

Local Boys Go To 4-H Roundup August 28-30

Three Knox County boys were among the approximately 1100 boys and girls who attended the 4-H Round-Up, August 28-30, at College Station, according to County Agent, R. O. Dunkle. This was the first state wide Round-Up since before the war.

The Round-Up this year was conducted in a different manner from those of previous years. The boys and girls were divided into groups of from 30 to 40. Each group was assigned a discussion leader and instead of the boys and girls listening to lectures they participated in the program by discussing many topics presented by the discussion leaders. This discussion type meeting was carried out at the request of the boys and girls and proved to be very successful. Dr. Schmidt, of Ohio State University lead the panel discussions.

Separate lectures and discussion groups were held for the County Agricultural Agents and the Home Demonstrations Agents. These lectures and discussions were for the purpose of bringing the agents up to date on many new developments that have taken place during the war years.

Hardy Day of Knox County, one of the three Knox County boys to attend the Round-Up, went as a member of the District 3 Rifle Team. This team won third place in the state rifle match, with Hardy being the high point man on District III team, and he was awarded a marksmanship medal by the American Rifle Association.

Those attending the 4-H Round-Up from Knox County were, Hardy Day of Knox County; John McGaughey of Benjamin; Dorman Followill of Sunset, County Agent, R. O. Dunkle, and Assistant County Agent, R. J. Penick.

Farmers Are Poisoning For Cotton Insects

In an effort to save the late fruits of cotton that has put on since the drouth-breaking rains, many farmers of Knox County are busy in their fields, fighting against cotton insects.

Tractors equipped with poisoning machines are very much in evidence in this area, as the fight is carried on against the cotton leaf worm and the cotton flea hopper.

Farmers are very busy with three farm activities going on at once—plowing, poisoning, and picking.

Since the rains, cotton has put on a rapid growth, while the plants are tender and sappy, making it more susceptible for both the leaf worm and flea. Quite a bit of picking is now going on in the fields of older cotton which was not set back by the June sandstorm, and was then caused to open prematurely by the hot, dry weather.

Food Goals For U. S. Subject of Month's Talks

Of direct concern to food producers and food consumers alike, are the ultimate goals of the Food and Agriculture Organization that are to be discussed this month at the Copenhagen Conference of FAO, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. All Americans have a stake in the goal of an increasingly productive agriculture, balanced by an increasingly productive industry.

For the farmer, there are possibilities of vast potential markets. The two-thirds of the earth's population now underfed represents the greatest untapped markets in the world.

For the businessman, expanding production, expanding markets and expanding trade mean healthier, profitable business.

For the worker, production means jobs, income and better diets.

For the housewife improved food production and distribution facilities mean better nutrition and a healthier family.

For all people of good will, freeing the world from the fear of want is the foundation on which they hope to build a permanent peace.

As the Copenhagen Conference works to bring nations together to achieve common policies and actions in solving world food problems, says the Department, it works in the knowledge that the world does not have to tolerate hunger. Hunger, is no longer a rule of nature. One man on the land can feed 10 or more off the land. In our country 10 million farm operators and workers are feeding a population of 140 million—and in the last marketing year we sent one sixth of our food abroad.

Carson Barton McLendon

TOP HONORS for Texas in the 1946 model car design competition of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild went to Jean Carson of Borger, who won the state junior award, and Charles D. McLendon, of Longview, who took senior division honors. Young Carson's model also received a regional award as the best junior in the states of Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. Because he is the son of a GMC truck dealer, Craftsman's Guild rules require a duplicate award to the next highest ranking boy for state junior honors. This was received by Dan K. Barton of McAllen, while Robert Eskridge of Little Rock, Ark., was named a junior co-regional winner. Carson and Eskridge will attend the national convention at Detroit, Mich., to compete for university scholarships. Strong Mogul Team In Prospect For '46 Season

With workouts now under way in preparation for the 1946 football season, Coach Latham's Munday Moguls are showing prospects for a strong team this year.

The Moguls lost only one letterman this year, and with all of the regulars back it looks like the locals will give other teams of the district some trouble. This is the first year in which there have been no line replacements.

