SHERIFF RECOVERS VALUABLE COAT!

Acting upon a tip by telephone from the chief of police in Dallas, Sheriff L. C. Floyd began a search for a valuable coat which had been stolen from a Dallas Department Store.

Upon entering the residence of a local colored man, Floyd found the coat hanging in a closet of the residence last Saturday which resembled the one described to him. He immediately called Dallas and informed the police the coat had been found.

"Don't let it get away from you," the police chief replied, "That coat sells for better than $3000.00, and we sure want it back!"

It was a ladies fur coat—a one button affair—and the sheriff was informed the button alone was worth $30.00, and he was anxious to get such valuable merchandise out of his possession!

Cerveny Farm Is Approved For Certified Seed

Knox County pure seed farm located one and a half miles south east of the Rhineland Community which is operated and owned by Frank Cerveny has been approved a licensed producer and distributor of certified field seed by the state Registered and Certified Plant Board, says R. O. Dunkle, County Agent of Knox County.

In order for a certified seed grower to be approved by the State Plant Board, it is necessary that he plant registered seed of the variety or varieties that he wishes to increase as certified seed, and that the fields be inspected twice during the growing season to determine the cultural methods practiced and to eliminate or rouge out all off type stalks. The registered seed is that which has been improved and bagged by the State Experiment Stations. These small amounts of seed were secured from the Chillicothe Experiment Station in 1944, and from this small beginning of only one half pound of seed of each variety, Mr. Cerveny has caprock combine Milo, Plainsman Combine Milo and Sweet Sudan for sale to the farmers of Knox County.

The fields were inspected by Mr. W. A. Goath, inspector of Field Seed Certification of Austin, twice during the growing season.

There is no investment on the farm that will return as great a dividends as the money spent for good seed of adapted varieties.

"What a Man Does For Himself Dies With Him—
What He Does For His Community Lives On and On."

STUDY THE RECORD

There was a period of some 150 years in the United States, which is more or less a myth in the minds of the younger generation, during which time individuals planned and financed the enterprises that made this most progressive nation in the world, with the highest standard of living, the greatest production per man, and the highest wages.

That was the era when practically every modern convenience we enjoy today was made available to the public.

The development of electricity was a private undertaking carried on by men with vision and courage whose neighbors often thought them crazy. But in a short half century, every nook and corner of the United States was given electric service.

Then we ran into a new era, and following the lead of European countries where government sought to be wet nurse to the people, political planners promoted the idea that it was time for our government to control the opportunities and activities of its citizens. They succeeded in having the government pour hundreds of millions of dollars into electric power development to compete with or destroy established companies. The people were propagandized to the effect that this was necessary to prevent a power shortage, although there had never been a power shortage and there was no prospect of one.

This is but an example of the technique that was employed by European politicians to establish socialist regimes which made government slaves out of tens of millions of people. Freedom and individuals liberty fly out the window when government steps into the driver's seat.

The younger generation would do well to study American history and compare the current socialist trends in our own country with the principles upon which this government was founded. If they favor socialism, as they have seen it work over the world, go ahead with the present program. But if they prefer the American system of individual opportunity and freedom from regimentation, kick camouflaged socialism out of the political window.

WHAT IS YOUR HOME WORTH?

Building costs soared during the war. They are still soaring. The peak has not been reached and no one knows when it will be. But it is certain the value of homes is far above that of a few years ago. And those who own their own homes will do well to keep in touch with present values and not be caught napping in the matter of fire insurance.

The following bulletin from the National Board of Fire Underwriters, is timely:

"In the light of rising cost of repairs for houses damaged by fire, or of values of destroyed homes or household goods at today's prices of materials, the policyholder who has not reviewed his insurance with his agent or broker in the last few years may find that his possessions are no adequately insured today in comparison with costs when policies were written in former years.

"This problem of adequate insurance in relation to today's prices of materials is the joint concern of the policyholder and the insurance business. Both are equally anxious to have the American home and its household goods fully protected in these critical days when a dwelling or apartment cannot be repaired or restored easily, quickly, or at a lower cost. The policyholder will act when he has the facts, and the insurance executive believe that they should call the situation to the attention of the insuring public so that individuals may obtain the facts if they do not have them.

"Insurance agents and brokers have useful information about today's costs of repairs, and desire to be helpful to householders in determining what degree of protection should be placed upon homes and household goods today."

RIDING FOR A FALL

Commenting on the strike situation, George W. Hopkins, editor and publisher of "The Lake Region," Eustis, Florida, says in part: "Organized labor has the full protection of the United States government today in the wholesale strikes it has instituted. Whether detrimental or not to our economic well-being, the Congress has put its seal of approval upon them, and the people must abide by the consequences. "A monopoly in restraint of trade is no more damaging to the economy of the nation than a monopoly in restraint of labor. Both should be outlawed in a free democracy."

The right to work and earn a living, whether one joins or does not join some specified organization, has been destroyed in the United States.

WHAT PRICE INFLATION CONTROL?

A few months ago a regional OPA official circulated to all OPA offices in his territory a memorandum, entitled "Techniques of Interviewing." As its title implies, it was an instruction sheet to guide OPA investigators when questioning suspected rule violators. No Hitler secret police agent could have been more ruthlessly clever. The investigator was told in detail how to "set" his case. He was told to flatter his victim, agree with him, sympathize with him, discuss his hobbies, his family—if the case required harsh tactics, a war of nerves was advised. In the latter event, the recommended approach was "a slow, deliberate, a methodical summation of the facts as you go over each document, entry, or circumstance. . . ." The crowning imitation of the famous Hitler technique dealt with the subject of turning friends against friends—"point out to him that he is being played for a sucker. . . Each little pin point penetration that you make in the witness will make him want to sing to get even. When he sings—you write the music."

It is hard to believe that an official government agent in the United States could have so forgotten the traditions of his country as to write the above. It is even harder to believe that it could have been condoned by his superiors until it was reproduced in the Congressional Record, whereupon they hastily retracted and condemned it, more because of the effect it might have on public opinion than because of its fundamental wrongness.

