Lions Club Holds First Meeting and Forms Organization

The Lions Club of Munday was organized at a luncheon held at the Burton Cafe at noon on Thursday of last week, and at this luncheon the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: E. Duval, president; E. W. McGlothlin, first vice-president; Ben I. Guinn, second vice-president; H. F. Barnes, third vice-president; D. T. Mauldin, secretary; P. D. O'Brien, tail twister, Tom Haney, lion tamer.

The organization was very fortunate in having present, purely by accident, Lion E. Sigel, of Haskell, tail twister for the Haskell Lions Club. Mr. Sigel happened to be passing through the city and had stopped at the cafe for lunch, and being a good Lion, he materially assisted the local aggregation in forming their organization, and being familiar with the workings of the Lions Club, he gave them many helpful suggestions, which were greatly appreciated.

The Lions Club of Munday is organized on a charter membership basis. It has twenty members, and a membership committee was appointed to make a thorough canvass for new members, and it is hoped that the membership here can be brought up to a creditable number, for those who are familiar with the principles inculcated by the organization are convinced that the organization can accomplish many worthwhile things.

Briefly stated the objects of the Lions Club is to promote the theory and practice of the principles of good government and good citizenship; to take an active interest in the commercial, social and moral welfare of the community; to unite the members in the bond of friendship, good fellowship and mutual understanding; to provide a forum for the full and free discussion of all matters of public interest, partisan politics and sectarian religion alone excepted; to promote efficiency and promote high ethical standards in business and professions, provided that no club shall hold out as one of its object financial benefits to its members.

One of the first undertakings of the Lions Club of Munday will be that of sponsoring the Boy Scout movement in Munday, which is one of the most worthy undertakings. Every father and every citizen is vitally interested, or should be, in the boys that are to be the men of tomorrow, and the Boy Scout movement is recognized as one of the most worthy organizations in building character for the boys that will be the men of tomorrow.

Every good citizen can subscribe to the principles of the Lions Club, so let's make the Lions Club of Munday one of the best in this section, and let's accomplish, as Lions, something that will be worth-while for our community.

GILLESPIE CLUB WILL SEND MEMBERS TO SHORT COURSE

The Gillespie Home Demonstration Club met at 3 p. m. June 13 at the school building. The club prayer read by Mrs. Shannon opened the meeting. Plans to raise funds to send a member to the A. & M. Short Course in July were discussed.

Members were assigned articles to prepare for exhibit at the county fair in September.

Club members will sell dressed chickens (hens and fryers), pies and cakes in Miss Nelson's office, Tuesday morning, July 3rd.

The date of the next club meeting was changed from 2nd Wednesday to 3rd Friday. The regular meeting day being the first day of the women's encampment.

Rain, Hail and Wind Entail Heavy Losses Through Munday Sec.

On Friday afternoon of last week the Munday section was visited by a good rain, which would have proven very beneficial to crops had it not been for the fact that it was accompanied by more or less hail. Through a small section of the Munday territory all growing crops were completely wiped out by the heavy hail, and the fact that the rain was accompanied by a heavy wind resulted in some additional damage. But it is likely that more damage has resulted from the high winds that have prevailed during the past few days than from the hail, for many of the farmers have been compelled to replant after their crops have been destroyed by the blowing sand, and those that have not been blown out have had to devote much time and labor to ward running harrows and stirring the soil to prevent blowing.

Munday received 1.10 inches of rainfall but this does not represent the rainfall over the Munday section, for it is stated that to the south and west the rainfall was much heavier, while to the west there was not so much, and the rain extended but only a few miles to the west of Munday.

Lillian Burns, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Burns, was carried to Wichita Falls on Friday of last week for an operation for appendicitis, and we are pleased to state that she is getting along nicely.

Appendicitis Attack Is Fatal to Pauline Gray Following Operation

This community was shocked Friday morning when it became known that little Miss Pauline Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Gray, had passed away at 2:00 o'clock that morning in the County Hospital at Knox City, following an operation for appendicitis.

