

News From The U. S. Congress

Congressman Frank Ikard

One member of Congress recently said that he thought we ought to do away with the last month of every session of Congress. When you see the frantic effort to schedule legislation during the closing days of the session and the effort made to hurry a matter along without being too concerned about what form it is in, one cannot help but partially agree with him. The schedule for this week is a good example of how fast the tempo gets sometimes. Scheduled for consideration in the House this week are the Mutual Security Act (foreign aid), the Agricultural Act, Vocational Rehabilitation Act, the Tanker Bill, the Espionage and Sabotage Act, the Harboring of Fugitives Act, and the extension of unemployment compensation insurance. Some of these bills have not even been reported out of committee, and, therefore, as this is written, it is impossible for anyone to know just exactly what provisions the bills will contain. Also, everything on the program for this week is a major piece of legislation which should be very carefully considered by the House and not rushed through. To say the least, it is somewhat discouraging to sit through two or three days of debate on some bill that is of no consequence, and then to have the time that could be spent in considering something as important as the foreign aid program or agricultural program limited to just a matter of a few hours. This practice, I think, is largely responsible for much of the bad legislation that we get.

This week saw the visit of Sir Winston Churchill, the Prime Minister of Britain and his Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden, to Washington. Of course, the decisions that were made at the conference with our President and Secretary of State are of the utmost importance and have been closely watched by everyone; however, almost overshadowing the importance of the meeting was the realization of most people that this would probably be the last official visit of the Prime Minister to the United States. Regardless of what a person might think of him, there is no question but that he has been one of the great men in the world of this century, and one cannot but feel a touch of sadness in knowing that on account of his age and the condition of his health, within a short time he will have to retire from the world scene. He has certain-

Is House Number Legible?

First, design the letters so they are of the correct size in proportion to the house and entrance—but large enough to be visible from the street. Transfer the design to the tempered hardboard, 3/4" thick, and start cutting.

Sand down any rough edges. The numerals may be mounted directly on the siding, using waterproof glue or finishing nails, or placed on a piece of shaped hardboard.

Paint the Tempered Presdwood on both sides, for weatherproofing reasons, before putting the numbers up. For a reflective surface, obtain from your hardware dealer tiny glass beads or a special tape.

Some families, particularly in outlying areas, like to identify their homes with nameplates. These may be similarly made and mounted on a board, which is fastened to a tree out in front or hung from a post. An even easier method, suitable for the summer cottage, is painting the name directly on a piece of primed Tempered Presdwood, either free-hand or with stencils.

Still another method is to mount decalcomanias on hardboard, using individual letters or numerals. Two or three coats of waterproof varnish or shellac will safeguard the nameplate and number for years.

CUTTING FARM COSTS

Farmers who are faced with the problem of increasing farm operational costs may be able to lower them by using improved fertilizer and other cultural practices.

Investigations and experiments show that improved practices, as compared with farm practices currently used, can cut the cost of producing a bushel of wheat from $1.65 to $1.02, of oats from 90 cents to 69 cents, and of corn from $1.21 to $1.02.

Recommended practices also lowered the cost of producing a ton of alfalfa-brome grass hay from $16.80 to $13.30 and a ton of sugar beets from $11.21 to $8.19. All this means more profit to the farmer.

The recommended practices which are best suited for particular areas may be obtained from county agricultural agents or the Texas Extension Service. Researchers have found that it is necessary to spend more money per acre to follow proved practices but the resulting greater per acre yields more than offset the extra expense.

An example can be found in the production of corn in a mid-western state. Where the farmer spends an acre to produce 38 bushels of corn, he could spend $62.25 an acre and produce 61 bushels of corn on each acre.

Fertilizer plays a big role in this increase. Other factors are involved such as timely planting, use of adapted varieties of seed, seed treatment, crop rotation, soil management, tillage and weed control. Each of these help lower production costs.

While Texas is a leading producer of many commodities, such as cotton, it is an uncomfortable fact that it ranks low in actual per acre yields. We have enough land to produce tremendous amounts of crops, but we are not taking full advantage of the soil's capacity to produce per acre.

In these days of high production costs, it is definitely to the farmer's advantage to practice every known measure to increase his per-acre productivity and assure himself of more gain for effort expended.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to the people of Munday and Haskell and other places for all the nice things they did for us, for all the words of comfort and sympathy and expressions of friendship that were given to us when our dear loved one passed away. Every little word of sympathy and every expression of friendship made it just a little easier to bear. The greatest balm to our breaking hearts was the evidence shown to us that George had so many friends. We will store the memory of all these things in our hearts forever.

We want to thank everyone for the hospitality given to our kinspeople, for the food and beds that were offered and for everything. For the words of comfort given to us by our pastor, for the beautiful songs and music rendered, for the kindness and courteous treatment given us by Mr. and Mrs. Holden, Mr. Atkins and Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCauley; for the services rendered by physicians, Dr. Elland and Dr. Kimbrough; for the services of the pallbearers and the many gifts from the Masonic brothers, also for the friends who made the long, hot trip to Goldthwaite to help with the last service.

For all the beautiful flowers and the many, many cards and letters of sympathy, and for the beautiful tribute given to George by Mr. Edgar in his editorial of June 17th. May God's richest blessings rest upon everyone of you.

Mrs. George Hammett and Marguerite 1tp

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank each friend and visitor for their kindness and thoughtfulness during our stay in the Knox County Hospital. The Bible phrase on our Sunday breakfast tray, made and sent by the Sunbeams of the First Baptist Church, was indeed an inspiration and was very much appreciated.
