W. M. U. Workers Here Next Week

ABILENE DISTRICT W. M. U. WILL CONVENE HERE WED. AND THURS.

Approximately 300 Guests Will Be Here For Meet And Most Interesting and Inspiring Program Has Been Arranged

Approximately three hundred delegates are expected to be in attendance at the annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Abilene District, which is to be held in Munday on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, and the various entertainment committees are working diligently to make all preparations for receiving the many visitors that will be within our gates during these two days. Mrs. J. O. Bowden of this city, who is associational district president, is working with the various committees and all Munday is urged to assist in caring for the visitors on this occasion. Mrs. R. T. Land is in charge of the luncheon committee, Mrs. M. H. Reeves is chairman of the local arrangement committee while Mesdames R. L. Briggs, Louise Ingram and R. H. Neff are in charge of the housing of the delegates, and any cooperation given these various committees will be greatly appreciated.

Some of the special features that have already been arranged for the visitors includes a luncheon at noon on Wednesday at the Klan hall, and supper will be served in the same building in the evening. Again on Thursday a luncheon will be served at the same place while breakfast will be served at the various homes in which the visitors are entertained.

We publish herewith the program that has been arranged for the meeting and have been requested to say that the general public is cordially invited to attend all of these meetings.

Lions Club Installs Flag and Pole On School Campus

Old Glory is now waving from a seventy-foot flagpole on the campus of the Munday public schools, the new flag and pole being gifts to the community from the Munday Lions club, which some time ago voted to purchase the pole and flag and appointed a committee, with Dr. E. M. Ammons as chairman, to make the purchase and see to the installation.

The formal dedication of the flag will be held on Thursday noon of next week, at which time the regular monthly luncheon will be served to the club at the home economics building and the luncheon will be served by the students of the home economics department, and the dedication ceremonies will be held immediately following the luncheon.

When the flag was hoisted on Wednesday morning it stood out plainly from the business section of the city and should inculcate patriotism to the flag into the hearts and minds of the student body.

Rhineland Merc. Bldg. Opens With Big Reception and Dance

The new Rhineland mercantile building was formally opened on Tuesday evening of this week when one of the largest crowds ever seen at Rhineland gathered to celebrate the event. There were many people from Munday and all nearby towns, and as well as Wichita Falls and more distant places, present. This new modern building of brick and concrete would do credit to any town, and is the culmination of the dream of the popular manager, Jno. N. Albus, who, since he became manager ten years ago, has looked forward to the needs of better quarters and a bigger business. The old building had been used as a place of business for over thirty years and was the oldest business concern in the county. Mr. Albus was receiving the sincere congratulations of his friends throughout the evening. Dancing and a social hour were the diversions. Refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, pickles, coffee and ice cream, were served to all present and there was plenty for all.

The many friends of T. A. Bolt will be pleased to know that he is again able to be about town following a long siege of influenza. While he has not fully regained his normal strength he is improving slowly.

Munday Ice Company Will Begin Operation Early Next Week

The Munday Ice Company will be in readiness to start operation early next week, possibly Monday, according to J. E. Roberts, jr., manager of the plant. Tests are being made in the machinery this week and when the pump was placed in the well it was found necessary to dig it deeper in order to procure a sufficient supply of water, which has necessitated the delay in starting. Mr. Roberts has purchased two new trucks, a Ford and a Chevrolet, which he will use in making deliveries to their patrons and they plan to give their patrons the very best of ice and the very best of service.

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK IN ABILENE APR. 10, AUSPICES C. B. BAND

Abilene, April 4.—Culminating a career of fifty-one years on the greatest opera and concert platforms in the world, Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink is returning to the stage, after an extended rest, for her farewell tour and will appear in Abilene, April 10, under the local management of the Simmons Cowboy Band. This tour, which is the last chance for music lovers to hear her, will include seventy-five of the largest cities in the United States and a final performance in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, where she will close her career by singing the great Wagnerian roles which made her famous three thirty years ago.

For half a century she has been the favorite contralto of the American stage and is one of the few singers of the past generation who remain at the forefront today. In New York she is known as the last of the Titans, having reference to that group of singers who made the last half-century the golden age of American music. Critics proclaim Schumann-Heink's voice as strong and vigorous as it was fifteen years ago and predict that this will be the most successful tour of her career. Since beginning the tour a few months ago she has been singing to capacity houses from coast to coast and she is being honored by musical organizations everywhere.

Howard Payne Band Will Give Concert Here Friday Evening

Music lovers of Munday and vicinity will be afforded a rare treat on Friday evening, April 5th, when the Howard Payne College band appears here in a concert. The band is making a short tour through this section of the state and has agreed to stop here for a concert on the above date. The concert is being sponsored by the high school senior class and an admission of 25 and 35 cents will be charged to cover expenses incurred in bringing this excellent musical organization to Munday. The concert will be given at the community auditorium.

Haney Grocery Adds Market Equipment; Increases Its Stock

Several changes are being made in the Haney Grocery, where they are installing equipment for a meat market and will open Saturday with a full and complete line of fresh and cured meats. They have purchased the equipment formerly used by the Joe McGraw market and moved it into the building occupied by the Haney grocery. In addition to the installation of the market equipment this store is adding materially to its stock and rearranging throughout the entire store. They will continue the business along the same lines that they have operated in the past and will be better prepared to serve their patrons than ever.

It will be gratifying to the many good friends of R. C. Dobbs to know that his condition is somewhat improved at this time. For several days he has been suffering from an acute attack of Bright's disease and for several days it was feared that he could not recover, but late reports from his bedside are to the effect that his condition has shown some improvement, but his recovery will necessarily be slow.

The New Glove Shades

Eggshell and flesh in suedes are the two new glove shades for spring. The light eggshell tones having a creamy cast are generally conceded the safest choice. Or, if the brown cast is needed for special reasons, an eggshell glove with a trimming of darker brown. Flesh suede is favored for wear with black, navy or grey costumes, with which it is extremely smart.

C. of C. Banquet Held Friday Night

Judge Tom K. Eplen, Abilene, Rev. P. D. O'Brien Are the Principal Speakers

The best in the history of the organization is the general verdict of those who attended the annual banquet of the Munday Chamber of Commerce on Friday evening of last week, at which time Judge Tom K. Eplen of Abilene and the Rev. P. D. O'Brien of Floydada were the principal speakers.

The event was held in the Farmers Union Hall where there was ample room to care for the 125 guests present on the occasion, and one of the enjoyable features of the evening was the music provided by the Munday Chamber of Commerce band.

