Odd Bits Salvaged
At Random

(By Aaron Edgar)

Sometimes it's a tough job, being a member of the city council. One problem don't more than begin unravelling until another one bobs up big and strong.

And so it is with our city dads. They have our paving job just about put away on ice and in good shape; now comes the report that eventually something must be done about our water well.

Munday got some bad publicity last summer, with reports that our water supply was contaminated. Soon the contamination was cleared up, quite a number took typhoid shots, and the rest of us went complacently about our duties.

But reports grew and got bigger as they traveled from place to place. And in some portions got out at other places that we had a regular typhoid epidemic, with deaths in practically uncounted numbers.

A traveling man told one of our city officials that he stopped in Munday and ate dinner just a snort while ago, and his company had him vaccinated for everything it could think of when it learned of his unwise act.

And imagine this salesman's surprise when our city official said he didn't know of one single case of typhoid that was caused from our water supply.

But the fact remains that something's got to be done sometime in the future, and the sooner the better, 'cause there's lots of people and departments, etc., on our necks.

Our city health officer don't like the situation; the state health department don't like it; our state are department, or whatever it is, don't like it; and we're liable to get a hike in our insurance key rate, which we won't like.

As put up to our officials, our water supply ain't good from a health standpoint, and that's bad. It don't matter how healthy we all are or how long we've been using our present supply.

Truth of the matter is our well is located in the lowest part of town. We get our supply from a shallow water source, and that's unhealthy.

It seems that we drink enough chlorine at times to immune us from everything except the tax collector, but our higher-ups still say it ain't good.

Another thing is that our present storage tank is just half as big as it should oughta be, from the state fire insurance stand point, or something.

Whereas we have 5,000 gallons, with an automatic pump, at our beck and call in case of fire, it's claimed we should have 10,000 gallons, not including what our new fire truck will hold in its booster tank.

So that's bad, and it's liable to get a higher key rate slapped on our insurance if we allow the situation to continue like it is.

And then another departmental expert allows that we've allowed buildings to be constructed too close to our water tower, and that's bad!

Say for instance, one of those buildings catches fire, and the flames get out of control, and the fire creates an intense heat, and the heat weakens one of the "legs" to our tower, and it gives way.

Then, brother, our tower comes tumbling down; our 5,000 gallons are spilled, and the town is out of water. It's a black picture they paint!

They're on the necks of our city dads with these bleak pictures, and our officials are condensing just moving out of that hole, getting some acreage on the hill and starting a new water supply.

They want you to be thinking about it, too. They want to know if you think now's the proper time

SMS Ranch Is Leased Recently To Oil Interests

It has been confirmed by officials of Cities Service Oil Company (Del.) that Cities Service Oil and Sinclair-Prairie Oil Company have obtained an oil and gas lease on the 106,000 acres of land belonging to the Swenson Land and Cattle Company's SMS Ranch in Throckmorton, Haskell and Baylor counties of Texas.

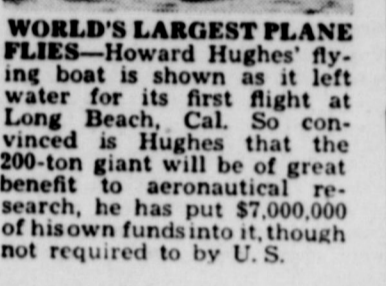

The ranch is in the northwestern part of the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad survey in the northwestern part of Throckmorton county and extends one-half mile into Baylor county. Approximately 91,000 acres are in Throckmorton county. The lands have never before been under mineral lease.

An intensive exploration program is being planned for the newly-acquired lease, with seismograph crews scheduled to enter the area as soon as details can be worked out.

This general area in Throckmorton county has been the scene of active wildcat and development operations the past year or two, with recently-developed production coming principally from the Cad-do and Mississippi limes.

MAINE FOREST FIRES burned out not only a large part of Brownville, Me., but the town hall as well, forcing selectmen into temporary quarters in a railroad car, loaned by Main Central Railroad.

CORRECTION

In the story of the death of U. S. Rogers last week, it was stated that he was married to Miss Bonnie View. This should have been that on June 29, 1892, Mr. Rogers was married to Miss Hettie Josephine Seely at Bonnie View, Dallas county.