The most alarming part about our economic policeman, the OPA, is that it is beyond our regular courts of justice. The accused are "condemned" in special courts, which alone is something new and dangerous—how dangerous is illustrated above.

Americans might well begin to ask themselves, What price inflation control?

THE "GIMMIES" WRECK SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

The government of New Zealand is seriously considering whether that country's free physician service will be continued.

The record of New Zealand's compulsory health insurance reveals that the cost of disability pensions and medical care benefits tripled between 1940 and 1945. The rise was due to increasing costs of various classes benefits, as well as to the addition of new classes of medical benefits in 1941 and 1942. Some types of benefits, namely permanent and temporary disability and maternity benefits, show a fairly constant cost level over the last few years. On the other hand, hospitalization, medical care and pharmaceutical, and supplementary medical benefits have shown substantial increases almost every year since their inception.

This shows that New Zealand has been unable to keep the costs of operation of compulsory health insurance on an even keel, due to factors not strictly of a social nature. One of these is the human tendency to take advantage of benefits offered under a compulsory system; another is the political pressure for increases in rates and duration of benefits, as well as for increase in coverage. Both these factors are difficult to evaluate in terms of statistics, but they exist.

New Zealand has had compulsory health insurance since 1939, and in these years of trial its operation has become more costly with every year that passes.

This is something for America, now burdened with federal debt of nearly $300 billion, to think about when it considers entering the field of socialized medicine.

15-STORY "TEST TUBE" DESIGNED BY FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT

A fifteen-story glass tower, designed by the famous architect, Frank Lloyd Wright, is the feature of a modern wax research laboratory to be built this year in Racine, Wisconsin, it was announced today by Herbert F. Johnson, Jr., president of S. C. Johnson & Son, Inc., of Racine, Johnson said:

"Our new building, which will mark the 60th anniversary of the founding of our business, will be a companion to the Johnson Administration Building which was also designed by Wright and completed in 1939. It will give us unsurpassed facilities for the development of better wax products for home and industry, and at the same time represent, I believe, as great a contribution to business architecture as did our first Wright building."

The new Johnson's Wax laboratory is a compact, tall stack, rising 156 feet in the air, serviced directly from a circular masonry stem connected to floors at the center of each of the fifteen levels that make up the building. Each level is to be brilliant with sunlight in every part and air conditioned, heated, serviced complete from the central shaft.

Wright believes that the new Johnson Research Building will prove an inspiring example for American business—"inspiring business to make itself more efficient by making itself more presentable."

Everything Is Most Unusual In Sunny California, Lee Jungman Says

To The Editor Of The Munday Times:

Out of the far, far west, in fact just about one mile east of the Pacific Coast, comes this unusual letter from the most unusual country on the face of the earth—for no matter what happens or how it happens, it is always unusual. And now I will start at the beginning. On May 21, 1943, we left Munday, headed for California. We stopped and visited with our folks in Lubbock for a few days. During our stay it rained several showers—and that was the last rain we saw until a few days before Christmas, 1943.

Now back to our trip. Well, things looked fairly good as far west as Albuquerque, New Mexico, but it was very noticeable that it was getting dryer and dryer, and more and more greenery vanished until there was nothing left but great expanses of dry bunch grass, rolling hills dotted with occasional green desert shrubs. The same old monotony continued until we ran into the piney woods at Flagstaff, Ariz., which is a beautiful little city nestled in the mountains among the tall pines.

We put up for the night at a tourist park. The air was delightfully cool and refreshing. There was a mild breeze that filled the air with the scent of the new and tender pine needles that were just coming on. It was like paradise to us, compared to what we had experienced for the two days before. But the next morning we soon ran out of the pines and back into the same old routine of the days before. The next greenery we saw was just a little strip of trees and a little green grass on each bank of the Colorado river, which we crossed at Topock. After that the monotony continued until we reached San Bernardino, where the highway follows a river valley for several miles. After leaving the river valley, we were again in the desert, when suddenly we ran back into the mountains, and there we saw a road sign which read, "Los Angeles, 20 miles."

Well, we were about to see Los Angeles in all of its glory and beauty. But did we get the surprise of our lives! There were cars, and cars, and nothing but endless lines of cars, and like everyone else would have done under the same circumstances, we got lost. No one seemed to be able to right us, but we finally made it back to main street, where we got our bearings and made it to our journey's end. But instead of seeing Los Angeles in all its beauty, we found that about two-thirds of the houses that were at one time or other nice homes were in bad repair, needed paint badly. The supposed to be beautiful lawns were grown up in weeds and wild oats, and every vacant lot was used for a dumping ground and was also grown up in wild oats and weeds—and all as dead as a door nail and dry as tinder.

Fires were breaking out, and sirens shrieking off and on all day and night, but no one seemed to pay any attention to all of that commotion because they were all too busy working either at some aircraft plant or at the shipyards. The Japs that usually did all or most of the cleaning up were gone, and the white people just couldn't, or didn't, do that kind of work.

Anyway, we got settled down on June 2, and five days later I went to work and Douglas Aircraft Co., where I am still employed at this writing.

At any rate, I didn't like the weeds and rubbish on the vacant lot that joined the place where we were living, so I cleaned it up, spaded the ground and planted a garden. It took a lot of nerve, hard work and water to accomplish that, but I did very well, and at present I am still doing the same thing and enjoy it very much.

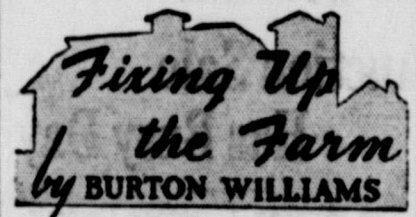

But here is what I wanted to say about the unusual things that happen here so often. In the late fall, or as I stated before, just a few days before Christmas, 1943, it began to rain, and it rained in torrents, one flood right after the other. It thundered and lightened; the wind began to blow; trees began to topple, but in spite of it all it was always balmy and warm. There was no frost, no cold wind blowing—it was all so unusual.

