Calf Feeders Preparing For Spring Shows

Seventeen beef calves are now being fed in Knox county in preparation for the Spring Shows by twelve leading 4-H club members. All of these calves now on feed are of very high quality and most of them are on nurse cows. These facts along with careful feeding and attention by the club boys who are now teaching the calves to lead properly and pose, indicate a very high quality show for Knox county. This year the show will be held in Knox City under the sponsorship of the Lions' Club. Munday and Knox City sponsor the show every other year.

The boys are now feeding a ration high in corn to finish their calves. This ration consists of fifty pounds of corn, 30 pounds of oats, 10 pounds of sweet feed and 10 pounds of cottonseed or linseed meal. In addition to this grain mixture, all of the quality hay they can eat is fed to the calves.

All of the 4-H boys are backed by parents interested in their boys and their work. This of course is necessary for successful feeding and a great help to the 4-H clubbers.

The boys are paying close attention to parasite control and are keeping their calves free of lice, flies, and grubs. This will make the calves hair look better and help to make a better appearance to the judge.

4-H club members now feeding calves are Donald Nix, Billy Cammack, Randall and Dennis Walling, of Munday, Doanid and Dale Jackson, of Vera, and Bryson Laird, Donald and J. G. Puits, Carrol Fred Glover, Buddy and Fred Lewis Crenshaw, of Benjamin.

Searcey Death Is Ruled Accidental

Justice of the Peace John Rice announced last Monday that he had rendered a verdict that Lamar Searcey's death was caused by "accidental discharge" of the gun. Mr. Rice conducted an inquest following Mr. Searcey's death on Saturday, November 16. He spent several days in the investigation before rendering a decision. Searcey's death came as a result of a bullet wound from a .22 calibre rifle, the bullet piercing his heart.

An unusual meeting of Knox Lodge No. 851, A. F. and A. M., was held last Monday night, which was also the regular meeting date. Three entered apprentice degrees were conferred, and the work was unusual in that father conferred the degree upon son, brother upon brother, and another member conferred his first degree.

Lee Haymes conferred the degree upon his son, Mac Haymes; M. D. Richmond of Haskell conferred the work upon his brother, A. E. Richmond, and Dan Billingsley, as his first time as master of the lodge, conferred the work upon Truman Cypert.

Farm Animals in New York

Farm animals in New York are a rare sight and these Bronx children felt they had to get acquainted when these animals arrived for the National Hotel Exposition from an experimental farm at La Grange, Ky. The animals were on display to dramatize the distillers' contribution to meat production through a feed supplement made from residue mash. The steer, hogs, turkeys and chickens were awarded to the persons who came closest to guessing the weight of the steer.

Moguls Face Crucial Test Friday In Bi-district Game

Last Rites For W. T. Burton Are Held Thursday

Funeral services for W. T. Burton, long a resident of Munday and Knox County, were conducted Thanksgiving afternoon at the First Baptist Church. In failing health for a number of years due to advancing age, Mr. Burton was stricken a week prior to his death, which came in the early evening of November 27. A native of Tennessee, where he was born in a farm home on the Cumberland River near Hartsdale, April 17, 1869, William Thomas Burton came with his family to Texas in 1881, the family settling in Rockwall County.

Here he married Martha Ellen Davidson and brought up his own growing family until 1907 when he moved to Runkles County. In 1910 W. T. Burton came with his wife and nine children to Knox County. They lived for three years near Gorce and then moved to the Munday Community, where Mr. Burton engaged in farming until his retirement some twenty years ago. He was a member of the Baptist church for more than 50 years and a deacon in the church for more than 40 years.

Speaking at the services on the heritage of a Christian home, Rev. W. H. Albertson characterized the departed as a man who built a home based on the Bible, on faithful church attendance, and on integrity of character. Other ministers participating were Rev. Don Davidson, Rev. H. R. Whaley of Haskell, and Dr. Joe W. Burton, Tennessee. Special music was brought by a male quartet and by Miss May Elizabeth Burton, a granddaughter, of Abilene, with Mrs. Louise Ingram at the piano.

Mr. Burton was preceded in death by his wife who died in 1926. Survivors include three daughters and six sons, Mrs. H. P. Hill and Christine Burton of Munday, Mrs. Earl T. Williams of Amarillo, Clyde of Floydada, Leland of Amarillo, Everett and Howell of Abilene, Lavoy of Fort Worth and Joe of Nashville, Tenn. Two sisters, Mrs. Sam Mercer and Mrs. John Staggs of Royce City, and one brother, Rev. H. H. Burton of Tulsa, Okla., also seventeen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were M. H. Reeves, J. E. Reeves, Lee Haymes, B. L. Blacklock, J. J. Keel and Sherman Hill. Arrangements were under the direction of the Mahan Funeral Home, and burial in the Gorce cemetery.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend this event.

Texas Girl Wins Award In Junior Grower Contest

Lillian Roeder, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Roeder of Shiner, won a major southern states award among members of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association as the organization gathered in Boston, Mass., for its 12th annual three-day convention. As a sectional champion grower in 1946, Miss Roeder received $100 from the $6,000 in scholarships provided by A & P Food Stores for the production and efficient marketing of vegetables in competition with other youths. National champion receiving a $500 A & P scholarship is Jim Spell, 17, of Columbia, Miss.

Results announced by Prof. Grant B. Snyder of Massachusetts State College, adult advisor for the junior growers, included a $200 southern states championship for Marjorie Ann Ball, 15, of Yukon, Okla.

Miss Roeder gardened a fourth of an acre on the 104-acre farm of her parents. Her 17 vegetable crops and some strawberry plants gave her a harvest of $308.90, used at home or sold. She had costs estimated at $50. Her garden is a showplace for healthy plants with no weeds, her leader commented. A high score in the marketing study course added to her total score in the year-around educational program of the junior growers. In 1945 she was named outstanding 4-H Club girl in Lavaca County.

Green Bugs Are After Grain In Knox County

Several farmers of Knox county have reported the presence of green bugs in their grain this week. Green bugs as they are commonly known, are tiny plant lice, brown to slightly green in color, which feed on the grain and cause yellowing or dying of the plants. Unlike most insects, these bugs suck the juice from the plants instead of eating the leaves and therefore cannot be poisoned by arsenicals. They are controlled somewhat by beneficial insects like the lady bug, but during cool weather most beneficial insects are not present. Most damage is done in the spring before warm weather.

