

Kracker Krumb's Odds Hits Salvaged at Random

"Wind changing from southerly direction to the north Monday. Possible thundershowers during the late afternoon Monday."

Waking up by radio alarm Monday morning, as we usually do each morning, we heard words similar to those above on the weather forecast.

Our hopes were buoyed up. Even a possible thundershower forecast was better than what we'd been having each morning.

We kept thinking about the thing all day, as we'd buck that south wind on our rounds, seeking, advertising, news, job printing, etc.—those things that keep a printing plant from going broke.

We'd run into fellows on the street. "What we need most is a good rain," they'd say.

Having heard that on numerous occasions during the past many months, we'd hurry up to agree.

We'd hear how wheat was still holding up good, considering everything; how it kept making good roots; how it wasn't very far down to some moisture; how the cutworms were working, worse in some places than others—but the thing the wheat needed most was a good rain.

Heard a farmer remark he hadn't done anything to that field that was pretty prompt to blow, and he wasn't going to until he had to, or until he got a good rain.

Visiting Saturday with our friend, Gene Carter, of the Baylor County Banner at Seymour, both of us kinda lamenting the noticeable drop in business this year. Finally Gene came up with the opinion there was nothing wrong with their business that a good six-inch rain wouldn't remedy.

And so our thoughts were on rain, precipitation, moisture, wetness, etc., and we couldn't quite get away from that weather forecast Monday morning.

Our hopes began to wane somewhat as the day wore on. After all, the fellow said possible, or probable, showers.

Paid a necessary, but not very pleasant, visit to the dentist during the afternoon.

Sitting in the dental chair, we tried to get our mind off the idea of giving up our trusty choppers that had become not so trusty any more.

We sat facing the window, so we scanned the scattering clouds and wondered if that forecast was going the way of all other "possible shower" forecasts.

As we retired about 9:15 p. m., our hope for rain was gone, and our left lower jaw was hurting. We decided to go ahead and suffer the loss of our teeth and the drouth together.

But the rain started before getting up time. When time came to begin the day's activities, we looked out the window and saw more water than we'd seen in many months.

Met a smiling Dr. Newsom at the post office, and he said his gauge registered 1.38 inches. More rain fell during Tuesday morning.

People said "good morning" with more zip. They were smiling and happy, and said what we needed now was more of the same.

And, you know, our old jaw wasn't nearly as sore as we thought it was going to be!

Local Lions Club Is Formed Thursday At Meeting; McClellan Heads Group

Last Thursday evening, a large group of local citizens met at the elementary school building for the purpose of forming a local Lions Club. This was the second such meeting, inclement weather keeping the group at home on the first attempt to organize.

Action was started with Winston Blacklock, presiding and when the smoke had cleared away, Dr. E. O. McClellan had been elected president and W. C. Nance secretary of the club. Other officers were not announced this week.

Lions International is the largest service club in the world, having more than 10,000 clubs and 475,000 members in the

Rain Is Confined To Limited Area

The welcome mat was in plain sight when those raindrops began falling in Knox County early Tuesday morning. Only thing, the rain didn't fall everywhere it would have been welcomed.

According to reports of the area, the rain apparently was confined to a comparative north and south strip through Knox, Haskell and Jones counties. Reports of moisture ranged from .03 in the Roby-Rotan area to 1.60 at Weinert, which was the heaviest reported to daily papers.

At Munday, the welcomed drops began falling before daybreak, and by eight o'clock Tuesday morning rain gauges registered 1.37 and 1.38 inches. Another heavy shower came about mid-morning, with a slow drizzle continuing through the day. H. P. Hill, local U. S. weather observer, reported a total of 1.43 inches for the day.

To the west of town, at the R. M. and R. L. Myers farms, about a half inch fell. It was reported lighter at Benjamin, to the east and southeast of Munday, with Munday apparently being in the heaviest of the welcomed moisture.

It was welcomed by everyone with a wheat crop in the making, as the moisture will continue to hold wheat up and keep it growing for a while longer.

Oxygen Equipment Is Added To Mahan Ambulance Service

The Mahan Funeral Home announced last Friday the recent installation of oxygen equipment in their Munday ambulance.

"In installing this service," Mr. Mahan said, "we are filling a need that has arisen a number of times because of long-distance ambulance trips and the necessity of ministering oxygen enroute."

"In the past we have had to impose on doctors for this equipment when such cases have arisen. Now we will have oxygen available at all times, and we feel the addition of this equipment will enable us to continue every type of ambulance service possible."

The Munday Implement Company is offering different pieces of equipment to the public on a rental basis. Some of the implements are land levellers, post hole diggers, blades, tractors, listers, one-ways and cultivators.

The owner, Winston Blacklock, stated that the short crop in 1952 prohibited some customers from buying some of the implements they needed and maybe they could still be able to do their job by leasing.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

MADERA, CALIF., NEWS-TRIBUNE: "There have been several reports, reprinted in many newspapers that the United States has succeeded in exploding the first hydrogen bomb. These reports came from service personnel who were described as eye-witnesses to the explosion. No American newspaper wishes to undermine this country by publishing material which might endanger its safety. But it is not wise to prohibit coverage of one of the world's most important news events by trained newspapermen and at the same time permit accounts of what happened to be made public by service personnel."

