Odd Bits Salvaged At Random

(By Aaron Edgar)

Last words of praise and admiration have been spoken. Students have received their certificates of promotion, graduation diplomas, awards, etc., and the school vacation has begun.

Graduation is a great time in the life of a youngster. He (the boy youngster we're talking about) sends out invitations to the exercises, receives gifts, and he's plumb happy over the supply of neckties, etc., that he receives.

Then he's undecided whether to go to a denominational college, state or military school. It would be a shame to go to a military school, wear a regulation uniform and let those ties and sox lay up until he enters civilian life again.

But then he has the school vacation period, or a portion of it, to decide.

Trouble is that some will let their high school education be the end of their search for learning. Which brings to mind some advice we were on the receiving end of a long time ago.

"You can lose your money, your land, your personal belongings, but an education is something that no one can take away from you."

We remember our high school graduation. As we heard all those high-sounding phrases preliminary to handing out our diploma, we thought we were just about fixed for good. We were on top of the world.

An eminent Wellington lawyer stood in the pulpit of the First Baptist church and delivered the commencement address. He was a pinch-hitter for someone who at the last minute notified us he couldn't come.

But he "hit in the pinch". He flayed his arms, pounded the rostrum, pointed toward the heavens and made a plumb good speech in which he told us seniors "hitch your wagon to a star."

It seems we never did find the right star to hitch on to. We couldn't tell which one he was pointing at!

We were just about as confused as the fellow who kept coming home drunk. His wife met him at the door on one occasion, and says: "John, why in the world don't you straighten up and try to be somebody?" John swayed back and forth and sideways and says, "I will soon's I find out who I wanna be!"

Yep, we were on top of the world—and all the stars were so bright and shiny and promising that we couldn't decide which one we wanted our wagon hooked on to.

Then we go off to college, and it wasn't long until we decided the world was on top of us and was about to mash us flatter'n a pancake.

We washed dishes, hopped tables, milked a cow, etc., for a portion of our room and board—and we wondered if that cotton patch Pop gave us back home was going to bring in enough to finance us on through.

We were in new surroundings, struggling with higher math, college English, books that wouldn't balance, typing with a sore finger, borrowed money, and all those things that made up a course in business administration.

We had to learn college slang—to substitute words for good English: John Tarleton became John's Institute; business administration was "Footology" because Prof. Foote was head of the department.

We learned what it meant to be "office pup", and carry messages from the registrar's office to students in various classrooms.

We had to learn how to wrap those spiral legging that was all the go in those days—and to be properly dressed on the drill field. Gee Whis! How we'd perspire and sweat and pant and blow in that lower climate in those woolen uniforms and legging wrapped nearly (Continued on Page Two)

Medical Advisors Named For Public Welfare Dept.

The appointment of a Medical Advisory Committee in Area 47 of the State Department of Public Welfare has been announced by Mrs. Abbie T. Willis, Supervisor of the eight counties being served in this area.

The committee is composed of Dr. T. S. Edwards, Chairman, Knox City, Dr. E. M. Kimbrough, Haskell, and Dr. E. H. Balch, Seymour. The committee serves in an advisory capacity to the area supervisor in all matters having to do with health problems, their causes and effects, and the treatment of diseases or conditions contributing to incapacity. The committee also determines the degree of physical or mental disability of parents applying for aid to dependent children. Duties of the committee members are varied and usually involve much work for which their only remuneration is the satisfaction of rendering a public service.

Doctors Edwards, Kimbrough, and Balch, have committed themselves to a public responsibility far above what is usually expected of medical doctors in this respect, according to Mrs. Willis, and their willingness to give of their time and service in such busy times, is certainly commendable.

Munday To Get New And Modern Oil Mill Plant

A long-range building program which will assure the Munday trade area one of the finest and most modern oil mill plants in the state has been inaugurated here by Anderson-Clayton Company on the present site of the Munday Cottonoil Co.

The program is expected to be completed in 1949, and the present mill will give way to the new and modern plant. None of the present buildings will be standing on the site when the building program is completed.

