HELPING BOOST FOR ..

Kracker Krumbs Odd Bits Salvaged

(By Aaron Edgar)

We had vinison steak for dinner last Sunday.

It was particularly good. Any Sunday dinner is good at the time we have dinner.

Through a matter of habit, folks sleep late at our house on Sunday. Then comes the late breakfast, which calls for a late dinner, which calls for no supper at all. That's our typical Sunday.

Never think of starting dinner until after church, when we go to church, and we try to be fairly regular. Then if we eat late, and overeat, we have several hours before bedtime to wear off the uncomfortable feeling.

Always heard it was not good, or healthy, to go to bed on a full stomach. Sometimes it's really agonizing, but is always appeared to us that such agony was easier to bear than going to bed on an empty stomach.

When you go to bed on an empty stomach, you probably have dreams and nighmares, etc., but if you retire on an empty stomach you don't sleep either, so what the heck, anyway?

Personally we prefer our stomach to be full, rather than empty. as our physique will verify. And it ain't gonna continue to be empty for long, if there's money in jeans, or something in the cup-

It's something to not know where your next meal's coming from, but it's real comforting to know that it is coming from some where.

With that in mind we ran a story recently about some local deer hunters returning from a hunting tip into New Mexico, and they bought back the deer with

With the thought of enjoying vinison for dinner some Sunday, we ran a little climax to that story to the effect that if the editor didn't get a mess of vinison, those hunters were a bunch of poor sports.

We remarked to a friend Sunday night that we had deer meat for dinner, and he comes back with the opinion that any meat nowadays is dear meat.

One day not long ago, Jasper Bevers he was one of the successful hunters-motioned us outside the office. He reminded us of our news story.

Now there's lots of things Jasper probably don't want to be, but at the top of the list is that "poor sport" business. He just don't want to be one.

So we steps outside the office, and Jasper heads toward the locker plant, with the editor right on his heels. We follows Jasper into the locker room; he opens his box, and right on top were packages labeled deer steak, dear roast, etc.

We selects a nice package not too large nor too small-that was labeled deer steak. We thinks we'll have venison, even if the little woman goes on a strike, 'cause shucks, most anyone can cook steak, give him a skillet and some grease and some fire!

Jasper passed in his pickup some days later and asks: "How was it?" But he was too early. The venison was still reposing in the refrigerator.

He hasn't asked us since, but we're reminding him now that it was "delish" - and he has our permission to go deer hunting, or bear hunting, or moose hunting, or qual hunting anytime he wants Knox county hospital. Mother and

We suggest, however, that he be sure that it's open season on whatever he goes hunting for. We don't know much about how to go about bailing a fellow out of the hoosegow when he's violated the game laws!

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh Prissy's Got a Man! (Maybe)

Yesterday Sis Martin, our librarian, found an article cut from their file copy of the Clarion. When she compared it with another copy that I gave her she found it was my column on "How to Keep a Husband Happy."

Nothing unusual about that. Except the last person seen reading the paper was Prissy Hoskins (our town's proverbial Old Maid)! Well, if Prissy has finally got a man, more power to her. And more tolerance to both of them . . . because that's what my column was about: Tolerance of a husband's taste for old hats, old pipes, old friends, and mellow beer. And tolerance on the husband's part of a wife's tastes and habits.

From where I sit, nobody begrudges Prissy taking that clipping from the Clarion. But I'd like to hint that if she'd just subscribe, she'd get my thoughts on tolerance firsthand. And in return I'll treat her to a glass of beer.

The Federal Land Bank of Houston is 'completely owned by Texas farmers and ranchers through the 143 local national farm loan associations, Mr. Donehoo said. The Land Bank, with no government funds of any kind invested in it, now has combined capital, surplus, and reserves amounting to more than $43,000,000. This is in addition to appromimately $6,-000,000 in reserve and surplus of the associations in their own local accounts.