Judge Eplen's address was replete with clean humor throughout and kept the audience in the very best of humor and at the same time stressed the duty of every citizen to line up with civic organizations such as the chamber of commerce, and his address was well received.

One of the most pleasing numbers provided for the evening's entertainment was the vocal numbers given by Misses Vera Allen and Imogene Ballow of Seymour, who are known as the "Sweethearts of the Lions Club" of Knox City, where he picked up that city, and we believe that we can say that they have sufficiently entrenched themselves into the hearts of the Mundayites to be known also as the sweethearts of the Munday Chamber of Commerce.

Then there came the talk of P. D. O'Brien, and it is needless for us to say that he kept the audience in a good humor during his remarks. The Rev. O'Brien was for three years pastor of the Baptist church in this city and a goodly portion of his talk was devoted to saying some complimentary things about the citizenship of Munday, and, knowing the deep sincerity with which he spoke, his remarks should cause every citizen who heard him to strive more diligently to fully merit the good things that he said.

Among the visitors present were T. N. Carswell, secretary of the Abilene Chamber of Commerce; Bill Cooper, secretary of the Stamford Chamber of Commerce, and Col. R. L. Penick of Stamford, each of whom made a brief talk following the set program, which were greatly enjoyed. Other visitors present were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dickson and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hannah of Seymour, together with Dr. O. W. Koberg, secretary of the Seymour Chamber of Commerce; Messrs. Warren and Reece of Knox City; Orb Coffman and E. L. Covey, of Goree and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Wilson of Benjamin.

At the conclusion of the program the nominating committee's report was read by President S. W. McGlothlin and unanimously adopted, which carried with it the election of the following officers and directors: E. Duval, president; George Isbell, first vice-president; W. R. Moore, second vice-president; Carl Mahan, secretary; Fred Warren, treasurer. Directors: E. Victor Edwards, W. L. Heard, J. C. Borden, E. H. Bauman, J. D. Kethley, R. S. Boles, E. W. McGlothlin, John Ed Jones, John Spann, George Isbell, W. R. Moore, J. E. Reeves, F. L. Decker, John Lane and M. H. Reeves.

Possibly one of the most unique features of the bounteous and delightful plate that was served on this occasion was that it was prepared entirely by men. Mr. F. L. Decker generously assumed responsibility for preparing and serving the meal and with the assistance of John Spann, F. O. Campbell and a few others he did the job in a most delightful way. In the serving he was very ably assisted by Misses Vivian Rogers, Lillian McGlothlin, Louise Atkinson, Blanche Newsom, Bonnie Milam and Clara Tillinghast, all of whom are members of the home economics class of the Munday high school, and (Continued on last page)

Large Still Is Taken By Sheriff

Three Arrests Made Following Capture of Still With Large Supply of Liquor, Mash

What is possibly the largest liquor still ever captured in Knox county was taken by Sheriff C. R. Elliott and deputies on the river about nine miles north of Munday on Saturday morning, and following the raid on the still three men, Felix Kuehler, Chas. Wilde and Joe Peyson, were placed under arrest and were later released on $1,000 bond each to await the action of the grand jury, which convenes in June.

In addition to the capture of more than 92 gallons of corn liquor, a major portion of which was buried underground around the premises, the raiding officers found twenty 50-gallon barrels filled with mash ready to be run within a few days. The still is said to have been of 100 gallon capacity and is said by the officers to have been in operation at this location only about six weeks. The still was located in a basement of a small house on the Albert Decker farm.

Having gathered information concerning the existence of the still Sheriff Elliott left Benjamin at three o'clock Saturday morning and went to Knox City, where he picked up Chief George Harberger and coming on to Munday picked up Deputy George Jackson and the three proceeded in the early morning hours to the location of the still, where they found the place deserted. Concealing themselves inside the house they awaited patiently the arrival of the operators, and about noon their long vigil was rewarded by the arrival of a car in front of the house. The occupants of the car, after making a careful survey of the surroundings, discovered that they had received a visit during their absence, and looking closer they discovered Sheriff Elliott's car, which had been eavesdropped some distance from the house, and immediately beat a hasty retreat. Sheriff Elliott and his men rushed from the house as soon as they could get the door open and commanded the fleeing parties to halt, but they "stepped on the gas" and kept going. Sheriff Elliott took several shots at the car in an effort to hit a tire but succeeded only in hitting the gas tank in the rear and a spare tire on the rear.

Before the officers could get their car out of its hiding the fleeing car had at least a mile the start of the officers, but the officers were driving a new Chevrolet Six, which has recently been purchased by Mr. Elliott, and they soon overtook the car and took the men into custody. Mr. Harberger is authority for the statement that Mr. Elliott was making 72 miles per hour in the chase. Peyson eluded the officers at the time of the raid, but was arrested during the afternoon at Scotland, and Sheriff Elliott went over there Sunday and brought him back and he was released on bond Sunday afternoon.

Lane, Chapman and Kennedy Are New Members of Council

In the city election held on Tuesday of this week John Lane, W. H. Chapman and J. A. Kennedy were elected aldermen to succeed H. F. Barnes, P. V. Williams and L. E. Loveless. There was little interest in the election and only 63 voters were polled. The outgoing officials have rendered faithful and efficient service to the city. They have served through one of the most trying periods and have faced the problems confronting the municipality with courage and are due much credit for the efficient administration they have given.

GETTING ON

Yesterday my chauffeur took me through a much-crowded traffic-way. Some of his maneuvers with the machine were hair-breadth in precision. He never grew ruffled in temper; his nerve seemed absolutely dependable, though his welfare and mine were skirting the danger-zone. I congratulated him when we alighted at our destination.

"It's done by practice," said he; "You've got to observe the rules—watch for an opening, and go ahead."

Simple enough. Just obey the laws, watch for your opening—and go ahead! Come to think of it, don't the same three simple rules hold good in every walk of life?

There are people who are very lax about the rules; they seem disobedient to begin with, a very undesirable trait in men and women. Negligence of existing laws grows on folks that travel on life's crowded thoroughfare. They get on the wrong side of the street, get fiped, curse the traffic policemen secretly, and imperil the lives of their fellow-men, as though life were a trivial thing.

The fellow who never gets there hasn't looked for the opening; goes around in circles, with eyes half closed. Then he grumbles because business is dull; he is the dullard. The opening is there, just as soon as the other driver gets out of the way.

Then, if one doesn't see the opening—hasn't looked for it—he simply never goes ahead. He is in a position to get bumped into, and soundly roasted because he is obstructing the traffic; worse than all, he has only himself to blame. If he doesn't do it, his fellow-travellers will blame him in a full measure. Obey the rules, watch for the opening—then go ahead. Simple, isn't it?