We regret this error and are glad to run the correction.

Farm Pogram Election Are Announced

Election of Agricultural Conservation community committee-men and delegates to the county convention for the election of a county committee will be held in Knox County during the next few weeks, Emmett Partridge, chairman of the county Agricultural committee, announces.

Any person who is participating in the 1947 Agricultural Conservation Program, Sugar Program, or who had a contract with the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, is eligible to vote. This includes owners, operators, tenants or sharecroppers. Lists of eligible voters are being prepared and will be used to check votes cast in the election.

Delegates to the county convention, elected in the community election, will meet with delegates from other communities in the county and elect a county committee.

"This grass roots administration of the farm program is one of the cornerstones of the program," says Mr. Partridge. "It can be made stronger if every eligible farmer will vote in the coming elections and take an interest otherwise in developing the program. This year, with so many problems facing farmers, it is doubly important that able men are elected to administer the farm program."

Farm Program is Conservation Investment

Through the Agricultural Conservation Program, the Nation is investing in food and fiber security, believes Howard T. Kingsbury, Chairman of the Texas State PMA Committee. The conservation practices which farmers are carrying out under the program are not only increasing production to meet present needs, but they are cutting down erosion and stimulating better farming which will help insure continued abundant production.

The direct payments made to farmers and the materials and services furnished under the program, Mr. Kingsbury said, are just as much public investments in conservation as are public expenditures for education and for technical assistance to farmers. They are just a more direct way of getting the conservation job done. The assistance to farmers under the ACP is helping to make education work and other demonstrations effective.

TOO LATE FOR PRICE CONTROL

In a letter to the New York Times, Chester Bowles, once OPA Administrator, said: "I believe it is far too late now to reinstate the price control program."

Mr. Bowles' opinion is especially significant in that he was a strong advocate of continuing OPA for an extended period after the war. And he is certainly not alone in believing that the re-imposition of such controls would be an extremely grave error now. If we are to have price control, we must also have unqualified wage control. We must have governmental domination of every turn of the economic machine. We must have, in short, a planned economy, and what President Truman accurately termed a police state.

We are living again in a supply-and-demand competitive economy. Every manufacturer is seeking to out-perform the factory down the street, and to sell a better product at a lower price. Every kind of store is in intense competition with neighboring stores, and is doing its utmost to attract customers through lower prices, better service, more variety, more appealing displays, advertising, etc. Under these conditions, whether high or low, honestly reflect the costs of doing business.

Price control would be the best break the black market could have—even as it would undermine the free market. It would be a surrender to totalitarian economies. It is not a sound solution to our problem, and would delay our final adjustment to the law of supply and demand which will finally rule in spite of all price control.

A LUMP OF COAL

Ask the ordinary citizen to describe a lump of coal, and he'll tell you that it's a black, heavy, rather dirty substance whose reason for being is to provide heat for homes and energy for industry.

These are vitally important functions—but is it now being found that coal is a great deal more versatile than that. In the near future coal will not only be a solid fuel, but will be a source of gasoline and other liquid and gas fuels, and the raw material base of innumerable chemical products. And, luckily, our known reserves of coal are virtually limitless.

According to an authoritative survey, based on technical information supplied by a large number of governmental and industrial organizations, "Complete conversion of coal to liquid and gas fuels and to chemicals means the establishment of whole new

LET 'ER BURN!

The attitude of the American people toward fire seems to be, "Let 'er burn!"

That is the only way our record fire waste can be explained. This year we will burn some $600,000,000 worth of property—and 10,000 or more lives will be lost. And if the rate of increase continues, we will reach the billion-a-year point in a comparatively short time.

This record is a national disgrace. Fire involves far more than the destruction of dollar assets—the loss of business opportunity—the loss of food, machinery and other supplies which the whole world needs.