Last year's team had a strong line and some good backs, and they will be back almost to a man this year. Such players as the Spann twins, John and Joe; Billy Boudin, Rodgers and others are going to be hard to beat this year. It is hoped the entire Mogul roster will be available for publication next week.

The Moguls open the 1946 grid season on Friday night of next week, when they meet the Rule Cats on the local field in a non-conference game.

Texas Ranks Second In 4-H Enrollment

Texas ranks second only to Alabama in the number of boys and girls engaged in 4-H Club work, according to nation-wide figures just released by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The census was based on club enrollment figures for 1945. Texas had 100,820 Club members last year, while Alabama was in the first place with 115,751. Mississippi's 100,239 members placed a close third.

During 1945, 20.7 percent of all Texas rural-farm youth were engaged in 4-H Club projects. This percentage was based on the 1940 population census, however, so the figure could be much higher or lower now. Texas club membership in 1945 dropped slightly from the 1944 figure, which was 103,294.

A report from USDA received by the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service stated that Congress, when it appointed, since July 1945, some 1390 new county extension agents, expressed the intent that these new agents would spend much of their time in bringing more boys and girls into 4-H Club work.

THE PROBLEM OF MEDICAL CARE

The problem of extending and improving medical care for the American people breaks down into two phases. First, we must avoid the ruinous mistake of subjecting the doctor to political dictation which would destroy most of his initiative and lead inevitably to a decline in medical progress. Second, we must find some means of financing it which will not impose an excessive burden on people who are already bowed and staggering under the vast weight of social security taxes, income taxes, property taxes and many other governmental drains on their income.

Then pending Murray-Wagner-Dingell health bill fails on both these counts. It would create an enormous bureaucracy with sweeping, centralized powers over doctors, clinics and hospitals. It would impose a heavy tax on all workers and employers, thus still further reducing "take home" pay. And the revenue thus derived would in all likelihood be insufficient, making it necessary to subsidize the measure from the strained Federal treasury.

The best solution thus far offered for the medical care problem is the voluntary group medicine plan, under which families, in effect, insure themselves against sickness. If illness or accident occurs, they are treated by doctors of their own choice—not politically appointed doctors. They receive hospital and clinical attention when needed.

In addition, rural areas, of their own volition, are experimenting with other ideas. Out of such efforts, progress is made. And the fact remains that the American people already have the highest standards of medical care in the world—including those countries where medicine has been socialized and regimented for years.

THE RETAILER AND PRICES

In some left-wing circles there has been an attempt to lay the blame for recent price increases at the door of retail industry. Nothing could be more unfair—or more in contradiction of the facts.

Retailers have no control over prices at the manufacturing level, save that which stems from the large purchasing power of the chains and the organized independents. And manufacturers, in turn, have no choice save to pass on to the wholesale buyer the increased cost resulting from higher wages and higher material prices all along the line.

What modern retailing can and does do is to reduce to a minimum the spread between what the merchant pays and what he charges the ultimate consumer. Over the years, this margin has steadily gone down in many fields. In the merchandizing of staples, such as foods, which have a quick turnover and aren't affected by style trends, the profit to the store is often only one or two cents of the consumer dollar. If the store made no profit whatsoever, the saving to the average family would be extremely little.

Other merchandizing services to the public include anti-hoarding and anti-speculating activities. The goal of the progressive merchant is to make as much goods as possible available—and to price them at the lowest level which will return him a reasonable profit. And competition takes care of the occasional profiteer.

Stores can't do the impossible. They can't absorb increased wholesale cost and stay in business. But they are fighting the consumers' battle with all the important forces at their command.

WAGES AND COST

"American labor has a natural interest in the relationship of wages and costs," says the New York Times editorially. "It has a right to set its sights on a steadily higher standard of living, and it will be a bad day for the country if it ever loses sight of that objective. But the shortest and straightest road to this goal does not lie through sharp wage increases, if unaccompanied by an increase of output, for this merely brings higher prices to consumers, and wage-earners are themselves consumers. The right method is increased production, through higher skill, better work and the aid of modern industrial science."

The Times' editorial was occasioned by a report from Detroit that the CIO and the United Automobile Workers "have abandoned any thought of new wage increases in favor of an all-out effort to preserve the present purchasing power of the dollar." The UAW has decided, in concert with the CIO, that to make a fresh wage demand at this time might set an inflationary spiral in motion.