Planned for completion in 1948 is the new office building, new 50-ton truck scales, seed house, truck dump and sterilizer. The new office will be located on the southwest corner of the present property, while the 1949 building program will include a seed house where the present office stands.

All materials and equipment have been secured for the 1948 construction, contracts have been let, and actual construction is ready to begin. This new building program is an expression of faith of the West Texas Cottonoil Co. in the future of this area as a cotton producing center, and Munday is assured of a cotton oil mill for many years in the future.

Many Masons Of District Hear Grand Master

Masons of the 91st Masonic District Association and a number of lodges outside the district gathered some 300 strong in Seymour last Tuesday night for the regular association meeting.

This was made an area meeting, and other lodges were invited. The occasion was the visit of the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Texas, Hon. Horace K. Jackson of Gatesville.

A delicious barbecue supper was served the visitors at the school lunch room, after which the regular assembly was held in the elementary school auditorium. After the lodge was opened, the meeting was turned over to E. T. Goss of Seymour, acting president of the association.

Mr. Goss introduced several distinguished visitors, after which the Grand Master was received, and his son, Horace K. Jackson, Jr., was introduced to the group.

In his address, Mr. Jackson said there were two philosophies of life presented to the people today. One was that which believed in the sanctity of the home, the principals of the church and a true belief in God; while the other was opposed to these ideals. He urged the 180,000 Masons of Texas to continue in fostering the right philosophy of life.

Mr. Jackson is a former resident of Seymour and met many warm personal friends on his visit.

Some 20 members of the Munday lodge attended the meeting.

MUNDAY'S NEEDS FOR 1948

1. A modern and up-to-date high school building, to care for the present and future educational needs of our children.
2. A waterworks system that meets all requirements of health, sanitation and supply.
3. A street sweeper that will keep our pavement clean enough to be recognized as pavement.
4. A clean-up campaign of lasting effect; yes, one that extends even across the tracks.
5. Completion of our drainage and paving program, which will probably be accomplished this year.
6. More activity among our civic organizations, looking forward to, and planning for, a better Munday in the future.

TRUTH STRANGER THAN FICTION

The public knows that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is a great deterrent to crime because of the efficiency with which it runs down lawbreakers. But too few know what an aid it is in non-criminal investigations that affect people in many walks of life.

In the mammoth files of the Identification Division of the Bureau in Washington, there are more than 107,000,000 sets of fingerprints. Over 80% of such prints are in the noncriminal file which includes members of the armed forces, government employes, persons fingerprinted in applying for jobs in important national defense plants, and persons who voluntarily had their fingerprints recorded as a means of identification.

A typical case is that of an old man who in April, 1946, asked the Los Angeles Police Department for assistance in locating two sons and a daughter from whom he had not heard since 1908. He believed his sons had served in World War I. An appeal was made to the FBI. In its files it found fingerprint cards bearing names and dates of birth reasonably agreeing with the information furnished by the father, together with information as to places of employment of the individuals in 1942 and 1943. The father was thus enabled to contact his sons, through whom he located the missing daughter. Three months after he first called on the police, he gratefully acknowledged the help that had been given him.

This closed one of the thousands of incidents in which the FBI has helped in the identification or location of missing persons.

What has become of all the disaster that was to befall this country when the national debt got three-quarters of its present size?

Income taxes may be unpleasant, but we know of no other tax that we'd like to pay in larger amount.

The things we stub our toes on today are the ones we laid around carelessly yesterday.

Some people learn how to relax. Others never learn how to do anything else.

WIN A GOLD MEDAL

In recognition of out standing public service in promoting greater safety of life and resources from fire during 1947, the National Board of Fire Underwriters has awarded gold medals to a daily newspaper, a weekly, and a radio station.

The daily is the Evening Record of Chelsea, Massachusetts. It was given the award for continuous fire prevention stories and campaigns which were credited with reducing the city's fire loss to the lowest point in 20 years.

The Syracuse-Wawasee Journal, Indiana, earned the award for a three year fight for new fire equipment and a paid fire department.