CUEDO, TEXAS, RECORD: "It makes sense to have strong security measures in operation where military secrets or secrets concerning foreign policy are involved. . . . But there are many government departments whose work is only vaguely connected with the defense effort and the heads of these departments now have the same right to withhold information as is held by military agencies. Freedom of the press is a well established part of American rights. Free access to information about the work of government is different, but almost as important."

A "TOP EXPERIENCE"

The Boy Scouts of America, now observing its 43rd birthday during Boy Scout Week, Feb. 7th to 13th, is planning its Third National Jamboree for this summer as part of its Three Year Program known as "Forward on Liberty's Team."

It will be a "once-in-a-lifetime" experience for 50,000 Boy Scouts, Explorers, and Scout Leaders of all races and creeds who will live in a democratic tent city that will rise on a real western ranch near the Pacific Ocean.

The owners of the Irvin Ranch in the Newport Harbor area in southern California about forty miles southeast of Los Angeles have loaned a 3,000-acre site to the Boy Scouts of America. Here will spring up, literally overnight, a city of 30,000 tents with its own electricity, water supply, sanitation, telephone system, food supply, doctors, fire protection, in fact all essentials found in a community of this size.

Boys from all walks of life, of all races and creeds will live together, including about 200 Scouts from other countries around the world. Here in the youthful city they will exchange skills, home-town products and learn about the customs and traditions of many sections of the nation.

There will be pageants and ceremonies, campfires and music, demonstrations of campercraft and Scoutcraft, friendship-making and the opportunity of meeting some of America's outstanding citizens.

Dr. Arthur A. Shuck, Chief Scout Executive, sees the Jamboree as a "top experience in the life of a boy" and we hope our area will be well represented. Any Scout or Explorer who wants to attend will undoubtedly use all of his Scout ingenuity to make the trip possible.

CHEMICAL MIRACLES

An article in Manufacturers Record describes the potentialities of making chemicals by the hydrogenation of coal. It observes that there is no want of the raw material—for the Southern states alone contain about five times as much "definitely mineable" soft coal as the entire nation has used in the past 200 years.

In the hydrogenation process, which was experimented with in Europe almost a century ago, raw coal is pulverized and combined with hydrogen under extreme pressures. Some of the derivatives are nylon, industrial solvents, dyes, inks, explosives, insecticides and wood preservatives, to list but a few. And, Manufacturers Record says, the production of chemicals from soft coal may grow "at a rate considered astounding even in this land of industrial magic."

Our abundance of coal is one of the nation's most important material assets. But coal underground in its raw state is of no service to anyone. There must be a progressive industry to dig it, process it, grade it, and see that it reaches the consumer when and where it is wanted. And there must be an industry that, through research, is constantly seeking new and better ways to employ coal, and to enhance its value to the country.

THE SECOND FIFTY YEARS

"Fifty years of service to the motorist and the nation" came to an auspicious end when the American Automobile Association held its Golden Jubilee convention in Washington late in September. How motoring times have changed! When the AAA held its first convention, way back in 1902, the total national automobile population was 23,000—compared with 42,000,000 private passenger cars today.

The AAA has undergone somewhat of a change itself. Its first convention was attended by the representatives of nine small automobile clubs, while at its fiftieth convention more than 1,000 delegates spoke for 3,600,000 organized motorists in 750 affiliated clubs and branches. In stature and prestige, the AAA, between its first and fiftieth conventions, has risen from an upstart to a great national institution.

There is, however, one sense in which the AAA has not changed. Its reason for being continues to be a dedication to represent the man behind the wheel. Thus, while we cannot foresee the shape of motoring things to come, it is safe to predict that the next fifty years will see the American Automobile Association continuing to render a significant service to the motorist and the nation.

VALUE OF GRASSLAND FARMING

If you were going to put a price on Texas' tremendous acreage of grassland, how would you determine its value? It would be impossible—for our grass is a priceless commodity.

Without improved grasslands, this nation would have a less total amount of food. Our diets would include less milk, butter, cheese and meat. Our overall production of all farm commodities would experience an alarming drop.

The term "grassland farming" is not a new one, but it is a fact or often neglected when compiling statistics on the agricultural wealth of Texas. This state has more than 100 million acres of grass, forest and pastureland and much of it is unimproved. The farmer who is a good manager can double or triple production on hundreds of thousands of these acres through liming, fertilizing and reseeding with more productive grasses and legumes.

These improved grasslands can be invaluable when made a part of the crop rotation system. Tests show that land planted to legumes and grasses for a year help assure a longer period of maximum production on cultivated crops. No schemes have yet been devised for agriculture that will maintain organic matter better than plans based on adequate proportions of grasses in crop rotations.

Experiments have shown that on much land, improved forage crops produce as much livestock feed per acre, at lower cost and with less labor, than corn and other feed grains. In North Carolina, for example, on land capable of producing 50 bushels of corn per acre, improved pastures produced the feed equivalent of 30 bushels of corn. Oats and barley yielded the feed equivalent of 24 bushels of corn.

Even more conclusive evidence of the worth of grassland crops is the fact that returns per man hour of labor were calculated at $23.09 from improved pastures, as compared with only $5.81 from wheat, $3.69 from corn and $2.79 from oats. Studies in the middlewestern states have shown similar results.