This is the very heart of the labor-wage controversy. Ever-increasing wages without a relative increase in productivity can benefit no one in the long run. Every general rise in prices further reduces labor's "take home" pay. It is good to know that some important labor groups are apparently recognizing this. It is time all labor understood it as well.

Oil Development In Texas

Oil and gas development covers all of Texas, a map prepared by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association shows. Every one of Texas' 254 counties now produces or has produced oil or gas, or has land under lease for oil and gas exploration, the map reveals.

Nearly 54,000,000 (million) acres, or virtually one-third of the State's total land area, are now leased to Texas oil and gas operators. Last year their lease and royalty payments to Texas farmers, ranchers and other land-owners totalled $215,000,000, providing a large "extra crop" for Texas agriculturalists. Since 1919 such payments have aggregated more than two billion dollars, or an extra cash bonus of nearly one-seventh of the value of all Texas agricultural crops during this period, the association reported.

Oil and gas are now produced in approximately 1,100 different fields in 166 counties scattered through Texas while an additional 17 counties formerly produced. The 71 other counties are now being actively explored for oil and gas, with land under lease for drilling.

Not here, where I see the enthusiastic faces of seven hundred and fifty-six delegates waiting to cast their lots into the urn and determine the choice of the Republic, but by four millions of Republican firesides, where the thoughtful voters are seated, with the calm thoughts inspired by love of home and country, with the history of the past, the hopes of the future, and reverence for the great men who have adorned and blessed our nation days gone by, burning in their hearts,—there God prepares the verdict which will determine the wisdom of our work tonight. One of the most eloquent speeches in the history of American politics was the speech of James A. Garfield nominating John Sherman for President. An excerpt follows:

I have witnessed the extraordinary scenes of this convention with deep solicitude. Nothing to cheer my heart more quickly than a tribute of honor to a great and noble character; but as I sat in my seat and witnessed this demonstration, this assemblage seemed to me a human ocean in tempest.

I have seen the sea lashed into fury and tossed into spray, and its grandeur moves the soul of the dullest man; but I remember that it is not the billows, but the calm level of the sea, form which all heights and depths are measured. When the storm has passed and the hour of calm settles on the ocean, when the sunlight bathes its peaceful surface, then the astronomer and surveyor take the level from which they measure all terrestrial heights and depths.

Gentlemen of the convention, your present tempest may not mark the healthful pulse of our people. When your enthusiasm has passed, when the emotions of this hour have subsided, we shall find below the storm and passion that calm level of public opinion from which the thoughts of a mighty people are to be measured and by which final action will be determined.

Not here in this brilliant circle where fifteen thousand men and women are gathered is the destiny of the Republic to be decreed for

Veterans News

The Veterans Administration is still grappling with the problem of getting nurses although it offers salaries and other benefits well above private scales, Miss Dorothy MacLeod, Chief Nurse in the Dallas Branch Office of VA, said this week.

VA hospitals in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, are short 400 nurses, Miss MacLeod said. In some hospitals, notably the huge installation at Temple, Texas, formerly operated by the Army, VA has had to restrict the entrance of patients, she added.

Appealing especially to former nurses in the armed forces, Miss MacLeod said: "Thousands of the younger boys and men of World War II, so well cared for by Army and Navy nurses, are now in VA hospitals. They still need your help."

Salaries for VA nurse ranges from $2645 to $5905 per year, Miss MacLeod said. In addition, VA offers retirement pensions, recreational facilities and other benefits under a new Department of Medicine and Surgery.

VA is now planning a program of training that will be attractive to younger nurses just coming out of schools, Miss MacLeod said.

Application forms for amputee veterans to use in obtaining cars at government expense are expected to be available from VA offices in the Dallas Branch Area in about two weeks, VA announced this week.

VA is responsible for administering the new $30,000,000 program enacted by Congress to provide automobiles or other conveyances to disabled veteran of World

A. Since the World War II did not start until December 7, 1941, veterans with disabilities incurred in services prior to that time are not entitled to wartime benefits unless their service falls under the provisions of Public 359, 77th Congress which provides that wartime rates would be authorized if the disability was the direct result of armed conflict or was received while the veteran was engaged in extra hazardous service including such service under conditions simulating war.