The only practical control at present is to keep the grain fields from getting too high and the plants too bunched by grazing. This keeps the lice from having a good place to overwinter. Experiments are now being conducted with DDT and it is hoped this chemical will be successful and available for spring control.

Texas Going Over In Fight Against Polio

Austin—Early reports on progress of the Sister Kenny Campaign in Texas shows the state going over the top in raising its $150,000 quota, it was announced here today by George C. Francisco, Jr., of Houston, Chairman of the Texas Executive Committee, Sister Elizabeth Kenny Infantile Paralysis Foundation. Campaigns in more than 150 Texas counties will come to an end Saturday, December 7. In the counties where no organized campaign is under way, Mr. Francisco said that the committee had resorted to asking for contributions by mail.

The Texas committee urged anyone who was interested in seeing the Kenny method of treating polio made available to every unfortunate victim in Texas to mail their contributions direct to State Headquarters, Driskill Hotel, Austin, and that the contributions received through the mail would be credited to the quota of the county from which such contributions were received.

Guadalupe County was the first to "go over the top," with Uvalde, running a close second, and followed by Hopkins, Bandera, Houston, Matagorda and others.

School Money Is Received This Week

Knox county schools were benefited by an additional payment in school money this week, according to an announcement made Tuesday by Merick McGaughey, county superintendent. This payment was $3.00 per capita, less the amount to county administration which had already been paid. The money has been allocated to the various schools.

This makes a total of $12,000 paid this year from the $41,000 to be paid by the state, McGaughey said.

Singing Convention To Be Reorganized

Announcement was made last Monday that the Knox county singing convention will be revived next Sunday when singers meet at the First Baptist church in Knox City. The meeting is set for two o'clock in the afternoon.

New officers will be elected, and plans will be made for holding the regular singing conventions. All singers of the county are cordially invited to attend the meeting Sunday.

Munday-Seymour Tilt To Attract Many In This Area

The Munday-Seymour highway will be "dotted" with a continuous stream of cars Friday afternoon, as Mogul fans begin the caravan to Seymour for the bi-district football game. This game will be the highlight of activities in this area for the week end.

The Moguls—champions of District 11-A for the first time in the history of the school—will be playing the Seymour Panthers, winners in District 10-A. The winner of this game will play the winner of the DeLeon-Coleman game for the championship of Region 3.

Tickets On Sale Some 2,000 tickets to the game went on sale here last week, including 1,600 adult tickets and 400 student tickets. These are on sale at the following places:

Hayne Barber Shop, Grafford Barber Shop, Blacklock Home and Auto Supply, Eiland Drug Store, City Drug Store, Baker-McCarty, Piggly Wiggly and Tiner Drug.

Local fans are urged to get their tickets locally before leaving for the game. By doing this, they can avoid the congestion at the entrance to Panther Field.

Despite the fact that the Moguls have not played a game since completing their 1946 schedule at Albany on November 16, they have kept themselves in good condition by constant workouts and practice periods. You will see the Moguls in as good shape as at any time during the season; and, win or lose, they are going to give the Panthers plenty of trouble.

Several thousand fans are expected to pack Panther stadium for the game, and both seating space and standing room along the sidelines will be at a premium.

Predictions are running high. Some Munday fans predict a win for the Moguls, while supporters of the Panthers are just as sure of a Seymour victory. "But," they say as a parenthetical statement, "the Panthers are scared."

The game is called for 7:30 p. m. It's getting chilly at that hour, so bring your blankets and wraps! Add football fans—Hchilde

A SHABBY DECISION

The basic issue underlying the continued soft-coal controversy has turned into this: Shall one union have life and death power over a priceless natural resource on which our entire industrial depends—has it the power to arrogantly and successfully defy the authority of the government itself? Apparently it has.

No other construction can be placed upon the reopening of the unexpired agreement between the United Mine Workers and the government.

Commenting on this situation, the New York Times says: "Clearly the Administration has not yet learned that it buys a score of future strikes for every present strike that it 'settles' in this way. It has not yet learned that a continuous policy of yielding to such threats merely causes a constant increase in such threats and a constant increase in the price demanded for settlement. It does not seem to know that it is about to set a precedent in the coal yields for still another general round of wage demands, more strikes and wage increases. It is a perfect demonstration of what might have been suspected in advance—that when the government takes over directly the settlement of wage disputes, the decisions made are based not on economic but on political considerations."

OPPORTUNITY FOR RETAILING

What Lew Hahn, general manager of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, calls "The greatest opportunity retailing ever had," lies before the retailers of this country. That opportunity is the Veteran-Retailer Conference.

The idea for these conferences was born some time ago, and the plan was first put into practice in Altoona, Pennsylvania, last July. It was a great success. It gave invaluable instruction to veterans who were planning to pursue retailing as a career—and it taught merchants much as well. Now, as Mr. Hahn says, it must be continued so veterans throughout the country may benefit.

Eventually we will have 12,000,000 veterans. Many of these will want to open stores, or go to work in existing stores. Most of these will have little experience or knowledge of the business. And it is a business which is filled with pitfalls, as the mortality figures show. The untrained veteran will have small chance to make a go of it. The veteran who has learned the fundamentals from successful, knowing merchants will have all the advantages on his side.

Here is a fine work in which all types of stores, chain and independent, can help.

LEARNING THE HARD WAY

The citizens of a small New Jersey community recently learned the truth of the slogan, "Make Every Week Fire Prevention Week." And they learned it the hard way.

This town wound up the recent Fire Prevention Week observance on a Saturday with a spectacular parade of fire department equipment, accompanied by high school bands and civic associations. The demonstration ended in a mass meeting in front of the Borough Hall, where the need for fire prevention was discussed.

The following Monday the Borough Hall was a heap of ashes. Fire destroyed the police radio and fire alarm system, thus delaying the sounding of the alarm. That, coupled with low water pressure, gave the fire a disastrous start. It is suspected that the fire came from burning rubbish and leaves near the Hall.

What happened in this little town has happened in thousands of other American communities. The great fires, such as Berkeley, Chicago, San Francisco, and Baltimore were simply reflections of similar circumstances in greater degree. They point straight to one fact—fire prevention must be a continuous, never-faltering work, and no hazard is too small to overlook.

Think of this in connection with your town, your business, your home. Then make fire prevention a part of your daily living.

