, in "Mid-South Cotton News": "When we think of cotton, we are thinking of a miracle combination plant that yields both fiber and food. . . from its seed, which makes up about 65 per cent of the cotton by weight, comes edible oils and vital animal feeds."

Victor H. Schoffemayer in "The Dallas News": "At the bottom of the feed shortage, chiefly protein, is the sad decline of cotton acreage. . . There are no more dependable sources of both protein and carbohydrate feeds than cottonseed and grain sorghums. Both crops can be grown successfully over vast Texas areas in normal years. Indications are that farmers during 1946 will not skimp on the acreage they seed to these basic crops."

Mrs. James H. Walker and children of Dallas came in the latter part of last week for a visit with Mrs. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Eiland.

ODD AIR FACTS

WASHINGTON — Most readers are well aware of the high speeds and vast mileages being recorded by the airlines today. But there are many interesting little known incidents of air transport which often strike home more vividly than impressive statistics the heights to which we are flying in our present air age.

The Air Transport Association of America asks whether you know that:

A baby girl only one day old has been a passenger in one of the regular airliners between York, Pa., and St. Louis, Mo.; there have been several passengers only two and three days old?

The first traffic warning sign to be installed at an automobile-airplane intersection is at LaGuardia Field, looks just like the familiar oldtime railway crossing crossbars, only it reads: "Airplane Crossing—Stop, Look & Listen?"

Elephants are used to load heavy cargo on air transport planes in India?

Air transport planes, at the rate their speed is increasing, may be before long be able to arrive at the West Coast actually before they leave the East Coast, owing to the three hour time difference which would make possible this "clock stopping" schedule?

Hot full course meals will be provided by means of quick freezing; the catch being that they will be precooked within 15 minutes of completion, then frozen, kept refrigerated on the plane, and finally perfectly, cooked aboard in the quick time of the missing 15 minutes?

Hostesses are so popular that the airlines have to "refill" a 60 and up per cent annual employment turn-over, with marriage accounting for 99 per cent of the ever recurring flow of resignations?

Planes made entirely of glass are forecast for the distant future, while planes equipped with telephones, radios and helium gas in the tires (to save weight) are already planned?

Japan Finished As World Power

PAUL MANNING (standing before the Imperial Palace, Tokio in above photo), widely-known commentator and magazine writer, and the only correspondent to witness and broadcast both the German and Japanese surrender ceremonies, declares in the current issue of the internationally-circulated "Sperry-scope" magazine, that the kind of peace administered by General of the Army Douglas MacArthur is a guarantee that Japan will "never again be a world power."

Manning, whose human interest broadcasts from Europe and the Pacific over a nation-wide network gained him a large following, during the last five years, predicted Tojo's suicide attempt ten days before the event.

In the "Sperry-scope" article, Manning quoted from an interview with Gen. Yoshijiro Umezo, chief of the Japanese Imperial Staff, that the Nipponese "could have continued to fight" with 9,000 Kamikaze pilots and 2,500,000 soldiers in the home islands. "I believed the General," Manning says, "when I traveled through Japan. Civilian economy had been virtually paralyzed but the Japanese army was sufficiently well equipped for at least another year of war."

Pointing out that both over-inflation and under-inflation are harmful to tires, the Ferguson dealer urges that a low-pressure gauge be used to check pressure at least once weekly.

As unprotected tires will deteriorate nearly as rapidly while idle as when in normal use, the tractor should be jacked up and the tires covered with old sacks when not in use.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

by BOYCE HOUSE

When I was a little fellow, my mother used to tell a story that amused me very much. Imagine my surprise and delight when I ran across it in an old book recently and it said that John B. Gough, the great temperance orator, used to tell it as the truth. It's called "Brother Watkins."

A frontier preacher had moved to a new field of labor and to his new flock, he gave some reminiscences of his former pastorate:

"My beloved brethering, before I take my text, I must tell you about my parting with my old congregation. On the morning of the last Sabbath, I went into the meeting house to preach my farewell discourse. Just in front of me sat the old fathers and mothers of Israel; the tears coursed down their furrowed cheeks; their tottering forms and quivering lips breathed out a sad—Fare ye well, Brother Watkins—ah!