Suffers 20 Years; Then Finds Health

Farmer's Wife Had Suffering For Thirty Years, Is Grateful to Orgatone

"If there was no other way for my wife to get Orgatone, she would actually walk twenty miles rather than be without it," said F. M. Nott, who lives at 2406 Holiday St., Wichita Falls, Texas, a few days ago. "My wife suffered for thirty years," continued Mr. Nott, "and during that time I spent thousands of dollars with specialists, hospitals, and medicines trying to find something that would overcome her troubles, but she never got any relief until she commenced to take Orgatone. Her stomach was in an awful condition, and every time she ate anything she would suffer for hours afterwards. Sometimes she would have cramping spells, and then she would often suffer on account of gas forming from sour undigested food, she would have awful headaches, too, and would frequently get so dizzy she would either have to sit down or lie down to keep from falling. Her appetite was so poor that she hardly ate enough to keep her going and got so thin and weak that she was hardly able to get around at all. She suffered a great deal from nervousness, and never got a good night's sleep. She finally got in such a worn out, run down condition that she just had to give up trying to do her work. In fact, we were completely discouraged over her condition, and gave up all hope of her ever getting better.

"I told my wife that I didn't think it was of any use for us to spend any more money for doctors and specialists, but she said 'no, we mustn't give up, for as long as there is life there is hope.' Well I noticed Orgatone being advertised then and I thought I would see if that would do her any good, and before she had finished her first bottle I could see that she was mending right along. Her appetite is as good now as it ever was, and she can eat just anything she wants without suffering agonies afterwards. She has taken only a few bottles of Orgatone so far, and her health is far better now than it has been in over thirty years. Her stomach trouble has disappeared and her nerves are in such fine condition that she drops off to sleep as soon as she goes to bed every night, and she hardly ever wakes up until she is called in the mornings. She hasn't had a headache or one of those dizzy spells since she finished her first bottle of Orgatone, and is so well and strong in every way that she now does all her house work. I don't believe there is a medicine in the world that equals Orgatone, and I just can't find words to express how grateful we are for the great good it has done her and we will praise this wonderful medicine as long as we live."

Orgatone is not a so-called patent remedy, but a new scientific treatment containing no false stimulating drugs and may be obtained in Munday, Texas, at Eiland's Drug Store.

One Millionth Product Turned Out By Oakland

Twenty Years Required to Build 500,000 Cars; Thirty Months for 2nd Half-Million

One more entrant into the "million car class" was recorded here when the Oakland Motor Car company passed that enviable mile-post on March 18.

The history-making model—a 4-door sedan of the latest Oakland All-American series—passed final inspection and rolled from the end of the assembly line late in the afternoon to be received by a group of factory executives headed by A. R. Glancy, president and general manager.

A few seconds after the 1,000,000th car moved from the line, the 1,000,001st Oakland product, an All-American 2-door sedan, passed the final inspection station to join a practically endless row of predecessors going out to all quarters of the globe to satisfy the demand.

Little ceremony attended the building of the one-millionth Oakland product, with a consequent minimum of interruption in the most active March car building program in the 22 years the Oakland company has been manufacturing automobiles. The car was immediately dispatched to Milwaukee, where it will be displayed by the local dealer.

Organized in 1907, the Oakland Motor Car company did not build its first 500,000th car until July 20th, 1926—a period of more than nineteen and a half years—while only two and a half years were required to turn out its second 500,000th product.

In addition to Mr. Glancy, other officials present when the millionth car rolled off the line were W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of operations and R. H. Anibal, vice-president in charge of engineering.

W. H. Vann, chief inspector, in placing the final key on the car, pointed out that to build the one-millionth unit, as well as all other cars of the present All-American line, there took place approximately 7000 individual inspections during its construction. The first inspection is at the raw materials unloading dock even before incoming freight is taken from the car, he said, and continues on through every operation up to the freight car in which the finished automobile is packed for shipment. Several inspection gauges measure the accuracy of precision-machined parts up to one ten-thousandths of an inch, he explained.

Contrasting this with methods in vogue when the first Oakland car first came into existence in 1907, Mr. Vann stated that at that early date inspection was merely by the trained eye of the mechanic. If a part appeared to fit, it did well enough. Today a precision method requires minutely closer machining and a low for the huge production programs that have made possible so much value giving to the ultimate consumer.

Oakland's sudden arrival in the "million car" class comes as a climax to three consecutive years of record-breaking sales and production which have gained for it a secure place among the leading automobile producers of the world.

During its first year of operation back in 1907, only a few cars were produced. They were two-cylinder affairs, assembled by a group of workmen most of whom previously had been engaged in carriage making. Assembly lines and production methods were unknown. The men merely worked around a chassis until it was finished.

But as the automotive industry developed, Oakland also grew. Its production in 1908 mounted to the then quite respectable total of 278 cars—four cylinder models which won numerous hill-climbing, endurance and economy contests. In 1909, the year Oakland was taken over by General Motors, production reached 1,035 units.

During the next few years Oakland steadily progressed. Production reached five figures in 1915 when 12,311 cars were built—a total representing less than two weeks output under current factory schedules. By 1919—four years later—production had risen to a record of 54,401 cars.

But new triumphs were ahead. For 1926 brought the Pontiac Six and with it an era of production which dwarfed the records of former years. And 1926 closed with a total Oakland-Pontiac production of 134,721 units—nearly three times the volume of the previous year. The next two years saw the completion of a mammoth factory building program and a rapid expansion of the dealer organization. With greatly improved facilities for manufacturing and marketing, and with both the Oakland and Pontiac Six meeting a constantly growing demand in their respective price classes, the Oakland Motor Car company swept on to successive records of 192,966 units during 1927 and 260,000 units in 1928.

This year's production and sales program calls for a substantial increase over the huge volume of 1928. Dealer outlets are being constantly expanded under the direction of W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales, and with enlarged manufacturing facilities, Oakland-

Pontiac sales are expected to total over 300,000 cars.

With both the new Oakland All-American Six and the Pontiac Big Six enjoying a high measure of public favor, Oakland officials are confident that the third 50,000th mile-post will be passed before the lapse of many months.