Veterans News

More than 13,000 veterans training in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi are currently suspended Administration subsistence rolls for failure to report their earnings. Subsistence checks ordinarily mailed to these veterans the first of every month will be held up until the required report is submitted to the proper VA regional office, VA officials said.

Both veterans in training and educational status must report their earnings from productive labor for the months of August, September and October.

Forms have been mailed to all veterans on the suspended list, but if these have been misplaced, the report on earnings can be made in a letter over the veteran's signature.

Under legislation passed last summer, veteran's payments and earnings are limited to a total of $175 monthly for those without dependents and to $200 monthly for those with dependents. In the event those figures are exceeded, the subsistence allowances must be reduced accordingly.

VA officials believe most of the reductions will be made in allowances to veterans taking on-the-job training. It is believed that only a few veterans in educational status will be affected.

The Veterans Administration mas draws near when there will be another deluge of shaving sets. 1946 will be remembered as the year of hardship—when people paid $300.00 for a $4.50 ticket to the Notre Dame-Army game and Texas sportsmen chartered planes to fly to North Dakota to hunt pheasants.

The Austin dynasty may talk about "Washington wastefulness" but Austin itself reached an all-time low in stupidity and incompetence when it ordered a special election on one constitutional amendment for two days after the national election. The voters were so disgusted that only about 80,000 out of 1,500,000 took the trouble to vote in the unnecessary election, which cost the taxpayers a mere $220,000.

When Mark Twain got mad, he was a mighty good, free-handed cuss. His wife tried repeatedly to break him of the habit and at last one day she broke out in a string of cuss words herself, thinking he would be so disgusted that he would "swear off" swearing. But, instead, he broke out laughing and then said, "Darling, you have the words but you don't have the tune."

A little boy asked his father, "How much is a million dollars?" The father, busy reading the paper said, "It's a h--- of a lot of money." Next afternoon, the boy came home from school, crying, and said, "Pa, that wasn't the right answer."

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin.—In a preventive program directed against typhus fever in Texas, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has prepared for distribution through the state and Local Health Departments, a pamphlet explaining the importance of incorporation rat-proofing in the construction of new buildings.

"I am anxious to have this pamphlet in the hands of ever builder and prospective builder in Texas," Dr. Cox said. "Detailed drawings show how simply and cheaply fundamental rat-proofing can be incorporated in designing a building."

The booklet further explains how much less expensive it is to include rat-proofing in the construction, than it is to make a building rat-proof after it is already built.

"When we build new homes in Texas, they should be for our families only. Rats should be excluded," Dr. Cox declared. "When a new home is not rat-proofed, the rats usually move in about the same time your family does. As long as this continues, typhus fever menaces your family and community."

The booklet may be procured from your local health department, or by writing the State Health Department, Austin Texas, and every prospective home builder in Texas is urged to procure a copy before completing the plans for a home.

Watch Out for Fire!

NATIONAL Fire Prevention Week, observed this year October 6 to 12, is the organized reminder that most fires are preventable with proper care and precautions. Such measures are doubly important to the farmer with his heavy investment in buildings, livestock, machinery and stored crops, not to mention his own home. In addition, the fire fighting resources he can call on are limited.

Precautionary measures to eliminate the farm fire danger as much as possible include checking the home heating plant as well as the chimney, flues and ventilators. Wiring both in the home and other buildings should be gone over, as well as that in all electrical appliances. Housekeeping arrangements to store combustible liquids in safe places should be instituted and all accumulated rags, papers and other rubbish cleaned up. Make sure the water supply is adequate. Have one or more fire extinguishers handy and in working order.

Stored hay should be thoroughly cured and protected by a tight roof as a safeguard against spontaneous ignition. Fireproof building materials such as asbestos cement provide year-round protection against the spread of farm fires from one building to another.

Rex Ray, Missionary From Local Church, Writes of Rebuilding China

Rex Ray, "cowboy missionary" to China from the First Baptist church of Munday, was at one time bookkeeper at the Wooldridge Lumber Co. here, and is known by many old timers of Knox county. Ray writes regular letters, giving reports of his missionary work among the Chinese. In the following letter, written from the Southern Baptist Mission, 54 Lik Kwan Road, Kweilin, China on Sept. 24, 1946, he tells of rebuilding the mission which was destroyed by the war:

Dear friends in America, This message from Foreign Mission Board, "Rex Ray, prepare to sail for China June 13th" started things moving.

Old trunks began tumbling out of the attic, old clothes and new books, bottles of ink, pictures, this old typewriter and various articles began piling in. Old army duffel bags were filled with clothes for the needy and lepers of China. A lot of drugs given by Southern Baptists were boxed, and the whole lot filled our baggage trailer to overflowing.

Finally about 10 o'clock at night the last rope was fastened, "Goodbye, loved one of Texas and our Baptist Southland," and the old family car began groaning as it started westward on its long journey. My son, Daniel, nephew, David Hicks, and I drove the night and day across the prairies of Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona. The old tires on the trailer, carrying more than a ton of Baptist freight, grew tired and laid down for a long rest before we got across New Mexico. Hot-dog and coffee stands did a good business along our westward trail.

We rolled into San Francisco on scheduled time, slightly faster than trains. We might have traveled faster, but when we passed 40-per our top-heavy trailer began wobbling as though it might dive into the Grand Canyon. We, therefore, lost interest in speed.

After a few difficulties with customs officials and foreign diplomats, the old family car and trailer unloaded us at the gangplank of the ship that would take me far away. To keep from shedding a few "salties," I hastily said "Goodbye, boys, and God bless you" as they started back to Texas, and I to China. In the beautiful afternoon sunshine our ship, "Marine Lynx" steamed beneath the Golden Gate bridge and westward into the great Pacific towards the Orient.

Our more than 700 passengers included Americans, British, Chinese, Philippines and Indians. Some were happy, others not sure. There were business people, students, consuls, Baptist, Protestant and Roman Catholic missionaries, brides and brides-to-be aboard.

Soon after sailing, one of the ship's boilers went out. Someone had filled the boilers with salt water.

Social life was bad. Chinese turned the lower decks into gambling dens. Many lost their life's savings and reached their native land as poor as when they left it many years ago. Some of the supposedly white men tried to drink all the booze on the ship, and then got some of the girls and wives who were going to meet their husbands drunk. Better not say more. On Sunday mornings, the Catholic priests set up their altars in different corners of the entertainment hall. Later Protestants and Baptists worshipped Christ together and listened to the preaching of His gospel. It was my joy and duty to preach in one of these services.