"Behind them sat the middle-aged men and matrons; health and vigor beamed from every countenance; and as they looked up I could see in their dreamy eyes—Fare ye well, Brother Watkins—ah!

"Behind them sat the boys and girls that I had baptized and gathered into the Sabbath-school. Many times had they been rude and boisterous, but now their merry laugh was hushed, and in the silence I could hear—Fare ye well, Brother Watkins—ah!

"When I had finished my discourse and shaken hands with the brethering—ah! I passed out to take a last look at my old church—ah! The broken steps, the flopping blinds and moss-covered roof suggested only—fare ye well, Brother Watkins—ah!

"I mounted my old gray mare with my earthly possessions in my saddle bags and as I passed down the street, the servant-girls stood in the doors and with their brooms waved me a—Fare ye well, Brother Watkins—ah!

"As I passed out of the village, the low wind blew softly through the waving branches of the trees and moaned—Fare ye well, Brother Watkins—ah!

"I came down to the creek, and as the old mare stooped to drink, I could hear the water rippling over the pebbles a—Fare ye well, Brother Watkins—ah!

"I was slowly passing up the hill, meditating upon the sad vicissitudes and the mutations of life, when suddenly out bounded a big hog from a fence came with unkl unkl and I came to the ground with my saddle bags by my side. As I lay in the dust of the road, my old gray mare ran up the hill and as she turned the top she waved her tail back at me seemingly to say—Fare ye well, Brother Watkins—ah!

Mr. and Mrs. Sebern Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Stunz spent the latter part of last week, visiting the caverns at Carlsbad, New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle A. Sullins and little daughter of Vera were business visitors here last Saturday.

CARD OF THANKS

We sincerely thank you for every deed of kindness, every word of sympathy and condolence, and for the beautiful floral offerings. Our prayer is that God will bless you all and give you such loyal friends in your hours of sorrow.

Electric Power Speeds, Lightens Numerous Chores of Farm Family

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Rural electrification, bringing with it the electric energy needed to lighten the many chores of the average farm family, and providing the power to save both time and labor in farming operations, is again on the march.

With necessary government restrictions, curtailing the construction of rural power lines, lifted at war's end, hundreds of thousands of America's ing machines are again being produced: electric refrigerators, ranges, farm freezers and a host of other electrical equipment will be available soon.

To the returning soldier, the wonders of Gay Paree will have nothing of the electrified farm. The coming of the high line and the availability of electrical equipment will enable the old home place to be equipped with an electric water system, electric brooders, milking machines and coolers, along with many other laborfarmers can look forward to receiving electricity in the near future. Keeping pace with the nation's accelerated rural power line building program are the manufacturers of electrical equipment. Returning to peacetime activity after helping arm the nation for the grim duties of war, electrical manufacturing firms are moving back into the business of bringing the farmer and the farmer's wife equipment and home appliances which are needed to keep production at high levels and make household tasks more pleasant.

Some small appliances and a limited number of electric motors are already on the market. Electric washing devices that abandoned farm shed could easily become an electrified farm shop. Mother can cook with electricity and many household appliances will be on the market to help her to do her work easier and in less time.

Dad's hopes of curing hay in the barn, rigging up an electric hay hoist, building an electrically-equipped crib, cutting and blowing ensilage into the old silo and installing a modern bathroom can be realized. Electricity will save both mother and dad time to devote to other farming activities and to enjoy life more—for electricity is both "an extra hired hand on the farm and a servant in the home."

Deputy Income Tax Collector To Visit Munday

In spite of all the changes in the income tax laws, March 15 is still the deadline for filing final income tax returns.

Everyone who had a gross income of $500 or more in 1945 must file a return. This even includes minor children with $500 or more gross income. In addition, many wage earners whose salaries were subject to withholding will not owe a tax for the year, but must, nevertheless, file a return in order to obtain a refund of amounts withheld by their employers from their salaries or wages.