Q. Is a veteran who has been granted compensation entitled to an increase in the severity of his disability?

A. Yes. The rate of increase in compensating depends upon the increase in disability.

Ceilings Placed On Wages of All Job Trainees

New legislation establishing ceilings on job trainees' wages under the G. I. Bill definitely does not allow the employer to lower the veteran's pay, the VA said today.

Tom R. Rayburn, manager of the Dallas Regional Office, said his training division had reported several instances where firms felt they could reduce wages of trainees. This was contemplated, he said, so that the combined salary and subsistence for a married veteran would not exceed the $200 maximum. The single veteran's top was established at $175, figuring both his apprentice wage and subsistence.

"A firm approved for training veterans definitely is obligated to pay the veteran the same apprentice wage as a non-veteran," the Dallas manager said. "What a man receives in subsistence checks should not in any way influence what he is paid by the employer. The facts are that military service took three or four years of the veteran's life from his civilian training. If he hadn't been in uniform, the veteran trainee probably would have been a journeyman by this time."

Mr. Rayburn said firms violating the law by cutting pay were liable to have their approvals cancelled.

At the same time, the VA said the new law specified that overtime was not to be counted in computing maximum pay.

Veterans studying in schools and supplementing their $90 and $65 subsistence checks by outside work also come under the ceiling. They must report their earnings to the VA training officer who checks their progress at the school. There are 9,914 men and women in the Dallas Region enrolled at this time for institutional training.

There will be no interruption in subsistence checks going out to veterans as a result of the new pay legislation, Mr. Rayburn said. Some Veterans may receive more subsistence than they are entitled to until an audit can be made, but over a reasonable period of time they will be expected to return excess subsistence payments to the government.

Take a Taxi Superintendent's word for it!

"MORE MILES OF SERVICE"
"With a taxi garage superintendent, it's mileage that counts in tires," says Mr. E. L. Goodrich, superintendent of Yellow Cab, Louisville, Ky. "Taxi tires take a beating. And there's no better test of a tire than to try it out on taxi fleets. Our cabs have gotten more miles of service out of the new B.F. Goodrich Silvertown than we ever got out of peewee tires."

See us for new B. F. Goodrich tires that OUTWEAR PREWAR TIRES

It was the same story everywhere the new B.F. Goodrich passenger tire was tested . . . on taxis, police cars, the B.F. Goodrich test fleet, and in the laboratory. Under all conditions, even at high speed, on test cars driven steadily at 60 miles per hour, hour after hour, averaging over a thousand miles a day, the new B.F. Goodrich Silvertown was a superior performer. It outran prewar tires . . . showed less tread wear . . . gave thousands of miles of extra service. Why? One reason is that the wider, flatter tread puts more rubber on the road to share the wear. But under that tread is another reason . . . a stronger tire body made with better cords and more of them. That's why this new tire stands up better . . . and outwears prewar tires. So here's a tip. Come in today.

Portable Elevator Does Farm Lifting

SCHENECTADY.—The portable elevator is the "strong back" that does the laborious lifting for the modern farmer.

According to R. D. McMichael of General Electric's Farm Industry Division, the portable farm elevator "will handle bales, boxes, baskets, ear corn, oats, wheat and other small grains; bags of potatoes, or even gravel and sand."

"If, for example, you use a pick-up baler in haying," said Mr. McMichael in a Farm Forum address here over WGY, "it's a lot easier and faster to spot a portable elevator, plug the lead into convenient outlet, snap a switch, slide the bales down from the load to the elevator, and let a small electric motor roll them up into the mov. Moreover, if there is a thunderstorm grumbling on the horizon, any means of getting hay under cover quickly is doubly appreciated."

"Valuable as the portable elevator is in the harvest rush of handling the hundreds of millions of tons of farm crops, its usefulness by no means ends when crops are safely housed," the farm expert

Texas "Oiled The War" Through Use Of Conservation, Thompson Says

DENTON.—Texas was able to oil the Allied nations to victory in World War II because of proper petroleum conservation, Col. Ernest O. Thompson of the Texas Railroad Commission said in an address prepared for delivery here recently to southwestern educators attending a resource-use workshop.