Radio station WLS, Chicago, got its third gold medal in four years for its intensive campaign to achieve greater safety on Midwestern farms.

Eleven other newspapers and five radio stations received honorable mention citations for outstanding fire prevention work.

Here is a real roll of honor. Fire is a killer and destroyer second only to war. It strikes without a declaration of hostilities. It is always waiting for carelessness, ignorance and plain human laziness to give it a chance to raze and kill. A home, a factory, a forest, human and animal life—fire has an insatiable appetite for all.

Every newspaper and radio station in America should try to win future gold medals and citations. And, whether they reach the winner's circle or not they will have the satisfaction of performing a vital public service.

EVERYTHING BUT THE MOO!

Human nature being what it is, most of us kick about the price of our pork chops and T-bones. However, we shouldn't aim our resentment at the people who run the complicated machine that turns steers, hogs and lambs into meat.

The world's largest food manufacturers are the meat packers of America. And the American Meat Institute recently issued some interesting figures on what happened to the average dollar received by the packing industry in 1947.

Nearly eighty cents of it, first of all, went to farmers and livestock producers. This means that the money was pumped into every corner of the country and was a very big factor in promoting agricultural prosperity. Payrolls took 9.4 cents. Supplies, transportation and miscellaneous charges accounted for 8.3 cents. The government, through taxes, got its palm crossed with silver to the tune of 1.4 cents. After paying all expenses, the meat packers had a net profit averaging 1.5 cents out of each dollar of sales—a profit so small as to not affect appreciably the price of meat to the public. That 1947 profit, incidentally, was close to a cent less per dollar of sales than in 1946.

Meat is a staple in the American diet, even as it is the source of the farmer's largest cash income. And the remarkable efficiency with which the packers operate is largely responsible for that. Nothing is wasted—hides, horns, hooves, bones and hair and everything else is put to some use in the manufacture of by-products, running an amazing gamut from fertilizer to insulin! Thus meat can be offered to us at the lowest possible price.

It's Leap Year, Girls!

First girl in our town to "get her man" on Leap Year was the Cuppers' daughter, Jane, who wed Bill Webster's boy last Saturday.

When I asked Bill Jr. if it was true that Janey really did the proposing, Bill said: No, but she made it plain she'd make an ideal wife. Instead of looking for diversion or excitement every evening, she was content to chat beside the fire.

"I could plainly see," says Bill, "that we'd really have a happy home life—which is just exactly what I want from marriage."

up to the knees.

We'd always wrap the leggings too tight on drill days, and as we marched to the cadence of the master sergeant's "hup-two-three-four", those tightly bound muscles would ache and throb like nobody's business.

We were issued an army rifle to take apart and put back together after we'd cleaned off all that grease and muck until it shined like a dollar right out of the mint.

We had to master the manual of arms; to execute that "forward march" command and bring said rifle to our shoulder without knocking the fellow's head off who was behind us.

It was a new world, alright, and it looked like the thing was going to tumble to pieces most any time, and bury us in the landslide.

Teachers didn't seem to care whether we made the grade or not; upper classmen weren't very friendly, except in a paddling sort of way; we couldn't smoke on the campus, and a cigarette was for-bidden anywhere, anytime.

But we got acclimated, and soon as Christmas was over we were anxious to get back there and "in the groove" again. And the world continued on its axis!

Well, good luck seniors. We hope you have smoother sailing than we did.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Doesn't Want Any Important Neighbors, Says That They Attract Atomic Bombs

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek probably is unduly alarmed in his letter this week, as most people we know had rather live in town despite atomic bombs than live where he does.

Dear editor:
While I don't think we're gonna have a war with Russia any time soon, judgin' from what I been readin' in the papers lately, although you never can tell about such things, only the other day I had not figured my wife would hit me with a skillet, which explains this black eye, still and at the same time a lot of people are calculatin' that some kind of war is gonna arrive sooner or later, and I would like to call your attention to a item I found in a paper which some fishermen had wrapped his bait up in out here and left layin' around.

Accordin' to this item, the next war is gonna be a atomic bomb war and the thing to do is to start scatterin' the cities, cuttin' em up and movin' people out in the country.