Private and governmental authorities are now carrying on the most aggressive campaign to conquer destructive fire in history. It began last May, when President Truman called a national fire prevention conference in Washington. An all-inclusive program was laid down then, and it is being followed. But any program is doomed to failure unless it is given a full measure of public support. The experts can't lead you around by the hand and force you to make your property safe. They can only advise and instruct. Then, it is up to you.

major industries." To be practical, the plants must be of great size. Each will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000,000, and will employ 2,000 men directly and 4,000 indirectly. A pilot plant is now under construction and, if it lives up to expectations, the work will go ahead as rapidly as conditions permit.

There, in brief, is the transformation that a commonplace lump of black coal is now undergoing. Back of it lies decades of exacting research and experiment. And free enterprise is turning theories into practice.

"As Lenin said, 'It is necessary . . . to use any ruse, cunning, unlawful method, evasion, and concealment of the truth' to win the struggle for power, in which the end justifies the means. And it is only nine years ago that Hitler was denouncing as warmongers all those, beginning with Churchill, who opposed his conquest or 'meddled' in the affairs of nations he was trying to subjugate. No doubt, like Hitler, the Soviet dictators likewise need the bogey of foreign enemies to drive their people to greater efforts than their police state can generate by force alone. But the parallelism between the methods of the Kremlin and Hitler is too ominous to be overlooked."—The New York Times.

Texas Press Association Sees Dawn of A New Era

December 1 will mark the dawn of a new era for the Texas Press Association in the opinion of Paul Fulks, president of the Texas association and publisher of the Wolfe City Sun.

On that date the daily and weekly newspapers of Texas join hands to open their own central office with a full-time staff of experienced press association workers in charge.

Texas Press Association directors have contracted with Vernon T. Sanford, for 13 years secretary-manager of the Oklahoma Press Association, to manage the Texas association. Officials of the Texas organization are now endeavoring to locate office headquarters in Dallas.

Said Fulks, "Our central office will issue information bulletins to the newspapers, serve as an employment bureau for newspaper workers, look after the legislative interests of the publications, represent our newspapers in the sale of political and state advertising, and arrange our convention programs."

The TPA president also stated that "our plans call for activities not alone in the interest of the press of Texas, but for the state in general. Details of a promotion program for Texas will be announced as soon as the central office can complete arrangements with other interested groups and individuals who want to see the great state of Texas grow greater and greater."

Sanford has been with the Okla-

He is a native Oklahoman. His newspaper training was received in the Sooner State over a period of 15 years, on the Chickasha Daily Express, Norman Transcript, Anadarko Daily News, and the semi-weekly Cleveland County Democrat-News. Sanford is a past-president of the Advertising Club of Oklahoma City; the Oklahoma City Chapter of the Southwestern Association of Industrial Editors; and of Newspaper Association Managers. He served for two years as chairman of National Newspaper Week and editor of the NAM Bulletin. He is a member of the board of directors of the Fetter Business Bureau of Oklahoma City and an honorary member of the board of directors of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce. He is also a member of the Oklahoma City Camera Club, the Midwest Circulation Managers' Assn., the International Council of Industrial Editors, and the Newspaper Advertising Executives Assn.

He belongs to the Legion of Honor of the Order of DeMolay, the Masonic Lodge, and the Methodist Church.

The new Texas manager is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, with an AB in Journalism; and holds a Master of Arts degree from the University of Missouri. He was awarded a Fellowship by the University of Missouri and was presented with the first Merit Award given to graduates of the University of Oklahoma's school of journalism for accomplishments in their chosen profession.

Those who have the most to say about the dignity of labor and the nobility of man's earning his bread by the sweat of his brow are usually orators or writers.

The most cheerful man I have ever known was an invalid. His body was slowly turning to stone.

And the most cheerful girl I ever saw was a helpless paralytic. They smiled and laughed and said gay things. The visitor, calling to cheer them up, found that they cheered him up. The very room was brightened by their presence.

The human spirit is a marvelous thing. At its brave best, it can not be crushed. It rises above disease and suffering, even as a skylark soars above a battlefield and, soaring, sings.

A friend of mine writes he read clear through my newest production, "Cub Reporter", after supper one night. I'm slipping—my other books always put 'em to sleep by the time they'd read 10 pages.