Many passengers debarked at Shanghai, and we at Hong Kong on 4th July. An Englishman at my table asked me, "Why all the feasting today?" I replied, "Oh, we are just celebrating the time the U. S. A. gave England a good thrashing."

Baggage of hundreds of passengers were piled high in the landing warehouses, where for three days there was wild scrambling, each fellow searching for his own.

Our Chinese Baptist friends in Hong Kong gave us returning missionaries, Mrs. Hill, Misses Pender, Shamate, Jessie Green, Pettirew and myself, a happy welcome back to China.

We were astounded at the profiteers' prices on American goods. They were from 3 to 10 times higher than in the States. I bought a few groceries and began looking for a boat to Wuchow. All of the steamboats that we had traveled on for more than 20 years had disappeared during the war. I finally located an old oil junk, and after much wire-pulling I was permitted to load my freight and baggage on with the oil, salt and stinking dried fish. For three nights and days two other miserable looking

People, Spots In The News

LOOK! A WHALE IN NEW YORK!—This 62-foot whale was stranded in shallow water at low tide near Huntington Long Island, which is classed as a suburb of the city of teeming millions. He died, was towed out to sea and blown up.

"MOTOR TRAIN"—This motor truck was equipped with flanged wheels and a "cowcatcher" to bring much needed food supplies from Hankow to Chengchow in China.

passengers and I sat or stretched out on top of boxes and bundles of freight underneath a tarpaulin that was only about a foot above our heads. A typhoon hit us while still at sea, and we rode out the storm behind some islands. The other missionaries had gone to Canton.

When I left Wuchow two years before, the Japs were making us run for air raid shelters like prairie dogs diving into their holes. But now the Japs and their bombers are gone, and we hear the sound of carpenters' hammers and saws as a new city rises out of the ashes left by the demons of war.

Secretaries Rankin and Cauthen cheered the hearts of our faithful Baptists during the days of our Kwai Anam Association in Wuchow. Once more I bid my Wuchow brethren goodbye, and started up the river to my new home in Kweilin. For nine days our stem launch battled the flood waters of the West and Lauchow rivers. Once in Lauchow, I loaded my supplies and medicines into a 3-ton truck for the last lap of the long journey to Kweilin. This new Dodge was one of 200 now hauling UNRRA supplies. In our convoy there 19 trucks loaded with South Texas rice for the hungry in this Kwong Sai province. Captain Reynolds, a Britisher in charge of this transportation, graciously let me have one truck free of charge, supplying the driver and gasoline, too. So my long journey ended August 13. I had sailed from San Francisco on June 13. I received my first sky mail in 13 days that was posted in Texas August 13. So I like the number 13!

During the next three weeks I learned something about one living under his own vine and fig tree. Mine was a fruit tree covered with a grapevine. This tree served as my office, study, reception and dining room during the weeks the carpenters and masons were repairing more permanent living quarters.

Our Baptist compound was not the same as it was when I was next to the last missionary leaving here two years ago. Our American soldiers were gone, and the Japs also, when I returned. Weeds, grass, bushes and thieves had taken possession. The skeletons of our brick school buildings and residences stared at me out of their gaunt and silent eyes as if to say, "We, like the dry bones in the valley, are waiting to be re clothed and made to live again and be of service."

I accepted their challenge, and for two weeks from 30 to 1400 people needing help earned the relief money they received as wages, clearing off the grounds, filling up Jap dugouts, foxholes, machine gun nests, and other remnants of the Jap invasion. The only thing the Japs left us were a native fire engine and some fire extinguishers. Evidently our American boys made this a very hot place for the Japs to try to live in.

Brick masons were soon busy closing the breaches in the compound walls, while other workmen were building barbed wire fences where the thieves had stolen the brick walls. Today some 50 brick masons and carpenters are rebuilding the Baptist Walls of Zion in Kweilin, while 40 furniture makers are busy getting new camphor wood benches ready for the main church auditorium. Bro. C. J. Lowe did a wonderful work when he built this house for God's service. Even now, amid these roofless

Nwalls, Christ's Gospel is being preached and souls being saved. May our Loving Father in Heaven richly bless each and everyone of you beloved fellow Christians who are making possible the rebuilding of God's house and His other missionary work in Kweilin. Your gifts for the Master's kingdom work will bless long after you shall have travelled on to our Father's house, where thieves do not steal, or war-demons burn us out.

Bro. Deaver Lawton recently joined me here in your work, and we shall watch, work, pray and listen for the answers to your prayers for us happy and better servants of our King of Kings. God bless you.

I am always prayerfully, your "Cowboy" missionary, REX RAY.

Balance Urged In Farming For Cotton Belt

(Editors Note: This is the 5th article of a series, "Better Balance in '47 published as a service to local farmers.)

High yields per acre are the goal of every farmer. It is generally recognized that the per acre yield is a major factor in determining net profits. In 1947, good yields of cotton and cottonseed, grains and other crops will pay added dividends because of favorable prices.

Weather usually gets the blame, or credit, for crop yields. Weather probably is the most important single influence on yields and production. However, there are many other things that influence yields, factors that man can control, as he can't control the weather. Some of these influences include type and preparation of land, use of fertilizer and soil-improving crops, type of planting seed used, insects and diseases, and harvesting methods.

Cotton is a good example of crop infuenced by many other factors, as well as by weather. During the 10-year period, 1935-44, the U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that deficient moisture caused an average reduction of 8 per cent from a full yield per acre of cotton. Excessive moisture reduced the crop an average of 3.7 per cent. Other climatic conditions accounted for 5.3 per cent of the reduction. But plant diseases caused an average reduction of 1.8 per cent; boll weevils an average loss of 7.7 per cent; and other insects, 2.9 per cent.

Everybody recognizes that drought and floods are disasters for the community, but how many of us realize that, on the average, boll weevils cost cotton growers almost as much yearly as dry weather, and more than excessive moisture? Or the insects and diseases, combined, are more costly than lack of moisture?

By controlling insects and diseases, using good planting seed and plenty of fertilizer, and following other practices that have proved their value for increasing yields, farmers in 1947 can go a long way toward insuring high yields and more profitable production of cotton and other crops.