In order to give taxpayers of this locality first hand assistance in the preparation of their returns, W. A. Thomas, Collector of Internal Revenue at Dallas, is sending Deputy Collector T. C. Scott, Jr. to the First National Bank, Munday, on February 18, 1946.

All taxpayers who need assistance or information in filing their income tax returns for the year 1945 are urged to go to the town nearest them on the date of the deputy collectors' visit. Between March 1 and March 15 most of the Deputies will be stationed at their various Zone Offices. If you miss seeing them on their visit to your town, you will then have to go to the nearest Zone Office for help.

The Collector urges every taxpayer to make an effort to bring his tax problems before the Deputy Collectors named above, on the dates shown. The point is stressed that you must bring with you all of your withholding receipts, together with complete information to all 1945 income, expenses and deductions. The Deputy Collectors will need this information before they give you advice as to how to file your return.

Citrus Fruits, Now Being Marketed, Add Vitamin C, Sweetness To Menu

Citrus fruits rolling into market from this year's good crop bring wealth of vitamin C, nutritionally speaking. Since sugar is still tightly rationed, oranges and tangerines rate a welcome for the help they offer in the "something sweet" line.

While most people know that orange juice is a high-powered drink for vitamin C, nutritionists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture says that fewer people seem to realize that all of the familiar citrus fruits are bountiful sources of this vitamin. A half glass (4 ounces) of orange or grapefruit juice will go far toward supplying a days needs of vitamin C. So will half a grapefruit, or a whole orange, or a couple of tangerines or lemons.

Because pulp, as well as juice, contains vitamin C, there is vitamin C in serving juice unstrained, and even higher vitamin economy in eating citrus fruit simply halved, sliced, or sectioned.

So destructive are heat and air to vitamin C in cut or juiced fruit that the vitamin-thrifty homemaker takes special care to keep them under control. To this end, the nutritionists advice cutting or slicing citrus fruit as near as possible to serving time.

If breakfast citrus juice is squeezed the night before as a time saver, keep it cold and covered, remembering that the less air space there is between juice and container top, the better for vitamin C. With these precautions, citrus juice will lose little of its most valuable vitamin, even if stored for 24 hours.

Besides serving as sweets, oranges and tangerines have possibilities as sweeteners. Miss King suggests, for example: In orange gelatin dessert, if orange sections are used in addition to orange juice, sugar called for may be reduced a third or even a half. And for those who like a sweet salad, orange bits or slices mixed with slaw or combined with grated carrot provide the touch of sweetness without rationed sugar.

Texas And Her Annexation

By Dr. E. C. Barker, Professor of American History, The University of Texas

The British Attitude Toward Texas Independence

The attitude of the British government was plainly stated in a letter to its representative in Texas dated January 23, 1845. The election of Polk had indicated popular approval of annexation and Congress was then debating terms. Lord Aberdeen wrote: "Her Majesty's Government are firmly convinced that the dignity and prosperity of that country (Texas) are more secure in its own keeping than under the institutions of any other government, however powerful. . . It must be long before a newly settled and comparatively thinly peopled country would command the attention and the weight which would make up for an abandonment of the privilege of self-government—if indeed such a result should ever be attainable." He said that the President of Mexico seemed to be leaning toward recognition of Texan independence, and he hoped that such recognition would make the Texans less anxious for annexation.

The Attitude of Texan Leaders
Captain Charles Elliott, the British charge in Texas believed that "several leading men in the country are only waiting for an opportunity, and will declare themselves against annexation decisively and energetically as soon as they think they can do so without mischief to their popularity." He said that Anson Jones sincerely desired the maintenance of independence, but that he would be helpless against popular demand unless he could offer, as an alternative to annexation, recognition of independence by Mexico. Here again we are uncertain whether this opinion was induced from a shrewd diplomatic ruse on Jones's part or was a true statement of his views.