Just two or three years ago, "A Tree grown in Brooklyn" was at the top of the best seller list—now it's on sale at 49 cents. So passes the glory of this world.

Finley Peter Dunne (as famous, back around 1900 under his pen name of "Mr. Dooley", as will Rogers was during his lifetime) was a reporter. He started on the smallest of the Chicago dailies, the Express. One day, he and another reporter were looking out the news room window when a funeral procession went by. Dunne said, "I hope it's not the Express' subscriber."

Knox Prairie Philosopher Takes Notice Of Thanksgiving Season Lists Things He's Thankful For

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek has the Thanksgiving spirit, in his own peculiar way, as his letter this week reveals.

Thanksgiving bein close at hand I was out here this mornin inspectin my neighbor's flock of turkeys figurin on tradin him out of one but he is too hard to deal with, impleyin in a sort of blunt and direct way he wouldn't swap me a turkey for the entire output of my farm for 1947, which I ignored as you don't judge a man or his farm entirely by material things and a man might have a barn full of food and his head as empty as my corn crib.

When it comes to figurin a man's output for the entire year, you got to go below the surface and farther away than his barn and what he thought is as important as what he produced and besides can't be checked up on and ain't subject to tax, and many is the time I have been sittin in front of the fire and been accused of dozin when actually my brain was racin and my thoughts had risen above the level of weeds in my corn patch and was wrestlin with the international situation, right up alongside General Marshal and President Truman.

But as I say this bein Thanksgiving time I thought you might be interested in havin a list of the things I am thankful for.

First of all, I am thankful I live in America, don't make no difference if we have got high prices and not enough automobiles and there is some confusion over whether we're supposed to have chicken-less Thursdays or Thursday-less chickens, but you don't hear of no trains runnin through Europe takin up a collection for us. Might be necessary after the next war, but not now.

Also, I am thankful I got good health, which I attribute to the fact I take care of myself and conserve my strength and long ago figured I'd rather be healthy and delinquent than paid up and run down. My farm may be a little ramshackle, but I wouldn't swap places with a tycoon and his ulcers in a big city.

I am also thankful for a lot of other things, one bein I'm not as long-winded as a editor, so will close.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Lubbock County Farmer Has 8 Crops Growing On Farm

College Station—Jack R. West, farmer near Monroe, Lubbock county, sounds like he might be one-man competition for the Rio Grand Valley.

West owns 550 acres of irrigated land, with six wells. He has eight crops on the land, some already harvested, some to be harvested.

Potatoes were put in 162 acres, and produced up to 200 sacks per acre. The 140 acres in cotton harvested out to one and one fourth bales per acre.

Crops yet to be harvested are sugar beets, 70 acres; 22 acres of tomatoes; 40 acres of peas, to be combined; 29 acres of onions and 3 acres of bell peppers.

The surprise crop from the farm was lettuce. Some ten specialized irrigation farmers around Monroe planted a total of 230 acres of head lettuce, and West's 25 acres harvested to the tune of 30 crates per acre.

County Agent D. W. Sherrill says that the cool fall weather in that irrigated area is ideal for lettuce and the crop grossed about $300 per acre.

RACINE, WIS.—About one out of every four U. S. farms is less than 50 acres in size and still uses farm animals for power, according to the U. S. Census of Agriculture. Growing demand for mechanization within the range of the small family farms or truck gardens, which now are strong factors in the solution of the international food problem, resulted in this "Pony" tractor. Designed by Massey-Harris, it permits an easy change to modern mechanization to speed up field operations. Features of the 1-plow tractor include battery ignition and self-starter, individual turning brakes, fenders, automotive type dash, adjustable tread and a full line of mounted tools available for plowing, planting, tillage and cultivating.

Many Chickens Are Headed For Food Lockers

College Station—With the emphasis on better management of the poultry flock to save money and grain, there will be a lot of roosters and poor layers lined up for the freezer locker this year.

Roy Snyder, extension poultry marketing specialist for Texas A. and M. College, says that home preparation of poultry for the freezer locker is comparatively easy. The main thing to remember is that no time should be lost between killing and freezing.