She was carried to the hospital the previous day, and attending physicians stated that her condition was very critical, and an operation was performed in the hope of saving her life, but the poison of this dreaded malady had spread over her system and all that loving hands and medical science could do proved fruitless, and hence another one of Munday's little girls has been called by the grim reaper within a few weeks of each other, and both from the same cause. Little Edith Neff, daughter of Mrs. R. H. Neff, having been called only a few weeks ago, and both girls were members of the same class in our public school.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist church at 10:00 o'clock Saturday morning and were conducted by the Rev. P. D. O'Brien, pastor, and following the services at the church the remains were laid to rest in Johnson cemetery.

In addition to her parents, Pauline is survived by one brother and one sister, and they, together with a large host of friends and especially a large number of her schoolmates, are deeply grieved at the untimely death.

Among those who attended the funeral from other points were Mr. Gray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Gray, of Brownfield, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gray and children of Abilene; Wiley Moore and Mrs. C. W. Guinn of Graham, brother and sister, respectively, of Mrs. Gray.

To the bereaved parents and loved ones we extend our most sincere sympathy in this hour of sorrow, and in this we are joined by the entire community.

WILL BEGIN PIPING GAS HERE WITHIN FEW WEEKS

From the best information we can gather the mains of the gas line will begin to be laid throughout the city within the next few weeks. It is reported that three ditchers are now engaged at Stamford, and as soon as they have completed Stamford and Haskell they will be brought to Munday and is not unlikely that Munday citizens will have gas available for use within the next thirty days.

Grandma I. P. Rosser is visiting relatives in Mabank, Texas this week.

Munday Will Close Shop and Attend the Goree Picnic Enmasse

On Friday, June 29th, Munday will close shop and attend the Goree picnic in a body, according to plans that are being made by Munday Chamber of Commerce. This day has been designated as Munday Day by the committee in charge, and that Munday appreciates the designation will be demonstrated by a full attendance.

In addition to a large representation of Munday citizens on this day, the Munday delegation will be represented by the Munday Band, which, through the able direction of Prof. Hoffman, has been doing some hard work to be in shape to make their first public appearance on this day. While the band is young, it is expected that with the aid of a few musicians from Rhineland, they can make a very creditable showing for a young organization.

A committee composed of C. R. Elliott, Ben Guinn and F. O. Campbell was appointed to look after arranging the details for the trip, and further details will be published in our next issue.

A successful leader is one who can guess which way the crowd wants to go.

Holder Withdraws Name As Candidate For Public Weigher

D. E. Holder on Tuesday authorized us to announce his withdrawal from the race for Public Weigher.

In making this announcement Mr. Holder stated that he believed that there were a number of good men in the race for the office who would make efficient officials in this capacity and that he would likely be a candidate for the office at some future time. He asked that we extend his sincere thanks to the many friends who had tendered him their support and assured each and everyone that he appreciates their interest just as much as if he had remained in the race.

SMITH-HENDRIX

On Friday, June 8th, Mr. Frank Hendrix of this place and Miss Ura Smith of Floydada were united in marriage at Haskell.

Both the bride and groom are well known in Munday and vicinity, being members of pioneer families of this section, the groom being a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hendrix of the Hood community, while the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Smith of Floydada, and former citizens of Munday, and for many years was associated with the Baker-Campbell Company here.

We join their many friends in wishing for them a long and happy married life, and are pleased to know that they will make their home in this city, Mr. Hendrix having accepted a position with the gas company here.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Nelson went to Stamford on Monday, where they attended a meeting of Texas Company agents from this section of the state. They were royally entertained by the company, and among other features that were provided for the pleasure was a chicken barbecue and they report a most enjoyable day.

Committee Is Named For Reunion of Vets July 11th and 12th

At a meeting of the directors of the Munday Chamber of Commerce on Monday night a committee composed of E. Duval, L. E. Loveless and Tom Haney was named to make plans for the reunion of Confederate veterans to be held here on July 11-12, and this committee was vested with full authority to formulate a program for the two days and make all other arrangements for the entertainment and care of the Veterans while in our city.

It was also decided that nothing of a picnic nature would be held in connection with the reunion, but that every effort be put forth to make the Veterans enjoy every minute of their stay in Munday, and an elaborate program will be arranged for their pleasure. It has already been decided that an old fiddler's contest will be one of the features of the program, and a number of prominent speakers will be secured to address the vets.