And now the rainy season was over and somehow, out of nowhere came plowmen, some of them using tractors, others were using horses. They plowed up most of the vacant lots and planted celery, cabbage, lettuce, beans and other varieties of vegetables. Some of the larger places where there were three or four lots joining each other, they sowed barley, wheat and oats. It all did very well, for the spring and summer were mild and cool—which was also unusual—for the previous one was warm and windy.

Then in the fall of 1943, there was a light rain on the 28th of October, followed by a good rain ten days later. That was unusual, for it hardly ever rains here before December, and, as usual, it did not rain any more until the day before Christmas. All of the rain that fell during the rainy season fell very slow and easy, and we had no floods, and again we had no frost.

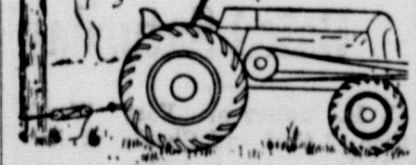

Plowing and planting was in progress again, and on a bigger scale. This time most of the land was planted to celery, for the price

For "Jittery" Tractors

FARMERS are thinking up new jobs for their tractors every day to increase the use of this expensive piece of machinery and decrease labor costs. But the light tractor that won't "stay put" when it is being used for belt work can be the source of a great deal of irritation and extra work to the farmer who has to stop frequently to tighten the belt and get the tractor back in line.

Even on firm ground a light tractor often moves from vibration and a heavy load. And on muddy ground it may do a lot of slipping and sliding around. This problem can be serious enough to discourage use of the tractor on some belt jobs.

If you are having such "jitter" troubles with your tractor, here's a tip from a Montana farmer which may help make your tasks a lot easier: Set a heavy stake or fence post firmly in the ground about 10 feet behind the spot where the tractor is to be placed. Then attach a tackle block or a wire stretcher to the drawbar and the post. This will hold the tractor steady on any kind of ground and the belt can be tightened easily by pulling up the tackle block or wire stretcher.

of celery had climbed to 50 cents per bunch, which netted the producer around $2,000 per acre.

And now comes the most unusual weather of all. The usual rainfall here is between 14 and 17 inches, but at present we have had just a little over 3 inches—and the rainy season is past. But we have had a lot of frost and even a little ice, and it has been cold almost continually ever since the beginning of last November. To top it all off, February of this year was the most unusual of all. It was the driest February since 1886, the coldest since 1890, and February 27 was the hottest every recorded.

And there you have the unusuals all summed up during my stay in dear old Sunny California, where the sunshine spends the winter. Well, that may be true, but most of the time you would have to go up in a plane to 1000-foot level before you could prove it.

POLISH FARMERS GIVE UNRRA TRACTORS 24-HOUR DAILY WORKOUTS

Warsaw.—UNRRA tractors are doing virtually 24-hour duty in Poland, where farmers plough in shifts around the clock. The tractors are operated on a pool basis, with equipment moved from one agricultural center to another.

Local workers learn to get the most out of each tractor and best utilize other farm equipment in tractor schools which are set up when the equipment arrives.

By the end of February, Poland will have received 5,500 UNRRA tractors to aid them in seed bed preparation and in harvesting. Prospects for a good harvest are excellent, inspectors say.

Washington News Letter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C., March 16.—Three of the 21 Representatives in Congress from Texas will not seek re-election this year. Fritz Latham, who has represented the Fort Worth district for 28 years and Hutton Summers, who has represented the Dallas district for 34 years are both retiring because the work has grown too heavy. Sam Russell of Stephenville is retiring because he cannot live in the Washington climate.

A good many members of Congress will not be opposed in this year's elections. This, too, perhaps because the job, simply as a job, is not clearly so attractive as it once was. The date for filing for Congress in Alabama has just closed and four of the state's nine Representatives do not have any opposition for re-election.

On this point, in today's mail I find letters from wool, cotton, dairy, cattle and lumber people making strong complaints of existing conditions and demanding various forms of relief.

This week I had the pleasure of filling a request from America's leading golfer for Agriculture Yearbooks. This man, Bryon Nelson, is a native of Denton County and owns a farm in that vicinity on which he likes to spend as much time as possible. Almost every man either owns or wishes to own land. There is something substantial and fundamental in the soil.

From another distinguished citizen of Denton County, Dean B. B. Harris of North Texas State Teachers College, I secured the following quotations which give testimony to the virility and validity of our first and greatest resource, Emerson once said, "The first farmer was the first man; and all historic nobility rests on possession and use of land." Cato testified, "The agricultural population produces the bravest men, the most valiant soldiers, and a class of citizens the least given of all to evil designs." Thomas Jefferson wrote, "Wherever there is in any country unutilized lands and unemployed poor, it is clear that the laws of prosperity have been so far extended as to violate natural rights. The earth is given as a common stock for men to labor on. The small landowners are the most precious part of the State."

Today's press carries the story that Sidney Hillman, head of the Political Action Committees of the CIO, is opening the fight of his organization on so-called "hostile Congressmen." If you have opposed or voted against the guaranteed full employment bill or the Fair Employment Practices Commission bill or if you have voted for the Hobbs anti-racketeering bill or the Case bill or any bill seeking to implement the settlement of strikes, you are on their blacklist. My score on all of these items, from the PAC viewpoint, is zero.

While some notable strikes have been settled, a new threat appears on the horizon. If the coal miners should strike, as they may do within the next several months, the resulting coal shortage would stop and slow down many vital industries, thus seriously bottlenecking the entire reconversion program. The remarkable advance in the earnings of bituminous coal miners in recent years is indicated as follows:

1933—$14.47, weekly earnings, and $0.50, hourly wage; 1936—$22.71, weekly earnings, and $0.79 1/2, hourly wage; 1939, $23.88 weekly earnings and $0.88, hourly wage; 1942—$35.02, weekly earnings, and $1.06 hourly wage, and 1945 (Dec.) $58.20 weekly earnings and $1.28 hourly wage.

Any business that cannot pay a decent living wage of course does not deserve to survive. Every person is entitled to receive full value for the worth of his services. However, no person or corporation is entitled to get more than the value of his contribution in goods, services, or labor. Governments were first instituted to protect individuals from the cave man's club. Some one described this philosophy thus: "The good old rule, the ancient plan, that he should take who has the power and he should keep who can." Certainly we are not going back to the Stone Age in these matters.