It is very important that the birds be well-bled. The temperature of the scalding water should be 128 deg. F. Pierce the basin, just as though the bird was going to be dry-picked. The feathers will pull a little easier and the skin will be in better condition for storage.

Tie the wings and legs down on birds for roasting or baking, to make a more compact package.

If the bird is to be stewed or fried, cut it ready for the pan. It is more easily done before packaging than after freezing.

Snyder says that good packaging of poultry for the locker is essential. Many users have found that sealed cellophane bags or tight cartons are the best ways to preserve quality.

If the temperature of the freezer is maintained at zero deg. F., well-packaged poultry can be kept six to 12 months.

Social Security Cards Used Only On Wages You Earn

Social security account number cards are not intended for use as poker chips, courtesy cards, or identification for cashing checks or buying on credit, Erton F. Tate, manager of the Wichita Falls social security office, pointed out today.

Tate called attention to the fact that these cards are issued for the sole use by the rightful owner for getting credit for the wages he earns in employment covered by the Social Security Act.

Instances have been reported to the Social Security Administration of individuals winning several account number cards in dice games, and then attempting to "cash them" at local social security offices. Frequently account number cards are offered as identification when persons attempt to cash personal checks at banks where they are not known.

As right and proper uses of social security cards, the Administration official stated that the owner should always present his card:

1. To the employer, when starting to work on a new job.
2. To the social security office, when a woman changes her name; when claiming old-age or survivor benefits; when asking for a report on his social security account.

There have been upwards of 90 million accounts for workers set up by the Social Security Administration. It is important to every worker that the account number card be used in matters relating to his social security account. This will help to insure the payment of the proper benefits to the workers and their beneficiaries who are entitled to them.

November, Mr. Bradt is to visit Texas dealers at a series of meetings to be held in Tyler, Houston, McAllen, San Antonio, Big Spring, Amarillo, Wichita Falls and Dallas.

News From The Munday F. F. A.

Look! Look! What's Coming To Town

A donkey basketball game. Yes, that is right. The most fun you have had in ages. Can people play basketball and ride donkeys at the same time. Well, yes, come out to the high school gymnasium Thursday night December 4th and enjoy the funniest basketball game you will have a chance to witness this fall when Don L. Ratliff and his city basketball players will try to again defeat the country boys coached by Mr. Patterson.

Last summer you will recall the donkey baseball game that was played on the soft ball field when the city boys defeated the county boys. Now the county boys are asking for a chance for revenge. Boy is that going to be a battle. Soon the F. F. A. boys will make a round selling tickets to the game, better buy your ticket early, as the gymnasium will not hold the crowd that will want to see the game. Price of regular tickets will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children under 12 years of age. The Future Farmers of America boys are sponsoring the game. If you buy your tickets early you will aid the boys materially in taking care of the crowd.

MUNDAY F. F. A. BOYS BUY GOOD BOAR

The Munday F. F. A. has purchased an unusually good registered Duroc Jersey boar from Roy Golden a well known Duroc Jersey hog breeder on the south plains, near Floydada.

Mr. Golden has been breeding and selecting Duroc hogs for many years and consequently has some of the best bred stock in the nation.

This boar that we purchased has relatives on both the sire and dam sides that are local, state, and national winners. With the good blood line that we already have in our female line we will combine the blood line of this male. By doing this we hope to improve our Duroc hogs still more.

This male is now ready for service in the community. The breeding fee is $3.00.

He is being kept by Troy Lee Lowrance north of town.

F. F. A. PUTTING UP FOOTBALL FIELD WIRE

Five Millionth Maytag Comes Off Assembly Lines

Newton, Iowa—The 5 millionth washer made by The Maytag Company since its first was manufactured in 1907 came off the assembly line here recently.

To celebrate the occasion, 100 guests from various parts of the country were invited to participate with Gov. Robert D. Blue, of Iowa, heading the list. President Fred L. Maytag, II, grandson of the late founder of the company and, like his grandfather, a member of the Iowa Senate, hosted a luncheon following completion of the 5 millionth washer.