Every citizen of Munday will be a member of the reception committee to extend a welcome to the veterans and we are confident that everything possible will be done to make them enjoy their reunion here.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION OPENS IN HOUSTON ON JUNE 26TH

Houston, Tex., June 18.—The twenty-sixth! That is the date toward which everyone here is looking, for on that date the Democratic National Convention opens its doors.

Many will be the colorful personalities taking part in the sessions. Of course there will be Clem Shaver with his gavel. And everyone looks forward to the keynote speech of the brilliant Claude G. Bowers.

Bowers, a New York editorial writer, historian and editor, attracted great attention by his address at the last Jackson Day Dinner, which is considered a masterpiece. It is believed this speech led to his selection as the keynote. It was beautifully written, effectively delivered. Everyone is sure Bowers will surpass himself at the convention.

Senator Robinson is expected to be extremely active at the convention, and New York's bright, well-dressed Mayor Walker, a brilliant, shining personality if ever there was one, is expected to put real "pep" into the proceedings.

William G. McAdoo will be there, and will, it is believed, play a prominent part. And then all will be greeted at Houston by Jesse H. Jones, Houston philanthropist, financier and publisher, who became the hero of the city when he led the fight to have it selected for the convention. Jones has thrown his hat in the ring, too, as a favorite son of Texas.

Other convention personalities will include, among many, John Taggard, "Big Bill" Brennan and Governor Moody of Texas. Senator Heflin, the prominent orator, one of the most forceful fighters in politics, is expected there, too.

G. R. (Junior) Eiland was carried to Wichita Falls on Friday afternoon of last week suffering from an attack of appendicitis, and underwent an operation immediately after arriving there. This is the second child Mr. and Mrs. Eiland have in the hospital at this time, their daughter, Bettie Lou, having undergone an operation for appendicitis some days ago, and has not been getting along as well as could be hoped for, but Junior is getting along nicely.

Dick Dresser of Seymour was here Tuesday in the interest of his candidacy for the office of District Attorney, 50th Judicial District of Texas.

Mrs. S. E. McCord and daughter returned on Tuesday from Corsicana, Italy and other points, where they have been visiting relatives.

4-H CLUB GIRLS HOLD ENCAMPMENT JUNE 14 AND 15, SEYMOUR, TEXAS

The Annual Club Encampment of the 4-H Club Girls of Knox and Baylor counties met at the court house in Seymour Thursday morning, June 14. After some time we left for our camping place on Miller Creek. When we arrived Miss Nelson and Miss Bradley took charge and organized the camp. The following officers were elected to serve the duration of the camp: Zuleka Wilson, president; Jonnie Russell, sec.; Yell leader, Vita Russell, Song leader; Marguerite Roebuck.

After the camp was organized we had dinner. There were ninety-five present, including seventy-one club girls, seven visitors, four mothers, two sponsors, two agents, nine helpers (including five girls who have finished four years club work). At two o'clock we loaded all food and bedding, suitcases on the truck and hiked to Self Schoolhouse for shelter from the rain. At four o'clock the 4-H appropriate dress con-girls won trips to the Farmers Short Course at College Station: Lula Herd, Vera, Balma Swain, Hood; Knox County, and Ja Etta Neek, Plainview; Ruth Austin, Bomarton, from Baylor county.

At six o'clock we had supper and then went to the Brazos river on a hike. Our sleeping quarters were then selected and the various clubs gave their stunts. Due to the difficult work of the judges, Messrs. Lou Rowe and Walter Self and Miss Elizabeth Kounce, West-over with their funeral was given first and Munday with their hotel was given second.

Due to the rain in the night we had to scatter to some of the neighbors, including the Self ranch house, Walter Self, Jeters and the Morgans. Thus the rest remained at the school house.

Next morning at six o'clock the trucks and cars came for us and brought us to the park in Seymour where the breakfast was served by the Chamber of Commerce. A few songs and yells were given and Rev. Hogg gave a talk, "How to find out how great a person is." Rain again drove us to the City Hall for shelter and Mr. Palmer, the county agent, assisted by Mr. Holmgreen gave instructions on poultry judging.