RADIO SERVICE

Cape Willingham, in 1878, was working for the JA Ranch, operated in the Palo Duro country by Charles Goodnight and Lord Adair of Ireland. The spring roundup was on and one day Goodnight, who was out on the range with a crew of men, sent Willingham to the home ranch headquarters to get the mail.

Cape arrived just at dinner-time, to find Mrs. Goodnight and Lord and Lady Adair seated at the table. Mrs. Goodnight went to the cupboard and brought forth a plate, knife and fork, they asked the young cowboy to be seated and join in the meal, which he did.

The Adairs stopped eating. They told Mrs. Goodnight they were not in the habit of eating with servants, to which Mrs. Goodnight replied that she and her husband considered their cowboys good enough to be at any table and in any company. But the Adairs couldn't see it that way and they finished their meal at another table.

Naturally Cape, when he rode away for camp, was mad all over. Here he was—a cowboy who could ride anything on four legs—being snubbed by nobility. Well, he would see about that—sometime.

The roundup went on for several weeks, and when the steers were collected and ready to be driven to Dodge City, Lord Adair came out to the range camp to watch the start of the drive—and while he was there a cold rain set in, one that lasted for two days and nights. The cowboys, when they slept, bedded down, of course, around and under the chuck wagon—but not so Lord Adair. He was occupying a tent some distance from the wagon—and the rumor in the camp was that he slept in silk underwear.

Anyhow, after the camp had retire done night—with the rain coming down in sheets—the cattle became restless and Cape Willingham, who was on night guard, rode in to the wagon to wake the second guard. After he had aroused the boys and was starting back with them toward the herd, Cape's eyes took in the shadow of Lord Adair's tent, and that gave him an idea. Taking up his rope, he made a loop, threw it over the top of the tent, touched spurs to his pony and—before you could say "Jack Robinson"—the tent was snatched from over the sleeping lord, who came out of his slumber yelling. Cape drew in his rope, unfastened the loop, and rode on to the herd, leaving the tent lying on the prairie.

Meantime, Lord Adair—standing in the cold rain clad only in his scanty nightie—continued to yell so loudly that Charles Goodnight crawled out from his tarp to see what the commotion was all about. Goodnight made inquiries among the men and learned that Willingham was the guilty tent wrecker, and he knew that something had to be done to appease the dampened ranch owner.

So Goodnight called Cape in, fired him, and handed him the wages he had coming—along with a lecture for Adair's benefit. But just before Cape rode away toward Tascosa, Goodnight managed to get him aside and secretly inform him that his wages would go on while he was taking a few weeks' vacation in town, and that he could come back to the ranch after Adair's departure for England, which was scheduled for the near future.

Adair died in England, but his widow returned to the ranch and remained there for many years as the ruling Cow Queen of that portion of the Panhandle. And say those who knew her well—she was loved and respected by all—and there was no cowboy

Corn Meal and Molasses Offer Valentine Treat

The versatile corn meal that kept America's colonists alive during their first winter in this country makes a delightful Valentine treat when combined with molasses, or sorghum, cinnamon, ginger and milk to make an Indian Pudding. Topped with vanilla ice cream, it is an attractive and healthful dessert, especially for the youngsters.

Indian Pudding is almost as old as America, itself, for it was another use of corn meal developed by the early settlers. Even early-day recipes specified milk as the liquid, and the addition of an egg to increase the healthful qualities of this dessert.

The ice cream, of course, is a more modern touch, but it is an outgrowth of the earlier practice of serving Indian Pudding with cool cream, or a hard sauce, poured over it. This dessert may be served warm or cold, no matter what topping is used.

Men like Indian Pudding with a big scoop of vanilla ice cream. Children will regard it as a special Valentine's Day treat if the ice cream is first shaped in a heart mold.

½ teaspoon cinnamon (optional)
½ teaspoon ginger (optional)
1 cup cold milk

Add corn meal slowly to scalding milk, stirring constantly. Heat to boiling and boil until thickened, about 10 minutes. Add butter and mix. Combine remaining ingredients except cold milk and mix with corn meal mixture. Pour into a well-buttered 1½-quart casserole and bake ½ hour in slow oven, 300° F. Add the cold milk, stir, and continue baking for 2 hours. Serve warm or cold with ice cream, cream, or hard sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

Shepperd Named On Tideland Group

AUSTIN (Spl.)—Appointment of Texas Attorney General John Ben Shepperd as a member of the committee on Submerged Lands of the National Association of Attorneys General was announced this week.

Shepperd will leave February 13 for Washington to attend meetings of the executive committee of the association. The committee on submerged lands will meet February 15.

Congressional hearings on submerged land bills will begin the following week, and committee members will testify at these hearings.

Shepperd said that he hopes to assist the Texas delegation in securing a bill giving Texas fair treatment.

Shepperd's associates asked him to take his East Texas rabbit's foot with him to Washington, since he has won two major cases in the last week.

During the past week the two outstanding victories for the School Fund of Texas were the Texas Company case in Corpus Christi and the Gas Gathering tax case in Austin.

If the decisions of the courts are upheld, the School Fund will immediately receive a million dollars from the Texas Company case, and over $3 million dollars from the Gas Gathering tax case.