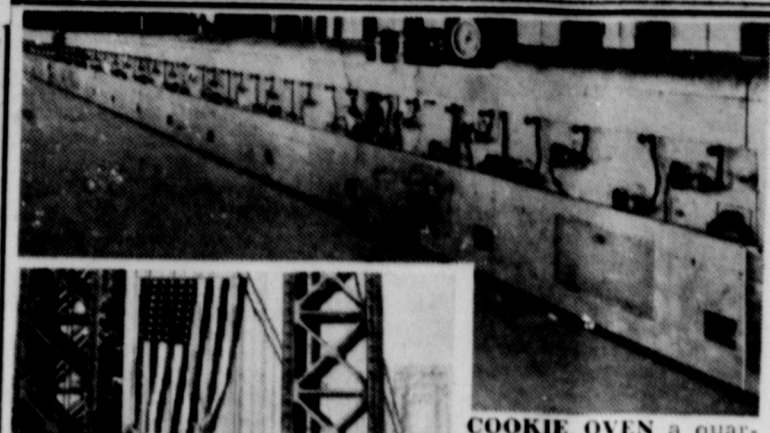

The company's 1 millionth washer was produced in 1927, 20 years after the first; the 2 millionth in 1932, the third in 1936 and the fourth in 1941, shortly before the concern suspended all washer manufacturing for the duration of the war.

Originally established by Fred L. Maytag, I, to produce "Ruth" self-feeders for threshing machines, the company switched to washer manufacturing when President Maytag was looking for year-round employment of the factory's machinery and wood-working employees.

First models produced were wooden wash-tubs on legs with a hand-operated agitator in the lid.

Roy A. Bradt, Vice President of the company, is President of the American Washer and Ironer Manufacturers' Association. Early in

Sudan Seed Is Likely Again

College Station—About this time last year, E. A. Miller, extension agronomist for Texas A. and M. College, warned Texas farmers that the sudan seed crop supply was lower than it had ever been before.

It's worse this year. Production of sudan grass seed for 1947 in Texas is estimated at 3 and one-half million pounds. That's the lowest crop on record, and just about two-thirds of what it was last year.

It's not only bad in Texas. The total production for the United States is 14 percent below the small 1946 crop.

The harvested seed is reported by the USDA Bureau of Agricultural Economics as being a little cleaner than last year and the yield per acre average is 34 lbs. higher than the ten-year average. The small crop is caused by the record small acreage.

It all boils down to one thing. If the farmers want sudan grass seed they'd better line it up now, instead of waiting for spring. The current supply for the U. S., including production and carry-over, is 38,358,000 pounds of clean seed 22 percent smaller than last year and 45 percent below the last 5-year average. So there's liable to be trouble in getting the seed when planting time comes around.

New Styles Merely Onslaught
On U.S. Purse, Author Declares

Fashion changes which have brought the radically new styles to the United States are merely another onslaught by foreign designers on the American pocketbook in the opinion of Philip Wylie, noted author, and observer of the contemporary American scene.

And just as long as American women submit to these foreign dictators they can't afford to look down their noses at Ubangi women for inserting a plate in their lip, he declares.

"For modern fashion has become a big business, controlled not by milady's real desire for novelty, her good taste and proper love of ornament, but by a mere commercial greed of the most cynical and exploitations variety," Wylie says in an article in the November issue of Cosmopolitan magazine.

"The world of fashion has one purpose; to make as much money at it can, as fast as possible, from Mrs. and Miss America. Thus, the changing fashions no longer follow cultural tendencies, but, if anything, precipitate such tendencies.

"Designer" is a very good name for those who promote the fraud; they have designs on one thing; America's pocketbook."

Fashion designers who have designs on the American pocketbook have one tried and true formula, according to Wylie, who asserts:

"Each new style has been one that has made milady's extant wardrobe obsolete. Fashion's aim has become to shame American women into constant buying without any real need at all. The technique of mass panic has been mercilessly employed, through advertising and high-pressure public relations, to keep the ladies afraid that what they have in the way of clothes is forever too long, short, wide, narrow, plain or ornate.

"Today it is impossible for a woman to be dressed 'correctly' for more than a few months without new clothes."

American women should be bright enough, in Wylie's opinion, to apply the brakes on an exploitation of themselves which periodically makes them look absurd, often injures their health, and constantly sabotages their bank accounts.