HOW TO CLEAN OVEN

KEEPING a new range clean, or cleaning up an old one, has always been a major problem for most housewives. Meat cooked without fat is almost always tasteless. Meat baked slowly will get tough. When fat is subjected to this fast cooking process it will splatter and splash over the inside of the oven. The result is a coating of grease which must be removed as soon as the oven is cool if one is to keep the appliance clean.

Do not use any abrasive material in cleaning any part of the range. The manufacturers put on a surface which is a first cousin to glass. If you scratch tiny lines into this surface, it will produce fine cracks or check marks later. A good strong soap solution will remove the grease easily, but do not use it until the range is cool. Putting cold water on this surface will break it, just as your glassware will break if you put it in boiling water and then into ice cold water.

If the grease is not cleaned off and successive coats are allowed to remain, the whole will bake into a new and dirty surface as hard as baked enamel. To remove this, put a cup of strong ammonia in the oven overnight with the door tightly closed. In the morning most of the hard grease will be loose and can be easily washed off.

Every livestock producer knows that adequate feed production is essential for economical, efficient production of meat and milk.

Improved pastures and grains are very important to supply home-grown feeds—but protein is the most important of all feeds in the livestock ration.

Cotton is the "protein crop" of this area—more cotton production is the only way to supply the Cottonseed Meal and Hulls needed in rations.

How to Stop Worrying

I guess folks in our town do about as much worrying as in yours—over housing and prices, and crops, and jobs—and the little domestic problems that are always coming up.

Dad Hoskins, who's lived to the happy age of eighty, has a simple formula for stopping worry. About every problem, he asks himself: Is there anything I can do about it? If there is, he never postpones making a decision, or taking necessary action.

If there isn't anything he can do about it, he sets aside a "worrying hour" after dinner, and gets his worrying over in one concentrated period. When that's over, he relaxes over a friendly glass of beer with Ma Hoskins—and they talk about pleasant things together, until bedtime.

From where I sit, that's as workable a formula as you could find... right down to the mellow glass of beer that seems to wink away your worries.

Come on up!

Come on down!

THIS is the story of a blighted romance. These Swiss sweethearts have come to the parting of the ways. He keeps on climbing UP. She keeps on coming DOWN. Only a while ago they started out together, hand-in-hand.

This is also the story of your cost of living. It has been climbing steadily. Department of Labor statistics show that it has gone up 31% since 1939.

But wait a minute! National average figures show that the cost of electricity has actually been coming downward. Since 1939—through years of war and shortages, rising prices and higher taxes—the cost of electricity has decreased 14%!

Actually, the average American family is now getting twice as much electricity for its money as it did 20 years ago. Never has electricity done so much for so little.

Your friends and neighbors in this company—under sound business management—made this possible.

Sunny California Gets Razz In Lee Jungman's Letter On Rainfall

809 1/2 Vernon Ave. Venice, Calif.

To The Munday Times, It has been a long time since my last article appeared in the Munday Times with all of the unusual happenings in California, and this time I will let all of you good people be the judge. For instance, I closed my last article with these words: We have only had about one-half of our usual yearly rainfall to date, and the rainy season is over.

And that is where I will begin, for the very next week it began to rain. A little over six inches fell in the first two days, and after that it settled down to a mild slow drizzle for a period of ten days. This brought us the additional three inches, which brought the yearly average up to 17 inches. Had it not been for that out-of-season rain, the small grain growers would have been sunk, but as was, they harvested one of the best crops in many a year.

After the rainy season is over it's usually very beautiful and clear and the snow-capped mountains are visible at a distance of about 40 miles at the nearest point, and continuing into ever greater distance and height. The last ones visible are about 80 miles away, and the elevation is over 7000 feet. Sometimes the snow on the highest mountains reached the dept of 5 to 7 feet and remains until the latter part of May, and occasionally to June 10.

Since the rainy season began about five weeks early this fall, with a total of 6.04 inches, and almost 2 inches during the night and up to 11 a. m., which is almost one-half of our yearly quota before the usual rainy season has arrived. Most anything can happen, and it seems as though there is plenty happening in Los Angeles. I am sending you clippings out of the Los Angeles Examiner, our daily paper, one pertaining to the weather as of November 22, the others pertaining to Los Angeles' crime wave. These are no exceptions. They are that way every day, and "on they go, but they keep coming" and last, but not least, ashamed of their company."

Well, I could comment on that, but I am going to hold my tongue because I know in reason that there are many of you good old Texas people who think the same as I do, and there is just nothing we can do about it—and that is bad, and is not good.

Well, I had quite a surprise the other day when an article from Hamilton, Texas, where I lived from 1902 until 1910, appeared in the Los Angeles Times. This article stated that there were no shortages in Texas. Well, Texas covers quite a lot of territory, and if there are, or rather were, no shortages anywhere in Texas, that, in my mind would be a miracle.

Take it from me, there were and still are many shortages in California. For instance, the housing situation is still very grave. Although there have been tens of thousands of new houses constructed, and thousands upon thousands under construction at this time, and everywhere you drive and look there are new building sites laid out, lumber stacked up, foundations laid. Houses of all sizes and kinds, store buildings, markets, entire new cities with 500 to 1000 homes and a complete business section, and still there are thousands of families roaming the area trying to find some sort of place to live, but to no avail.

And if you want a pound of oleo, well you fall in line. If you are lucky you may be the 50th person, or maybe you will be the 100th, and when you finally get to the counter you may find that the customer just ahead of you picked up the last package, and you go home empty-handed. And that doesn't apply to oleo itself, but also to soap and all other hard-to-get items.

And now to all of you a very merry Christmas.

Further improvement in the farm transport situation is expected in 1947.

Government Coal

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

IN ENGLAND the government now owns the coal mines. The mines were taken over by the government. There it is known popularly as "nationalization," and the coal industry and its mines are not expected to be returned to the owners at any foreseeable date. Former owners were given government bonds bearing a low rate of interest. Under this plan the smaller stockholders could cash out their interests if desired, but it is very difficult at this time for the larger holders to exchange their bonds.

English coal mining has faced many difficulties in the past. The industry got underway long before any mining machinery was developed, and some of the mines have never adopted modern methods. In many, the vein depth has such wide variations that an uneven floor has been created, making it difficult to put in modern conveyors.

