Iowa Park Wins Cage Title 16-14 Friday Night

Moguls Lose In Last Period Rally

IOWA PARK, Feb. 22.—Iowa Park's Hawks gave hometown fans something to celebrate Friday night besides George Washington's birthday when they annexed the championship of district 10-A by nosing out the Munday Moguls 16 to 14 in a thrill-packed last quarter rally. It was the second Iowa Park victory over Munday in the 10-A playoffs, the first contest going to the Hawks Tuesday night at Munday by a 17-14 score.

It looked bad for Iowa Park at the outset, since Munday jumped into a 6-1 first quarter lead and were ahead 8 to 3 at halftime. The Hawks began to pull up in the third period, running the count to 12-9 with Munday still on top as the hectic last stanza opened.

Battling furiously before a crowd that jammed every inch of available space in the Iowa Park gym, the Hawks tied the count at 12-all with minutes left to play. Two field goals by Ladd, Hawk forward, put the game on ice for the home-town boys and it was all over.

In a preliminary game the Munday B team defeated an Iowa Park B five 13 to 11.

"What a Man Does For Himself Dies With Him—
What He Does For His Community Lives On and On."

SOCIAL REVOLUTION

There is an old song which runs, "You never miss the water till the well runs dry."

J. Thomas Scott, editor and publisher of the Chatham, New Jersey, Press, by the same token, points out that we never realize how much we depend on modern conveniences and services until they are stopped by strikes, nor how the labor situation today "is not a mass revolt by underpaid workers, but a social revolution, in which a well organized political group is using a minority of the working men and women to capture the reins of government and enforce upon us a foreign ideology, collectivist at best, but frankly communistic, as an ultimate goal."

"Money in the pay envelope is not only issue at stake. The strikes are called to get power, political power primarily, and from a long range point of view all our future hinges upon the outcome..."

Mr. Scott might have added that American ideals never included the right of a minority to deny any man the privilege of working or the privilege of joining or not joining any specified organization. Oppression by minorities brings not only social revolution, but looking back through the pages of history, bloody revolution as well. There is still time to control the situation, but there is no time to waste.

WILL THE FULL LIFE SURVIVE?

In this day and age when speed and money and big governments seem to be controlling factors in the average life, it is refreshing to read about a man who has lived to be one hundred years old and kept up his ideals and enthusiasm for helping others.

Such a man is Henry C. Lytton, Chicago merchant, and the last one of the original fourteen founders of Chicago's State Street. Lytton's life, from before the Gold Rush to the Atomic Age, is typically American. He was floor sweeper, clerk, bankrupt, millionaire, patron of the arts, philanthropist, scholar, sage and wit.

He provided coal in the winter, ice in the summer, for the needy. He stopped the construction of a new store building during a hard winter and made it a shelter for the homeless. He gave scholarships to worthy students. In his success he did not forget how it felt to be at the bottom of the ladder. He did not depend on government to solve his problems.

Will man have the individual opportunities in the Atomic Age, that Lytton had? Only time will tell. Lytton is a product of private enterprising during a period when government did not dominate every phase of life.

A NEW ROLE FOR OPA?

Frequently the comment, "a plague on both your houses," is heard in referring to management-labor difficulties. There was a day when the criticism might apply, but not so now. It seems to be generally forgotten that management cannot bargain as a free agent with labor. Prices are fixed by government; therefore government must decide the wage level. It is all very well to talk about cost absorption and high production as the answer to higher wages. Producers and distributors have absorbed until they can absorb no more. And as for basing present wage rises on future production plans which may never materialize—the idea is just plain silly. There are growing indications that OPA is being used as an instrument to enforce a planned economy philosophy of no profit, rather than as an agency to prevent price profiteering. Otherwise, it would not be a party to the labor government squeeze play against management, a play that may end in chaos.