Weinert School To Hold Classes On Two Saturdays

Weinert schools will observe a full schedule of classwork on Saturday, Feb. 14, and again on Saturday, March 7. Supt. Connor Horton has announced.

By making up the two days, the school can still observe the scheduled Easter holidays set for April 3 through April 6, he said.

James Boger of Boger visited relatives and friends here over the week end.

H. T. Cunningham visited his mother in Henrietta last Saturday.

Goree Tractor School Completed

The final lessons of the first year's Tractor Maintenance School in the Goree School for 4-H and FFA members was completed on January 13th, and demonstrations books are now being checked to determine winners. Approximately 75 boys took part in the school which was under the direction of Wesley Wright, Goree 4-H member, and assisted by Lawrence Haberman, VA Instructor of Goree, and W. C. Pallmeyer, Knox County Agent.

Members were given an active part in the demonstrations, and plans are for presenting the 2nd year's course during the 1953-54 school year. Information presented during the last year's course should provide for safer tractor operation, and longer life of tractors through the lessons given by the different demonstrations.

To complete the two years' work, an operators' contest will be held in April to select the county representative in the district contest. The operators' contest will consist of a quiz on maintenance and safety in addition to operation of the tractor which will include backing the tractor with a trailer to simulate actual operations.

Fifty Years Of Extension Work Gets Resolution From A. and M. System

Significant developments in the 50 year history of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service were pointed out in a resolution recently passed by the Board of Directors of the Texas A. & M. College System.

The resolution states: "It has come to the attention of the Board that 1953 will mark the 50th anniversary of one of the great parts of the Texas A. & M. College System. The Agricultural Extension Service had its beginning in February of 1903 when Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, representing the United States Department of Agriculture, established the first farm demonstration in the nation on the farm of Mr. Walter Porter near Terrell in Kaufman County. This successful demonstration, which proved cotton could be grown profitably despite the boll weevil, became the foundation for the development of Extension work throughout the nation.

"In 1904, Farmer's Cooperative Demonstration Work was organized in the Bureau of Plant Industry, USDA, with Dr. Knapp in charge and with headquarters in Houston.

"The first county agricultural agent to work exclusively in one county was appointed in November 1906. He was Mr. W. C. Stallings and the appointment was made in Smith County.

"The Board," states the resolution, "especially takes note of another important early date, Jack County Agricultural Agent Tom Marks, in 1908 organized the first boys' corn club in Texas. This was the beginning to the youth phase of Extension—the 4-H clubs.

"The Texas Legislature in 1911 passed the first law authorizing county commissioners' courts to appropriate money for agents' salaries. Work also started that year with the Negro farm families of the state.

"Texas A. & M. College became a part of the rapidly expanding demonstration work program in 1912 when a cooperative agreement was signed with USDA. Mr. C. M. Evans, now of Dallas, was named on March 16, 1912, superintendent of the Extension Division, A. & M. College. The first county home demonstration agent, Mrs. Edna W. Trigg, was appointed that same year in Milam County."

In 1914 the Federal Congress passed the Smith-Lever Bill which officially set up the Agricultural Extension Service on a national basis and made it a part of the Land-Grant College System—other parts of this system are the resident teaching and experiment stations.

Continuing, the resolution states, "The Board extends its congratulations to all, past and present, who have contributed to the advancement of the Extension Service and to their efforts in raising the standards of living in rural Texas. Better livestock, crops, cultural methods, increased production, home life, insect control, 4-H club work,

I fondly hope that no starry-eyed bride takes it amiss when I mention that life after Lohengrin is all sweet music. In the course of your housekeeping career you can be sure as shopping you'll acquire a list of pet peeves that might have you singing the blues! Take the problem that threatened to send me shrieking into a straight jacket . . . the moisture drip in our otherwise well-behaved bathroom. That's a situation that might not occur to a lass about to sally down the aisle but tanks do have a way of dripping on and on until a good many irritating moments are spent mopping up those annoying puddles. And it's not only the muck and fuss; it's the resulting tile rust, floor rot, and mildew that complicate the picture.

If I sound grim it will serve to highlight the fact that I felt like Christopher Columbus when I discovered a way to end destructive moisture drip once and for all! It's so simple when you know the answer: a Veri-Neet Tank Tray! The attachment is inconspicuous, made to match the tank in a white enamel finish over long-wearing rustproof aluminum. Even for someone like this all-thumbs mechanic installation is merely a matter of seconds without tools and adjustable grips hold the tray securely in place on the underside of the tank. The same grips make it possible to merely slip out the tray for easy cleaning. To make certain that the worry-free attachment will be available to everyone, the manufacturer has made the tray in two models to fit most tanks. All in all, Veri-Neet is the one sure, easy, sanitary and economical way to get moisture drip off your peeve partner.

It could be that other headaches for the housewife are as simple to cure; I'll keep on the hunt and let you know!

soil and water conservation, soil improvement and training rural leaders to assume responsibilities in their home communities, county, state and nation are but a few of the outstanding achievements.

"Through two World Wars, depressions, floods and droughts, the teachings of Extension workers have been used by rural Texans in solving their problems. Through the demonstration, these workers have shown the practical application of research on the farms, ranches and in the home of the state. The complex problems of modern living and agriculture have increased the usefulness of the Service and at the same time challenges its workers to even greater achievements in the future," concludes the resolution.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Just a Little "Outdated"

Back in December we sent out our yearly calendar. It listed the last date for renewing drivers' licenses, and things like the dates for registering to vote, when the hunting and fishing seasons open—even suggested you note down the wife's birthday, too.