Obstructions LONDONERS say to Progress these factors kept private owners from modernizing to a greater degree in the past: (1) Labor opposed it, fearing not enough jobs would be left, (2) Numerous government regulations retarded progress, (3) Limited profits and high taxes made it hard to get reserves needed to pay for modern equipment, and (4) Uncertainty with regard to the issue of government ownership, about which there had been constant agitation since World War I. Owners rightly saw no expediency in making large expenditures when there was threat of losing control of the investment, not knowing what type of remuneration they might expect.

Although the conditions set forth to justify the nationalization of England's mines are non-existent in America's coal industry, where equipment is modern and production efficient, these four obstructions to progress have presented themselves in various shapes to plague and sometimes to stall our own industries. We must come to realize that these factors which limit our progress could in time bring the same sort of "nationalization" which now retards Britain's industrial progress.

So Far Not HAS THE new system Successful ten given England the coal she wants?

The answer is: No. Output per man-hour has not held up—much less improved—under the labor government and nationalization. All methods of recruiting adequate labor have failed. The month of May was one of the best, with nine-tenths of one ton produced per man per day, but since May the average has decreased. This figure compares poorly with an average of more than five tons produced per man-day in America.

The minister of fuel, Mr. Shinwell, has just warned that "there may be some stoppages in industrial undertakings this winter." He estimates coal reserves in Britain at the start of winter will be 5,000,000 tons below the safety margin. Referring to nationalization, Mr. Shinwell said: "If under the new program, the industry proves to be a failure, and does not secure the coal we need, it'll be a bad outlook for the whole country." So far the outlook is bad.

Hybrid Corn Gets Better In Experiments

Most States are now following the pattern of hybrid corn development that was pioneered in the Corn Belt proper. How good gave way to better, and the better in turn yielded to still better; is illustrated in Iowa corn growing experience in the last generation. G. F. Sprague of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in charge of the program.

Iowa was one of the pioneer States in introducing hybrid varieties. But as recently as 1934, says Sprague, only four of the Iowa hybrids were available to farmer seed producers and corn growers, one recommended for the northern part of the State, one for the southern and two for central Iowa, that took the place of open-pollinated varieties, and swept the fields until open pollinated corn is now a real rarity in Iowa.

Today not one of these "better" hybrids of 1934 is growing on substantial acreage. They have given way to "still better" hybrids, in which yield has been maintained or increased, and which are better corn plants in other respects—less likely to lodge or drop their ears, or to sucker, more resistant to diseases, or easier to harvest by machinery. Better and better corns are on the way. "Those that are acceptable today," says Sprague, "are likely not to be satisfactory five years hence. The farmer grower, however, will always be interested in hybrids that have greater yields are better suited to machine harvesting, or are more resistant to insects and diseases. We feel that among the new combinations now being developed we can reasonably expect improvements in each of these characteristics."

Several States outside the Corn Belt are now about where Iowa was in 1934, with a few good hybrids breeding. "is at best a long pains-taking task. The finding of only one valuable line among 100 tested may seem like a low batting average, but that is about all that can be expected in the materials we now have." It is these 1-in-100 lines that develop into the still better hybrids.

Domestic wheat supplies in 1946-47 are now estimated at over 1,269 million bushels, consisting of a carry-over of 101 million bushels and a prospective crop of 1,160 million bushels.

Dairy cows need three-fourths of an ounce of salt a day for each 1,000 pounds of liveweight, and one-third of an ounce for each 10 pounds of milk produced.

On October 1, 11,486,000 persons were working in the United States.

Pest Control Now Effective And Practical

Recent developments—particularly in connection with DDT—have made insect pest control more effective and practical. But other developments have favored the pests and intensified the problem. In making these points at a meeting of the National Pest Control Association, E. F. Knipping of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, emphasized four important reasons why there can be no "resting on our laurels" by either the professional entomologists and chemists or the commercial firms that put the results of entomological investigations into practical use.

According to Knipping, who is in charge of the entomological division dealing with insects affecting man and animals, these four reasons are:

(1) Conditions are more favorable for an increase in numbers of many pests. In our homes there are a greater variety and new types of food; and more dresses, coats, and other apparel in the closets. With controlled temperatures the year round these conditions favor the increase of pests in homes and also in food plants, warehouses, and retail stores.

(2) Increase in speed and amount of transportation and increased shipments of foods and supplies, together with greater concentrations of populations and growth of metropolitan areas, favor the spread and survival of pests.

(3) There is reason to believe that pests can adapt themselves to new environments and increase in numbers or develop a tolerance to control measures.

(4) The persons seeking pest control will continually demand higher standards. Twenty-five years ago many housewives may have tolerated a number of flies in the home or in food stores. In the last decade this tolerance has gradually been reduced, and today they are concerned over even a few flies. Also, health regulations and sanitary requirements are stricter.

WHAT'S NEW

in the
AUTOMOTIVE FIELD

By DAN GOLDENBERG
Auto Editor

Now that the war is over, the country's top flight engineers are back thinking of peace time helps to the many workers of the automotive field. Midst labor problems and lack of new automobiles, a heavy work load is the lot of the automobile mechanic.

Among the newest aids is a creeper that not only embodies strength and comfort in a contoured all-steel bed but features an adjustable lighting unit as an inherent part of the creeper. Thus two old bug-a-boos—body fatigue and eye strain no longer impair the efficiency of the overworked auto mechanic.

The new Hycoc electric creeper also includes such extras as an air foam rubber head rest for cushioned comfort and a detachable tool and parts tray which permits bench loading and unloading. It weighs slightly more than 18 pounds and rolls on four heavy duty ball bearing swivel casters.

Healthy and Wise

This youngster has learned early in life that knowledge can prevent illness. Health education programs are sponsored in schools by tuberculosis associations from Christmas Seal funds.

Properly applied, the herbicide 2,4-D either kills bindweed or cuts its vigor to the point where they can't produce seed or interfere with crop production.

Methodist WSCS Meets Monday In Pendleton Home

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met in the home of Mrs. H. A. Pendleton last Monday for the society's regular business and social meeting. Mrs. Lee Haymes was co-hostess.

The outstanding feature of the program was the installation of new officers for 1947, which was presided over by the pastor, Rev. Don Davidson. He expressed his deep appreciation for all the work the women have accomplished this year and said there is no other organization in the church that is accomplished as much in so nearly all parts of the world.

Members feel humble and grateful that they have a part in this great work. They expressed the hope that all women in the Methodist church who have not worked with them this year will come and help in 1947.