FIRE HITS HEADLINES AGAIN

During the past few weeks the country has been visited by a gashy series of fires. The worst was an old people's home that took twelve or thirteen lives. It was one of those "flash" fires in which the whole structure is enveloped in smoke and flames in almost a matter of seconds. As usual a "thorough investigation" is to be conducted, although any fire prevention expert could probably tell what happened without going near the scene. News reports indicate that the type of building was primarily to blame. In addition it is an even bet that the most rudimentary precautions were neglected in this fire, as well as in the majority of other fires that have been sweeping the country of late, taking scores of lives.

Most fires could be avoided and loss of life virtually eliminated if people would adhere to a few basic principles of prevention and escape. This applies particularly to new homes. Second, caution and sound practice should be followed in the installation and maintenance of heating systems, wiring and appliances. Third, keep the place clean, from attic to basement—refuse is a fire hazard. And fourth, after every precaution to prevent fire has been taken, prepare for the worst—escape in the event that fire does not break out. Adequate fire extinguishing equipment should be part of the furnishings of every building.

And then after you think you have seen to the above details, don't cancel them all out by being careless with cigarettes and matches which cause more fires in the United States than any other hazard.

ROYAL THIEVERY

The Federal government is suing the state of California to gain possession of her oil tidelands. Recently the state of Louisiana came to the defense of California, for the reason that Louisiana has the foresight to realize that her own oil tidelands on the gulf are at stake if California loses the fight with the Federal government.

It is shortsighted for the various states to not be interested in each other's problems when one is under attack, because each Federal encroachment on a state's rights set a precedent to be extended to all states. So far Louisiana is the only one to make a stand with California to perpetuate ownership of her tidelands, mainly because few states possess such wealth under their tide waters—but they may have other wealth that verdict against California could be stretched to cover.

If the Federal government can successfully attack states to secure lands or minerals it may covet, and there is no concerted opposition, individual states may eventually find themselves in possession of nothing but jack rabbits, slag, and beach combings.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS
by BOYCE HOUSE

It was only a question of time until the modest statements of us Texans about our State would get a rise outta our friends who dwell elsewhere and recently that's just what happened. An individual, signing himself as Rattlesnake Robert, went to bat for New Mexico in the New York Herald-Tribune. Actually, he is the noted poet and short story writer, S. Omar Barker; and the Herald-Tribune and Mr. Barker have given permission to quote his kidding article:

"Despite a profound reverence for the self-confessed colossality of Texas, I feel that the Lone Star's tall shadow should not be permitted unduly to adumbrate the modest merits of her nearby neighbor to the west.

"I refer to New Mexico, forty-seventh star in the flag, not to be confused (though it generally is) with Mexico—the good neighbor republic which supplies, via the southwest wind, 50 percent of the Grade A sand in every Texan's craw, New Mexico, of course, supplies the rest.

"Actually, Texas is no bigger than New Mexico. It only appears to be bigger because it is spread so much thinner. The mean average thickness of New Mexico from sunshine to sea level is 5,600 feet. The higher you go into the mountains, the meaner it gets. Straight down from the snow-capped crests of Truchas Peaks, New Mexico is 13,206 feet thick, and a little left over. Mashed down and rolled out to the same thickness as Texas, New Mexico would reach all the way from Valta to the Atlantic Charter with enough lap-over to flap in the Texas wind. On the other hand, at the thickest point in Texas, an average New Mexico screw-billed angleworm could bore through to the bottom in one wiggle.

"New Mexico is the sunshine state because its scenic beauty is so entrancing that even Old Sol cannot let a day pass without taking a good look at it.

"Compared to New Mexico, Texas is a newcomer. A million years before Texas, Columbus fourteen-hundred and two America, an early settler known as the Folsom Man was practicing point rationing in New Mexico. He used arrow heads for red points. No points, no buffalo meat.

"Fourscore years before the First Texas cowboy scuffed a high-heeled boot on Plymouth Rock, a Mr. Coronado, of Spain, was eating corn off the cob in New Mexico and mailing home pictograph postcards of five-storied Pueblo tourist courts marked 'x-My-Room-x. Come on over, the climb is fine.'