I figured dates like these were important to keep in mind—and this was a good way to do it. Unfortunately, it now turns out I never really paid close attention to my own calendar!

Not 'til today that is—so here I am not able to drive the car this weekend until I get my driver's license renewed on Monday!

From where I sit, I guess good advice, like charity, should begin at home. I'm always advising all of you to worry less about your neighbors (what they do, or say, and whether or not they should enjoy a temperate glass of beer) and pay more attention to whether you yourself are doing the right thing. Guess I'll "make a note" to follow my own formula!

Leatherwood Wainscot

THE wainscot of a child's room is subjected to hard wear and tear. If it's papered, this lower wall area soon has a sorry appearance and must be replaced.

By surfacing this space with a tough, durable panel, the youngster and his playmates may play at ease, and there is no problem of a marred wall. Often used for a wainscot in nurseries and recreation rooms is Masonite Leatherwood, which is selected for its long life and nice appearance.

This hardboard panel has an embossed surface that looks like Spanish grain leather. It is extremely tough and highly resistant to abrasion and moisture. It may be beautifully painted in a solid color or in two tones.

Leatherwood, which may be obtained from lumber dealers, comes in widths of four feet. As it is only one-eighth inch thick, it may be applied directly over the existing wall.

Dorris Tuggle, who is employed in Fort Worth, spent the week end with his wife and son here.

Area Agents And Farmers Are Given Information On Fertilizer

BENJAMIN, Tex., Feb. 4—County agents, framers and those interested in the use of fertilizers and use of supplemental pastures was presented by specialists of the Texas Extension Service at a meeting in the Benjamin courthouse on February 3rd. Program was under the supervision of J. A. Scofield, District Agent from Vernon.

M. K. Thornton, Agricultural Chemist, stressed the value of soil tests by presenting that each farm must be considered as an entirely different problem, as soils differ from one field to another, and what is good for one, may not be needed for another. This was pointed out by the fact that even though this area is generally high in lime, some soils tests show that a particular farm is short in lime. Thornton stated that he is hesitant to recommend the use of lime in this area because of the limited rainfall.

In general, Thornton stated, that the Rolling Plains area is high in lime, high in potash, medium in nitrogen, low in phosphorus and low in organic matter. It is also pointed out that legume crops in this area could not always be counted on because of low rainfall, therefore, the use of commercial fertilizers seemed to be the best method at present in adding elements to the soil necessary for proper plant growth. All farmers were urged to have their soil tested, and contact the local County Agent for bulletins on the use of fertilizers. Slides were presented showing the amount of the different elements that crops took from the soil, and for continued high production, these elements must be replaced, and the use of fertilizers and legumes was the best method of maintaining fertility.

The second session of the meeting was devoted to the use of supplemental pastures, and this was explained by Ted Trew, Extension Agronomist. Trew pointed out that the return per acre was greater from supplemental pastures than permanent range land. Legumes and grasses that were suggested for supplemental pastures were alfalfa, clovers, vetch, KR bluestem, blue panic, sudan and the love-grasses. Not only would these grasses give good grazing during times needed, but would improve the soil and have a definite place in crop rotation. In closing, Trew pointed out that grasses and legumes recommended for this area should be planted, while if others were used, only small acreages for test plots should be planted for obvious economic reasons.

SPACE CHAMBER

Young Bobby Hornyak inspects a new type of space chamber, but not one projected for flights into the ether. This is a working model of a cylinder in the famous Hemispherical Combustion Chamber Engine of the 1953 Chrysler. A feature of Chrysler Corporation's touring "New Worlds in Engineering" show, this model demonstrates how the greater air intake in the Chrysler FirePower V-8 Engine makes engine "Breathing" easier and thus provides more economical power. With six-year-old Bobby, is Jack Gleason, of Memphis, Tennessee. The engineering exhibit is scheduled for appearances in Indianapolis, New Orleans and Miami in the next three months.

Pointers On Developing Irrigation Given By Texas A. and M. Specialist

Texas agricultural producers know the value of water and what a lack of it can mean to a maturing crop or to a pasture. The present drought has greatly increased interest in irrigation—to make up this lack—even in sections of the state where little or no irrigation has been previously used.

For the agricultural producer who may be thinking about an irrigation system, R. V. Thurmond, an irrigation specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says farmers should give consideration to many factors before making a final decision. The water supply, he says, may come from streams, lakes, ponds or wells provided of course there is plenty when needed most. He points out that a supply equal to at least five gallons per minute or storage capacity of from one to three acre feet per acre will be needed to irrigate most crops.

There are problems connected with the use of water regardless of its source and a big one, according to Thurmond, is its quality. A chemical analysis will show whether or not the supply is suitable for crop production and he recommends that such a test be made. He adds the state chemist, for a nominal fee, can make these determinations. If water is taken from a stream, river or lake, a permit of use should be obtained from the Texas Board of Water Engineers. Percolating ground water pumped from wells may be used at the discretion of the owner.