"A few new attitudes are needed," he asserts. "First would be a general appreciation of the fact that any dress or garment which is beautiful to wear is always beautiful, faddish or not. Next should come the simple admission that anything which restricts natural functions is both criminal and hideous. Finally the public should perceive that women who sedulously follow fashion today, are, one and all, prize suckers on history's greatest sucker's list."

Veterans' News

Nearly 2,000 World War II veterans in the Southwest are being paid compensation for deafness due to military service and require special rehabilitation measures, the Dallas Branch Office of the Veterans Administration has found.

VA made the survey of its eight regional offices in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi on the occasion of National Hearing Week, November 9-15, sponsored by the American Hearing Society and endorsed by President Truman.

The Southwestern veterans among 42,000 World War II service men throughout the country receiving compensation for hearing disabilities. Another 17,000 World War I veterans are drawing pensions for this reason.

The number of deafened veterans being rehabilitated by VA's Southwestern Offices includes 688 by Dallas, 86 by Houston, 230 by Lubbock, 465 by San Antonio, 205 by Waco, 72 by New Orleans, 93 by Lakeviewport, and 117 by Jackson, Mississippi.

Approximately 2,000,000 veterans whose secondary education was interrupted by the war may, in most cases, obtain high school diplomas by taking tests given at Veterans Testing Service agencies located in all parts of the country, VA reports.

The agencies, organized by state departments of education and not by VA, are being established in or near every community with a VA regional office or guidance center.

VA vocational advisers can furnish veterans with the address of the nearest VTS agency, as well as information on procedures for applying for credits and diplomas. The agencies, designated by the state departments of education charge a nominal fee for the tests.

Tests for high school diplomas measure a veteran's general educational development resulting from his experience and education as opportunities in the armed forces. Emphasis is on general information rather than specific facts. Over a half-million veterans already have received high school diplomas as a result of the tests.

Pasture Needs Rest For Making Good Grazing

It pays to rest one pasture a year and allow it to go to seed. So says J. D. Smith, manager of the Big 4 ranch. Smith has rested at least one pasture the past two years, and finds it good management to be able to turn his cows in this pasture when all of his other pastures are grazed down. "I wouldn't have had any place to put them," said Smith, "and at the same time I am improving my grass by resting it during the growing season and allowing it to seed.

Ranchers and stockmen in the Wichita Brazos Soil Conservation District are finding that adjusting livestock numbers to the long range carrying capacity of their ranges are paying off. Soil Conservation Service range technicians go over the range with each rancher and determine what kinds of grass he has, the proper grazing period, and methods of grazing for the fastest improvement. A range in fair condition is producing only on-half of what it is capable, thus ranchers are losing money by following wasteful practices.

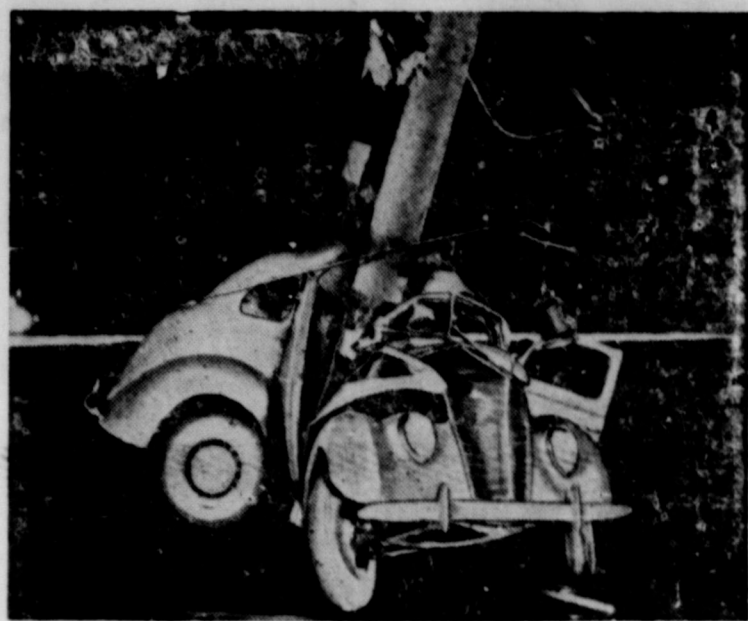

The use of legumes provides ideal temporary grazing high in protein in the early spring at a time when native grass is still dormant and can't withstand abuse by grazing. Improving your soil will work together with proper livestock management, believe the ranchers who are cooperators with the Wichita Brazos Soil Conservation District.