SEVENTH INSTALLMENT

"I, too, had a great surprise, Margharita. You will not wonder what I mean by that when I tell you that in the light which streamed from the window everything in the room was distinctly visible to me. Was I dreaming, child, or were you indeed assenting to the embrace of the man whose arms were surely around you? Him, I could not see, for his back was turned to the window; but will you laugh at me, I wonder, if I tell you that I felt strangely jealous of him, I am a foolish old man, Margharita, but all the love of my heart is yours, and I had begun almost to look upon you—in my thoughts—as my own child. I cannot bear the thought of giving you up to any one. You will not think me very, very selfish. I have only a few more months to live, and I know that you will not grudge that much out of your future, that you will stay by me to the end. Afterwards, I have no wish save for your happiness; and although I must confess that I had hoped you might have married one of the sons of our own country, still it is you who must choose, and I owe you, or shall owe you soon, too great a debt to press upon you any desire of mine which is not as one with your wishes. But tell me this—Is he an Englishman? Alas! I fear so. Send me a word by the bearer, and tell me; tell me, too, of what family he is, and whether is noble. But of that I feel already assured, if he be indeed the man to whom your love is given.

"You must surely have sustained a shock at my sudden and rash appearance. Doubtless you will wonder at seeing me here at all. I could not keep away. I must have news day by day, almost hour by hour. It is all that keeps me alive. I must be near to feel that I am breathing the same air as the woman on whom a long-delayed vengeance is about to fall.

"I have taken a furnished cottage on the outskirts of this village, and a little more than a mile from Mallory Grange. But do not come to me. Dearly as I would love to hear from your own lips that all goes well, yet at present it were better not. I will devise some means of communication, and let you know of it shortly. I am living here as Mr. Angus.—Yours ever—

"My Dear Uncle,—I am a culprit—a miserable, pleading culprit. It is true that I love an Englishman—the man who was standing by my side last night; and it is true that he has asked me to marry him. But I have not told him so, and I have not promised to marry him. That is not all of my confession. Not only is he an Englishman, but his name is Lord Lumley St. Maurice, and he is—her son.

"Now you know the terrible trouble I am in. Last night he was telling me of his love, and assuring me of his mother's sanction and approval, when your face appeared at the window. Can you wonder at my start, and that I fainted? Can you wonder that I sit here, after a sleepless night, with eyes that are dim and a heart that has become a stone? I dread to stir from the room. My position is horrible. I have tried my utmost to avoid him, to treat him with disdain, to send him away from me. I have steeled my heart and clothed my face with frowns—in vain! The bald fact remains that I love him. Do you despise me, uncle? Sometimes I feel that I deserve it; but I have suffered, I am suffering—now. I am punished. Do not add your anger to my load!

"Immediately you get this, sit down and write to me. Write to me just what is in your heart. Your words I shall set before me as my law. Do not delay, and if you blame, do not fail to pity me.—Yours ever unchanged,
"Margharita."

"Margharita,—I have received your letter, and I have pondered over it. You are young to have such a sorrow, yet I do not doubt but that you will act as becomes your race. You can never think of marriage with this man; you are a Marion, he a St. Maurice! Yet I grieve that you have let such a feeling creep into your heart. Pluck it out, Margharita. I charge you, pluck it out by the roots. Think not of the wrong done to me, or, if you do, think of me not as a man and your uncle, but as Count Leonardi di Marioni, the head of my family.

the head of your family. We have been the victims, but the day of our vengeance is at hand. There is no life without its sorrows, child! In the days to come, happiness will teach you to forget this one.

"Farewell, my child. I shall send you no more notes. Write or come to me the moment the deed is done! Come to me, if you can; I would hear your own lips tell me the news. Yet do as seems best to you. In sympathy and love, L. di M.

"One word more, child. Do not for a moment imagine that I blame you for what has happened. Old man though I am, I too know something of the marvels and the vagaries of this same love. Will can have little to do with its course. I, who have suffered so deeply, Margharita, can and do sympathize and feel for you."

PART IV.

"Margharita! You have come at last. It is done, then. Say that it is done!"

She stood quite still in the humble red-tiled sitting-room, and looked at him with a great compassion shining out of her dark, clear eyes. He was worn almost to a shadow, and his limbs were shaking with weakness, as he half rose to greet her. Only his eyes were still alight and burning. Save for them he might have been a corpse.

Something of the old passion stirred in her as she stood there, but its fierceness had died away. Her heart leaped no longer in quick response to the fire in those still undimmed eyes. She had been a girl then, a girl with all the fierce untrained nature of her mother's race; she was a woman now, a sad-faced, sorrowful woman. He was quick to see the change.

"Margharita, my child, you have been ill."

Still she did not answer. Silently she knelt down by the side of his armchair and took his withered, delicate hand in hers. A great bowl of white hyacinths stood on a table by the window, and the air was faint with their perfume.

"I am not ill," she said gently. "I was frightened on my way here, and had to run. There was a fire last night at the lunatic asylum at Fritton, and some of the mad people have escaped. I saw one of them in the distance, and the keepers were after him. They wanted me to go back, but I would come."

He stooped down and kissed her forehead, with cold, dry lips.

"I knew that you would be here soon," he said. "My letters reached you safely?"

"Yes."

She shuddered at the gathering strength in his tone, and the fierce light which had swept into his face.

"It is done, child. Say that it is done!"

"No."

Something in her sad tone and subdued manner seemed to strike a note of fear in his heart. He leaned forward, grasping the sides of his chair with nervous, quivering fingers, and looked hurriedly into her face.

Twenty Years Required to Build
"No, you have had no chance, then? But you will have soon? Is it not so? Soon, very soon?"

She threw her arms around his neck. He made no response, nor did he thrust her away. He remained quite passive.

"It is not that, uncle. Oh, listen to me. Do not thrust me away. I cannot do this thing."

He sat as still as marble. There was no change, no emotion in his face. Yet her heart sank within her.

"Oh, listen to me," she pleaded passionately. "You do not know her as she is now. She is good and kind—a gentle-hearted woman. It was so long ago; and it was not out of malice to you, but to save the man she loved. You hear me, do you not? You are listening. She has not forgotten you. Often she sorrows for you. It was cruel—I know that it was cruel—but she was a woman, and she loved him. Let us steal away together and bury these dark dreams of the past. I will never leave you; I will wait upon you always; I will be your slave. Forgiveness is more sweet than vengeance. Oh, tell me that it is so. Why do you not speak to me?"

He sat quite still, like a man who is stunned by some sudden and unexpected blow. He seemed dazed. She wondered, even, whether he had heard her.

"Uncle, shall it not be so?" she whispered. "Let us go away from here and leave her. I am not thinking about him. I will not see him again. I will never dream of marrying him. Let us go this very day, this very hour!"

Then he turned slowly toward her, thrust her hand from around his neck, and stood up.