Burnice Bowden and Bully Ratliff were in Fort Worth last Sunday to attend the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Holder left Tuesday morning for several days outing and vacation. They had planned to spend a portion of the time at Graham and Possum Kingdom Lake.

Attention Farmers!

We now have 3, 4, and 5-row stalk cutters built and equipped with 30 inch blades at $25.00 per reel.

Due to the steel strikes, scarcity of steel and advance prices on all future shipments when available, they will be considerably higher.

Therefore, if you are contemplating needing a stalk cutter you had better act now, while you can still take advantage of the old prices.

We do blacksmithing, electric and acetylene welding, also disc sharpening.

We are using old pre-war grader blades for pointing your points since the regular pointing steel contains no tungsten metal and incidentally I have a blacksmith that knows his stuff and how to make them last you much longer.

Looking Ahead

SEVERAL years ago a salesman representing a firm of efficiency experts induced a small manufacturer to engage the services of a systematizer who, he promised, would show the owner how to save a great deal more of his factory's earnings. At length came a polished gentleman of 40 with a chisel-shaped nose supporting a pair of conspicuous spectacles.

The owner of the plant and his hired adviser walked solemnly together through offices and shops. They were returning to the main office when the expert's eye fell upon an idle man—an old man, sitting at a desk looking out a window. As soon as they were out of ear-shot, the expert exclaimed: "That old fuddy-duddy is a net loss. Discharge him! He is just sitting there dreaming."

Loved "DO YOU suppose he Action is dreaming?" inquired the owner of the factory. "Day-dreaming, to be sure," replied the expert. "Well, that's just fine," said the owner. "Now we won't be needing your help at all. Every so often that old chap has a day-dream, and the cheapest one he ever had brought us half a million dollars of new business. Don't disturb him as you go out."

Creative work has its peculiarities. It takes place inside people's heads, and superficial critics don't look that deep. First comes the germ of an idea; then careful analysis. Since no one person can know all about anything, research is necessary. Research is carried too, because it must be carried on by men who have special knowledge and special skills.

Thoughts INVENTIONS don't Have Life go into production direct from the dream stage. Manufacturing profits begin when multiplied copies of an invention start coming off the assembly line, but mass production permits no guess-work. Countless laboratory tests and exhaustive practical experiments must pave every invention's road to market. Many a good idea has died unworked for lack of research—too costly.

In America are many factories—geese able to lay golden eggs, such as employment, prosperity and progress. The fertile 14-carat gander in the flock is Research. Without this motivating influence industry may start its post-war program and pursue a well charted course, efficiently amputating cost after cost until there's nothing left to cut off, but it's the road to ruin.

Not many weeks ago I read a scathing criticism of American business. In it the author hoisted a red flag in warning against capitalism. He pointed to vast sums spent annually in industrial research by a few wealthy corporations. I have only this to say: I hope they spent all he said and more, because the brightest spot in the outlook is research.

Drug Stockpile Insures Speedy Aid When Disease Hits

LONDON—When epidemics of disease break out in Europe through 1946, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration is prepared to meet them with a stockpile of vaccines, biologicals and other equipment now held in readiness in London.

Destitution and filth which followed the Axis occupation of a number of European countries paved the way for outbreaks of disease. UNRRA, through its medical and health activities, has been combating this menace.

Included in the London stockpile are a half million CC's of diphtheria antitoxin, typhoid, and Schick test toxin; biologicals for injections against typhus, cholera, bubonic plague, smallpox, tetanus, and gas gangrene. As soon as supplies are available, anti-influenza vaccine and penicillin will be added. Also in the stockpile are portable water purifying units with their own gasoline power plants. All of the supplies can be transported by airplane to reach the spot of an outbreak and be put to use within a few hours of the time UNRRA is notified.

Miss Geraldine Harlan was a business visitor in Seymour last Saturday afternoon.

John Ed Jones came in the latter part of last week from his home in Kerrville, and is visiting friends and looking after business matters here.

ADD 250,000 GARDENS

The goal of three quarters of a million home gardens in Texas, previously announced for 1946, has been stepped to a full million by C. R. Heaton, horticulturist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension.

The upward revision points out the need for home production of vegetables at a level equal to that of the war years and reflects the critical world food situation.

The appeal to Texas home gardeners to plant an additional 250,000 gardens came after M. L. Wilson, director of the federal extension service, called upon Texas Director Ide P. Trotter to again put into effect wartime policies of home food production.

Dr. Trotter has instructed all county agricultural and home demonstration agents to make home gardening a major activity. He said recent developments in the world food situation are such that food will be as critical an item, if not more so, than during any year of the war.

Rodeo, Roundup Opens May 29 At Vernon, Texas

Civic leaders in North Texas today announced the plans for the first Santa Rosa Roundup and Livestock Exposition to be held in Vernon, Texas, May 29 through June 2, indicating that it will be one of the largest and most colorful events ever designed or produced for North Texas, Southern Oklahoma, and New Mexico. It was revealed that a master plan for the undertaking has been prepared which includes grandstands, rodeo arena, stock barns and pens, exhibition buildings, carnival or circus grounds, swimming pools, airplane landing strips and all other facilities in keeping with an undertaking of this magnitude.

Now under construction is an all steel grandstand, with a seating capacity of 5,000 persons, the most modern rodeo arena in the south, and landing strips. The plans call for paved streets and walks, and for ample parking space to accommodate many thousands. Because of the shortage of material and labor, the entire development cannot be completed earlier than 1947.

To Open With Rodeo

The opening production will be a 5-day rodeo beginning May 29th, and running through June 2nd, including three evening performances with matinees on Memorial Day, May 30th, and the following Sunday, June 2nd. This show will be produced by Earl and Jack Sellers of Del Rio, Texas, prominent as leaders in rodeo productions of the United States. Both professional and amateur events are planned and only the finest exhibition or specialty acts will be featured.