I will appreciate you callin' a mbein of all farmers in the United States so we can get a law passed makin' it illegal for city folks to move to the country. It ain't that we got any objection to the city folks, except they attract bombs.

I have lived out here in what the city folks call backwardness for years now while the city folks took care of civilization and enjoyed themselves in luxuries and conveniences, but now that civilization is advanced so far it's gettin' out of hand they wanna join me, but the last thing I want in the comin' atomic-bomb-droppin' age is a important neighbor. Just as soon be holdin' a lightin' rod in a electrical storm. I figured the least progressive, most backward, sorriest lookin' growed-up-in-Johnson grass farm in the county is the safest place when the bombs start, which is exactly the kind of place I've spent years in developin' for myself out here, and it ought to be against the law for city people to move out here, endangerin' lives and what little property we got.

What I say is the people in the city developed them bombs and they can live with em. Let's get this farmers' organization goin'. We've spent years buildin' a sanctuary while the city folks has been building bomb targets. Who you reckon is the most backward in the long run?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin—"Although we may not be sick, we may be far from being well. There is a great and vital difference between high and buoyant health and the health of the average person, or of one who is only well enough to be out of bed."

So This is HOUSEKEEPING

That old saw about a bride's burnt toast really caught up with me. Nero would have been honored to officiate. Worst of all, when I explained I had been thinking of a wonderful idea, my fiendish spouse yelped, "It must have been a hot one!" "You'll pay for that remark, smarty," I countered stonily. "Just wait and see!"

The big idea had come from a catalogue in the morning's mail. Staring me in the face was the answer to our bare-floor problem. In exchange for our worn rugs, clothing, and any other old woollens, we could have a luxurious reversible Olson rug!

And because the materials would be furnished, a large part of the cost would be saved. Furthermore, it could be a rug of our own choosing in color, pattern and size. The booklet explained the elaborate process of reclaiming, sterilizing, bleaching, re-dyeing and weaving that made lovely broadloom rugs from valuable materials left in discarded rugs and clothing.

In practically no time I had rounded up threadbare carpets from mother's attic, some woolen sweaters with poked-out elbows, and a blanket our dog had cheerfully chewed. The freight company picked up some 55 pounds of odds and ends to be shipped to Olson at their expense. Next, I selected a 10 x 14 ft. size in a lovely, colorful 1944 Century Bural design from the 50 colors and patterns offered and mailed my order direct to the factory in Chicago.

For the next two weeks I was fit to burst with smugness. Then one day IT arrived. I would almost give our silent butler for a picture of my husband's face when he sank into the luxury underfoot! Before he could get his what-about-the-budget look, I told him the whole story. I rattled off about how it was really two rugs in one since it could be reversed, that we had saved practically half our rug money, and that we had a money-back guarantee, that . . . I didn't get any farther temporarily. As an understatement, he was impressed.

The following morning Mrs. Stuart served breakfast in bed! P.S. He burned the toast.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said today.

"Unless we have the essentials of health in our daily habits of living, we are as sure to pay the penalty of impaired health, sickness and early death as we are of cause and effect in other situations," Dr. Cox continued. "We should ask ourselves, 'How long do I expect to live?' 'How long can I retain my efficiency, both in work and play?' 'Do I want to become incapacitated soon after middle life?'"

The alternative, according to Dr. Cox's statement, is to adjust one's program of living to insure the fundamentals of health and thus, barring accidents, keep young and retain active efficiency to an age of 70 to 80, or more.

The essentials of health are simple: sufficient fresh air and sunlight, good food and food habits, regular exercise and adequate rest. Yet, in checking the health of thousands of individuals who considered their health good, it has been rare indeed to find a single person who did not habitually disregard one or more of these essentials. Therefore, no matter how good or poor our health, we should check our daily program of living for health habits that are essentially faulty but of which we may be unaware.