"You have been false to me, Margharita," he said, in a slow, quiet tone. "After all, it is only natural. When you first came to me, I thought I saw your mother's spirit blazing in your dark eyes, and I trusted you. I do to blame. I forgot the trader's man's blood. I do not curse you. You do not understand, that is all. Learn now that the oath of a Marioni is as deathless and unchangeable as the hills of his native land. Will you go away at once, please? I do not wish to see you again."

His speech so quiet, so self-contained, bewildered her. There was not a single trace of passion or bitterness in it. She stretched out her hands toward him, but she felt chilled.

"Uncle, you—"

"Will you go away, please?" he interrupted coldly.

She turned toward the door, weeping. She had not meant to go far—only out on the garden-seat, where she might sit and think. But he saw another purpose in her departure, and a sudden passion fired him. She heard his step as he rose hastily, and she felt his cold fingers upon her wrist.

"You would go to warn her?" he cried, his voice trembling with anger; "I read it in your face. You are as false as sin, but you shall not rob me of the crown of my life! Vengeance belongs to me, and by this symbol of my oath I will have it!"

Wichita Woman Was Discouraged By Many Failures

"I suffered from inactive liver for twenty years and about three years ago I became so terribly rundown I could not attend to my household duties without stopping to rest.

MRS. JULIA OAK

"I would have such severe pains in my stomach after meals that I would have to run for soda. Dieting did not help me, and even the best medicines I could buy did not reach my case.

"But Sargon went right to the root of my trouble without losing a minute's time. I never saw anything like it. I felt better from the very first dose, and now I eat anything I want without any ill effects. I am not the least bit nervous and I feel so well and strong that even after I get through with my household work I want to be up and on the go.

He snatched a handful of white blossoms from the bowl, and crushed them in his fingers. Then he threw them upon the ground and trampled upon them.

"Thus did she betray the sacred bonds of our Order when, for her lover's sake, she added tea to her cunning, and wrecked my life, made Leonardo, Count of the Marions, the lonely inmate of prison walls, the scorn and pity of all men. Thus did she write her own fate upon a far future page of the tablets of time. Talk to me not of forgiveness or mercy, girl! My hate lives in me as the breath of my body, and with my body alone will it die!"

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills completely overcame my liver trouble and constipation. They act so gently that they did not upset my system or make me the least bit sick.

"I know from experience that the Sargon treatment will end stomach and liver complaints. I feel just like I have been made all over like new, and I want all my friends to know what this grand medicine will do."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Julia Oak, well known and highly esteemed resident of R. F. D. 1, Box 157, San Antonio, whose motherly kindness has endeared her to hundreds of friends throughout her community.

Sargon may be obtained in Munday from the Rexall Store; in Goree from the Griffin Drug Store; and in Knox County from T. P. Frizzell.

Home Hints

Some understanding soul must have created the designs for new bath mats and Turkish towels—for not only have they backgrounds of green, mauve, maize or rose, but motifs themselves turn to all manner of sprightly themes for inspiration.

And we have rollicking dolphins disporting themselves across the bath towel; such subtle suggestions of spring and summer as the lady-did and what we take to be the humming bird!

Pleasing color does indeed have power to soothe ruffled early morning spirits; naive design is always amusing. And since most of us need as much help in this direction as possible—these decorative notes find themselves most welcome in the routine of making ready for the day.

Announcing the Opening of The Munday Ice Co.

It is with pleasure that we announce that our plant is ready for operation, our delivery trucks have arrived and we are in every respect ready to serve the people of Munday and vicinity with ice of the highest quality, made in Munday.

In establishing an ice factory in Munday we have spared neither labor nor expense in building a plant in which the citizenship of this community can feel proud. Our machinery is of the very latest and most approved type and our building is of the most substantial type and design and is in line with the progressive ideals that are revealed in the business houses of the city.

Our plant will have a daily capacity of 20 tons, which insures the public that we can at all times supply the demand of this entire section and it shall be our aim to operate our business upon such a plane as to merit a wide patronage.

Ice cards have been provided for patrons in town and in the rural sections that will be provided with daily delivery service. We also have provided coupon books in various denominations to suit the demand of the public.

We are also pleased to announce that we shall sell ice at a reduction of what you have been accustomed to paying here. Our price will be 70 cents per hundred delivered and 60c on the dock.

We are here to serve the public and we respectfully solicit your business and promise you that at all times we shall strive to please both in the quality of our product and in the service we shall render.

Our plant will be in operation the early part of next week and we will begin making deliveries immediately thereafter. We invite the public to visit our plant at any time.

TEXAS SENATORS IN U. S. CONGRESS

Horace Chilton—(1891-1892) (1895-1901)

(Copyright 1928 by Alva O. Hearne)

Horace Chilton was born in Smith county, Texas on December 29, 1845. His father was George W. Chilton and his mother Ella Goodman, both of Alabama. He was reared in Tyler, Smith county, Texas; was educated in the schools of Tyler under the tutelage of Thomas Smith and John T. Hand, and attended the Linnland Institute in Hardin county, Kentucky for one session. At fifteen years of age, Horace Chilton was under the necessity of earning his own livelihood and also that of his mother and sister. He left college in the midst of his educational course, to obtain work. He entered a printer's office, where he worked for a year, applying himself with faithfulness and intelligent energy, and acquiring a practical knowledge of the printing trade, all the while pursuing his studies at night, the only time he could call his own.

The war between the states wiped out the possessions of his family, and he cheerfully denied himself every luxury in order that all his earnings might go toward the maintenance of the little home. In time he became a journeyman printer and followed this calling in various towns in Texas and Louisiana. He finally established a small newspaper at Tyler, which he ran until he had accumulated a small fund, by which he was enabled to accomplish a long cherished purpose, namely, to read law and secure admission to the bar.

Determined to compel success by meriting it, Mr. Chilton passed through that period of trial and probation which faces the young and untried lawyer in his struggle for a position of independence in his profession.

In 1877, he was married to Miss Mary W. Grinnan at Tyler, Texas, and there were eight children—George, Mary, Benjamin, Christine, Ella Thomas, William and Arch.

Mr. Chilton has never been an office seeker, but few men in the state have done more for Democracy. In 1881 Governor Roberts appointed him assistant attorney-general, without solicitation, and after discharging the duties of that office he returned to a successful law practice.

In 1888 he was elected a delegate-at-large from the state to the national Democratic convention at Saint Louis. In 1891 Governor Hogg appointed him United States Senator, as a Democrat, to fill the unexpired term of Hon. John H. Reagan, who had resigned to accept the chairmanship of the State Railroad Commission. He took his seat in the United States Senate on December 7, 1891 and served until March 23, 1892. Governor Hogg and Mr. Chilton were boyhood friends and worked together in the same printing office.