"Texans can proudly and truthfully say that Texas oiled this war," Col. Thompson declared. "It was due to ten years of strict proration and waste prevention in Texas prior to Pearl Harbor that Texas was able to supply the war effort with four-fifths of the war oil."

Col. Thompson, former chairman of both the Interstate Oil Compact Commission and Railroad Commission, outlined the program of conservation developed by this State and its petroleum industry. The workshop, sponsored by the regional committee on Resource-Use Education, is being held at North Texas State College to work up information on natural resources conservation for Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas schools.

"We have moved into an oil age and it has advanced our standard of living," Col. Thompson said. "Our economy today is largely supported by oil and gas. This is particularly true in Texas, where our present and future economy is closely tied in with the success of oil producing, refining and marketing. The petroleum industry in 1945 paid 52 per cent of all State business and property taxes in Texas. Surely it is to Texas' interest to prevent all possible waste of oil."

Defining waste prevention as "those methods which will leave in the ground, never to be recovered by man, the least possible amount of oil," the commissioner traced the development of oil conservation practices.

"It is entirely possible now to ascertain, within very reasonable limits, the amount of oil in each acre foot of the oil bearing reservoir," he explained. "Also we are now able to tell how many acre feet of oil producing sands or rock underlie each tract of land. The fair and just plan of proration gives to each tract its proper and just proportion of the oil in the field. Of course, we cannot expect to get out all the oil in the reservoir, but our methods have increased the percentage of recoverable oil from about 20 per cent in the 1920's to about 70 to 80 per cent to-

Motorists, if you still have tired rubber tires on your automobile, the Texas Safety Association asks you to keep in mind that hot weather and friction heat from fast driving are hard on those tires. And blowouts are dangerous—more so when you're going fast. So, keep your speed down, conserve your tires and avoid an accident.

are not going to run out of oil if we permit a fair price to be paid for oil to the producer. A fair price will cause the explorer or wildcatter to go out and find new oil fields at deeper and ever greater depths. This will entail far greater costs and oil will have to bring more per barrel until another floor of oil is discovered, such as East Texas.

"Let the law of supply and demand be free. Keep the Government out of the oil business. Keep the oil business on its historic keenly competitive basis. Gasoline is far better today than it was 20 years ago and sells for about one-half of what it did then. Competition and research did this job—free enterprise at its best."

"Oil fields should be operated as a unit in the public's interest. By this I mean the law should require the most efficient method of operation in each separate field. No unnecessary drilling should be permitted because the public in the end must pay for wasteful drilling. The ideal is to keep the reservoir pressure high, keep the gas in solution in the oil in the reservoir and flow the oil filed as a unit at the most efficient rate so that the least amount of oil possible will be left in the ground never to be recovered by man. That is true conservation."

The House That Jack Built

This is the house that Jack built.

This is the wife that keeps house in the house that Jack built.

This is the washer that does the wash that helps the wife keep house in the house that Jack built.

This is the iron that irons the wash the washer washed, that helps the wife keep house in the house that Jack built.

This is the wire that carries the power that heats the iron, and turns the washer that does the wash, that helps the wife keep house in the house that Jack built.

THIS is the story of better living—of electric living—in Jack's house. The tale could go on endlessly. For electricity is a servant of many talents, of which washing and ironing are but two.

The electric power that helps Jack's wife is always ready, dependable, available in any quantity at any time. And Jack doesn't need much jack to pay the bill.

This is the company that strings the wires and makes the power that gives the Jacks—and countless families like them—all the comforts and convenience of electric living.

Vets' Survivors To Benefit From Social Security

Many survivors of World War II veterans who have died since leaving the service will benefit from one of the provisions of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1946, Gordon James, manager of the Wichita Falls Social Security Administration field office said today.

James explained that the new section of the act provides for the payment of monthly benefits to qualified survivors of veterans who die within 3 years of their discharge and whose dependents are not qualified to receive compensation or pensions from the Veterans Administration. National Service Life Insurance is not considered as compensation or a pension.