Here in the heart of a rich agricultural country, the beginning of the great livestock, produce, home craft, and semi-annual rodeo exhibitions has created the warmest public enthusiasm. Leaders are looking forward to the rapid development of the vast undertaking. The success of the project has been assured by E. Paul Waggoner, prominent ranch and oil man of Vernon, who has assumed financial responsibility for the construction and development of the master plan.

Leaders emphasize the fact that this will be the first exposition and rodeo ground in America affording landing strips for private planes. Air-minded America may now travel to its greatest rodeo and livestock exposition, land on the exposition grounds and have the plane accessible for the return trip home.

It was emphasized that this semi-annual Rodeo and Livestock Exposition was not a local affair. It has been planned and designed by surrounding communities in a concerted effort to afford adequate recreational facilities and exposition grounds for all the communities and industries of North Texas, Southern Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

How would you CHART YOUR COURSE?

Pictured here are the records of four "life lines" of our business—four things which largely control the destiny of any business, whether it be a farm, a factory or a store. They are Wages, Materials Costs, Prices, and Profits. Suppose these were pictures of what is going on in your own affairs. How would you chart your future course from these facts?

What about wages?

Wages have risen steadily for five years. Before the strike which began on January 21 in ten of our plants and which has choked off nearly all farm machinery production, earnings of employees of these plants averaged $1.15 1/2 an hour, not including any overtime. The Union demanded a 34 cents per hour increase and a Government board has now recommended a general increase of 18 cents an hour, which would make average earnings $1.33 1/2 an hour. Weekly average would be $53.40.

What about materials?

No one seems to know how high materials costs will go. The Government has increased steel prices as much as $12.00 a ton, with an average increase for all grades of 8.2%. Steel is the most important material we buy, but prices on other materials are also increasing.

What about prices?

There has been no general increase in our prices since they were frozen by the Government in early 1942. Since then a few small increases have been allowed where particular machines were substantially changed in design.

What about profits?

Risk is part of the American profit and loss system, so we do not, of course, ask either our customers or the Government to guarantee that we can be certain of profits each year. The chart tells the story of our profits during the war. Although Harvester produced more goods than ever before, it had no desire to get rich out of war, so our rate of profit has steadily gone down. What our 1946 profit will be is extremely uncertain.

What is the next step?

As you can see, our present situation is that with frozen prices and declining profits, we are asked to pay higher materials costs and to make the biggest wage increase in the history of the Company. Can we do this? Wages and materials consume all but a few cents of every dollar we take in. If our prices continue frozen, and cost of wages and materials continues to rise, obviously our Company will begin to operate at a loss at some point.

The exact point at which operating at a loss would start is a matter of judgment. Government agencies and union leaders may have opinions as to where that point is. But if they turn out to be wrong, they can shrug their shoulders and say: "Well, it wasn't my responsibility. I didn't make the decision."

The management of this Company cannot and will not say that. It dares not gamble. It has to be sure. Continuation of our service to millions of customers, the future jobs of thousands of employees, and the safety of the investments of 39,000 stockholders depend on our making a correct decision as is humanly possible.

What about future prices on farm machinery?

The judgment of Harvester's management now is that we cannot safely make the huge wage increase recommended by the Government until the Government authorizes adequate increases in the prices of farm machinery to cover the resulting increased costs.

That is not a judgment that makes us happy. The Company does not want to raise prices. We prefer to lower prices, when possible, and we know our customers prefer to have us do that. We have produced at 1942 prices, and hoped we could continue to do so. We have delayed seeking general price relief in the hope that it could be avoided. Now we are convinced that it cannot be avoided any longer. The price question must be settled. Until it is settled we do not see how we can settle the wage question. Until the wage question is settled we do not see how we can resume production and begin turning out the farm machines which we know our farmer customers need.

Because of the important stake which both farmers and city dwellers have in this controversy, we are bringing these matters to your attention. Through the cross currents of today's conditions, we are trying to chart a course that is fair to our employer, to our farmer customers, and to our stockholders.

Methodist Youth Rallies Planned For This District

"God, My Neighbor and I" is the theme for the seven rallies to be held in the Northwest Texas Conference of the Methodist Church from March 24-30. This is part of the National Mission to Methodist Youth being sponsored by the Church and will be centered on the special purpose of winning youth for Christ.

Mr. Hoover Rupert, Director of the Youth Department of the General Board of Education, Nashville, Tennessee, will climax the program of each rally with a stirring message. The District Council of each district will meet to discuss with Mr. Rupert and the conference staff traveling with him various projects and their promotion.

Mr. Rupert became director of the Youth Department on January 1, 1945. His parents were missionaries in India for several years. He was educated at Baked University, and Boston University School of Theology and was serving as a minister in the Kansas Conference when he took the work with the General Board. A writer of poetry, Mr. Rupert is the author of Prayer Poems on the Prayer Perfect. He also has been a contributor to the Upper Room, Testament of Faith, and an Anthology of American Religious Poetry. He has been writing a weekly newspaper column entitled, "Make the most of Life," and has been a writer for various religious publications. He shared his rich spirit and experience with the young people and adults of this conference.

These rallies will indicate all youth from 12 through 23 years of age, all pastors, adult workers with youth in local churches, and all parents interested in the progress of youth work. This week of rallies will begin a special month of evangelistic emphasis in which Methodist Youth will endeavor to spread the Christ-like spirit, and win others to Christ. The project is sponsored by the Youth Council of this Conference and is being promoted also by the district and sub-district councils.

The rally for the Stamford District will be a joint meeting with the Abilene District at St. John's Church in Stamford on Saturday evening, 7:30 o'clock, March 30. Our goal for attendance is one thousand. You want to be present.

DDT Is Used To Combat Horn Fly Among Cattle

The new chemical known as DDT seems very promising in the control of the horn fly on cattle.