Mrs. Davidson gave the reading, "The Second Christmas." As those present expressed it, "To say we enjoyed this reading doesn't half express our appreciation, for as we all know some things are just too deep to express."

Delicious cake and hot coffee were served to 17 members and one guest. The next meeting will be on the first Monday in January.

Mrs. Wylie Johnson and son, Delbert Beauchamp, returned home Sunday from El Cajon, Calif., where they took Mrs. Ellis Johnson and son Ellis Wayne, to meet their father and husband when he returns to the states from Hickam Field, Hawaii.

They visited in the homes of Mrs. Johnson and daughters and Mrs. Braxton Chandler and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Chandler.

Mrs. Johnson's mother, Mrs. J. D. Speck of Rochester, accompanied them on the trip. They all enjoyed a tour through the beautiful Carlsbad caverns on the return home.

Guests of Miss Jeanne Davis in the home of her mother, Mrs. Jo Mae Davis, during the Thanksgiving holidays were Misses Nell Kenney of Fort Worth and Bette Potter of Tyler. The three girls are students in Abilene Christian College, Abilene.

The First and Second Grade news

Betty Jean Hawkins was crowned queen Tuesday night at the carnival of grammar school. Patricia's brother, Wendall Partridge, visited her over the holidays. Mary Smith went to Wichita Falls Saturday to visit her brother, Norvilio. Phillip McFee went to Abilene Saturday to take his brother Eldrie, who went to California. Phillip's sister Pauline from Fort Worth visited him. Jerry Johnson's brother, F. A. visited him over the holidays. He is in school at A. and M. Glenna Voss went over to Knox City to have Thanksgiving dinner with her grandparents. We are trying to work up a Christmas program in here. We will present a part of it at the church, December 2. Third Grade news
 The third grade students are busy this morning decorating their room for Santa Claus. Loyce's and Joyce's aunt and uncle visited them over the week end. Patsy and Trivella Butler reported a nice time in Oklahoma over the Thanksgiving holidays. Jackie Fitzgerald spent Friday in Wichita. Robert Hertel spent the Thanksgiving holidays in Pep, Texas. We missed Bonnie Jane Sharp yesterday, she was on the sick list. The third grade survived over the Thanksgiving holidays quite well. They all reported that they had a good Thanksgiving dinner. We welcome Nelda and Rita Brown to third grade class. They

Fourth Grade and Fifth Grade

We all had a wonderful time at the Carnival. Congratulations to Betty Jean Hawkins and Joann Whittemore on being elected queens. Thanksgiving holidays were enjoyed by all. Wayne Butler spent the Thanksgiving holidays in Oklahoma. Jerry Grove's mother from Wichita Falls spent Thanksgiving with him. Nell Johnson and family enjoyed having her grandparents from Oklahoma to visit them. Loretta Floyd visited her grandparents during the holidays. Jonny Orsak's cousin arrived from the Army Sunday. Shirley McAfee visited in Abilene Sunday. Sue Richardson visited in Oklahoma on Saturday. Shirley Orsak's cousin from South Texas is visiting her. Joe Voss spent the holidays with Jimmie Burl Morgan. Charles Everett Yost went to Wichita Falls Saturday. Senior News
 We would like to thank everyone very much who helped us in the queen's race, by buying tickets on our platform rocker. We really appreciated it. And best of all we won! These Shakespeare plays are really getting to be popular, or at least one might think so, by the number that have been checked out of the library. But the real truth of the matter is that we all had book reports due Monday, and poetry Tuesday. Both were from Shakespeare. Our annuals are going to be very nice this year. Everyone is working on the advertising. We must have so much money by the 10th or else, so we all must work!

4-H News

Merle Tackitt
 On Wednesday, November 27, the Sunset 4-H Club boys met for our monthly meeting. We filled out records on our last year's projects. We met for the second time under our new county agent whose name is J. M. Carpenter, who just recently came from Wichita county where he was county agent. Harvest Festival
 Our Harvest Festival really turned out to be a beautiful occasion last Tuesday night. The evening started off with the grade school coronation, and then the high school coronation. Betty Jean Hawkins was crowned queen of grade school and Jo Ann Whittemore was crowned sweetheart of high school. Then we had some violin music, and some short plays. The next big event of the evening was giving away the various articles which every one had tickets for. If we can say Tuesday night was very eventful at Sunset. Freshman News

Celebrity Parade

By Earle Ferris

CELEBRATING her first year as featured vocalist on Sammy Kaye's ABC "Sunday Serenade" is lovely Mary Marlow. Daughter of Jim Harkins, former vaude-villain and currently Fred Allen's assistant, she chose to make good in radio without her father's help. Starting as a Radio City page girl, Mary next got a job singing on a small New York station, where Kaye discovered her. "Sunday Serenade" acquires a new sponsor Nov. 30.

Famous Fan

Most ardent fan of the "Date With Judy" program is Comedian Red Skelton. Each Tuesday he hovers about the Hollywood NBC studio watching the "Judy" broadcast. He claims it relaxes his tension over his own broadcast which follows two hours later.

Red Foley

Singer's New Band

Red Foley's sensational new six-piece band, which is heard with the baritone star on the Saturday NBC "Grand Ole Opry," has a name at last. It is being called the Cumberland Valley Boys. Incidentally, when Red is singing with the group, he adds his own guitar to make it a seven-piece aggregation.

International Club

Bob Hawk's "Lemac Club," comprising contestants who have won maximum prizes on his Monday CBS show, is now international. New member is Karen Wahl, young French painter who had been in America just two weeks. She'd never even had a quiz before!

Well, at last we can all breathe again with ease. We were all quite loaded down with getting things ready for the carnival. It was a great uproar, with a scurry here and a scurry there. All the teachers could hear was, "Let me out of class, please!" Most everyone is finishing up on her pajamas. We are to start on dresses this week. We wish to thank everyone who purchased a ticket for the blanket and gave money for our duress. Mrs. Virgil Yost won the blanket. The boys and girls played Bomarton Friday night and we are to play Goree Tuesday night. Book reports and poetry came up again this week. We will get through with them early this six weeks so that so much won't pile upon us next time. We all enjoyed the holidays very much although some came up saying they had gotten sick after eating so much on Thanksgiving. Sophomore News

"Lippy" in Talks?

While Leo Durocher, peppery Brooklyn Dodgers' manager, is in Hollywood, airing his Sunday ABC sports program from the cinema capital, he will confer with movie moguls about a feature film about his colorful baseball career.