"Speaking of climate, New Mexico is where all Texans who have the tires come every summer to cool off and brag about the Texas climate.

"New Mexico has plains so flat that the State Highway Department has to put up signs to show the water which way to run when it rains yet these mountains are so steep that the bears which inhabit them have all developed corkcrew tails so they can sit down once in a while without sliding off into Texas.

"There is no place in New Mexico from which on a sunny day (which means every day here) you cannot see a mountain, smell a pine tree, or hear a Texan. Snow falls so deep in New Mexico's mountains that it takes 40,000 automobile loads of Texas hot air each summer to melt it.

"On that fabulous river, the Rio Grande, New Mexico and Texas split honors fifty-fifty; New Mexico furnishes the water and Texas furnishes the sand for it to sink away in.

"New Mexico is a game country, too. If all the deer horns in the state were clustered together into one giant hatrack, it would make a good place for Texans to hang their hats on when not talking through them. Combine all the mountain lions' tails in New Mexico into one and you could brush all the heel flies out of Texas in one swish.

"Speaking of oil, all you have to do in southwestern New Mexico to start a filling station is to stick a garden hose down a gopher hole.

Senior Day Is Being Revived At H. S. U., Abilene

Abilene.—Local high school seniors will receive an invitation to a free barbecue and full day of entertainment and sight-seeing on the Hardin-Simmons University campus at Abilene Saturday, April 27. This announcement was made in a communication issued by W. C. Ribble, university instructor, who was recently appointed general chairman of a committee to revive Senior Day, which prior to the war attracted hundreds of students from the high schools of this area to Hardin-Simmons each spring for a day on the campus.

Women's Missionary Unions of the local Baptist churches will act as sponsors for the senior classes in every town and rural high school district of this vicinity. Plans are being formulated to entertain approximately 8,500 students, Mr. Ribble said. And as soon as the plans and program for the day are completed copies will be mailed to school officials and the Baptist Women's organizations.

Starting with a band concert in the football stadium at 10 a. m. a varied program will present all phases of the university life, Ribble said. A free barbecue lunch, athletic events and inspection of all buildings and facilities of the campus are regular features of Senior Day which will be revived this year.

GROWS HIS PROTEIN SUPPLEMENT

While many of his neighbors have been worried over short supplies of protein supplement, Jack Martin of Cooke County has grown it plentifully in the form of green oats and clover.

Martin grazed 12 pigs, farrowed by two sows in May last year, on Hubam clover until last August. He gave them ground oats and wheat, both grown on the farm, and by October 1 there was a good growth of oats on the land which had been planted to clover. The rapid growth of the oats, due to soil improvement, furnished the necessary protein to finish the hogs on a grain ration of home-grown milo-maize.

The 17 hogs were marketed in 210 days, and they averaged 268 pounds each according to county agricultural agent B. T. Haws. Martin is a farm unit demonstrator in the soil improvement program sponsored cooperatively by the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

A Want Ad In The Times Pays

Flying V.I.P.'s Job Of Major Dryer

WASHINGTON—The airplanes and the pilots of tomorrow are to be found at the National Airport here, just a few hundred yards north of the main civilian terminal building. The post-war nucleus of the commercial air transport business is typified by the headquarters of the Army Air Forces Air Transport Command, where ships that will soon be carrying ordinary citizens and cargo have been doing their war job in carrying emergency loads to the far corners of the earth. And there too are many former airline pilots who plan to go back to their old jobs as soon as the redeployment aftermath of the war is a thing of the past.

Characteristic of these fliers is Maj. Ernest E. Dryer of Cleveland, who won fame recently by hopping back from Moscow in two-days' flying time. The Douglas Sky-master, a four-engine transport plane, took off from the Russian capital on a Thursday morning and brought its passengers back to Washington in time for an early lunch on Saturday.