Speeding through the night, the driver of this car was momentarily blinded by approaching headlights. Because he was going too fast to control his car instantly, he swerved off the highway and crashed into a telegraph pole with such force that the car was almost broken in two. He was dead when help arrived. National Conservation Bureau advises night-drivers to keep their eyes focused on the side of the road, never to look directly into headlights and—most important of all—to drive at moderate speed.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin—According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, there are too many persons who approach the choice of a family physician casually. Viewing the doctor as a fireman, whose services are required only in an emergency, such families wait until an illness strikes, and then get hold of the first doctor who can respond to the call. While such an attitude still reasonably assures one of satisfactory medical services, it can handicap the physician somewhat and in the long run does not permit the supervision and close personal contact which can exist only by having a regular family doctor.

"Knowing his patients enables a physician to give advice on maintaining health and preventing knowledge of the physical and disease, based on his intimate mental make-up of the members of the family," Dr. Cox stated. "The casually summoned physician plainly cannot have this background or opportunity. It is well known to students of medical science that no one procedure or drug can be applied to the cure of every disease. It would indeed be fine if we could have some panacea for all diseases, but unfortunately the healing art is not as simple as that."

"People are far from being alike," he continued. "Bodily and mental characteristics markedly differ in members of the same family. Reactions to medicines of various types, the habits of the individual, environmental influences, and personal factors vary widely. Armed with an intelligent appreciation of these facts, as applied to the members of the family, a physician possesses the maximum opportunity to render his best advice, not only in curing disease, but as medical counselor to the family as a whole."

Selling Cull Livestock Now Pays Two Ways

Will Bring Good Prices And Save Grains For Efficient Animals

Removing unproductive, inefficient livestock from a herd is good business at any time, but is especially desirable and profitable under 1947 conditions. That is why close culling of livestock is strongly recommended this fall by Extension Service livestock specialists and other authorities.

Livestock producers who carefully select unprofitable animals and sell them this fall profit two ways. The cull animals sell at unusually favorable market prices, and more high-priced grain is made available for feeding the more efficient animals remaining in the herd.

Several factors are important in selecting cull animals. Culling should include crippled, diseased and poor-quality animals, and unproductive breeding stock. In the breeding herd, it is desirable to cull cows that have missed calving for one or two years; they are likely to be fat and bring more money when sold. Dairy cows that produce less than the herd average are worth more when sold than when kept as "boarders". Sows which have farrowed small litters are not paying their share of the cost of feed and care. Hens that have stopped laying and are getting fat are robbing the flock of profit. As a rule, it pays to cull animals that are passing their period of usefulness because of age, and to replace them with younger stock.

Rigid culling will allow farmers and ranchmen to feed more generously animals that are able to return a profit for the feed given them. However, under present conditions, even the best of animals should not be fed to grade higher than "Good", as the extra finish requires too much grain. Young and pregnant animals will have more feed at the time when their nutrition needs are most critical, helping to insure better, heavier calves, lambs or pigs next year.

Culling also will aid the improvement of permanent pastures, especially important in the Cotton South. With unproductive animals eliminated, proper stocking of pastures and ranges is encouraged so that livestock operators will be in better position to capitalize on the use of better grazing in the future.

Another major advantage of culling stressed by livestock authorities is that it will help to reduce the hazard of continued large livestock inventories. They urge the elimination, now, of many animals which have been kept in the herd in the past because of the general upward trend in prices.

For these reasons, close culling is recommended this fall as one of the important steps in the good management and feeding, which will help to solve the problem of scarce and high-priced grains. Other practical methods of saving and using grains efficiently will be discussed in future articles of this series.