The topography of the field to be irrigated will determine whether surface methods or a sprinkler system should be used. Soils best adapted to irrigation have sufficient depth for storage of water; texture and structure that readily permit water to enter; good surface and subsoil drainage and with sufficient fertility to produce good yields.

To be profitable, says Thurmond, irrigation must result in increased yields sufficient to more than pay the costs involved. These costs include additional equipment, land preparation, expense of operating the equipment and additional labor. A plentiful supply of water for irrigation, if properly used, can mean increased yields and may also make possible the successful growing in an area of higher priced crops which could not otherwise be produced without supplemental water.

Farmers interested in an irrigation system for their farm are advised by Thurmond to consult with their local county agent. He can furnish information on irrigation in the area.

Census Records Are Substituted For Birth Certificates

Persons lacking birth certificates or other legal evidence of citizenship, age or family relationships can obtain transcripts of their personal census records which are, in most instances, acceptable substitutes, according to District Supervisor James M. Hamilton of the U. S. Census Bureau.

More than 100,000 Americans turned to the Census Bureau for such evidence in 1952. They need proof of identity or age for Government and defense jobs, Social Security, passports, the Armed Services, and in connection with insurance and estate cases.

Supervisor Hamilton pointed out that personal information recorded by the Census Bureau is entirely confidential and may be furnished only upon written request of the individual to whom it relates or his legal representatives. The normal fee is $3.00 for searches of two censuses for one individual each regular citation being handled in regular turn which generally requires 30 days to complete service. Expedited handling is furnished for a $4.00 fee.

Application blanks and instructions may be obtained from the Census Bureau's District Office at 925 T & P Bld., Fort Worth, Texas, or by writing to the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sloan of Midland spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Mitchell. Their daughter, Sandra, returned home with them after spending last week with her grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Stubblefield took their son, Kenneth, to Abilene last Monday where he enlisted in the Air Corps. He will receive his call to report for duty later this month.

Mr. and Mrs. John Porter and children of Dallas visited relatives and friends here over the week end.

FORT WORTH—Slaughter steers and yearlings opened the week at Fort Worth with around 50 cents higher prices, making advances above the low time of the previous week fully $1 to $2. Cows sold 50 cents higher, or $1 above a week earlier. Calves and stocker and feeder classes revealed similar strength and some to better advantage. Bulls gained 50 cents.

Slaughter sheep and lambs ruled fully steady, lambs holding to the substantial advances of a week ago. Feeders also drew firm prices. Hog shipments were resumed following a week end shutdown caused by a suspected case of VE appearing on the yards. The suspected vesicular exanthema hogs were destroyed and yards cleaned and disinfected. Demand for good hogs has been strong.

A feeling persisted around the Fort Worth stockyards that more orderly marketing of fed cattle and less bunching of shipments would be seen in the coming weeks and this should strengthen the markets on those classes.

Good and choice fed steers and yearlings cashed at $18 to $23.50 in most sales, just a few above that range. Common and medium slaughter kinds sold for $13 to $18, a few shelly kinds lower. Beef cows drew $13.50 to $16.00 and canners and cutters sold for $10 to $13.50. Bulls cashed at $10 to $17.50.

What every girl should know about COOKING . . .

It's so easy to bake, roast or broil with an Electric Range . . . no flame, less shrinkage of roasts, cleaner cooking, and a cleaner kitchen.

You can plug in the coffee-maker the night before, set the automatic clock timer, and coffee's ready when you get up in the morning — you can plug in the toaster or other appliances, too.

The deep-well cooker has many uses, not only for meals — but many other things — to make large quantities of coffee or cocoa at party time, to sterilize baby's bottles — and even to pop corn!

DID YOU KNOW
 with an Electric Range
 you can:

Keep foods warm for long periods on low, gentle heat of surface units . . . prepare jams and preserves under broiler unit . . . use controlled, measured heat to cook frozen vegetables and fish without water, in aluminum foil on surface units . . . "prove" yeast dough in warming oven . . . freshen rolls by wrapping in aluminum foil and placing on surface unit on low heat for a few minutes?

"Yes, Judy, an Electric Range takes the guess work out of cooking and practically does the job itself. You can call it 'cooking without looking' because you put a meal in the oven, set the automatic controls, and forget it while you're doing something else.

"Another thing I like is the way you can cook on the surface units. Set the switch for the heat you want and you get it.

"Cook cheaper cuts of meat in the deep-well cooker, and you get delicious meals. Cakes and pies come out right every time. Broiling's a delight. You cook vegetables with so little water they retain both their flavor and their healthful vitamins."