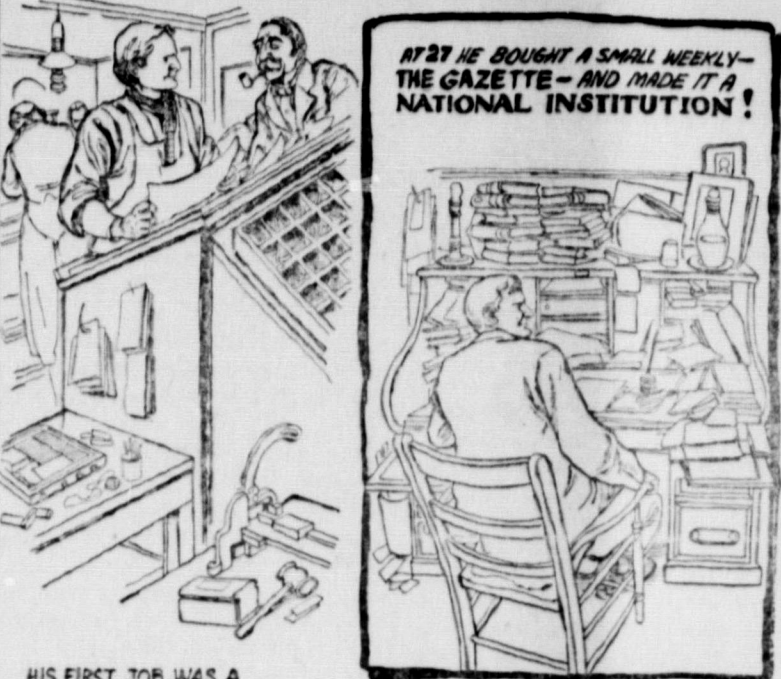

Experimental results on a group of feeder steers in feed lot treated for horn fly control gained 30 pounds more per animal than on untreated steers during the sixty day feeder period. Satisfactory results are also obtained in treating milch cows, according to R.

The Spur Experiment Station, during the past fly season, found that the treatment of cattle with a dust mixture of 1 pound of 50% water dispersible DDT powder and 9 pounds sulphur gave good results after dusting this mixture on the backs of steers or cows as any other spray application. About 1 oz. of this mixture per steer gave good control for a period of 20 days. In case of spray application 1 pound 50% water dispersible DDT powder per 50 gallons water has been found to be highly effective when applied at the rate of 1 gallon per head with a power spray.

Early treatment of cattle for the horn fly will greatly reduce the fly population as the season advances. Large numbers of flies feeding on animals cause endless misery and the results mean less milk for the dairy cow and less pounds of gain for the beef steers. Raw places caused by horn flies feeding are often infested with screw worms. Animals cannot make normal gain when fighting flies which results in a loss of weight and in a reduction of milk. Experimental results indicate that five cents worth of DDT will return an additional $1.50 profit.

This DDT water dispersible powder can be obtained at most any drug store.

Appeal Made To Citizens To Plant Gardens This Year

The goal of three quarters of a million home gardens in Texas, previously announced for 1946, has been upped to a full million by C. R. Heaton, horticulturist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension.

The upward revision points out the need for home production of vegetables at a level equal to that of the years and reflects the critical world food situation.

The appeal to Texas home gardeners to plant an additional 250,000 gardens came after M. L. Wilson, director of the federal extension Service, called upon Texas director Ide P. Trotter to again put into effect wartime policies of home food production.

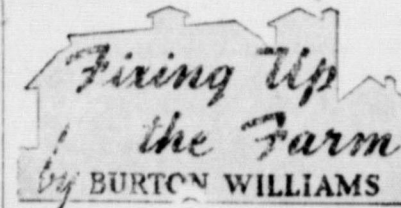

Dr. Trotter has instructed all county agricultural and home demonstration agents to make home gardening a major activity. He said recent developments in the world food situation are such that food will be as critical an item, if not more so, than during any year of the war.

Asbestos Chick Feeder

PROVISION for adequate feeders in the brooder house is one of the numerous repair and replacement tasks which should be undertaken during the winter months so that the brooder will be ready for spring hatches.

Pennsylvania State College has developed designs for chick, intermediate and hen feeders which are made almost entirely of 3/16-inch asbestos cement board. Use of asbestos board, with its smooth, hard surface, provides feeders which are easily cleaned and disinfected. Deterioration from moisture is eliminated because asbestos board will not rot, decay or rust.

In constructing the chick feeder, the two end uprights are made of lumber one inch thick, 4 inches high, 3 1/2 inches wide at the bottom and 1 1/2 inches wide at the top. A piece of 3/16 inch asbestos board 2 1/2 inches wide and 24 inches long is inserted in 1/4-inch slots 2 1/2 inches deep in each end piece to prevent chicks from scratching the feed out and to keep them from roosting or standing on the feeder. The floor is formed of asbestos board 4 inches by 24 inches nailed to the bottom of the wood uprights. The two side pieces are asbestos board 1 1/4 inches wide and 24 inches long.

Income From Farms Drops For January

Austni.—Cash farm income in Texas dropped 41 per cent in January under what it was in January, 1945, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

The decline in cotton ginnings from 362,000 bales in January, 1945 to 33,000 bales in January, 1946, as well as a similar decline in marketings of cottonseed accounted for practically all the drop in income.

The Bureau's Texas Business Review for February computed the January cash income as $58,000,000, as compared with approximately $98,000,000 in January, 1945.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Branch of Ranger spent the week end here with Jimmy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Branch.

Little Children Who Cannot Hear Learn To Talk

No longer does being deaf imprison a child in a world of silent loneliness. Little Jimmy, Sue, Ike, Sherry and Dan, three and four-year-olds, are learning to be normal children at the Pilot Institute for the Deaf, 4830 Ross Avenue, Dallas, Texas. They are among twenty-five children learning to speak and read lips. The Institute is sponsored by the Dallas Pilot Club, a small group of professional and business women, who, three years ago, discovered that there was no school of this kind for pre-school deaf children in the entire Southwest. They set about meeting the challenge of deafness in little children by establishing a permanent school on a non-profit basis, under the guidance of Miss Ruth Orenbaum, a patient, kind teacher with many years' experience with deaf children. The Institute is growing rapidly, the enrollment now including children from all over the state. Three excellent teachers, Miss Orenbaum, Miss Marybelle Searight and Miss Mary Martin, and a maid, are employed at present. Miss Martin of Memphis, Tennessee, has recently been added to the staff. She is in charge of the newly created speech correction department for pre-school hearing children. A fourth teacher will be added next fall. To meet the expansion program, the North Dallas-Park Cities Kiwanis Club is planning a $25,000.00 school building for the Institute.