Grasshoppers Hit Many Sections Of Texas; Farmers Are Urged To Poison

Young grasshoppers are now swarming in the ditchbanks, along the fence-rows, turn-rows, roadsides, railroad-right-of-ways and around the edges of fields and pastures. They have not yet invaded the cultivated croplands, says H. G. Johnston, head of the Texas A. and M. College department of entomology. Dr. Johnston reports that this looks like the worst grasshopper infestation in many years.

The areas in Texas that have been hardest hit are in the Blackland area from the Red River Valley southward to Seguin and Karnes City, and along the Brazos River bottoms from Waco to Bellville. The same situation holds true for the many other river and creek banks in this area, where the grasshoppers cover the vegetation in almost a solid mass.

There will be lots of damage from the grasshoppers in three or four weeks unless something is done about it now. M. H. Brown, Jr., Limestone county agent, held two demonstrations on spraying hoppers along ditchbanks and field margins with toxaphene two weeks ago.

During recent years grasshoppers have been controlled with bran-sawdust-sodium fluosilicate bait poisons, but this year farmers are turning to the new insecticides toxaphene (chlorinated camphene), chlordane and benzene hexachloride (BHC). Sprayed or dusted along the edges of fields, ditchbanks or fence-rows, these poisons give a quicker control and continue to kill longer than the standard bait poisons. And one of the main reasons for this is that the poison is up on the grass where the hoppers are and not down on the ground.

As with nearly all poisons, there are a few precautions to take when dusting or spraying these insecticides. It is not a good idea to feed dairy cattle forage that has been treated with these sprays or dusts because there is a chance that the poisons might accumulate in the fatty tissues and later be passed on into the milk and butter.

Beef cattle are not harmed to any extent with small doses of these sprays or dusts on forage, but over a period of time, the meat may become unfit for food. For the same reason, it is not recommended to spray the entire pasture, since cattle, in time, might easily be affected. Dusting or spraying around the edge of the pastures now will get a large majority of the small hoppers that will later invade the pastures.

Entomologists suggest that you don't spray or dust chlordane or toxaphene on fruits or leafy vegetables when such fruit or leaves is to be used as food, unless you are absolutely certain that the residue can be washed or stripped off.

Avoid applying these insecticides to legumes when in bloom or at the time of day when bees are active in the field, since these sprays and dusts are poisonous to the bees.

If you will hit the hoppers heavy now with poisonous sprays, dusts or bait, there will be little or no crop damage later on when you begin to count up the profits, says Dr. Johnston.

Mrs. Edwin Johnson and little daughters have returned from Cash, Okla. where they have been visiting for two weeks.

Raymond Mitchell, who is a student at Hardin College, Wichita Falls, spent last week end with home folks.

BOYCE HOUSE

Sleep is a mystery. Someone said that man spends one-third of his lifetime asleep and yet fears to die.

But the mystery of sleep is its perverseness. Shakespeare has a careworn king declaim that slumber comes to the lad atop the giddy mast when to nod even a moment may mean death but avoids the couches of monarchs.

Shakespeare by no means exhausted the possibilities. For example—why is it that I can sit in an un cushioned chair in the reading room of a public library and drop into a doze; or can, after the cold boiled ham and insipid apple pie of a Rotary Club luncheon, find my head grow heavy and suddenly "come to" with the realization that I have been snoozing while the speaker of the day was saving the world—and yet, let me lie down at night on a bed in a hotel room for which I am paying $4 and I have had a hearty dinner, if the man in the next room is talking over the phone and his voice comes dimly through a wall, it keeps me awake?

I can sit bolt upright in a Pullman car seat—which is as unyielding as a law of the Medes and Persians—and, in broad daylight, I can slumber. But when the porter has made down the berth and I am arrayed in pajamas and all is dark, lo! sleep is far away.

But if I am driving at night, I may become so drowsy that I have to thrust my head out the window and so give up and stop at a roadside cafe and drink a cup of black coffee but still have to fight against falling to sleep at the wheel—and then become wide awake until almost dawn.

Why can't I go to sleep? But don't try to tell me; probably I'd be asleep before the explanation was half finished.