Shortly after his appointment to the United States Senate, Mr. Chilton made an address to his fellow-townsmen, strongly opposing the sub-treasury idea which possessed the Farmer's Alliance men in Texas. These few sentences quoted from that speech reveal his force and simplicity:

"Concerning this (the sub-treasury) scheme, my own duty is plain. The Constitution of my country is against it. The platform of the Democratic Party is against it. Economy, business judgment, good old corn-field common sense, the experience of the past, the hopes of the future, the unanimous warnings of our great statesmen, all stand in its way."

In 1894, he was re-elected to the United States Senate to succeed Hon. Richard Coke, and served from March 4, 1895 to March 3, 1901, when he resumed the practice of law. He has resided in Dallas, Texas since 1906 where he and his son, Benjamin, have been engaged in the practice of law.

Senator Chilton's record in public life is unsullied and his character is free from the taint of selfish ambition. Modest and retiring, he has never entered into the scramble for place. He has often aided in elevating others (whom he considered deserving) to places of high distinction, yet has never asked anything for himself.

Whippet Car Bought Here For Shipment To Philippine Islands

Mrs. J. O. Bauman of Manila, Philippine Islands, was here last week visiting in the home of her brother-in-law, E. H. Bauman, and while here purchased a Whippet car from the Bauman Motor Company, which will be delivered to her at Los Angeles and shipped by boat to the Philippine Islands.

Mrs. Bauman's husband, who is a brother to our fellow townsman, E. H. Bauman, is project engineer for the United States Government in the Philippines and has been located there for a number of years, and Mrs. Bauman also holds a position with the government in the islands. She is a native of Nebraska and this was her first visit to Texas and was also the first time that she had ever met the members of the Bauman family here.

Mrs. Bauman states that the natives of the Philippines will not be ready for freedom for many years to come and that it is her opinion that the United States should continue to exercise its guardianship over the country for many years, and she states that the natives who are capable of really understanding their situation are very desirous for the United States to continue to exercise its guardianship as they realize that with the withdrawal of our government's authority the country would within a very brief time be dominated by Japan and that they do not care for such domination.

Gov. Dan Moody has vetoed the anti-bolter measure enacted by the 41st legislature, and in doing so has rendered a valuable service to the party in Texas. With such a law during the past dozen years there would be left within the ranks of the democratic party in this state only a straggling minority, for there are the Butte bolters, the Ferguson American Party bolters and more recently the Hoover bolters, all of whom normally are just good democrats, but who for various reasons saw fit to leave their party temporarily, and in practically every instance the desertion was due to the fact that party tickets were dominated by influences which had no concern in the welfare of the democratic party in Texas.

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.

The doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, head aches, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, 400 North La Salle, Illinois.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From files of The Munday Times, April 9, 1909.

The city election Tuesday was a very mild affair, resulting in the election of a Mayor, Marshal and five Aldermen. The men elected are all of the live, progressive type and are capable of meeting and satisfactorily handling all affairs that may confront them. The following were elected to the different offices: Mayor, J. J. Switzer; for Marshal, Ben H. Bickers; for Aldermen, W. H. Cousins, W. G. Sherrod, T. G. Easley, Chas. Mayes and R. W. Murphy.

Emmett Akers returned Sunday from Cisco, Ranger and other parts in the central part of the state.

Lonnie Caughran came in from Stamford Collegiate Institute Friday to visit home folks, returning to school Monday.

A serenading party was made up Tuesday night and each of the newly elected officers were made to forget his troubles and carried away in a swoon under the sound of the sweet music of stringed instruments.

J. M. Kerns and wife arrived here last week from Albany, Ky., and will make Munday their future home. Mrs. Kerns is a sister to J. N. and Isaac Campbell. We are glad to welcome them to our city.

T. D. L. Johnson, who lives about three miles south-west of town, will have finished planting 100 acres of corn by Saturday night. Such crops as that will put us on the map as a corn country.

Love guards the roses of thy lips
And flies about them like a bee.
—Thomas Lodge.

Plasmists will tell you that you have a Hand of Promise and a Hand of Achievement. And in the Hand of Achievement the lines change with life's experience. But we need no palmist to tell us that the lines of the mouth change as our characters change, for better or for worse.

Hardships and disappointments harden the curves of the lips, and corners droop unless you call will power and courage to your aid and smile in the face of bitter things as well as sweet. And a hard mouth is a dreadful thing because it shows to all the world that life is bigger than YOU are; that you cannot rise above difficulties; are complaining for what you cannot gain. A hard mouth has lips firmly, closely held together, drawn tight against the teeth, and the soft curves are thin and very harsh.

In the domineering person the lower jaw is apt to give the secret, assuming a pugnacious, protruding angle. The dissipated mouth has lost its fine lines; has become loose-lipped. The thickened lower lip usually betrays weakness and sensuality; curves are downward.

A sense of humor makes a beautiful mouth, lips are curving, generous and mobile. A humorous mouth has an aneternal little curve at the corner of the mouth as though it would break into a sunny smile at the least hint of provocation. It is a beautiful mouth to look at, a beautiful one to have.

But what can you do about your mouth? Absolutely everything! You can remember not to clench your teeth, to pull your lower lip, to overwork your mouth and jaw muscles through that most unpleasant of all bad habits—gum chewing.

You can bear in mind that teeth kept slightly apart make Baptist church, Denton, Texas, will lead the singing. Come to church where everybody is somebody. The church with a welcome. W. H. ALBERTSON.

for a greater fullness of the lips and for a sweeter expression. You can remember to set a watch on your mind, to refuse to permit anger or cruelty or bitter thoughts to run away with you. You can remember not to bottle up all of your feelings, either the good or the bad ones.

For suppression is good neither for the soul nor the face. And while we are on the subject of suppression, let me warn you not to mistake self control for suppression. When you suppress a thought it is still there in your mind, brooding, waiting to spring to life at the earliest opportunity. Self-control is not only control of action. It is thought control as well.

Sunshine Class 100 Percent in Attendance

The Sunshine class of the Baptist church showed 100 percent Sunday. Our leader, Mrs. Land, was absent, and we found great pleasure in having Mrs. Reeves as leader. Each member was presented with a new book, and our aim is to do great work this quarter. Every one is invited to attend, visit or join our class. Come, and we'll give you a book.

son were those on the program. A song by Wanda June and Margaret Jean Williams, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Williams, was delightfully rendered and added to the enjoyment of the afternoon. Mrs. D. T. Mauldin was leader with Mrs. Henry Craig hostess for the afternoon.