Rhineland Turns Out For Annual Meeting Of Farmers Union Local

Following splendid addresses by J. J. Berg, state president; Frank Overturn, state secretary, and Rev. Thomas, local pastor, the Rhineland local Farmers Union on March 11 signified their intentions of furthering the progress of the Farmers Union by voting overwhelmingly, 79 to 15, to raise annual dues from the inadequate low of $2.00 to $5.00.

Before one of the largest assemblies of farmers ever gathered at Rhineland, Mr. Berg and Mr. Overturn eloquently explained the plight of the present day farmer in a period of reconversion hampered by industrial monopolies, cartels and large corporations. They expressed a dire need for a united front of the farmer and organized labor to combat an attempt by selfish agencies to infringe upon the just rights of the farmer and the laborer. They pointed out that without the success of either, neither can prosper.

The Farmers Union stands for harnessing of large rivers through the various valley authorities to develop cheap electricity, irrigation and flood control. They stand for full employment, racial equality, family type farming, improvement of living standards and conditions of the majority of farm people.

The Farmers Union of Texas is indeed fortunate in being so ably represented through the sincere and competent fighting qualities of these two gentlemen. They are in there battling with little compensation for the rights and just dues of the common man. Both are well qualified for their various duties, having lived or are living on farms. Yes, it is through the combined efforts of these two state officials that the Farmers Union is now on the march in Texas. We have come a long way, but the need is still great to go further, and final success can only be attained through the concerted efforts of every member of the Farmers Union. Let us not rest upon our present laurels, but think, talk, and dream Farmers Union. It is the humble opinion of this writer that through organized and whole-hearted cooperation the Farmers Union can become the strongest organization on earth. Let us then unite to protect and promote our interests, for after all we are the ones to profit.

The Rhineland Lone Star Band furnished hilarity for this occasion, and at the conclusion of a harmonious session, a lunch was served to the complete satisfaction of everyone. It is hoped this meet will serve as an inspiration to those assembled, as well as those not in attendance.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin.—The child who cannot hear is badly handicapped. Hard-of-hearing children are often considered backward and become greatly retarded in school when in reality they may be highly intelligent but simply cannot hear much of what is said to them. Children who appear backward in school should be observed carefully to determine if hearing is a factor in the situation.

According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, many injuries to the ear can be prevented by keeping foreign objects out of the ear canal, taking good care of the ears during colds and other diseases and observing certain precautions when swimming.

"The cause of middle ear trouble often is diving and swimming," Dr. Cox said. "Whenever the nose is underwater the breath should be continually and gently expelled through the nose to keep the nasal passage free of water. Protect the ears further by wearing a rubber cap."

The State Health Officer declared that no hard instrument of any kind should be used in cleansing the ear canal since it may be injurious. Using ordinary precautions can do much to avoid minor ear trouble which may later lead to partial or complete deafness, the Doctor added.

Army Program To Conserve Food For Emergency In Foreign Famine

The Honorable Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War, today pledged the full support of the United States Army and Air Force to the Famine Emergency Commission and also announced a specific program to conserve food and eliminate waste.

"Upon the acceptance of the Honorary Chairmanship of the Famine Emergency Commission by the former President Herbert Hoover," stated Mr. Patterson, "I immediately called on Mr. Hoover and pledged full support and cooperation of the War Department. I am particularly pleased with the acceptance of Mr. Hoover, because his expert knowledge of world food problems and many years of experience in this humanitarian endeavor places the best qualified authority in a position to be of help."

Mr. Patterson further stated, "The War Department feels that every effort should be expended toward relief of suffering and starvation, not only for the sake of humanity, but also to enable us to decrease our Army of Occupation responsible for peace and order. If food riots and disturbances occur in the occupied territories we may have to call for additional troops."

In order to carry out the plan of supporting President Hoover's nationwide conservation program, the War Department announced the following actions have been taken:

1. Directives have been dispatched to impress all Army personnel with gravity of the situation and enjoying the strictest economy and elimination of waste.

2. The European, Mediterranean and the Pacific Theaters have been directed to conserve to the fullest indigenous resources and stock piles.

3. A total of 1,216,568 cubic feet of freeze space and 902,120 cubic feet of chill space in refrigerator ships has been released by the Army during the month of January and February. An additional 1,115,400 cubic feet of freeze and 179,863 cubic feet of chill will be released in March.

4. To conserve critical wheat supplies experiments are being made to determine the practicability of using 80% extraction flour by the Army instead of the present commercial standard 68-72% flour.

5. Efforts are being made to adjust the nutritional value of the Army ration to say maximum food without adversely affecting the health or morale of troops.

6. Posts, camps and station have been directed to stimulate the production of fresh fruits and vegetables in truck gardens to increase the supply of perishable products, relieve the demand on civilian markets and reduce the consumption of critical food items.

7. Emphasis is being placed on the conservation of sugar. The elimination of sugar in the preparation of stewed prunes has saved 56,000 pounds per month in the United States alone. This will be done with other food, if possible.

8. Effective on the February master menu the issue of bread was reduced from 15 pounds to 12 pounds per 100 men per meal. This will bring about a reduction in the consumption of bread by 720,000 pounds monthly in the future.

9. Stocks of subsistence at all prisoner of war camps have been ordered reduced to a minimum.

10. Hereafter rations will be issued on the basis of actual number served rather than those carried on the daily roster, thus eliminating preparation of food in excess of actual needs. The new system will save food especially on week ends and holidays when the men are on pass.

In advising the War Department of the steps already taken and being taken in food conservation the Office of the Quartermaster General made the following announcement: "The Army, aware of the critical world food situation and of its responsibilities for conservation, has conducted and is continuing to conduct an aggressive and continuing program to eliminate waste and attain maximum efficiency in the procurement, storage, preparation and consumption of food."