Lieu and Mrs. Woodrow Bowden spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Myers and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Bowden. Lieu, Bowden is with the U. S. Army and plans to leave for Germany sometime in the near future. Mrs. Bowden also plans to sail with him.

For my Money COTTON COMES FIRST...

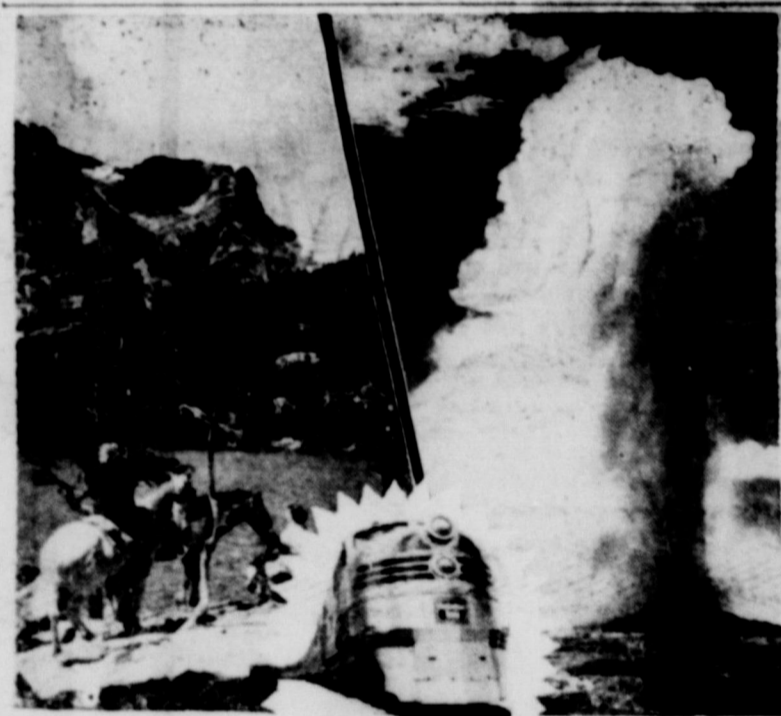

As a farmer, I've found cotton to be my best cash crop . . . it's more suited to my land and climate, therefore it's the most dependable crop.

By practicing rotation and other soil-improvement practices, I get greater yields per acre. By growing enough cotton, my neighbors and I feel assured of an adequate supply of cottonseed meal and cake for our livestock.

I'm planting cotton in '48 because Cotton has, year in and year out, proved it's FIRST in a balanced farm program, and it will pay you to do the same.

Announcing the Addition Of The Superior Chisel Plow
To Our Line of Farm Implements. Available With or without Hydraulic Lift.

Chisel type plowing is comparatively new. It is a separate and distinctive method in itself. It is the only method that fits in exactly with nature's plan to check erosion and permit water to drain into the subsoil. The Superior Chisel Plow, if properly used, will work hand in hand with mother nature in building back your land to fertility and productiveness . . . in keeping your fertile land at maximum productivity. Land plowed on the contour with The Superior Chisel Plow is left with a six inch terrace every twelve inches. The hard part is broken. Water is taken into the subsoil.

Trash is left on the surface to shade the land. Crops receive moisture. The farmer profits. The Superior Chisel Plow, used on the contour, more than doubles the moisture penetration ordinarily achieved by any other type of plow. This plow follows identically the plan that nature so persistently uses. Farmers can (and do) violate nature's own rules of protecting and safeguarding the topsoil. When such violation occurs it is an invitation to water and wind erosion. This means waste and, if continued, can only end in disaster. For your own protection and profit, see The Superior Chisel Plow, today!

Veterans News

Veterans Administration has warned veterans, builders and lenders against the consequences of making or accepting so-called "side payments" in the sale of home properties to veterans with the aid of GI loans.

VA said such side payments—usually made for the purpose of evading the prohibition against sales to veterans in excess of appraised "reasonable value"—are a direct violation of law and subject offenders to possible federal prosecution.

Many cases have been reported in which veterans have been induced to pay the builder or seller an amount over and above the sales price shown on the loan report submitted to VA, and upon which the Government loan guarantee is based.