Mrs. Pitzer Baker Entertains at Mayes' Home
Mrs. Pitzer Baker of Weinert was hostess to members of the Wednesday Bridge club Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Chas. L. Mayes. In the games of bridge, Mrs. Alton Barton won high score. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. F. S. Broach, Alton Barton, E. H. Bauman, T. G. Bengt, Joe Davis, R. B. Davy, U. R. Houser, H. H. Langford, W. R. Moore, C. L. Mayes, Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. McKennon, of Weinert.

APPRECIATIVE
The Lone Star Home Demonstration club wishes to express its sincere thanks to the faculty and trustees of the Lone Star school for their hearty cooperation and assistance in the carnival held on Friday evening of last week. They are also grateful to Mr. R. D. Turpen, who so generously assisted by hauling the cream and giving other assistance, and to all who in any way assisted in making the event a success we are indeed grateful.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

All services at the regular hours next Sunday. There will be special music at both the morning and evening services. The average attendance for the Sunday school for the past four Sundays was 286 1/2. There is no reason why it should not be three hundred for the month of April. There is a fine evidence of steady growth in all departments of the work. The B. Y. P. U.'s had 100 present Sunday evening.

Spring is here in earnest. The birds are warbling their sweetest notes. All nature is doing its best to lift up its voice in praise to Jehovah God. As the birds sing and the buds push forth all of us find nobler impulses springing up within us that are seeking expression. May we not suppress them, but let them have full sway in God's service. May we keep in mind our meeting which is to begin April the 21st. Rev. H. R. Whitley of Haskell will do the preaching. Mr. C. T. Hodges of the First

FOR ECONOMICAL TRANSPORTATION

Ten Reasons why 300,000 careful buyers have chosen the New Chevrolet Six since January 1st

Ever since the date of its introduction, the new Chevrolet Six has swept triumphantly on to greater and greater heights of popularity. Value for value and price for price—buyers have compared it with other cars in the low-price field. And the result has been an overwhelming public preference—over 300,000 buyers since January 1st. And everywhere the enthusiasm is constantly increasing—for the new Chevrolet Six combines, as does no other car in the world, those ten great fundamental factors which careful buyers are now demanding in the cars they buy.

6-Cylinder Smoothness

Due to the finer inherent balance of its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor, the new Chevrolet provides that smooth, quiet, flexible performance which is the distinguishing characteristic of the truly fine automobile. At every speed, the power is delivered easily, freely and without annoying vibration. You can ride and drive for hours without annoying rumble or noise fatigue—every mile a delight for both driver and passengers.

6-Cylinder Getaway

And in sheer brilliance of performance, as well as in smoothness and quietness of operation, the new Chevrolet Six is a revelation. An automatic acceleration pump results in remarkably fast acceleration whenever the accelerator is suddenly depressed. And a new high-compression non-detonating cylinder head eliminates every trace of "lugging"—even when you have occasion to accelerate swiftly in high gear.

6-Cylinder Speed

Naturally, Chevrolet's powerful six-cylinder valve-in-head motor might be expected to provide speed in abundance. But even more important than the speed of the new Chevrolet Six is the smooth, quiet, restful comfort you experience at every point on the speedometer. You can open the throttle wide with a feeling of complete security—and you come to the end of a full day's drive entirely free from the weariness caused by engine noise and body rumble.

6-Cylinder Power

The great reserve power of the new Chevrolet Six is a constant delight. The steepest hills are taken with ease. Heavy roads are negotiated without the necessity for frequent gear-shifting. And even at the higher speeds, there is always that feeling of confidence which comes from the knowledge that additional power is at hand . . . instantly available for whatever need may arise.

Modern Safety Features

The new Chevrolet Six is equipped with every modern safety and convenience feature—typified by a full ball bearing steering mechanism, nonlocking 4-wheel brakes with separate emergency brake, foot controlled adjustable two-beam headlights, automatic fuel pump, theft-proof Electrolock, electric motor temperature indicator, and Fisher VV windshield and adjustable driver's seat in all closed models. As a result, it is one of the easiest and safest cars in the world to handle.

Better Than 20 Miles Per Gallon

The marvelous performance of the Chevrolet Six would be considered exceptional in any automobile. But in the new Chevrolet it is nothing short of sensational—for here it is combined with operating economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline. As a result, those who can afford to own any automobile can afford to own and operate a Chevrolet Six!

Exceptional Riding Comfort

Another vital factor that has influenced hundreds of thousands in their selection of the new Chevrolet Six is its exceptional riding comfort. Built on a wheelbase of 107 inches . . . offering the deep-cushioned luxury of bodies by Fisher . . . and with the entire upper structure cradled on four long semi-elliptic shock absorber springs—it travels the roughest highways with amazing comfort. And its balance on turns and curves is equally exceptional—for the rigid frame and the long springs reduce sidesway to the minimum.

Beautiful Fisher Bodies

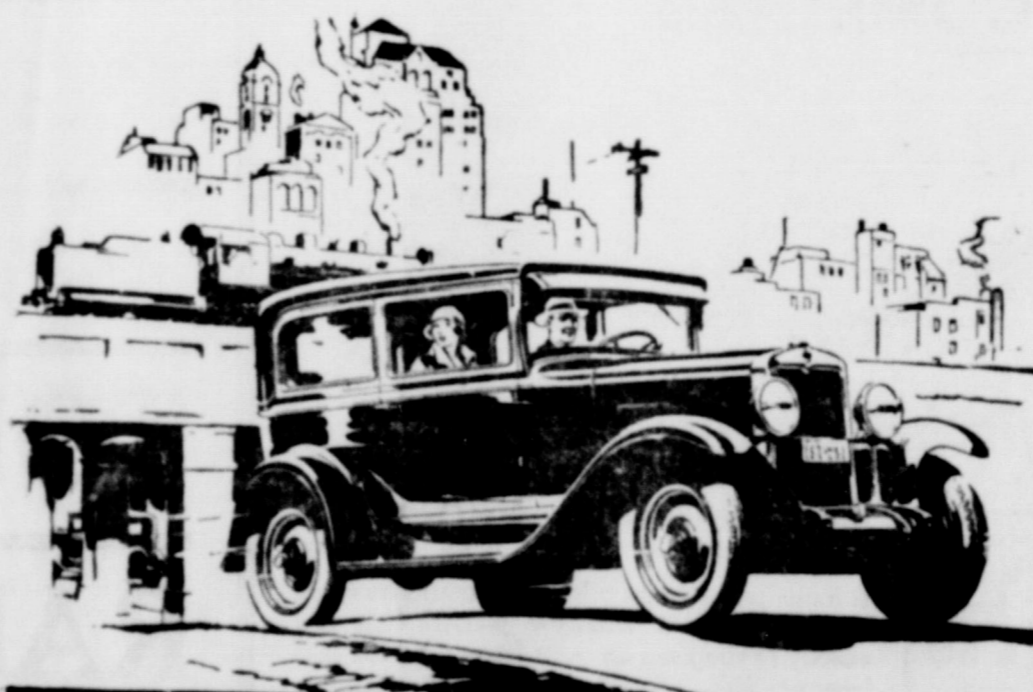

The marvelous bodies on the Chevrolet Six reveal, as never before, the matchless artistry that has made the Fisher name renowned throughout the world for excellence in coachcraft. Longer, lower and roomier . . . finished in attractive, long-lasting colors . . . and upholstered in rich deep-tufted fabrics that give to the interiors an air of custom elegance—they introduce into the low-price field an entirely new measure of style and distinction.