Britain Applies Pressure on Mexico
In order to hasten Mexico's decision, Elliott proposed to go secretly to Mexico on a British warship and present demands of the Texas government. First, the Texans wanted an official announcement of the willingness of Mexico to recognize independence. Second, Texas would agree, in return, for a period of ninety days not to enter into negotiations looking toward annexation to any other country.

As expanded by Captain Elliott, the Texas proposal, or ultimatum, contained four articles: (1) "Mexico consents to acknowledge the independence of Texas, (2) Texas engages that she will stipulate in the treaty not to annex herself or become subject to any country whatever, (3) Limits and other conditions to be matter of arrangement in the final treaty, and (4) Texas will be willing to remit disputed points respecting territory and other matters to the arbitration of empires."

This memorandum was dated March 29, 1845. Four weeks earlier Congress had passed the resolution for annexation. Could President Jones hold off the decision long enough to receive the Mexican response?

Farm Mortgage Burden May Become Heavy In Future

SCHENECTADY.—Farm land values are high, and "in the United States as a whole they are 57 per cent above 1940," Dean J. E. Carrigan of the college of agriculture, University of Vermont, Burlington, Vt., declared in a General Electric Farm Forum address here over WGY.

"It is very important now to be careful about long-time investments in farm land," Dean Carrigan pointed out. "This is especially true if you cannot pay cash and have shoulder a heavy mortgage."

One pretty good rule to follow is to look back over the past 30 years, and "if it is a dairy farm you are buying, get the average price of milk over this period, and figure that is a good index of what the price may be during the next 30 years," he said.

According to Dean Carrigan, there are other things to take into account, as follows:

Is the soil fertile? Find out the crop production.

Are the fields relatively large and free from stones?

Is the farm located on an all-weather road to markets?

Is the farm large enough to use labor and machinery efficiently and to keep enough cows and other income-producing units to give a man his living, pay the interest and principal, and leave a reserve?

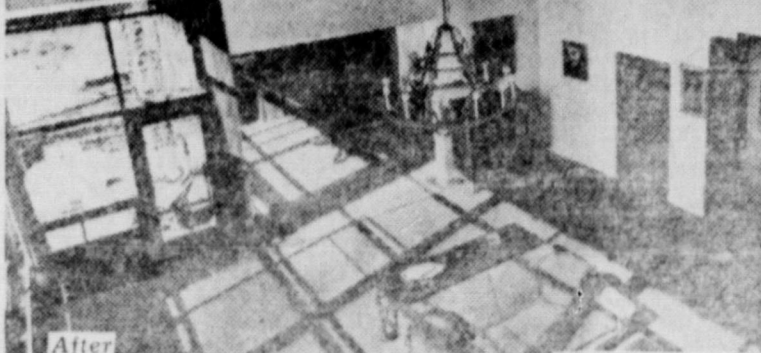

What condition are the buildings?

Is there a good water supply?

What are the social and civic facilities such as schools, churches, recreational and trading centers, etc.?

Set Out Trees And Shrubs Before Sap Begins Rising

If you plan to set out some new trees or shrubs on your place this year, don't wait much longer. Before you know it, the sap will be rising and buds will be swelling with a spell of mild weather.

And once spring has set in for good, your good intentions may be wasted. For trees set out too late don't stand much chance of survival, says Lucile King, county home demonstration agent.

If you can, do that planting or transplanting job as soon as possible and preferably after a rain. That way your trees and shrubs will be well established before leafing out time and in case you don't know, leafing out uses up a good deal of a plant's vitality.

When you put out trees it's best to bail and bury them to keep the roots from drying out. Now about the planting job itself. Use a spade or a long handled shovel for digging the hole, and make it deep enough that the trees will be about an inch deeper in the ground than they were in the nursery or the woods. Be sure the hole is large enough around to hold all the roots without crowding any or curling them up toward the surface.

After you've set the tree, pack moist soil firmly around the roots by tamping it. If it's possible, a good watering will help settle the earth and get the trees off to a good start.

And when you have time and good weather, remember that winter is the best time for pruning shrubs, particularly evergreens. Miss King says that will promote heavier growth of leaves and twigs.