Veterans who knowingly conspire to evade the law by making such side payments risk loss of their rights under all veterans laws, VA warned.

VA said that any lender who submits a loan to VA for guaranty while possessing knowledge of a side payment in connection with the sale—even though the payment was made to a third party other than the lender—will be suspended from further participation in the GI loan program. Also, any guaranty issued in connection with the transaction will be invalidated.

Continuing its efforts to prevent overpayments of subsistence allowances, Veterans Administration again urges veteran-students and their schools to notify VA as soon as a veteran interrupts or completes his training program.

A veteran-student in training under the GI Bill is not entitled to subsistence allowances after the date he interrupts or completes his training. In some cases, veterans stop their training and receive additional payments before VA is notified of their change in status.

All such payments must be refunded to the government. Advance notice is preferable whenever a veteran decides to discontinue his training. However, prompt notice immediately after a break in training will help to prevent most overpayments.

Questions and Answers

Q. Is it correct that training officers from Veterans Administration have been relieved of all responsibility for the direct supervision of World War II veterans training under the G-I Bill?

A. Yes. The change will permit VA's training officers to devote more time to the needs of disabled veterans training under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act. All state approval agencies, schools and training establishments have been asked to meet fully their obligations under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act (G-I Bill).

Q. How many veterans suffered speech impairment during World War II and what is being done to aid them in overcoming their handicap?

A. Approximately 100,000 World War II veterans suffered speech impairment in service. Special restorative training has been established by VA to help eligible veterans overcome the handicap.

Q. May I name more than one beneficiary to my National Service Life Insurance?

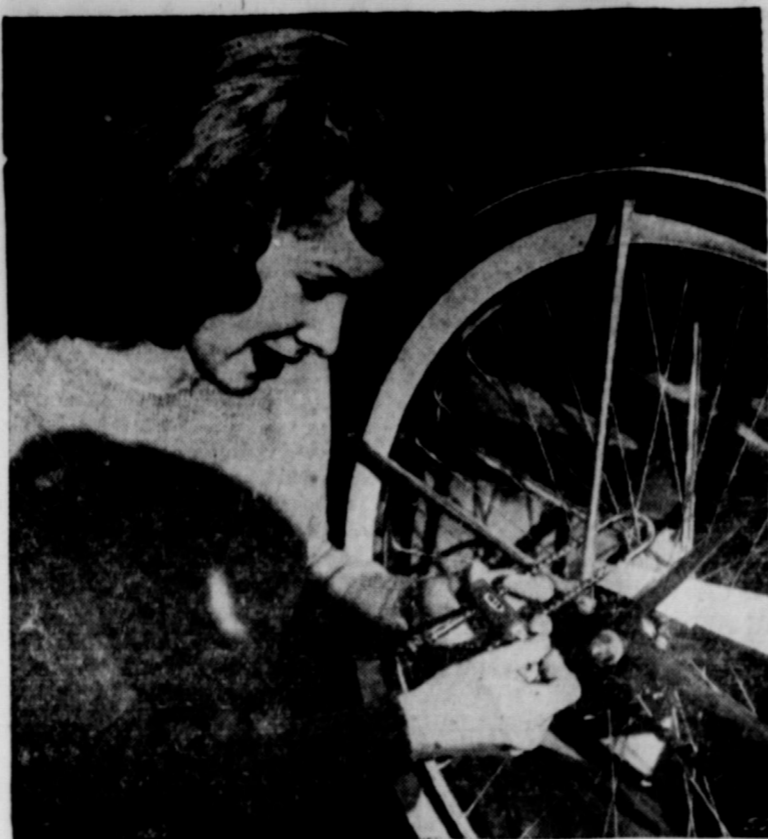

A. Yes. You may divide the amount of your policy between two or more beneficiaries. You may also name one or more contingent beneficiaries.

Q. Can a World War II veteran be denied benefits by Veterans Administration if he has fraudulently obtained subsistence payments under the G-I Bill?