In the case of such veterans who died before the enactment of the new amendment, the measure provides for monthly benefits retroactive to the date of the veteran's death if the survivors file their benefits claims with the nearest office of the Social Security Administration before midnight, February 10, 1947. Of course, monthly benefits other than retroactive are payable on claims filed at any time by qualified persons.

In cases where survivors of veterans who qualify under the new amendment already have filed claim for monthly benefits earned by the veteran under the old-age and survivors insurance program of the Social Security Administration, it is possible that the provisions of the new measure will provide greater benefits than those earned by the veteran. These survivors are included in the immediate potential beneficiaries, James said, and should apply to the field office of the Social Security Administration.

The same applies, James added to survivors who have filed claim for lump-sum benefits under the old-age and survivors insurance program on a qualified veteran's account. The new amendment may make them eligible for monthly benefit payment, or it may increase the amount of the lump-sum benefit. In the latter case, they will receive the difference between the lump-sum they received and the larger amount they are eligible for under the amendment, if they apply at the office of the Social Security Administration.

"As in the case of all other persons qualified for social security benefits, families of deceased veterans to whom this new section of the law has immediate application should come to our office to file their benefits claims as soon as possible," James said. The Wichita Falls office is located at 412 Post Office Building.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Hereafter, when "Elsie the Cow" isn't in the mood to mingle with the common herd, her fancy will be catered to by General Electric's new individual de-iced drinking cup. Like the G-E stock-tank de-icer, the cup is heated just enough to keep the water from freezing, thereby assuring "Elsie" a long, cool drink winter or summer. Unlike the proletariat stock tank, however, the cup entertains only one customer at a time. Thus, "Elsie" now can make drinking a strictly private affair.

Quarantine Station For Cattle Slated For Honduras

Recent legislation recognized as desirable for an animal quarantine station one of the most isolated of U. S. possessions in the Western Hemisphere, Swan Island is in the western part of the Caribbean Sea, about 300 miles south of the western tip of Cuba and 150 miles north of the eastern tip of Honduras. The U. S. Department of Agriculture will set up on this small island a quarantine station to serve not only this country, but others, particularly the Latin American republics.

Operation of the Swan Island station will not change existing quarantine requirements, but it will provide a legal means under which U. S. breeders will be able to bring breeding animals into this country with strong assurance that they will not be introducing also one of the animals plagues such as rinderpest or the dreaded foot-and-mouth disease.

Animals from any area where one of these diseases, or other diseases not existing in this country, may exist will be held on Swan Island for a quarantine period of at least 60 days. If no disease can be detected by the trained quarantine officers, it will be safe to ship animals to the United States or other country of destination. If disease should develop on the island, it will be relatively simple to destroy infected animals and disinfect the premises.

The advantage to the United States in making such a facility available to other countries is illustrated by a recent importation into Mexico of cattle from a country where foot-and-mouth disease exists. If these cattle should bring the disease into Mexico, it would create a potential danger to the U. S. livestock industry, since the disease can be transmitted readily by contaminated hay or straw.

Social Agencies Co-Operating In Housing Safety

Civic and social agencies have combined in Chicago to campaign for high standards in housing safety according to the National Safety Council, which views the plan as a possible pattern for improving housing conditions throughout the nation.

Social workers of the Council of Social Agencies and private citizens will cooperate in detecting violations of the city's housing laws and reporting such violations to the Metropolitan Housing Council. The Council in turn will seek the cooperation of property owners, tenants, improvements associations, architects, contractors and civic groups in eliminating safety and health hazards.

"This plan to organize agencies and individuals to protect people and property is an example of community cooperation to bring higher standards," Thomas Fansler, director of the home division of the National Safety Council, said.

Mr. Fansler pointed out that one agency alone could not do the job, but cooperative effort on the part of the health, building, fire, and welfare departments of city governments, working with social and welfare agencies could produce effective results.

Add-on House

Add-on house forestalls those three unhappy results of attempting to build too much with too little money: undersized rooms, limited conveniences, compromised quality. Designed especially for the September issue of Good Housekeeping magazine, the add-on house starts life as a small two-bedroom home of only 17,500 cubic feet. When the budget permits, the 12½ foot wing with garage, laundry and bedroom may be added. Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin.—With the approach of fall and the attendant seasonal changes of weather, common colds become much more prevalent and widespread in the state.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has issued a warning against the careless treatment of any respiratory illness since they can and frequently do result in the dreaded complication, pneumonia. He emphasized the fact that pneumonia usually strikes with little or no warning, following a simple cold, an attack of influenza or some other respiratory infection.