The camp in a body attended the revival meeting in session at the McNeill Gin shed, where we heard a sermon by the Rev. Hogg. Girls were given free time till noon. The Baylor Home Demonstration Club Women served the dinner for the girls in the basement of the city hall.

The following program was rendered at the dinner: Invocation—Rev. Cargill.

The Four H's:
Health—Mrs. Kemp (Instructor in Science Seymour High School).

Hand—Rev. Teel (Pastor of the First Christian Church).

Head—Supt. Kemp (Supt. City Schools, Seymour).

Songs—15 yells for, guests, eats, helpers, etc.

Heart—Rev. Cargill (Pastor Presbyterian church).

Immediately after dinner Mr. Palmer gave a talk on the kind of spray to use in the chicken house as well as the dip and powder to use for insects and the use of medicines in the drinking water for chickens. The camp disbanded at 5 p. m.

"It is even an intruder's business to be watchful, at a time like this. I believe you'd better try to get some sleep."

"Still the doctor—but there are no personal wishes involved this time." She even had the spirit to smile at me.

But I couldn't answer that smile. The scene in the den had struck home too hard.

"Professional interest alone," I told her.

Maybe it was just the effort of the dawn that her eyes seemed to lose their luster before my gaze. She hurried on up the hall, turning at the door of her own room.

"Thank you for your watchfulness," she called to me. "And I'm sorry I spoke so rudely when you first spoke to me—and I don't expect any other—but professional interest—now. If there was anything that I could say—about last night—I'd say it, too. But I know it wouldn't help any."

"I can't imagine that it would."

"But at least—you are not going home today."

"The storm decided that matter for me, I'm afraid. But there may be a chance yet."

The door shut behind her. The early morning hours drew on, and the mist that was the twilight of dawn faded like the rain.

One of the negroes had built a little fire in the library, and Southley joined me here. And in a moment Ahmad Das opened the door from the dining room.

He stood straight and calm and untruffled, not an expression that the eyes of man could read on his impassive face as he called us in to breakfast.

After breakfast Ernest and I went down to the scene of the murder. It would be several hours before the coroner came; and I thought that any obvious clues should be collected and preserved at once. Such things have mysterious ways of disappearing.

We had no difficulty in locating the exact spot where the body had been. Even the rain had not washed away all the evidence. My first work was to look about for footprints. There were none to be seen. The place was covered with a rich growth of grass, and root-filled turf as a rule does not receive a very clear imprint. Besides, the rains would have washed away any imprint that had been made.

We were not more successful in finding a weapon with which the crime could have been committed. We searched the hillside with the greatest possible care; and even waded a short distance into the swamp. Of course it seemed like that any blunt instrument that could have inflicted the wound could have been easily tossed into the swamp water, from which it could not be recovered until the waters receded again.

Although it was inundated to a depth of six feet now, it was perfectly clear that the isthmus was still above the surface of the water at the moment of the murder. It was not covered until the final wreckage of the levee, several minutes afterward. It would have been possible for the murderer to have raced across the isthmus to the opposite high lands before the wall of water came. In that case he was still to be found in the thick jungle beyond.

Since the light had made it possible, we had put a negro in an upstairs window with a powerful pair of field glasses. If the murderer was indeed in refuge in the thick jungles, the glasses would reveal any attempt he should make to escape. His only hope would be to keep the plateau itself between him and the house, a feat that would become increasingly difficult as he neared the mainland. And it was true the water was too deep to wade. He would either have to construct a raft, or else risk his life and long, desperate swim.

The watch was kept like that of an army camp. It was continuous. When the negro was obliged to leave his post another took his place.

We picked up a few surface clues.

We found a man's hat; but it was perfectly evident that it was the hat Hayward had worn. I had not particularly noticed it as he went out the door; yet Ernest recognized it as the same expensive felt that he had seen the elder Hayward wearing on many previous occasions. It contained no initials or any other sign of ownership, and it had a trademark of a hatter in the State capital.

But the place it lay was somewhat significant. It was ten full paces farther up the slope than the place where we had found the body.

"Could we have dropped it off when we carried the body to the house?" Ernest asked.

"When I lifted the head, the hat went already off," I replied.

"Then you see what it means?" He looked at me darkly.