For the past year Maj. Dryer has been one of the two dozen former commercial airline pilots who fly for the Brass Hat Squadron, officially known as the Army Air Forces 503d Base Unit of the Air Transport Command. Their chief job is to fly V.I.P.'s, or "very important persons" in the G.I. vocabulary, on special mission to any part of the world. Prior to that assignment Dryer ferried one of the first Flying Fortresses to Australia and transported munitions to the Allies in the crucial days at El Alamein in 1942.

"The airlines and their crews have done a tremendous war job, side by side with the A.T.C.," Maj. Dryer said. "At the same time, they've got the airlines of the future all laid out and ready to operate in civilian life, years before they otherwise would have been."

Lone Star Begins Work On Gas Line To Carthage Field

Lone Star Gas Company has begun construction of a 79-mile pipe line that will tie the gas field near Carthage in Panola County into the company's 5,000-mile network of transmission mains, according to Elmer F. Schmidt, Lone Star vice-president in charge of the transmission division.

The new 14-inch line, extending due west from Carthage and joining the company's present pipe line network at Opelika in Henderson County, will secure additional gas reserves for the company and strengthen the local gas supply and that of nearly 300 other towns and cities served by Lone Star.

The line will carry a maximum pressure of 1,200 pounds. It will extend through Panola, Rusk, Smith, and Henderson counties, touch Brownsboro and run south of Tyler and north of Overton and Henderson.

Practically all the pipe necessary for the project has been received and two construction crews have started work on the 79-mile line, one at Carthage and the other at Opelika. The line is being built for Lone Star Gas Company by the Oklahoma Contracting Company. This company also handled the right-of-way clearance for the pipe line, 60 per cent of which will be ditched in the heart of thick East Texas timberland.

Motorized saws were used to clear the right-of-way of trees so the pipe line construction men could start work. Aptly named "tree fellers," the saws are equipped with rubber-tired wheels to permit them to move under their own power at a speed approximately the walking distance of men operating them. Small trees can be cut in several seconds and those of "bushy" size are felled as easily as a mower cutting weeds.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

OLD JUDGE: "Hank, you're a big grain producer... let me ask you a question or two?"

HANK: "Glad to have you, Judge."

OLD JUDGE: "Do you think the grain used by distillers is wasted as some folks are saying?"

HANK: "I certainly do Not! As a matter of fact, it is just the opposite."

OLD JUDGE: "How do you figure that, Hank?"

HANK: "From my own experience and from reports I've read. For the year endin' last June, the distillers produced over 1,200,000,000 pounds of distillers' dried grains... the best feed supplements we can lay our hands on. They are rich in nutrients. Why... I've never had such fat dairy cows, livestock and poultry as I have since I've been usin' these dried grains."

OLD JUDGE: "How do you use them, Hank?"

HANK: "I blend them in with original grain. This balanced ration has far greater feed value than the original grain itself. I can cut down on my whole grain feeding about 20% and still get better results."

The beautiful single ring ceremony was read by Rev. Matthew Schaffie. Rev. Higgins was present in the sanctuary.

She carried a bouquet of white carnation and fern tied with white satin ribbon and streamers. Her "something new" was a two-strand pearl necklace, a wedding gift from the groom. Her "something old" was a brooch which belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. William Bellinghausen.

The second table was centered with a bowl of pink, white and yellow snapdragons among fern, on a reflector with silver candles and holders on each side.

The couple was honored with a dance at night, beginning with a march led by Wilbert Albus, brother of the bride, and Miss Geraldine Greener. Music was furnished by the Pep orchestra.