Guns and Such
By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Looking Ahead

REVOLUTIONS come from abuses of power, not from the normal use of it. I am not thinking of wars alone. All kinds of revolutionary developments follow much the same pattern. Just consider, for an example, America's bewildering canon of statutes governing firearms, their possession and use. Guns add formidable force to people who own them and know how to use them.

In some states, citizens walk the streets unmolested wearing side-arms. In other states, any resident must buy a permit to display his great-grandfather's "Revolutionary flint-lock" at home in a glass case. The difference is no political whimsy. Wherever the right to own arms has been abused, public sentiment has demanded laws against them, not only enacted but enforced.

Needless SEVERAL days ago I Calamity wrote a prediction that the American people some day would rise up and enact laws requiring compulsory arbitration of labor disputes. Since I penned those lines I have been in several states and talked with men who are close to the public pulse. Almost all of them share my fears as well as my slender hope that compulsory arbitration never comes.

Outlawing strikes is a threat, plain to see, but an unnecessary calamity. No detail of human freedom should be sacrificed to anything but public welfare. Strikes, like guns, have their uses. If strikes were outlawed, all working people would lose the gains of many toilsome years. If I might advise Labor, I would say, "Clean your gun and put it away. Don't make such an action necessary."

Penalize CIVILIZATION has Progress made progress at times by force of arms. Just so, a large segment of people have made wholesome advances by force of the power to strike. Being disarmed would weaken them, and they are liable to be disarmed because the public is weary of violence. The war is over and peace has problems that can't be solved by rattling sabers or carrying banners in torch parades.

Writing about pressure groups in his recent book, 60 Million Jobs, Henry Wallace said: "Any one group can, for a time, get a larger share of the national income but it doesn't work when all try it at the same time. Sooner or later this pressure game will blow up in our faces. This is... practical arithmetic. Unless we learn it, our future is black indeed."

Again he wrote: "In labor-management cooperation lies the very hope of... jobs. With mutual understanding between labor and management... we stand our best chance of getting good wages for labor, good prices for the farmer, stable profits for business men and a higher standard of living for those who need it most." Wallace is a friend of Labor, but he foresees danger.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Bowen and daughter, Doris, of Abilene, and Mr. and Mrs. Dayle Bowen and children spent the week end in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Linn and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burns. Doyle has just returned home with his discharge from the U. S. Navy.

Knox Farmers Plant Hubam To Improve Soil

Claude Reed, of Knox City, is conducting a cotton root rot control demonstration on the E. O. Jamison farm 2½ miles east of Knox City.

This cotton root rot control demonstration is being conducted by the method of crop rotation which includes the planting of Hubam Clover and to compare the results in yield of cotton in 1947 with an adjoining plot that will be continuously planted to cotton. Hubam Clover has a very marked ability of adding nitrogen and decade plant material to the soil, which will greatly stimulate the growth of cotton in 1947, and will cause the cotton plant to become more vigorous and sturdy, and will have the power to resist the attack of the root rot fungus. On the adjoining plot of four acres where continuous cropping with cotton tends to maintain root rot indefinitely, and usually to increase losses from the disease will be compared with the plot planted to Hubam in comparative yields in the year of 1947 will be made.

Experimental Station results at Temple, have proven that the attack of cotton root rot can be reduced from 50% down to 2% by the rotation of crops, which includes Hubam clover.

This Hubam Clover area of four acres was planted on March 12th, broadcast and was chopped into the soil with a stalk-cutter. Seventy two thousand dollars is an estimated loss in Knox County from cotton root rot in the year of 1945. Farmers interested in control of root rot may watch this demonstration through the growing season and especially the results of increased yields in 1947.

Hubam Clover seed is very scarce on the market, and the harvesting of the seed has proven to be a very profitable cash crop, which adds a two-way benefit to farm income by increasing crop yields the following year and from the sale of Hubam Clover seed. Experimental station results indicate that cotton yields have almost doubled the following year, when Hubam Clover was used in the crop rotation the previous year. Knox county farmers are going to find out if this is a profitable practice in their own county.

Back during the depression, a business man who received an insistent letter from a creditor replied:

"I want to pay this bill but if Gabriel were to blow his trumpet now and I were not better prepared to face my Maker than I am to pay this account, I'd go to h— as sure as shooting!"

There used to be a great baseball player—I think, the greatest of them all—by the name of Ty Cobb. But when you say "Ty Cobb" in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, you mean the newspaperman-radio commentator of Weslaco who has become a Valley institution. He writes and talks in a folksy sort of way about people and events and it goes over because it is sincere.

Ty took this observer for a drive one afternoon that ended at Brownsville. Returning, we came over the military highway, which used to be traveled by Robert E. Lee. My host pointed out an old cannon which he said marked the spot where the last battle of the Civil War was fought. Of course, the Texans won it!

Off to one side was an old church; it looked like a chapter of history waiting to be written. A little way farther was a long, low stone building which was an old fort but is now used as a residence. There are lots of stories lying around down there in the Valley.

A city detective of Houston had not been to church in years and when at last his wife prevailed on him to attend and the collection plate was passed, he drew back his coat and flashed his badge!

A commissioners' court once passed the following resolution: "Be it resolved, first, that we build a new jail; second, that we build the new jail out of the material from the old jail and, third, that the old jail be used until the new jail is finished."

Fixing Up the Farm by BURTON WILLIAMS

Aids to Production
IT'S just as important now as it was during the war to protect food supplies from leaky roofs and sidewalls and provide comfortable quarters for dairy cattle, hogs and poultry. Food in great quantities is urgently needed throughout the world and farm prices are still high. Protection of animals and their feed supplies is important in maintaining high production of farm products.

Repairs should be completed before winter. Where building covers have deteriorated to the extent that roofs and sidewalls need replacement, it's a good idea to use building materials that will insure full protection and long life. Among materials most frequently favored for such jobs are asbestos cement shingles and siding, which are well suited for practically every type of farm structure. Unless the old cover is too badly worn, asbestos shingles and siding can be placed directly over it.

Asbestos cement products are fireproof and wear like stone. They repel rain, snow and wind for the life of the building with practically no maintenance cost. Made in a variety of sizes and styles, the shingles and siding add greatly to the appearance of farm buildings. They are available at most building materials dealers.