A. In a decision issued recently by Veterans Administration Central Office in Washington, the veteran who fraudulently obtained such subsistence payments would be barred from all rights to compensation, pension, hospitalization, unemployment allowances, education, job-training and other benefits to which veterans are normally entitled.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dingus, Jr. of Freeport spent the first part of this week visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dingus and Merle and Henry Clay.

Ziplock Helps Curb Bicycle Thefts

If you want your bike not only to get you to school but also back again, lock it securely, say the Yale experts. Mary Kay Jones, who plays a fifteen-year-old high school girl in the Broadway hit "Strange Bedfellows" shows how to put that good advice into practice. The bike-wheel can't turn when it is fastened with the new Yale Ziplock. The lock case can be zipped up the notched steel shackle to fit any size needed to safely lock bicycles, duffle bags and camping equipment.

Howard P. Shannon Stars In Track At Kansas College

Manhattan, Kan.—Howard P. Shannon, Munday, is giving the Kansas State College track team a boost just as he did the past season of Big Seven basketball. Placing high in both the broad and high jump in recent dual meets with Kansas University and Missouri University he is being counted upon heavily for team scoring in the Big Seven Conference meet at Lincoln, Nebr., next Saturday.

Shannon, who hit 6 feet, 4 inches in the high jump while at North Texas State Teachers in 1943, took second in this event against both Kansas and Missouri. In the broad jump he took first against Kansas and third against Missouri.

Bothered part of this season by a sprained back, Shannon, is rounding into shape and should be right next weekend. A basketball all-American, he shows great promise on the track field and as in basketball he has a season of eligibility left which should brighten the Wildcat future considerably.

New Dormitory Nears Completion

Abilene—Bricklaying of the $300,000 Gold Star Memorial Dormitory, shown in accompanying picture, will be completed by June 1, according to Dr. Harold G. Cook, president of McMurry College.

The structure, built in memory of Methodist youth from Northwest Texas and New Mexico who died in World War II, will house 176 young men. Between the two dormitories is located the $135,000 Iris Graham Memorial Dining Hall, completed last year.

Work on the interior of the Star dormitory will begin within a few days and should be completed some time before the opening of the fall term next September. It will provide adequate accommodations for men students of the college, Dr. Cooke added.

Mrs. G. R. Eiland and grandson, David Walker, left last Monday for Fort Worth for several days' stay.

Search Made For 4-H Club Girl To Produce Movie

Texas 4-H Club girls have a chance to "get in the movies." A movie, The Green Promise, is being built around the story of a farm family's struggle for success. The cast includes a 12-year old 4-H Club girl.

The producers of The Green Promise have announced a nationwide talent search for a 4-H Club girl to fill this part in the film. Four girls will be selected for screen tests. These four, with their chaperones, will receive an all-expense-paid trip to Hollywood sometime this summer.

Representatives of the producers conferred this week on details of eligibility with J. D. Prewitt, acting director of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, Maurine Hearn, vice director for women and state home demonstration agent, and others. To be eligible, a Texas girl must be under 13 years old on July 1, 1948, have been a 4-H Club member for two years or more and be active in 4-H work at the present time.

Entry blanks and full details of the plan have been sent to county home demonstration agents. Selection of the four finalists will be made on the basis of photographs.

The Green Promise is sponsored by Glenn McCarthy, Houston businessman, with Robert Paige and Monty Collins as co-producers.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Thingpen of Santa Anna spent the latter part of last week and the week end with Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thingpen, Durwood and Joyce. Durwood and Joyce returned with them for an extended visit.

Good wiring and lighting in out-buildings contribute to safety and efficiency in doing chores after dark.

The over-wintering boll weevil population in Texas is small, report Texas extension entomologists, but rainy weather during the next two months could increase the boll weevils enough for considerable cotton crop damage.

To avoid killing out clover in your yard, apply 2,4-D with a paint brush on the small patches of dandelions, plantains or other broad-leaf weeds not wanted in the yard.

Grasshoppers are beginning to cover fence-rows, ditches, turn-rows and creek banks; knock them out now with sorays, baits or dust before they invade the cultivated crops later on.