Texas And Her Annexation

By Dr. E. C. Barker, Professor of American History, The University of Texas

The People Demand Action

Though the American proposals were not laid formally before the Texas government until the middle of April, 1845, a great popular movement began as soon as the passage of the annexation resolutions was known in Texas. Naturally, President Jones could take no steps, even had he wished, until he received the offer from the United States; but the impression was wide spread that he was opposed to annexation and that he would defeat the movement if he could. Numerous public meetings demanded action. Ashbel Smith wrote President Jones from Galveston on April 9, describing the public excitement. He said: "I find everywhere very great, very intense feeling on the subject of annexation. . . I am forced to believe that the immense majority of the citizens are in favor of annexation, that is annexation presented in the resolutions of the American Congress." He went on to say that plans were formed in a number of counties to force the meeting of a convention if the government did not act.

President Jones Calls Congress And a Convention

On April, 16, 1845, President Jones called Congress to meet in special session on June 16. He explained later that flooded streams would have made it difficult for members to meet earlier. One problem that the Congress was expected to deal with was passage of a redistricting act to equalize sectional representation. After a few days of consideration, however, he decided to propose an extra-legal raid on representation, and did so in a proclamation dated May 5. The convention was called met in Austin on July 4, through the government had been carried on from Washington on the Brazos since 1842.

Meantime, Donelson, the American commissioner in Texas, had learned that Sam Houston was opposed to the terms offered by the United States and visited him at Huntsville to try to win his support. Rumor had not misconstrued Houston's attitude. He wanted Texas to reject the proposal to enter the Union on the terms submitted and insist on the negotiation of a new treaty. By such a treaty he thought that the United States could be induced to buy the public property of Texas and to guarantee citizens against loss in the adjustment of the boundary with Mexico. Fortunately, Donelson found it unnecessary to convert Houston. Both Congress and the convention met on the dates fixed by the president's proclamations. Jones placed before them terms proposed by the United States and at the same time submitted Mexico's agreement to recognize Texas independence on condition that Texas should retain and preserve its independence. Both bodies voted to frame a state constitution for ratification by the people and submission to the Congress of the United States.

PMA URGES MORE CATTLE MARKETING

COLLEGE STATION. — Overstocked ranges and short feed supplies are endangering the Texas livestock industry. B. F. Vance, state director of PMA's Field Service Branch, points out in urging that cattle marketing be speeded up.

"A slight change in the weather for the worse might result in tremendous losses of livestock," Vance declared. "It is highly important that the number of cattle both on the range and on feed be cut considerably in order to keep the cattle and feed supply in balance."

In addition, the PMA officials said, delayed marketings now might result in congestion and jamming of marketing facilities later on. In order to avoid such congestion, producers should contact their marketing agents before shipping cattle to make sure the market can handle them.

Demand for meat is high, Vance said, and it is important that livestock move to market in an orderly manner but fast enough to keep packing plants operating at capacity.

New Chemical Is Death For Weeds

Columbus, Ohio. — American homeowners now keep their lawns free of weeds at an average cost of $1.00 a season as the result of a new development in 2,4-D, a weed-killing plant hormone, scientists at the Ohio State Agricultural Experiment Station revealed today.

Developed from an ester of 2,4-Dichlorophenoxyacetic acid, this chemical which has been named Weed-No-More kills most broad-leaf weeds but is harmless to common lawn grasses. Instead of back-breaking digging every summer the average householder can now merely spray on this chemical and enjoy a smooth and weed-free lawn. Weed-No-More is manufactured by the Sherwins-Williams Co., world's largest makers of paints and insecticides.

The preparation is particularly effective against dandelions, chickweed, blindweed, poison ivy, plantain, thistle, and many other weeds, the Scientist said. It will not injure the soil and is harmless to humans and animals when used according to directions. It is odorless and non-training.

The action of the chemical is such that weeds literally strangle themselves to death because 2,4-D is a plant hormone which effects the growth factor of broad-leaf plants and can be used to destroy them as well as stimulate them.

Mrs. James C. Mahan and son, Sheffy Mahan, and Tommie Newberry of Childress visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Mahan the first of this week. They were enroute to Austin, where the boys are attending the Texas University.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion binds beechnut essence by special process with other rare tested medicinals for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to get your money back. (Adv.)