Proved Dependability

Before the new Chevrolet Six was presented to the public, it had been tested for more than a million miles on the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground. Never did a new motor car go into the hands of its owners more thoroughly proved in every detail. And now, reports of its performance on the highways of the nation pay glowing tribute to its endurance and dependability.

Amazingly Low Prices

Many people do not realize that this marvelous new six-cylinder Chevrolet is actually offered in the price range of the four. Compare total delivered prices as well as factory prices when determining automobile values. You will find Chevrolet delivered prices include the lowest handling and financing charges available.

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for April 7th.

THE MINISTRY OF ISAIAH
Isaiah 6:1-8; 20:1-2; 38:1-5

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Six months are now to be given to the Old Testament. The general title is "Phonetic Teaching and Leadership of Judah." The Aaim as stated by the International Lessons Committee, is "To lead the pupils in discovering and appreciating how God, through prophets and other leaders, gave help and guidance to the people of Judah, in order that the pupils may come to see the hand of God in their own lives in all human affairs." Five weeks are given to Isaiah, so read that book in that time. This series continues the course which concluded with "From Samuel to Isaiah" December, 1927, and is part of the six year cycle.

A great heart ached Isaiah to seek a special audience with God. Hezekiah the efficient and greatly beloved king died and life for the nation looked dark indeed. There is always recourse in the recourse to prayer and the prophet was comforted as he looked into the future with Jehovah. Spiritual sight pierced beyond the horizon of the physical and Isaiah beheld his enthroned Lord in majestic setting. Heavenly messengers were about Him. Their six wings typified worship, humility and service. Salvation was heard in the antiphonal greeting "Holy, holy, holy is Jehovah of hosts; the whole earth is full of his glory."

Instantly the consciousness of the presence of Deity made Isaiah aware of his own sinful human nature by contrast. It is always so. As we come unto Him we are mindful of the difference as the real self is acknowledged. Isaiah's outcry was akin to that of the man in the parable, when two men went up to the Temple to pray, who said "God be merciful to me, a sinner." Such pleading moves our Father to action. Though it was in a vision there was effective reality, as one of the seraphim took a burning coal from the altar and cleansed those lips as by fire. Thus made ready, Isaiah was able to give a noble response when the Lord called for volunteers, saying "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" Instant answer was "Here am I, send me." Today, when opportunity is given for service 95% of the average church members will be indifferent or suggest that the other 5% already doing most of the work, undertake the added tasks.

Isaiah served faithfully during four reigns. He fulfilled the office of a prophet. He foretold the truth as a messenger commanded by Jehovah. No toil was too hard to be undertaken in obeying a commission. He boldly faced kings as well as peasants, for every class equally needs the truth of life. When Hezekiah was sick, Isaiah, in performing the office of a pastor, told him "Set thy house in order." in preparation for impending death. He is foolish indeed who straightens out his books only when the auditor is expected. Every phase of life should be lived so that the auditing can take place at any time.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner does this baby feel settled; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have saved your child without use of a single doubtful drug. Castoria is vegetable. No it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot get away. And it's always ready. The mother pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Chevrolet Service Paris May Be Secured In 20,960 Points, U. S.

Detroit, April 4.—In preparation for America's biggest motoring season, the Chevrolet Motor Company announced here today the development of a comprehensive program for the service protection of the millions of its cars that will be in use this spring.

Surveys made by the company indicate that automobile travel this year will break all mileage records; they show that the automobile will be called on to shoulder an increasing portion of the nation's transportation requirements and they point out that the automobile will pioneer its way this year into uncharted spots and secluded recesses, where until a few years ago, service was miles away and frequently uncertain.

It was with a view to making Chevrolet service even more accessible, thorough, rapid and economical to the owner that the present expansion and perfection program was undertaken, J. P. Little, manager of the parts and service division, explained.

So extensive has been the development of the service activities of the company, he said, that there are now 20,960 points in the United States where the Chevrolet owner may obtain authorized Chevrolet service or genuine parts. This is perhaps the fullest service coverage ever offered by an automobile manufacturer, Mr. Little declared, and assures the Chevrolet owner of the widest possible parts and service protection.

The program contemplates the opening this year of eleven new parts warehouses, in addition to the 28 now in operation. Several of these will be in operation in May, with others opening at intervals until October 31, when the last of the group will be finished. New warehouses are being built or will be constructed this year in the following cities: Indianapolis, Ind.; Birmingham, Ala.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Richmond, Va.; Great Falls, Mont.; El Paso, Texas; Wichita, Kansas; and Knoxville, Tenn. Sites for the remaining three warehouses will be announced in a few weeks.

When completed this fall, the parts warehouse program will provide Chevrolet with 1,180,000 square feet of floor space for the actual warehousing and shipping of parts, exclusive of the necessary office space.

Simultaneously with the announcement of the new six cylinder car, adequate parts supplies were shipped to each of the 28 parts warehouses. In this connection, Mr. Little explained that more than 5,000 Chevrolet mechanics in various sections of the country have already attended the special Chevrolet service schools, where under the supervision of factory experts they make a thorough study of the new car and prepare themselves to offer the owner prompt and efficient service. Thirty-one of these schools are now in operation.

The same tremendous manufacturing facilities that are enabling the company to offer the new car at its price, Mr. Little pointed out, are permitting Chevrolet to offer parts at prices consistently low and well within the price range of the four. He called attention to the strategic locations of the large group of parts warehouses stressing the fact that sites had been selected with a view to getting parts closer to the public.

He further pointed out that the uniform flat rate system of service charges that prevails in every Chevrolet service station gives the owner the advantage of the lowest possible service cost and price protection at the same time.