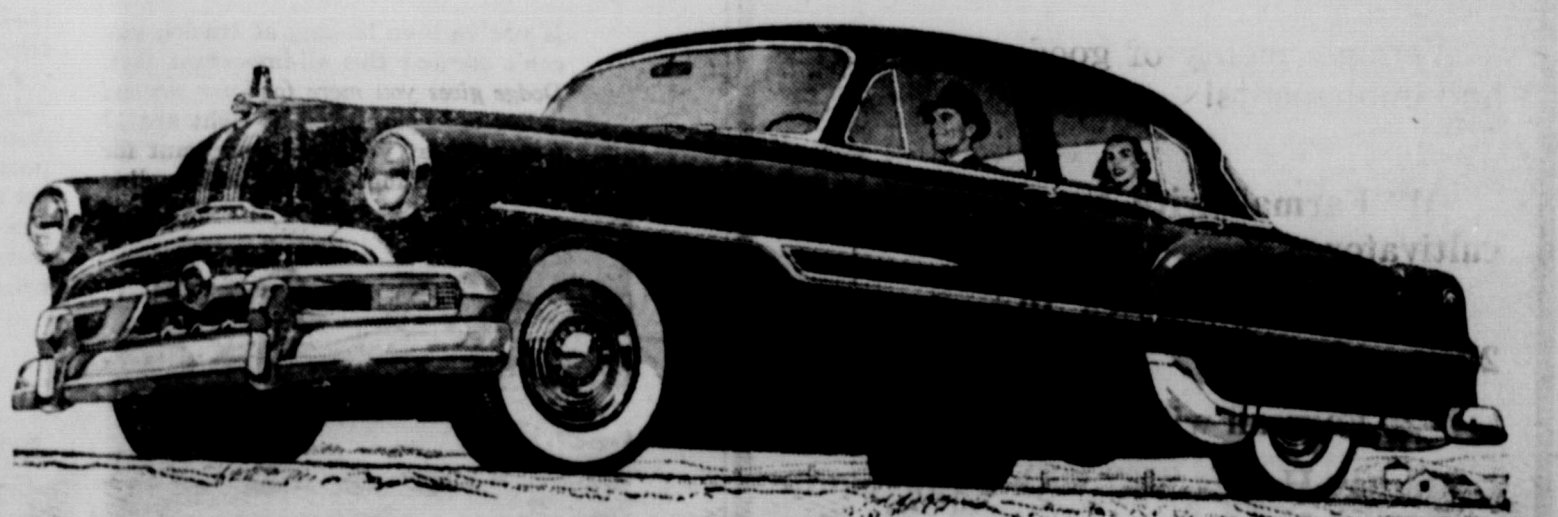

"You're sort of fond of your Electric Range, Mom — and I understand why!"

Knox Prairie Philosopher Can't Understand Why The People Need Any More Laws, Says He Sure Has Plenty

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek has a novel idea this week, but we doubt if he has a full understanding of his problem.

Dear editor:
As everybody in Texas knows, the state legislature is now in session and I have been keeping up a little with activities in Austin and as far as I can tell things are movin' along about the normal rate, all members made up their minds fast and voted unanimously the first day to appropriate money to pay their expenses, and while they may not be quite so harmonious on later topics, things still seem to be under control.

But I was readin' in a paper last night where already over 120 bills have been introduced, with more to come.

What I want to know is: isn't law-makin' subject to the same laws of supply and demand that cattle are? Where does the demand for so many new laws come from? Where's the fellow who hasn't got enough laws?

As far as I can tell, I've personally got all the laws I need, and I can think of lots of people who have more than they need. I've got respect for law, all right and I also like pecan pie, but it can be overdone.

Readin' about so many new laws being proposed, I sat down and tried to think of a new law I could use, and I'll have to admit I can't think of a single one. Just not in the market for any more. Everything is going along all right out here at my place, can't tell people are any better or any worse than they were ten years ago when we had maybe 150 fewer laws than we got now.

I don't suppose they'll follow my suggestion, but I've been speculatin' on what would happen if the Legislator just declined to pass any new laws this session, if they just met, talked, reflected on things, deplored the encroachment of government, reaffirmed their faith in democracy, appropriated whatever money they had on hand or comin' in, and held off any new laws for the next two years. Personally, I don't believe the conduct of this community would be affected either way. Anybody bent on breakin' a law would still have plenty to break, and those sort of law-abidin' by nature would keep on bein' that way.

If you think this suggestion has any merit, you can think over, as this is as far as I ever go. Thinkin' is a big enough effort without havin' to follow it up with action.

Your faithfully,
J. A.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—"Trichinosis is a disease caused by eating raw or partly cooked pork which contains the trichina worm. This disease as a rule causes several deaths and an undetermined amount of illness in Texas each year," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Definite symptoms and signs of illness are associated with trichinosis. In the beginning there are abdominal pains, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea, lasting about a week. Migration of the embryos in the blood stream causes fever and severe muscle soreness, especially in the diaphragm and the muscles of the arms and legs. The third stage, during which cysts surround the larvae in the muscles, is the critical one. If infection is severe, there may be edema, or swelling of the eyelid and elsewhere, marked loss of weight, weakness and delirium.

The prevention of trichinosis depends primarily upon the thorough cooking of all pork. Most cases follow the indigestion of weiners, sausage or other pork products, eaten in raw or partly cooked form. The hazard of this disease is greater in connection with home butchering, unless safeguards are exercised. Rats should be exterminated because they play an important part in the spread of infection among swine. Prolonged refrigeration, as carried out under federal supervision, destroys trichina larvae. Thorough cooking and the use of meat which bears the stamp of federal inspection are safeguards against trichinosis.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Montgomery spent last Thursday and Friday here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Clough.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Henlee visited friends in Fort Worth over the week end.