REDDY KILOWATT KITE FLYERS ARE ALWAYS SAFETY-WISE THEY STAY CLEAR OF ELECTRIC WIRES AND FLY IN OPEN SKIES!

O.K. REDDY!

Your kites are lots of fun, boys and girls, but they must be flown properly if you want to be sure not to get hurt. Maybe it's hard for you to believe, but it's an actual fact that hundreds of youngsters throughout the country are seriously injured every year at kite-flying time, some from falls from trees or off buildings. So please be careful . . . watch these precautions, especially:

- ... Don't use string with wire in it. . . . Keep your string dry at all times. (A damp string is dangerous.)
- ... Don't climb trees or poles near electric wires to recover your kite.

Remember—you can help keep your record for safety of yourself and others at kite-flying time if you'll heed these warnings. Show this advertisement to your friends.

Washington News Letter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Two committees on which I serve have been extremely busy this week. The House Committee on Immigration started hearings on my bill, H. R. 3663, to restrict immigration. National representatives of the American Legion and of the veterans of Foreign Wars appeared before the committee and testified in favor of the bill. The bill was specifically endorsed by the National Convention of the Legion.

The House Committee on Expenditures Departments has been busy investigating the question of surplus property disposal. A letter I have just received from a soldier begins this way, "Your statement of surplus autos by the acre and mile as made yesterday certainly hit the nail on the head. I have recently returned from the Philippines. At Batangas on Luzon jeeps in their packing cases were piled five high and these piles extended as far as the eye could see. In addition there were thousands upon thousands of brand new three quarter ton trucks, two and a half ton trucks, as well as countless field ambulances." The letter goes on to describe how badly this equipment is needed at home.

As a result of committee pressure both Army and Navy this week sent directives to all field commanders to immediately load and return to this country for disposal all equipment not actually in use or to be immediately used in military operations.

In an article written by me in the summer issue of the Southwest Review entitled "Freight Rate Parity—Not Yet" I predicted that in time we would find that excessive freight rate charges to the government on wartime traffic might exceed a billion dollars. A 140-page report has just been released by the Bureau of the Budget which substantially corroborates my prediction in this regard.

The House this week passed the federal aid school lunch program. The bill appropriates 50 million dollars as federal aid to this program. The House struck from the bill 15 million dollars for "education and supervisory assistance incident to school lunches." It was feared federal supervision might lead to some form of regimented dietetic training. The bill also provides that the federal government will match the states dollar for dollar in 1947, but only one dollar for two dollars by the states in 1948, and one to three in 1949 and 1950, and one to four thereafter. An amendment to terminate federal aid entirely after 1951 was defeated by only two votes.

The House also passed this week a bill to clip the wings of James Caesar Petrillo, the head of the American Federation of Musicians. Petrillo has become so dominant over American musicians that Army and Navy and Marine bands, even high school bands, have been refused permission to play for concerts or to broadcast without paying tribute to the Petrillo union. This bill should become law shortly, and eliminate this absurdity.

The British this week refused to put up money for a Frank Sinatra tour of their country, saying the dollars were needed for butter and eggs. On this score, at least, three cheers for Britain. The Hollywood complex of the American people is a reflection up on their character and intelligence. The bond drives and the President's birthday balls in Washington for the last few years featured Hollywood stars. Without deprecating the patriotism of the so-called stars, these bawdy and frivolous publicity stunts have seemed to me to reflect upon our dignity, if not upon our decency.

My Chevrolet which was stolen last Friday night was returned and parked in front of my house minus all accessories. I find that about 90 per cent of the Members of Congress and secretaries have either had cars stolen or pilfered in the last several years. I think pilfering from an automobile should be punished as burglary and that we should deal with all crime severely and not with kid gloves. I also deplore the tendency to make country clubs out of our penitentiaries. People will not do things of which they are afraid. If the hazards are too great the criminal will not, as a rule, take the chance. The trouble is we seldom catch them; when caught we seldom punish them; punishment generally, when inflicted, is too light. We should see to it that crime doesn't pay even in the eyes of the criminal. Your horse may be stolen next.