"A cold or any other infection of the breathing passage, especially if accompanied by fever, demands the immediate attention of a doctor," the State Health Officer said. "To try to fight such a disease without bed rest and by means of self-medication may endanger life unnecessarily."

According to Dr. Cox, prevention is better than cure and in order to avoid colds, influenza, and pneumonia he advised building up normal physical resistance by sufficient ventilation, adequate nourishing food, outdoor exercise and sufficient rest. "However," he added, "if, in spite of such care, a respiratory illness develops, the family doctor should be called immediately."

The fact that pneumonia is definitely a communicable disease is often overlooked, Dr. Cox stated, but this should be borne in mind so that the danger of passing the disease from one person to another can be eliminated.

PLANTING TEXAS BLUEBONNETS

Texas bluebonnets may be planted in September for blooms next spring.

Bluebonnet seed, which are available in most any seed store, will sprout much better if allowed to soak in water 24 hours before planting, says Sadie Hatfield, specialist in landscape gardening with the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. After the seed soak, they should be raked into the soil and watered at once. The young plants will grow during the cold winter months, since they are injured only by heavy freezes and even then only a few will be killed.

In light, sandy soil, the bluebonnet will grow best, says Miss Hatfield. In rich, fertilized soil the plants will develop tall stalks, many leaves but few blooms.

In the acid soil area of East Texas, a litmus paper test should be made before planting. If the litmus paper turns pink after being exposed to wet soil for approximately three minutes, the soil should be sweetened with lime or wood ashes, at the rate of one pound of lime or ashes to each 10 x 10 foot plot of sandy soil. Clay or heavy soil requires two pounds for the same sized plot. No other fertilizer is needed. All the bluebonnets need is plenty of sunshine and good drainage at all times.

Although bluebonnets grow best when left where they are planted they may be moved if necessary. In the Panhandle, where the plants won't grow the year around, they may be cared for in frame gardens or pots during the winter and transplanted in the open during early spring. Few plants can equal the hardiness of the bluebonnet, which will endure dry as well as cold weather.

Vets To Notify VA Upon Change Of Employment

Veterans who fail to notify the Veterans Administration when they interrupt their training or education and continue to accept Government allowances are subject to severe penalties, VA warned today.

Tom R. Rayburn, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional office in Dallas, cautioned veterans that VA training officers are making regular investigations to prevent such practices.

"Beginning September 1," he said, "VA is enclosing a blank form with each check mailed to veterans in training."

"These forms must be returned to the Disbursement Office that mailed the check, whenever the veteran's training or education is interrupted."

This notification will enable VA to discontinue payments, Rayburn said.

Veterans who accept checks under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act to which they are entitled will be ineligible to receive any further benefits under the act, the manager said. They also may be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both.

Most schools are prompt to notify VA of withdrawals, the VA official said, but some business firms approved for on-the-job training have neglected to report the withdrawal of veterans from training.

In both cases, however, he emphasized, the responsibility rests on the veteran.

VA investigators who made a recent three-day check in one Texas community found 38 veterans receiving allowances to which they were not entitled, the VA revealed. Some of the veterans had discontinued training as long ago as October, 1945.

"The veteran should take careful note of the month for which his subsistence check is issued as shown by the date of the check," Rayburn said.

"If he has discontinued education or training during the month prior to the month for which the subsistence check was issued, he should not cash the check under penalty of the laws.

"The check should be returned

Looking Ahead

DID YOU EVER have a joint checking account with somebody? They can be handy things sometimes. So can a tin of gasoline in the basement, but both are extremely dangerous. All parties concerned must, of necessity, have a cooperative understanding about how a joint checking account is to be used, how fast and for what purposes. Otherwise, one party's error might cause the other one trouble, no end.