Cotton Improvement Meeting Is Held At Munday, Plans Tri-County Group

Approximately 36 cotton farmers and ginners from Knox, Baylor and Haskell counties met at Munday School on January 30 to complete plans for the Tri-County Cotton Improvement Association and hear talks by John Saunders, Extension Cotton Specialist, Washington, D. C., and Fred Elliott, Cotton Specialist from College Station. The meeting was under the supervision of Roy Saunders of Munday, employee of Anderson, Clayton Company, who has been leading the work in the cotton variety tests and cotton improvement work in the three counties.

Roy Saunders presented the program as to be for the purpose of increasing cotton production, improving quality, and lowering the cost of seed. Plans were made for operation of the organization which will be on a voluntary agreement of farmers who will produce the seed, and for ginners to keep the seed pure. Committees have been set up in practically all gin communities of the three counties, and these committees will select the farmer to multiply the seed, and it will be the responsibility of the ginner to gin the seed pure. About 300 bushels of breeders seed have been obtained, and the second multiplication should provide enough seed for all in the three counties that wish to join the program. Seed will be handled by the Munday Oil Mill, and will be made available to co-operators at cost. The oil mill will handle the delinting and treatment of seed, and provide storage. Variety selected by the committee, as the results of the variety tests carried on in the three counties was Deltapine 15.

John Saunders, Extension Service of Washington, D. C., added the following thoughts to the meeting. Names of strains of cotton remain the same, but improvements were being made at all times, therefore one should secure breeders seed often, so as to have advantage of improvements. Saunders also pointed out that seed stocks should be maintained because the growers would be sure of the type of seed they were getting, and would know that seed would be available for planting and replanting if necessary. A good seed organization should also provide seed at a lower cost for members, and in closing he pointed out that by carrying on variety tests there would be no doubts as to the performance of cotton varieties in this locality. Saunders pointed out that results of the three county tests were the same as experiment stations all over the cotton belt, and that the number of tests planned in the three counties were equivalent of the number carried on by all experiment stations in the state. It was also brought to the attention of the group, that an organization of this type could try any strains of cotton that looked promising and when a better was found, the organization could quickly switch to the new type, thus making money for the members. Fred Elliott, Cotton Specialist of the Texas Extension Service, also added a few tips for cheaper cotton production. The main topic of Elliott's speech was the use of chemicals to reduce the cost of cotton production. He pointed out that all seed should be treated, so as to help produce a young healthy plant that will give quick growth and reduce the chances of cotton diseases. Elliott also spoke on the use of oils for weed control, and according to present experiments, the use of oils to control weeds is more economical than manual control. Slides were also shown on the use of different mechanical equipment for insect control and harvesting of the crop. (For information on chemical weed control, contact your County Agent.)

A summary of the meeting would show that the cotton improvement association will be composed of voluntary workers only, and the only way they will be recruited will be upon the success of the program. Variety tests will be carried on by the 4-H and FFA chapters of the three counties, and strains of cotton that the farmers select will be tested. Tests will also be conducted for thick and thin spacing of plants. In addition, sample sacks of Deltapine 15 will be provided for those who wish to compare the cotton with another that they are growing. This organization will also make arrangements for insect control meetings, and to help present news of new factors of cotton production for the farmers of the three counties.

Final ginning report for Knox County in 1952 was 11,536 bales. This crop was harvested from approximately 120,000 acres as compared to 30,306 bales ginned in 1951 from an acreage of approximately 145,000. Report compiled by H. A. Sullins, Vera, Texas, Special Agent.

Improved Putty Knife

TO SIMPLIFY and improve the job of putting around a new pane of glass, grind down one corner of the putty knife as shown in the illustration from Family Handyman. The precise angle is not important. Always grind on the rim of a grinding wheel, never against the flat side.

With the cutoff, it becomes simple to rest the new edge against the glass to steady the knife while the other edge flattens the putty. Following the usual method, with the point in the way, it is nearly impossible to make a straight line.

The improved putty knife permits much speedier work, too.

Grind the tool slowly so that the temper will not be removed from the blade by overheating.

12-County P.M.A. Meeting Is Held At Paducah

A subdistrict meeting of the P. M. A. officials was held recently in the county court house at Paducah. A. C. P. official Carlisle of the conservation branch of the Washington office discussed the new administration's policy. Performance of the 1953 agricultural conservation program, principal topic of the gathering, was discussed by Lester Young of the Texas P. M. A. office. Twelve counties were represented at the meeting. They are: Cottle, Hall, Childress, Motley, Dickens, Kent, King, Stonewall, Knox, Haskell, Foard and Hardeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brown and children and Mr. and Mrs. George Beaty and son, visited in Vernon last Sunday.

Copies of B-167, Fertilizers and Their Use, are now available at the offices of all Texas county agricultural agents. The new bulletin was recently released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service as an aid to those interested in getting the most from the fertilizers they buy and use.

Post Office Fire Causes Excitement

A fire in Uncle Sam's post office was the cause of no little excitement last Saturday morning.

The fire started when one of the ceiling light fixtures shorted caused flames in the ceiling. When a portion of the ceiling was ripped off to get to the fire, flames began to spread.

The fire department was called. While fire trucks were arriving, Chan Hughes and Kenneth Whittemore were busy making the hole and dashing water on the flames. Two of the fire fighting trucks rushed to the post office, but Chan and Kenneth had the "situation well in hand" when they got there.