Methodist Leader Praises Scouts

"A most useful builder of boyhood and an aid to the church" is what Bishop Charles C. Sealeman of Dallas, Texas calls Scouting in a statement made in recognition of national Boy Scout week, Feb. 8-14.

Bishop Sealeman, now president of the Council of Bishops of the Methodist Church, has long been interested in youth. For 15 years prior to his election in 1938 as bishop, he headed Southern Methodist University. During World War I he served with American troops abroad under the Y. M. C. A.

Bishop Sealeman's Boy Scout message follows: "For more than a quarter of a century it has been my pleasure to observe the work of the Boy Scouts of America. As a result of this observation I am convinced that it is one of the most useful builders of boyhood, mind, and spirit that has come to the aid of the home and the church.

"Because of this conviction, I have urged the pastors in my Area to offer every inducement to Scouting and to acquaint themselves with the work of the organization. In many cases our pastors have become actively engaged in some phase of Scout work.

"It is my personal opinion that the home, the church, and the school should welcome the cooperation of the Boy Scouts of America and should offer every aid and encouragement possible."

Poor wiring is as outmoded as the high-wheeler grandfather used to ride. Today we have so many electrical aids that good wiring is a necessity if we expect efficient service.

Plug too many appliances into one poorly wired circuit and it may overheat if fuse does not blow in time to shut it off. The loss of electrical energy into heat on such an overloaded circuit also reduces the efficiency of each appliance attached.

It's quite easy to get your wiring up to date. Start planning now and remember that full benefit of electrical appliances depends upon adequate and proper wiring.

Stamford PCA Stockholders To Meet February 15

The importance of maintaining a strong financial institution entirely owned by local farmers and ranchers will be the principal subject at the 12th annual stockholder's meeting of the Stamford Production Credit Association on February 15, 1946 at Stamford, beginning at 10:30 o'clock, Secretary-Treasurer, J. L. Hill, Jr. said.

"We are expecting a large attendance of the members as the association now has $235,480.00 invested in its capital stock by the 14-45 members in Jones, Haskell, Knox, King, Kent, Dickens, Stone-wall, and Shackelford counties," he said. "It has $87,184.00 in surplus and reserves, and has retired the government investment in the association. The association is a farmer-ranchers' service organization which is in a strong position to obtain funds at very reasonable rates from the investing public through the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank on terms adapted to farmers' and ranchers' needs," he said. "A strong local capital structure is highly important."

The program at the annual meeting will include:

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin, Texas.—In a vigorous campaign to elevate the state health communicable diseases the state level by preventing the spread of health level by preventing the communicable diseases which might be transmitted by foods, the State Department of Health is conducting training schools for food handlers in many sections of Texas, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Food handlers are being taught the sanitary methods of preparing, handling, and serving foods for public consumption," Dr. Cox said. "Actual experience has shown that an insanitary eating establishment is one of the surest sources of spreading infection. Public health is menaced by the lack of proper sanitation in food handling and our goal is the education of cooks, waiters, butchers, bakers, fountain men, and all other food handlers to such a level as will insure the elimination of this health hazard."

The training schools consist of elementary courses in bacteriology, communicable diseases, medical zoology, foods, disinfections, sterilization, personal hygiene, and sanitation.

These schools for food handlers which have been well received wherever held may be booked in any health unit of the State of Texas upon request from the director of the local health unit, addressed to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

James Killingsworth Receives Discharge

Cpl. James D. Killingsworth has recently returned from two years of service with the ground air forces in the South Pacific and has received his discharge.

Cpl. Killingsworth's months of service included New Guinea and all of the islands serviced by that command. His group spent the last eight months on the Philippine Islands.

In this group of airmen were many of the men who chartered the routes for later bombings. They made the air fields and did a wonderful part in helping bring victory, living under severe difficulties in the early days of the campaign.

Killingsworth will enter school for special training soon. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Esther Killingsworth of Dallas and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fowler of Goree.

Carl Reid, S. 1/c in the Navy, returned home last week with his honorable discharge, after spending 34 months of service in the Pacific.