I wish all the taxpayers in the United States could realize that they have a joint checking account with Uncle Sam. Moreover I wish they might suddenly wake up to the fact that everything they have in this joint account,anced, or if Uncle Sam's checks are not all numbered, Mr. Taxpayer is certain to have to make it good personally when something "bounces."

A Joint GOVERNMENT can assess taxes to the amount of what government needs, or thinks it needs, and that's a matter of judgment. During the war our executives spent money faster than it came in, running the country's debt to 268 billion dollars. However wisely the debt was contracted, it will never be any smaller until government officials begin spending less than they collect from the people by taxation.

There is considerable doubt whether those who spend and those who pay have a cooperative understanding about their joint account. They ought to see eye-to-eye. Victory was cheap, without endorsement to the Disbursement Office shown on the envelope. The blank form in the envelope should be filled out and returned with the check.

The Texas Safety Association says common sense counts on bicycles, just anywhere else. You can "gangway" into a group of smaller children playing on the sidewalk—and see them scramble or get hurt. Or you can think of them first. You can be a fool on a bike or you can be bright beyond your years. You can hitch on trucks, run red lights, dart into traffic. Or you can be careful. Remember, when bike hits auto, auto usually wins. When bike hits child or grown-up, bike usually wins. But in either event, if you're riding the bike, you lose!

ever it cost in money, but the unpaid portion still has to be met. Moreover the country's best economists think now is the time to start paying off the debt, while nearly all of us are earning good pay.

RECENTLY I saw a Budget summary of proposed federal spending for the next 12 months; a work-sheet from the 1947 budget, currently being considered. This budget can be balanced as certainly as figures can be depended upon to tell the truth. It calls for an outlay of 35.1 billion dollars to come from 31.5 billion of revenue—just 3.6 billion dollars in the red. Such a shortage need not exist.

The deficit can be offset two or three times by economy. Most of the expense items can be deflated some. Such obligations as social security, veterans' benefits, refunds and the interest on public debt are fixed. They can't be cut. But there are seven other general classifications of expense that ought to be deflated about 50% all told. If this over-draft can be avoided it's a duty.

Proposed expenses that ought to be lowered are these:

FIGURES IN BILLIONS
Items Might Be Cut	From	To
National defense	$16.0	$8.9
International finance	1.7	0.2
Aids to agriculture	0.5	0.3
General public works	1.1	0.7
General government	1.6	1.1
Suppl. appropriations	0.9	0.7
Proposed legislation	1.5	0.0
	$23.3	$11.9

Texas School Holidays Listed

Austin.—The calendar of the University of Texas for the coming school year lists Thanksgiving and Easter holidays for the first time since the close of war. The University returns to its pre-war schedule of two semesters with the beginning of the winter term, September 16.

Registration for the long session will begin Sept. 16 and end Sept. 21. Freshman convocations will be held Sept. 16. First semester classes begin Sept. 23.

Thanksgiving holidays will be held Nov. 28-30. Christmas recess will begin Dec. 21 and end January 3. Spring vacation will be April 4-7.

September means back to school, and back to school means heavy bicycle traffic in the early morning hours. Have those brakes checked for quick stopping, warns the National Safety Council.

A toll of 15,750 killed and 540,000 injured in traffic accidents in the first six months of this year is reported by the National Safety Council.

NAVY ORDERS RETENTION OF HOSPITAL CORPSMEN

(NEW ORLEANS.—The Navy will retain all male naval Hospital Corpsmen who have completed less than 18 months of active duty, regardless of eligibility for discharge. Eighth Naval District Headquarters announced.

"The Navy regrets that because of the large number of war casualties remaining in naval hospitals it is necessary to retain these men," the announcement said. The action will result in an additional one to six months of duty for some Hospital Corps reservists to provide service urgently needed for Navy sick and wounded.

A report of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery revealed that on July 31 there were 33,000 naval personnel in Navy hospitals.

Demobilization of WAVES enlisted Hospital Corps personnel was not affected by the order, but a plea was made for voluntary postponement of demobilization for any period between Sept. 1, 1946 and July, 1947.

Terminating this "critical period in postwar demobilization," the announcement requested commanding officers of Navy activities in the eight-state Eighth Naval District to encourage female enlisted Hospital Corps personnel to remain on duty.