Pictorial History Of 36th Division To Soon Be Available

AUSTIN.—Texans soon will be able to have a pictorial history of the contribution made by their famous 36th Division to the winning of World War II.

Award of a contract for publication of the book to Newsfoto Publishing Company of San Angelo was made here recently by the board of directors of the 36th Division Association, H. Miller Ainsworth of Luling, president of the association, said.

Publication date is scheduled in June.

The book will depict the Fighting 36th's activities in from its entrance into the war to its march into Germany where it captured, among others, such Nazi big-shots as Herman Goering, Kesselring and Von Rundstedt.

It was the 36th Division which became the first American outfit to pierce Hitler's fortress of Europe and stick in the battle of Salerno, one of the bloodiest of the war.

Profits from the sale of the book, if any, will go to the 36th Division association and to the erection of a suitable memorial at Red Beach near Salerno, Italy, where the Division hit the beaches and forced back the waiting Germans to establish a foothold on Europe and the beginning of a long trail of fighting that led it to north of Rome, through Southern France and on into Germany.

The book, which will be compiled largely of actual pictures of the Division in combat, will sell to any veteran of the Division or his family for $3.20 and to the general public for $5.00. Orders for the book may be sent to Col. Ainsworth at Box 2174, Capitol Station, Austin or to Box 669 at Luling, Texas.

In addition to prospective profits from the sale of the book, contributions to the memorial fund also are continuing to come in, Col. Ainsworth said. Texans who wish to contribute to the erection of the Salerno Memorial to the Lone Star State's fighting sons may also send their contributions to the above addresses.

Don't Blame Your Dealer if You Can't Get G-E Appliances and Radios

It's not the dealer's fault. We don't think it's our fault. Maybe it's nobody's fault. But here's what happened:

Here's how fast G. E. and its affiliated companies were making and shipping things for you:

	OCT.	NOV.	DEC.	On hand Dec. 31, 1945
IRONS	60,440	67,564	85,968	2½ days' production
CLOCKS	181,998	177,681	256,038	2½ days' production
REFRIGERATORS	12,755	17,577	28,432	4 days' production
WASHERS	3,068	4,672	6,874	4½ days' production
RANGES	3,056	8,973	8,996	3 days' production
RADIOS	85	5,129	9,401	1½ days' production
TOASTERS		312	2,386	2698 (No shipments were made because production was inadequate to provide samples for dealers).

Out of the 2,485, 138 appliances manufactured in 1944 and 1945, General Electric shipped 98%.

AFTER the war ended, we weren't able to get back into production of some appliances as soon as we had hoped, and production rates weren't as high as we had hoped. A number of unforeseen things like material shortages made the job harder.

But there were only 120 days between V-J Day and December 31, 1945, and in those 120 days we partly recon-verted our factories from war to peace-time goods and got production started. During the year we turned out 2,313,791 electrical appliances.

We shipped these appliances out practically as fast as made—so fast that at the end of the year more than 98 per cent of those we'd built since reconversion began were out of our factories. Most of them were in the hands of users.

Then, on January 15, 1946, our plants were closed by the strike. Not a single electric home appliance has been built or assembled there since. And, because our warehouses are practically empty, your dealer won't be able to obtain any more until we can get back to making them.

We want to get back to producing as fast as possible. The manufacturing organization is set up; the machines are ready, waiting to be set in motion. These factors will help us to do an even faster job than we did in the months before the strike.

But we can't pick up production quite where we left off. Production lines are too complicated for that. A great many things have been dislocated by the strike.

When the strike is over, and the refrigerators and toasters and radios you've been waiting for begin to come off the lines again, we'll get them into hands of our dealers just as fast as we can. They'll be competitive in price. They'll be General Electric quality.

So, please don't be impatient with your dealer—or with us.