Keep Roof Drains Clean

INTERMITTENT freezing and thawing in winter can raise havoc with roofs when leader outlets, gutters and valleys are clogged with leaves and dirt.

Stuffed-up drains may cause extensive damage in a single season. Melting snow, unable to run off, backs up under shingles and freezes again. Shingles are loosened. Water soaks into sheathing and framing members, ultimately causing decay. Leaks damage interior walls.

Roof repairs, of course, should be made before winter, but often this work is put off until water begins to damage the contents of buildings. If a roof is leaking it should be repaired, regardless of winter inconvenience. Loose shingles should be fastened down and damaged or missing shingles replaced. Chimneys and flashings should be inspected for weak spots through which water can enter.

If a roof is badly worn temporary winter repairs can be made and the roof replaced at the first opportunity. In selecting new roofing long life and fire protection should be considered. Modern materials, such as asbestos cement shingles, are used extensively because they resist weather and fire for the life of a building and there is practically no upkeep cost. Usually asbestos shingles can be laid directly over old roofing.

PASTURE GRASS SEED

Pasture grass seed may be purchased under the conservation materials program of the Production and Marketing Administration, B. F. Vance, State Director, PMA's Field Service Branch has announced.

Through this program eligible farmers can obtain a seed purchase order from the county ACA office where the purchase order plan is in operation. When he buys his seed, the farmer pays the difference between the cost of the seed and the conservation practice payment and turns the purchase order to the merchant for the balance. For example, the practice payment rate for the use of bermuda grass seed is 68 cents per pound. With an approved fair price of 75 cents per pound under the purchase order plan, the merchant must look to the farmer for 7 cents per pound and PMA will pay the merchant 68 cents per pound. The merchant selling the seed can then present the purchase order to the county ACA office, and he will receive a check for the PMA's part of the seed within approximately two weeks.

Generally speaking, the conservation practice payment amounts to about 80 per cent of the cost of the seed, Vance said. Perennial pasture grass seed qualifying for payment under the program include bermuda, rhodes, weeping lovegrass, crested wheatgrass, blue panic and buffalo. Of these seed, purchase orders can be issued for bermuda, rhodes and blue panic. The other varieties must be paid for in full by the farmer, who will receive the amount of the conservation practice payment when his application for payment is approved.

Texas Climate Is Considered In Homes Of Future

Austin.—Believing that farm homes in Texas and the Southwest should be designed with special attention to Texas climate, and to the demands of the family, Walter

T. Rolfe, chairman of the department of architecture at the University of Texas has sketched his plans for such a home in the February issue of Country Gentleman.

The kitchen and utility room—which provides for laundry, sewing, canning, home freezing, and food preparation—are located so as to permit the housewife a full view of the out-of-doors, as well as well-lighted, cheerful, work rooms.

Living room and bedrooms open out on a garden, which is well-removed from the dust of the driveway. A large service porch can be used for a variety of purposes. A fireplace in the living room has a double function with a cupboard above it for storage.

The house has many windows—particularly necessary for the heat of Texas summers—and has a flexible heating plan for either oil or gas, and also a provision for attic fans.

A special attraction for the housewife are the washroom in the garage, and an arrangement to bypass traffic to the barn and corrals by means of an outer drive.

Ellis G. Arnall, Governor of Georgia will speak at the University of Texas February 14, in a public lecture sponsored by the Texas Union Forum Speakers Committee. Arnall is credited with many reforms in his state government, penal, and educational systems. Under his leadership the state lowered the voting age to 18, repealed the poll tax, voted for a new constitution, created a constitutional state board of education, and made other reforms.

Come See Us In Our New Location

Atkeison's Produce, known to most everyone as Farmers Produce, has moved into its new location.

We are now set up for business in the building just south of Magnolia Service Station, which was formerly occupied by Western Produce.

We will continue to handle our usual line of quality poultry and livestock feeds as well as those well known field seeds which have gained so much popularity.

Our prices will be in line; we will give you the best service possible, and we invite your continued patronage.