"It means that either part of the struggle occurred higher up the slope, or else some violent action at that point knocked the hat from his head. It seems to me there would be signs—deeper imprints—of the first was the case; and more likely that he saw or heard his enemy for the first time when he was on this point of the path."

"He must have been on his way down to the driveway then."

"Of course."

"He certainly could not have seen well in the darkness. He might have heard, though, or felt."

"Perhaps he could make out a shadow. Likely he started to run, and his hat fell off at the first leap."

"The levee was already breaking then. He must have heard its faint signs. It seemed likely he must have known that he was already cut off. Then why—and the eyes bored mine—did he run in the opposite direction from the house, rather than toward it? We found the body ten yards farther down the slope."

"Men in such terror as he must have been are not particularly careful which way they run. They only want to get away in any direction."

"But the most frightened man won't run in the face of the danger. It is perfectly evident then that this foe came behind him—between his own position and the house."

"That seems to be indisputable."

"The murderer must have chased him."

"Of course."

"And he must have been unbelievably fleet. It was true that Hayward was a large man physically, and would not ordinarily have been able to run very fast. But in such terror as he was, he would have run faster than any expert track man. You know, Long, that no man ever really runs until he is in terror. Some reserve power and strength comes to his aid. You remember that from your own boyhood—the way you could get away from a watermelon patch when the owner got out his shotgun. He ran somewhat downhill, so every condition was with him for a fast flight. And yet his enemy caught up with him within ten yards."

"It is an important fact, Ernest."

"Certainly is. Police records show that in very few cases have crimes been committed by a criminal actually overtaken a fleeing victim when they were both on foot. The victim's fear makes him the fleetest; and the criminal has only the strength of his purpose to make him fleet. Yet Hayward was overtaken in ten yards."

"Yes."

"He probably ran screaming—a sound that could not be heard above the roar of the storm."

I agreed to this, too.

"It's no ordinary crime, Long. The murderer had no ordinary motives. His position, his blood madness, if I may use the word, must have been just as terrific an emotion as Hayward's fear—an emotion that inspired him to run fast enough down that slope to overtake his prey within ten yards."

Sometimes we think that farming in West Texas is just one thing after another. If it doesn't rain it's too bad. If it does rain it usually hails, and it's too bad. If the wind blows it's too bad. But when the general averages are made it will be found that the West Texas farmer has fared about as well, if not better, than those of other sections. And after all, it's the final results that count.

The farmers of the Munday country have been in a critical situation during the past week. Following the rain and hail many were compelled to replant. Those who escaped hail had to go into the fields and stir the land in order to prevent their crops from being destroyed by the sand. Many of our farmers took the view that the ox was in the ditch and kept their teams going all day. Sunday, and we believe that their actions were justifiable, for, if there was ever an instance where the scriptural ox was in the ditch it was Sunday.

Thinking Out Loud!

Now, Mr. Webster, or whoever it is that writes the dictionaries, can set it down so that he who runs may read just what the word "choose" really means.

Mr. Wardlow, who kids himself into believing he's running for governor, is going over the top about what a failure the present governor has been and what a great success he will be. We've heard the same line for all these many years. Every candidate can fill the office better than the occupant thereof—according to the campaigner.

When Congress convenes again next December there will be something the present generation has never seen—a negro member. (Chicago will select a negro to succeed Congressman Madden, who died some time ago. He has already been nominated and his election is conceded, for the district is composed largely of negroes. Editor Henry Edwards of the Tyler

Journal wonders how the Congressional Women's Club of Washington is going to feel with the wife of the Chicago Congressman "pouring" at one of the social functions, especially the wives of Congressmen from Virginia, Georgia and other southern states, since the negro member and his family will be entitled to the official privileges of the Congressman.

And the Republican party has inserted a plank in their platform under the caption of "Negro" declaring for a national anti-lynching law. This declaration too, is made after a strong declaration favoring state rights, which brings up the question again of the inconsistencies of politics.

This paper has always preached the gospel of trading at home, but sometimes we find it rather difficult to make much headway along this line by reason of the fact that we are not accorded cooperation from the home merchants. If the home merchant feels that his merchandise and his profits are in line with outside competition he should let the public know about it through the columns of his home paper. The public is looking for honest values, and if the home merchant can furnish them he should not keep the matter a