Singing Scholar

The singing Phi Beta Kappa—that's what Radio Row calls lovely Joan Wheatley, who is featured with Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians on his Monday through Friday morning shows over NBC. As a student of sociology and music at Columbia University in New York City, Miss Wheatley earned membership in the national fraternity for honor students. Today her singing rates high honors with dialers.

Contrasting Crime-Busters

Wally Maher, who stars as the quick-witted young Irish sleuth "Michael Shayne" on the Tuesday MBS mystery series of that name, also portrays the genial but not-too-bright Police Chief Brewster in the Friday "Maisie" comedy dramas over CBS.

Doubling on Air

With "That's Finnegans" now broadcasting from the west coast, 7-year-old Marlene Ames has rejoined the cast in the role of the niece of Finnegans (Frank McHugh). When the show aired from New York while McHugh was making the movie, "Carnegie Hall," diminutive Marlene stayed in Hollywood playing "Cookie" on the CBS "Blondie" show. Now she's a very busy little miss, with Thursday and Sunday rehearsals and broadcasts.

We sophs are all back in school this week after eating a very hearty Thanksgiving dinner. Now we are awaiting Christmas time so that we may start stuffing again. Mrs. Partridge says we are to write at least three essays on fantasy this six weeks. We are just wondering what will happen to us. Virginia has already let her imagination run away with her. She fell in love with a handsome prince. We have begun sewing in home ec. this six weeks. Most of us are making housecoats or dresses. Junior News
 The juniors returned to school this week from the Thanksgiving holiday full of pep and ambition. Ready to start the last six weeks of this semester off with a bang. We are all going to try to keep our lessons up so that when mid-terms roll around, we won't have to rush around getting up back assignments. But no matter how hard we try the end of this semester will still be a jumble. The juniors were disappointed over losing the queen's race last week, but we would like to congratulate the seniors over their triumph. The senior queen was certainly a beautiful lady to behold as she stepped out of the large red-covered heart.

Eighth Grade News
 We all enjoyed our Thanksgiving holidays, very much. We are going to have a Christmas program, December 22, at the Gillispie Baptist church.

The juniors are going to play Munday, Wednesday at Sunset, and we hope to win. We are glad Sunset beat Bomarton Friday night.

The honor roll students this six weeks are: Gladys Nell Simmons, Gloria Jean Michels, and Andrellita Gonzales.

We are all proud of our new bus.

We take this means of expressing our deepest thanks and appreciation to everyone who was so kind and thoughtful to us in the death of our husband and father, G. W. Russell.

Especially do we appreciate those who brought food to the home, and everyone who by word, deed, or floral offering tried to make our burden of sorrow lighter. We pray God's richest blessings on all of you.

JOY FOR A GREEK FAMILY

YOUNG MISS GREECE—and her sister, too—eagerly watch grandmother Kakavias of Corinth open a Greek War Relief Association 35-lb. food parcel. Any American, like the generous person who helped the Kakavias, wanting to supply food to starving Greece merely sends $12.75 to the Association in New York City and that night his order is telegraphed overseas. In a few days a hungry Greek family is eating nutritious, staple foods. In addition to the parcel service, GWRA launches this winter a $12,000,000 fund-raising campaign to build 40 health centers; to house and feed 375,000 war orphans; and to supply a warm, noonday meal to almost 2 million hungry school children.

Activities Of The Colored People

Service was held Sunday night at the Church of God in Christ. On Monday night a joint session was held in Knox City at Elder Joe Williams' church, and Mrs. Willie Williams, Mrs. Aline Johnson, M. H. Hendrick. Other churches represented were Goree, Stamford, Anson and Albany.

A program was given at the Dunbar school last night, and quite a few patrons were present. The proceeds will be used to purchase shades for the school.

Mrs. B. C. Warren, former resident of Munday, spent the week end with her daughter, Mrs. Helen Sherrod and three granddaughters. They are from Oklahoma.

several pigs. The actual gain has proven much greater than most would suppose.

One swine grower in Kentucky last spring had one farrowing house with sloping floors and one with level floors. On sloped floors he saved an average of 9.2 pigs to the litter compared with 7.2 pigs on level floors. Kentucky farmers are gaining from one to four pigs to the litter, according to reports extension workers are sending to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Department is passing along the word to extension workers in other States. To slope the floors of existing farrowing houses, some farmers are finding it practical to block up one side of the house a few inches, giving a life-saving tile to the floors of the farrowing pens.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Partridge and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Partridge attended the Texas-A. and M. football game in Austin last Thursday.

NEW SLANT ON SAVING PIGS

An ingenious life saver for little pigs—as simple as it is practical—is the results of an accident in Kentucky. The results were so fortunate that the Extension Service is recommending the method widely as a good way to increase efficiency in meat production.

The accident was the failure of the foundation in a farrowing house. This let down one side of the floor and caused it to slant. The slanting floor proved a life-saver for the little pigs born in the pen a few days later. Now the general recommendation is for slanting floors in farrowing houses—a slope of an inch and a half to the foot works well.

This new idea in swine husbandry takes advantage of two simple facts in porcine behavior. One: on a sloping floor a sow prefers to lie down with her back to the high side. Two: clumsy little pigs stagger a bit the first few days, and even one slightly sloping floor tend to tumble to the low side. The life saving is as simple as that. When the mother pig is ready to lie down she is likely to choose the high side of the pen, and the little pigs are likely to be bunched on the low side. Thus the mother is not likely to lie down on and crush one or

FORTY CONSERVATION PRACTICES AVAILABLE

Forty practices are available to Texas farmers for carrying out soil and water conservation work under the 1947 agricultural conservation program according to B. F. Vance, state director of the Production and Marketing Administration.

County ACA committee already are selecting from this group the practices needed locally for obtaining sound soil and water conservation. In addition to selecting practices most suitable for their county, committees also may choose one conservation practice of local nature which meets specific needs. These will be the county practices for which farmers may qualify for assistance during the year.

Assistance will be made in cash payments which will finance part of the cost of performing conservation practices or for conservation materials and services, Vance explains.

Texas has been allotted $20,000,000 to assist farmers in carrying out this work. State funds, which have been allotted to counties on the basis of conservation needs, will be prorated among individual farms.

Farmers must obtain written approval from their county agricultural committees before starting a practice, if assistance is expected, in order to stay within funds prorated to the county, Vance says.
